Genesis.

The creation of the world.

The fyrst Chapter.

In the beginning of the world, the light, the firmament, the sun, the moon, the stars, and all beasts, fowles, & fishes in the sea were made by the word of God. And howe man also was created.

In the beginning * God created Heauen & erth. The erth
was voyd and empty & darke-
nes was vpon
the face of the depe, & the spi-
rite of god mo-
ued vpo the face
of the waters.

And God sayde: let there be made lyght, and there was lyght made. And God saw the lyght that it was good. And God made a diuision betwene the lyght and darkenes. And God called the lyght, daye: and the darkenes called he, nyght. And the euenyng and the moornyng was made one daye. And God sayde: let there be a firmament betwene the waters, & let it make a diuision betwene waters & waters. And God made the firmament, and set a diuision betwene the waters which were vnder the firmament, and the waters that were aboue the firmament. And it was so. And God called the firmament heauen. The euenyng also and the moornyng was made the seconde daye.

Job. xxi. b
Job. xxi. c

And God sayde: * let the waters vnder heauen be gathered together into one place, that the drye lande maye be sene. And so it came to passe. And God called the drye lande, Earthe: and the gatheringe together of waters called he the Sees. And God sawe that it was good.

And God sayd: let the erth bringe forth grene hearbe, whych may engendze seede: and frutful tree, yeldyng frute after hys kynde, whose seede maye be in it selfe vpon the earth.

And it came to passe. And the earth brought forth grene herbe, making seede after his kinde: & tree yeldyng frute, whose seede was in it selfe after hys kynde. And God sawe that it was good. The euenyng also and the moornyng was made the thyrde daye. And God sayd: * let there be made lyghtes in the firmament of heauen, and let them make a difference betwene the day and the nyghte, and lette them be vnto sygnes: and vnto appoynted seasons, and vnto dayes, and vnto yeres.

And let them be vnto lyghtes in the firmament of heauen: that they maye gyue lyght vpo the earth. And so it came to passe.

Job. xxi. f

And god made * two great lyghtes: a greater lyght to rule the daye, and a lesse lyghte to rule the nyghte. (And he made) sterres also. And God set them in the firmament of heauen that they myght geue lyght vpo the earth, and that they myght rule the daye and the nyghte, and to make a difference betwene the lyght and the darknesse. And God sawe that it was good. The euenyng also and the moornyng was made the fourth daye. And God sayde: * let the waters bringe forth moornyng creatures that hath lyfe, & foule that maye flye vpon the earthe in the face of the firmament of heauen. And God created great whales, and every lyuyng and moornyng creature, which the waters brought forth after theyr kynde: & every fethered foule after theyr kynde. And God sawe that it was good. And God blessed them, sayinge: Growe and increase, and fylle the waters of the see, and let fethered foules be multiplied in the earth. The euenyng also & the moornyng was made the fyfte daye.

And God sayde: let the earth bringe forth lyuyng creature after hys kynde: catel, worme, and beast of the earth after hys kynde, and so it came to passe. And God made the beast of the earth after hys kynde, & catel after theyr kynde, and every thyng that crepeth vpo the earth after hys kynde. And God sawe that it was good. And God sayd, let vs make man in oure ymage after our lykenesse, and let them haue rule of the fythe of the see: and foule of the ayre and catell, and all the earth and of every creppynge thyng that crepeth vpon the erth. And so God created man in hys owne ymage, in the ymage of God created he hym, * male and female created he them. And God blessed them, & God sayde vnto them: Growe and increase, and replenysh the earth, and subdue it: and haue dominion of the fythe of the see, and foule of the ayre, & of every lyuyng thyng that moueth vpon the earth. And God sayde: beholde, I haue geuen you every hearbe yeldyng seede, which is in the vpper face of all the earth: and every tree in the which is the frute of tree, & that lower seede, that they maye be meate vnto you. To every beast of the earth also, and to every byrde of the ayre and to every such thyng that crepeth vpon the earth (wherin is a lyuyng foule) I haue geuen al greynesse of herbe to be meate. And it came so to passe. And God sawe every thyng that he had made, * and beholde: it was exceeding good. The euenyng also and the moornyng was made the vi. daye.

The ii. Chapter:

The halowynge of the Sabbath daye. The foure stodes of paradise. The settinge in of man in paradise. The tre of knowledge is forbidden hym: howe Adam named all creatures. The creation of Eua. The institution of mariage.

The heauens also and the carthe were cōsumed, and all the hoolle of them. And in the seuenth day God ended hys worke whych he had made. * In the vii. daye also he rested from all hys worke, which he had made. * And god blessed the vii. daye, & sanctified it, because in it he had rested fro al his worke, which God ordeyned to make.

These are the generacions of the heauens & of the earth when they were created, in the day when

Eccl. xxi. d

when the Lorde God made the earth & the hea-uens, and every plant of the felde, before it was in the earth: and every herbe of the felde, before it grew. For the Lorde God had not caused it to rayne vpon the earth, neither was there a mā to tyl the ground. And there went vp a myst fro of the earth, & watred the face of the ground.

When the Lorde God also *thoupe man, euen duffe from of the ground, and *breathed into hys no-strelles the breath of lyfe, and Adam was made a lypunge soule. And the Lorde God planted a garden eastwarde from Eden, and there he put man whome he had made. Moreover out of the grounde made the Lorde God to growe, euery tree that was pleasaunt to the syghte, and commodious for meate. The *tree of lyfe also and the tree of knowledge of good and of euell was in the myddes of the garden.

Eccl. viii. c.

And out of Eden there wente forth a ryuer to water the garden. And from thence it was de-uided, and became into foure heades. The name of one is *Pison: The same is it that compasseth
the whole lande of hauilah, where there is gold And the golde of the lande is good: There is also bdellium, and the Onix stone. The name of the seconde ryuer, is Sihon: the same is it that compasseth the whole lande of Ethiopia. The name of the thyrde ryuer is Hiddekel, and it goeth towarde the Eastsyde of Assyria: And the fourth ryuer is Euphrates.

C The Lorde God also toke Adam, and put hym into the garden of Eden, that he myght dresse and kepe it. And the Lorde God commaunded Adam sayinge: Eatyng, thou shalt eate of eue-ry tree of the garden. But as touchyng the tre of knowledge of good and euell, thou shalt not eat of it. Els, in what daye soeuer thou eatest ther-of thou shalt dye the death.

And agayne, the Lorde God sayd: It is not good that Adam shulde be alone, I will make hym an helpe, which maye be present with hym
And so out of the grounde thoupe the Lorde God euery beaste of the felde, and euery foule of the ayre, and brought it vnto man: that he myght se howe he wolde call it. For lyke wyse as man hym selfe named euery lypunge thyng, euen so was the name therof.

When hym selfe therfore named the names vnto all catell, and foule of the ayre, and to euery beaste of the felde. And for man founde he not an helpe, that myght be present with hym. The Lorde God also caused a slomber to fall vpon Adam. And he slept. And he toke one of hys rybbes and closed by the fleshe in steade therof. And the rybbe which the Lorde God had taken from man *made he a womā, & brought her vnto mā. And mā sayd: This is now bone of my bones, & fleshe of my fleshe. She shalbe called woman, because she was take out of mā. For this cause shall mā leue his father & his mother, & shalbe ioyned w his wife, & they *shal becom one fleshe, & they wer both naked, & mā & his wife, & wer not ashamed

C The. iii. Chapter.

Of the serpent deceyving the woman. The serpent the woman, and the man are cursed, and bypnen out of paradise. Christ our onip saviour is promysed,

But the serpent was subtyller the eue-ry beaste of the felde, whyche the Lorde God made. And he sayd: vnto the woman: yea, hath the Lorde God sayd: ye shal not eate of euery tree of the garden: And the woman sayde vnto the serpente: we eate of the frute of the tree of the garden, but as for the frute of the tree whyche is in the myddes of the garden, God hath sayd: ye shal not eate of it, neyther shall ye touth it, lest haplye ye dye. And
* the serpent sayd vnto the woman: ye shall not dye the death, but God doth knowe, that if same daye that ye eate therof, your eyes shalbe opened, and ye shalbe euen as goddes, knowyng good and euell. And so the *woman (sepyng that the same tree was good to eate, and lusty to the eyes, and that the same tree was pleasaunte to get wyledome) toke of the frute therof, and dyd eate, and gaue vnto her husbāde bepyng wyth her, whyche dyd eate also. And the eyes of them both were opened, & they knewe that they were naked: and they sowed fygge leaues together, & made them selues aprons.

And they hearde the voyce of the Lorde God walkyng in the garden in the coole of the daye.
And Adam and hys wyfe hyd them selues from the presence of the Lorde God amonge the trees of the garden. And the Lorde God called Adam and sayde vnto hym: where arte thou? whyche sayd: I herde thy voyce in the garden, and was afrayd, because I was naked, and hyd my selfe.
And he sayd: Who tolde the, that thou wast naked: hast thou not eaten of the same tree, concernyng the whyche I commaunded the, that thou shuldest not eate of it? And Adam sayde:
The woman whom thou gauest to be wyth me
she gaue me of the tree, and I dyd eate.

And the Lorde God sayd vnto the woman:
why hast thou done thys? And the woman sayd: pōder serpent begyled me, and I dyd eate. And the Lorde God sayd vnto the serpente: because thou haste done thys, thou arte cursed aboue all catell, and aboue euery beaste of the felde. Vpon thy bellye shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eate all the dayes of thy lyfe. I will also put enimities betwene the and the woman, betwene thy seed and her seed.

* The same shall treade downe thy heade, Colos. i. c.
and thou shalt treade vpon hys heele.

But vnto the woman he sayd: In multiplyenge, wyl I multiplye thy sorrowe, and thy concepyng: In sorrow shalt thou bringe forth children, and thy lust shall pertayne to thy husbāde and he shall haue the rule of the.

Unto Adam he sayde, because thou hast he-kened vnto the voyce of thy wyfe, and hast e-ten of the tree (concernyng the which I commaunded the, saying: Thou shalt not eate of it) cursed is the ground for thy sake. In sorowe shalt thou eate of it all the dayes of thy lyfe. Thorne also, and thysle shall it cause to growe vnto the, and thou shalt eate the beere of the felde. In the sweate of thy face shalt thou rate breade, tyll thou be turned agayne into the grounde, for out of it wast thou taken, in as muche as thou arte dust, and into dust shalt thou be turned agayne.

And Adam called his wyues name Heua, because she was the mother of all liuyng. Unto the same Adam also and to his wyfe dyd the Lord God make lethren garmentes, and clothed them.
And the Lord God sayde: Beholde, pander man hath bene euen as one of vs, & he myght knowe good and euell.

And nowe lesse happily he put forth his hand and take also of the tre of lyfe and eate, and lyue for euer. And the Lord god sente them furth from the garden of Eden, to dresse the grounde that he was taken out of. And so he droue out man, and at the east syde of the garden of Eden, he set Cherubins, and the glysteryng flame of a flakynges swearde, to kepe the waye of the tre of lyfe.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Cain doth not only kill his righteous brother Abel, but also despayreth, and is cursed. The generacyon of Enoch, Methusael, Tubal, Lamech, Seth, & Enos.

Adam knewe Heua his wyfe: Who conceauynge, bare Cain, sayinge:
I haue gotten a man of the Lord.
And the procedyng furth, brought furth his brother Habel, and Ha-bell was a keeper of shepe. But Cain was a tyl-ler of the grounde. And in processe of dayes it came to passe, that Cain brought of the frute of the grounde an oblacpon vnto the Lord. Habel also brought of the fyrrynges of his shepe, and of the fat therof. And the Lord had respecte vnto Habel, and to his oblacpon. But vnto Cain and to his offering he had no respect. For the whiche cause Cain was excreadyng wroth, and his countenance abated. And the Lord sayde vnto Cain: Why art thou wroth, and why is thy countenance abated? If thou do well, shall there not be a promocyon? And if thou dost not well, lyeth not thy synne in the doores? Unto the also pertayneth the lust therof, and thou shalt haue dominyon ouer it, and Cain spake vnto Habel

his brother, (let vs go furth.)

And it fortuned when they were in the felde Cain rose vp agaynst Habel his brother, & slue him. And the Lord sayde vnto Cain: Where is Habel thy brother? Why saydest thou: I wote not.

Am I my brothers keeper? And he sayde: What hast thou done? The voyce of thy brothers bloude cryeth vnto me out of the grounde. And nowe art thou cursed from the earth, whiche hath opened her mouth, to receaue thy brothers bloude from thy hande. If thou tyll the grounde, she shall not pro-ceade to yelde vnto the her strenght.

Thou shalt be a vagabound shalt thou be in the earth. And Cain sayde vnto the Lord: My iniquyte is more, then that it maye be forgeuen. Beholde, thou hast caste me out this daye from the vpper face of the earth, and from thy face shall I be hyed: I shall also and a vaga-bounde shall I be in the earth. And it shall come to passe: every one that fyndeth me, shall slaye me. And the Lord sayde vnto hym: Whoso shall slay thee, he shall be avenged seven folde.

And the Lord set a marke vpon Cain: lest any man fyndyng hym, shoulde kill hym. And Cain went out from the presence of the Lord, and dwelte in the lande of Nod eastwarde from Eden. Cain also knewe his wyfe which concea-ued and bare Henoche: and byldyng a cytie he called the name of the same cytie after the name of his sonne Henoche. Unto the same Henoche was borne Irad. Irad begat Methusael, and Methu-sael begat Methuschaell. Methuschaell begat Lamech. And Lamech toke vnto hym two wy-ues: The name of the one was Ada, and the name of the other was Zilla. And Ada begat Jabel, whiche was the father of such as dwell in the tentes, and of such as haue catell. His brothers name was Thuball, whiche was the father of such as handle harpe and organe. And Zilla also begat Thubalcain, which wrought cunningly every craft of brasse and of yron. The syster of Thubalcain, was Raenta.

And Lamech sayde vnto his wyues Ada and Zilla: Heare my voyce ye wyues of Lamech, her ken vnto my speche: I haue slayne a man to the woundyng of my selfe, & a yonge man to myne owne punishment. If Cain shall be avenged seue-n folde, truly Lamech seuentye tymes and seuen tymes. Adam knewe his wyfe agayne, and she bare a sonne and called his name Seth: For god (sayde she) hath appoynted me another seide in steade of Habel, whome Cain slewe. And vnto the same Seth also, there was borne a sonne, & he called his name Enos. Then began they to make invocacyon in the name of the Lord.

The. v. Chapter.

The Genealogy of Adam, & of the other fathers vnto Noe.

This is the booke of the generacyons of Adam. In the daye that God created man, in the lykenesse of God made he hym. Male and female created he them, and blessed them, and called theyre name
Adam in the daye of theyr creacyon.

And Adam lyued an hundred and thyrty yeres, and begat a sonne in his owne lykenesse after his ymage and called his name Seth. All the dayes of Adam (after he had begotten Seth) were

Were egypte hundredth peres, and he begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes that Adam lyued were nyne hundredth and thyrtye peres, and he dyed. Seth lyued an hundred and fyue peres, and begat Enos. And Seth lyued (after he begat Enos) egypte hundredth peres and seven peres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Seth were nyne hundredth and. xii. peres. And he dyed.

Enos lyued nyntye peres and begat Kenan. And Enos lyued (after he begate Kenan) egypte hundredth, and fyftene peres, and begate sonnes and daughters. And all the daies of Enos were nyne hundredth and fyue peres. And he dyed.

B Kenan lyued seuentye peres, and begat Mahelaell. And Kenan lyued (after he begat Mahelaell) egypte hundredth peres and fortye peres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Kenan were nyne hundredth peres and ten peres, and he dyed. Mahelaell lyued syrtie peres and fyue peres and begat Jared. And agayne, Mahelaell lyued (after he begat Jared) egypte hundredth and thyrtye peres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the daies of Mahelaell were egypte hundredth nyntye and fyue peres. And he dyed. Jared lyued an hundredth and syrtie and two peres, and he begat Henoch. And Jared lyued (after he begat Henoch) egypte hundredth peres, and begate sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Jared were nyne hundredth and syrtie and two peres. And he dyed.

C Henoch lyued syrtie and fyue peres, and begat Methuselab. And Henoch * walked with God after he begat Methuselab, thre hundredth peres and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Henoch were thre hundredth syrtie and fyue peres. And Henoch * walked wyth God, and he was * nomore sene, for God toke hym awaye. Methuselab also lyued an hundredth peres egypte and seven peres, and begat Lamech. And agayne Methuselab lyued (after he begat Lamech) seven hundredth peres, and egypte and two peres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Methuselab were nyne hundred peres, and syrtie and nyne peres. And he dyed. Lamech lyued an hundredth peres and egypte and two peres, and begate a sonne, and called his name Noah, saying: This same shall conforste vs as concerning our worke and sorowe of our handes, from of the earth, whiche God cursed. And Lamech lyued (after he begat Noah) fyue hundredth peres and nyntye and fyue peres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Lamech were seven hundredth peres and seuentye and seven peres. And he dyed.

Noah was fyue hundredth yere olde. And Noah begat Sem, Ham, and Japheth.

The. vi. Chapter.

The cause of the floud. God warneth Noe of the cominge of the floud. The preparinge of the Arke.

A And it cam to passe, that man began to be multiplied in the vpper face of the earth and there were daughters bozne vnto them. The sonnes of god also saw the doughters of men that they wet fayre, and they toke them wyues from among al the they had chosen. And the Lorde sayde: my sperte shall not alwaye, stur in man, because he is fleshe, and his dayes shall be an hundred and twenty peres. But there were giantes in the earth in those dayes: pee, and after the sonnes of god came vnto the doughters of men, and they had genzred vnto the, the same became myghty men of the worlde, and men of renowne. But god sawe the malice of man was great in the earth, and all the ymagynacion of the thoughtes of his hert was onely euyl every daye. And it repented the Lorde, that he had made man in the earth, and he was touched with sorowe in his hert. And the Lorde sayde: I wyll (from the vpper face of the earth) destroye man, whome I haue created: both man, catell, wyne and foule of the ayre, for it repenteth me that I haue made them.

But Noah founde grace in the eyes of the Lorde. These are the generacions of Noah, * Noah was iuste and perfecte in his generacions, and walked wyth God. Noah begat thre sonnes: Sem, Ham, and Japheth. The earth also was corrupt before God, and the same earth was fylled with crueltye. And God looked vpon the earth, and beholde, it was corrupte: for all fleshe had corrupte his waye vpon earth.

And God sayde vnto Noah: The ende of all fleshe is come before me, for the earth is fylled with crueltye from the face of them. And behold I wyll destroye them with the earth. Make the an arke of pyne trees. Habitacons shalt I make in the Arke, and shalt pytche it within and without wyth pytche. And of this fashyon shalt thou make it: The length of the Arke shall be thre hundredth cubites: The bredth of it. L. cubites, and the heygth of it thyrty cubytes. A wyndowe shalt I make in the Arke, and in a cubite shalt thou synne it above: but the doze of the Arke shalt thou set in the syde therof. With thre loftes one above another shalt thou make it. And beholde, I, even I, do bypunge a floude of waters vpon the earth, that I maye destroye all fleshe wherein is the bryeth of lyfe vnder heauen: And every thyng that is in the earth shall dye.

With the also wyll I make my couenaunte and thou shalt come into the Arke thou and thy sonnes, thy wyfe and thy sonnes wyues with the. And every liuing thyng, and of all fleshe, a payre of every one shalt thou bypunge into the Arke, to kepe them alpye with the. They shall be male and female. Of fethered foules also after they kynde, and of all catell after they kynde, of every wyne of the earth after his kynde: two of every one shalt come vnto the, that thou mayst kepe them alpye. And take thou with the of all meate that is eaten, and thou shalt laye it by with the, that it maye be meate for the and them. Noah therfore dyd accordyng vnto all that God commaunded hym: euen so dyd he.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Noah: come thou and al thy houle into the Arke for the haue I sene xpygheous befoze me in thys generacion.

Of euery cleane beast thou shalt take with the seuē and seuē: The male and hys female: But of vncleane catell, two, the male and hys female. Of foules also of the ayre, seuē and seuē, the male and the female, to kepe sede alpye vpon the face of all the whole earth. For yet after seuen dayes I wyl rayne vpon the earth forty dayes and fourty nyghtes. And all substance that I haue made, wyl I destroye from the vpper face of the earth. Noah therfore dyd accordyng vnto all that God commaunded hym.

And Noah was syxe hundredth yeres olde, and the floude of waters was vpon the earth. And Noah came (and hys sonnes, and hys wyfe, & hys sonnes wyues wyth hym) vnto the Arke, because of the waters of the floude. Of cleane catell, and of vncleane catell and of flyinge foules, & of euery such as crepeth vpon the earth, there came two and two vnto Noah into the arke, the male and the female, as God had commaunded Noah. It fortunēd also after seuen dayes, and the waters of the floude were vpon the earth.

In the syxe hundredth yere of Noes lyfe in the seconde moneth, the seuētenthe daye of the moneth. In the same daye were all the fountaynes of the great depe broken vp and the wyndowes of Heuen were opened. And the rayne was opō the earth forty dayes and forty nyghtes. In the selfe same daye entred Noah, Sem, Ham, & Japheth, the sonnes of Noah, & Noahs wyfe, and the thre wyues of his sonnes, with them into the Arke: They, and euery beast after hys kynde, & al catell after theyr kynde: yea and euery woyme that crepeth vpon the earth after his kinde, and euery byrde after his kynde, and euery flyinge & fethered foule. And they came vnto Noah into the Arke, two & two, of all fleshe wherein is the byrth of lyfe. And they entrynge in, came male & female of al fleshe, as God had commaunded hym. And God shut hym in rounde aboute. And the floude came forty dayes vpon the earth, and the waters were increased, and bare vp the Arke, whych was lyfte vp aboue the earth. The waters also preuayled, and were encreased exceedingly vpon the earth, and so the arke went on the vpper face of the waters.

And the waters preuayled exceedingly vpon the earth, and all the byrde bylles that are vnder the whole heauen, were conered. Ifytene cubites vpwarde dyd the waters preuayle, so that the mountaynes were conered.

And al fleshe dyed that moned vpon the earth in foule, in catell, in beast, & in euery woyme that crepeth vpon the earth: yea, and euery man also (what soener was in whose nostrils the byrthe of lyfe dyd byrthe all these in the drye lande dyed.) And euery thyng was destroyed, that remayned, and that was in the vpper parte of the grounde (both man, and catell, and woyme, and foule of the ayre) they were euen destroyed from of the earth. And Noah onely remayned alpye, and they that were with hym in the Arke. But the waters preuayled vpon the earth an hundredth and fyfthe dayes.

The. viii. Chapter.

After the sendyng out of the rauen and the doue, Noe goeth forth of the Arke, and offereth sacrifice. The natural corrupcion of mans herte.

And God remembred Noah, and euery beast, and all the catell that was wyth hym in the Arke. And God made a wynde to passe vpon the earth, and the waters ceased. The fountaynes also of the depe and the wyndowes of Heauen were stopped, and the rayne from heuen was restrayned. And the waters from the earth were returned, goynge and commynge agayne. And after the ende of the hundredth and fyfthe daye, the waters were abated.

And in the seuēth moneth: in the seuētenthe daye of the moneth, the Arke rested vpon the mountaynes of Armenia. And the waters truly were goynge & decreasyng vntyll the tenth moneth: for in the tenth moneth, and in the fyrst day of the same moneth, were the toppes of the mountaynes sene. And after the ende of the fortyeth daye, it happened that Noah opened the wyndowe of the Arke whych he had made. And he sent forth a rauen, whych went out goynge forth and returnyng agayne, vntyll the waters were dried vp vpon the earth. And agayne he sent forth a doue from hym, that he myght se if the waters were abated from the vpper face of the grounde. And the doue founde no rest for the sole of her fote, & she returned vnto hym agayne into the Arke: for the waters were in the vpper face of the whole earth. And he when he had put forth hys hande, toke her: and pulled her in to hym into the Arke.

And he abode yet other seuen dayes, and procedyng further, he sente forth the doue out of the Arke. And the doue came to hym in the euen tyde, and lo, in her mouthe was an Olyue leafe that she had plucked: wherby Noah dyd knowe, that the waters were abated vpon the earth. And he abode yet other seuen dayes, and sente forth the doue, whiche proceeded not to returne vnto hym any more.

And it came to passe in the syxe hundredth and one yere, in the fyrste moneth, and in the fyrste daye of the moneth, the waters were dried vp from the earth. And Noah remoued the couerynge of the Arke, and looked, and beheld, the vpper face of the grounde was dried vp. And in the seconde moneth, in the seuen and twety day of the moneth, was the earth dried.

And God spake vnto Noah sayyng: Go forth of the Arke, thou and thy wyfe, thy sonnes, and thy sonnes wyues wyth the. And byrge forth the wyth the, euery beast that is wyth the: of al flesch (both foule and catell, and euery woyme that crepeth vpon the earth) that they maye gendre in the earth, & byrge forth frute, and encrease vpon earth. And so Noah came forth, and hys sonnes, hys wyfe, and hys sonnes wyues wyth hym. Euery beaste also and euery woyme, euery foule, and what so euer creepeth vpon the earthe (after they kyndes) went out of the Arke.

And Noah buylded an altare vnto y^e Lorde, and toke of euery * cleane beaste, and of euery cleane foule, and offered sacrifices in the altare. And the Lorde smelled a swete (or quyet) sauour. And the Lorde sayde in his hert: I wyl not p^{ro}- ceade to curse the grounde any moze for mans sake, for the * ymagination of mannes herte is euell euen from hys yowth. Neyther wyl I adde to smyte any moze euery thyngge lypynge, as I haue done, yet therfore shall not somynge tyne and haruest, cold and heate, Sommer and wynter, daye & nyght trasse, all y^e dayes of the earth.

The ix. Chapter.

God blessed Noe and hys sonnes. He forbyddeth to eate the bloude of beastes, and to shed mans bloude. The lawe of the swerde. He maketh a couenaunt that he wyl destroye the world by water, & geueth the raignebowe for a token and conseruation of the same. Noe is dyonken. Ham vncoureteth hym, and getteth hys curse.

Gen. i. c. d
and. viii. d

And God * blessed Noah and his sonnes. And sayde vnto them: Bynge ye forth frute, and multiplie, and repleyn the earth. The feare of you & the drede of you shall be vpon euery beast of the earth, and vpon euery foule of the ayre, in al suche as the earth byngeth forth and in all the fyshes of the see.

In to your hande are they deliuered. Euery thyngge that moueth it selfe, and that lyueth shall be meat for you: Euen as the grene hearbe haue I geuen you all thynges. But * fleshe in the lyfe thereof and in the bloude thereof shall ye not eate. Elles your bloude of your lyues wyl I require. From the hande of euery beaste wyl I requyre it, and from the hande of man: From the hande of mans brother wyl I requyre the lyfe of man. Who so * sheddeth mannes bloude, by man shall hys bloude be shedde: For in the ymage of God dyd God make mā. But bynge you forth frute and multiplie: Sendre ye in the earth, and encrease therein.

God spake also vnto Noah and to his sonnes wyth hym, sayinge: Beholde, I set vp my * couenaunt wyth you, and wyth your sede after you and wyth euery lypynge creature that is wyth you, both in foule and in catel, & in euery beast of the earth whiche is wyth you of all that go out of the Arke, accordynge vnto euery lypynge thyngge of the earth. But my couenaunte wyl I make wyth you, that from * hence forth euery fleshe, be not rooted oute wyth the waters of a floude, neyther shall there be a floude to destroye the earth any moze.

And God sayd: This is the token of the couenaunt whych I gyue betwene me and you, and euery lypynge creature that is wyth you into perpetual generations. I haue set my bowe in the cloud, and it shall be for a token betwene me and the earthe. And it shall come to passe that when I bynge a cloude vpon the earthe, the bowe also shall be sene in the same cloude. And I wyl thynke vpon my couenaunte whych is betwene me and you, & euery lypynge creature in al fleshe and it shall nomoze come to passe, that * waters make a floude to destroye all fleshe. But the bowe shall be in the same cloude, and I wyl loke vpon it, that I maye thynke vpon the curia- synge couenaunte betwene God, and euery lypynge creature in all fleshe that is vpon earth. And God sayd vnto Noah. This is the token of the couenaunt whych I haue made betwene me and all fleshe that is vpon earth.

The sonnes of Noah goynge forth of y^e Arke were: Sem, Ham, and Japheth. And Ham truly is the father of Chanaan. These are the thre sons of Noah, and of them was the whole earth ouerspred. Noah also beganne to be an husband man, and planted a vyneparde. And he dnyng of the wyne, was dyonken, and vncou- red wythin hys tente.

And Ham the father of Chanaan seynge the nakednesse of his father, told hys two brethren wythout. And Sem and Japheth, they two takynge a garmente, layde it vpon theyr shulders and comynge backwarde, couered the naked priuities of theyr father: namely, theyr faces beynge turned awaye, lest they shulde se theyr fathers priuities.

And Noah awoke from his wyne, and knew what his yonger sonne had done vnto him. And he sayd: Cursed be Chanaan, a seruaunte of seruauntes shall he be vnto hys brethren. He sayd mozeouer: Blessed be the Lorde God of Sem, and Chanaan shall be hys seruaunt. God shall enlarge Japheth, and he shall dwel in the tentes of Sem, and Chanaan shall be theyr seruaunte. Noah lyued after the floude thre hundredeth and fyf- tyre yeres. And all the dayes of Noah were nyne hundredeth and fyfetye yeres, and he dyed.

The x. Chapter.

The genealogie of Japheth, Sem, and Ham.

These are the generaciōs of the sonnes of Noah, Sem, Ham, and Japheth: And vnto them were chyldren borne after the floude. The chyldren of * Japheth: Gomer, and Magog, & Madai, and Iauan, and Tuball, Mesek, and Theras. The chyldren of Gomer: Askenas, and Ripath and Thogarma: The chyldren of Iauan: Elisa and Tharsis, Kittim, and Donatim. Of these were the fles of the Gentyles deuyled in theyr landes, euery man after hys tonge, and after his kynred in theyr nacions.

The chyldren of Ham: Cusch, and Mizraim, and Phut, and Chanaan. And the chyldren of Cusch: Seba and Haulah, and Sabtha, and Rahma, and Sabthecha. The chyldren of Rahma: Scheba and Dedan. Cusch also begatte * Nimrod. The same beganne to be myghty in the earthe. For he was a myghty hunter before the Lorde. Wherefore it is sayde: Euen as Nimrod the myghty hunter before the Lorde. The begynnyng of his kingdom was * Babel, and Erech, and Accad, and Calne, in the lande of Sinhar. Out of that lande came Assur, and buylded * Ninue, and the stetes of the cytie, & Calah. Resen also betwene Ninue and Calah, and it is a great cytie.

Shem begat Ludim, and Enamim, and Lehabim, and Arphaxadim. Barthrusim also, and Caslahim, one of whome came Philistim and Capthozim. Chanaan begat zidon hys fyrste bozne sonne and herb, And Jebusi, and Emori, and Girgosi, Hahui also, and Haarki, and Hahini, and Haaruabi, and Hazmari, and Hahemathi: And afterward were the kynredes of the Cananites spred abrode. The border of the Cananites was from zidon, as thou comest to Gerar vntyll Gazan, and as thou goest vnto Sodom, and Gomorra, and Adama, and zeboim euen vnto Lela. These are the chyldren of Ham in theyr kynredes, in theyr tonges, contres and in theyr nacions.

¶ Unto Sem also the father of all the chyldre of Eber, (and elder brother of Japheth) there were chyldren bozne. The chyldren of Sem: Elam and Assur, Arphachlad, and Lud and Aram. The chyldren of Aram: Uz and Hul, Gether and Mas. * Arphachlad begat Salah, and Salah begat Eber. Unto Eber also were bozne two sonnes: The name of the one was Peleg, for in hys dayes was the erth deuptyd. And his brothers name was Jaketan. Jaketan begate Almodad and Saleph, Hazarmauethe and Jerah, and Hodozan and Uzall and Dickla, Oball also and Abimaell, and Scheba, and Ophir, & Hauila, and Jobab. All these were the chyldren of Jaketan. And theyr dwellinge was from Mesopotamia, as thou goest vnto Sephara mounte of the East. These are the chyldren of Sem after theyr kynredes and tonges in theyr landes and nacions. And so these are the kynredes of the chyldren of Noah, after theyr generacions in theyr peoples, and of these were the nacions deuptyd in the earth, after the floude.

The xi. Chapter.

The byldynge of the towre of Babel. The confusyon of tonges. The generacion of Sem the sonne of Noe, vntyll Abraham, whych goeth with Lot vnto Haran.

At the whole earth was of one language and lyke speche. And it happened when they wente forth from the East, they founde a playne in the lade of Shinar, and there theyr abode: And they sayde euery one to hys neygh-boure: Come, let vs prepare bypcke, and burne them in the fyre. And they had bypcke for stone, and slyme had they in stede of morter. And they sayde: So to, let vs bypilde vs a cytie and a tower, whose toppes may reach vnto heauen: and let vs make vs a name, lest happely we be scattered abrode into the vpper face of the whole erth. But the Lorde came downe, to se the cytie and tower whych the chyldren of men bypilded.

And the Lorde sayde: Beholde, the people is one, and they haue all one language, & this they begyn to do, neyther wyl it be restrayned from them, what so ener they haue ymagined to do. Come on, let vs go downe, and confounde theyr language: that euery one perceaue not his neyghbours speche. And so the Lorde scattered them fro that place into the vpper face of all the earth. And they leste of to bypilde the cytie. And therefore is the name of it called * Babel, because the Lorde dyd there confounde the language of all the earth. And from thence dyd the Lorde scatter them abrode vpon the face of all the earth.

¶ These are the generacions of Sem: Sem was an hundreth yere olde, and begat Arphachlad two yere after the floude. And Sem lyued (after he begat Arphachlad) fyue hundreth yeres, and begat sonnes and doughters.

Arphachlad lyued fyue and thyrty yeres, & begat Salah. And Arphachlad lyued (after he begat Salah) foure hundreth and thre yeres, and begat sonnes and doughters:

¶ Salah lyued thyrty yeres, And begat Eber. And Salah lyued (after he begate Eber) foure hundred and thre yeres, & begat sonnes & doughters. Eber lyued foure and thyrty yeres, and begat Peleg. And Eber lyued (after he begat Peleg) foure hundreth and thyrty yeres, and begat sonnes and doughters.

¶ Peleg lyued thyrty yeres & begat Ren. And Peleg (lyued after he begat Ren) two hundreth and nyne yeres, & begat sonnes and doughters.

Ren lyued two and thyrty yeres, and begat Serug. And Ren lyued (after he begat Serug) two hundreth and seuen yeres, and begat sonnes and doughters.

¶ Serug lyued thyrty yeres, & begat Rabor. And Serug lyued (after he begat Rabor) two hundreth yeres, and begat sonnes & doughters.

And Rabor lyued nyne and twente yeres, and begat Terah. And Rabor lyued (after he begat Terah) an hundreth and nyntene yeres, and begat sonnes and doughters.

¶ These are the generacions of * Terah: Terah begate Abram, Rabor, and Haran. Haran begat Lot. And Haran dyd in the presence of Terah his father, in the lande of hys nativite, euen in Uz of the Caldees. Abram and Rabor toke them wyues: The name of Abrahams wyfe was Sarai, and the name of Rabors wyf was Milca, the doughter of Haran: & father of Milca, and the father of Isca. But * Sarai was barren, and had no chylde.

And Terah toke Abram * his sone, and Lot the sonne of Haran, hys sonnes sone, and Sara his doughter in la we, hys sonne Abrahams wyfe. And they departed together from Uz of the Caldees, that they myght go into the lade of Canaan and they came vnto Charam, & dwelte there.

And the dayes of Terah were two hundreth & fyue yeres, and Terah dyed in Haran.

The. xii. Chapter.

Abzam is blessed of God, and goeth wth Lot vnto the lande of Canaan, wher God promysed to geue vnto him and hys seide. Abzam goeth into Egypte, and couseth Sarai hys wyfe to call her self hys syster, for whome Pharaon is plagued.

And so Abzam departed, euen as the Lorde spake vnto hym, and Lot went wth hym. And Abzam was seuenthy and fyue yeres olde, when he departed out of Haran. And Abzam toke Sarai hys wyfe and Lot hys brydres sonne, and al theyr *substaunce that they had in possession, & the soules that they had begotten in Haran.

And they departed, that they myghte come into the lande of Chanaan: And into the lande of Chanaan they came. Abzam passed thorow the lande vnto the place of Sichem, and vnto the playne of Moze: And the Cananite was then in the lande. And the Lorde appearynge vnto Abzam, sayde: Vnto thy *seide wyl I geue this lande. And there buylded he an altare vnto the Lorde, euen where he had appered vnto hym.

And remouynge thence vnto a mountayne that was eastward from Bethel, he pytched his tent haupnge Bethel on the west syde, and Hai on the East. And he buyldynge an altare vnto the Lorde, dyd call on the name of the Lorde. And Abzam wente forth goynge and departynge to warde the south. But there was a derty in that lande, and therfore went Abzam downe into Egypte, that he myghte sojourne there, for there was a soze dearth in the lande. And it happened when he was come nere to entre into Egypt, he sayde vnto Sarai hys wyfe: Beholde, I know that thou arte a fayre woman to loke vpon.

Therfore shall it come to passe, that when the Egyptians se the, they shall saye: She is hys wyfe. And they shall kyl me, but they shall saue the aloue. Saye (I praye the) that thou art my syster, that I maye fare wel for thy sake, & that my soule may lyue thorow thy occasyon.

And so it happened, when Abzam was come into Egypt, the Egyptians behelde the woman for she was very fayre. And the prynces also of Pharao sawe her, & comended her before Pharao, & the womā was take into Pharao's house. And he truly intreated Abzam wel for her sake and he had shepe and oxen and he asses, men seruantes and mayde seruantes, she asses, & camelles. And the Lorde smote Pharao and hys house wth great plagues, because of Sarai Abzams wyfe. And Pharao calling Abzam sayd Why haste thou done thys vnto me? Why dydest thou not tell me, that she was thy wyfe?

Nowe therfore beholde, there is thy wyfe, take her, and go thy waye: And Pharao gaue the men commaundemente, conceyvinge hym: and they conuayed hym for the, and hys wyfe, and all that he had.

The. xiii. Chapter.

Abzam and Lot departe out of Egypte. And Abzam deuyed hys lande & catell wth Lot hys brydres sonne. Hys agayne is promysed to Abzam the lande of Chanaan.

Lot also whych wente wth Abzam had shepe catell and tentes: and the lande was not able to receaue them that they myghte dwell together, for the *substaunce of theyr ryches was greate, and they coude not dwell together. And there fell a stryfe betwene the herdmen of Abzams catell, and the herdmen of Lots catell. Mozeouer the *Cananites and the Phereites dwelled at that tyme in the lande. Then sayd Abzam vnto Lot: Let ther be no stryfe (I praye the) betwene the and me and *betwene my herdme and thyne, for we be brythren. Is not all the *whole lande before the? Departe I praye the frome. If thou wylt take thy lefte hande, I wyl go to the ryght, or if thou departe to the ryght hande, I wyl go to the lefte. And so Lot lyftrynge by hys eyes, behelde all the contrey of Iordane, whych was a plenteous contrey of water euerye where, before the Lorde destroyed Sodome and Gomorra, euen as the garden of the Lorde, lyke the lade of Egypt as thou comest vnto zoar.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

Lot is taken prisoner. The byrth of Abram of the Sodomites. Lot is deliuered by Abram. Melchisedech offereth gyftes unto Abram. Abram payeth tithes unto Melchisedech. Abram holdeth nothing of the kyng of Sodom's goodes.

And it chaunced in the dayes of Amraphael kyng of Sinhar, Arioch kyng of Elasar, Kederlaomoz kyng of Elam, and Chideal kyng of the nations, and they made warre with Bera kyng of Sodom, and with Birsah kyng of Gomorra, and with Sineab kyng of Adama, and with Semeabar kyng of Zeboim, and with the kyng of Bela. The same is Zoar. All these were ioyned together in the vale of Siddym, where the salte see is. For. xii. yere were they subiect to kyng Kederlaomoz, & in the. xiii. yere rebelled. But in the fourtene yere came Kederlaomoz and the kynges that were with hym, & smote the gyauntes in Astaroth Barnaim, and the Sulims in Ham, & the Enims in the playne of Mariathim, and the Hozims in mount Seir, vnto the playne of Sharan, which bordreth vpon the wyldernesse. And they returnyng came to En Shpat, which is Cades, and smote all the countrie of the Amalechites, and also the Amorytes that dwelled in Hazezon Thamar.

B And there went out the kyng of Sodom & the kyng of Gomorra, and the kyng of Adama, and the kyng of Zeboim, and the kyng of Bela which is Zoar. And they stroke batel with them in the vale of Siddym, & is to saye, with Kederlaomoz the kyng of Elam, and with Chideal kyng of nacyns, and with Amraphoell kyng of Sinhar. And with Ariah kyng of Elasar: foure kynges agaynst fyue. And the vale of Siddym was full of fyre pyttes.

And the kyng of Sodom and Gomorra fled, and fell there. And they that remayned, fled to the mountayne. And they takyng all the goodes of Sodom and Gomorra and all theyr vitayles went theyr way. And they caried away Lot also Abrahams brothers son and his good (for he dwelled at Sodom) and departed. And there came one that had escaped, and told Abzā the Hebrue which dwelled in the oke groue of Mamre the Amoryte, brother of Eschol, and brother of Aner, which were confederate with Abram. When Abram hearde that his brother was taken, he harnessed his freshe yonge men, bozne in his owne house, thre hundred and eyghtene, and folowed on them vnto Dan: And he was set in aray vpon them by nyght, he and his seruantes, and smote them and pursued them vnto Hoba: which lyeth of the left hande of Damascos, and reconered all the goodes, and also brought agayne his brother Lot, and his goodes, the women also and the people.

D After that he returned agayne fro the slaughter of Kederlaomoz and of the kynges that were with hym, came the kyng of Sodom forth to mete hym in the playne valley which is the kynges dale. And Melchisedech kyng of Saleem brought forth bread and wyne. For he was the preaste of the moost hygh God, and blessed hym, sayinge: Blessed be Abzani, vnto the hygh God, possessor of heauen and earth. And blessed be the hye God, which hath deliuered thyne enemyes into thyne hande. And Abram gaue hym tythes of all.

And the kyng of Sodom sayd vnto Abram Gyue me the soules, and take the goodes to thy selfe. And Abram answered the kyng of Sodom: I haue lyfte vp my hande vnto the Lorde the hye God possessor of heauen and earth, that I wyl not take of all that is thyn e so moche as a threde oz shoulacet, lest thou shouldest saye: I haue made Abram ryche. Saue onely that, which the yonge men haue eaten and the partes of the men which went with me, Aner, Eschol, and Mamre, which shal take theyr partes.

The. xv. Chapter.

The lande of Canaan is yet agayne promysed to Abram. God promyseth hym seed. He beleueth, and is iustified. The prophecie of the bondage wherein the chyldren of Israel shoulde be vnder Pharaos, and of theyr deliuerance from the same.

After these thynges were done, the worde of the Lorde came vnto Abram in a vysion, sayinge: Feare not Abram, I am thy defence, and thy reward shalbe excedyng great. And Abram sayd: Lorde God what wylt thou gyue me when I go chyldelesse, and the chylde of the stuardshyppe of my house is this Eleazar of Damasco? And Abram sayde: Se, to me thou hast gyuen no seed: lo, a lad bozne in my house is myne heyre. And behold, the word of the Lorde came vnto hym, sayinge: He shal not be thyne heyre, but one that shal come out of thyne owne bodie shalbe thyne heyre: And he brought hym out, and sayde: loke vp vnto heauen, and tell the starres, yf thou be able to nombre them. And he sayde vnto hym: *Euen so shal thy seed be. And Abram beleued the Lorde, and counted he to hym for ryghtousnesse. And agayne he sayde vnto hym: I am the Lorde that brought the oute of the Chaldees, to gyue the this lande, and that thou myghtest possesse it.

And he sayde: Lorde God, whereby shal I knowe that I shal possesse it? He answered vnto hym: Take an heifer of thre yere olde and a she goote of thre yere olde, and a thre yere olde ramme, a turtle doue also and a yonge pyggon. He toke therfore all these vnto hym, and deuyded them in the middes, and layed euery pece one agaynst an other. But the foules deuided he not. And when the byrdes fel on the carcasses, Abzā droue them awaye. And when the sunne was downe, there fell a slombze vpon Abram. And lo, a darke and a great feare fell vpon hym.

And he sayde vnto Abram: knowe this of a suretye, that thy seed shal be a straunger in a lande that pertaineth not vnto them. And shal serue them, and they shal entreate them euill, *foure hundred yeres.

But the nation whom they shal serue, wyl I iudge. And afterwarde shal they come out with greate substance. And thou shalte go vnto thy fathers in peace, and shalte be buryed in a good olde age. But in the fourth geueracyon they

And it came to passe that when the sunne went downe there was a darke cloude: behold, there was a smokyng furnace, and a fyre brande goinge betwene the sayde peces.

D In that same daye, the Lorde made a covenante wth Abrahaim, saying: vnto thy *seed haue I gyuen this lande, from the ryuer of Egypteuen vnto the great ryuer the ryuer of Euphrates, the Kenites, the Kenizites, and the Cadmonites, the Hethites, and the Pherezites, and the Gyauntes, the Amozites also and the Cananities, the Gergesites and the Jebusites.

The xxvi. Chapter.

Sarai gyueth Abrahaim leaue to take Agar her mayde to wyfe. Agar despyed her maistresse, for whych she was euill entreated of Sarai, and therefore runneth awaye. The aungell me-tyng her commaundeth her to tounne agayne, and doeth promyse her seed. And nameth her first chyld, Ismael.

Sarai Abrahams wyfe bare hym no children. But she had an handmayde an Egyptian Hagar by name. And Sarai sayde vnto Abrahaim: Beholde, the Lorde hath restrayned me, that I can not beare. I praye the go in vnto my mayde, peradventure I maye be edified by her. And Abrahaim obeyed the voyce of Sarai. And Sarai Abrahams wyfe toke Hagar her mayde the Egyptian (after Abrahaim had dwelled ten yere in the lande of Canaan) and gaue her to her husbände Abrahaim to be his wyfe. Which when he went in vnto Hagar, she conceived. And when she sawe that she had conceived, her maistresse was despyed in her eyes. And Sarai sayde vnto Abrahaim: Thou doest me wrong. I haue gyuen my mayde into thy holom, which seing that she hath conceived, I am despyed in her eyes, the Lorde iudge betwene the and me. But Abrahaim sayd to Sarai: behold, thy mayde is in thynne hande, do with her as it pleaseth the.

B And when Sarai fared foule with her, she fled from the face of her. And the aungell of the Lorde founde her besyde a fountayne of water in the wyldernes: euen by the well that is in the waye to Sur. And he sayde: Hagar Sarais mayde, whence camest thou, and whyther wilt thou go? She sayd: I fflye from the face of my maistresse Sarai. And the aungell of the Lorde sayd vnto her: returne to thy maistresse agayne, and submyt thy selfe vnder her handes.

E And agayne, the aungell of the Lorde sayd vnto her: In encreasynge I wyll encrease thy seed, and it shall not be nombred for multitude. And the Lordes aungell sayde vnto her, se: thou arte with chyld, and shalt beare a sonne, and shalt call his name Ismael: bycause the Lorde hath heard the tribulation. He also wyll be a wyldeman, and his hande wyll be agaynst euery man and euery mans hande agaynst hym. And he shall dwell in the presence of all his brethzen. And she called the name of the lorde that spake vnto her: thou God lokest on me, for she sayde: haue I not sene here the backe partes of hym? seeth me? Wherefore the well was called the well of hym that lyueth and seeth me. And it is betwene Cades and Bared. And Hagar bare Abrahaim a sonne, and Abrahaim called his sons name which Hagar bare vnto hym, Ismael: And Abrahaim was lxxxvi. yere olde, when Hagar bare hym, Ismael.

The xvii. Chapter.

Abraim is called Abraham, and Sarai is named Sara. The land of Canaan is here the fourth tyme promysed. Circumcysion is here intypled. Itabac is promysed. Abraham prayeth for Ismael.

Abrahaim was nyetye yere olde, and agayne, the Lorde appeared to Abrahaim and sayde vnto hym: I am the almyghty God: walke * before me, and be thou perfecte. And I wyll * make my bonde betwene me and the, and wyll multiplye the exceedyngly. And Abrahaim fell on his face. And God talked with hym, saying: Beholde, I am, and my testament is with the, and thou shalt be a father of many * nacyns. Nevertheless thou shalt be called Abraham, but thy name shall be Abraham: * for a father of many nacyns haue I made the. I wyll make the to growe exceedyngly, and wyll make nacyns of the: yea, and kynges shall sprynge out of the. Moreover, I wil make my bonde * betwene me and the, and thy seed after the, in theyr generacyons, by an euerlastyng testament, that I maye be God vnto the and thy seed after the. And I wyll gyue vnto the and to thy seed after the * the lande wherin thou art a straunger. Euen all the lande of Canaan, for an euerlastyng posselsion and wyll be theyr God.

And God sayde agayne vnto Abraham: Se thou also kepe my Testamente therfore, bothe thou and thy seed after the in theyr generacions. This is my testament whiche ye shall kepe betwene me and you, and thy seed after the. Euery man chyld amonge you shall be circumcysed. Ye shall circumcise the flesh of your foreskynne and it shall be a * token of the bonde betwixte me and you. And euery man chyld of egypte dayes * olde, shall be circumcysed amonge you, and such as be in your generacions, and bozne at home, and he that is bought with moneye of any straunger, which is not of thy seed. He that is bozne in thy house, and he also that is bought with moneye must nedes be circumcysed. And my Testamente shall be in youre fleshe, for an euerlastyng bonde. And the vncircumcysed man chyld, in whose fleshe the foreskynne is not circumcysed, that soule shall perishe, from his people: bycause he hath broken my Testament. And God sayde vnto Abraham: Sarai thy wyfe shalt thou not call Sarai: but Sara shall her name be. And I wyll blesse her, & haue gyuen the a sonne of her, and wyll blesse her people: yea, and kynges of people shall sprynge of her. But Abraham fel vpon his face, & laughed and sayd in his herte: Shall a chyld be bozne vnto hym that is an hundred yere olde? And shall Sara that is nyetye yere olde beare?

And Abraham sayde vnto hym: O that I might see!

And he left of talkyng with hym, and departed vp from Abraham. Abraham toke Ismael his sonne and all such as were bozne in his house and all that was bought with money, as many as were men chyliden whiche were amonge the men of Abrahams house, and circumcysed the fleshe of theyr foreskynne euen in that self same daye as God had sayd vnto hym. Abraham also hym selfe was nygety yere olde & nyne, when the fleshe of his foreskynne was circumcysed. Ismael his son was thytene yere olde when he was circumcysed in the fleshe of his foreskynne. The selfe same daye was Abraham circumcysed, and Ismael his sonne. And all the men of his house, bozne in his house or bought with moneye (of straungers) were circumcysed with hym.

The xviii. Chapter.

There appeared thre men vnto Abraham. Isahac is prompted to hym agayne: at whych Sara laughed.
 The destruction of the Sodomytes is declared vnto Abraham. Abraham prayeth for them.

And the Lorde appeared vnto hym in the playne of Mamre, as he sate in his tente doze in the heate of the daye. And he lyft vp his eyes, and looked: and lo, thre me stode by him And when he sawe them he ranne to mete them from the tent doze, and fell to the grounde, and sayd: Lord (I beseeche the) yf I haue found fauour in thy syght: go not (I praye the) from thy seruant. Let a lytle water be fet, and wash youre feet and refresh your selues vnder the tree. And I wyll fet a * mozell of breed to comforte your hertes withall. And then shal ye go your wayes for euen therfore are ye come to your seruant.
 And they sayd: Do euen as thou hast sayd. And Abraham went a pase into his tent vnto Sara, and sayd: make readye at ones thre peckes of fyne meale, kneede it, and make cakes. And Abraham runnyng vnto his bestes, fet a calfe, tender and good, and gane it vnto a yonge man and he hasted to make it readye at ones. And he toke butter and mylke, and the calfe whiche he had prepared, and set it befoze them, and stode hym selfe by them vnder the tree, * when they dyd eate.

And they sayde vnto hym: where is Sara thy wyfe? he answered: beholde, she is in the tent
 And he sayde: In retournyng I wyll come a-gayne vnto the, accordyng to the tyme of lyfe.
 And lo, * Sara thy wyfe shall haue a sonne.

That hearde Sara in the tent doze whiche was behynde hym. Abraham and Sara were both olde and well streken in age, and it ceased to be with Sara, after the maner as it is with women. Therfore Sara laughed within her selfe, sayng: Nowe I am waxed olde, shall I gyue my selfe to * luste, and my lord olde also? And God sayd vnto Abraham: wherfore dyd Sara laugh, sayng: shall I of a surety beare a chylde whiche am olde? Is anye thyng wonderfull to God? Accordyng to the tyme * appoynted wyl
 I retorne vnto the, euen accordyng to the tyme of lyfe, and Sara shall haue a sonne. Then Sara denyed it, sayng: I laughed not, for she was a frayed. And he sayde: It is not so, but thou laughedst. And the men standyng by fro thence looked towarde Sodome: And Abraham wente
 with them to byng them on the waye.

And the Lorde sayd: Shal I hyde from Abraham that thyng which I do? Being that Abraham shal be a * great and a myghtye people, and al the nations of the earth shal be blessed in him, I knowe this also, that he wyl commaunde his chyliden and his housholde after hym, that they kepe the waye of the Lorde, and do after ryght and conscience, that the Lorde may byng vpon Abraham that he hath spoken vnto hym.

And the Lorde sayd: * The crye of Sodome and Gomorra is great, and theyr synne is excedyng greuous. I wyll go downe nowe, and se whether they haue done altogether accordyng to that crye which is come vnto me or not, that I maye knowe. And the men departed thence and went to Sodome ward. But Abraham stode yet befoze the Lorde, and Abraham drewe nere, and sayd: Wylt thou also destroye ryghte-ous with the wycked? peradventure there be fyfthe ryghtous within the cytiewyll, thou de-stroye, and not spare the place for the sake of fyfthe ryghtous that are therein? That he far from the that thou shouldest do after this sayng: and slaye the ryghtous with the wycked, and that the ryghtous shoulde be as the wycked that be farre from the.

Shall not the iudge of all the worlde do ac-cordyng to ryght? And the Lorde sayde: yf I fynde in Sodome fyfthe ryghtous within the cytie, I wyll spare all the place for theyr sakes.
 And Abraham answerpge, sayde: Beholde, I haue taken vpon me to speake vnto the Lorde,
 * whiche am but dust and ashes: peradventure there shall lacke fyue of fyfthe ryghtous. Wylt thou destroye all the cytie for lacke of fyue?
 And he sayde: yf I fynde there fourtye and fyue
 I wyll not destroye them:

And

And he proceeded to speake vnto hym agayne, and sayde: peradventure there shall be fourtye founde there. He answered: I wyl not do it for fortye sake. He sayde vnto hym agayne: O let not my Lord be angry that I speake: peradventure there shall thyrtye be founde there. And he sayde: I wyl do nothyng of I fynde thyrtye there. He sayde agayne: O se, I haue taken vpon me to speake now also vnto my Lorde: peradventure there shall be twentye founde there. He answered: I wyl not destroye them for twentye sake. And he sayde: O let not my Lorde be angry, and I wyl speake yet but this ones, peradventure there shall ten be found there. He answered: I wyl not destroye them for tens sake. And the Lord went his waye as soone as he had left communynge with Abraham. And Abraham also turned vnto his place.

The xix. Chapter.

Lot receyued two angels into his house. The synners of the Sodomytes. Lot is deliuered, and deliuered to dwell in the ctye of zoar. Lottes wyfe is turned into a pyller of salt. Sodome is destroyed. Lot is drunken and lyeth wth his daughters, wherby conceived children by hym.

And there came two angels to Sodom at euen. And Lot sat at the gate of Sodom. And Lot seyinge them rose vp to mete them, and he bowed hym selfe to the ground wth his face. And he sayde: my lordes, tounne in I praye you into your seruantes house, and tarpe all nyght, and wash your feet, and ye shall ryse vpearly to go in your wayes. Whiche sayde: naye, but we wyl abyde in the stretes all nyght. And he in maner dyd euen*compell them vvolently. And they returnynge in vnto hym entred into his house, and he made the a feast, and did bake swete bzeed, and they dyd eate.

And before they wente to rest, the men of the ctye (euen the men of Sodome) compassed the house rounde about both olde and yonge, all the people from all quarters: And they callynge vnto Lot sayd vnto him: where are the men which came into the this nyght: bryng them out vnto vs and we wyl knowe them. And Lot went out at the doores vnto them, and shut the doore after hym and sayde: naye for Gods sake brethren do not so wyckedlye. Beholde, I haue two daughters whiche haue knowen noman, them wyl I bryng out now vnto you: and do wth them as it seemeth good in your eyes. Only vnto these men do nothyng, therfore came they in vnder the shadowe of my rofe. And they sayde: stande backe. And they sayde: he came in as one to sojourn, and wyl he be nowe a iudge? We wyl surely deale worse with the then with them. And they pleased sore vpon the man, euen Lot: & came to breake vp the doore, but the men put forth theyr hand and pulled Loth into the house to them and shut to the doore. And the men that were at the doore of the house were smote with blyndenesse, both smal and great: so that they faynted and coulde not fynde the doore. And the men sayd vnto Lot: If thou haue yet here any soon in lawe, or sonnes or daughters, or whatsoeuer thou hast in this citie, bryng it out of this place: for we must destroye this place, because the crye of them is great* before the face of God: for the Lord hath sent vs to destroye it. And Lot went but & spake vnto his sonnes in lawe which married his daughters, saying: stande vp, get you out of this place for the Lorde wyl ouerthrowe this ctye. But he semed as though he had mocked, vnto his sonnes in lawe. And when the moynynge arose the angels caused Lot to speke him, saying: Stande vp, take thy wyfe and thy two daughters at hand, lest thou perishe in the synne of the ctye. And as he prologed the tyme, the men caught both him his wyfe and his two daughters by the handes the Lorde beinge mercifull vnto hym, and they brought hym forth and set hym without the ctye. It fortunied, when they had brought them out he sayde: Saue thy lyfe, & loke not behynde the, neither tary thou in all this playne countre. Saue thy selfe in the mountayne, least thou perishe. And Lot sayde vnto them: Oh naye lord, beholde, thy seruant hath founde grace in thy syght, and I haue magnified thy mercy whiche thou hast shewed vnto me in sauyng my lyfe. Beholde, I can not be saued in the mountayne, least some mysfortune fall vpon me, and I dye. Beholde, here is a ctye by, to flye vnto, euen ponder lytle one: O let me be saued there: is it not a lytle our, and my soule shall lyue. And he sayde vnto hym: se, I haue receyued thy request as concernynge this thyng, that I wyl not ouerthrowe this ctye, for the whiche thou haste spoken. Haste the, and be saued there, for I can do nothyng tyll thou be come thyther. And therfore the name of the ctye is called zoar. And the sunne was no more vpon the earth, wher Lot was entred into zoar.

Then the Lorde rayned vpon Sodome and Gomorra, byrystone and fyre from the Lorde out of heauen, and ouerthrewe those cities and all the regyon, and all that dwelled in the ctyes, & that that grewe vpon the earth. But Lottes wyfe looked behynde her, and was turned into a pyller of salt. Abrahā ryllyng vpearly, got him to the place where he stode before the presence of God, and lokynge rowarde Sodome and Gomorra and towarde all the lande of that countre he looked: and beholde, the smoke of the countre arose as the smoke of a forname. And it happened that when God destroyed the ctyes of that regyon, he thought vpon Abraham, and sent Lot oute from the myddest of the ouerthrowynge when he ouerthrewe the ctyes, where Lotte dwelled.

And Lot departed out of zoar and dwelled in the mountaynes with his two daughters, for he feared to tarpe in zoar, but dwelled in a cave, he and his two daughters. And the elder sayde vnto the yonger: our father is olde, and there is not a man in the earth to come in vnto vs after the maner of all the world. Come, we wyl make oure father drunken with wyne, and lye wyth hym, that we maye saue seed of oure father.

And so they made theyr father drunken wyth wyne that nyght. And the elder doughter went and laye wth her father. And he perceaued it not, neyther when she laye downe, neyther when she rose vp. And on the morow it happened that the elder sayde vnto the yonger: beholde, pester-nyght I wth my father. Let vs make hym dronke with wyne this nyght also, and go thou and lye with him, that we maye rayse vp s^ede of our father. And they made the y^{ou}nger father dronke with wyne & nyght also. And the yonger arose and laye with hym. And he perceaued it not: neyther when she laye downe, neyther when she rose vp. Thus were both the daughters of Loth with chylde by the y^{ou}nger father. And the elder bare a sone and called his name Moab. The same is the father of the Moabites vnto this daye. And the yonger bare a sone also & called his name Ben Ammi. The same is the father of the children of Ammon vnto this daye.

The .xx. Chapter.

Abraham went as a stranger into the lande of Gerar. The kynge of Gerar taketh awaye his wyfe.

And Abraham departed thence toward the south countrey, & dwelled betwene Cadis and Sur, and sojourned in Gerar. And Abraham sayde of Sara his wyfe: she is my syster. And Abimelech kynge of Gerar sent and fet Sara a waye.

But God came to Abimelech in a dreame in the nyght and sayde vnto hym: Se, thou shalt dye for the womans sake which thou hast taken a waye, for she is a mans wyfe. But Abimelech had not yet come nye her, & he sayde: Lord wylt thou slaye ryghte wth people? sayde not he vnto me, she is my syster: yee, and sayd not she her self he is my brother: with a pure hert and innocent handes haue I done this. And God sayde vnto hym by a dreame, I wot it well that thou dydest it in the purenes of thy hert. I kept the also that thou shuldest not synne agaynst me, and therfor suffred I the not to touche her. Nowe therfore deliuer the man his wyfe agayne for he is a prophete. And he shal praye for the that thou mayst lyue. But and if thou deliuer her not agayne, be sure that thou shalt dye the death both thou, and all that thou hast. Therfore Abimelech r^{is}ynge vp by tymes in the mornynge called all his seruantes and tolde all these sayinges in theyr eares, and the men were sore afrayde. And Abimelech called Abraham & sayd vnto hym: what hast thou done vnto vs, and what haue I offended the that thou hast brought on me and on my kynge dome so great a synne: thou hast done dedes vnto me that ought not to be done. And Abimelech sayd vnto Abraham: What sawest thou that thou hast done this thyng.

Abraham answered. For I sayde: Surely the feare of God is not in this place, and they shall slepe me for my wifes sake: yet in very dede she is my syster, for she is the daughter of my father though she be not the daughter of my mother: & she became my wyfe. And after God caused me to wandre out of my fathers house, I sayde vnto her: This kyndenesse shalt thou shewe vnto me in all places where we come, that thou saye of me, he is my brother. Then toke Abimelech these and oren, men seruantes and women seruantes and gaue them vnto Abraham, & deliuered hym Sara his wyfe agayne. And Abimelech sayde: beholde, my lande lyeth before the, dwell where it pleaseth the best. But vnto Sara he sayd: Se, I haue geuen thy brother a thousand peces of syluer, beholde: it shall be a conuerynge of thyne eyes, vnto all that are with the and thus with all was she reuoyced.

And so Abraham prayde vnto God, and god healed Abimelech, and hys wyfe and hys maydens, and they bare chylde. For the Lord had closed to all the matryces of the house of Abimelech: because of Abrahams wyfe.

The .xxi. Chapter.

Isaac is borne. Agar is cast out with her yonger sonne Hamael. The angel comforteth Agar. The conuynant betwene Abimelech and Abraham.

The Lord visyted Sara as he had sayd & and byd vnto her * accordynge as he had promysed. For Sara was wth chylde, and bare Abraham a sone in his olde age, euen the same season which the Lord had appointed him. And Abraham called his sonnes name that was borne vnto hym which Sara bare hym, Isaac: and Abraham circumcysed Isaac hys sonne when he was eyngh^t dayes olde: as God commaunded hym. And Abraham was an hundred yere olde: when his sonne Isaac was borne vnto hym. But Sara sayd: God hath made me a laughynge stocke: so that all that heare: wyl laugh at me. She sayde also: who wold haue sayde vnto Abraham, & Sara shuld haue geuen chylde: for I haue borne him a sone in his olde age: The chylde grewe: and was wened: and Abraham made a great feast: the same daye that Isaac was wened. Sara saide also of sonne of hagar & Egyptian (which she had borne vnto Abraham) to be a mocker, wherfor she sayde vnto Abraham: put away this bondmayde and her sonne: for the sonne of this bondwoman shal not be heyre with my son Isaac: and this sayinge was very greuous in Abrahams syght because of his sonne. And god sayde vnto Abraham: lette it not be greuous in thy syght, because of the lad & of thy bondmayde. All that Sara hath sayde vnto the, heare her voyce: for in Isaac shal thy s^ede be called. Howeouer of the sonne of the bondwoman wyl I make a nacyon: because he is thy s^ede.

And so Abraham arose v^{er} early in the mornynge, and toke breade and a bottell of water, and gaue it vnto hagar, puttynge it on her shulders with the lad also, and sent her awaye, who departyng, wandred vp and downe in the wyldecnesse of Beer Seba. And the water was spent in the bottell, and she caste the lad vnder a bushe and wente and satte on the other syde a greate waye, as it were a bowe shote of: for she sayde: I wyl not se the death of the chylde. And she l^{yt}te downe on the other syde, lyfte vp her voyce and wepte.

And God hearde the voyce of the chylde. And the angel of god called hagar out of heuen and sayde vnto her: what ayleth the hagar? Feare Heare not, for God hath heard the voyce of the chylde where he lyeth. Arise and lyfte vp the lad, and take hym in thy hande, for I wyl make of hym a greute people. And God was with the lad, and he grewe and dwelte in the wyldernesse, and became an archer. And he dwelt in the wyldernes of Tharan. And hys mother gat hym a wyfe out of the lande of Egypte.

And it chaunced the same season that Abimelech and Phicol his chiefe captayne spake vnto Abraham sayinge: * God is with the in all that thou dost. And nowe therfore sweare vnto me euen here by God, that thou wylt not hurte me nor my chyliden, nor my chylidens chyliden. But that thou shalt deale with me, and the cuntry where thou haste bene a straunger, accordynge vnto the kyndnesse that I haue shewed the. And Abraham sayde: I wyl sweare.

And Abraham rebuked Abimelech for a well of water, whiche Abimelechs seruantes had vpolently taken a waye. And Abimelech sayde: I wote not who hath done thys thyng. Also thou toldest me not: neyther hearde I of it, but this daye. And Abraham toke shepe and oxen, and gaue them vnto Abimelech. And they made both of them a bond together. And Abraham set seuen ewe lambes by them selues. And Abimelech sayde vnto Abraham: what meane these seuen ewe lambes which thou haste set by them selues? he answered: for these seuen lambes shalt thou take of my hande, that they may be a wytnesse vnto me, that I haue dygged this well. Wherefore the place is called Beer Seba, because that there they sweare both of them. Thus made they a bonde together at Beer Seba. And Abimelech & Phicol his chiefe captayne rose vp, and turned agayne vnto the land of the Philistines. And Abraham planted a wood in Beer Seba, and called there on the name of the Lorde, the euerlastynge God: and so gouerned in the Philistines lande a longe season.

Debye. xi. d.

After these saynges, it happened y God vpd proue Abraham & sayde vnto hym: Abraham. Whiche answered: here am I. And he sayde, take thy only sonne Isaac whom thou louest, and get the vnto the lanbe Moza, and sacrifice hym there for a sacrifice vpon one of the mountaynes, whiche I wyl shewe the. Then Abraham rose vp early in the mornynge, and saddled hys asse, and toke two of hys yonge men with hym, and Isaac hys sonne: and cloue wood for the sacrifice, and rose vp and gat him to the place whiche God had appoynted hym.

The thyrde daye Abraham lyfte vphys eyes and saw the place a farre of, and sayde vnto his yonge men: vyde here with the asse I and the lad wyl go yonder and worshyp, and come agayne vnto you. And Abraham toke the woode of the sacrifice: and layde it vpon Isaac hys sonne, but he hym selfe toke fyre in his hande & a knyfe. And they went both of them together.

Then spake Isaac vnto Abraham hys father and sayde: Wy father? And he answered: here am I my sonne. He sayde: Se here is fyre and woode, but where is the shepe for sacrifice? Abraham answered: my sonne, God wyl prouyde hym a shepe for sacrifice, and so they went both together.

And when they came vnto the place whiche God had shewed hym, Abraham made an altter there, and dressed the wood, and bounde Isaac hys sonne, & layde hym on the altter, aboue vpon the wood. And Abraham stretching forth his hande, toke the knyfe to haue kylled his sonne. And the angel of the Lorde called vnto him from heauen, sayinge: Abraham Abraham: And he sayde: here am I. And he sayd: laye not thy hand vpon the chylde, neyther do any thyng at all vnto hym, for nowe I know that thou fearest god and hast for my sake not spared thyne only sonne. And Abraham lyfthynge vphys eyes, looked aboute: and beholde, there was a ram caught by the hornes in a thickette. And he went and toke the ram and offred hym vpon for a sacrifice in the stead of his sonne. And Abraham called the name of the place, y Lorde wyl se. As it is sayde this daye: in the mounte wyl the Lorde be sene.

And the angell of the Lorde cryed vnto Abraham from heauen the seconde tyme, and sayde: & by my selfe haue I swozne (sayth the Lorde) because thou haste done this thyng, and haste not spared thy onely sonne: that in blessinge I wyl blesse the, and in multiplying I wyl multiplye thy seede as the starres of heauen, and as y sande whiche is vpon the see syde. And thy seede shall possesse y gate of his enemyes. & And in thy seede shall all the nacjons of the earthe be blessed, because thou haste hearde my voyce. So turned Abraham agayne vnto his yonge men, and they rose vp and wente together to Beer Seba. And Abraham dwelt at Beer Seba. And it chaunced after these thynges, that one tolde Abraham sayinge: Beholde, Milcha, she hath also borne chyliden vnto thy brother Nachor: hus hys eldest sonne, and Bos his brother, and Remuell y father of the Siryans, and ceased, and haso, & Bildas, and Jedlaph, and Bethuel. And Bethuel begat Rebecca. These viii. did Milcha beare Nachor Abrahams brother. And hys concubine called Rhuma: she bare also Tebah, and Gaban, Chaas, and Maacha.

Sara dyeth, and is buried in the felde that Abraham bought of Ephron the Hethite.

Sara was an hundred and xlii. yere olde (so longe lyued she) and Sara dyed in Kyriath Arba. The same is hebron in the land of Canaan. And Abzaam came to mourne Sara and to wepe for her. And Abraham stode vpon the syght of his coorse, and talked with the sonnes of Heth, saying: I am a straunger, and a foriner amonge you, gyue me a possession to burie in w^{ch} you, that I may bury my coorse out of my sight. And the chyldren of Heth answered Abraham, saying vnto hym: Heare vs lozde, thou arte a prynce of God amonge vs. In the cheifest of our sepulchres burie thy deed. None of vs also shal forbydde the his schulchre: but thou mayest burye thy deed therein. Abraham stode vp, and bowed hym selfe before the people of the lande of the chyldren of Heth. And he communed with them, sayinge: If it be your mynde that I shal burye my deed oute of my syght, heare me: and speake for me to Ephron the sonne of zoar, that he maye gyue me the double caue, whyche he hath, and that is in the ende of his felde: but for as moche moneye as it is worth, shal he gyue it me in the p^{re}sence of you, for a possession to burye in. For Ephron dwelled amonge the chyldren of Heth.

And Ephron the Hethite answered Abraham in the audyence of the chyldren of Heth and of all that went in at the gates of his ctye, sayinge: Not so my lozde, heare me. The felde gyue I the, and the caue that therein is gyne I the also: and euen in the p^{re}sence of the sonnes of my people gyue I it the, burye thy deed: and Abraham bowed hym selfe before the people of the lande and spake vnto Ephron in the audyence of the people of the country, saying: I praye the heare me if it please the: I wyl gyue syluer for the felde, take it, & I wyl burye my deed there. Ephron answered Abraham saying vnto hym: My lord hearken vnto me. The lande is worth four hundred cycles of syluer: what is that betwixt the and me: burye therfore thy deed. And Abraham hekened vnto Ephron, and weped hym the syluer which he had sayde, in the audyence of the sonnes of Heth. Euen foure hundred syluer cycles of currant moneye amonge marchauntes. And the felde of Ephron with the double caue which was before Hamre: euen the felde and the caue that was therein, and all the trees that were in the felde, and that were in all the borders rounde about, was made sure vnto Abraham for a possession, in the syght of the chyldren of Heth, before all that went in at the gates of the ctye. After this dyd Abraham burye Sara his wyfe in the double caue of the felde that lyeth before Hamre. The same is hebron in the lande of Canaan. And so both the felde and the caue that is therein was made vnto Abraham a sure possession to burye in of the sonnes of Heth.

The. xliii. Chapter.

Abraham maketh his seruant to sweare, and sendeth hym to seke a wyfe for Isahac his sonne. The seruante was caught, full and brought Rebecca, which Isahac toke to his wyfe.

Abraham was olde, and stryken in dayes, and the Lozde had blessed hym in all thynges. And Abraham sayd vnto his eldest seruant of his house which had the rule ouer all that he had. Put thy hande vnder my thyghe, and I wyl make the sweare by the Lozde God of heauen, and God of the earth, that thou shalt not take a wyfe vnto my sonne of the daughters of Canaan, amonge whiche I dwell. But thou shalt go vnto my countrie and to my natyue lande, and take a wyfe vnto my sonne Isahac. But the seruante sayde vnto hym: peradventure the woman wyl not agree to come wth me vnto this lande, shall I brynge thy sonne agayne vnto the lande which thou camest out of? To wh^{ch} Abraham answered: beware that thou brynge not my sonne thither agayne.

The Lozde God of heauen, which toke me from my fathers house, and from the lande where I was bozne: And whiche spake vnto me, and that I sweare vnto me saying: vnto thy seed wil I gyue this lande, he shal sende his aungell before the, and thou shalt take a wyfe vnto my sonne from thence. Neuerthelesse if the woman wyl not agree to folowe the, then shalt thou be without daunger of this myne oth.

Only brynge not my sonne thither agayne. And the seruante put his hand vnder the thygh of Abraham his master, and sware to hym, as concernyng that matter. And the seruante toke ten camelles of the camelles of his master, and departed, and had of all maner of goodes of his master with hym, and stode vp and went to Mesopotamia, vnto the ctye of Haroz. And made his camels to lye downe without the ctye by a welles syde of water, at euen aboute the tyme that women come oute to drawe water. And he sayde.

Lozde God of my master Abraham, sende me good speede this daye, and shewe merce vnto my master Abraham. Lo, I stande here by the well of water, and the daughters of the men of this ctye come out to drawe water. Nowe I damsell to whom I saye, stoupe downe thy pytcher I praye the, that I maye drynke. If she saye also: Drynke, and I wyl gyue thy camels drynke: the same is she that thou hast ordeyned for thy seruant Isahac: yea, and therby shal I knowe that thou hast shewed merce on my master. And it came to passe y^e he had lefte speaking, beholde Rebecca came out, the daughter of Bethuel, sonne to Milca the wyfe of Haroz Abrahams brother, and her pytcher vpon her shoulde: The damsell was very fayre to loke vpon, and yet a mayde and vnknown of man. And she went downe to the well, and fylled her pytcher, and came vp. And the seruante runnyng vnto her, sayde: let me sup a lytle water of thy pytcher. And she sayde: drynke my lozde.

And she hastened, & let downe her pytcher vpon her arme, and gaue hym drynke. And when she had gyuen hym drynke, she sayde: I wyl drawe water.

water for thy camels also vntyll they haue dronken ynoughe. And she poured out her pytcher into the trough hastily, and ran agayne vnto the well to fet water, and dzeue for all his camels. And þ man wddzed at her. But helde his peace, to wite whether the Lord had made his iourney prosperous or not. And it fortuned, as the camels had leste dzyng, the man toke a golden earynge of halfe a spele weyght, and two braceletes for her handes, of teune sylces weyght of golde, and sayde: whose doughter art thou: tell me I pray þ, is there roume in thy fathers house for vs to lodge in: She answered hym: I am the doughter of Bathuel the son of Hylca, whiche she bare vnto Rahoz, and sayde mozeouer vnto hym: we haue lytter and prouandze ynoughe, & also roume to lodge in.

D And the mā bowed him selfe and worshipped the Lord, and sayde: blessed be the Lord God of my master Abraham, whiche ceaseth not to dealc mercyfullpe and trulpe with my master, and hath brought me þ way to my masters brothers house. And the damsell ran and told them of her mothers house these thynges. And Rebecca had a brother called Laban.

And he ran out vnto the man, euen to the well for as soone as he had sene the earynges and the braceletes in his sisters handes (and hearde the wordes of Rebecca his syster, saying: thus sayd the man vnto me: he went oute vnto the man. And lo, he stode with the camelles by the well syde. And he sayde: Come in thou blessed of the Lord. Wherfore standest thou without: I haue dzyested the house, and made roume for þ camels. And then the man cam into the house: and he vnbpydled the camels, and (Laban) brought lytter and prouandze for the camelles, and water to wash his feet, and the mens feete that wer with hym, and set meate before hym to eate. But he sayd: I wyll not eate vntyll I haue sayde myne errande. And he sayde: saye on. And he sayde: I am Abrahams seruante, and God hath blessed my master oute of measure, that he is become greate, and hath gyuen hym shepe and oxen, syluer and golde, menseruantes, and mayde seruantes, camels, and asses.

Gene. xxi. a And * Sara my masters wyfe bare hym a sonne when she was olde, and vnto him hath he gyuen all that he hath. And my master made me swear, saying: thou shalt not take a wife to my son amonge the doughters of the Cananytes in whose lande I dwell.

C But thou shalt go vnto my fathers house, and to my kynred, & take a wyfe vnto my sonne. And I sayde vnto my master: peradventure the wyfe wyll not folowe me: And he answered me The Lord, before whome I walke, wyl sende his Angell with the, and prosper thy iourney and thou shalt take a wyfe for my sonne of my kynrede and of my fathers house. Then shalt thou be gyltlesse of my curse, when thou comest to my kynredde. And yf they gyue the not one, thou shalt be gyltlesse of my curse.

And so I came this dape vnto the well, & sayd

be so nowe that thou makest my iourney which I go prosperous: beholde, I stande by this well of water, and when a virgin cometh forth to drawe water, and I say to her: gyue me (I pray the) a lytle water of thy pytcher to dzynte, and she saye to me: dzynte thou, & I wyl also drawe for thy camels, the same is the wyfe, whome the Lord hath prepared for my masters sonne.

And before I had made an ende of speakyng in myne herte, beholde, Rebecca came forth, and her pitcher on her shoulde; and she went downe vnto the well, and dzeue water. And I sayde vnto her: gyue me dzynte I praye the. And she made haste, and toke downe her pytcher from of her, and sayde: dzynte, and I wyl gyue thy camels dzynte also.

And I dranke, and she gaue the camels dzynte It also. And I asked her, sayinge: whose doughter art thou: She answered: the doughter of Bathuel Rahozs sonne * whome Hylca bare vnto hym. And I put the earynge vpon her face, and the braceletes vpon her handes. And I bowed my selfe and worshipped the Lord, and blessed the Lord God of my master Abraham whiche had brought me my ryght wape to take my masters brothers doughter vnto his sonne. Nowe also, yf ye wyl dealc mercyfully and truly with my master, tel me: and yf not, tell me also that I maye turne me to the ryght hande or to the left.

Then answered Laban and Bathuel, saying This saying is proceded euen out of the Lord: we can not therfore saye vnto the, eyther good, or badde: Beholde, Rebecca is before the, take her and go, that she maye be thy masters sonnes wyfe, euen as God hath sayd: And when Abrahams seruante herde theþ wordes, he worshipped the Lord flat vpon the earth. And the seruante toke forth iewels of syluer, and iewels of golde, and rayment and gaue them to Rebecca and vnto her brother & to her mother, he gaue gyftes, and thy dyd eate and dzynte, bothe he & the men that were w hym, and tarped all nyght. And when they rose vp in the morning, he sayd: let me departe vnto my master. Her brother and her mother answered: let the damsel abyde with vs a while, and it be but euen ten dayes, & then shall she go. He sayde vnto them: byndze me not: Beholde, the Lord hath prospered my iourney. Sende me awaye therfore, that I may go vnto my master. And they sayde: we wyl call the damsell, and enquyre at her mouth: And they called forth Rebecca, and sayde vnto her: wylte thou goo with this man: And she answered: I wyl go.

So they let Rebecca theþ syster go, and her G nourse, and Abrahams seruante, and his men. And they blessed Rebecca, and sayde vnto her: Thou art our sister, growe into thousand thousandes * and thy seede possesse the gate of theþ enemyes. And Rebecca arose, and her damsels, and set them vp vpon the camelles, and wente theþ way after the man. And the seruante toke Rebecca, and went his waye.

And Isaac was commynge from the waye of the well of the * lyuyng and seinge me, for he dwelt he dwelt in the south countrey, and Isahac was gone out to pray in þe feld at the euē tide. And he lyft vp hys eyes and sawe the camels comynge. And Rebecca lyfte vp her eyes, & when she sawe Isahac, she lychted of the camel, and sayd vnto the seruaunt what mā is this that cometh wal- kyng agaynst vs in the felde? And the seruaunt said it is my master. Therfore she toke her cloke and put it about her. And the seruaunt told Isaac all thinges þe he had done. And Isaac brought her into his mother Saraes tente, and toke Rebecca, and she became hys wyfe, & he loued her, & so Isahac receaued comforte after his mother.

The xxv. Chapter.

Abraham taketh Kethura to hys wyfe, and getteth many chyldren. Abraham dyeth and giveth all hys goods to Isaac. The genealogy of Ismael. The birth of Jacob & Esau. Esau selleth hys birth ryght for a messe of pottage.

Abrahā proceeded further and toke him a wyfe called Kethura, which bare him Simram, and Jecklan, & Medan & Midian, and Isback, & Suah. Jecklan begat Seba, & Dedan. And the sonnes of Dedan were Assurim, Letusim, and Leumim. And the sonnes of Midian Ephra, and Ephra, Anoch, & Abida and Elda. All these were þe chyldre of Kethura. And Abraham gaue al his goods vnto Isahac. But vnto the sonnes of the concubynes whych Abraham had, he gaue gyftes and sent them awaye frome Isahac his sonne (whyle he yet lyued) eastward vnto þe lāde of Kedes. And these are þe dayes of þe yeres of Abrahā's lyfe whych he lyued: an. C. & lxxv. yere, & then fel sycke, & dyed in a lusty age (whē he had liued ynough) & was put to his people. And his sons, Isahac & Ismael buryed hym in the double caue in the feld of Ephron sonne of zoar the Hethyte, besyde the playne of Mamre. Whych felde Abrahā bought of þe sons of Heth: where Abrahā was buryed & Sara hys wyfe. It fortunēd after the death of Abraham þe God blessed Isahac hys sone, and Isahac dwelled by the well of the lypunge, and seynge me.

B These are the generacions of Ismael, Abrahams sonne, whych Hagar the Egypcian Saraes handmayd bare vnto Abraham. And these are þe names of the sonnes of Ismael in theyr names accordyng to their kynreds: þe eldest sone of Ismael Rebatoth, & Cedar: and Abdel, & Mibsam, & Milmaduma, and Malsā & Hadar, Thema, Jetur, Naphis, & Kedma: These are þe sons of Ismael & these are their names, by their townes & castels. xii. princes of theyr householdes.

And these are the yeres of the lyfe of Ismael an hundred and, xxxvii. yere, and he fel sycke, and dyed and was layde vnto hys people. And they dwelled from Heitlah vnto Sur, that is by the border of Egipte, as thou goest towarde þe Assirians. And he dyed in þe presence of all hys brethren. And these are the generacions of Isahac Abrahams sonne: Abraham begat Isahac.

C And Isahac was fortye yere olde when he toke Rebecca to wyfe, the daughter of Bathuell the Syrian of Mesopotamia; and syfter to Laban the Syrian. And Isahac made intercession vnto the Lorde for hys wyfe: because she was barren:

and the Lorde was intreated of hym, and Rebecca his wyfe conceaued, and the chyldre stroue to gether wythin her. Therfore she sayd: þe it shuld go so to passe, what helpeth it that I am wyth chyldre? wherfore she wente to aske the Lorde. And the Lorde sayd vnto her: there are two manner of people in thy wombe, and two nacpons shalbe deuyded out of thy bowels, and þe one nation shalbe myghtyer then the other, and the elder shalbe seruaunt vnto the yonger.

D Therfore when her tyme was come to be deliuered: beholde, there were two twynes in her wombe. And he that came out fyrst was red, and he was all ouer as it were a rough garmēt, and they called his name Esau. And after hym, came hys brother out, and hys hande holdynge Esau by the heele. And hys name was called Jacob. And Isahac was, xl. yere olde when they were borne: and the boyes grewe, and Esau became a conynge hunter and a tyller of the erth. But Jacob was a perfyte man, and dwelled in the tentes. Isahac loued Esau, because he dyd eat of hys ventilon, but Rebecca loued Jacob.

Jacob sod pottage, and Esau came from the feld and was fainty, and Esau sayde to Jacob fede me I pray the wyth that redde pottage, for I am faint. And therfore was his name called *Edom. And Jacob sayd: sell me this daye thy birth ryght. Esau sayd: Lo, I am at the point to dye, and what profyte shal this birth ryght do me? Jacob answered & swere to me the this daye. And he sware to hym, and solde hys birth ryght vnto Jacob. The Jacob gaue Esau bred and pottage of ryle. And he dyd eat and drynke and rose vp, and wente hys waye. And Esau regarded not hys birth ryght.

The xxvi. Chapter.

The iorney of Isahac towarde Abimelech. The promise made vnto Isahac and hys sede Isahac is retaken of Abimelech for calling hys wyfe hys syster. The choppynge of the shepherdes for the welles. Isahac is comforted. The attouement betwene Abimelech and Isahac.

A And there came a dearth in the lande passynge the fyrste dearth that was in the dayes of Abraham. And Isahac went vnto Abimelech kynge of the Philistines vnto Gerar. And þe Lorde appeared vnto hym, and sayde: Go not downe into Egipte, but byde in the lāde which I shall shewe vnto the: so geourne in this lande and I wll be wyth the, and wll blesse the for vnto the and vnto thy sede I wll geue al these contreyes. And I wll performe the oth which I swore vnto Abrahā thy father, and wll multiplye thy sede as the starres of heauen, and wll geue vnto thy sede al these contreyes. And in thy sede shal all the nacions of the earth be blessed, because that Abrahā herkened vnto my voyce and kepte myne ordinaunces, my commaundementes, my statutes, and my lawes. And Isahac dwelled in Gerar. And the men of the place asked hym of hys wyfe, & he sayd: she is my syster: for he feared to saye: She is my wyfe, lest the me of þe place shuld haue kyllid hym, because of Rebecca whych was bewtyfull to the eye.

And Abimelech called Isaac, & sayd: He is of a surety thy wyfe and why saydst thou she is my syster? To whom Isaac answered: I thought that I myght peradventure haue dyed for her sake. Abimelech said why hast thou done this vnto vs: one of the people myght lyghtely haue lpen by thy wyfe, & so shuldest thou haue brought synne vpon vs. And so Abimelech charged al his people, sayinge: he that toucheth this man or his wyfe, shal dye the death. Isaac sowed in that lande, and founde in the same yere an hundredth busshels: and the Lorde blessed hym, and the man waxed myghty, and wente forth and grewe, tyll he was excedyng great, for he had possession of shepe, of oxen, and a myghty household, & therfore the Philistians had enuye at hym: for the Philistines stopped & fylled vp wyth earth all the wells whych his fathers seruantes dygged in his father Abrahams tyme. And Abimelech sayd vnto Isaac get the from vs, for thou art myghtyer then we a great deale. Therfore Isaac departed thence & abode in the valley of Gerar, and dwelte there. And Isaac returnyng, dygged agayne the welles of water whych they dygged in the dayes of Abraham his father, whych the Philistians had stopped after the death of Abraham, and gaue them the same names whiche his father gaue the Isaac's seruantes dygged in the valley, and founde a well of lypynge water. And the herdmen of Gerar dyd stryue wyth Isaac's herdmen sayinge: the water is oures. Then called he the well *Esek, because they stroue wyth hym.

And they dygged another well, & stroue for that also. And he called the name of it *Sitena. And then he departed thence, and dygged another wel, for the whych they stroue not: therfore called he it *Rehoboth, sayinge: the Lorde hath now made vs rowme, that we maye encrease vpon the earth. And he wente by thence, to Beer Seba. And the Lorde appered vnto hym the same nyght & sayd: I am the God of Abraham thy father, feare not, for I am with the, and wyl blesse the and multiplie thy sede for my seruant Abrahams sake. And he buylded an alter there and called vpon the name of the Lorde, and pitched his tente. And there Isaac's seruantes dygged a well. Then came Abimelech to hym from Gerar: and Abisath his frende, and Philistines col his chefe capayne. And Isaac sayde vnto them: wherfore come ye to me, seying ye hate me and haue put me awaye from you? Whych answered: in seyinge we sawe that the Lorde was wyth the, and we sayd: let there be now an oth betwyxe vs, euen betwyxe vs and the, and let vs make a bonde wyth the, that thou shouldest do vs no hurte as we haue not touched the, and as we haue done vnto the nothyng but good, & sente the awaye in peace, for thou arte now the blessed of the Lorde. And he made them a feast and they dyd eate and drynke. And they rose vp by tymes in the mornynge, and swarode one to another. And Isaac sente them awaye. And they departed from hym in peace. And that same day it happened, that Isaac's seruantes came and tolde hym of a well whych they had dygged: and sayd vnto hym, we haue founde water. And he called it *Seba. And the name of Egypte is called *Beer Seba vnto this daye. Esau was .xl. yere olde, and he toke a wyfe called Judith, the daughter of Beryan Hethyte, and Basmath the daughter of Elon an Hethyte also whych were disobedient vnto Isaac and Rebecca.

The xxvii. Chapter.

Isaac stealeth the blessing from Esau by his mothers counsell. Isaac is sad. Esau is comforted. The hatred of Esau towardes Isaac.

And it came to passe that when Isaac waxed olde, and his eyes were dimme (so that he coulde not se.) he called Esau his eldest sonne & sayde vnto hym. My sonne, and he sayde vnto hym: here am I. And he sayde: behold, I am now olde, and knowe not the daye of my death: and now therfore take thy wepys thy quiver and thy bowe and get the to the fel-des, that thou mayst take me some venison, and make me meate such as I loue, and bynge it me that I maye eate, and that my soule may blesse the, before that I dye. But Rebecca herde whiche Isaac spake to Esau his sonne. And Esau went into the felde, to catch venyson, and to bynge it. And Rebecca sayd vnto Jacob her sonne sayinge: Beholde I haue hearde thy father talking with Esau thy brother & sayinge: bynge me venison and make me meate, that I maye eate & blesse the before the Lorde, afore my death. Now therfore my sonne heare my voyce in that whych I commaunde the: get the to the flocke, & bynge me thence two good kyds, & I may make meate of them for thy father, suche as he loueth. And thou shalt bring it to thy father, & he maye eate and that he may blesse & before his death. Then said Jacob to Rebecca his mother: behold, Esau my brother is a rough man, & I am smoth. My father shall peradventure fele me, & I shall seme vnto him as though I wet about to begyle him and so shal he bring a curse vpo me, & not a blessing: and his mother sayd vnto hym. vpon me be thy curse my sonne, only heare my voyce, & go & fetch me them. And Jacob went & fet them, & brought the to his mother. And his mother made meate such as she knew his father loued. And Rebecca fet goodly rayment of her eldest sonne Esau, whych was in the house wyth her, and put them vpo Jacob her yonger sonne & she put the

the skynnes of goates vpon his handes and vpon the smooth of his necke. And she put the meate & brende whyche she had prepared in the hande of her sonne Jacob. When he came to hys father, he sayd, my father. And he answered: here am I, who arte thou my sonne? And Jacob sayd vnto hys father: I am Esau thy eldest sonne, I haue done accordynge as thou baddest me: vp and spt and eate of my venison, & thy soule maye blesse me. And Iahac sayd vnto hys sonne: how cometh it that thou haste founde it so quykly my sonne? He answered: The Lorde thy God brought it to my hande: Then sayde Iahac vnto Jacob, come nere and let me fele the my sonne whether thou be my sonne Esau or not. Then wente Jacob to Iahac hys father, & he felt and sayde: The voyce is Jacobs voyce, but the handes are the handes of Esau. And he knewe hym not, bycause his handes were rough as hys brother Esaus handes: and so he blessed hym.

And he asked hym: art thou my sonne Esau? And he sayde, that I am. Then sayd he: bypunge me and let me eate of my sonnes venison, that my soule maye blesse the. And he brought hym and he ate. And he brought hym wyne also, and he dranke. And hys father Iahac sayd vnto hym: come nere, and kysse me my sonne. And he went vnto hym and kysled hym. And he smelled the sauoure of hys rayment, and blessed hym, & sayde: Se, the smell of my sonne is as the smell of a felde, whyche the Lorde hath blessed. God geue the of the dewe of Heuen, and of the fatnes of the earth, and plenty of corne and wyne. People be thy seruantes, and nacions bowe vnto the. We lorde ouer thy brethren, & thy mothers chyliden stoupe vnto the. Cursed be he that curseth the, and blessed be he that blesseth the.

It happened that asone as Iahac had made an ende of blessinge, and Jacob was scace gone out from the ptesence of Iahac hys father, then came Esau hys brother from his huntynge, and had made also meate and broughte it vnto hys father, and sayde vnto hys father: let my father arple and eate of hys sonnes venison, that thy soule maye blesse me. Then hys father Iahac sayde vnto hym: who arte thou? he answered: I am thy eldest sonne Esau, and Iahac was greatly aconged out of measure, and sayd: whyche is he and where is he then that hath hunted venison: and brought it me? and I haue eat of al before thou comest, and haue blessed him, and he shal be blessed. When Esau herde the wordes of hys father, he cryed out greatly and byterly, aboue measure, & sayde vnto his father: blesse me also my father. Who answered, thy brother came to subtilte, & hath taken away thy blessinge. And he sayd agayne: he may wel be called Jacob for he hath vndermynd me now twayne: fyrste he toke away my bytyght, and se: now hath he taken away my blessinge also. And he sayde: hast thou kept neuer a blessinge for me?

Iahac answered and sayde vnto Esau: beholde, I haue made hym thy lorde, and all hys mothers chyliden haue I made his seruantes. Moreover with corne & wyne haue I stablished hym, what can I do vnto the now my sonne? And Esau sayde vnto his father: hast thou but that one blessinge my father: blesse me also my father: so lysterd vp Esau his voyce and wept. Then Iahac his father answered and sayd vnto hym: beholde, thy dwellinge place shal be the fatnesse of the earth, and of the dewe of heauen from aboue. And with thy sword shalt thou lyue, and shalt be thy brothers sernant. And it wpll come to passe, that when thou shalt get the masterye, thou shalt loose his yoke from of thy necke. And Esau hated Jacob, because of the blessinge that hys father blessed hym wyth all. And Esau sayd in hys herte: The dayes of my fathers sorowe are at hande, and I wpll slaye my brother Jacob. And these wordes of Esau her eldest sonne were tolde to Rebecca. And she sent and called Jacob her yongest sonne, & sayde vnto hym: beholde, thy brother Esau threatheneth to kyll the: now therfore my sonne heare my voyce, make the redy, and flee to Laban my brother at Haran: and tary with him a whyle: vntyll thy brothers fearnes be swaged, and vntyll thy brothers wrath turne away from the, and he forget the thynges whych thou haste done to hym. Then wpll I sende and fet the awaye fro thence. Why shulde I be desolate of you both in one daye? And Rebecca spake to Iahac, I am wery of my lyfe, for fear of the daughters of heth. If Jacob take a wyfe of the daughters of heth suche one as these are, or of the daughters of the lande what good shal my lyfe do me?

The xxviii. Chapter:

Jacob is sente into Mesopotamia to Laban for a wyfe. Esau marryeth an Hmaelite. Jacob dyeth a dyeme. Chyris is promysed. Jacob maketh a vowe.

And so Iahac called Jacob & blessed hym and charged hym, & sayde vnto hym: se thou take not a wyfe of the daughters of Chanaan, but arple and get the to Mesopotamia to the house of Bethuel thy mothers father: and there take the a wyfe of the daughters of Laban thy mothers brother. And God almighty blesse the, and make the to encrease, and multiply the that thou mayest be a nobbe of people, and geue the the blessinge of Abraham: to the & to thy seede with the, that thou mayest possesse the lande (wderin I art a stranger) which God gaue vnto Abraham. Thus Iahac sent forth Jacob. And he tolt to Mesopotamia vnto Laban: sonne of Bethuel the Sirian, & brother to Rebecca Jacob & Esaus mother. When Esau sawe Iahac had blessed Jacob, & sent hym to Mesopotamia, to fet hym a wyfe there, and as he blessed hym he gaue hi a charge sayng: thou shalt not take a wyfe of the daughters of Chanaan and thou shalt not obeyed his father & mother & was gone to Mesopotamia: & Esau saynge also of the daughters of Chanaan pleased not Iahac his father: the went he vnto Hmael, & toke vnto the wyues whych he had: Rahala & daughter of Hmael Abrahams sonne, the syster of Laban to be his wyfe. Jacob departed fro Beir Seba, to come vnto Haran, and came vnto a place by chaunce, & tarped there all nyght, bycause the sunne was downe.

¶ Jacob cometh to Laban & serueth. vii. yeres for Rachel. Lea was brought to hys bed in steade of Rachel. He marreth them both, & serueth yet. vii. yeres more for Rachel. Lea conceyued.

When Jacob lyfte vp hys fete and came into the east countrey. And as he loked aboute, beholde there was a wel in the felde, and thre flockes of shepe lape therby: for at that wel were the flockes watered) and there was a great stone vpon the welles mouth. And thither were all the flockes brought, and they rouled the stone from the welles mouth, and watered the shepe & put the stone agayne vnto the welles mouth vnto hys place.
And Jacob sayd vnto them: brethren, whence be ye? And they sayde: of Haran are we. And he sayde vnto them: knowe ye Laban the sonne of Rahoz? They sayd: we knowe him. And he said vnto them, is he in good helth? And they sayde, he is in good helth, & beholde, his doughter Ra-bel cometh wth the shepe. And he sayde, lo, it is yet but hys dape, nether is it tyme that the catel shulde be gathered together, water ye the shepe and go and fede the. And they sayd, we may not vntyll all the flockes be brought together, & tyll they roll the stone from the welles mouth, & so we water oure shepe. Whyle he yet talked wth them, Rachel came with her fathers shepe, for he kept them. And as sone as Jacob sawe Rachel, þe doughter of Laban his mothers brother, & the shepe of Laban his mothers brother, he went and rouled the stone from the welles mouth, and watered the flocke of Laban hys mothers brother. And Jacob kyssed Rachel, and lyfte vp his voyce and wept: & Jacob told Rachel, þe he was her fathers brother & Rebeccas sonne. Therfore ranne she and tolde her father. And it happened when Laban herde tell of Jacob his sisters sonne, he ran to mete hym: and embraced hym & kyssed him, & brought hym to his house. And he tolde Laban all the matter. To whom Laban said: wel, thou art my bone & my fleshe. And he abode wth him the space of a moneth. And Laban sayd vnto Jacob: Though þe be my brother, shuldest thou therfore serue me for nought? tell me, what shall thy wages be? Laban had two doughters: The eldest called Lea, and the yongest Rachel. Lea was tender eyed, but Rachel was beutyfull & wel fanoured. And Jacob loued Rachel, & sayd: I wyl serue the. vii. yeres for Rachel thy yongest dought-er. Laban answered: it is better þe I geue her the then to another man: byde w me. And Jacob ser-ued. vii. yeres for Rachel and they semed vnto hym but a fewe dayes, for the loue he had to her.

And Jacob sayd vnto Laban: gyue me my wyfe that I may lye w her: for my daies are fulfilled.
Then Laban gathered together al þe men of the place, & made a feast. And when euen was come he toke Lea hys doughter & brought her to hym and he went in vnto her. And Laban gaue vnto his doughter Lea, zilpha his mayde, to be her seruaunte. ¶ (To whom when Jacob came in accordyng to the custome,) and when the mornyng was come beholde it was Lea. Then sayd he to Laban, wherfore hast thou playd thus w me? dyd not I serue the for Rachel? wherfore then hast thou begyled me? Laban answered: it is not þe maner of this place, to mary the yongest before the eldest.
Passe out this weke, & then shal this also be geuen the for the seruice whych þe shalt serue me yet
vii. yeres more. And Jacob dyd euen so, & passed out that weke, and then he gaue hym Rachel his doughter to wyfe also. And Laban gaue to Ra-bel his doughter, Bilha his hadmayde to be her seruaunt. So lay he by Rachel also, & loued Rachel more the Lea, & serued him yet. vii. yeres more.

¶ When the Lorde sawe that Lea was despysed, he made her frutesfull. And Rahel remayned baren. And Lea conceyued and bare a sonne and called hys name Ruben, for she sayde: the Lorde hath looked vpon my tribulacion. Nowe therfore my husbände wyl loue me. And she co-nceyued agayne and bare a sonne, and sayde: the Lorde hath berde that I am despyled, and hath therfore gyuen me thys sonne also, and she called hys name Simeon. And she conceyued yet and bare a sonne, and sayd: nowe thys once wyl my husbände kepe me company, because I haue borne hym thre sonnes: and therfore was hys name called Leui. And she conceyued yet agayne and bare a sonne sayinge: nowe wyl I prayse the Lorde: therfore she called hys name Iuda, and lefte bearynge.

¶ The. xx. Chapter.

Rachel

Rachel and Lea beynge both barren geue thei mapdens vn to thei husbunde, and they bare hym chyldren. Jacob recea ueth Laban in the conceauinge of the shepe and kyddes. In cohs rewarde for hys seruyce.

21

Rachel when she sawe that she bare Jacob no chyldren, she envyed her syster, and sayd vnto Jacob: Gene me chyldren, or els I am but deerd. And Jacob was wroth wyth Ra- hel sayinge: Am I in Goddes steade, which ke- peth from the the frute of thy wombe? Then she sayd: here is my mayde Bilha, go in vnto her, and she shall beare vpon my lappe, that I maye be encreased by her. And she gaue hym Bilha her handmayd to wyfe. And Jacob went in vn to her, and Bilha conceaued and bare Jacob a sonne. Then said Rachel. God hath geue sentece on my syde, and hath also herde my voice & hath geuen me a sonne. Therfore called she hym Dan. And Bilha Rabels mayde conceaued agayne, & bare Jacob another sone. And Rachel sayd with godly wrestlynges haue I wrestled with my sy- ster and haue gotten the vpperhande. And she caled his name, Nephtali. When Lea sawe that she had left bearing she toke Silpha her maide, & gaue her Jacob to wyfe. And Silpha Leas mayde bare Jacob a sonne. The said Lea, good lucke: and called hys name Gad. And Silpha Leas mayde bare Jacob another sonne. Then sayde Lea, happye am I, for the daughters wyl cal me blessed. And called hys name Asser.

And Ruben went out in 7 dayes of 7 wheat haruest and found mandragoras in the felde & brought them vnto hys mother Lea. Then sayd Rachel to Lea: geue me of thy sonnes Mandrago- ras. To whom Lea answered: Is it not Inough that thou haste taken awaye my husbunde, but woldest take away my sonnes Mandragoras al- so? The said Rachel: wel, let hym slepe wyth the thys nyght, for thy sonnes Mandragoras. And Jacob came from the felde at euen, & Lea went out to mete hym, and sayd: come in to me, for I haue bought the w my sonnes Mandragoras. And he slept wyth her 7 nyght. And God herde Lea that she conceaued and bare vnto Jacob the fyft sonne. Then sayd Lea God hath geuen me a rewarde, because I gaue my mayde to my hus- band, & she called him Isachar. And Lea concea- ued yet agayne, & bare Jacob the sixt sonne. And Lea sayde: God hath endued me w a good dow- ry. Nowe wyl my husbunde dwel with me, be- cause I haue borne hym syre sonnes: and called his name Zabulon. After that she bare a dough- ter and called her name Dina. And God reme- mbered Rachel, he hearde her, & made her fruitful: so that she conceaued and bare a sonne, and sayde: God hath taken awaye my rebuke. And she cal- led his name Joseph sayinge: The Lord geue me yet another sonne. And as sone as Rachel hadde borne Joseph, Jacob sayde to Laban: send me awaye that I may go vnto myne owne place & contrey, geue me my wyues and my chyldre for whome I haue serued the, & let me go: for I knowe what seruyce I haue done the. me for thy sake) appoint what thy rewarde shall be, and I wyl geue it the. But he sayd vnto him thou knowest what seruyce I haue done the, & in what takyng thy catell haue bene vnder me: For it was but litle that thou haddest before I came, and nowe it is increased into a multitude and the Lord hath blessed the for my sake. But nowe when shall I make prouysyon for myne owne house also? And he sayd: what shal I then geue the? And Jacob answered: thou shalt geue me nothyng at al, yf I wyl do thys one thinge for me, and then wyl I turne agayne and fede thy shepe, and kepe them.

I wyl go aboute al the shepe thys daye, and separte from them al the shepe that are spotted and of dyuerse coloures, and all blacke shepe a- monge the lambes, and the partye, and the spot- ted amonge the kyddes: and the same shal be my rewarde. So shal my ryghteousnes answere for me to morowe, and shall come for my rewarde before thy face, and euery one that be not speck- led and partye amonge the goates, and blacke amonge the shepe, the same shal be thet with me.

And Laban sayd: Go to, wold god it myght be accordynge to thy sayinge. Therfore he toke out the same daye the he goates that were par- ty and of dyuers colour, and all the she goates that were spotted and partye coloured, and all 7 had whyt in them, & all the blacke amonge the shepe, and put them in the keepinge of his sonnes and set thre dayes iourney betwyxe hym selfe & Jacob. And so Jacob kepte the reste of Labans shepe. Jacob toke rodde of grene poplar, ha- sell and of the chest nut trees, and pylled whyte strakes in them, & made 7 whyte appeare in the rodde. (But they that were whole, remayned grene: and thus was it made a variable coloure.) And put the rods whych he had pylled, euen before 7 shepe, in the gutters & waterynge troghes wher 7 shepe came to drynke, that they shulde conceaue when they came to drynke. And the shepe conceaued before the rods, & brought forth laves straked, spotted, and partye. And Jacob parted the laves and tur- ned the faces of 7 shepe toward spotted thinges and toward all maner of black, 7 was amonge the shepe of Laban namely, puttynge his owne flockes by them selfe, & not puttinge them with Labans shepe. And it fortunied 7 in euery ram- mynge tyme of the stronger shepe, Jacob layde the rodde before the eyes of the shepe in the gut- ters: namely, that he myght make the conceaue before the rodde. But when 7 shepe were feble, he put them not in. And so 7 febler were Labans and the stronger Jacobs. And the ma encreased exceedynge, and had a great flocke, mayde ser- uantes, and men seruautes, camels and asses.

The xxxi. Chapter.

At the commaundement of God, Jacob departed from La- ban, and toke hys goodes wyth hym. Rachel stealeth her fac- thers ymagis. Laban foloweth Jacob. The conuauent be- twene Laban and Jacob.

But he hearde the wordes of Labans sonnes, sayinge: Jacob hath taken a- waye all 7 was our fathers, & of oure fathers goods hath he gotten al thys honoure. And Jacob behelde the countenance of Laban and beholde, it was not as yester day. and yesterday. And the Lorde sayd vnto Jacob, turne agayne into the lande of thy fathers, and to thy kynred, and I wil be with the. Therfore Jacob sent and called Rachel and Lea to the felde vnto hys flocke, and sayde vnto them: I see youre fathers countenance & it is not toward me as yesterdaye, and yesterdaye. But the God of my father hath bene wyth me. And ye knowe howe that I haue serued youre father wth all my myght. But youre father hath deceyued me, and chaunged my wages. x. tymes: but God suffred hym not to hurte me. When he sayde, the spotted shalbe thy wages, then all the shepe bare spotted. And when he sayd: the streaked shal be thy reward, then bare all the shepe streaked: thus hath God taken awaye your fathers shepe, and geuen them me. But in rammyng tyme it happened, that I lyfted vp myne eyes and sawe in a dreame, and beholde & rammes leaped vpon the shepe that were streaked, spotted and party. And the Angell of God spake vnto me in a dreame, sayinge: Jacob? And I answered: here am I. And he sayd: lyfte vp now thyne eyes, and se all the rammes leappng vpon the shepe that are streaked, spotted and partye: for I haue sene all that Laban doth vnto the, I am & God of * Be thell, where thou anoyntedst the stone, & where thou bowedst a bowe vnto me. Nowe therfore arylse and get the * out of thys countrey, and returne vnto the lande where thou wast borne.

Then answered Rachel, and Lea, and sayde vnto hym: haue we a porcion and inheritaunce in our fathers house? And nowe what soeuer God hath sayde vnto the, that do. Then Jacob rose vp, and set hys sonnes and wyues vp vpon camels, and carped awaye all hys flockes, and all his substance whyche he had procured, hys ryches and possessions which he had gotten in the sopotamia, for to go to Hlabac hys father vnto the lande of Canaan. But Laban was gone to * where his shepe, and Rachel had stolen her fathers ymages. And Jacob stole awaye the hert of Laban the Syzian, in that he tolde hym not that he fled. So fled he and all that he had, and made hym selfe ready, and passed ouer the ryuer, and set hys face streygth toward the mount Gilead. Upon the thyrde daye after, was it tolde Laban that Jacob fled. Then he toke hys brethren wyth hym, and folowed after hym seuen dayes iourney, and ouertoke hym at the mount Gilead. And God came to Laban the Syzian in a dreame by nyght, and sayde vnto hym: take hede that thou speake not to Jacob oughte saue good. And Laban ouertoke Jacob: and Jacob had pytched hys tent in the mount. And Laban with his brethren pytched theyr tent also vpon the mount Gilead. And Laban sayde to Jacob: Why hast thou done to steale awaye my herte and carpe awaye my daughters as though they had bene taken captiue wyth the swearde?

Wherfore wentest thou awaye secretly vnknewen to me, and dydest not tell me, that I myght haue brought the on the waye wth myrth syngynge, tymrel and harpe, and hast not suffered me to kysse my chyldren and my daughters. Thou wast a foole now to do it, for I am able to do yon euyl. But & God of your father spake vnto me yesterdaye, sayinge take hede that thou speake not to Jacob ought saue good. And now though thou wentest thy waye, because I longest after thy fathers house, yet wherfore hast thou stolen my goddes. Jacob answered & said to Laban: because I was afraide, and thought that thou wouldest haue taken awaye thy daughters from me. But * (where as thou layest theste to my charge) with whome soeuer thou fyndest thy goddes, let hym dye, here before our brethren. Seke that thyne is by me, and take it to the. But Jacob wist not that Rachel had stolen them. Then went Laban into Jacobs tente, and into Leas tente, & into the two maydens tentes: but founde them not. Then wente he out of Leas tente, and entred into Rachels tente. And Rachel had taken the ymages and put them in the camels strawe, and late downe vpon them. And Laban serched all the tente: but founde them not. Then sayde she to her father: my lorde, be not angrey that I can not ryle vp before the, for the custome of women is come vpon me. So serched he but found not those ydols. And Jacob was wroth, & chode wyth Laban. Jacob also answered and sayde to hym: what haue I trespassed or what haue I offended, that thou folowedest so after me? bene a straunger with Laban vnto thys tyme & haue oxen, asses and shepe, men seruautes, and wemen seruautes, and haue sent to shew it my Lorde, þ I maye fynde grace in thy syght. And the messengers came agayne to Jacob, sayng:

we came vnto thy brother Esau, and he cometh agaynst the and hath foure hundred men wyth hym. But Jacob was greatly afrayde, & wyfte not whyche waye to turne hym selfe, & deuoyded the people that was wyth him and the shepe and oxen and camels into ii. compaynes: and sayde:
If Esau come to the one parte and smyte it, the other shall saue it sefe.

And Jacob sayde agayne: O God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac: Lord which saydest vnto me *returme vnto thy coun-tre and to thy kynred, & I wyl do all well with the. I am not worthy of the least of all the mer-cyes and truthe whyche thou hast shewed vnto thy seruaunt. For wyth my staffe came I ouer this Iordane, and now haue I gotte ii. dyoues welyuer me from þ handes of my brother Esau for I feare him: lest he wyl come and smyte the mother wyth the chyldre. Thou saydest: I wyl surely do the good, & make thy sede as þ sand of the see, which can not be nombred for multytude.

And he tarped there the same nyght, & toke of that whych came to hande, a preience for Esau his brother. ii. hundred she goates and .xx. he goa-
tes. ii. hundred shepe and .xx. rāmes: thirtie mulche camels with their coltes. xl. kyne, & .x. bulles. .xx.
the asses and ten folles: and delyuered them into the hande of his seruautes, euery dyoue by them selues and sayd vnto his seruautes: go forth before me, and put a space betwixt, dyoue, & dyoue.
And he commaunded the foremost sayng.

¶ If Esau my brother mete the and axe the, say inge: whose art thou, & whyther goest thou: and whose are these that go before the: þ shalt saye:
they be thy seruaunt Jacobs, & it is a present sent vnto my Lorde Esau, and beholde, he hym selfe commeth after vs: And so commaunded he the seconde, and the thyrde, & all that folowed the dyoues sayng of this maner: se þ you speake vnto Esau when ye mete hym, and say moreouer: thy seruaunt Jacob also cometh after vs, for he said I wyl peace his wrath with the present that goeth before me, and afterwarde I wyl se hym my selfe, if peradventure he wyl receaue me to grace.
So went the present before hym and he taried al that nyght in the copayne, and rose vp the same nyght, and toke his two wyues & his two may-dens, and his eleuen sonnes, & went ouer þ forde Iabok. And he toke them & sent the ouer þ ryuer and sent ouer that he had, tarped behynde hym: & selfe alone. And there *wrestled a mā with hym vnto the breakyng of þ daye. And whē he sawe that he could not preuaile against hym, he smote hym vnder the thyrde, and the synowe of Jacobs thye shanke, as he wrestled wyth hym. And he sayd: let me go for the daye breaketh. Whyche answered: I wyl not let the go, excepte þ blesse me. And he sayde vnto hym: what is thy name?
He answered: Jacob. He sayd: thou shalt be called Jacob no more, but *Israel. For as a prince hast thou wrestled wyth God: and wyth man, and hast preuailed.

And Jacob asked hym sayng: tell me thy name. And he sayd, wherfore doest þ so aske after my *name: and he blessed him there. And Jacob called the name of the place *Bethel, for haue sene God face to face, and my lyfe is preserued. And as he went ouer Bethel, the sone rose vpon him, and he halted vpon his thye. And therfore is it that the chyldren of Israel eate not of þ synow that shanke in that place of the thye, vnto thys daye: because that he touched þ place of Jacobs thye in the synowe that shanke.

¶ The xxxiii. Chapter.

Esau and Jacob are agreed: and Jacob came into Sichem.

Jacob lyfthyng vp his eyes, looked, & beholde Esau came, hauyng wyth hym foure hundred men. And he deuyded the chyldren vnto Lea and vnto Rachel, and vnto the two maydes.
And he put the maydes and theyr chyldren for-most: and Lea and her chyldren after, and Rachel, and Joseph hyndermost. And he wente before them and *fell on the grounde seuen tymes vntyll he came vnto his brother.

Esau *came to mete hym and embraced hym, and fell on hys necke and kysed hym, and they wepte. And he lyfte up hys eyes, and sawe the women, and the chyldren: and sayde: whence hast thou these? (And do they belonge unto the?) And he answered: they are the chyldren which god hath geuen thy seruante. Then came the maydens forth, and they: chyldren, and dyd they: obeyssaunce. Lea also with her chyldren came and dyd they: obeyssaunce. And last of all came Joseph & Rachel, and dyd they: obeyssaunce.

Deu. 10. 16

And he sayde: what is all the droue whych I mette: he answered: that I may fynde grace in the syght of my Lorde. And Elau sayde: I haue ynough my brother, kepe that thou haste vnto thy selfe. To whome Jacob answered, oh nay, but yf I haue founde grace in thy syght, receaue my present of my hande: for I haue sene thy face as though I had sene the face of god and thou haste had a good wyll towarde me. Oh take my blessing that is brought the, for God hath had mercy on me. (Gyving me all thynges.) And I haue ynough. And so he compelled hym, and he toke it. And he sayd: let vs take oure iourney and go I wyll go before the. Jacob answered hym: my Lorde, Thou knowest, that the chyldren are tēdye, & the ewes & kyne wyth yonge vnder myne hande, whych yf men shulde ouerdyue but euē one daye all the shepe wyl dye. Oh let my Lord go before hys seruante, and I wyll dyue fayne and softlye, accordyng as the catell that goeth before me and the chyldren, be able to endure vntyll I come to my Lorde vnto Seir.

And Elau sayde: let me yet leaue some of my folke wyth the. And he answered, what nedeth it? (Thys one thyng onely haue I nede of) let me fynd grace in the syght of my lorde. So Elau wente hys waye agayne that same daye vnto Seir.

And Jacob toke hys iourney towarde Succoth, and buyt hym an house, and made bootheres for hys catell. And therfore is it, that the name of the place is called Succoth.

And Jacob came to Halem a cytie of Sichem whiche is in the lande of Canaan: after that he was come from Mesopotomia, and pytched be fore the cytie, and bought a parcell of grounde (where he pytched his tente) of the chyldren of Hemor Sichems father for an hundred peces of money. And he made there an autler, and called vpon the myghty God of Israel.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

The rauynge of Dina Jacobs daughter by the me of Sichem. And of the great bloude shedde vnto the sonnes of Jacob.

Gene. xxxiii.

Il. re. xlii. c

In the daughter of Lea * whiche she bare vnto Jacob, wente oute to se the daughters of the lande. Whome when Sichem the sonne of Hemor & Henite: lorde of that countrey sawe, he toke her, and lay with her, and forced * her: and his herte laye vnto Dina the daughter of Jacob. And he loued that damsell: and spake kyndly vnto her, and Sichem spake vnto his father Hemor, saying: get me this mayden vnto my wyfe.

And Jacob herde that he had defyled Dina his daughter, his sonnes beynge with they: cattell

in the felde, and he helde his peace, vntyll they were come. And Hemor the father of Sichem went out vnto Jacob to comen with hym. And when the sonnes of Jacob comyng out of the felde hearde it, it greued them, & they were not a lytle wroth, bycause he had wrought folpe in Israel, in that he had lpen w Jacobs daughter whiche thyng ought not to be done. And Hemor communed with them, sayinge: the soule of my son Sichem longeth for youre daughter: gyue her hym to wyfe, and make mariages with vs: and gyue youre daughters vnto vs, and take oure daughters vnto you, and ye shal dwell with vs, and the lande shall be before you, dwell and do your vnsynesse, and haue your possessions therein. And Sichem sayde vnto her father and her brethren let me fynde grace in youre eyes, and whatsoeuer ye appoynt me, that wyll I gyue. Aske frelpe of me both the dowrye and gyftes, and I wyll gyue accordyng as ye say vnto me so that ye gyue me the damsell to wyfe.

But the sonnes of Jacob answered to Sichem, and Hemor his father talkyng amonge them selues deceptfully, bycause he had defyled Dina they: syster. And they sayd vnto them: we can not do this thyng that we should gyue our sister to one that is vncircumcised, for that were a shame vnto vs. But in this wyll we consent vnto you. Yf ye wyl be as we be and all the men chyldren amonge you be circumcised, then wyll we gyue our daughters to you, and take youre daughters to vs, and wyll dwell with you, and be one people. But and yf ye wyll not herken vnto vs to be circumcised, then wyll we take our daughter & go our wayes. They: wordes pleased Hemor: and Sichem his sonne. And the yonge man deferde not for to do the thyng bycause he had luste to Jacobs daughter: he was also moost set by of all that were in his fathers house. Then Hemor and Sichem his sonne went vnto the gate of they: cytie, and comuned with the men of they: cytie, saying: these men are vnfayned towarde vs, and dwell in the lande, and do they: occupacyon therein. And in the land is roume ynough for them: we wyll take they: daughters to wiues, and gyue them our daughters, onely herein wyll they consent vnto vs for to dwell with vs and to be one people: yf all the men chyldren that are amonge vs be circumcised as they are. Shal not their goodes and their substance and all they: cattell be ouys, onely we consent vnto them? For they wyll dwell with vs. And vnto Hemor and Sichem hys sonne herkened all that wente out of the gate of his cytie. And all the men chyldren were circumcised whatsoeuer went out of the gates of his cytie. And it happened the thyrde day (when it was paynfull to them) two of the sonnes of Jacob Simeon and Levi, Dinas brethren toke riether of them bes * swerde and went into the cytye boldly: and slewe all that was male, & slewe also Hemor and Sichem his sonne with y edge of the swerde, and toke Dina out of Sichems house, and went they: waye.

But Jacob sayde to Symeon and Levi: ye haue troubled me and made me styne befoze the inhabytours of the lande, befoze the Cananite, and the Phere syte. And I bringe fewe in nombye, they shall gather them selues togyther agaynst me, and slaye me, and so shall I and my house be destroyed. And they answered: shoulde they deale with our syster as with an whore?

¶ Jacob goeth vnto Bethel, and buryeth his pynges vnder an oke. Deboia dyeth Jacob is called Israel. The lande of Canaan is promysed hym. Rachel dyeth in labour: Ruben saie with his fathers concubine. The death of Isahac

AND God sayde vnto Jacob: aryse: and get the vp to Bethel and dwel there. And make there an alter vnto God, y appeared vnto the* whe thou fleddest from the face of Esau thy brother. Then sayde Jacob vnto his household and to all that were with hym: put awaye the straunge goddes that are amonge you, and be cleane, and chaunge your garmentes, for we wyl aryse and go vp to Bethel, and wyl make an alter there, vnto God which herde me in the day of my tribulation, and was with me in the waye which I went.

B And they gone vnto Jacob all the straunge goddes whiche they had in theyr hande, and all theyr earpynges whiche were in theyr eares, and Jacob hyd them vnder an oke, whiche was by Sichem. And when they departed, the feare of God fel vpon the cyties that were round about them. And they dyd not folowe after the sonnes of Jacob. So came Jacob to Lus whiche is in the lande of Canaan. The same is Bethel, he and all the people that was with hym. And he buylded there an alter, and called the place: The God of Bethel: bycause that God appered vnto him there, whe he fled fro the face of his brother.

 But Deboia Rebeccaes nurse dyed, and was buryed beneth Bethel vnder an oke. And the name of it was called: the oke of lamentacio. And God appeared vnto Jacob agayne, after he came out of Mesopotamia, and blessed hym, and God sayde vnto hym: thy name is Jacob. Notwithstandyng, thou shalt be nomore called Jacob, but Israel thel be thy name. And he called his name Israel.

¶ And God sayde vnto hym: I am God almyghtye, growe, and multiplie: people and a multitude of people shall spryng of the: yea and kynge shall come out of thy loynes. And the lande which I gaue Abraham and Isahac, wyl I gyue vnto the, and vnto thy seed after the wil I gyue that land also. And so God departed by from him in the place where he had talked with hym. And Jacob sette vp a marke in the place where he talked with him, eue a marke of stone and poured bypnk offrynges thereon, and poured also oyle thereon, and Jacob called the name of the place where God spake with him * Bethel.

The house of God.

And they departed from Bethel, and when he was but a felde breadth from Ephrath, Rachel beganne to trauaple: and in trauaplyng, she was in peryll. And it happened, as she was in paynes of her labour, the mydwylfe sayd vnto her: feare not: for this sonne is thyne also.

Then as her soule was a departyng: that she must dye, she called his name Ben Dyon. ¶ The sonne of my lord.

b. v. And

And the sonnes of Eliphas were Theman, Omar, Zepho, Gaetho and Kenas. And Chimna was concubine to Eliphas Elaus sonne, and bare vnto Eliphas, Amalech. And these be the sonnes of Ada Elaus wyfe. And these are the sonnes of Reguel: Rahab, Serah, Samma, & Misa: these were the sonnes of Balmath Elaus wyfe. And these were the sonnes of Ahalibama the daughter of Ana daughter of Zebion Elaus wyfe, and she bare vnto Elau, Jeus, Jealam, and Kozah.

C These were dukes of the sonnes of Elau. The chyldren of * Eliphas, the fyrste sonne of Elau were these: duke Theman, duke Omar, duke Zepho, duke Kenas, and duke Kozah, duke Gaetham, and duke Amalech. These are the dukes that came of Eliphas in the lande of Edom and these were the sonnes of Ada. These also are the chyldren of Reguel Elaus sonne: duke Rahab, duke Serah, duke Samma duke Misa. These are the dukes that came of Reguel in the lande of Edom. And these are the sonnes of Balmath Elaus wyfe. These were the chyldre of Ahalibama Elaus wyfe: Duke Jeus, duke Jealam, duke Kozah: these dukes came of Ahalibama & daughter of Ana Elaus wyfe. These are the chyldren of Elau, and these are the dukes of them: whiche Elau is Edom. These are the chyldren of Seir the Horite, the inhabytoure of the lande: Lothan, Sobal, Zibeon and Ana, and Dison, Ezer & Disan. These also are & dukes of the Horites the chyldren of Seir in the lande of Edo. And the chyldre of Lothan were Hori and Hemā. And Lothās sister was called Chimna.

D The chyldren of Sobal were these: Anan, Manabath, and Ebal, Sepho, and Dhan. These are the chyldren of Zibeon. Aia and Ana, this was that Ana that founde mules in the wyldernesse, as he fed his father Zibeons asses. The chyldren of Ana were these: Dison and Ahalibama the daughter of Ana. These are the chyldren of Dison, Hem, Dan, and Elban, Jethran and Cheran. The chyldren of Ezer are these: Bilhan, Seauan, and Akan: The chyldren of Disan also are these: Uz, and Aran.

These are the dukes that came of Hori: duke Lothan, duke Sobal, duke Zibeon, duke Ana, duke Dison, duke Ezer, duke Disan. These be the dukes that came of Hori, after they duke domes in the lande of Seir. These are the kynnes that raygned in the lande of Edom, before there raygned anye kynge vpon the chyldren of Israel: Bela the sonne of Beor raygned in Edomea, and the name of his cytie was Dinhaba. And when Bela dyed, Jobab the sonne of Serah out of Bozra, raygned in his stede. When Jobab also was deed, Husam of the lande of Theman raygned in his stede. And after the death of Husam, Hadad the sonne of Bedad, which slewe the Moabites in the felde of the Moabites raygned in his stede, and the name of his cytie was Auith. When Hadad was deed, Samla of Massaka raygned in his stede. When Samla was deed, Saul of the ryuer Rebooth raygned in his stede. When Saul was deed, Baalhanan the sonne of Achboz raygned in his stede. And after the death of Baalhanan the son of Achboz, Hadad raygned in his stede, and the name of his cytie was Babu. And his wyues name Mahetabeel the daughter of Matred, the daughter of Mesaab.

These are the names of the dukes that came of Elau in the twelue kynredes, places and names: duke Thymna, duke Alua, duke Jetheth, duke Ahalibama, duke Ela, duke Pynon, duke Kenas, duke Theman, duke Mibzar, duke Magdiel, duke Fram. These be the dukes of Edomea, accordynge to theyr habytacions, in the lande of theyr possessyons. This Elau is the father of the Edomytes.

C The xxxvii. Chapter

C Joseph accuseth his brethren. Joseph dreameth and is hated of his brethren, and sold to the Ismaelytes. Jacob bewarleth Joseph.

Jacob dwelt in the lande wherein his father was a straunger, euen in the lande of Canaan. These are the generacions of Jacob: When Joseph was leuentene yere old, he kept shepe with his brethren, and the ladde was with the sonnes of Bilha and with the sonnes of Zilpha, his fathers wyues. And he brought vnto theyr father an euill sayinge of them. But Israel loued Joseph more then all his chyldren, because he begat hym in his olde age, and he made hym a coote of many colours.

And when his brethren sawe that theyr father loued hym more then al his brethren, they hated hym, and coude not speake peaceably vnto hym. Moreover, when Joseph had dreamed a dreame, he tolde it his brethren, whiche hated hym yet the more. And he sayde vnto them: heare, I praye you, this dreame whiche I haue dreamed: Beholde, we were byndynge sheues in the felde: and lo, my shefe arose, and stode vpryght, and yours stode rounde about, and made obeysaunce to my shefe. To whom his brethren sayd: Shalt thou be our kynge in dede? Or shalt thou in dede haue domynion ouer vs? And they hated hym yet the more, because of his dreames and of his wordes.

And he dreamed yet an other dreame, and tolde his brethren, sayinge: beholde, I haue had one dreame more: me thought the sunne and the moone and xi. starres made obeysaunce to me.

And when he had tolde it vnto his father and his brethren, his father rebuked hym, and sayde vnto hym: what is this dreame which thou hast dreamed? Shall I and thy mother, and thy brethren then come to fall on the ground before the? And his brethren hated him, but his father noted the sayinge. His brethren also went to kepe the fathers shepe in Sichem, and Israel sayde vnto Joseph: doo not thy brethren kepe in Sichem: and I will sende the to them.

Gen. xix.

He answered: here am I. And he sayde vnto him: goo, and se whether it be well with thy brethren, and the shepe: and bringe me worde agayne. And so he sente him oute of the vale of Hebron, and he went to Sichem. And a certayne man founde him, and behold he was wandring oute of his waye in the felde, and the man asked him: what sekest thou? He answered: I seeke my brethren, tel me I praye where they kepe shepe. And the man sayde: they are departed hence, for I herde them saye: let vs go vnto Dothan.

Gen. xxi. d
Gen. xxi. a
Gen. xx. e

Thus went Joseph after his brethren, & found them in Dothan. And when they saw him afar off before he came at them, they toke counsaile agaynst him for to slaye him. For one sayde to an other: Beholde, this dreamer cometh: come now therfore and let vs slaye him, and cast him into some pyt, and we wyl save a wycked beast hath deuoured him, and we shall se what wyl come of his dreames. When Ruben hearde that he ryd him out of theyr handes, & sayd: we wyl not kyll him. And Ruben sayde moreouer vnto them: shed not his bloude, but cast him into this pyt that is in the wyldernesse, and laye no hande vpon him. (Thus he sayde:) Namely, that he myght ryd him out of theyr handes, and deliuer him to his father agayne.

Gen. xlii. d

And it happened, that when Joseph was come vnto his brethren, they strypte him oute of his coote, his partye coloured coote that was vpon him, and they toke him and caste him into an emptye pyt, wherein was no water. And they sat them downe to eate bread. And as they lyfte vp theyr eyes and looked about, there came a company of Ismaelytes from Gilead, and theyr camels laden with spycery, baulme and myrr: and were goinge downe to carry it into Egypt.

Gen. xlii. b
Gen. xlii. a

And Juda sayde vnto his brethren: what auayleth it yf we slaye our brother, and kepe his bloude secrete, come on and let vs sell him to the Ismaelytes, and let not our handes be vpon him: for he is our brother and our flesh. And his brethren were content. Then as the Madianites marchaunt men passed by, they drew, and lyfte Joseph oute of the pyt, and solde him vnto the Ismaelytes for twenty peces of syluer. And they brought him into Egypt.

And when Ruben came agayne vnto the pyt, and founde not Joseph there, he rent his clothes and wet agayne vnto his brethren, sayinge: the lad is not yonder, and whyther shall I go? And they toke Josephs coote, and kyllled a goote, and depped the coote in the bloude. And they sente that partye coloured coote, and brought it vnto their father, and sayd: This haue we founde: se, whether it be thy sonnes coote or no. And he knew it, saying: it is my sonnes coote, a wycked beast hath deuoured him, Joseph is rent in peces.

And Jacob rent his clothes, and put sacke cloth

aboute his loynes, and sorowed for his sonne a longe season. But all his sones & all his daughters rose vp to comforte him. Neuerthelesse, he wolde not be comforted, but sayde: I wyl goo downe into the graue vnto my sonne mourning. And thus his father wept for him. And y Madianites solde him into Egypt vnto Putiphar a lord of Pharaos, and his chiefe stuarde.

The xxxviii. Chapter.

The marriage of Iuda. The trespass of Er and Onan, and the vengeance of God that came thereupon. Iuda laye with his daughter Thamar. The birth of Pharez and Zarah.

Fortuned at that tyme that Iudas wente downe from his brethren, and gate him to a man called Hira of Ddolan, and there he sawe the daughter of a man called Sina a Canaanite. And he toke her, and went into her. And she conceived and bare a sonne, and called his name Er. And she conceived agayne, and bare a son, and called him Onan. And she conceived agayne, and bare yet a sonne, whome she called Sela: and he was at Chesib when she bare him. And Iudas gaue Er his eldest sonne a wyfe, whose name was Thamar. And Er Iudas eldest sonne was wycked in the sight of the Lord, and the Lord slewe him. And Iudas sayde vnto Onan: go into thy brothers wyfe, and marrye her, that thou mayest sturre vp seede vnto thy brother. And whē Onan perceyued that the seede shuld not be his, therfore whē he went into his brothers wyfe, he spylled it on the grounde, and gaue not seed vnto his brother. And the thyng which he dyd, displeased the Lord, wherfore he slewe him also. Then sayde Iudas to Thamar his daughter in lawe, remayne a wyddowe at thy fathers house, tyl Sela my sonne be growen, for he sayd: Lest peradventure he dye also as his brethren dyd. And Thamar went and dwelte in her fathers house.

L. par. ii. a

And in proceste of tyme the daughter of Sina Iudas wyfe dyed. Then Iudas when he had left mourninge, went vnto his sheperders to Timnath he and his frende Hira of Ddolan. And one tolde Thamar, saying: beholde, thy father in lawe goeth vp to Timnath, to where his shepe. And she put her wyddowes garmentes of from her, and couered her with a clooke, and disguised her selfe: & sat her downe in a comune place which is by the hye wayes syde to Timnath, for bycause she sawe y Sela was growen and she was not gyven vnto him to wyfe.

Gen. xliii. c
Gen. xliii. d

When Iuda sawe her, he thought it had bene an whore, bycause she had couered her face. And he turned to her vnto the waye, and sayde: come I praye the, let me lye with the, for he knewe not that it was his daughter in lawe. And she answered: what wylt thou gyue me for to lye with me? Then sayde he: I wyl sende the a kyd from the flocke. She sayde: Then gyue me a pledge, tyl thou sende it. He sayde: what pledge shall I gyue the? She answered: thy signet, thy bracelet, and thy staffe that is in thyne hande. And he gaue it her, and lay by her, and she was with childe by him. And she gat her vp, and wente and put her her

her mantell from her, and put on her wyddowes rayment. And Judas sent the kynd by his frende of Odollam, for to receyue his pledge agayne from the wyues hande. But he founde her not.
E Then asked he the men of the same place, saying where is the whoze that sat openly by þe wayes side? They answered: Ther was no whoze here.
 He came therfore to Juda agayne, and sayd vnto him: I cannot fynde her, and also the men of þe place sayde: that there was no whoze there. And Juda sayde: let her take it to her, lest we be shamed. Beholde, I sent the kynd, and thou hast not founde her. And it came to passe, that after thre monethes, one told Juda, saying: Chamar thy daughter in lawe hath played the whoze, and playing the whoze is become great with childe.
 And Juda sayd byynge her forth, that she maye be hent. And when they brought her forth, she sent to her father in lawe saying: by the man vnto who these thynges pertaine am I w chylde.
 And sayde also, loke whose are this seale, brace let, and this staffe. And Juda knewe them and sayde: she hath bene more ryghteous then I, by-cause I gaue her not to Sela my sonne. And he laye with her nomoze. It fortunied, when tyme was come that she shulde be deliuered, beholde, there was twot wyynes in her wombe. And it fortunied that when she traueled, the one put out his hande, and the mydwife toke and bounde a red threde about it, saying: this is come out first.
 And it chaunced, that he plucked his hand back agayne, and beholde, his brother came out. And she sayde: wherfore haste thou rent a rent vpon the? and called his name Pharez. Afterward came oute his brother that had the red threde about his hand, and his name was called Zarah:

The xxxix. Chapter.

*God prospereth Joseph. Pharaos wyfe tempteth hym.
 He is accused & cast in pylson. God hath mercy vpon him.*

A Joseph was brought vnto Egypt: and Putiphar a lord of Pharaos (and his chiefe stuard an Egyptian) bought him out of þe Ismaelites which had brought hym thither. And God was with Joseph, and he became a luckye man, continuynge in þe house of his master the Egyptian. And his master sawe that God was with hym, and that God made all that he dyd to prospere in his hande.
 And Joseph founde grace in his masters syght, and serued hym. And made hym ruler of hys house, and put all that he had in his hande.
 And it fortunied fro that tyme that he had made hym ruler ouer his house & ouer al that he had, þe Lord blessed the Egyptians house for Josephs sake, & the blessing of the Lord was vpon al þe he had in the house, and in the felde. And therfore he lefte all that he had in Josephs hand, and looked vpon nothyng that was with hym, save onely on the breed whiche he dyde eate. And Joseph was a goodly persone, and wel fauoured.
B And it fortunied after this, that his masters wyfe cast her eyes vpon Joseph and sayde: come lye with me. But he refused, and sayde to hys masters wyfe: Beholde, my master woteth not what he hath in the house with me, and hath co-mytted all that he hath to my hande. There is nomā greater in the house then I. Neither hath he kept any thyng from me, but onely the, by-cause thou art his wyfe. How then can I do this great wyckednesse & syn agaynst God? And after this maner spake she to Joseph daye by day but he hekened not vnto her, to slepe nor heare or to be in her compaigne. And it fortunied on a tertayne conueniente daye, that Joseph entred into the house, to do his busynesse: and ther was none of the houtholde by, in the house. And she caught hym by the garment, saying: come slepe with me. And he lefte his garment in her hande and fledde, and got hym out. And it chaunced, when she sawe that he had lefte his garmente in her hand, and was fled out. (And she not regarded)

 she called vnto the men of her house, and tolde them, saying: Se, he hath brought in an Hebru vnto vs to do vs shame: for he came into me for to haue slept with me. And I begā to crye with a loude voyce. And when he hearde that I lyfte vp my voyce and cryed, he lefte his garment w me, and fled awaye, and got hym out.

And she layed vp his garment by her, vntyll her lord came home. And she tolde hym wyth these wordes, saying: This Hebrues seruant which thou hast brought vnto vs, came into me to do me shame. But as soone as I lyfte vp my voyce and cryed, he lefte his garment with me, and fled out. When his master (beinge to light of credence) hearde these wordes of his wyfe whiche she tolde hym, saying: after thys maner dyd thy seruant to me, he waxed wroth.

And the master toke Joseph and put him in *pylson, euen into the place where the kynges prisoners laye bounde. And there continued he in pylson, but the Lord was with Joseph, and she wed hym mercye, and got hym fauour in the syght of the lord of the pylson. And the keeper of the pylson commytted to Josephs hand al the prisoners that were in the pylson house. And whatsoeuer was done there, that dyd he. And þe keeper of the pylson looked vnto nothyng þe was vnder his hande, seinge that the Lord was w hym. For whatsoeuer he dyd, the Lord made it to prospere.

The xl. Chapter.

Joseph expoundeth the dreames of the two pylsoners.

And it chaunced after this, that the butler of the kyng of Egypte and his baker had offended the lord the kyng of Egypte. And Pharaos was angrie agaynst his two officers, agaynst the chiefe butler and the chiefe baker: and put them in warde in his chiefe stuardes house: euen in the pylson and place where Joseph was bound. And the chiefe stuarde gaue Joseph a charge w them, & he serued them. And they continued a season in ward: And they dreamed either of them in one night both the butler & the baker of the kyng of Egypte whiche were bounde in the pylson house, either of them his dreame, and eche mannes dreame of a sondry interpretation.
 When Joseph came in vnto them in the mornyng, and looked vpon them, beholde, they were sad.

lad. And he asked Pharaos officers that were with hym in his masters warde, saying: wherfore loke ye so sadly to daye? They answered hym: we haue dreamed a dreame, and haue no man to declare it. And Joseph sayde vnto them: Do not interpretynge belonge to God: yet tel me: and the chiefe butler tolde the dreame to Joseph, and sayde vnto hym: In my dreame me thought there stode a vyne before me, and in the vyne were. iiii. bzaunches, and it was as though it budded, and her blossomes shot forth: and the grapes therof waxed rype. And I had Pharaos cup in my hande, and toke of the grapes, and wronge them into Pharaos cup, and deliuered Pharaos cup into his hande. And Joseph sayde vnto him: this is the interpretation of it. The thre bzaunches are thre dayes: for within thre dayes shall Pharao lyfte vp thynne heed, and restore the vnto thynne offyce agayne, and I shalte deliuer Pharaos cup into his hande after y olde maner wherin y wast wont to gyue hym drinke. But yf thou thynke on me with the, when thou art in good case, shewe mercy (I praye the) vnto me. And make mencyon of me to Pharao, & bypunge me out of this house: for I was stollen out of the lande of the Hebrues, & here also haue I done nothyng at all wherfore they shuld haue put me into this dongeon. When the chiefe baker sawe that the interpretacyon was good, he sayd vnto Joseph: me thought also in my dreame that I had thre wycker baskettes on myne heed. And in the vppermost basket there was of all maner bakemeates for Pharao. And the byrdes dyd eate them out of the basket that was vpon my heed. And Joseph answered and sayde: this is the interpretacyon thereof. The thre baskets are thre dayes, for this daye thre dayes shall Pharao take thy heed from the, and shall hange y on a tree, and the byrdes shal eat the flesh from the. And it came to passe y thyrde daye which was Pharaos byrthdaye, y he made a feast vnto all his seruantes. And he lyfted vp the heed of the chiefe butler & of the chiefe baker amonge his seruantes. And restored the chiefe butler vnto his butlers hyppagayne: which also reched the cup in to Pharaos hand, but he hanged the chiefe baker eue as Joseph had interpreted vnto them. After that dyd the chiefe butler remembre Joseph, but forgot hym.

The. xli. Chapter.

Pharaos dreames are expounded by Joseph. He is made ruler ouer all Egypt. He hath two sonnes: Manasses and Ephraim. The dearth beganeth in Egypt.

And it fortuneth after. ii. yeres, that Pharao dreamed, & behold he stode by a ryuers syde, and there cam out of the ryuer seven goodly kyne and fatfleshed and fed in a medow, and seven other kyne came vp after them out of the ryuer, euylfaoured and leane fleshed, and stode by the other kyne vpon the bynke of the ryuer. And the euylfaoured and leane fleshed kyne did eat vp the seven welfaoured and fat kyne: and Pharao awoke. And he slept agayne, and dreamed the seconde tyme. And beholde, seven eares of cozne grewe vpon one stalk, ranke and good ly. And agayne, seven thynne eares blasted with the East wynde sprange vp after them: and the seven thynne eares deuoured the seven ranke &

full eares. And Pharao awaked, and se, it was a dreame. And when the moornyng came, his spyrite was troubled. And he sent and called for all the sothsayers of Egypt, & all the wyse men therof, and Pharao tolde them his dreame: but there was none of them that coulde interpretat it vnto Pharao. Then spake the chiefe butler vnto Pharao, sayinge: I do remembre my faultes this daye. Pharao beinge angrey with his seruantes put in warde in y chiefe stuardes house bothe me and the chiefe baker. And we dreamed both of vs in one nyght, and eche mans dreame of sondre interpretacyon. And there was with vs a yonge man, an Hebrue bozne, seruant vnto the chiefe stuarde. To whom when we told them, he declared our dreames to vs accordyng to epyther of oure dreames. And as he declared them vnto vs, euen so it came to passe. For he restored me to myne offyce agayne, and hanged hym. Pharao sent therfore, and called Joseph.

And they brought hym hastily out of prison. And he shaued hym selfe, and chaunged his rayment, and came into Pharaos. And Pharao sayd vnto Joseph: I haue sene a dreame & nomā can interpretate it, and I haue hearde saye of the, that as sone as thou hearest a dreame, thou canst interpretate it. Joseph answered Pharao, sayinge: Not I, but God shall gyue Pharao an answer of peace.

And Pharao sayd vnto Joseph: in my dreame me thought I stode by a ryuers syde, and there came out of y ryuer. vii. fatfleshed, and welfaoured kyne & fed in the meddowe. And then seven other kyne came vp after them, poze & very euylfaoured, & leane fleshed: suche as I neuer sawe in all this land of Egypt, they were so euylfaoured. And the seven leane and euylfaoured kyne did eate vp y fyft vii. fat kyne. And when they had eaten the vp, a man could not perceyue y they had eatē them: but they were styll as euylfaoured, as they were at the begynnyng. And I awoke. And I saw agayne in my dream, and behold, seven eares sprang out of one stalk, full and fayne, and seven other eares agayne, withered, thin, and blasted with the east wynde, sprang vp after them. And the thynne eares deuoured y seven good eares. And I haue tolde it vnto the sothsayers, but there was no man that could tel what it meaneth. And Joseph answered Pharao both Pharaos dreames are one. And God bath hath shewed Pharaon what he is aboute to do. The seven good kyne are seven yeres: and the seven good eares are seven yeres also, and it is but one dreame. Lyke wyse the seven thyn and euyl fauoured kyne that came out after them, are seven yeres: and the seven emptye and blasted eares, shall be seven yeres of hungre. This whiche I haue sayd vnto Pharaon, it is that god is about to do, and sheweth it vnto Pharaon.

Behold, there came seven yere of great plenteousnesse thorowout all the lande of Egypte. And agayne, there shall aryse after the seven yeres of hungre. And also the plenteousnesse shall be forgotten in the lande of Egypte. And the hungre shall consume the lande: neither shall the plenteousnesse be knowne in the land, by reason of the hungre that shall come after, for it shall be exceeding great. And as concerning the dreame was doubled vnto Pharaon the second tyme, behold, the thyng is certaynly prepared of God, and God wyll shortly byng it to passe.

Now therfore let Pharaon proude for a man of vnderstandyng and wysdom, and let hym ouer the land of Egypt. And let Pharaon do this also that he make officers ouer the land, and take vp the fyfth parte of the lande of Egypte in the seven plenteous yeres, and let them gather al the foode of these good yeres that come, and lay vp corne vnder the hand of Pharaon, that there may be foode in the cyties, and there let them kepe it: that there maye be founde in store in the lande, agaynst the seven yeres of hungre whiche shall come in the lande of Egypt, that the land perishe not thorow the hungre.

E And the sayinge pleased Pharaon and all his seruantes. Then sayde Pharaon vnto his seruantes: Where shall we fynde suche a man as this is, in whom is the spirit of God? And Pharaon sayd vnto Joseph: for as moch as God hath shewed the al this, there is no man of vnderstandyng or of wysdome lyke vnto the. Thou therfore shalt be ouer my house, and accordyng to thy worde shall all my people be ruled, onely in the kynges seate wyll I be aboute the. And Pharaon sayde agayne vnto Joseph: beholde, I haue set the ouer all the lande of Egypte. And he toke of his ryng from his hand, and put it vpon Josephs hand, and arayed hym in cloth of raynes, and put a golden chayne aboute his necke, & set hym vpon the best charet that he had, saue one. And they cryed before him: Bowe the knee, and Pharaon made hym ruler ouer all the lande of Egypte. And Pharaon sayde vnto Joseph: I am Pharaon, without the shall no man lyfte vp his hande or foote in all the lande of Egypt.

And he called Josephs name zaphnath Paena. And he gaue hym to wyfe Asnath the daughter of Putiphar preste of On. Then wente Joseph abrode in the lande of Egypte. And he was thyrty yere olde when he stode before Pharaon kyng of Egypte. And Joseph departyng from the presence of Pharaon, went thorowout all the lande of Egypte. And in the seven plenteous yeres they made sheues and gathered vp all the foode of the seven plenteous yeres whiche were in the lande of Egypte, and layed vp the same in the cyties. The foode of the felde that grewe round about euery cytie, layed he vp in the same. And Joseph layed vp corne in store, lyke vnto the sande of the see in multitude out of measure, vntill he left nombryng: for it was without nombre. And vnto Joseph were borne two sonnes (before the yere of hungre came) whiche Asnath the daughter of Putiphar preste of On bare vnto hym. And Joseph called the name of the fyrste sonne * Manasse, for God (sayde he) hath made me forget all my labour and all my fathers householde. The name of the seconde called he Ephraim, for God (sayde he) hath caused me to growe in the lande of my trouble.

And when the seven yeres of plenteousnesse was in the lande of Egypt were ended, then came the seven yeres of * deth accordyng as Joseph had sayde. And the deth was in all landes: but in all the lande of Egypte was there yet foode. And when the lande of Egypt also bega to hunger, the people cryed to Pharaon for breed. And Pharaon sayde vnto all the Egyptians: go vnto Joseph, and what he sayth to you, that do. And the deth was thorowout all the lande. And Joseph opened all that was in the cyties, and solde vnto the Egyptians. For the hungre waxed sore in the lande of Egypte. And all countreys came to Egypte to Joseph for to bye corne, because the hungre was so sore in all landes.

The .xlii. Chapter:

Josephs brethren come into Egypt to bye corne. And he knoweth them, and tryeth them. Symeon is put in prison the other returne to their father to let Benjamin. His father is loth to let hym go, but at the last he graunteth it.

And Jacob setyng that there was corne in Egypt, sayde vnto his sonnes: why gaze ye one vpon another? And he sayd: beholde, I haue herde that there is corne in Egypt. * Get you downe thither and bye vs corne fro thence, that we maye lyue and not dye. So wente Josephs ten brethren downe to bye corne of the Egyptians. But Benjamin Josephs brother wolde not Jacob sende with his other brethren, for he sayde, lest some mysfortune happen hym. And the sonnes of Israel came to bye corne amonge other that came, for there was deth in the land of canaan. And Joseph was gouerner in the lande and solde to all the people of the lande. And his brethren came, and fell flat on the grounde before hym. When Joseph sawe his brethren, he knewe them: and made him selfe straunge vnto them, and spake roughlye vnto them, sayinge: Whence come ye? They answered: out of the land of Canaan, to bye vytayle. And Joseph knewe his brethren, but they knewe not hym.

And Joseph remembred his dreames which he dreamed of them, and sayde vnto them: ye are spyes, and to se where the land is weake is your commynge. And they sayde vnto hym: naye my lord, but to bye vytayle thy seruantes are comen. We are all one mans sonnes, and meane truly, and thy seruantes are no spyes. And he sayde vnto them agayne: naye, but euen to se where the lande is weake, is your commynge. And they sayde sayde: we thy seruantes are twelue brethren, the sonnes of one man in the lande of Chanaan. And beholde, the pongest is this daye with our father, and one nontan woteth where he is. And Joseph sayde vnto them, that is it that I spake vnto you, saying: ye are spyes. Hereby ye shal be proued. By the lyfe of Pharao, ye shall not go hence, except your pongest brother come hyther. Sende out one of you which maye fet your brother, and ye shall be kepte in prison, that your wordes maye be proued, whether there be anye truthe in you: or els by the lyfe of Pharao ye are but spyes. And he put them in warde thre dayes.

C And Joseph sayd vnto them the thyrde daye: This do and lyue, for I feare God. If ye meane no hurte, let one of your brethren be bounde in the house of your prison, and go ye and bringe the necessarye foode vnto your householdes, but bringe your pongest brother vnto me: that your wordes maye be tryed, and that ye dye not. And they dyd so. And one sayde to another: we haue verely synned agaynst oure brother, in that we sawe the anguish of his soule when he besought vs, and we wolde not heare hym: and therfore is this trouble come vpon vs. And Ruben answered them, saying: sayde I not vnto you that ye shoulde not synne agaynst the ladde: and ye wolde not heare. And se his bloude is requyred.

D They were not aware that Joseph vnderstode them, for he spake vnto them by an interpreter. And he turned from them and wepte, and turned to them agayne and comuned with them, & toke out Simeon from amonge them, & bounde hym befoze they eyes, and Joseph commaunded to fyl thyr sakes with cozne, and to put euery mans money in his sacke, and to gyue them vnto the waye. And thus dyd he vnto them. And they laded they asses with the E cozne, and departed thence. And as one of them opened his sacke for to gyue his asse prouandze in þe inne, he espyed his money: for it was in his sakes mouth. And he sayde vnto his brethren: my money is restored me agayne. For lo, it is euē in my sacke. And they her te sayled them, & they were astonnyed, and sayd one to another: why hath God dealete thus with vs? And they came vnto Jacob they father vnto the lande of Chanaan, and tolde hym all that had happened them, saying: The man, euē the lord of þe lande spake roughly to vs and toke vs for spyes of the countre. And we sayd vnto hym: we meane truly, and are no spyes. We be twelue brethren and sonnes of our father, one is awaye, and the pongest is this daye with our father in the lande of Chanaan. And the lord of the countre sayd agayne vnto vs: herby shal I knowe if ye meane truly: leaue one of your brethren here with me, and take fode necessary for your householdes and get you awaye, and bring your pongest brother vnto me, that I maye knowe if ye are no spyes, but meane truly: So wyll I deliuer you your brother, and ye shall occuppe in the lande.

F And it fortunēd as they emptyed they sakes, beholde, euery mannes bundel of money was in his sacke. And when both they and they father sawe the bundels of money, they were afrayed: And Jacob they father sayde vnto them: What haue ye robbed of my chyldren: Joseph is awaye and Simeon is awaye, and ye take Ben Jamin awaye: All these thynges are agaynst me. Ruben sayd vnto his father: Slap my two sonnes if I bringe hym not to the agayne. Deliuere hym to my hande, & I wyll bringe hym to the agayne. And he sayde: my sonne shal not go downe with you. For his brother is deed, and he is left alone. If some mysfortune happen vnto hym by the waye whiche ye go, ye shall bringe my graye hecd with sorowe vnto the graue.

The. xliii. Chapter.

C When Ben Jamin was brought, they returned with spyces. Simeon is deliuered oute of prison. Joseph goeth asyde and wepeth. They strait together.

And the dertth was great in þe lande.

And it fortunēd when they had eaten vnto þe cozne which they brought out of the lande of Egypt, they father sayde vnto them: go agayne, and brye vs a lytle foode. Juda answered hym, & sayde: the man dyd testifye vnto vs, saying: loke that ye se not my face except your brother be with you. If thou wyll sende our brother with vs, we wyll go downe, and by the foode. But if thou wyll not sende hym, we wyll not go downe: for the man sayde vnto vs: loke that ye se not my face, except your brother be with you.

Gen. xliii. d

B And Israel sayde: wherfore delt ye so cruelly with me, as to tell the man that ye had yet a brother? They answered: The mā asked vs straitlye of our kinred saying: is your father yet aliue? haue ye not yet an other brother? And we tolde hym accordyng to these wordes. Coude we knowe that he wolde saye: bringe your brother downe with you? Then sayd Juda vnto Israel his father: Sende the lad with me, that we maye ryse and go, and that we may lyue and not dye: both we & thou, and also our chyldren. I wyll be suretye for hym, of myne handes shalt thou requyre hym. If I bringe hym not to the agayne, and set hym befoze thyne eyes, then lette me beare the blame for euer. Truly except we had made this taryng, by this, we had bene there twyse, and come agayne. And they father Israel sayd vnto them: If it must nedes be so now: thā do thus. Take of the best frutes of the lande in your vessels, and bringe the man a present, a curtesye of batolme, & a curtesie of hony, spyces & myrr, nuttes and almondes. And take double money in your hande. And the moneye þe was brought agayne in your sakes, take it agayne with you lest peraduenture it was som ouersyght.

gen. xliiii. s

D Take also your brother with you, and aryse, and go agayne to the man. And God almighty gyue you mercye in the sight of the man, that he maye deliuer you your other brother, and this Ben Jamin, and I shal be robbed of my chyldre, as I haue bene. Thus toke they the present and twyse so moch more money in they hande with Ben Jamin: and rose vp, went downe to Egypt and stode befoze Joseph. When Joseph sawe Ben Jamin with them, he sayde to the ruler of his house: bringe these men home and slaye and make make redye, for the men shall dyne with me at noone. And the man dyd as Joseph hadde, and brought them vnto Josephs house. When the men were brought into Joseph house, they were afrayed, and sayde: bycause of the moneye that came in our sakes mouthes at the fyrste tyme are we brought in, that he maye pycke a quarel with vs, and to laye some thyng to our charge and to byng vs in bondage and our asses also. Therfore came they to the man that was the ruler ouer Josephs house, and comuned with him at the doore of the house, and sayde.

E Oh sye, we came downe hyther at the fyrste tyme to bye foode: and as we came to an Inne it happened þ we opened our sakes, and beholde, euerymans * money was in his sake with full weicht. And we haue brought it agayne in our hande, and other moneye haue we brought also in oure handes to bye foode, but we can not tell who put our money in our sakes. And he sayd: peace be vnto you, feare not: youre God and the God of youre father hath gyuen you that treasure in your sakes, I had your moneye. And he brought Symeon out to them, and the man led them to Josephs house, and gaue them water to wash theyr feet, and gaue theyr asses prouander. And they made redy theyr present agaynst Joseph came at none, for they hearde saye that they shulde eate breed there. When Joseph came home, they broughte the presente into the house to hym which was in theyr handes, and fell flat on the grounde before hym. And he welcomed them curteously saying: is your father that olde man which ye tolde me of in good health: and is he yet alpye: they answered: thy seruauant our father is in good helth, and is yet alpye. And they bowed downe theyr breddes, & made obeysaunce.

E And he lyftynge vp his eyes, behelde his brother Ben Jamin his mothers sonne, and sayde: Gene. xlii. e * is this your yonger brother, of whom ye sayd vnto me: And he sayde: God be mercifull vnto the my sonne. And Joseph made hast (for * his herte dyd melte vpon his brother) and soughte where to wepe and entred into his chambze, and wepte there. And he washed his face, and came out, and refrayned hym selfe, and sayd: let breed on the table. And they prepared for hym by hym selfe and for them by themselves, & for the Egyptians which dyd eate with hym by themselves, bycause the Egyptians maye not eat breed with the Hebrewes, for that is an abhominacion vnto the Egyptians. And they satte before hym the eldest accordynge vnto the age, and the yongest accordynge vnto his youth. And the men marvailed amonge themselves. And they brought rewardes vnto them from before him: But Ben Jamins part was fye tymes so moch as any of theyr. And they drynking were dronke w him.

C The. xliii. Chapter.

A And he commaunded the ruler of his house saying: fyll the mens sakes w foode, as moch as they can carpe, & put euerymans money in his sake mouth, & put my syluer cup in the sakes mouth of the yongest, & his cozne money also. And he did accordyng to the worde þ Joseph had sayd. And in the moynynge as sone as it was light the men were let go, they & their asses. And whē they were out of the citie & not yet farre awaye, Joseph sayde vnto the ruler of his house: vp & folow after the men, and whē þ dost ouertake them, þ shalte saye vnto them: wherfore haue ye rewarded euil for good: is that not the cup in the which my lord drynketh, and for the which he prophesyeth: ye haue euill done þ ye haue done. And when he ouertoke them, he sayde these same wordes vnto them. And they answered hym: wherfore sayeth my lord suche wordes: God forbpd that thy seruantes shoulde do so: behold, the money which we found in our sakes mouthes, we brought agayne to the out of the lande of Chanaan: howe then shoulde we steale oute of thy lordes house, eyther syluer, or golde: with whome soeuer of thy seruantes it be founde let hym dye, and we also wyl be my lordes bondemen. And he sayde: Nowe also let it be accordynge vnto your wordes: he w whom it is founde, shalbe my seruauant, and ye shal be harmelesse. And at ones euerym man toke downe his sake to the grounde, and euerym man opened his sake. And he searched, and beganne at the eldest and left at the yongest. And the cup was founde in Ben Jamins sake. Then they rente * theyr clothes, and laded euerym man his asse, & went agayne vnto the cytie: And Juda and his brethren came to Josephs house, for he was yet there, and they fell before hym on the grounde. And Joseph sayd vnto them: what dede is this whiche ye haue done: wote ye not þ suche a man as I can prophesy: Then sayde Juda: what shal we say vnto my lord: what shal we speake or what excuse can we make: God hath founde out the wyckednesse of thy seruantes. Behold both we and he with whom the cuppe is founde are my lordes seruantes. And he answered. God forbpd that I shulde do so, but the man w whom the cup is founde, he shalbe my seruauant. And go ye in peace vnto your father.

E Then Juda wēt vnto hym and sayd: Oh my lord, let thy seruauant speake a worde in my lordes eares, and be not wroth with thy seruauant, for thou arte euen as Pharao. My lord asked his seruauant, saying: haue ye a father or a brother. And we answered my lord * we haue a father that is olde, and a younge lad which he begat in his age: and the brother of the sayde lad is deed, and he is all that is left of that mother. And his father loueth hym. And thou saydest vnto thy seruantes: byng hym vnto me, that I maye set myne eye vpon hym. And we answered my lord, þ the lad coulde not go from his father, for yf he shoulde leaue his father, he were but deed. Then saydest thou vnto thy seruantes * except your yonger brother come with you loke that ye se my face nomore. And when we came vnto thy seruauant our father, we shewed hym what my lord had sayde: And our father If sayde vnto vs: God agayne, and bye vs a lytle foode. And we answered: we can not go downe. Neuerthe-

Remembrethe: of our yongest brother go wyth vs, then wyll we go downe, for we maye not se the mannes face, excepte our yongest brother be wyth vs. And thy seruaunt our father sayd vnto vs: ye knowe that my wyfe bare me two sonnes. And the one wente out from me, and I said of a surety he is tozme in pces, and I sawe him not sence. And ye take this also awaye from me. If some mysfortune happen vnto hym, *ye shal brynge my graue head in sorowe vnto my graue.

Nowe therfore, when I come to thy seruaut my father, and the lad be not wyth vs (seynge þe hys lyfe hageth by the laddes lyfe) then shall it come to passe, that as soone as he seeth that the lad is not come, he wyll dye. So shal we thy seruantes *brynge the gray hedde of thy seruante our father wyth sorowe vnto the graue. For I thy seruant became suerte for the ladde before my father and sayde: *yf I brynge hym not vnto the agayne, I wyll beare the blame vnto my father all my lyfe longe. Nowe therfore let me thy seruant byde here for the lad, and be my lordes bondman: and let the lad go vp wyth his brethren. For how can I go vp to my father, yf the lad be not wyth me: onlesse I wolde se the wretchednes that shal come on my father.

The. xlv. Chapter.

Joseph maketh hym selfe knowne vnto hys brethren, and sendeth for hys father.

Joseph could no longer refrayne before all them that stode by hym.

Wherfore he cryed: brynge forth all the men from me. And there remayned no man with hym whyle Joseph vntered him selfe vnto his brethren. And he wept alowde, so that the Egyptians, and the house of Pharaos herde it. And Joseph sayde vnto his brethren: I am Joseph, doth my father yet lyue? And his brethren could not answere hym, they were so abashed at hys presence. And Joseph sayde vnto his brethren: come nere to me, & they came neare. And he sayde: *I am Joseph your brother *whome ye solde into Egypte. Nowe therfore be not greued therwyth, neyther let it seme a cruell thyng in youre eyes, that ye solde me hyther. For God dyd sende me before you to saue lyfe. *For this is the seconde yere of dert in the lande, and fyue mo are behynde in which there shall neyther be earynge nor harvest.

Wherfore God sente me before you to make prouision, that ye myghte continue in the earth and to saue your lyues by a great deliuerance. So nowe it was not you that sente me hyther, but God: whiche hath made me a father vnto Pharaos: and Lord of all hys house, and ruler thowowe out all the lande of Egypte. Haste you and goo vp to my father and tell hym. Thy sayeth thy sonne Joseph: God hath made me Lord of all Egypte. Come downe therfore vnto me, tarpe not. And thou shalt dwell in the lande of Golan: and byde by me, thou and thy chyldren, and thy chyldrens chyldren: thy shepe and thy beastes, and all that thou haste. And there wyll I make prouision for the, for there remayne yet fyue yeres of dert, lest thou and thy household and all that thou haste come to poertye. And beholde, youre eyes do se, and the eyes also of my brother Ben Jamin: that myne owne mouth speaketh to you. Therfore tell my father of all my honoure in Egypte, and of all that ye haue sene, and make haste, and brynge my father hyther. And he fell on hys brother Ben Jamins necke and wepte, and Ben Jamin wept on hys necke. Moreover he kyssed all hys brethren and wepte vpon them. And after that hys brethren talked wyth hym. And the tydynes came vnto Pharaos house, so that they said Josephs brethren are come, and it pleased Pharaos well and all hys seruantes.

And Pharaos spake vnto Joseph: saye vnto thy brethren, thys do ye: lade youre beastes and get you hence, vnto the lande of Canaan. Take your father, and your householdes: and come vnto me, and I wyll geue you the good of the land of Egypte, and ye shal eate of the fat of the lande. And thou also shalt commaunde them. Thys do ye: take charrettes wyth you out of the lande of Egypte, for youre chyldren and for your wyues: and brynge your father, and come. Also regarde not youre stuffe, for the good of al the lande of Egypte is yours.

And the chyldren of Israell dyd euen so. And Joseph gaue them charrettes accordynge to the commaundemente of Pharaos, and gaue them vyttayle also to spede by the waye. And he gaue vnto eche of them chaunge of rayment: But vnto Ben Jamin he gaue thre hundred peces of syluer, and fyue chaunge of rayment. And vnto hys father he sent after ysame maner ten asses laden wyth good out of Egypte, and ten she asses laden wyth corne, bread and meate: for his father by the waye. So sente he hys brethren a way to departe. And he sayde vnto them: se that ye fall not out by the waye.

They departed therfore from Egypte, and came into the lande of Canaan vnto Jacob theyr father, and tolde hym sayinge: Joseph is yet alyue and is gouernour ouer al the lande of Egypt. And Jacobs herte wauered: for he beleued them not. And they tolde hym all the wordes of Joseph whych he had sayde vnto them. And when he sawe the charrettes, whych Joseph had sent to carpe hym, the sprete of Jacob theyr father renoued. And Israell sayde: I haue ynough that Joseph my sonne is yet alyue: I wyll go & se hym yet that I dye.

And yf it chaunce that Pharaos cal you, and aske you, what your occupation is, ye shal answer, thy seruantes haue bene men occupied aboute cattel, from our chylidhode vnto this tyme we & our father, that ye may dwell in the lande of Gosan. For euer ye keper is an abhominacion vnto the Egyptians.

The. xlii. Chapter.

¶ Jacob semmeth before Pharaos, and vnto hym is geuen the lande of Gosan. He maketh hys soules to shewe for hys burpall.

Joseph came therfore & told Pharaos & sayd: my father and my byethren theyr shepe and theyr oren, and all that they haue, are come out of the lande of Canaan, and beholde: they are in the lande of Gosan. And Joseph toke of the hymnost of hys byethren: euen syue men, and presented them vnto Pharaos. And Pharaos sayd vnto hys byethren: what is your occupation? And they answered Pharaos: shepherdes are thy seruantes, bothe we and also our father. They sayd moreover vnto Pharaos: for to * logeorne in the lande are we come, for thy seruants haue no pasture for theyr shepe, so soze is the famyshment in the lande of Canaan. Now therfore let thy seruantes dwell in the lande of Gosan.

And Pharaos sayd vnto Joseph: thy father & thy byethren are come vnto the. The lade of Egypt is before the: In the best place of the lade make both thy father & thy byethren dwell: euen in the lande of Gosan let them dwell: Moreover yf thou knowest any man of actiuite amonge the make them rulers ouer my cattel. And Joseph brought in Jacob hys father, and set him before Pharaos. And Jacob blessed Pharaos.

And Pharaos said vnto Jacob: how olde art thou? And Jacob sayde vnto Pharaos: the dayes of my pylgrimage are an hundred and thyrty yeres. Fewe and euell haue the dayes of my lyfe bene, and haue not attayned vnto y yeres of the lyfe of my fathers, in the dayes of theyr pylgrimages. And Jacob blessed Pharaos and went out from hym. And Joseph prepared dwellinges for his father and his byethren, & gaue them possessions in the lande of Egypt, in the beste of the lande: euen in the lande of Ramesses, as Pharaos had commaunded. And Joseph made promysyn for his father, hys byethren: and al hys fathers household with bycad, euen as yonge chyliden are fedde. There was no bycade in al the lande, for the derth was excedyng soze: so that the lande of Egypt and the lande of Canaan, were famyshe by the reason of the dearth. And Joseph broughte together all the money that was founde in the lande of Egypt, and of Canaan, for the corne whiche they bought, and he layde vnto the money in Pharaos house. When money fayled in the lade of Egypt, & of Canaan all the Egyptians came vnto Joseph and sayde gyue vs bycade: wherfore sufferest thou vs to dye dye before the when our money is spent: Then sayde Joseph: bypunge youre catell, and I wyll geue you for your catell, yf ye be without money And they brought their catell vnto Joseph. And Joseph gaue them breade for horses & shepe and oxen, & asses, and fed them wth breade, for all theyr catell that yere. But whē y^r yere was ended, they came vnto hym the next yere, & sayde vnto hym we wyll not hyde it frome my lord howe that our money is spent, my lord also had oure catell and beastes, nether is there ought left in the syght of my lord, but euen our bodys and our landes. Wherefore lettest y^e vs dye before thyne eyes, & the lande to go to nought: bye vs and our landes for breade: and both we & our landes wyl be bounde to Pharao. Only gyue vs sēde, y^e we maye lyue and not dye, & that the lāde go not to wast. And so Joseph bought al y^e lāde of Egypt for Pharao. For the Egyptians solde euery man his lande because the derty was sore vpon them and so the lande became Pharaos. And he appoynted the people vnto y^e cyties, from one syde of Egypte vnto the other: onely the lande of the Prestes bought he not. For the prestes had an ordynance of Pharao, y^e they shoulde eate that which was appointed vnto them: whych Pharao had geuen thē wherfore they solde not their landes. Then Joseph sayde vnto the folke: beholde I haue bought you this daye & your lande for Pharao. Take there breade and sēde & sowe the lande. And of the encrease, ye shall geue the fyfte parte vnto Pharao, and foure partes shall be your owne, for the sēde of y^e felde and for you, and them of your householdes, and for your chyldren to eate. And they answered: Thou hast saued our lyues. Let vs fynde grace in the syght of my lord, and we wyl be Pharaos seruauntes.

And Israel dwelte in Egypt: euen in the cōtrey of Golan. And they had theyr possessions therin, and grewe and multiplied exceedynge. Moreover, Jacob lyued in the lande of Egypte seuentene yeres, so that the whole age of Jacob was an hundred and. xliiij. yere. Whē the tyme drew nē that Israel must dye, he sente for his sonne Joseph, and sayde vnto hym: Yf I haue founde grace in thy syght, Oh, put thy hāde now vnder my thigh, and deale mercifully & truly with me, that y^e burye me not in Egypte, but I wyll lye with my fathers, & thou shalt carie me out of Egypte, & burye me in theyr burial. And he answered: I wyll do as y^e hast sayde. And he sayde: Swere vnto me, and he swore vnto hym. And Israel worshipped toward the beds head.

¶ After these dedes it happened, that a messenger sayde vnto Joseph: thy father is sycke. And he toke with him his two sonnes, Manasses and Ephraim. Then was it said vnto Jacob, beholde: thy sonne Joseph cometh vnto the. And Israel toke his strength vnto him and sat vpon the bed, and Jacob sayd vnto Joseph: God almyghty appered vnto me at * Lus in the lande of Canaan, and blessed me and sayd vnto me: behold, I wyll make the growe, & wyll multiply the, and wyll make a greates nombre of people of the, and wyll gyue this lande vnto thy sēde after the to an everlastynge possession. And now thy two sonnes Manasses & Ephraim whych were borne vnto the in the lāde of Egypte, before I came to y^e into Egypt, are myne euen as Ruben and Simeon are myne. And the chyldren whych y^e hast gotten after them, shall be thyn owne, and shall be called after the names of theyr brethren in theyr inheritaunce. And when I came from Mesopotamia, Rachel dyed vpon my hāde in y^e lande of Canaan, by y^e waye when there was but a felde's breadth to come vnto Ephraim. And I buried her there in the way to Ephraim. The same is Bethlehem. And Israel behelde Josephs sonnes and sayde: what are these? Joseph sayde vnto his father, they are my sonnes whych God hath geuen me here. And he sayd oh, bringe them to me & let me blesse them. And the eyes of Israel were dym for age, so that he coulde not well se. And he brought them to him and he kysed them and embraced them. And Israel sayde vnto Joseph: I had not thoughte to haue sene thy face, and yet lo, God hath shewed it me, and also thy sēde, and Joseph toke them a waye from his lap, & worshipped on the ground before hym. Then toke Joseph thē both: Ephraim wth his ryght hāde toward Israels left hande and Manasses wth his left hāde, toward Israels ryght hāde, & brought them vnto hym. And Israel stretched out his ryght hande, & layde it on Ephraims hed, which was the yonger, & his left hande vpon Manasses head, gyddynge his hādes wylsely for Manasses was y^e elder. And he blessed Joseph & sayd: God before whō my fathers Abraham and Isahac dyd walke. God whych hath fed me al my lyfe lōge vnto this day, & the angel whych hath deliuered me from all euell, blesse the laddes, & let my name be named in thē, and the name of my fathers Abraham & Isahac and y^e they may grow into a multitude in y^e myddes of the earth. When Joseph saw y^e his father layd his ryght hāde vpon y^e head of Ephraim, it displeased him. And he lifted vp his fathers hāde to haue remoued it fro Ephraims hed vnto Manasses hed: & Joseph said vnto his father: not so my father for this is y^e eldest. Put thy right hāde vpon his hed. And his father wold not, but said c ii I knowe

I knowe it well my sonne, I knowe it well. He shall be also a people and shall be great. But his younger brother shall be greater then he, and his seed shall be full of people. And he blessed them in daye and sayde: In the, let Israel blesse and say God make the as Ephraim before Manasses. And Israel sayd vnto Joseph: beholde, I dye. And God shall be with you & bringe you againe vnto the lande of your fathers. Moreover, I haue giuen vnto the, a porcion of a lande aboue thy brethren, whych I gat out of the hande of the Amorite in my swearde, and in my bowe.

Whiche felde Abraham bought of Ephron the Hethite for a possession to bury in, where as were buried Abraham and Sara his wife. And where as were buried Isachar and Rebecca his wife. And Ioseph returned into Egypte agayne, he and hys brethzen (and all that wente vp wyth hym to burpe hys father) allone as he had buried hym.

And when Iosephs brethzen sawe that they: father was deade, they layde: Ioseph myghte fortune to hate vs and rewarde vs agayne all the euell which we dyd vnto hym. And they dyd a comāndement vnto Ioseph, sayng: Thy father charged vs before his death, sayng: This wyle shall ye say vnto Ioseph: for geue (I pray the) the trespase of thy brethzen, & they: synne: for they rewarded the euell. And nowe (we pray the) for geue the trespase of the seruautes of thy fathers God. And Ioseph wepte, when they spake vnto hym.

For hys brethzen came vnto hym, and fell flatte before his face sayng: behold, we be thy seruautes. To whome Ioseph sayde: feare not. Am I God? Ye thought euell agaynst me: but God turned it vnto good, to bringe to passe as it is this daye, and to saue much people alpyue. Feare not therfaze. Nowe I wyll nozyshe you, and your chylzen, and he comforted them, and spake kyndly vnto them.

Ioseph dwelt in Egypte, he and his fathers house, and Ioseph lyued an hundred and ten yere. And Ioseph sawe Ephraims chylzen, euen vnto the thyrde generacion. And vnto Machir the sonne of Manasses were chylzen borne, on Iosephs knees. And Ioseph sayd vnto hys brethzen: I dye. And God wyll surely vylet you, and byngne you out of thys lande, vnto the lāde whych he sware vnto Abraham, Isabac, and Jacob. And Ioseph toke an oth of the children of Israel, sayng: God wyll not fayle but vylet you, and ye shall carry my bones hence.

And so Ioseph dyed, when he was an hundred & ten yere olde. And they embawmed hym wyth spycer, putynge hym in a chest in Egypt.

The fyrst Chapter.

The chylzen of Jacob are nombred. The newe Pharaos oppressed them. The acte of the godlye wyues.

These are the names of the chylzen of Israel, whych came to Egypt wyth Jacob every man came w hys housholde: Ruben, Simeon, Leui, and Iuda, Issachar & Benjamin, Dan, Nephthali, Gad, & Astar. All the soules that came out of the loynes of Jacob were. lxx. But Ioseph was in Egypte already. And Ioseph dyed and al hys brethzen, and all y generacion, and the chylzen of Israel grewe, encreased, multipliyed, and wared excedyng myghty: and the lande was full of them.

But there rose vp a newe kynge in Egypte, whych knewe not Ioseph. And he sayd vnto hys folke: beholde, the people of the chylzen of Israel are greater and myghtyer the we. Come on, let vs play wylely wyth them, lest they multiplie, and lest it happen, that (yf there chaunce any warre) they loyne them selues vnto our enmyes, and fyght agaynst vs, & so get them out of the lande. Therfore dyd they set taskemasters ouer them, to kepe them vnder wyth burdens. And they buylt vnto Pharaos treasure cyties: Pithon and Rameses. But the more they vered them, the more they multipliyed & grewe so that they abhorred the chylzen of Israel. And the Egyptians helde the chylzen of Israel in bondage wythout mercye. Therfore was they: lyfe bytter vnto them in that cruell bondage, in clay and byrche, and al maner of worke in the feldes. For al they: bondage whych they serued them, was full of tyranny.

And the kynge of Egypt sayd vnto the mydwyes of the hebrues women, of whych y ones name was Sephora and the other Phua, wher ye do the office of a mydwye to the woman of y hebrues & le in the byrth tyme that it is a boye ye shall kill it. But if it be a doughter, it shall liue. Notwythstandyng y mydwyes feared God, & dyd not as y kynge of Egypte comāunded them but saued the men chylzen. And the kynge of Egypt called for the mydwyes, & sayde vnto the wher haue ye delt on thys maner, & haue saued y men chylzen? And y mydwyes answered Pharaos, that the hebrues women are not as the we-men of Egypte: for they are sturdy women, and are deliuered yet the myddowes come at them. And God therfore delt wel wth þe myddowes. And the people multiplied & waxed very mighty. And it fortuned because the myddowes feared God, he made them houses. And Pharaos charged all hys people, saying: All the men chyl dren that are bozne cast into the ryuer, and save the maydchyl dren alpye.

The.ii. Chapter.

And there wente a mā of *the house of Leui. And toke a daughter of Leui. And the wyfe conceaued & bare a sonne. And whē the saw that it was a proper chylde *he byd him thze monethes. And when she coulde no lenger byde hym, she toke a basked of bulrushes & dau bed it with syme and pytch, and layde þe chylde therein, & put it in the flaggis by þe ryuer bynke. And his syster stode a fawot to wete what wold come of it. *And the daughter of Pharaos came downe *to washe her selfe in the ryuer, and her maydens walked alonge by the ryuers syde.

And when she sawe the basket amonge the flaggis: she sente her mayde to fatche it. And when she had opened it, she sawe it was a chylde: and beholde, the babe wepte. And she had compas sion on it, and sayde: it is one of the Hebzeues chyl dren. Then sayde his syster vnto Pharaos daughter: Wall I goo and call vnto the a nurse of the Hebzeues women to nurse the the chylde? Pharaos daughter answered her: Go. And the mayde ranne and called the chylde's mother. To whome Pharaos daughter sayde. Take thys chylde a way, and nurse it for me, I wyl reward the. And the woman toke the chylde and nursed it vp. The chylde grewe, and she brought it vnto Pharaos daughter, & it was made her sonne, & she called þe name of it Moses, because (sayde she) I toke hym out of the water. And it hap pened in thole dayes, when Moses was waxed great, that he wente out vnto hys brethren & lo ked on theyr burthens, and spied an Egyptian smytynge an Hebzeue whych was one of his bre thren. And he looked rounde about, and when he sawe no man by, he slew the Egyptian, and byd hym in the sande. And when he was gone out a nother dape, beholde: two Hebzeues stroue toge ther. And he sayd vnto hym that byd the wyge wherfore smyttest thou thy felowe? He answered: *who made the a man of authorite to iudge vs? Speakest thou to kyll me, as thou kyledst the Egyptian? And Moses feared and sayde: of a surtye thys thyng is knowen: And Pharaos herde of it, and went aboute to slaye Moses:

And Moses flyng from the face of Pharaos, dwelt in the lande of Midian, and he sat downe by a wellles syde. The preest of Midian had se uen daughters whyche came and drew water, and fylled the troughes, for to water theyr fa thers shepe. And the shepherdes came and drew them awaye: but Moses stode vp and helped them, and wattered theyr shepe. And when they came to Raguel theyr father, he sayd: how hap peneth it that ye are come so sone to dape? And they answered: a man of Egypte deliuered vs from the hande of the shepherdes, and so drew vs water, and watered the shepe. He sayde vn to his daughters. And where is he? why haue ye so left the man? Call hym þe he may eate breade. And Moses was content to dwel with the mā.

And he gaue Moses zephora hys daughter, & which when she bare a sonne, *called him Ger son: for he sayde, I haue bene a straunger in a strange lande. * (And she bare yet another sonne, whom he called Eliezer, saying: the God of my father is myne helper and hath red me out of the handes of Pharaos.)

And it chaunced in processe of tyme, that the kynge of Egypte dyed, and the chyl dren of Isra ell syghed be the reason of bondage, and cryed. And theyr complaynt came vp vnto God from the bondage: and God herde theyr mone. And God remembred hys promysse wth Abraham, Isahac and Jacob. And God looked vpon þe chyl dren of Israel, and God had respect vnto them.

The.iii. Chapter.

Moses kepeth shepe. God appeareth vnto hym in a bushe, and sendeth hym to the chyl dren of Israel, and to Pharaos that tyrante.

Moses kepeth the shepe of * Jethro hys father in lawe, preest of Midian, and he drew the flock to the backe syde of the desert, and came to the mountayne of God, Horeb. * And the angell of the Lorde appeared vnto hym in a flame of fyre out of the myddes of a bushe. And he looked, and beholde, þe bushe burned wth fyre, and the bushe was not consumed. Therfore Moses sayde: I wyl go now, and se thys greate syght, howe it cometh that the bushe burneth not. And when the Lorde saw that he came for to se, God called vnto him out of the myddes of the bushe, and sayde: Mo ses, Moses. He answered: here am I. And he sayde: * come not hyther, put thy shoes of thy fete: for the place whereon thou standest is holy grounde. And he sayd: * I am the God of thy fa ther, the God of Abraham, the God of Isahac, and the God of Jacob. And Moses byd hys face for he was afrayde to loke vpon God.

unto the place of the Cananites and Hethites, and Amozites, and Pherezithes, and Heuites, & of the Jebusites. Nowe therefore, the complaynt of the children of Israel is come vnto me, and I haue also sene the oppression wherewith the Egyptians oppresse them. Come thou therefore, and I will sende the vnto Pharaon, that thou mayest brynge my people the chyldren of Israell out of Egypte. And Moses sayd vnto God: what am I to go vnto Pharaon, and to brynge the chyldren of Israell out of Egypte? And he answered: I will be with the. And thys shalbe a token vnto the, that I haue sente the: after that thou hast brought the people out of Egypte, ye shall serue God vpon thys mountayne. And Moses sayde vnto God: beholde, when I come vnto the chyldren of Israel I shall say vnto them: the God of your fathers hath sent me vnto you, and yf they saye vnto me, what is hys name, what answer shall I gyue them? And God answered Moses: I am that I am: and he sayde, thys shalt thou saye vnto the chyldren of Israel: I am hath sent me vnto you. And God spake further vnto Moses: thus shalt thou saye vnto the chyldren of Israel: the Lord God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isahac, and the god of Jacob hath sent me vnto you: this is my name for ever, and this is my memoriall into generacion and generacion. Go and gather the elders of Israel together, and thou shalt say vnto them: the Lord God of poure fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isahac, and the God of Jacob appeared vnto me, and sayd: In visytynge haue I visyted you, and knowe that whych is done to you in Egypte. And I haue sayde, I will brynge you out of the tribulacion of Egypt vnto the lade of the Cananites, and Hethites, and Amozites, and Pherezithes, and Heuites, and Jebusites: euen vnto a land that floweth with mylke and hony. And whē they heare thy voyce then go: both thou and the elders of Israel shall goo vnto the kynge of Egypte, and saye vnto hym: The Lord God of the hebrues hath met with vs: & nowe we will go therfore. vii. dayes iourney into the wyldernesse, and do sacrifice vnto the Lord our God. And I am sure, that the kynge of Egypte will not let you go: no not in a myghtye hande: and I will stretch out myne hande and smyte Egypte with all my wonders whych I will do in the myddest therof. And after that he will let you go. And I will get this people fauoure in the syght of the Egyptians: so that whē ye go, ye shal not go empty: but a wyfe shall bozowe of her neyghbours and of her so-georneth in her house, ierwels of siluer and golde and payment. And ye shal put the on your sons and daughters, and shal robbe the Egyptians.

The. iiii. Chapter:

¶ As Moses receaueth signes of hys callinge & was sent into Egypt. His wyfe zephora circumcised her son. Aaron meteth with Moses. Moses taketh hys leaue of hys father in lawe.

Moses answered and sayde: Se, they will not beleue me, noz herken vnto my voyce: but will saye, the Lord hath not appeared vnto the. And the Lord sayd vnto hym: what is that which is in thy hande: he answered a rodde. And he sayd: cast it on the groude. And he cast it on the groude and it became a serpent. And Moses fled from the syght of it. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: put forth thyne hande & take it by the tayle. And therfore he put forth hys hande and caught it, and it became a rodde in hys hande. For thys thyng (sayeth he) shall they beleue the, that the Lord God of they fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isahac, and the God of Jacob hath appeared vnto the.

And the Lord sayde forthermore vnto hym: thrust thyne hande into thy bosome. And he thrust his hande into his bosome. And when he toke it out agayne, beholde: his hande was lyeuous euen as snowe. And he sayd: put thyne hand into thy bosome agayne. And he put hys hande into hys bosome agayne, and plucked it oute of hys bosome, and beholde, it was turned againe as hys other fleshe. Therfore yf they wyl not beleue the, nether heare the voyce of the fyrst tokē yet will they beleue for the voyce of the seconde token. But and yf they wyl not beleue the two sygnes, nether herken vnto thy voyce, thou shalt take of the water of the ryuer, and powre it vpon the drye lande. And the water whych thou takest out of the ryuer, shall turne to bloude vpon the drye lande.

Moses sayd vnto the Lord: oh my Lord, I am not eloquente from yester day and yester daye, and namely sence thou hast spoken vnto thy seruaunt: but I am slow mouthed and slow tugged. And the Lord sayd vnto hym: who hath made mans mouth, or who hath made the dome or the deafe, the syenge or the blynde: haue not I the Lord? Therfore I will be with thy mouth and teache the what thou shalt saye. He sayde: oh my Lord, sende I praye the by the hande of hym whome thou wilt sende. And the Lord was angrie with Moses, and sayde: Do not I knowe Aaron thy brother the Leuyte, that he can speake? For lo, he commeth forth to mete the, and when he seyth the, he will be glad in hys herte. Therfore thou shalt speake vnto hym and put these wordes in hys mouth, and I will be with thy mouth and with his mouth, and wil teache you what ye ought to do. And he shalbe thy spokesman vnto the people: he also shall be thy mouth and thou shalt be hys God: and thou shalt take this rod in thy hande, wherewith thou shalt do myracles. Therfore Moses went and returned to Jethro hys father in lawe agayne, and sayd vnto hym: I wyl go nowe, and turne agayne vnto my brethren which are in Egypte and se whether they be yet alyue. And Jethro sayde to Moses, goo in peace. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses in Midian: goo and returne agayne into Egypte, for they are deade which wente aboute to kyll the. And Moses toke hys wyfe, and hys sonnes, and put them on an asse, and wente agayne to Egypte, and Moses toke the rod of God in hys hande. And the Lord said vnto Moses: When thou arte entred and come into Egypte againe, se that thou do al these wordes.

Exod. i. c. ders before Pharaoh, whiche I haue put in thy hande: but I wyl holde * his herte, and he shall not let the people go: And thou shalt saye vnto Pharaoh, thus sayeth the Lorde: Israel is myne eldest sonne, and I haue sayd vnto the that thou shuldest let my sonne go, that he maye serue me. And thou woldest not let him go, behold, I wyl * sle thyne eldest sonne.

Exod. xii. c.

And it chaunced by the way in the Iune that the Lorde met hym, and wolde haue kylled hym. And Zephora toke a stone, and cut away the fore skynne of her sonne, and fell at his fete, and sayd a bloudy husbunde arte thou vnto me. Then he let hym go. And she sayd a bloudy husband, because of the circumcision. Then sayd the Lorde vnto Aaron: go mete Moses in the wyldernes. And he went and met hym in the mount of God and kylled hym. And Moses tolde Aaron al the wordes of the Lorde which had sent him, and all the tokens whych he had charged hym wythal. So wente Moses and Aaron, and gathered all the elders of the chyldren of Israel. And Aaron tolde al the wordes which the Lorde had spoken vnto Moses, and dyd the myracles in the syght of the people, and the people beleued. And when they hearde that the Lorde had vylited the chyldren of Israel and had loked vpon theyr tribulation, they bowed theyr heade, and worshipped.

The. v. Chapter.

Moses and Aaron do go vnto Pharaoh. The people of Israel are oppressed more and more, and they crye out vnto Moses and Aaron therfore.

Moses and Aaron went in after ward, and tolde Pharaoh, thus sayth the Lorde god of Israel: Let my people go, that they maye kepe holy daye vnto me in the wyldernes. And Pharaoh sayd: who is the Lorde, that I shulde heare his voyce, and let Israel go? I knowe not the Lorde, neyther wyl I let Israel go. And they sayde: the God of the he bzues hath met wyth vs: and therfore wyl we go thre dayes iourneye in the deserte and sacrifice vnto the Lorde our God: lest there happen vnto vs, ether pestilence or swearde. The sayd the kynge of Egypt vnto them: wherfore do ye (Moses and Aaron) lette the people from theyr worke: get you vnto your labour. And Pharaoh sayd furthermore: beholde, there is muche people nowe in the lande, and ye make them leaue theyr worke. And Pharaoh comaunded the same daye vnto the taskmasters whych were amonge the people and vnto the officers, saying: ye shall geue the people nomore strawe, to make byrche wythal, (as ye dyd in tyme passed,) let them go and gather them strawe them selues, and the nobze of byrche whych they were wonte to make in tyme passed lay vnto their charges also, and inynishe nothyng therof, for they be ydle, and therefore crye, sayinge: we wyl go and do sacrifice vnto our god. They must haue more work layde vpon them, that they may labour therein and not regarde vayne wordes.

Then wente the taskmasters of the people & the officers out: and tolde the people: Thus sayeth Pharaoh: I wyl geue you nomore strawe, go your selues and gather you strawe where ye can fynde it, yet shall none of your labour be mynished. And so were the people scatred abrode thowout al the lade of Egypt: for to gather stubble in steade of strawe. And the taskmasters hastened them forward, saying: fulfyl our worke daye by daye, euen as yf ye had strawe. And the officers of the chyldren of Israel whiche Pharaohs taskmasters had set ouer them, were beaten. And they sayd vnto them: wherfore haue ye not fulfylled your taske in makynge byrche, both yester daye and to daye, as well as in tymes past? The officers also of the chyldren of Israel came and complayned vnto Pharaoh, sayinge: wherfore dealest thou thus wyth thy seruantes? there is no strawe geuen to thy seruantes, and they saye vnto vs: make byrche. And thy seruantes are beaten, & thy people is foule intreated. He sayde, ydell are ye, ydell, and therfore ye saye: We wyl go and do sacrifice vnto the Lorde. So therfore nowe and worke and there shall no strawe be geuen you, and yet shall ye deliuer the whole tale of byrche.

And the officers of the chyldren of Israel dyd wyth heynesse loke on them that sayd: ye shall mynyshe nothyng of your daylye makynge of byrche. And they met Moses and Aaron whych stode in theyr waye as they came out from Pharaoh, and sayde vnto them: The Lorde loke vpon you and iudge you, whych hath made the fauoure of vs syncke in the eyes of Pharaoh and in the eyes of his seruantes: and haue put a swearde in theyr hande to sle vs. Moses returned vnto the Lorde, and sayd: Lorde, wherfore hast thou delt cruelly wyth this people, & wherfore hast thou sent me: for sence I came to Pharaoh to speake in thy name, he hath fared foule wyth this folke, & yet thou hast not deliuered thy people at all. Then the Lorde sayd vnto Moses: Howe shalt thou se, what I wyl do vnto Pharaoh, for in a myghty hande shall he let them go, & in a myghty hande shall he delyue them out of his lande.

The. vi. Chapter.

God promyseth the deliuerance of the Israelites and the lande of Chanaan. The genealogy of Ruben, Simeon, and Levi.

And god spake vnto Moses, & said vnto him: I am the Lorde: I appeared vnto Abraham, Isaac, & Jacob as an almyghty God: & in my name Jehouah, was I not known vnto the. Moreover I made an appointment wth them to geue them the lande of Chanaan: the lade of theyr pilgremage, wherein they were strangers. And I haue also herde the gronyng of the chyldren of Israel, who the Egyptians kepe in bondage, & haue remembred my covenante. Wherfore saye vnto the chyldren of Israel: I am the Lorde, I wyl byynge you oute from the burthens of the Egyptians, and wyl ryd you out of theyr bondage, and wyl deliuer you in a stretched out arme and in greate iudgements. And I wyl take you for my people, and wyl be to you a God. And ye shall knowe that I am the Lorde your God, whiche byynge you out from the burthens of the Egyptians. And I wyl Wyll bring you vnto the lande concernynge the which I wyll lyste vnto myne hande to geue it vnto Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and wyll geue it vnto you for a possession: euen in the Lorde.

And Moses tolde the chyldren of Israel enen so

C But they hearkened not vnto Moses, for angurth of spyrite & for cruel bondage. The Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Go in, and speake vnto Pharaos kynge of Egypte, that he let the chyldren of Israel go out of this lande. And Moses spake before the Lorde, sayinge: beholde, the chyldren of Israel hearken not vnto me; howe then shall Pharaos heare me, whiche am of vncircumcised lippes? And the Lorde spake vnto Moses and vnto Aaron, & gaue them a charge vnto the chyldren of Israel, and vnto Pharaos kynge of Egypte, to bringe the chyldren of Israel out of the lande of Egypte. These be the heedes of theyr fathers houses. The chyldren of Ruben the eldest sonne of Israel at these: Hanoch and Pallu, Hezron and Charmi, these be the householders of Ruben. The chyldren of Simeon Gemuel and Jamin, Othad, and Jachin, Zoar, & Saul the sonne of a Cananite wyfe: these are the kynredes of Simeon. These also are the names of the chyldren of Leui in theyr generacions: Gerson and Cahath and Merari. Leui yued an hundred and thyrty and seuen yere. The sonnes of Gerson: Libni and Semiel by theyr wyues. The chyldren of Cahath, Amram and Ischar, Hebron and Uziel. And Cahath yued an hundred and thyrty and thre yere. The chyldren of Merari: Phaleli and Musi: these are the kynredes of Leui by theyr generacions. Amram toke Jochebed his wyfe, & she bare hym Aaron and Moses: (and Miriam) And Amram yued an hundred and thyrty and seuen yere. The chyldren of Ischar, Korah, Nepheg, and Sichri. The chyldren of Uziel, Elisaphan, and Sichri. And Aaron toke Elizabeth daughter of Aminadab: and she bare hym Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. The chyldren of Korah: Assir, and Elcana, and Abiasaph: These are the kynredes of the Korahytes. Eleazar Aarons sonne toke hym one of the daughters of Putiel to wyfe, whiche bare hym Phinehas, and these are the principall fathers of the Leuytes thowout theyr kynredes. This is that Aaron and Moses to whome the Lorde sayde: cary the chyldren of Israel out of the lande of Egypte, according to theyr armyes. These are that Moses and Aaron which spake to Pharaos kynge of Egypte, that they myght bringe the chyldren of Israel out of Egypte. And in the daye when the Lorde spake vnto Moses in the lande of Egypte he spake vnto hym, sayinge: I am the Lorde, speake thou vnto Pharaos the kynge of Egypte all that I saye vnto the. And Moses sayde before the Lorde: Beholde, I am of vncircumcised lippes, and howe shall Pharaos geue me audience?

The vii. Chapter.

The tokens to knowe God. The rod of Moses is turned to a serpent. The sozcerers do such the same. The waters are turned into bloude.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Behold, I haue made the Pharaos God, and Aaron thy brother shall be thy prophet. Thou shalt speake all that I commaunded the, and Aaron thy brother shall speake vnto Pharaos, that he sende the chyldren of Israel out of his lande. And I wyll harden Pharaos herte, and multiply my myracles and my woddres in the lande of Egypte. But Pharaos shall not hearken vnto you, that I may set myne hande vpon Egypte and bringe out myne armyes and my people & chyldren of Israel out of the lande of Egypte, in greate iudgementes, and the Egyptians shall knowe that I am the Lorde, when I stretch forth my hande vpon Egypte, and bringe out the chyldren of Israel from amonge them.

Moses and Aaron dyd as the Lorde commaunded them, euen so dyd they. Moses was lxxx. yere olde, and Aaron lxxiii. when they spake vnto Pharaos. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron, sayinge: yf Pharaos speake vnto you, saying: shewe a wondre, thou shalt say vnto Aaron: take thy rod and caste it before Pharaos, that it maye be a serpent. Then went Moses and Aaron vnto Pharaos, and dyd euen as the Lorde had commaunded. And Aaron caste forth his rod before Pharaos and before his seruauntes: and it turned to a serpent. Then Pharaos called for the wyse men and enchauntes, and those wyse men of Egypte dyd in lyke manner with theyr sozcery. For they cast downe euery man his rodde, and they turned to serpentes: but Aarons rodde dyde eate vp their rodde: and he hardened Pharaos herte, that he hearkened not vnto them, euen as the Lorde had sayde.

The Lorde also sayde vnto Moses: Pharaos herte is hardened, he refuseth to let the people go. Get the vnto Pharaos in the mornynge, lo, he wyll come vnto the water, and thou shalt stande vpon the ryuers bynke agaynst he come, and the rod whiche turned to a serpent, shalt thou take in thynne hande. And thou shalt saye vnto hym: the Lorde God of the Hebrewes hath sent me vnto the, sayinge: let my people go, that they maye serue me in the wilderness: And behold, hyther to thou woldest not heare. Thus sayeth the Lorde. In this thou shalt knowe that I am the Lorde. Beholde, I wyll smyte (with the staffe that is in myne hande) the water that is in the ryuer & it shall turne to bloude. And the fische that is in the ryuer shall dye, and the ryuer shall styne, and it shall greue the Egyptians to drynke of the water of the ryuer: and the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saye vnto Aaron, take thy staffe, and stretch out thynne hande ouer the waters of Egypte ouer theyr streames, ouer their ryuers and poudes, & all pooles of water whiche they haue, that they maye be bloude, and that there maye be bloude thowout all the lande of Egypte: both in vessels of wood and also of stone. And Moses and Aaron dyd euen as the Lorde commaunded. And he lyfte vp the staffe, and smote the waters that were in the ryuer in the syght of Pharaos, and in the syght of his seruauntes: and all the water that

c. v. was

was in the ryuer, touned into blonde. And the fysh that was in the ryuer dyed, *and the ryuer stanke: and the Egyptians coulde not drynk of the waters of the ryuer. And there was blonde thowout all the lande of Egypte. And the en-chaunters of Egypte dyd lyke wyse with theyr sorceryes: and he hardened Pharaos herte: neyther dyd he herken vnto them *as the Lord had sayde. And Pharaos turned hym selfe, and went agayn into his house & set not his hert ther vnto.
 And the Egyptians dygged rounde about the ryuer for water to drynke, for they could not drynk of the water of the ryuer. And it continued a weke after the Lord had smytten the ryuer.

The viii. Chapter.

The plague of frogges. Moyses prayeth for Pharaos.
 The plague of flies.

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses: Go vnto Pharaos, and tell hym, thus sayth the Lord: *let my people go, & they maye serue me. If thou wilt not let the go: behold, I wyl smite all thy bordre with frogges. And the ryuer shall be full with frogges which shall go vp and come into thyne house: and into thy pryue chambze, where thou slepest, and vpon thy bed, and into the house of thy seruantes, and vpon the people, and into thyne ouens, and vpon thy meates.
 And the frogges shall come vpon the, and on thy people, and vpon all thy seruantes.

When the Lord spake vnto Moyses: saye vnto Aaron: stretche forth thyne hande with thy rod ouer the streames, ouer the ryuers, and ouer the pondes, that thou mayest bring vp frogges vpon the lande of Egypt: And Aaron stretched his hande ouer the waters of Egypte, and the frogges came vp, and couered the lande of Egypt.
 And the sorcerers dyd lyke wyse with theyr sorcery, and brought frogges vp vpon the lande of Egypte. Then Pharaos called for Moyses and Aaron, and sayd: *praye ye vnto the Lord that he maye take awaye the frogges from me: and from my people, and I wyl let the people go, & they maye do sacrifice vnto the Lord. And Moses sayd vnto Pharaos: reioyse thou ouer me and appoynt when I shall praye for the and for thy seruantes, and for thy people, to dryue awaye the frogges from the and thy houses, and & they maye remayne but in the ryuer only. He sayde: to-morowe. And he sayde: euen as thou hast sayde that thou mayest knowe that there is none lyke vnto the Lord our God. And so the frogges shal departe from the and from thy houses, from thy seruantes: and from thy people, and shall re-mayne in the ryuer onely. Moyses and Aaron went out from Pharaos, and Moyses cryed vnto
 the Lord vpon the appoyntmente of frogges, which he had made vnto Pharaos. And the Lord dyd accordynge to the sayinge of Moyses. And the frogges dyed out of the houses, out of the cour-tes and feldes. And they gathered them togy-ther vpon heapes, and the lande stanke of them.

But when Pharaos sawe that he had rest gyuen hym, he hardened his hert, and herkened not vnto them, as the Lord had sayd. And the Lord sayd vnto Moyses: saye vnto Aaron, stretche out thy rodde and smyte the dust of the lande, that it maye turne to lyle thowout all the lande of Egypt. And they dyd so. And Aaron stretched out his hande, and with his rodde he smot the dust of the earth which turned to lyle in men & beastes so that all the duste of the lande touned to lyle, thowout all the lande of Egypt.

And the enchaunters assayed lyke wyse with theyr enchauntmentes to bringe forth lyle, but they coulde not. And the lyle were both vpon men and beastes. Then sayde the enchaunters vnto Pharaos: it is the finger of God. And Pha-raos herte remayned obstynate, and he hearkened not vnto them, euen *as the Lord had sayde.

And the Lord sayde vnto Moyses: ryle vp early in the morning, and stand before Pharaos for he wyl come forth vnto the water, and thou shalt saye vnto him: thus sayeth the Lord: Let my people go, that they maye serue me. Els, if thou wylt not let my people go, beholde, I wyl sende all maner of flies bothe vpon the and thy seruantes, and thy people, and into thy houses.
 And the houses of the Egyptians shalbe full of flies, and the grounde whereon they are. And the lande of *Gosan where my people are, wyl be cause to be wondrousfull in that daye: so that there shal no flies be there. Whereby thou shal knowe that I am the Lord in the myddes of the earth.
 And I wyl put a deuysion betwene my people and thyne. And euen tomorrowe shal this myracle be done. And the Lord dyd euen so: and there came noysom flies into the house of Pharaos, & into his seruantes houses, and into all the lande of Egypt: and the lande was corrupt with these flies. And Pharaos called for Moyses and Aaron, and sayde. Go and do sacrifice vnto your God in the lande: And Moyses answered: It is not mete that we do so. For then we must offre vnto the Lord our God, that whiche is an abhominacyon vnto the Egyptians. But and if we sacrifice that whiche is an abhominacyon vnto the Egyptians before theyr eyes, shuld they not stone vs: we wyl go thre dayes iourney into the deserte, and sacrifice vnto the Lord our God,
 *as he hath commaunded vs.

And Pharaos sayd: I wyl let you go that ye maye sacrifice vnto the Lord your God in the wyldernesse: but go not farre awaye, praye for me. And Moyses sayde: beholde, I wyl go out from the, and praye vnto the Lord, that the flies maye departe from Pharaos, and from his ser-uantes and from his people tomorrowe. But let Pharaos from henceforth deceyue nomore, & he wyl not let the people go to sacrifice vnto the Lord. And Moyses went out from Pharaos and prayed vnto the Lord. And the Lord dyd accordynge to the sayinge of Moyses, and the flies departed from Pharaos, and from his seruants and from his people, & there remayned not
 one. And Pharaos hardened his hert euen then also, and dyd not let the people go.

The ix. Chapter.

The moynynge of beastes: The plague of botches and sores
 The horrible daye, thundze, and the lychtenynge.

The

A The Lorde sayde vnto Moses, go in vnto Pharaon, and thou shalt tell hym: thus sayth the Lorde God of the Hebrewes: * let my people go, that they maye serue me. If thou wilt not let them go, and wilt holde them still, beholde, the hande of the Lorde is vpon thy flocke which is in the feld for vpon horses, asses, camels, oxen, and shepe, there shall be a myghty great mozaune. And the Lorde shall do wonderfull things betwene the beasts of Israel and the beasts of Egypte: so that there shall nothyng dye of all that pertaineth to the chyldren of Israel. And the Lorde appoynted a tyme, sayinge: to morowe the Lorde shall synich this worde in the lande. And the Lorde dyed it on the morowe, and all the cattell of Egypte dyed: but of the cattell of the chyldren of Israel dyed not one. And Pharaon sent, and behold, there was not one of the cattell of the Israelites deed. And the hert of Pharaon was hardened that he wolde not let the people go.

A And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses and Aaron: take poure handes full of ashes out of the fornace, and Moses shall spynkle it vp into the ayre, in the syght of Pharaon, and it shall tourne to dust in all the lande of Egypte: that there maye be swellunge sores with blaynes both on man & beast thowout all the lande of Egypte. And they took ashes out of the furnace, and stode before Pharaon and Moses spynkled it vp into the ayre. And there were sores with blaynes both in men and in beasts: and the sozerers coude not stand before Moses by cause of the blaynes for there were botches vpon the enchaunters, & vpon all the Egyptians. And the Lorde hardened the hert of Pharaon, & he perkened not vnto them * as the Lorde hath sayde vnto Moses.

C And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: ryle vp early in the morynge, and stande before Pharaon, and thou shalt tell hym, thus sayth the Lorde God of the Hebrewes: * Let my people go, & they maye serue me: or els I wyll at this tyme sende all my plagues vpon thyne herte, and vpon thy seruantes, and on thy people, that thou mayest know that there is none lyke me in all the earth. For nowe I wyll stretch out myne hande, that I may smyte the and thy people with pestilence and thou shalt peryshe from the earth. And in verpe dede, * for this cause haue I kepte the, for to shewe the my power: and that they myght declare my name thowout all the worlde.

D Yet thou exaltest thy selfe agaynst my people, that thou wilt not let them go: beholde, to morowe this tyme I wyll sende downe a myghty greete hayle: enen suche a one as was not in Egypte, syns it was grounde vnto this tyme. Sende therfore nowe, and gather thy bestes, and all that thou hast in the felde. For vpon all the men and the bestes which are founde in the feld, and not brought home, shall the hayle fall and they shall dye. And as manye as feared the worde of the Lorde amonge the seruantes of Pharaon made they seruantes and their bestes flye in to the houses, but he that regarded not the worde of the Lorde, left his seruantes and his bestes in the felde. And the Lorde sayd vnto Moses: stretch forth thyne hande vnto heauen, that there maye be hayle in all the lande of Egypte: vpon man and vpon bestes, and vpon all the herbes of the felde thowout all the land of Egypte. And Moses stretched out his rod vnto heauen: and the Lorde thundred and hayled, & the fyre ran alonge vpon the grounde. * And the Lorde so hayled in the lande of Egypte, & there was hayle and fyre myngled with the hayle, so greuous, and suche as there was none thowout all the lande of Egypte, syns people inhabited it. And the hayle smote thowout all the land of Egypte, all that was in the felde both man & beast. And the hayle smote all the herbes of the felde, and brake all the trees of the felde: only in the lande of Gozan, where the chyldren of Israel were, was no hayle. And Pharaon sent and called for Moses and Aaron, & sayd vnto them: I haue now synned: the Lorde is ryghteous, and I and my people are vngodlye. * Drape ye vnto the Lorde: for it is moch & thete shulde be thunders of God and hayle. I wyll let you go, and ye shall carpe no longer. Moses sayde vnto hym: as lone as I am out of the ctyte, I wyll spede abroad my handes vnto the Lorde, and the thunder shall cease, neyther shall there be anye more hayle, that thou mayest know how that the erth is the Lordes. But I knowe that thou and thy seruantes yet feare not the face of the Lord God.

And so the flaxe and the barley were smytten for the barley was out vp, & the flaxe was boyled: but the wheate and the rye were not smytte for they were late sowne. And Moses went out of the ctyte from Pharaon and spede abroad his handes vnto the Lorde: and the thundre & hayle ceased, neyther rayned it vpon the earth. And when Pharaon saw that the rayne and the hayle and thundre were ceased, he synned agayne: and hardened his herte & his seruantes. And the hert of Pharaon was hardened: neither wold he let the chyldren of Israel go, as the Lorde had sayde by the hande of Moses.

The .x. Chapter.

The herte of Pharaon was hardened of God.
The grethoppers. The thicke darknesse.

A And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: go in vnto Pharaon: for * I haue hardened his herte, and the herte of his seruantes, that I might put these my sygnes amongest them, and that thou tell in the audience of thy sonne, and of thy sonnes sonne, what thynges I haue done in Egypte, and the myracles whiche I haue done amonge them: that ye maye knowe howe that I am the Lorde. And so Moses and Aaron came vnto Pharaon, and sayd vnto hym: Thus sayth the Lorde God of the Hebrewes, how longe shall it be or thou wilt submit thy selfe vnto me? * Let my people go, that they maye serue me. Or els * (if thou doste) and wilt not let my people go: beholde, to morowe wyll I bringe grethoppers into thy coostes, and they shall couer the face of the earth, that it cannot be sene: and they shall eat the residue which remaineth vnto you and

and is escaped from the hayle: and they shal eat every grene tree that beareth you frute in þe feld and they shal fyl thy houses, and all thy seruauntes houses, and the houses of all the Egyptians after suche a maner as neyther thy fathers, nor thy fathers fathers haue sene, spys þe tyme they were vpon the earth vnto this daye. And he turned him selfe about, & went out from Pharaos.

And Pharaos seruauntes sayde vnto hym: How longe shal he be a sklaundre vnto vs? Let the men go, that they maye serue the Lord theyr God: knowest thou not that Egypt is destroyed? And Moses and Aaron were broughte agayne vnto Pharaos, and he sayde: then go, and serue þe Lord your God. Who are they that shal go? And Moses answered: we wyl go, with our yonge and with our olde: yea, and with our sonnes and with our daughters, and with our shep and with our oxen we must go. For we muste holde a feast vnto the Lord.

And he sayd vnto them: let it be so. The Lord be with you. When I let you go and your chyldren also, take hede, for ye haue some myschefe in hande. Naye, not so: but go they that are men, & serue the Lord: for that was your desyre. And they thrust them out of Pharaos ptesence. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: Stretch out thyne hande ouer the lande of Egypt for grethoppers that they maye come vpon the lande of Egypte and eate all the herbes of the lande, and al that the hayle lefte behynde. And Moses stretched forth his rod ouer the lande of Egypte: and the Lord brought an east wynde vpon the land al that daye, and all that nyght. And in the morninge, the east wynde * brought the grethoppers, and the grethoppers wente vp ouer all the lande of Egypte: and remayned in all quarters of Egypte very greuouse. Before them were there no suche grethoppers, neyther after them shalbe: for they couered all the face of the earth, so that the lande was darke. And they dyd eate all the herbes of the lande, and all the frutes of the trees, and whatsoener the hayle had left ther was no grene thyng lefte in the trees and herbes of the felde thowout all þe land of Egypt.

Therefore Pharaos called for Moses and Aaron in haste, and sayde: I haue synned agaynst þe Lord your God, and agaynst you. And nowe forgyue me my synne only this ones: and * pray vnto the Lord your God, that he maye take awaye from me this death only. And Moses went out from Pharaos, and prayed vnto the Lord. And the Lord turned a myghtye stronge west wynde, and it toke awaye the grethoppers, and east them into the red see, so that there was not one grethopper in all the coast of Egypt. And þe Lord * hardened Pharaos hert, so that he wold not let the chyldren of Israel go.

And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: stretch out thy hande vnto heauen, that there maye be vpon the lande of Egypt darknesse which maye be felt. And Moses stretched forth his hande vnto heauen, and there was a thycke * darknesse vpon all the lande of Egypte thre dayes longe, no man saw an other, neither rose vp from þe place where he was by the space of thre dayes: but al þe chyldren of Israel had lyght where they dwelled.

And Pharaos called for Moses and sayd: go, and serue the Lord, only let your shepe and your oren abyde, and let your chyldren go with you. And Moses sayde: thou must gyue vs also offerynges, and burnt offerynges for to sacrifice vnto the Lord our God: our cattell also shal go w vs, and there shal not one hoofe be left behynde, for there of must we take to serue the Lord our God. Neither do we knowe what we shal offre vnto the Lord, vntill we come thyther.

But the Lord hardened Pharaos hert: and he wolde not let them go. And Pharaos sayd vnto hym: get the frome, and take hede to thy self, and se my face nomore. For whensoever, thou comest in my syght, thou shalt dye. And Moses sayde: Let it be as thou hast sayde: I wyl se thy face nomore.

The .xi. Chapter.

The Lord commandeth to robbe the Egyptians. The death of all the fyrst begotten in Egypt.

And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: yet wyl I bypnyng one plage more vpon Pharaos & vpon Egypt: and after þe he wyl let you go hence. And when he letteth you go, he shal vtterlye dyspue you hence. Speake þerfore in the eares of the people þe euery man bozowe of his neyghbour, and euery woman of her neyghbours: * Jewels of syluer and Jewels of gold. And þe Lord shal gyue the people fauoure in the syght of the Egyptians. Moreover, * Moses was verye grat in the lande of Egypt, in the syght of Pharaos seruauntes and in the syght of the people.

And Moses sayd: thus sayth the Lord: * At mydnyght wyl I go out into the myddes of Egypt, and all the fyrste bozne in the lande of Egypt shal dye, euen from the fyrst bozne of Pharaos that sitteth on his seate, vnto the first bozne of the mayd seruaunt that is behynde the mylle and all the fyrst gendred of the cattel. And there shal be a great crye thowout all the lande of Egypt, suche as there was neuer none lyke, nor shalbe. But amonge the chyldren of Israel shal not a dog moue his tonge, nor yet man or beest that ye maye knowe howe that the Lord doth a great myracle) putterh a difference betwene the Egyptians and Israel. And these thy seruauntes shal all come downe vnto me. And fall before me, and say: get the out, and all the people that are vnder the, and then wyl I departe. And he went out from Pharaos with an angry countenance. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: Pharaos shal not heare you, that my wonders maye be multiplied in the lande of Egypt. And Moses and Aaron dyd al these wonders (and tokens which are wyrtten) before Pharaos. And the Lord hardened Pharaos herte, so that he wolde not let the chyldren of Israel go out of his lande.

And the Lorde spake vnto Mo-

sayinge: This moneth shall be vnto you the begynnyng of monethes and the fyrst moneth of þe yere shall it be vnto you. Speake ye vnto all the congregation of Israel, sayinge: In the tenth daye of this moneth euery man take vnto hym a lambe accorpyng to the house of the fathers, a lambe thorowout euery house. If the housholde, be to lytle for the lambe, let hym take his neyghbour which is next vnto his house accorpyng to the nombze of þe soules: euery one of you, accorpyng to his eatyng shall make your comyt for a lamb
And let the lambe of yours be without blemish a male of a yere olde which ye shall take out fro amonge the shepe, or from amonge the gootes.

And ye shall kepe hym vntyll the xiiii. daye of the same moneth. And euery man of the multitude of Israel shall kyll hym about euen. And they shall take of the bloude and stryke it on the two syde postes and on the vpper doze post euen in the houses where they shall eat hym. And they shall eat the flesh the same nyght rost with fyre and with vneleuened breede, and with sower herbes they shall eat it. Se þe ye eate not thereof rawe nor soden in water, but roste with fyre:
the heed, feet, and purtenaunce thereof: And ye shall let nothyng of it to remayne vnto the mornyng. That which remayneth of it vntyll the morrowe shall ye burne with fyre.

B Of this maner shall ye eate it: with your loynes girded, and your shooes on your feet and your staues in your handes. And ye shall eat it in hast for it is the Lordes passeouer: For I wil passe thorowe the lande of Egypte this same nyght, and wyll smyte all the fyrste borne in the lande of Egypte bothe man and beaste, and vpon all the goddes of Egypte wyll I the Lorde do execution. And the bloude shall be vnto you a token in the houses wherein ye are. And when I se the bloude, I wyll passe ouer you, and the plage shall not be vpon you to destroye you, when I smyte the lande of Egypte. And this daye shall be vnto you a remembraunce: and ye shall kepe it holpe vnto the Lorde, euen thorowout youre generacyons shall ye kepe it holpe daye, that it be a cus-tome for euer. * Seuen dayes shall ye eate vne-leuened breede: and the fyrste daye ye shall put awaye leuen out of your houses. For whosoener eateth leuened breede from the fyrste daye vntyll the seuenth daye, that soule shall be plucked out from Israel. * The fyrste daye shall be an holpe conuocation, and the seuenth daye shall be an holpe conuocation vnto you: There shall be no maner of worke done in them, saue aboute that onely which euery man must eate, that onely maye ye do. And ye shall obserue vneleuened breede. For this same daye haue I brought your armyes out of the lande of Egypte, therfore ye shall obserue this daye, and all your chyldren after you, by a custome for euer. * The fyrste mo-neth, and the fourtenth daye of the moneth at euen, ye shall eate swete breede vnto the xxi. daye of the moneth at eue agayne. Seuen dayes shall there be no leuened breede founde in your houses.

And whosoener eateth leuened breede, that soule shall be rooted out from the multitude of Israel:
whether he be a straunger or borne in the lande.
Ye shall eate nothyng leuened: but in all youre habytations shall ye eate swete breede.

Moses called for the elders of Israel, & sayd vnto them: chole out and take you to euery hou-sholde of you a shepe, and kyll it for passeouer.
And take a bunch of ysope, and dip it in þe bloud that is in the bason, and stryke the vpper poste, and the two syde postes with the bloude that is in the bason, and none of you go out at the doze of his house, vntyll the mornyng. For the Lorde wyll go aboute to smyte the Egyptians. And when he seeth the bloud vpon þe vpper doze post and on the two syde postes: he wyll passeouer the doze, and wil not suffre the destroyer to come in to your house to plage you. Therfore shall ye ob-serue this thyng, that it be an ordynance both to the and thy sonnes for euer.

And when ye be come into the lande which the Lorde wyll gyue you, accorpyng as he hath promysed, ye shall kepe this seruyce. * And when your chyldren aske you what maner of seruyce is this ye do, ye shall saye it is the sacrificy of the Lordes passeouer which passed ouer the houses of the chyldren of Israel in Egypte, as he smote the Egyptians, and saued our houses. And the people bowed the selues, and worshypped: And the chyldren of Israel went, and dyd as þe Lorde had comaunded Moses and Aaron: Euen so dyd they. And at mydnyght, the Lorde smote all þe fyrste borne in the lande of Egypt, from the fyrst borne of Pharaos that sat on his seate, vnto the fyrste borne of the captyue that was in pryson, and all the fyrst genzred of cattel. And Pharaos rose vp in the nyght, he and all his seruantes & all the Egyptians: * and there was a great cry-inge in Egypte, for there was no house where there was not one deed. And he called vnto Moses and Aaron by nyght, sayinge: ryse vp, and get you out from amonge my people: both ye & also the chyldren of Israel, and go and serue the Lorde as ye haue sayde. And take your shepe & your droues with you as ye haue sayde, and departe and * blesse me. And the Egyptians were fearce vpon the people, that they myght sende them out of the lande in haste: for they sayde: we dye all. And the people toke theyr dough before it was sowred, and their vptayles bound in clothes vpon their shulders. And þe chyldren of Israel dyd accorpyng to the sayinge of Moses: And they borrowed of þe Egyptians * iewels of syluer jewels of gold, & rayment. And the Lorde gaue þe people fauour in the syght of the Egyptians: so that they graunted such thynges as they required. And they robbed the Egyptians. And the
* chyldren of Israel toke theyr iourneye from Rameses to Sucoth + syre hundred thousande men of fote, helpe chyldren. And moche comen people went out also with them, and shepe and oxen, an exceedyng great flocke. And they baked swete cakes of þe dough which they brought out of Egypt, for it was not sowred. For when they were thruste oute by the Egyptians, they could not tary to prepare them selues any prouision of meate. It is a nyght to be obserued to the Lorde, in the which he brought them out of p lande of Egypt. This is that nyght of the Lorde which al the chyldren of Israel must kepe thowout theyr generacions. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses and Aaron: This is the law of the pascheouer: there shal no straunger eate thereof. But euery seruaunt p is bought for moneye (after that thou hast circumcysed him) shal eat thereof. A straunger and an hyred seruaunt shal not eate thereof. In one house shal it be eaten. Thou shalt carpe none of the fleshy out of p house. *Neither shal ye breake a bone thereof. All the multitude shal obserue it. If a straunger also dwell amonge you, and wyl holde pascheouer vnto the Lord, let hym circumsise all that be males, and then let him come and obserue it, and he shalbe as one that is born in the lande. For the vncircumcysed person shal not eat thereof. One maner of lawe shalbe vnto hym that is borne in the lande: & vnto the straunger that dwelleth amonge you. And all the chyldren of Israel dyd as the Lord comaunded Moyses and Aaron. Euen so dyd they. And the selfe same daye dyd the Lorde bynge the chyldren of Israel out of p lande of Egypt w theyr armys.

Swete breede shal be eaten seuen dayes, and there shal no leuened breede be sene, nor yet leuen with the in all thy quarters. And thou shalte shewe thy sonne in that day, saying this is done bycause of that whiche the Lorde dyd vnto me, when I came out of Egypte. And it shal be a spygne vnto the vpon thyne hande, and for a remembraunce betwene thyne eyes, that the Lorde's lawe maye be in thy mouth. For *in a strö hande the Lorde brought the out of Egypte. Kepe therfore this ordinaunce in his season fro yere to yere. And it wyl come to passe, that the Lorde shal bynge the into the lande of the Cananytes, whiche he *sware vnto the and to thy fathers, & shal gyue it the. And then thou shalt appoynt vnto the Lorde all that openeth p matryce. And euery cast thyng that fyrst doth open the matryce of a beast whiche thou hast: yf they be males, they shalbe p Lordes. And euery first gendred of an asse, thou shalt redeme w a lambe: yf thou redeme hym not, thou shalte breake his necke. All the fyrste borne amonge thy chyldren also shalt thou bye out. And when thy sonne asketh the tomozow, saying what is this, p shalt saye vnto hym: With a myghtye hand p Lorde brought vs oute of Egypte, out of the house of bondage. And when Pharaos was loth to let vs go, the Lorde slewe all the fyrst borne in the land of Egypte: as well the fyrst borne of man as of beast. Therfore I sacrificy vnto the Lorde all the males that open the matryce: and all p fyrst borne of my chyldren I redeme. This shal be a token vpon thyne hande, and a remembraunce betwene thyne eyes, that the Lorde brought vs out of Egypt thowowe a myghtye hande.

It came to passe, that when Pharaos had let the people go, God carped them not thowow the waye and lande of the Philistines whiche was the moze nere waye. But God sayd: lest the people happily repent when they se warre, & so turne agayne to Egypte. But God led the people about thowowe the way of the wilderneffe of the red see. And the chyldren of Israel went by harnessed out of the lande of Egypte. And Moyses toke the bones of Joseph with him: for he made the chyldren of Israel sware, saying: *God wil surely vpsite you, and ye shall take my bones awaye hence with you. *And they toke their iourney from Succoth: & abode in Etham in p edge of the wilderneffe. *And the Lorde went before them by daye in a pyller of a cloude to leade the way: and by nyght in a pyller of fyre to gyue them lyght, that they myght go both by daye & by nyght. *The pyller of p cloude departed not by daye, nor the pyller of fyre by nyght, oute of the syght of the people.

The. xiiii. Chapter

Pharaos herte is hardened, and foloweth the Israelites with all his host and captaynes, and is drowned. The Israelites grudge, they go thowowe the red see.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying: Speake to the chyldren of Israel, that they tourne & remayne before p Hiroth betwene Migdol and the see ouer agaynst *Baalze-phon: and before that shall they ppyche by p see. For Pharaos wyl saye of the chyldren of Israel they are tangled in the land, p wilderneffe hath put them in. And I wyl harden Pharaos herte that he shal folowe after you: and I wyl get me honour vpon Pharaos and vpon all his host: the Egyptians also shal knowe that I am p Lord. And they dyd euen so. And it was tolde the king of Egypt, that the people fled. And the herte of Pharaos Pharao and of his seruantes turned agaynste the people, & they sayd: why haue we this done that we haue let Israel go out of our seruice? & he made redy his charettes, and toke his people with hym and toke syxe hundred cholen charettes, and all the charets of Egypt and captaynes vpon euery one of them. And the Lorde hardened the herte of Pharao kynge of Egypt, and he folowed after the chyldren of Israel. But the chyldren of Israel went out with * an hye hand and the Egyptians folowed after them, and all the hoyses and charets of Pharao and his hoysen men and his hoost ouertoke them abyding by the see, besyde Bihiroth befoze Baalzephon. And when Pharao drewe nye, the chyldren of Israel lyft vp theyr eyes, and beholde, the Egyptians folowed after them, and they were sore afraied, * and the chyldren of Israel cryed vnto the Lord. But they sayd vnto Moses: bycause ther were no graues in Egypte, haste thou therfoze brought vs away for to dye in the wilder nesse: wherfoze hast thou serued vs thus, for to cary vs out of Egypte? Dyd not we tell the this in Egypte, sayinge: let vs be in rest, that we maye serue the Egyptians? For it had bene better for vs to haue serued the Egyptians then for to dye in the wyl der nesse. And Moses sayde vnto the people: * feare ye not, stande styll, and beholde, how the Lorde shall saue you this daye. For ye that haue sene the Egyptians this daye, shall se them nomore for euer. The Lorde shall fyghte for you, and ye shall holde your peace.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: wherfoze cryest thou vnto me: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel that they go forwarde. But lyfte thou vp thy rod, and stretche out thy hand ouer the see, and deuyde it asondre, and let the chyldren of Israel go on drye grounde thow the myddest of the see. And beholde, I wyll harden the herte of the Egyptians that they maye folowe them. And I wyll get me honoure vpon Pharao, and vpon all his hoost, and vpon his charettes, and vpon his hoysen men. And the Egyptians shall knowe that I am the Lorde, when I haue gottē me honoure vpon Pharao, vpon his charettes, and vpon his hoysen men. And the angell of God which went befoze the hoost of Israel remoued and began to go behynde them. And the clou den pyller that was befoze the face of them, beganne to stande behynde them, & came betwene the hoost of the Egyptians and the hoost of Israel. It was also a darke cloude, & gaue lyghte by nyght: and all the nyght longe the one came not at the other. And Moses stretched forth his hande ouer the see: and the Lorde carped awaye the see, by a very stronge East wynde all that nyght, and made the see drye lande, and the waters were deuyded. And the chyldren of Israel went out into the myddest of the see: vpon drye grounde. And the waters were a walle vnto them on the ryght hande, and on theyr left hand. And the Egyptians folowed and went in after them to the myddest of the see, euen all Pharaos hoyses, his charettes and his hoysen men. And in the moynynge watche, the Lorde looked vnto

the hoost of the Egyptians out of the fyre and cloude pyller: and troubled the hoost of the Egyptians, & toke of his charet wheles, and carped them awaye violently. So that the Egyptians sayde: Let vs flye from the face of Israel, for the Lorde fyghteth for them agaynst the Egyptians. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: stretche out thyne hande ouer the see, that the waters maye come agayne vpon the Egyptians, vpon hys charettes and vpon his hoysen men.

And Moses stretched forth his hand ouer the see, and it came agayne to his course early in the moynynge, and the Egyptians fled agaynste it. And the * Lorde ouerthrewe the Egyptians in the myddest of the see: and the water returned & couered the charettes and the hoysen men: and all the hoost of Pharao that came into the see after them, so that there remayned not one of them. But the chyldren of Israel walked vpon drye lande * thow the myddest of the see, and the waters were a walle vnto them on the ryght hande of them, and on the lefte. * Thus the Lorde deli uered Israel the selfe same daye out of the hand of the Egyptians: and Israel sawe the Egyptians deed vpon the set syde. And Israel sawe the myghtye power which the Lorde shewed vpon the * Egyptians: and the people feared the Lord and beleued the Lorde & his seruauit Moses.

The. xv. Chapter.

¶ Moses and the people with the women synge. At the prayer of Moses the bitter waters were sweet. God must be herde. They come to Elim.

When Moses and the chyldren of Israel sange this songe vnto the Lord and sayde: * I wyll synge vnto the Lorde: for he hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and hym that rode vpon hym hath he ouerthrowen in the see. * The Lorde is my strength and prayse, and he is become my saluacyon. He is my God, and I wyll glorifye hym: my fathers God, and I wyll exalte hym. The Lorde is a man of warre. The Lorde is his name. Pharaos charettes and his hooste hath he cast into the see. His cholen captaynes also wer drowned in the red see, the depe waters haue couered them: they sanke to the botome as a stone. Thy ryght hande Lorde is become glorious in power: thy ryght hand Lorde hath all to dashed the enemy. And in thy great gloze thou hast ouerthrowen them that rose vp agaynst the: thou sentest forth thy wrath which consumed them euen as stubble. Thow wind of thy nostrils the water gathered together, the floudes stode styll as an heape, and the depe water congeled together in the herte of the see.

The enemye sayde: I wyll folowe on them: I wyll ouertake them, I wyll deuyde the spoyle, I wyll satisfy my lust vpon them, I wyll drawe my swerde, myne hande shall destroye them. Thou blewest with thy wynde, the see couered them, they sanke as leade in the myghtye waters. Who is lyke vnto the, O Lorde, amonge goddes: who is lyke the so glorious in holynesse fearfull in prayles, the wynges wonders? Thou stretchedst out thy ryght hande, the earth was lowed

lowed them: Thou in thy mercye haste carped this people whiche thou deliueredst: and haste brought them in thy strength vnto thy holy habitacyn. The nation herde and were afrayed, sozowe came vpon the Philistines. Then the dukes of the Edomites were amased, and the myghtyest of the Moabites, tremblng came vpon them: all the inhabytours of Canaan waxed faynthearted: Let feare and drede fal vpon them in the greatnesse of thyne, let the be as styl as a stone, tyl the people passe thorow: O Lorde whyle this people passe thorowe whiche þ hast gotten. Thou shalt bynng them in, and plante them in the mountayne of thyne inherytaunce. The place Lorde whiche þ hast made for to dwel in the sanctuarie, O Lorde, whiche thy handes haue prepared. The Lorde shall raygne euer and alwaye. For Pharaos horse went in with his charettes and horsmen into the see, and þ Lorde brought the waters of the see vpon them.

But the children of Israel went on drye lande in the mydst of the see. And Miriam a prophete the syster of Aaron toke a tymbrell in her hand, and all the women came oute after her w tymbrells and daunces. And Miriam sange before them. * Synge ye vnto the Lorde: for he hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and his ryder hath he ouerthrowen in the see. And so Moses brought Israel from the red see, & they went out into the wilderness of Sur. And they went thre dayes longe in the wylterne, and founde no waters. And when they came to Mara, they coude not drynke of the waters of Mara: for they were bytter, therfore the name of the place was called Mara: (that is to saye bytternesse.) And the people murmured agaynst Moses sayinge: what shall we drynke? * And he cryed vnto the Lorde: and the Lorde shewed hym a tree, which when he had cast into the water, þ waters wer made swete. There he made them an ordynance and a lawe, and there he proued hym, and sayde: If thou wylt herken * vnto the voyce of þ Lorde thy God, and wylt do that which is ryght in his syght, and wylt gyue eare vnto his comaundementes, and kepe all his ordynaunces: then wil I put none of these diseases vpon the whiche I brought vpon the Egyptians: for I am þ Lorde that healeth the.

The .xvi. Chapter. ¶

The Israelites come into the deserte of Syn. It rayneth quaples and Manna. They grudge.

The * chyldren of Israel came to Elim, where were twelue welles of water, and lxx. palme trees, and they abode there by the waters. And they toke theyr iourneye from Elim: and all the whole companye of the chyldren of Israel came to the wylterne of Syn, which is betwene Elim and Sinat: the fyftene daye of the seconde moneth after theyr departynge out of the lande of Egypt. And the whole multitude of the chyldren of Israel * murmured agaynst Moses and Aaron in the wylterne: and the chyldren of Israel sayd vnto them wolde to God we had dyed by the hande of the Lorde in the lande of Egypt, when we sat by the flesh pottes, and when we dyd eat bread our bellies full: for ye haue brought vs oute into this wilderness, to kyl this hole multitude w hūgre.

Then sayde the Lorde vnto Moses: behold, I wyl rayne * bread from heauen to you, and þ people shal go out, and gather daye by daye that I maye proue them, whether they wyl walke in my lawe or no. The syxt daye they shal prepare for them selues that which they wyl bring in, and let it be twyle as moch as they gather in dayly. And Moses and Aaron sayd vnto al the chyldren of Israel: at euen ye shall knowe, that it is the Lorde which brought you out of þ land of Egypt: and in the moynge ye shall se the glory of the Lorde, because he hath herde youre grudgynges agaynst the Lorde. And what are we that ye haue murmured agaynst vs? And Moses sayd: At euen shall the Lorde * gyue you flesh to eat, and in the moynge breed ynough, for the Lorde hath hearde your murmurynge, which ye murmur agaynst him: for what are we? your murmurynge are not agaynst vs, but agaynst the Lorde. And Moses spake vnto Aaron: Saye vnto all the company of the chyldren of Israel, come forth before the Lorde: for he hath hearde your grudgynges. And as Aaron spake vnto the whole multitude of the chyldren of Israel, they looked toward the wylterne, & beholde, the glory of the Lorde appeared in the cloude. ¶ And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: I haue hearde the murmurynge of the chyldren of Israel, tell them therfore and saye: at euen ye shall eat fleshe, and in the moynge ye shalbe fylled with breed, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lorde your God. And at euen the * quaples came and couered the grounde where they laye. And in the moynge the dew laye rounde about the host. And when the dew was fallen, beholde, it laye vpon the grounde in the wilderness, smal and round, and thynne, as the dore froost on the grounde. And when the chyldren of Israel sawe it, they sayde euerye one to his neyghbour: It is Manna. For they wist not what it was. And Moses sayd vnto them: this is the breed which the Lorde hath gyuen you to eat. This is the worde whiche the Lorde hath commaunded, gather it euery man for him selfe to eat: a gomer ful for a man accordynge to the nombze of you, and take euery mā for the which are in his tente. And the chyldren of Israel dyd euen so, and gathered, some moze, some lesse, and when they dyd meate it w a gomer, * vnto him that had gathered moche, remayned nothynge

ouer, & vnto hym that had gathered lytle, was there no lacke: euerye man gathered sufficiente for hys eatynge. And Moyses sayd vnto them.

E See that no man let ought remaine of it tyll the moynynge. Not wythstandynge they herkened not vnto Moyses: but some of them lefte of it vntyll the moynynge, and it waxed ful of wormes and stanke, and Moyses was angrey wth them. And they gathered it all moynynge, euery man for hys eatynge. And as sone as the heate of sunne came, it moulte. And the fyrte daye they gathered twyle so muche breade, two gomers for one man: and all the rulers of the multitude came and tolde Moyses. He sayde vnto them: thys is that whych the Lorde hath sayd: to morowe is the reste of the holy Sabboth vnto the Lorde: bake that whych ye wyl bake, and seth that ye wyl seth, and that whych remayneth, laye it vp tyll the moynynge. And they layde it vp tyll the moynynge, as Moyses bad, and it stanke not, nether bred there any worme therein. And Moyses sayde: that eate thys daye:

for it is the Sabboth vnto the Lord: to daye ye shall not fynde it in the felde. Syxe dayes shall ye gather it, and in the seuenth daye whych is the Sabboth, there shall be none. Not wythstandynge, there wente out some of the people in the seuenth daye for to gather, and they founde none. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: howe longe refuse ye to kepe my comaundementes, and my lawes? Se, the Lorde hath geuen you a Sabboth, therfore he geueth you the fyrte day breade for two dayes. Wyde therfore euerye man at home and let noman go oute of hys place the seuenth daye. And the people rested the seuenth daye. And the house of Israell called it Manna.

 And it was lyke vnto Coriandre seede, whyte and the taste of it was lyke vnto wafers made with honny. And Moyses sayd: this is that whych the Lorde comaundeth, fyll a gomer of it, whych maye be kepte for your chyldren after you: that they may se the bread wherewith I haue fed you in wyldernes, when I brought you out of the lande of Egypte. And Moyses spake vnto Aaron: take a cruse and put a gomer full of Manna therein, and laye it vp before the Lorde to be kepte for your chyldren after you, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. So Aaron layde it vp before the testimonie to be kepte. * And the chyldren of Israell dyd eate Manna fortye pere, vntyll they came vnto a lande inhabited. And so they dyd eate Manna euen vntyll they came vnto the borders of the lande of Canaan. A gomer is the tenth parte of an Ephra.

The .xvii. Chapter.

The Israelites come into Raphidim. They grudge water is geuen them out of the rocke. Moyses holdeth vp hys handes: and they overcome the Amalechites.

And al the company of the chyldren of Israell thow out theyr armyes went fro the wyldernes of Sin, after the comaundement of the Lorde, & pytched in Raphidim where was no water for the people to drynke. And the people chode wth Moses, and sayd: geue vs water to drynke. Moyses sayd vnto the: why chydye ye wth me: wherfore do ye tempte the Lorde? There the people thyrstyd for water, and the people murmured agaynst Moyses, & said: * wherfore hast thou thus brought vs out of Egypte: to kyll vs and oure chyldren and catell wth thyrst.

And Moyses cryed vnto the Lorde, sayinge: what shall I do vnto this people: they be almost ready to stone me. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: go before the people, and take wth the of the elders of Israell, and thy rodde wherewith thou smotest the ryuer, take in thyne hande, and go: Behold, * I stande before the helyde a rocke that is in Horeb: and thou shalt smyte the rocke and there shall come water out therof, that the people maye drynke. * And Moyses dyd euen so before the eyes of the elders of Israell. And he called the name of the place * Massa and * Meriba, because of the chydynge of the chyldren of Israell, and because they thempted the Lorde, sayinge: is the Lorde amonge vs or not?

Then came Amalech and fought wth Israell in Raphidim. And Moyses sayde vnto Josua: chole vs out men, and go fyght wth Amalech, and to morowe I wyl stande on the toppe of the hyll, and the rod of God shall be in my hande. Josua dyd as Moyses bade hym, & fought wth Amalech. And Moyses, and Aaron, and Hur, wente vp to the toppe of the hyll. And it happened, that when Moyses helde vp hys hande, Israell had the better. And when he let hys hande downe Amalech had the better.

But Moyses handes were heuy, and therfore they toke a stone and put it vnder hym, and he sate downe thereon. And Aaron and Hur stayed vp hys handes, the one on the one syde, and the other on the other syde. And hys handes remayned stadye vntyll the goynge downe of the sunne. And Josua dyscomfyted Amalech and hys people wth the edge of the swearde.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: wryt this for a remembraunce in a booke, and comynpte it vnto the eares of Josua for: * I wyl utterly put out the remembraunce of Amalech from vnder heauen. And Moyses made an aulter and called the name of it: The Lorde is he that worketh myracles for me. For he sayde: the hande is on the scate of God, the Lorde wyl haue war with Amalech from generacion to generacion.

The .xviii. Chapter.

Jethros counsell is receaued of Moyses.

Jethro the Priest of Madian Moyses father in lawe, hearde of all that God hadde done for Moyses, and for Israell his people, and that the Lorde had brought Israell out of Egypte.

* Therfore he toke zephora Moyses wyfe. (After he had sente her backe) and her two sonnes, of whiche the one was called * Gerson, for he sayd: I haue bene an aliaunt in a straunge lade. The name of the other was Eliezar: for the god of my father (sayd he) was myne helpe, and deliuered me from the swearde of Pharaon.

And Jethro Moyses father in lawe came with

hys two sonnes, and hys wyfe vnto Moyses into the wilderness: where he abode by the mount of God. And he sayde vnto Moyses: I thy father in lawe Jethro am come to the, and thy wyfe al so and her two sonnes wyth her. And Moyses went out to mete hys father in lawe & dyd obey saunce and kyssed hym, and eche asked other of his health, and they came into y^e tent. And Moyses tolde hys father in lawe al that y^e Lorde had done vnto Pharaon and to the Egipcians for Israels sake, and all the trauaple that had happened them by the wyfe, and howe the Lorde deliuered them. And Jethro reioysed ouer al the goodnesse whyche the Lorde had done to Israel and because he had deliuered them out of y^e hãde of the Egipcians. And Jethro sayde: blessed be the Lorde whych hath deliuered you out of the hãde of the Egipcians, and oute of the hãde of Pharaon, whych hath also deliuered hys people from the captiuitie of the Egipcians. Nowe I knowe that the Lorde is greater then all gods, for in the thyng whereby they dealte cruelly wth them, are they them selues persysched. And Jethro Moyses father in lawe offred bzent offerynge and sacrifices vnto God. And Aaron and al the elders of Israel came to eate breade with Moyses father in lawe before God.

And it chaunced on the morowe, that Moyses sat to iudge the people, and the people stode aboute Moyses from mornynge vnto euen. And when Moyses father in lawe sawe all that he dyd vnto the people, he sayd what is thys that thou dost vnto the people: why syttest thou thy selfe alone, and all the people stande aboute the from mornynge vnto euen? And Moyses sayd vnto his father in lawe: because the people come vnto me to seke counsell of God. When they haue a matter, they come vnto me, & I iudge betwene euery man and his neighbour, and shewe them the ordinaunces of God and his lawes.

And Moyses father in lawe sayde vnto hym: it is not well that thou dost. Thou both weyrest thy selfe, and thys people that is wyth y^e: for this thyng is of more weyght, then thou arte able to perfourme thy selfe alone. Heare nowe therfore my voyce, and I wyl geue the counsel, and God shalbe with the. Be thou vnto the people to Godwarde, that thou mayste byngge the causes vnto God, and thou shalt teache them ordynances, and lawes, & shewe them the waye wherein they must walke, and the worke y^e they must do. Moreover, thou shalt seke out amonge all the people, men of actiuite, and such as feare

God: true men, hatynge couetousnes: and make them heades ouer the people captaynes ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fyfty, and ouer ten. And let them iudge the people at al seasons. And euery * greute matter that happeneth, let them byng vnto the, but let the iudge all small causes them selues, and so shall it be easer for thy selfe, and they shall beare wyth the. If thou shalt do this thyng, (and God charge the with all) thou shalt be able to endure, and yet the people shal come to they^r place in peace.

And so Moyses obeyed the voyce of hys father in lawe, and dyd all that he had sayde, and chose actyue men oute of all Israel, and made them as heades ouer the people: namely captaynes ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fyfty, and ouer ten. And they iudged the people at all seasons, but bzought the hard causes vnto Moyses: and iudged all small matters them selues. And Moyses let hys father in lawe departe, and he wente into hys owne lande.

The xix. Chapter.

The chyldren of Israel come to the mount Synay. The people of God are holly and a holp presthode. He that toucheth the hyl dyeth. God appeareth vnto Moyses vpon the mounte in thunder and lpghtenynge.

In the thyrde moneth, when the chyldren of Israel were gone out of the lande of Egypt, the same daye came they into the wyldernesse of Sinai. * For they were departed from Raphidim, and were come to the deserte of Synay, and had pyched they^r tentes in the wyldernesse. And there Israel abode before y^e mounte. * But Moyses wente vp vnto God, and the Lorde called to hym out of the mountayne, sayenge: thus shalt thou saye vnto the house of Jacob, and tel the chyldren of Israel: ye haue sene what I dyd vnto the Egipcians, and toke you vp vpon Eagles wynges, and haue bzoughte you vnto my selfe. Nowe therfore * yf ye wil heare my voyce in dede, and kepe myne appointment, ye shalbe myne owne, aboute all nacions, for all the earth is myne. Ye shalbe vnto me also a kyngdome of * Dreastes and an holp people: and these are the wordes which thou shalt saye vnto the chyldren of Israel. Moyses came and called for the elders of the people, and layde before they^r faces al these wordes, which the Lorde commaunded hym. And the people answered altogether, and sayde. * All that the Lorde hath sayde, we wyl do. And Moyses bzought the wordes of the people vnto the Lorde.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: Lo, I come come vnto the in a thicke cloude, that the people maye heare me talkynge wpth the, and beleue the for euer. Moses shewed the wordes of the people vnto the lorde.

B And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Go vnto the people, and sanctifye them to daye and to morowe, and let them wash theyr clothes: and be redy agaynst the thyrde daye. For the thyrde daye the Lorde wyl come downe in the syghte of all the people vpon mount Sinai. And thou shalt set markes rounde aboute the people, and saye: beware that ye go not vp into the mount, or touche the bordre of it. Whosoever toucheth the * mounte, shall surely dye. There shall not an hande touche it. Els he shall be stoned or shot thowowe: whether it be beast or man, it shall not liue: when the trompe bloweth longe, then may they come vp into the mountayne.

C And Moses went downe from the mounte vnto the people, and sanctified them, and they washed theyr clothes. And he sayde vnto the people: be readye agaynst the thyrde daye, and come not at your wyues. And the thyrde daye in the mornynge there was thundre and lychtning and a thicke cloud vpon the mount, & the voyce of the trompe excedynge lowde, so that all the people that was in the hoste was afraied. And Moses brought the people out of the tentes to mete with God, and they * stode vnder the hyl. And mount Sinai was altogither on a smoke because the Lorde descended downe vpon it in fyre. And the smoke therof ascended vp, as the smoke of a hylne, and all the mount was excedynge fearful. And when the voyce of y trompe blew, and wared lowder and lowder. Moses spake, and God answered hym by a voyce.

D And the Lorde came downe vpon mount Sinay, euen in the toppe of the hyl, and when the Lorde called Moses vp into the toppe of y hyl, Moses went vppe. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Go downe, charge the people, that they prease not vp to se the Lord, and so many of the perishe. And let the preistes also whiche come to the Lorde sanctifye them selues, lest the Lorde destroy them. And Moses sayd vnto the Lord: the people can not come vp into the mount Sinay, for thou chargest vs, sayinge: set markes aboute the hyl, and sanctifye it. And the Lorde sayde vnto him: a way, and get the downe: and thou shalt come vp, thou and Aaron wth the. But let not the preistes & the people presume for to come vp vnto the Lorde: lest he destroye them. And so Moses wente downe vnto the people, and tolde them.

The. xx. Chapter.

The ten commaundementes are ghyuen. The altare of earth.

A And God spake all these wordes, & sayde: I am the Lorde thy God, whiche haue * brought the oute of the lande of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. Thou shalt haue none other goddes in my syght. * Thou shalt make the no grauen ymage, neither any similitude y is in heauen above, eyther in the earth beneth, or in the waters vnder y erth. * Thou shalt not worship the, neither serue the, for I y Lord thy God, am a gelouse God: and bylete the synne of the fathers vpon the children vnto the thyrde and fourthe generacyon of them that hate me: and shew mercy vnto thousandes in them that loue me and kepe my commaundementes.

Thou shalt not * take the name of the Lord thy God in vayne, for the Lord wyl not holde hym gylelesse that taketh his name in vayne. * Remembre the Sabboth daye, that thou sanctifye it. Syxe dayes shalt thou labour, and doo all that thou hast to doo: but the seuenth day is the Sabboth of the Lord thy God, in it thou shalt do no maner of worke, thou and thy sonne, and thy doughter, thy manseruaunt, and thy maydeseruaunt, thy cattell, and thy straunger that is within thy gates. For in syxe dayes the Lorde made heauen and earthe, the see, and all that in them is, and * rested the seuenth day, wherfore the Lorde blessed the Sabboth daye, and hallowe it. * Honour thy father and thy mother, that thy dayes may be longe in the lande, whych the Lorde thy God gyueth the

Thou shalt not couete * thy neyghbours house, neyther shalt thou couet thy neyghbours wyfe, or his manseruaunte, or his mayde, or his ore, or his asse, or whatsoever thy neyghboure hath. And all the people sawe the thunder, and the lychtynge, and the noyse of the trompe, and the mountayne smokyng.

And when the people sawe it, they remoued, and stode afar of, and sayde vnto Moses, talke * thou with vs, and we wyl heare: but lette not God talke with vs, lest we dye. And Moses sayde vnto y people: feare not, for God is come to proue you, and that his feare may be in your face, that ye synne not. And the people stode afar of: And Moses went into the thicke cloude where God was. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: thus thou shalt saye vnto the chyldren of Israel. Ye haue sene that I haue talked with you from out of heuē. Ye shall not make therfore wyth me gods of syluer, neyther shall ye make pou goddes of golde. * An altare of earth thou shalt make vnto me, and thereon offereth burnt offrynges, and thy peace offrynges, thy shepe, and thyne oxen. In all places where I shall put the remembraunce of my name I thither I will come vnto the, and blesse the. And yf thou wylt make me an altare of stonne, se thou make it not of hewen stonne. Els yf thou lyfte vp thy toole vpon it, thou hast polluted it. Nether shalt thou go vp by steppes vnto myne altare, that thy sylthynesse be not shewed thereon.

The xxii. Chapter

Suche lyke lawes as are in the Chapter above.

If a man *steale an ore or a shepe, and kyll it or sell it, he shall restore. v. oxen for one ore: and foure shepe for a shepe. If a thefe be founde brea- kyng vp, and be smytten that he dye there shall no blood be shedde for hym: but if the sunne be vp when he is founde, then there shall be bloodshed for hym.

A thefe shall make restitution: if he haue not wherwith, he shall be solde for his thefte. If the thefte be founde in his hande alpye, (whether it be ore, asse, or shepe) he shall restore double. If a man do hurte felde or vyneyarde, and put in his beast to fede in another mans felde: of the best of his owne felde, & of the best of his owne vyneyarde shall he make restitution.

If fyre breake out, and cathe in the thornes and the stacks of corne, or the standyng corne or felde be consumed therewith, he that kyndled the fyre shall make restitution.

If a man deliuer his neyghbour moneye or stuffe to kepe, and it be stolen out of his house, if the thefe be found, let hym paye double. And if the thefe be not founde, then the good man of the house shall be brought vnto the Iudges. (And shall sweare) whether he haue put his hande vnto his neyghbours good.

And in all maner of trespassse, whether it be for oxen, asse, shepe, rayment, or anye maner of lost thyng which an other chalengeth to be his the cause of bothe parties shall come before the Iudges, and whom the Iudges condemne: let hym paye double vnto his neyghbour.

If a man deliuer vnto his neyghboure to kepe, asse, ore, shepe, or what so ever beast it be, and it dye, or be hurte, or taken awaye (and no man se it:) then shall an othe of the Lozde be betwene betwene them, that he hath not put hys hande vnto hys neyghbours good, and the owner of it shall take the oth, and so other shall not make it good. And if it be stolen from hym, then he shall make restitution vnto the owner thereof. If it be tozne with wyld beasts, then let hym bypunge recorde of the tearpunge, and he shall not make it good. And if a man borrowe oughte of hys neyghbour, and it be hurte or elles dye, and the owner thereof be not by, he shall make it good.

But if the owner thereof be by, he shall not make it good: namely, if it be an bypunged thyng, and came for byspunge. * If a man entyle a mayd that is not betrothed, and lye with her, he shall endowe her, and take her to hys wyfe. And if her father refuse to gyue her vnto hym, he shall paye money, accordyng to the dowrye of virgines. Thou shalt not suffre a wythe to lye. Whosoever lyeth with a beast, shall be slayne for it. He that offereth vnto any goddes, saue vnto the Lorde onely, let hym be utterly rooted out. * Wex not a straunger, neyther oppresse hym: for ye were straungers in the lande of Egypt. * Ye shall trouble no wydowe, nor fatherlesse chyld. If ye shall trouble them, & they crye vnto me, I wyll surely heare theyr crye, & then wyll my wrath waxe hote, and I wyll kyl you with the swerde, and your wyues shall be wyddowes, and your chyldren fatherlesse.

* If thou lende money to any of my people that is poore by the, thou shalt not be as a tyraunte vnto him: neither shalt thou oppresse him with vsury. * If thou take thy neyghbours rayment to pledge, thou shalt deliuer it vnto hym agayne by that the sunne go downe. For that is hys couerynge onely, euen the rayment for his skynne wherin he slepeth. And when he crieth vnto me I wyll heare hym, for I am mercifull.

* Thou shalt not ryle vpon the goddes: neither blasfeme the ruler of thy people. Thy frutes (whether they be drie or moyst) se thou kepe not backe. * Thy fyrste borne sonne thou shalt giue me, likewise also shalt thou do with thyne oxen and with thy shepe. Seuen dayes it shall be with the damme, & the eyght day thou shalt gyue it me. Ye shall be holy people vnto me, neither shall ye eate any flesch that is tozne of beasts in the felde. But shall cast it to dogges.

Chapter.

Here I set no summe, because I wolde all people shoulde reade the Chapter thorowly out, and the two that are next before also.

Thou shalt not accepte a bayne tale, neyther shalt thou put thyne hande with the wycked, to be an vnryghteous wytnesse. Thou shalt not folowe a multitude to do euyl, neither answer in a matter of plee that thou woldest (to folowe many) turne asyde from the truthe, neither shalt thou paynte a poore mannes cause. * If thou mete thyne enemyes ore or asse goynge astraye, thou shalt bypunge them to hym agayne. * If thou se thyne enemyes asse synke vnder hys burthen, thou shalt not passe by and let hym aloone: but shalt helpe hym to lyft hym vp agayne.

Thou shalt not bynde the ryght of the poore

in their sute. Kepe the farre from a false matter, and the innocent and ryghteous se thou slaye not, for I wyll not iustify the wycked: * Thou shalt take no gyftes, for gyftes blynde the seing and peruert the wordes of the ryghteous. Thou shalt not oppresse a straunger, * for ye knowe the herte of a straunger, seinge ye were straungers in the lande of Egypt.

* Syxe yerres thou shalt sowe thy lande, and gather in the frutes thereof, and the seuenth yere thou shalt let it rest and lye styll, that the poore of the people maye eate, and what they leaue, the beasts of the felde shall eate. In lyke maner thou shalt do also with thy vyneparde, & thyne olyue trees. * Syxe dayes thou shalt do thy worke, and in the seuenth day thou shalt reste, that thyne ore and thyne asse maye rest, and the sone of thy mayde and the straunger, may be refreshed. In all thynges that I haue sayde vnto you, be circumspecte. And make no rehersall of the names of straunge goddes, * neyther let it be hearde out of thy mouth.

Thy feastes thou shalt hold vnto me in a yere. * Thou shalt kepe the feast of swete breed, that thou eate vniuened breed seuen dayes longe, as I comanded the, in the tyme of the moneth when corne begynneth to ryse, for in that moneth ye came out of Egypt: and se that no man appeare before me emptye. And the feast of haruest when thou reapest the fyrste frutes of thy labours, which thou hast sowed in the felde. And the feast of ingathering, which is in the ende of the yere, when thou hast gathered in thy labours out of the felde.

* Thy tymes in a yere shall all thy men chyldren appeare before the Lorde God.

* Thou shalt not offere the blood of my sacrifice vpon leauened breed: neyther shall the fatte of my feast remayne vntyl the moynyng.

* The fyrst of the fyrst frutes of thy lande thou shalt bypunge into the house of the Lorde thy God, * thou shalt also not scyth a kyd in his mothers mylke. Beholde, I sende an Angell before the, to kepe the in the waye, and to bypunge the into the place whiche I haue prepared. Beware of hym, and heare hys voyce, and resyste hym not: for he wyll not spare poure mysloddes, and my name is in hym. But and if thou shalt hearken vnto his voyce, and all that I speake, I wyll be an enemye vnto thyne enemyes, and an aduersary vnto thyne aduersaries. For myne angell shall go before the, and bypunge the in vnto the Amorytes, and Hethites, and Cherizites and Cananites, Hivites, and Jebuzites, and I shall destroye them. Thou shalt not worshipp their goddes, neither serue them, neither do after the workes of them: but ouerthrowe them, and breake downe the ymages of them. And ye shall serue the Lorde poure God, and he shall blesse thy breed and thy water, and I wyll take all synnes awaye from the myddes of the.

There shall be no womā childlesse nor vnfruitefull in thy lande: the nombre of thy dayes wyll I fulfyll. I wyll sende my feare before the, and wyll trouble all the people whither thou shalt

And thou shalt cast foure rynges of gold for it, and put them in the foure corners therof. ii. rynges shal be in the one syde of it, & ii. in the other.

¶ And thou shalt make barres of sethim wood and couer them wyth golde, and put the barres in the rynges alonge by the sydes of the arke, to beare it wythall. And the barres shal be in the rynges of the arke, and shal not be taken away

And thou shalt make the seuen lampes of it: and the seuen lampes therof, shalt thou put on hye thereon, to gyue lyght vnto the other syde that is ouer agaynst it.

The tonges and snuffers therof shall be of pure golde. Of an hundred pounce weyght of fyne golde shalt thou make it withall the apparell. * Like therfore that thou make them after the fashyon that was shewed the in the mount.

The xxvi. Chapter.

This Chapter also describeth the thynges pertaynyng to the holy place.

the tabernacle shalt thou make vnto x. curtaynes of white twined silke yelow sylke, purple and skarlet. And in them thou shalt make pictures of bzyrderde worke. The length of one curtayne shall be eyght and twentie cubytes, and the bredth of one curtayne four cubytes, and euery one of the curtaynes shall haue one measure: fyue curtaynes shall be coupled togyther one to another: and fyue curtaynes shall be coupled together one to an other.

And thou shalt make lowpes of yelow sylke along by the edge of the one curtayne, which is in the seluedge of the couplynge curtayne. And lyke wyse shalt thou make in the edge of the vtmost curtayne that is to be coupled therwith on the other syde. Fyfte lowpes shalt thou make in the one curtayne, and fyfte lowpes shalt thou make in the edge of the curtayne that is to be coupled therwith on the other syde: that the lowpes maye take holde one of an other. And thou shalt make fyfte buttons of golde, and couple the curtaynes together with the buttons and it shall be one habitation.

* And thou shalt make a leuen curtaynes of goatse hyere, to be a couerynge vpon the tabernacle. The length of a curtayne shall be thyrtye cubytes, and the bredth foure, and they shall be all leuen of one measure. And thou shalt couple fyue curtaynes by them selues, and the syre by them selues, and shalt double the syre in the fore fronte of the Tabernacle. And thou shalt make fyfte lowpes in the edge of the vtmost curtayne on the one syde: euen in the edge of the couplynge curtayne: and fyfte lowpes in the edge of the other curtayne that muste be ioyned vnto it. And thou shalt make fyfte buttons of bzaile, and put them on the lowpes: and couple the couerynge together, that it maye be one.

And the remnaunt that resteth in the curtaynes of the couerynge: euen the halfe curtayne that resteth, shall be lefte on the backe sydes of the habitation: that a cubyte on the one syde, & a cubyte on the other syde maye remayne in the length of the curtaynes of the couerynge, and þe it maye remayne of eyther syde of the habitation to couer it wythall. And vpon the tabernacle thou shalt make a couerynge of cammes skynnes dyed red, and yet a couerynge aboue all of taxus skynnes.

And thou shalt make bordes for the habitation of sethim wood to stande vpryght: ten cubytes longe shall euery boorde be, and a cubyte and an half brode. Two feete shall there be in one boorde: and they shall be separate one from an other. And thus shalt thou make for al the bordes of the tabernacle. * And thou shalt make twenty bordes for the habitation on the south syde, and thou shalt make sockettes of syluer, vnder the twenty bordes, two sockettes vnder one boorde, for his two fete, and two sockettes vnder an other boorde for his two feete. In lyke maner in the north syde of the habitation there shall be xx. bordes & xl. sockettes of syluer, if sockettes vnder one boorde, & ii. sockettes vnder a nother bozde. And in the west ende of the habitation shalte thou make fyve boozdes, and two bozdes shalt thou make in the corners of the habitation in the metyng togyther of the two syndes. And they shalbe coupled together beneth, and lyke wyse aboue, to a ryng. And thus shal it be for the two bozdes, that are in the corners. And they shalbe eyght bozdes hauing sockettes of syluer, euen .xvi. sockettes: that there maye be two sockettes vnder one bozde, and two sockettes vnder an other bozde.

¶ And thou shalt make barres of sethim wood, fyue for the bozdes of the tabernacle in one syde, and fyue barres for the bozdes of the tabernacle in the other syde, and fyue barres for the bozdes of the tabernacle in the west ende. And y mydle barre shal goo alonge thozowe the myddes of the boozdes from the one ende vnto the other. And thou shalt couer the bozdes with golde, and make theyr rynges of golde, to put y barres thozowe, and thou shalt couer the barres wyth golde also. And thou shalt reere vp the habitation accordyng to the fashy on therof, as it was shewed the in the mounte. And thou shalt make a vayle of yelow sylke, of purple, scarlet, and white twyned sylke. Of broderd worke with pyctures shalt thou make it. And hange it vpon foure pylers of sethim woode couered wyth golde. Whose heedes shalbe of golde, standyng vpon foure sockettes of syluer. And thou shalt hange vpon the vayle y ringes, that thou mayest bring in (within the vayle) the arke of wytnes. And the vayle shal vnto pou deuyde the holpe from the most holy. And thou shalt put the mercyseate vpon the arke of wytnesse in the holpest place. And thou shalt put the table wythout the vayle, and the candlestick ouer agaynst the table on the south syde of y habitation. And put the table on y north syde. And thou shalt make an hangyng for the doze of the tabernacle of yelow sylke, purple, scarlet, & white twyned sylke wrought w needle worke. And y shalt make for the hangyng .v. pylers of sethim wood & couer them with golde, & their knops shalbe of golde, and y shalt cast .v. sockettes of brasle for them.

The .xxvii. Chapter

The forme of the altare of the burntofferyng with his hornes, rynges, staues, gredpernes, & other ornaments.

Ex. xxvii. a Ezer. xliii. d

And thou shalt make an altar of sethim wood, fyue cubites long and fyue cubytes brode. For it shal be foure square, and thre cubytes hye. And thou shalt make it hornes in y foure corners of it, the hornes shalbe of it selfe, and thou shalt couer it with brasle. And make his aspyannes, shouels, basens, fleshookes, sperepannes, and all the apparell therof for the same of brasle. And thou shalt make vnto it a gredperne also (lyke a net) of brasle. And vpon that net shalt thou make foure brasen rynges in the four corners therof: and thou shalt put it vnder the compasse of the altar beneth, that the nette maye be in the myddes of the altare. And thou shalt make two barres for the altar of sethim wood, and couer them with brasle, and let them be put in rynges alonge by the syndes of the altare to beare it wythal. And make the alter holowe with boozdes: euen as it was shewed the in the mount, so shall they make it.

And thou shalt make the courte of the habitation, that there maye be in the south syde hangynges of white twyned sylke, of an hundred cubytes longe, for one syde, and twenty pylers therof, with theyr twenty sockettes of brasle: but the knoppes of the pylers, and theyr whoopes shalbe syluer. In lyke wyse on the north syde there shalbe hangynges of an hundred cubytes longe, and .xx. pylers with theyr .xx. sockettes of brasle, and the knoppes and the whoopes of syluer. And the bredth of the court, whych is on the west part, shal haue curtaynes of fiftie cubites longe, and ten pylers w theyr ten sockettes. And the bredth of the court which is eastwarde shal haue fyfte cubites. Hangynges of fyftene cubytes in the one syde: and theyr pylers with theyr thre sockettes: and lyke wyse on the other syde shalbe hangynges of fiftene cubytes, with theyr thre pylers and sockettes.

And in the gate of the courte shalbe a vayle of twenty cubytes, of yelow sylke, purple, and scarlet, & white twyned sylke wroughte wyth needle worke: and foure pylers with theyr foure sockettes. All the pylers rounde about the court shalbe whoped with syluer, and theyr knoppes shalbe of syluer, and theyr sockettes of brasle. The length of the courte shalbe an hundred cubites, and the bredth fyfte, and the heygth fyue, and the hangynges shalbe of white twyned sylke, and theyr sockettes of brasle. All the vessels of the habitation in all maner seruyce and the pyennes therof: yea, and all the pyennes also of the courte, shalbe of brasle. * And thou shalt commaunde the chyldren of Israel, that they gyue the pure oyle olpue beaten for y lycht, to poure alwaye into the lampes. In the tabernacle of wytnesse without the vayle which is before the wytnesse, shal Aaron & his sonnes dresse it both euenyng and moynyng before the Lorde: and it shal be a statute for euer vnto the generacyons of the chyldren of Israel.

Aarons apparell, and his sonnes.

And take thou vnto the Aaron thy brother and his sonnes with hym, from amonge the chyldren of Israel, that they maye mynyster vnto me. Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar, Aarons sonnes. And thou shalt make holy raymet for Aaron thy brother, that they maye be vnto gloze and beantie. And thou shalt speake vnto al that are wyse herted, and whomsoever I haue fylled with the spirite of wysdome: that they make Aarons raymente to consecrate hym wyth, that he may mynister vnto me. These are the garments whiche they shal make, a breslapp, Ephod, a tunicle, a strapt coote, a mypter, and a gyrdle. These holpe garments shal they make for Aaron thy brother: and his sonnes, that they maye minister vnto me. And let them take golde, yelow sylke, purple

ple, skarlet, and whyte twined sylke. They shal make the Ephod of golde, pelowe sylke, purple, skarlet, and whyte twined sylke with broederd worke. The two sydes shal come together, and be closed vp in the two edges thereof. And the gyrdle of the Ephod shalbe of the same worke-manshyy, and of the same stuffe, euen of golde, pelowe sylke purple, skarlet and whyte twined sylke. And thou shalt take two onix stones, and graue in them the names of the children of Israel: syre names of them in the one stone, and the other syre in the other stone: accordyng to ^(the order of) they: by the. After the worke of a stone graner, and of hym that graueth sygnets shalt thou graue the two stones wyth the names of þ childzen of Israel, and shalt make them to be set in gold. And thou shalt put the two stones vpon the two shulders of the Ephod, that they maye be stones of remembraunce vnto the chyldre of Israel. And Aaron shal beare they: names before the Lord vpon his two shoulers, for a remembraunce. And thou shalt make hokes of golde and two cheynes of fyne gold lynk worke and wretched, and fasten the wretched cheynes to the hokes. And thou shalt make the brestlap of iudgement wyth broederd worke, euen after the worke of the Ephod shalt þ make it: namely of golde, pelow sylke, purple, skarlet, & whyte twined sylke, shalt þ make it. Four square it shalbe and double, an hand bred longe & an hande bred bred. And thou shalt fyl it w four rowes of stones. In the fyrst rowe shalbe a Sardios, a Topas & Smaragdus, in the second row, a Ruby, Saphir, and Diamonde: in the thyrde Ligurios an Achat, and Amatist: in þ fourth, a Turcas, Onix, and Jaspis. And they shalbe set in golde in they: inclosers. And the stones shalbe grauen as sygnets be grauen with the names of þ childzen of Israel, euen with twelue names, euery one with his name accordyng to the twelue trybes. And thou shalt make vpon the brestlappe, two fastenyng cheynes of pure golde and wretched worke. And thou shalt make lykewyse vpon the brestlap two rynges of golde: and putte the on the edges of the brestlap, and put þ two wretched cheynes of gold in the. ij. rynges which are in the edges of the brestlappe. And the other two endes of the two cheynes, thou shalt fasten in two close hokes, and put them vpon the shulders of the Ephod on the foresyde of it. And þ shalt yet make two rynges of gold, which thou mayst put in the two edges of the brestlap, euen in the borders therof, towarde the insyde of the Ephod ouer agaynst it. And yet two other rynges of gold thou shalt make and put the on the two sydes of the Ephod, beneth ouer agaynst þ brestlap, alowe where the sydes are iopned together vpon the broederd gyrdle of the Ephod. And they shal bynde the brestlap by his rynges vnto the rynges of the Ephod, with a lace of pelowe sylke, þ it maye lye close aboue þ broederd gyrdell of the Ephod, & that the brestlap be not losed from the Ephod. And Aaron shall beare þ names of the childzen of Israel in the brestlap of iudgement vpon his herte when he goeth in to the holy place for a remembraunce before the Lord alwaye. And thou shalt put in the brestlap of iudgement Azim & Thumim: and they shal be euen vpon Arons hert, when he goeth in before the Lord: and Aaron shal beare the iudgement of the chyldzen of Israel vpon his hert before the Lord alway. And thou shalt make the tuncle vnto the Ephod all together of pelowe sylke. And there shalbe an hole for the heade in the myds of it, hauing a bonde of wouen worke rounde aboute the collar of it (as it were the collar of a partlet) that it rent not. And beneth vpon the hem, thou shalt make pomgranates of pelow sylke and of purple and skarlet, round about the hem, and belles of gold betwene them rounde about: and let there be euer a golden bel and a pomgranate, a golden bel and a pomgranate, rounde about vpon the hem of the tuncle.

* And Aaron shal haue it vpon hym, when he minystrerth, and the sounde shalbe hearde, when he goeth into þ holy place before the Lord, and when he cometh out, and he shall not dye. And thou shalt make a plate of pure gold, and graue thereon, as sygnettes are grauen. The holynesse of the Lord, and put it on a pelow sylke lace to be vpon the mytre, euen vpon the fore fronte of it. And it shalbe vpon Arons forehead: þ Aaron maye beare the synne of the holpe thynges whiche the chyldzen of Israel halow in al they: holy gyftes. And it shalbe alwayes vpon hys forehead, for the reconcylng of them before the Lord. And thou shalt make a linnen cote, and thou shalt make a mytre of linnen and a gyrdel of nedle worke. And thou shalt make for Arons sonnes also cotes, gyrdels, and bonets, glorious and bewtyfull, and thou shalt put them vpon Aaron thy brother, and on hys sons with hym: and shalt annoynt the, and fyl the: handes, and sanctifye them, that they maye minystrer vnto me. And thou shalt make them linnen breeches to couer they: priuityes, fro the loynes vnto the thyges shall they reach. And they shalbe vpon Aaron and his sonnes when they come into the tabernacle of wytnes, or when they come vnto the altar to minystrer in holynesse, þ they beare no synne, and so dye. And it shalbe a lawe for euer vnto Aaron & hys sede after hym.

The. xix. Chapter.

The consecracyn of Aaron and of hys sonnes.

This thing also shalt thou do vnto the when thou shalt halowest them to be my prestes. Thou shalt take a calf, euen a yong ore, and two rammes that are without blemys, and vnlouened bread & cakes of swete bread tempoized with oyle, and wafers of swete breade anoynted with oyle (of wheten flower shalt thou make them) and put them in a maunde, and byng them in the maunde with þ calfe and the two rammes. And bynge Aaron and hys sonnes vnto the doze of the tabernacle of wytnes, and washe them with water, & take the garmentes, & put vpon Aaron: the strapte cote the tuncle of the Ephod, and the Ephod, & the brestlap: and gyrdle them to him with þ broederd gyrdel whiche is in the Ephod. And putte the mytre vpon his head: & put the holy crowne vpon the mytre. Then shalt thou take the anoynting oyle, and powze it vpon his head, and anoynte hym. And bypunge his sonnes, and put albes vpon them, and gyde them with gyrdels aswell Aarō as his sonnes. And put the myters on them, and the prestes offyce shalbe theys for a perpetuall lawe. And thou shalt fyll the handes of Aaron and of his sonnes: and bypunge the calfe before the tabernacle of witness. * And Aaron and his sonnes shall put theyr handes vpon the head of the calfe, & thou shalt kyll hym before the Lorde, by the dooze of the tabernacle of witness. And take of the bloode of the calfe & put it vpon the hornes of the altar wth thy finger: and powze al the blood besyde the bottome of the altar, & take all the fat that covered the inwardes, and the kail that is on the lyuer, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is vpon them and burne them vpon the altar. But the fleshe of the calfe and his skynne, and his donge shalt thou burne with fyre without the host. It is a synne offering. Thou shalt also take one ram, & Aaron & his sonnes shall put theyr handes vpon the head of the ram, and when thou haste slayne the ramme, thou shalt take his bloode, & spynkle it rounde about vpon the altare, and cut the ramme in peces, and wash the inwardes of him and his legs, and put them vnto the peces and vnto his head: and then burne the hole ram vpon the altar for a burnt offering vnto the Lorde, and for a swete sauour & a sacrifice vnto the Lorde.

And take y^e other ram, and Aaron and his sonnes shall put theyr handes vpon his heade. Then shalt thou kyll him, and take of his blood and put it vpon the tipp of the ryght eare of Aaron and of his sonnes, and vpon the thumbe of theyr ryght handes, and vpon the greate too of theyr ryght fote, and spynkle the bloode vpon the altar rounde about. And thou shalt take of the bloode that is vpon the altare, and of the anoynting oyle, and spynkle it vpon Aaron and his vestimentes and vpon his sonnes and vpon theyr garmentes with hym. And he shalbe halowed and his clothes and his sonnes, and their clothes with hym. * And thou shalt take the fat of the ram and his rompe, and the fat that couereth the inwardes, and the kail of the lyuer, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is vpon them and the ryght shulder: for the ram is a full offering: and a spinnel of bread, and a cake of oyle bread, and a wafer out of the baskette of swete bread that is before the Lorde, and put all vpon the handes of Aaron, and on the handes of his sonnes: and waue them for a waue offering before the Lorde. And agayne, thou shalt take it from of theyr handes, and burne it vpon the altar for a burnt offering, to be a sauour of sweetnes before the Lorde. For it is a sacrifice vnto the Lorde. * And thou shalt take the brest of the ram of Aarons consecration, and waue it for a waue offering before the Lorde: and it shalbe thy parte. And thou shalt sanctifye the brest of the waue offering: and the shulder of the heue-offering, whiche is waued and heued vp of the ram of the consecracyon for Aaron and for his sonnes. And it shalbe Aarons and his sonnes by a statute for ever, of the chyldren of Israel: for it is an heue offering. Euen an heue offering of the chyldren of Israel, and of theyr peace offerings. Theyr heue offerings is the Lorde. And the holy garmentes of Aaron shalbe his sonnes after hym, to be anoynted therein: and to fyll theyr handes therein. And that son that is prest in his stede after hym, shall put the on. vij. dayes whē he cometh into y^e tabernacle of witness, to minister in the holy place. * And y^e shalt take the ram of the consecracion, & seth his fleshe in an holpe place. And Aarō & his sons shal eat the fleshe of the ram, & the bread that is in the basket, eue by the doze of the tabernacle of witness: & they shal eat them, because the attonement was made therewith, to fyll theyr handes, and to consecrate them: but a straunger shall not eat thereof, because they are holy. And yf ought of the fleshe of the consecracion or of the bread remayne vnto the moynynge, thou shalt burne it with fyre, and it shal not be eaten, because it is holy. Therfore shalt thou do vnto Aaron and his sonnes, euen so, accordyng to all thynges whiche I haue commaunded y^e, seven dayes shalt thou fyll their handes, and offer euery daye a calfe for a synne offering, for to reconcyle withal: that thou mayest cleanse the altar when thou reconcylest vpon it and thou shalt anoynte it, to sanctifye it. Seven dayes thou shalt reconcyle vpon the altar, and sanctifye it, and it shalbe as an altare most holpe. Every one that toucheth the altare, lette hym be holpe. * This is that whiche thou shalt offer vpon the altare: euen two lambes of one yere olde, day by day continually: the one thou shalt offre in the moynynge, and the other at eue. And with the one lambe a tenth deale of flour mingled with the fourth parte of an hyne of beaten oyle, and the fourth part of an hyne of wyne, for a bynke offering. And the other lambe thou shalt offer at euen, and shalt doo thereto accordyng to the meate offeringe and bynke offering in the moynynge, to be an odour of a swete sauoure and a sacrifice vnto the Lorde. And let this be a continual burnt offering among your chyldren after you before the dooze of the tabernacle of witness before the Lorde, where I wil mete you, to speake there vnto the. There I wil mete with the chyldren of Israel, and wil be sanctified in myne honoure. And I wil sanctifye the tabernacle of witness and the altar: And I wil sanctifye also both Aaron and his sonnes to be my prestes. And I wil dwel amonge the chyldren of Israel: and wil be theyr God. And they shall knowe that I am the Lorde theyr God, that brought them oute of the lande of Egypte, for to dwel among them: euen I the Lorde theyr God.

The xxx. Chapter.

The altar of incense. The brasen laver. The anoynting oyle.

And thou shalt make an altare to burne incense, of sethim wood thou shalt make it, a cubyte longe and a cubyte broade: euen foure square shal it be and two cubytes hye the

the hornes thereof shall proceede out of it, and thou shalt overlape it with fyne golde, both the roffe and the walles rounde aboute and hys hornes also, & shalt make vnto it a crowne of golde rounde about, and two golde rynges on eyther syde: euen vnder the crowne, that they maye be as places for the barres to beare it withal. And thou shalt make the barres of sethim wood, and couer them wpth golde. And thou shalt put it before the vayne, that is by the arke of wytnesse, before the mercysate that is vpon the wytnesse, where I wyll mete the. And Aaron shall burne thereon swete incense euery moorning, when he dresseth the lampes, euen then shall he burne it: & lyke wyse at euen, when he setteth vp the lampes he shall burne incense: and thys incensyng shall be perpetually before the Lorde, thowout your generacions. Ye shall put no strange incense thereon, burnt sacrifice or meate offering, nether powre any dzyne offering thereon.

And Aaron shall reconcyle vpon the hornes of it once in a yere: wpth the bloude of the synne offering of reconcylng: euen once in the yere shall he reconcyle it thowout your generacions. It is most holy vnto the Lorde. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying: * If thou takest the summe of the chyldre of Israel after theyr nombre, they shall geue euery man a reconcylng of his soule vnto the Lord whē thou tellest them, that there be no plage amonge them, when thou tellest them. And thus muche shall euery man geue, and that goeth into the nombre: half a shecle, after the shecle * of the sanctuarie: a shecle is twente halfe pence. An halfe shecle shall be the heue offering of the Lorde. All that are nombred from twenty yere old and aboue, shall geue an heue offering vnto the Lorde. The sheche shall not passe, and the poore shall not vnder halfe a shecle. But ye shall geue an heue offering vnto the Lord, that he maye haue merce vpon your soules. And thou shalt take the reconcylng money of the chyldren of Israel, and shalt put it vnto the vse of the tabernacle of wytnesse, that it maye be a memoꝝall vnto the chyldre of Israel before the Lorde, that he maye haue merce vpon your soules. And the Lord spake vnto Moyses, saying: * Thou shalt make a lauer of brasse, and hisfote also of brasse to wash withal, & shalt put it betwene the tabernacle of wytnesse, & the aulter, and put water therein. For Aaron & his sons shall wash theyr handes & theyr fete therein: euen when they go into the tabernacle of wytnesse, or when they goo vnto the aulter to mynstre and to burne the lordes offering, they shall wash them selues wpth water, lest they dye. And it shall be an ordinaunce vnto them for euer, bothe vnto him and his sede thowout theyr generacions. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses saying: Take vnto the, pryncypall spyes: of the moste pure myre syue hundred shecles, of swete cynamon halfe so muche, euen two hundred and fyfthe shecles: of swete calamus, two hundred & fyfthe shecles, of cassia, syue hundred, after the holy shecle, and of oyle olyfean hyn. And thou shalt make of the oyle an holye oymment, euen an oymment compound after the crafte of the apotecary. And thou shalt anoynte the tabernacle of wytnesse therwpth, and the arke of wytnesse and the table, and all hys apparell: and the candelsycke, and all hys apparell: and the aulter of encense, and the aulter of burnt sacrifice wpth all his vessels, and the lauer and hisfote. And thou shalt sanctify the, that they maye be moste holy: so that no man touche them, but they that be halowed. And thou shalt anoynt Aaron and his sonnes, and consecrate them, that they maye mynstre vnto me. And thou shalt speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, sayinge, thys shall be an holy oymtyng oyle vnto me, thowout your generacions. Vpon mans fleshe shall it not be powred: nether shall ye make any other after the maner of it, for it is holy: and shall be holpe vnto you, whosoever maketh lyke that, or who soeuer putteth any of it vpon a stranger, shall perishe from amonge hys people.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: take vnto the, swete spyes: balme, Onicha, swete Galbanum, these spyes wpth pure frankincense, of each lyke much, & make of them swete smellyng incense, after the crafte of the apotecary, myngled together, pure and holpe. And beate it to powder and put of it before the wytnesse in the tabernacle of wytnesse, where I wyll mete the. It shall be vnto you moste holpe. And let that ye make none after the maner of that. It shall be vnto you holy for the Lorde. Whosoever shall make lyke vnto that, to smel therto, shall perishe from amonge hys people.

The. xxi. Chapter.

The callinge of Bezaleel and Ahaliab the workmen. The Sabbath is commaunded. The tables of stones are geuen Moyses.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses sayinge: beholde, * I haue called by name, Bezaleel, the sonne of Uri, the sonne of Hur of the trybe of Iuda. And I haue fylled hym wpth the sprete of God, in wysdome, and vnderstandyng in knowledge and in all maner of worke, to fynde out softe feates and to worke in golde, syluer and brasse, and in the crafte to set stones, and to carue in tymber, and to worke in all maner of workmanshipp. And beholde, I haue geuen hym to be hys companyon Ahaliab the sonne of Ahisamach of the trybe of Dan, & in the hartes of al that are wyse harted, haue I put wysdome to make all that I haue comaunded the, the tabernacle of wytnesse, the Arke of wytnesse, and the mercysate that is therupon: and all the ornaments of the tabernacle, and the table & his ornaments, and the pure candelsycke wpth al hys apparell, and the aulter of encense: & the aulter of burnt offerings and all hys vessels, and the lauer wpth hisfote. The vestimentes to mynstre in and the holy garmentes for Aaron the Hiest, and the garmentes of hys sonnes to mynstre in, and the annoymtyng oyle: and swete cense for the sanctuarie, accordyng to all that I haue comaunded the, shall they do.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: * Speake vnto the chyldren of Israel and saye: In any

Exo. xx. b. For whosoever worketh therein, the same soule shalbe rote out from among his people. Syre dayes shall men worke. And in the seventh daye is the Sabboth of the holy reste of the Lord. Whosoever doth any worke in the Sabboth daye, shall dye: wherfore let the chyliden of Israel kepe the Sabboth, that they obserue it thowout theyr generations, that it be an appoyntment for euer. For it is a sygne, betwene me and the chyliden of Israel for euer. * For in syre dayes the Lord made heauen and earth: and in the seventh day he rested, and was refreshed. And when the Lord had made an end of comynge wpyth Moles vpo the mounte Sinai: he gaue hym two tables of wpytnesse: euen tables of stone, wrytte with the synger of God.

Exo. xxxii. d.

Ad when the people sawe, that it was longe or Moles came downe out of the mountayne, they gathered them selues together vnto Aaron, and sayde vnto hym: * Up, make vs goddes to go before vs: for of this Moles (the felowe that brought vs out of the lande of Egypte) we wote not what is become. And Aaron sayde vnto them: plucke of the golden earynges which are in the eares of your wyues, your sonnes, and of your daughters: and bring them vnto me. And all the people plucked of the golden earynges, which they had in theyr eares and brought them vnto Aaron. And he receaued them of their handes, and fashioned it with a grauer, and made of it a calfe of molten metal. And they sayde: * These be thy goddes, O Israel which brought the out of the lande of Egypte. And when Aaron sawe that, he made an altare before it. And Aaron cryed, sayinge: to morowe is the holy daye of the Lord. And they rose vp in the mornynge: and offered burnt offerynges, and brought peace offerynges also. And the people sat them downe to cate and dypnke and rose vp agayne to playe.

And the Lord sayde vnto Moles: * go, get the downe: thy people whych thou broughtest out of the lande of Egypte, haue marred al, they are turned at once out of the way, which I commaunded them: * for they haue made them a calfe of molten metall, & haue worshypped it, and haue offered therto, sayinge: These be thy goddes, O Israel, which haue brought the out of the lande of Egypte. And the Lord sayd vnto Moles: * I haue sene thys people: & beholde it is a styfnecked people, & nowe suffre me, that my wrath maye waxe hote agaynst them, and consume them: and I wyll make of the a myghty people. And Moles besought the Lord his God, and sayde: O Lord, why doth thy wrath waxe hote agaynst thy people, which thou hast brought out of the land of Egypte, with great power and with a myghtie hande? * Wherfore shulde the Egyptians speake and saye: For a myschefe dyd he bring them out, euen for to slep them in the mountaynes, and to consume them fro the face of the earth? Turne from thy feare wra the: and turne from thys euell (deupsed) agaynst the people. Remembre Abraham, Isaac, and Israel thy seruantes to whome thou swarest by thyne owne selfe: and saydest vnto them, * I wyl multiplye youre seide, as the starres of heauen, and al thys lande, that I haue spoken of, wyl I geue vnto your seide, and they shal enheret it for euer. And the Lord refrayned hym selfe from the euell: whiche he sayde he wolde do vnto his people. And Moles turned his backe and went downe from the hyl, & the two tables of wpytnesse were in his hande: & the same tables were wrytten on both the leaues, & were the worke of God, and the wrytynge was the wrytynge of God grauen in the tables. And when Josua hearde the noyse of the people, as they howled, he sayde vnto Moles: there is a noyse of warre in the host. And he answered: it is not the cry of them that haue the mastery, nor of them that haue the worse: but I do heare the noyse of them that synge.

And it fortuneth, as he came nye vnto the hoste, he sawe the calfe and the daunsyng: & Moles wra the waxed hote, & he caste the tables out of his handes, & brake them beneth the hyl. * And he toke the calfe whiche they had made, & burned it in the fyre, and stampete it vnto powder, and strowed it in the water, & made the chyliden of Israel dypnke of it. And Moles sayde vnto Aaron: what dyd this people vnto, that thou hast brought so great a synne vpon them?

And Aaron answered: let not my wrath of my Lord waxe feare, thou knowest the people that they are euil set on myschefe: for they sayd vnto me: make vs gods to go before vs, for we wote not what is become of Moles the felowe that brought vs out of the lande of Egypte. And I sayde vnto them: let the that haue golde plucke it of, and bringe it me: and I dyd cast it into the fyre: and therof came out this calfe.

Moles therfore saw that the people were naked (and that Aaron had made them naked vnto theyr shame amonge theyr enemyes) and he wente and stode in the gate of the host, and said: Psaup man pertayne vnto the Lord, lette him come vnto me. And all the sonnes of Leui gathered them selues together, and came vnto hym. And he sayd vnto them. Thus sayth the Lord God of Israel, put euery man his swearde by his syde, and goe in and out, from gate to gate: thowout the hooste, and slep euerye man, his brother and euery man his company, and euery man his neyghbour. And the chyliden of Leui dyd as Moles had sayde. And there fell of the people the same daye aboute thre thousand men. And Moles sayd: fyl your handes vnto the Lord thys day, euery man vpon his sonne and vpon his brother, and that there may be geuen you a blessinge thys daye. And on the morowe it fortuneth tuned that Moyses sayde vnto þe people: ye haue synned a greate synne. And now I wyl go vp vnto the Lorde: þe paradventure I maye purchase an attonement for youre synne. Moyses therfore went agayne vnto the Lorde, & sayde: Ob, this people haue synned a great synne and haue made them goddes of golde. And now I praye the, either forgeue them theiſ synne: or (if wylt not) * wypp me out of thy booke, which thou haſte wyrtten. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: I wyl putte him out of my booke that hath synned agaynſte me. And now go thou, byngge the people vnto the place whiche I ſayd vnto the: beholde, * myne angell ſhal go before the. Neuerthelater in the daye when I viſet, I wyl viſet theyſ synne vpon the. And the Lorde plagued the people, becauſe they made the calfe whych the Aaron made.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

The Lorde ſendeth an angell before hys people. The Lorde denpeth to go vp wth the people. The people lamente theyſ synne Moyses talketh wth the Lorde.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses, departe and go hence: thou and the people, whiche thou haſte broughte out of the lande of Egypte, vnto the lande whych I ſweare vnto Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, ſayinge: * vnto thy ſede wyl I geue it: (and I wyl ſende an angell before the and wyl caſt out the Cananites, the Amorites, and the Hethtes, the Pherezites, the Heuites, and the Jebuſites) a lande þe ſloweth with mylke & hony. For I wyl not go amonge you my ſelf: * for ye are a ſtyfnecked people: leſt I conſume the in the waye. And when the people heard this euell tydinges, they ſorrowed: and no man put on hys beſt rayment. And the Lorde ſpake vnto Moyses: ſay vnto the chyldren of Iſrael: ye are a ſtyfnecked people: I muſte come once ſodenly vpon you, and make an end of you. Therfore now put thy goodly rayment fro the that I may wete what to do vnto the. And the chyldren of Iſrael layde theyſ goodly rayment from them, euen by the mount of Horeb.

And Moyses toke the tabernacle, and pytched it wthout the hoſt a ſarre of from the hoſt, & called it the tabernacle of wytnesſe. And ſo it came to paſſe that euery one which wolde pray vnto the Lorde, went out vnto the tabernacle of wytnes, whiche was wthout the hoſt. And it fortuneth, that when Moyses went out vnto þe tabernacle, all the people roſe vp, and ſtoode euery man at his tent doze: and looked after Moyses vntyl he was gone into the tabernacle. And as ſone as Moyses was entred into the tabernacle, the cloudy pyller deſcended, & ſtoode at the doze of the tabernacle, and he talked wth Moyses. And all the people ſawe the cloudy pyller ſtand at the tabernacle dooze, and they roſe vp, and worſhypped euery man in hys tent doze.

And the Lorde ſpake vnto Moyses: * face to face, as a man ſpeaketh vnto hys frende: and he turned agayne into the hoſt. And the chyldre Joſua his ſeruant the ſonne of Nun, departed not out of the tabernacle. And Moyses ſayd vnto þe Lorde: ſe, thou ſayſt vnto me: leade thys people furth, and thou haſt not ſhe wed me whom thou wylte ſende wth me. And thou haſt ſayde more ouer: I knowe the by name, and thou haſte alſo founde grace in my ſyghte. Nowe therfore if I haue founde fauoure in thy ſyghte, then ſhewe me thy waye, that I maye knowe the, and that I maye fynde grace in thy ſyghte. And conſyder alſo that this nacio, is thy people. And he ſayd: my preſence ſhall go wth the, and I wyl gene the reſte. He ſayde vnto hym: If thy preſence go not wth me, carpe vs not hence: for howe ſhall it be knowne here, that I and the people haue founde fauoure in thy ſyghte, but in that thou goeſt wth vs? If thou go wth vs, ſhal not I and thy people haue preemynence before all the people that are vpon the face of the earth? And the Lorde ſayde vnto Moyses: I wyl do this alſo þe thou haſte ſayde, for thou haſte founde grace in my ſyghte, and I knowe the by name.

And he ſayde, I beſeeche the: ſhewe me thy glory. And he ſayde: I wyl make all my good go before the, and I wyl be called in thys name of the Lorde before the: * and wyl ſhewe mercy to whome I wyl ſhewe mercy, and wyl haue compaſſyon on whome I wyl haue compaſſyon. And he ſayd furthermore: thou mayſt not ſe my face: * there ſhal no man ſe me, and lyue. And the Lorde ſayde: beholde, there is a place by me, and thou ſhalt ſtande vpon a rocke: and whyle my glory goeth furth, I wyl put the in a cleft of the rocke: and wyl put myne hande vpon the whyle I paſſe by. And I wyl take away myne hande, and thou ſhalt ſe my backe partes: but my face ſhall not be ſene.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

The tables are reuened. The mercy of God. To haue felowſhip wth the ſcyrples is forbydden, and theyſ ydolatre alſo. Of theyſ feaſtes.

And the Lorde ſayde vnto Moyses, I * be we the two tables of ſtone, lyke vnto the fyrſte, and I wyl wypte vpon theym the wordes that were in the fyrſte tables whych thou brakest. And he readye in the moynyng, that thou mayſte come vp early vnto the mounte of Synai: and ſtande there wth me in the top of the mounte. There ſhall no man come vp wth the, nether let anye man be ſene thowout all the mounte, nether lette the ſhepe nor oxen fede before the hyll. And Moyses bowed two tables of ſtone lyke vnto the fyrſte, and roſe vp earlye in the moynyng, and went vp vnto the mount of Synai, as the Lorde had commaunded hym: & toke toke in hys hande the two tables of stone. And the Lord descended in the cloud, and stode with hym there: & he called vpon the name of the Lord. And when the Lord walked before hym, he cryed, Lorde * Lorde God, merciful and gracious longe sufferynge, and aboundaunt in goodnes & truth, and keepynge mercy in store for thousands forgyuynge wickednes, ongodlinesse and synne, and not leauynge one innocent, visyting the wickednes of the fathers vpon the chyldre and vpon chylders chyldre, euen vnto the thyrde & fourth generacyon. And Moyses bowed hym self to the earth quykly, and worshypped, and sayd: Vf I haue founde grace in thy syght (O Lorde) then let my Lorde go wth vs: for it is a stubburne people, and thou shalt haue mercye vpon our wyckednes and our synne, & shalt take vs for thyne inheritaunce. And he sayd: beholde, I make an appoyntmente before all the people, and I wyl do meruayles: suche as haue not bene done in all the worlde, nether in al nacions. And al the people amonge which thou arte, shall se the worke of the Lorde: for it is a terribble thyng, that I wyl do with the: kepe those thynges that I commaunde the this day. Beholde, I caste out before the, the Amorytes, Cananytes, Hethytes, Herytytes, Heuytes & Jebulites. * Take hede to thy self, that thou make no compacte wth inhabyters of the lande whither thou goest, lest it because of cypne among you. But ouerthrow theyr alters, and breake their ymages and cut downe theyr groues. Thou shalt worshyppe no straunge god. For the Lorde is * called gelous, because he is a gelous God: lest yf thou make any agreement with the inhabyters of the lande, and they go a whoynge after theyr goddes, and do sacrifice vnto theyr gods, they call the, and thou eate of theyr sacrifice: & thou take of theyr daughters vnto thy sonnes, & theyr daughters go a whoynge after theyr gods, and make thy sonnes go a whoynge after theyr goddes also.

Thou shalt make the no goddes of metall. The * feaste of the swete breade shalt thou kepe Seuen dayes shalt thou eate vneleuened breade, as I commaunded the in the tyme of the moneth, when corne begynneth to rype. For in the moneth when corne begynneth to rype, thou camst out of Egypte. * All that breaketh vpon the matrice is myne: and all that breaketh the matrice amonge the catell, yf it be male: whyther it be ox or shepe. But the fyrst of the alle thou shalt bye out wth a lambe. And yf thou redeme hym not, thou shalt breake hys necke. All the fyrste borne of thy sonnes shalt thou redeme. * And se that no man appere before me emptye. * Syre dayes thou shalt worke, and in the seuenth daye thou shalt rest, both from earynge and reappynge. * Thou shalt obserue the feaste of wekes with theyr fyrst frutes of whete barneff, and the feaste of ingatherynge at the yeres ende. Thyple in a yere that all yow men chyldren appere before the Lorde Jehona God of Israell. When I cast out the nacions before the, and enlarge thy coastes, for that no ma shall desyre thy land, thou shalt go vnto appere before the Lord thy God thyple in the yere. * Thou shalt not offer the bloude of my sacrifice vpon leuen, nether shall oughte of the sacrifice of the feaste of Passeouer, be lefte vnto the moynge. * The fyrste rype frutes of my lande, thou shalt byng vnto the house of the Lorde thy God. And thou shalt not * seth a kydde in hys mothers mylke. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: wypte these wordes: for after the tenoure of these wordes I haue made a couenaunte with the and with Israell. * Ank he was there wth the Lorde fourty dayes and fourty nyghtes, and dyd nether eate breade or drynke water. * And he wrote vpon the tables the wordes of the couenaunt, euen ten verses. And it fortunied when Moses came down from mount Sinai, the two tables of witnesse were in Moses hand, when he came down from the mount. And Moses wist not the skynne of his face shone in maner of an horn whyle he talkd with hym. And Aaron and all the chyldren of Israell looked vpon Moses: and beholde, the skynne of hys face shone, and they were afrayde to come nye hym. And when he had called them. Aaron and all the chefe that were in the company came vnto hym, and Moses talked wth them. And afterwarde all the chyldren of Israel came nye, and he comaunded them, al that the Lorde had sayde vnto hym in mount Sinai. And when Moses had made an ende of comenynge wth them, * he put a couerynge vpon hys face. And agayne, when Moses went in before the Lorde to speake with hym * he toke the couerynge of vntyll he came out. And he came out, and spake vnto the chyldre of Israell that which he was comaunded. And the chyldren of Israel sawe the face of Moses, that the skynne of Moses face shone. And Moses put the couerynge vpon hys face agayne, vntyll he went in to comen wth hym.

The xxx. Chapter.
The Sabbath. The fyrst frutes are requyred. The redynes of the people to offer. Bezaleel and Aholiab are playfed of as ses, and set to worke.

And Moses gathered all the company of the chyldre of Israel together and sayde vnto them: these are the wordes which the Lorde hath commaunded that ye shulde do them. * Syre dayes ye shall worke: but the seuenth daye shall be vnto you the holy Sabboth of the Lordes rest: who soeuer doth any work therein, shall dye. Ye shall kyndle no fyre thowout all your habitacions vpon the Sabboth daye. And Moses spake vnto all the multitude of the chyldre of Israel saying: * this is the thyng whiche the Lorde commaunded, sayinge: Take from among you an heue offering vnto the Lord. Who soeuer is of a wyllynge hert, let him byng it for the heue offeringe of the Lorde. Namelye golde, syluer, and brasse, and pelowe sylke, purple charlet, whyte sylke, goates beare, and rammes skynnes redde, and taurus skynnes with sethim woode: oyle for light, and spycer for the anoyntynge oyle, and for the swete enense. And Onix stones, and stones to be set in the Ephod, and in the breste lappe. And let al them that are wyse.

wylle herted amonge you, come & make all that the Lorde hath commaunded: the habytacion of the tent therof and his conerynge, and his ryn- ges and his borders, his barres, his pylles and his sockettes, the arke, and the stauess thereof: with the mercye seate, and the dayle that couereth it: the table and his barres, and all his vessels, and the shewe bread, & candlestyk of lyght and his apparell and his lampes with the oyle, for the lyght: the cenceaulter and his barres, the annoyntynge oyle and the swete cense, and the hangynge of the doore at the entrynge in of the tabernacle: the altare of burnt sacrifice with his brasen gredgion, his stauess and all his vessels: the lauer and his fote, and the hangynge of the court, with his pylles and theyr sockettes, and the hangynge in the doore of the court, the pynnes of the habytacion, & the pynnes of the court with theyr cordes, the mynystryng garmentes to mynistr in the holy place: and the holy vestmentes for Aaron the preeft, and the vestmentes of his sonnes, that they maye mynistr in.

C And all the company of the chyldren of Israel departed from the presence of Moses. And euery one came (as many as theyr hertes couraged them, and as many as theyr spyrites made them wyllynge) and brought a presente for the Lorde, to the makynge of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and for all his vles, and for the holy vestmentes. And they came bothe men and women, (euen as many as were wyllynge herted) and brought braceletes and earynges, rynges and chaynes, which iewels were al of golde: and all the men brought a waue offryng of golde vnto the Lorde. And euery man with whome was founde pelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, whyte sylke and gootes heere, and red skynnes of rammes, & faxus skynnes, brought them. Al that dyd heue vp an oblacion of golde and brasse, and brought an heue offryng vnto the Lorde. And all men with whom was founde Sethim wood for any maner worke of mynistracion, brought it.

D And all the women that were wylle herted: dyd spyinne with theyr handes, and brought & spun worke both of pelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and whyte sylke. And all the women whome theyr owne herte moued, spunne gootes heere wyllely. And the lordes brought onix stones, and stones to be set in the Ephod, and in the brestlap, and spyce and oyle for lyght, and for the annoyntynge oyle, and for the swete cense. And the chyldren of Israel brought a wyllynge offeryng vnto the Lorde bothe men and women, as many as had wyllynge hertes to byng, for all maner of workes whiche the Lorde had commaunded to be made, by the handes of Moses.

E And Moses sayd vnto the chyldren of Israel: Beholde, * the Lorde hath called by name Bezaleel the sonne of Uri, the son of Hur of the trybe of Juda, and hath fylled him with the spyrite of God in wysdome and vnderstandynge, in knowledge, and in all maner worke; to fynde out curious workes which are made in golde, syluer, and brasse. In the crafte of stones to set them, & in caruyng of wood to make any maner of subtyl worke. And he hath put in his herte that he maye teache: bothe he and Aboliab the sonne of Abisamach of the trybe of Dan. Them hath he fylled with wysdome of herte to worke all maner of grauen and subtyl, and nedle worke in pelowe sylke, and purple, in scarlet & whyte sylke and in weauynge. And to do all maner of worke and subtyl feates.

The xxxvi. Chapter.

The thynges that Bezaleel and Aboliab made:

And Bezaleel wrought, and Aboliab & all wylle herted men, to whom the Lorde gaue wysdome and vnderstandynge, to knowe howe to worke al maner worke for the seruyce of the sanctuary, and al that the Lorde had commaunded. And Moses called Bezaleel, Aboliab and all the wylle herted men and such as the Lord had gyuen wisdom vnto, and as many as their hertes couraged to come vnto that worke to worke it. And they receyued of Moses al the present which the chyldren of Israel had brought for the worke of the seruyce of the sanctuary, to make it. And besyde that, they brought gyftes vnto it euery daye in the moynynge.

And all the wylle men that wrought all the holye worke, came euery man from his worke whiche they made, and spake vnto Moses, saying: the people byng to moche, and more then ynough for the seruice & worke whiche the Lord hath commaunded to be made. And then Moses gaue a commaundement, and they caused it to be proclaymed thorowout the host, saying: se that neither man nor woman prepare any more worke for the present of the sanctuary: and so the people were forbiddyn to byng: for the stuffe they had was sufficient for all the worke, to make it, and to moche. * All the wylle herted men there, and they that wrought for the habytacion made ten curtaynes of white twyned sylke, pelowe sylke, purple and scarlet with pyctures of broded worke made he them. The length of one curtayne was. xxviii. cubytes, and the breadth foure: and the curtaynes were all of one cyle.

And he coupled fyue curtaynes by them selues: and other fyue by them selues. And he made loupes of pelow sylke alonge by the edge of one curtayne, euen in the seluage of the couplynge curtayne. And lyke wylle he made on the syde of the couplynge curtayne on the other syde. Fyftye loupes made he in the one curtayne, and fifty in the edge of the couplynge curtayne on the other syde: and the loupes helde one curtayne to another. And he made fyftye rynges of golde, and coupled the curtaynes one to another with the rynges: and so was it made one dwelling place.

* And he made a leuen curtaynes of gootes heere, to be a tent ouer the tabernacle. The length of a curtayne had thyrty cubytes, and was foure cubytes brode: and they all a leuen of one cyle. And he coupled fyue curtaynes by them selues, and fyue by them selues, and he made fyftye loupes alonge by the bordze of the vtmost couplyng curtayne, and fyftye in the edge of the other couplyng curtayne: (that they might be coupled together) *

And

And he made fyfte rynges of brasse to couple y^e tent togyther that it might be one. And he made a coueryng vpon the tent of rams skynnes red, and yet an other of Carus skynnes aboue that.

Exo. xxxi. c. * And he made standynge bordes (for the tabernacle) of Sethim wood. The length of a borde was ten cubytes, the bredth one cubyte, & an halfe: One borde had two feet, wherby they were ioyned one to an other. And thus made he for all the bordes of y^e tabernacle: And he made twenty bordes for the south syde of the habitation, and fourty sockettes of syluer vnder y^e.xx. bordes, two sockettes vnder one borde, for his two feet, and two sockettes vnder an other bord for his two feet. ^(where the sockettes of the sydes ende in the corners) And for the other syde of the dwelling which is towarde the north, he made twetye bordes, and theyr fourty sockettes of syluer two sockettes vnder one borde, and two sockettes vnder the other. And towarde the west ende of the tabernacle: ^(That is to say: at that ende of the tabernacle whiche enclyneth towarde the see) he made syxe bordes, and two other bordes made he in y^e corners of the habitation, for eyther syde, and they were ioyned close beneth and aboue wth a clampe and thus they did to both the corners. And there were eyght bordes and syxtene sockettes of syluer: vnder euery borde two sockettes:

D And he made barres of Sethim wood, fyue for the bordes of the tabernacle in the one syde: and fyue for the boordes of the tabernacle in the other syde: and fyue barres for the bordes of the habitation in the west ende. ^(Toward the see.) And he made the middest barre to shote thow the bordes: euen from the one ende to the other, & ouerlaped the bordes with golde, and made rynges of golde to thruste the barres thow we, and couered the barres with golde. And he made an hangynge of pelowe sylke, purple, skarlet, and whyte twyned sylke, euen with ppyctures made he it of brodyed worke. And made ther vnto iiii. pylers of Sethim wood, and ouerlaped them with golde. Theyr knoppes were also of golde, and he cast for them foure sockettes of syluer. And he made an hangynge for the Tabernacle doze: of pelowe sylke, purple, skarlet, and with whyte twyned sylke of needle worke. And the pylers of it with theyr knoppes, and ouerlaped the knoppes of them & the whopes with golde. Theyr fyue sockettes also were of brasse.

The xxxvii. Chapter.

The arke of witness. The mercyseate: The table: The candlestycke: The lightes: The altare and the incense.

Ex. xxxv. a

And Bezaleel made the ark of Sethim wood, two cubites & an halfe longe, & a cubite and an halfe brode and a cubyte and an halfe hie: and ouerlaped it with fyne golde within and without, and made a crowne of golde to it rounde aboute, and cast for it foure rynges of golde for the foure corners of it, two rynges for the one syde, and two for the other, & made barres of Sethim wood, and couered them wyth golde, and put the barres in the rynges alonge by the syde of the arke, to beare it withall.

And he made the mercyseate ^(what is to say: Gods answerynge place) of pure golde: two cubytes & an halfe was the length thereof, and one cubyte and an halfe the bredth: and he made two Cherubus of thycke golde vpon the two endes of y^e mercyseate. One Cherub on the one ende, and an other Cherub on the other ende.

Euen of the mercyseate made he the Cherubins: namely in the endes thereof. And the Cherubus spred oute theyr wynges aboue on hye, and couered the mercyseate therewith. And theyr faces were one to an other: euen to y^e mercyseatewarde, were the faces of the Cherubins. * And he made the table of Sethim wood two cubytes was the length thereof, and a cubyte the bredth, and a cubyte and an halfe the heygth of it. And he ouerlaped it with fyne golde, and made therto a crowne of golde rounde aboute, and made therto an whope of an hande bredth round about, & made vpo the whope a crowne of golde rounde about, and cast for it foure rynges of golde, and put the rynges in the four corners that were in the foure feet therof. Eue hard by the whope were the rynges, into the whiche the barres were put to beare the table withall.

And he made the barres of Sethim wood, and couered them with golde to beare the table with all, and made the vesselles (for the table) of pure golde: the dysches, spones, flat peces, and pottes to poure withall. * And he made the candlestycke of pure gold: euen of one pece made he the candlestycke. For his fote, bys shafte, his cuppes, his knoppes, and his floures, were of one pece. Syxe bzaunches proceadyng oute of the sydes thereof, thre oute of the one syde, and thre out of the other. And in one bzaunche thre cuppes made lyke vnto almondes, with knoppes & floures: and in an other bzaunche thre cuppes made lyke almondes with knoppes and floures.

And so thowout the syxe bzaunches that proceeded out of the candlestycke. And vpon the candlestyk selfe were foure cuppes after the fassyon of almondes, with knoppes and floures: vnder euery two bzaunches a knoppe. And the knoppes and the bzaunches proceeded out of it, and it was all one pece of pure thycke golde. And he made his seuen lampes with y^e tonges and snofers thereof of pure golde. Euen of an hundred weyghte of pure golde, made he it with all the vesselles thereof. And he made the cence altare of Sethim wood. The length of it was a cubyte, and the bredth a cubyte, for it was foure square, and two cubytes hie, with hornes proceadyng out of it. And he couered it with pure gold, both the toppe and the sydes therof round about, and the hornes of it, and made vnto it a crowne of golde rounde about. And he made two rynges of golde for it, euen vnder the crowne thereof in the two corners of it and in the two sides therof to put barres in for to beare it withall: & made the barres of Sethim wood and ouerlaped them with golde. And he made the holy annoyntynge oyle, and the swete pure incense after the apotecaryers crafte.

The xxxviii. Chapter.

The

The altar of burnt offerings. The brasen laver. The summe of that the people offered.

And he made the burnt offering altar of Sethim wood, fyue cubites was the length therof, & fyue cubites the bredth: ene. iiii. square and. iiii. cubites hie. And he made vnto it hornes in the four corners of it procedynge out of it & he overlaped it wpth brasle. And he made al the vessels of the altar: the cauldrons, shouels, basins, fleshokes, & cole panes. All these vessels therof made he of brasle. And he made a brasen gredpyren of networke vnto the altar, round about a lowe beneth vnto fympys of the altar, & cast foure rpynges of brasle for the four endes of the gredpyren to put barres in. And he made the barres of Sethim wood, & couered them wpth brasle, & put the barres into the rpynges in the four corners of the altar, to beare it withall & made the altar holowe with in the bordes. And he made the lauer of brasle, & the fote of it also of brasle in the sighte of them fynd watch at the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And he made the courte on the south syde, and the hangynges of the courte were of whyte twyned sylke, haupnge an hundred cubytes.

The pylles were twenty, and they: brasen sockettes twenty. But the knoppes of the pylles, and they: whopes were of syluer. And on the north syde: the hangynges were an hundred cubytes. They: pylles were twenty, and they: sockettes of brasle twenty. But the knoppes and the whopes of the pylles were of syluer.

On the west syde, were hangynges of fyfte cubytes, ten pylles and they: ten sockettes. (of brasle) But the knoppes and the whopes of the pylles were of syluer. And towarde the east syde, were hangynges of fyfte cubytes: the hangynges of the one syde of the gate, were fyftene cubytes longe, wpth thre pylles, and thre sockettes. And of the other syde of the courte gate were hangynges also of fyftene cubytes longe, wpth thre pylles and thre sockettes.

All the hangynges of the courte rounde about were of whyte twyned sylke: but the sockettes of the pylles were of brasle: and the knoppes, and the whopes of the pylles were of syluer, & fy coueryng of the heades was of syluer, and al pylles of the courte were whoped aboute wpth syluer. And the hangyng of the gate of the courte was nedle worke, of pelowe sylke, purple, scarlet and whyte twyned sylke. xx. cubytes longe, and fyue in the breadth, ouer agaynst the hangynges of the courte. And they: pylles were foure, and they: foure sockettes of brasle: and the knoppes of syluer, and the heades overlaped wpth syluer, and whoped aboute wpth syluer, & al the pynnes of the tabernacle and of the courte rounde aboute were of brasle. This is the sum of the habitation of wytnesse, as it was counted accordyng to the comaundemente of Moses for the offyce of the Leuytes by the hande of Jthamar sonne to Aaron the preast. And Bezalell fy sonne of Uri the sonne of Ihur of the trybe of Iuda, made all fy the Lord comaunded Moses, and wpth him was Aholiab sonne of Ahisamach of the trybe of Dan, a cunning grauer and a worker of nedle worke in pelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and whyte twyned sylke. All the golde that was occupped for all the worke of the holy place was the golde of the waueofferynge, enen. xxx. hundred weyght, and seven hundred and. xxx. cycles, accordyng to the cycle of the Sanctuarpe. And the summe of syluer that came of the multitude, was fyue score hundred weyght, & a thousande seven hundred and. lxxv. cycles, after the cycle of the Sanctuarpe.

For every man an halfe weyght, enen halfe a cycle after the cycle of the Sanctuarpe, for all them that wente to be nobzed from. xx. yere olde and aboue, enen for fyre hundred thousand, and thre thousande and fyue hundred and. l. men.

And of the fyue score hundred weyght of syluer, were cast the sockettes of the Sanctuarpe, & the sockettes of the bayle, an hundred sockettes of fyue score hundred weyght an hundred weyght to every socket. And of the thousande seven hundred and. lxxv. cycles, he made knoppes to the pylles, and overlaped the heades and whoped the (wpth syluer.) And the brasle of the waueofferyng was. lxx. hundred weyght, and two thousand, & iiii. hundred cycles. And therwyth he made fy sockettes to the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and the brasen aultare and the brasen gredpyren for it, wpthall the vessels of the altar, and the sockettes of the court rounde about, & the sockettes for the court gate, and al the pynnes of the habitation, & al the pyns of the court rounde aboute.

The xxxix. Chapter.

The apparell of Aaron and his sonnes. All that the Lord commaunded, was offered.

And of the pelowe sylke, purple, and scarlet, they made the vestimētes of ministracion to do seruice in the holy place, & made the holy garmētes for Aaron, as the Lord comaunded Moses. And he made the Ephod of gold, pelow sylke, purple, scarlet, & white twyned sylke. And they dyd beate the golde into thynne plates, and cut it into wyers, to worke it in the pelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, & in the fyne whyte, wpth brodyed worke. And they made two spydes for it, to close them vp by the two edges. And the brodyng of the gyrdell that was vpon it, was of the same stuffe, and after fy same worke: of golde pelow sylke, purple, scarlet, and twyned whyte sylke, as the Lord comaunded Moses.

And they wrought Onix stones closed in onches of golde, and graued as sygnettes are gariē wpth the names of the chyldren of Israell, & put them on the shulders of fy Ephod, that they shulde be stones for a remembraunce of the chyldren of Israell, as the Lord comaunded Moses. And he made the brestlap of conning worke and lyke the worke of the Ephod: enen of golde pelow sylke, purple, scarlet and twyned whyte sylke. It was foure square, and they made the brestlapp double, an hande breadth longe, and an hande bredth broade.

And they fylled it wpth foure rowes of stones. The fyrt rowe, a Sardios, a Topas and c. i. Smaragdas

And they were closed in suches of golde in theyr inclosers. And the twelue stones were grauen as spynets with the names of the chyldren of Israel: euery stone wyth hys name, accordyng to the twelue trybes. And they made vpon the brestlap, two fastenynge cheynes of wyethzen worke and pure golde. And they made two hokes of golde, and two gold rynges: and put the two rynges in the two corners of the brestlape. And they put the two cheynes of golde in the two rynges, in the corners of the brestlape.

And the two endes of the two cheynes they fastened in the two hokes, and put them on the shulders of the Ephod vpon the fore fronte of it. And they made two rynges of golde, and putte them on the two corners of the brestlape vpon the edge of it, whiche was on the insyde by the Ephod. And they made two golden rynges, and put them on the two sydes of the Ephod, beneth on the fore syde of it and ouer agaynst hys felow aboue vpon the bropdynge of the Ephod, & they strayned the brestlape by hys rynges vnto the rynges of the Ephod, wyth a lace of yelow sylke that it myght be vpon the bropderyng of the Ephod, and that the brestlape shulde not be losed from of the Ephod: as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And he made the tuncle vnto the Ephod of wouen worke, altogether of yelow sylk and there was an hole in the myddeste of the tuncle, as the coler of a partlet, w a bande rounde aboute the coler, that it shulde not rent.

And in the tuncle they made hemmes with pomegranates, of yelow sylke, purple scarlet, and whyte twyned sylke. And they made lytle belles of pure golde, and put them amonge the pomgranates round about vpon the edge of the tuncle: a bell and a pomgrauate, a bell and a pomgranate rounde aboute the hemmes of the tuncle to minystr in, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And they made cotes of fyne whyte of wouen worke for Aaron and hys sonnes, and a mytre of fyne whyte, and goodlye bonettes of fyne whyte, and lynen breeches of twyned whyte and a gyrdell of twyned whyte, yelow sylke, purple and scarlet: euery of nedle worke, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And they made the plate for the holpe crowne of fyne golde, & wrote vpon it wyth grauen worke, the holynesse of the Lorde: and tyed vnto it a lace of yelow sylke to fasten it an hye vpon the mytre, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses.

Thus was all the worke of the habitacion and of the Tabernacle of wytnesse fynyshe. And the chyldren of Israel dyd accordyng to all that the Lorde had commaunded Moyses: euery so dyd they. And they broughte the habitacyon vnto Moyses: the tente and all hys apparel, buttons, borders, barres, pylles, and sockettes, the coueryng of rammes skynnes redden, and the couerynges of taxus skynnes, and the hangynge vayne, the arke of wytnesse and the barres ther of, and the mersey seate: the table, and all the vesselles therof, and the shewe breade: the pure candlestycke: with the lampes therof: euery with the lampes to be prepared, and all the vesselles therof, and the oyle for lyght: the golden aulter and the annoyntyng oyle, and the swete cens, and the hangynge of the Tabernacle doore, and the brasen aulter wyth hys gredpyren of brasen, hys barres and al hys vesselles, the lauer and hys fote: the hangynge of the courte wyth hys pylles and sockettes: the hangynge to the courte gate, and hys pyennes and coordes, and all the vessel of the scrupce of the habitacyon for the Tabernacle of wytnesse: the minystryng vestmentes to serue in the holy place, and the holy vestmentes for Aaron the Hearer, and hys sonnes raymentes to minister in: accordyng to all that the Lorde commaunded Moyses: euery so the chyldren of Israel made all the worke. And Moyses behelde all the worke, and se: they had done it euery as the Lorde commaunded: euery so had they done, and Moyses blessed them.

The xl. Chapter.

The tabernacle is reared vp. The glory of the Lorde appeared in a cloude coueryng the tabernacle.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses sayenge. In the fyrste daye of the fyrste moneth, shalte thou set vp the habitacion and the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and put therein the arke of wytnesse, & couer the arke wyth the vayne, and byng in the table, and apparell it accordyng to the order therof. And thou shalte byng in the candlestycke, and lyght his lampes, and set the censle aulter of golde before the Arke of wytnesse, and put the hangynge at the doore of the habitacion.

And sette the burnte offerynge aulter before the doore of the habitacion and Tabernacle of wytnesse, and sette the lauer betwene the Tabernacle of wytnesse and the aulter, and put water therein, and make the courte rounde aboute, and hange vp the hangynge at the courte gate. * And thou shalte take the annoyntyng oyle, and annoynte the habitacyon, and all that is therein, and hallowe it wyth all the vesselles therof, that it maye be holpe. And thou shalte annoynte the aulter of the burnte offerynge and al hys vesselles, and sanctifye the aulter, that it maye be an aulter most holy.

And thou shalte annoynte also the lauer and hys fote, and sanctifye it. And thou shalt byng Aaron and hys sonnes vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and washe them wyth water. And thou shalt put vpon Aaron the holy vestmentes, and annoynte hym, and sanctifye hym that he maye minister vnto me. And thou shalt byng hys sonnes, and clothe them with garnementes, and annoynt them as thou diddest annoynte theyr father, that they may minister vnto me. For theyr annoyntyng shall be an euerylastynge presthode vnto them thozow out theyr generacions. * And Moyses dyd accordyng to all that the Lorde commaunded him: euery so did he. Thus was the Tabernacle reared vp the fyrst fourte daye in the fyrst moneth in the seconde pere.

And Moyses reared vp the tabernacle and fastened bys sockettes, and set vpon the bordes therof, and put in the barres of it and reared vp bys ppl-lers, and spred abroad the tent ouer the habita-cyon, and put the couerynge of the tente on hye aboue it: as the Lorde commaunded Moyses.

And he toke the testymonye, and put it in the Arke, and sette the barres to the Arke, and put the merciseate on hye vpon the Arke, & brought the arke into the habitation, and hanged vp the vayle, and couered the Arke of wytnesse, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses.

And put the table in the tabernacle of wytnesse in the North syde of the habitation, (but wythout the vayle) and sette the breade in order before the Lorde, euen as the Lorde hadde commaunded Moyses. And he put the candlestykke in the Tabernacle of wytnesse ouer agaynst the table toward the south syde of the habitation, and sette vp the lampes before the Lorde: as the Lorde commaunded Moyses.

And he put the golden aultar in the Tabernacle of wytnesse before the vayle, and byente swete cense thereon, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And he hanged vp the hangynge at the doore of the habitation, and sette the burnt offerynge aultar by the entrynge in of the habitation of the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and offered burnt offerynge and meate offerynge theron, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses.

And he sette the lauer betwene the Tabernacle of wytnesse and the aultare, and powred water therein to washe wythall. And Moyses, Aron and bys sonnes, washed theyr handes and theyr fete there at: when they went into the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and when they wente to the aultar: they washed them selues, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And he reared vp the courte rounde about the habitation and the aultar, and sette vpon hangynge at the courte gate: and so Moyses finished the worke.

And the cloude couered the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and the glozpe of the Lorde fylled the habitation. And Moyses coulde not entre into the tabernacle of wytnesse, because the cloude abode thereon, and the glozpe of the Lorde fylled the habitation. (For the cloude had couered all.)

And when the cloude was taken vp from of the habitation, the chyldren of Israel toke theyr iourneys thowowe out theyr armyes. And when the cloude was not taken vp, they iourneyed not till it was taken vp: for the cloude of the Lorde was vpon the habitation by daye, and fyre by nyghte: in the syghte of all the house of Israel, thowowe out all theyr armyes.

The fyrst Chapter.

The order of the burnt offerynge.

And the lord called Moyses, and spake vnto hym out of the Tabernacle of wytnesse, sayeng: Speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, & thou shalt saye vnto them. If a man of you byynge a sacrifice vnto the Lorde ye shall bringe your sacrifice from amonge these catel, euen fro amonge the oxen, and the shepe. If bys sacrifice be a burnt offerynge, let hym offre a male of the oxen wythout blemyshe, and byynge hym (of bys owne voluntary wyl) vnto the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse before the Lorde. And he shall put his hande vpon the head of the byent sacrifice and it shall be accepted for hym, to be his attonement. And he shall kyl the calfe of bydnone before the Lorde. And the prestes Arons sonnes, shall byng the bloud, & shall spynkle it rounde about vpon the aultar, that is by the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And then shall he slay the burnt offerynge, and he we hym in peces. And the son-nes of Aron the prests shall put fyre vpon the aultar, and put wood vpon the fyre. And the prestes Arons sonnes shall lay the partes (euen the head and the fatte) vpon the wood that is on the fyre in the aultar. But the inwardes and the legges therof he shall wash in water, and the prest shall burne all on the aultare, that they maye be a burnt sacrifice for a swete odour vnto the Lorde.

And if bys sacrifice be of the flockes (namely of the shepe or goates) let hym byynge a male wythout blemyshe for a burnt offerynge. And let him kyl it on the north syde of the aultar before the Lorde. And the prestes Arons sonnes shall spynkle the bloud round about vpon the aultar.
And it shall be cut in peces: euen wyth his heade and his fat, and the prest shall put them vpon the wood that lyeth vpon the fyre on the aultar. But he shall wash the inwardes, and the legges with water: and the prest shall byng altogether and burne it vpon the aultare for a burnt offerynge of a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. If the burnt offerynge for the sacrifice of the Lorde be of the fowles, he shall byng bys sacrifice of the turtill doves or of the yonge pyngons. And the prest shall bynge it vnto the aultar, and wyng the necke a sunder of it, and burne it on the aultar.

But the bloude therof shall runne oute vpon e.ii. by the

by the syde of the aultar. And he shall plucke away his croppe with his fethers, and cast them besyde the aultar of the easie part in the place of ashes. And he shall breake the wynges of it, but plucke them not a sondre. And the Breast shall burne it vpon the aultar, euen vpon the wood that is vpon the fyre, that it may be a burnt sacrifice for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde.

The .ii. Chapter.

The order of meate offeringes.

The soule that wyl offer a meate offering vnto the Lorde, the same offering shalbe of fine flour, and he shal poure oyle vpon it, and put frankencens thereon, and shal bynge it vnto Aarons sones the prestes. And he shal take therout hys handfull of the flour, and of the oyle wyth all the frankencens, & the prest shal burne it for a memoial of hym vpon the aultar: to be an offering for a swete sauour vnto the Lorde. And the remnaunt of the meate offering shalbe Aarons & his sonnes, a thing most holy of the sacrifices of the Lorde. If thou byng also a meate offering that is in the oven, lette it be a swete cake of fyne flour myngled wyth oyle, or an unleuened wafer anoynted wyth oyle. If thy meate offering be baken in the fryenge pan, it shalbe of swete flour mingled wyth oyle. And thou shalt mince it smal, & powre oyle thereon, that it may be a meate offering. And if thy meate offering be a thing broyled vpon the grebzen, let it be of flour myngled wyth oyle. And thou shalt byng the meate offering (that is made of these thinges) vnto the Lorde, & shalt deliuer it vnto the prest that he may offer it vpon the aultar, and the prest shal take of the meate offering a memoial, and shall burne it vpon the aultar that it may be a burnt offering for a swete sauour vnto the Lorde. And that whiche is left of the meate offering shalbe Aarons and hys sonnes. It is a thing most holy of the offeringes of the Lorde. All the meate offeringes whiche ye shal byng vnto the Lorde, shalbe made with out leuen. For ye shall neyther burne leuen nor hony in any offering of the Lorde.

Mar. b. b
Mar. ix. g
Collo. iij. a

For wythstandyng ye shall byng the fyrst-lynges of them vnto the Lorde: but they shal not come vpon the aultar for a swete sauour. * All the meate offeringes also that ye seasonest wyth salte: neyther shalt thou suffre the salte of the covenannt of thy god to be lacking from thy meat offering: but vpon all thyne offeringes thou shalt byng salte. And if thou offer a meate offering of thy fyrst frutes vnto the Lorde, thou shalt offer for thy meat offering of thy fyrst frutes eares of corne dreyed by the fyre, and corne beaten as meale. And thou shalt put oyle vpon it, and lase frankencens thereon, that it may be a meat offering. And the prest shal burne parte of the beated corne and parte of that oyle wythall the frankencens, for a remembraunce. And it shalbe a sacrifice vnto the Lorde.

The .iii. Chapter.

The order of peace offeringes.

And if his sacrifice be a peace offering & he take it away frō among the droues (whether it be male or female) he shal byng such as is without blemish, before the Lorde: and put his hand vpon the head of his offering, & kyll it at the doze of the tabernacle of witness. And Aarons sones the prestes shal sprinkle the blood vpon the aultar round about. And he shal offer sum what of the peace offering to be a sacrifice vnto the Lorde: euen the fat & is about the inwardes: & all the fat & is about the inwardes, & the two kidneys, & the fat that is on them & vpon the lynes & the aboundance & is on the liuer that he take away wyth the kidneys. And Aarons sones shal burne them on the aultar vpon the burnt sacrifice which is vpon the wood, & is on the fire to be a burnt sacrifice for a swete sauour vnto the Lorde. If he byng a peace offering vnto the Lorde from of the flocke: let him offer male or female: but without blemish. And if he offer a shepe for his sacrifice, he shal byng it before the Lorde, & put his hand vpon his offeringes head, & kyll it before the doze of the tabernacle of witness, & Aarons sones shal sprinkle the bloude thereof round about the aultar. And of the peace offering, let him byng a sacrifice vnto the Lorde: the fat thereof, and the rumpe altogether, which they shal take of, harde by the backe bone: & the fat & couereth the inwardes, & all the fat that is vpon the inwardes and the two kidneys, & the fat that is vpon them & vpon the lynes, and the aboundance that is vpon the liuer shal he take away wth the kidneys. And the prest shal burne them vpon the aultar, to be the foode of a sacrifice vnto the Lorde. If his offering be a goat, he shal byng it before the Lorde, and put his hand vpon the head of it, & kyll it before the tabernacle of the covenannt, and the sones of Aaron shal sprinkle the blood thereof vpon the aultar round about. And he shal byng thereof his offering euen a sacrifice vnto the Lorde: the fat & couereth the inwardes, and all the fat that is vpon the inwardes, and the two kidneys, & the fat that is vpon them and vpon the lynes, and the aboundance vpon the liuer shal he take away wth the kidneys. And the prest shal burne them vpon the aultar for the foode of the sacrifice, & all the fat may be a swete sauour vnto the Lorde. Let it be a perpetual statute for youre generacions, thow wout your dwellinges, & ye eat neyther fat nor bloude.

The .iiii. Chapter.

The offering made for synnes done of ignorance.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayeng: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye: If a soule syn thowrowe ignorance, and hath done any of those thinges which the Lorde hath forbidden in his commaundmentes to be done. And if the prest that is anointed do sinne (accordyng to the syn of the people) let hym byng for hys syn which he hath synned a yonge ore without blemish vnto the Lorde for a syn offering. And he shal byng the yonge ore vnto the doze of the tabernacle of witness before the Lorde, and shal put put his hande vpon the ponge ore heed, and kyll the ponge ore before the Lorde. And the preiste that is annoynted * shall take of the ponge ore blood, and byng it into the tabernacle of wyt-nesse, and the preist shall dyppe his synger in the bloode, and sprynkle therof seuen tymes before the Lorde, euen before the hangyng of the holy place. And he shall put some of the blood before the Lorde, vpon the hoernes of the altar of swete cens which is in the tabernacle of witnesse, and shall poure all the bloode of the ponge ore vnto

the bottome of the aultare of burnt offeringe, whyche is at the doze of the tabernacle of wyt-nesse. And he shall take away all the fatte of the ore that is for synne, the fatte that couereth the inwardes, and all the fatte that is about the inwardes, and the two kydneyes, and the fat that is vpon them, and vpon the loynes, and the abudauce of the lyuer shall he take away with the kidneys: as it was taken away in the ore of the peace offeringes, and lette the preist burne them vpon the aultare of burnt offeringe. * But the skynne of the ponge ore, and all his flesh, wyth his heed, and his legges, wyth hys inwardes, & his dunge, shall he beate out, and cary the ponge ore all together oute of the hooste vnto a cleane place, euen where as the ashes are poured out, and burne hym there on wood in the fyre: euen by the place where the ashes are cast oute, shall he be bzent. Vnto the whole congregacion of Israel synne thowowe ignoraunce, and the thyng be hyd from theyr eyes, so that they haue com-mytted any of those thynges whyche the Lorde hath forbydden to be done in his commaunde-mentes, and haue offended. When the synne which they haue spynned in, is knowen, the con-gregacion shall byng a ponge ore for the syn, and byng hym before the tabernacle of wyt-nesse, and the elders of the multitude shall put theyr handes vpon the heed of the ponge ore before the Lorde. And the ponge ore shall be slayne before the Lorde. And the preist that is anoynted, shall byng of his blood into the tabernacle of wytnesse, and the preist shall dyppe his syn-ger in the blood, and sprynkle it seuen tymes before the Lorde, euen before the vayle.

And shall put the bloode vpon the hoernes of the aultar, whyche is before the Lorde in the tabernacle of wytnesse, and shall poure all the bloode vnto the bottome of the aultare of burnt offeryng whych is before the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and shall take all hys fatte from hym, and burne it vpon the aultar, and shall do wyth this ponge ore, as he dyd wyth the ponge ore for synne: euen so shall he do wyth this. And the preist shall make an attonement for them, and it shall be forgyuen them. And he shall carpe this ponge ore without the host: and burne hym as he burned the fyre. For it is an oblation for synne of the congregacion.

When a lorde synneth, and commytteth tho-rowe ygnoraunce any of these thynges (whyche the Lorde his God hath forbydden to be done in hys commaundementes) and hath offended.
And yf this synne be thewed vnto hym whyche

he hath done, he shall byng his offeringe: euen an he goote wythoute blemyshe, and laye hys hande vpon the heed of the he goote, and kyll it in the place where the burnt offering is vnto be kyllid before the Lorde. For it is a synne of ferpunge. And let the preiste take of the bloode of the offering wyth his synger, and put it vpon
the hoernes of the burnt offeringe aultare, and poure hys blood vnto the bottome of the burnt offeringe aultar, and burne all hys fatte vpon
the aultar, as the fatte of the peace offeringes.
And the preiste shall make an attonement for hym, as concernyng hys synne, and it shall be forgyuen him. Vnto one of the comen people of the lande, syn thowowe ignoraunce: and comyt any of the thynges which the Lorde hath forbydden in his comaundementes to be done & so hath tres-pased. Vnto this synne which he hath spynned, comto hys knowledge, he shall byng for hys offeryng, a she goot from among the flockes, without blemyshe for hys synne whyche he hath synned, and laye his hande vpon the heed of the offering, and slep it in the place of burnt offering-ges. And the preiste shall take of the bloode thereof wyth hys synger, and putte it vpon the hoernes of the burnt offeringe aultare, and poure all the blood vnto the bottome of the aultar, and shall take away all hys fatte, as the fatte of the peace offeringes is taken away. And the preist shall burne it vpon the aultar, that it maye be a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde, and the preiste shall make an attonement for hym, and it shall be forgyuen hym. And yf he byng a shepe for a synne offering, he shall byng a female wythout blemyshe, and laye his hande vpon the heed of the offering, and slep it for a synne offeringe in the place where they kyll the burnt offering.

And the preiste shall take of the bloode of the offering wyth hys synger, and put it vpon
the hoernes of the burnt offeringe aultare, and shall poure the bloode thereof vnto the botome of the aultar. And he shall take away all the fatte thereof, as the fatte of the shepe of the peace offeringe is wonte to be taken away. And the preiste shall burne it vpon the aultare: that it may be the Lordes burnt sacrifice, and the preist shall make an attonement for his synne, that he hath commytted, and it shall be forgyuen hym.

The v. Chapter

Of othes. The cleansing of hym that toucheth vncleane thynges. The purgation of an othe, and of synne done by ygnoraunce.

If a soule synne, and heare the voyce of sweryng, and is a wytnes: whether he hath sene or knowen of it, yf he haue not vttered it, he shall beare hys synne. Eytther yf a soule touche any vncleane thyng: whether it be a carpon of an vncleane beaste, or of vncleane cattel, or vncleane woyme, and is not ware of it: beholde, he is vncleane, and hath offended. Eytther yf he touch any vncleane of man (whatsoeuer vnclenes it be that a mā is wont to be defyled with-
all) and is not ware of it, and cometh to the knowledge of it, he hath trespassed. Eytther yf a soule swaure, and pronounceth with his lyp-pes

pes to do euill, or to do good (whatsoever it be that a man vseth to pronoice with an oth) and the thyng be hyd from hym, and cometh to the knowledge of it, and hath offended in one of these. And it shall come to passe, that when he hath synned in one of these thynges, he shall confesse that he hath synned in that thyng. Therfore shall he byngne his trespass offering vnto the Lorde, for his synne whiche he hath synned. A female from the flocke, a lambe or a she goote for a synneofferyng. And the preist shall make an attonement for hym, concernyng his synne.

Leuit. xii. b. * And yf he be not able to byngne suche a shepe, he shall byngne for his trespass whych he hath synned, two turtle doves, or two yonge pygeons vnto the Lorde, one for a synneofferyng, and the other for a burnt offering. And he shall byngne them vnto the preist, whiche shall offre the synneofferyng fyrst, and wyngne the necke asunder of it, but plucke it not cleane of. And he shall sprynkle of the blood of the synofferyng vpon the syde of the aultar: and the rest of the blood shall he pour by the bottome of the aultar: for it is a synofferyng.

C And he shall offre the seconde for a burnt offering as the maner is: and so shall the preist make an attonement for hym (for the syn whiche he hath synned) & it shall be forgiven hym. And yf he be not able to byngne two turtle doves, or two yonge pygeons, then he that hath synned, shall byngne for his offering: the tenth parte of an Ephra of fyne floure for a synneofferyng, but put none oyle thereto, neyther put any frankensence thereon, for it is a synneofferyng. And let the preist offre it, and the preist shall take his handfull of it, for a remembrance thereof, and burne it vpon the aultare, to be a sacrifice for the Lorde, it is a synofferyng. And the preist shall make an attonement for hym as touchyng his syn that he hath synned in one of these, & it shall be forgiven. And the remnant shall be the preist's, as a meateofferyng.

D And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Vnto a soule trespase and syn thowowe ignorance in thynges that are consecrated vnto the Lorde, let hym byngne for his trespase vnto the Lorde a ram without blemyshe out of the flockes, valued in money at two sheles after the *sicle of the sanctuary, that it may be for a trespacofferyng. And he shall make amendes for the harme that he hath done in the holy thyng, and let hym put the fyrst parte more thereto, and gyue it vnto the preist. And the preist shall make an attonement for him with the ramme that is for the trespase and it shall be forgiven hym.

Vnto a soule synne and comyt any of these thynges which are forbidden to be done by the commandementes of the Lorde, and wyte it not, and hath offended, he shall beare his synne and shall byngne a ram without blemyshe out of the flocke that is esteemed to be worth a trespacofferyng, vnto the preist. And the preist shall make an attonement for him concerning his ignorance wherein he erred and was not ware, & it shall be forgiven hym. This is the trespacofferyng whiche he offered vnto the Lorde for his trespasse.

The. vi. Chapter.

C The offeringe for synnes whych are done wyllingly. The lawe of the burnt offerings. The fyre must abyde euermore vpon the aultare. The offeringes of Aaron, and his sonnes.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Vnto a soule synne and trespase agaynst the Lorde, and denye vnto his neyghbour & whiche was taken him to kepe, or that was put into his handes, or doth byolent robbery, or wrong vnto his neyghbour, or yf he haue found that which was lost, and denyeth it, and sweareth falsely, vpon whatsoever thyng it be that a man doth, and synneth therein: Vnto he haue so synned or trespassed, he shall restore agayne that he toke byolently away, or the wronge whiche he dyd, or the whiche was deliuered hym to kepe, or the lost thyng whiche he founde, and all that about which he hath sworne falsely, he shall restore it agayne in the whole summe, & shall adde the fyrst part more thereto, and gyue it vnto him, to whome it pertayneth, the same daye that he offereth for his trespase, and let hym byngne for his trespase vnto the Lorde a ram without blemyshe out of the flocke (that is esteemed worth a trespacofferyng) vnto the preist.

And the preist shall make an attonement for hym, before the Lorde, and it shall be forgiven hym, whatsoever thyng it be that he hath done, and trespassed therein. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: commaunde Aaron and his sonnes, sayinge: this is the lawe of the burnt offering. * The burnt offering shall be vpon the barth of the aultar all nyght vnto the morning, and the fyre shall be kyndled on the aultar. And the preist shall put on his *linnen albe, and his linnen breeches vpon his flesh, and take awaye the ashes vpon the which the fyre consumed the burnt sacrifice in the aultar, and he shall put them besyde the aultar, and put of his rayment, and put on other, and cary the ashes out without the host vnto a cleane place. The fyre vpon the aultare shall burne still, and neuer be put out. But the preist shall lay wood on it euery day in the morning, and put the burnt sacrifice vpon it, and he shall burne thereon the fatte of the peaceofferynges. The fyre shall euer burne vpon the aultar, and neuer go out. * This is the lawe of the meateofferyng: whiche Aarons sonnes shall byngne before the Lorde, euen before the aultar and one of them shall take his handfull of flour of the meateofferyng and of the oyle, and all the frankensence which is vpon the meateofferyng and shall burne it vnto a remembrance vpon the aultar for a swete sauoure, euen a memoriall of it vnto the Lorde.

And of the rest thereof, shall Aaron and his sonnes eate: vnto leuened shall it be eaten in the holy place: euen in the courte of the tabernacle of wytnesse they shall eate it. It shall not be bakyn wth leuen. I haue gyuen it vnto them for theyr porcyon of my sacrifices. It is most holy as is the synofferyng and trespacofferyng.

All the males amonge the children of Aaron shall eat of it: It shall be a statute for ever in your generations concerning the sacrifice of p Lord, let every one that toucheth it, be holy. And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying: this is the offering of Aaron, and of his sons, which they shall offer unto the Lord in the day when he is anointed: the tenth parte of an Ephah of flour, for a meate offering perpetual: halfe in p morninge, and halfe at nyght: In the frying pan it shall be made with oyle. And when it is fryed, thou shalt bringe it in, and the baken offerings of this oblation mynled small, shall thou offer for a sweete savour unto the Lord. And the priest of his sons that is anointed in his steede, shall offer it: It is the Lordes due for ever, it shall be burnt altogether.

D For every meate offering that is made for p priest, shall be burnt altogether, and shall not be eaten. And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying: speake unto Aaron, and unto his sonnes, and saye: This is the lawe of the synne offering. In the place where the burnt offering is kylled, shall the syn offering be kylled before the Lord, for it is most holy. * The priest that offereth it, shall eat it: In the holy place shall it be eaten: even in the court of the tabernacle of witness. No man touche the flesh thereof, save he that is halowed. And whoso spraynkleth of the blood thereof upon any garment, thou shalt wash it in p holy place there as it is spraynked upon. * But the earthen pot that it is sodden in, shall be broken. And if it be sodden in a brasen pottle, it shall be scoured & rynsed in the water. All the males amonge the priests shall eat thereof, for it is most holy. And no syn offering: whose blood is brought in to the tabernacle of witness to reconcile with, all in the holy place, shall be eaten: but shall be burnt in the fyre.

¶ Of trespass offerings, syn offerings, and peace offerings. The fat and the blood maye not be eaten.

A This is the lawe of trespass offering, it is most holy. In the place where they kyl the burnt offering, shall they kyl the trespass offering also, and his blood shall he spraynkle rounde aboute upon the aultare. All the fatte thereof shall they offer: the rumpe and the fatte thereof that couereth the inwardes, and the two kidneies, and the fat that is on them and upon the loynes: and the abundance that is on the liuer shall thou take away with the kidneies, and the priest shall burne the upon p aultar, to be a burnt sacrifice unto p Lord for it is a trespass offering. All the males amonge the priests shall eat thereof in the holy place, for it is most holy. As the synne offering is, so is the trespass offering, one lawe serueth for both, and it shall be the priests that reconcile therewith. And the priest that offereth any mans burnt offering, shall haue the synne of the burnt offering whiche he hath offered. And all the meate offering that is baken in the oven and that is dressed upon the grebber, and in the frying pan, shall be the priests that offereth it. And every meate offering that is mynled with oyle, and that is dype, shall pertaine unto all the sons of Aaron, and one shall haue as moche as an other. This is the lawe of the peace offering, when it is offered unto the Lord. If he offer it to geue thanks, he shall bringe unto his thank offering, sweete cakes mingled with oyle, and sweete wafers anointed with oyle, & cakes mynled with oyle of fyne flour fryed. He shall bringe his offering upon cakes of leuened breed, for his peace offerings to geue thanks, and of all the sacrifice he shall offer one for an heauy offering unto the Lord, and it shall be the priests that spraynkle the blood of the peace offerings. And the flesh of the thank offering in his peace offerings, shall be eaten the same day that it is offered. And let hym laye up nothing of it vntill the morowe. But if he offer his sacrifice by reason of a vowe, or of his owne free will, it shall be eaten the same daye that he offereth his sacrifice.

And if ought remayne vntill the morowe, it may be eaten: but as moche of the offered flesh as remayneth vnto p third daye, shall be burnt with fyre. And if any of the flesh of his peace offerings be eaten in the third day, then shall he that offereth it obtayne no fauoure, neyther shall it be reckened vnto hym, but shall be an abominacion. Therefore the soule that eateth of it shall beare his synne. And the flesh that toucheth any vncleane thyng, shall not be eaten, but burnt with fyre: and all that be cleane shall eat the flesh. But if any soule eat of the flesh of the peace offering that pertaineth vnto the Lord, hauing his vncleanness upon hym, the same soule shall perishe from amonge his people. Moreover the soule that doeth touche any vncleane thyng, that is of the vncleanness of man, or of any vncleane beast: or any abominacion that is vncleane, and then eat of the flesh of the peace offering which pertaineth vnto the Lord, that soule shall perishe from his people. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto the children of Israel, and saye. * He shall eat no manner fatte of oxen, of shepe, and of gootes: neuer the later the fatte of the beast that dyeth alone, and the fatte of that whiche is torne with wyld beasts, shall be occupied in any manner of vse, but ye shall in no wise eat of it. For whosoener eateth the fatte of the beast, of whiche men vse to bringe an offering vnto the Lord, that soule that eateth it, shall perishe from his people. Moreover, ye shall eat no manner of blood, whether it be of foule, or of beast. Whatsoener soule it be that eateth any manner of blood, the same soule shall perishe from his people. And the Lord talked with Moses, saying: speake vnto the children of Israel, and saye: he that bringeth his peace offering vnto the Lord, let hym bringe his gyfte vnto the Lord of his peace offering: let his owne handes bringe the offerings of p Lord: even the fat with the breast shall he bringe: that the breast may be waied for a waue offering before the Lord.

And the priest shall burne the fat vpon the altar, and the breast shall be Aarons and his sones.

And the ryght shulder shall ye gyue vnto the priest, for an heueofferynge, of your peaceofferynges. The same that offreth the blood of the peace offrynges and the fat, amonge the sones of Aaron, shall haue the ryght shulder for hys parte, for the wauebreest and the heueshulder haue I taken of the chyldren of Israel, euen of theyr peaceofferynges, and haue gyuen it vnto Aaron and vnto hys sones: by a statute for euer of the chyldren of Israel.

This is the anoyntynge of Aaron, and the anoyntynge of his sones, in the sacrificys of the Lord, in the day when he offred them to be priests vnto the Lord. And these be the sacrifices which the Lord commaunded to be gyuen them, (in the day of theyr anoyntynge) of the chyldren of Israel, by a statute for euer in theyr generations. This is the lawe of the burnt offerynge and of the meateofferyng, and of the sacrifice for synne and trespass, for consecracion and for the peaceofferyng, whiche the Lord commaunded Moses in the mounte of Synay, when he commaunded y^e chyldren of Israel to offer their sacrificys vnto the Lord in y^e wilderness of Sinai.

The viii. Chapter.

The anoyntynge of Aaron, and his sones.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: take Aaron and hys sones wyth hym, & the vestures and the anoyntynge oyle, and a ponge ore for synne, and two rammes, & a basket with swete breed: and gather thou all the congregacion togyther vnto the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And Moses dyd as the Lord commaunded hym, and the people were gathered together vnto the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And Moses sayde vnto the congregacion: this is the thyng which the Lord commaunded to be done. And Moses brought Aaron and his sones, and washed them with water, and put vpon him the albe, and gyrded him wyth a gyrdle, and putte vpon hym the tuncle, (of yelow sylke) & put the Ephod thereon, whiche he gyrded wth the brooderde gyrdell that was in the Ephod, and bounde it vnto hym ther wyth. And he put the breastlap thereon, and put in the myter vpon his heed, and put vpon the myter, (euen vpon the forefront of his face) the golden plate of the holy crowne, as the Lord commaunded Moses. And Moses took the anoyntynge oyle, and anoynted the tabernacle, and all that was therein, and sanctified them, and sprinkled therof vpon the altar seue tymes, and anoynted the altar and all his vessels, the lauer and his fote, to sanctifye them (wyth the oyle). And he poured of the anoyntynge oyle vpon Aarons heed, and anoynted hym, to sanctifye hym. And Moses brought Aarons sones, and put albes vpon them, and gyrded them with gyrdels, and put bonettes vpon theyr heedes: as the Lord commaunded Moses. And he brought y^e ponge ore for synne. And Aaron and his sones putte theyr handes vpon the heed of y^e ponge ore that was for syn. And Moses slewe hym, and toke of the bloode, whiche he put vpon the hornes of the altar rounde aboute wyth hys fynger, and purified it, and poured the blood vnto the bottoome of the altar, and sanctified it, and reconcyled it. And he toke all the fat that was vpon the inwarde, and the abundaunce of the lyuer and the two kydneys, and theyr fat, and Moses burned it vpon the altare. But the ponge ore and hys hyde, hys fleshe and hys dunge, he burnt with fyre without the hoost as the Lord commaunded Moses. And he brought the ram for the burnt offerynge, and Aaron and his sones put theyr handes vpon the heed of the ram, which Moses kylled, and sprynkled the bloode vpon the altar rounde aboute, and Moses cut the ram in peces, and burnt the heed, the peces, & the fat, and washed the inwarde and the legges in water, and Moses burnt the ram euer ye whyt vpon the altar, for a burnt sacrifice that it myght be a swete sauour, and an offryng vnto the Lord, as the Lord commaunded Moses.

And he brought the other ram, namelye the ramme of consecracion (of the priestes) and Aaron and hys sones put theyr handes vpon the heed of the ram: which Moses slewe, and toke of the bloode of it, and put it vpon the tipp of Aarons ryght eare, and vpon the thombe of hys ryghte hande, and vpon the grete too of hys ryghte fote. And Moses brought Aarons sones, and put of the bloode (of the ram) on the tyype of the ryght eare of them, and vpon the thumbes of theyr ryght handes, and vpon the great toes of theyr ryght fete, and Moses sprynkled y^e blood vpon the altar rounde about.

And he toke the fatte and the rumpe, and all the fat that was vpon the inwarde, and the abundaunce of the lyuer, and the two kydneys with theyr fat, and the ryght shulder. And oute of the basket of swete breed that was before y^e Lord, he toke one swete cake of oyled breed, & one wafer, and put them on the fat, and vpon the right shulder: and put all together vpon Aarons handes, and vpon hys sones handes, and waued it a waue offerynge before the Lord. And Moses toke them from of theyr handes, and burnt them vpon the altar, euen vpon the burnt offeryng altar: for it was the sacrifice of consecracion, for a swete sauoure and sacrifice vnto the Lord. And Moses toke the breast and waued it for a waue offerynge before the Lord, for it was of the ram of the consecracion, and it was Moses parte, as the Lord commaunded Moses.

And Moses toke of the anoyntynge oyle, and of the blood whych was vpon the altare, and sprynkled it vpon Aaron, and vpon hys vestmentes, vpon his sones, and on hys sones vestmentes with hym, and sanctified Aarō, hys vestures, and his sones, and hys sones vestures wyth hym. And Moses sayde vnto Aaron and hys sones boyle the fleshe in the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and there eate it wth the breed that is in the basket of consecracion, as I commaunded, sayinge: Aaron and his sones shall shal eate it: and that whiche remaineth of the bzeade, shal ye burne with fyre. And ye shal not departe from the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse seuen dayes, vntyll the dayes of your consecration be at an ende. For seuen dayes shall he fyll your hande as he dyd this daye: euen so þe Lorde hath comaunded to doo, to reconcytle you withall. Therfore shall ye abyde in the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse daye and nyght seuen dayes longe: and kepe the watche of the Lorde, and ye shall not dye: for so I am commaunded. And so Aaron & his sons dyd all thynges which the Lorde comaunded by the hande of Moyses.

The. ix. Chapter.

The fyfthe offeringes of Aaron. Aaron blesseth the people the glorie of the Lorde is shewed.

Ad it fortuneth that in the eyght day Moyses called Aaron and hys sonnes, and the elders of Israell: and sayde vnto Aaron: take the a calfe, a yong one out of the droue, for synne and a ram for a burnt offeringe: bothe without blemyshe, and bynge them before the Lorde. And vnto the chyldzen of Israell thou shalt speake, sayinge: take ye an he goate for syn, & a calf and a lambe both two of a yere old, without blemyshe for a burnt sacrifice, & an ore and a ram for peace offeringes, to offer before þe Lorde, & a meate offering myngled wyth oyle: for to day the Lorde wyll appere vnto you.

B And they brought that (whych Moyses commaunded) before the tabernacle of wytnesse, and all the congregacyon came and stode before the Lorde. And Moyses sayde: thys is the thyng, whiche the Lorde comaunded that ye shulde do: and the glorie of the Lorde shall appere vnto you. * And Moyses sayde vnto Aaron: go vnto the aultar and offer thy sacrifice for synne, and thy burnt offeringe, and make an attonement for the and for the people: & thou shalt offer the offering of the people: to reconcytle them, as the Lorde commaunded.

Aaron therfore wente vnto the aultare, and slewe the calfe which he had for synne. And the sonnes of Aaron brought the blood vnto hym, and he dypte hys fynger in the blood, and put it vpon þe hornes of the aultar, & powred the blood vnto the botome of the aultar. But the fat and the two kydneys and the abundaunce of the lyuer of the synne offeringe, he burnt vpon the aultar as the Lorde comaunded Moyses: The fleshe and the hyde he burnt wyth fyre wythout the hoste. And he slewe the burnt offeringe, * & Aarons sons brought vnto hym the blood, whiche he sprynkled rounde aboute vpon the aultare.

And they brought þe burnt offeringe vnto hym with the peces therof, and the head: and he burnt it vpon the aultar, and dyde walsh the inwardes and the legs, & burnt them vpon the burnt offeringe on the aultar. And then he brought the peoples offeringe takyng the goate that the people had for the sacrifice of synne, & slewe it and offered it for synne, as he dyd the fyfthe. And brought the burnt offeringe, & offered it as the maner was, * and brought the meate offeringe, and fylled hys hande therof, & burnt it vpon the aultar, besyde the burnt sacrifice of þe morning. He slewe also the ore and the ram for þe peace offeringe, that the people had for them selues. & Aarons sonnes brought vnto hym the blood, whiche he sprynkled vpon the aultar rounde about, & they toke the fat of the ore & of the ram, the rumpe, and the fat that couereth the inwardes and the kydneys, and the abundaunce of the lyuer: and they put the fat vpon the brestes, and he burnt the fat vpon the aultare: but the brestes and the ryght shulders Aaron waued for a waue offeringe before the Lorde, as the Lorde comaunded Moyses. And Aaron lyfte vp hys hande ouer the people, and blessed them, & came down from offeringe of the synne offeringe, burnt offeringes and peace offeringes. And Moyses and Aaron went into the tabernacle of wytnesse and came out, and blessed the people, and the glorie of the Lorde appeared vnto all the people.

* And there came a fyre out fro before the Lorde, and consumed vpon the aultar the burnt offeringe and the fat. Whiche when all the people sawe, they gaue thanks, and fell on theyr faces.

The. x. Chapter.

Nadab and Abihu are slayne. Israell mourneth for them. The priests are forbydden wyne.

Ad * Nadab & Abihu, the sonnes of Aaron, toke eyther of the hys censor, & put fyre therein, & putte cens ther vpon, & offered straunge fyre before the Lorde, * which he comaunded the not and there wente a fyre out from the Lorde, and consumed them, and they dyed before the Lorde. Then Moyses sayde vnto Aaron: thys is it that the Lorde spake, sayinge: I wyll be sanctified in them that come nye me, and before al the people I wyll be glorified. And Aaron helde hys peace. And Moyses called Misael and Elisapha the sonnes of Oziel the vncle of Aaron, & sayde vnto the, come on, carpe your brethren from the holy place out of the hoste. And they went to the and carped them in theyr albes out of the hoste, as Moyses had sayde. And Moyses sayde vnto Aaron and vnto Eleazar and Ithamar his sonnes: vncover not your heades, nether rent your clothes, lest ye dye, and lest wrath come vpon al the people: But let your brethren þe hole house of Israell bewepe the burnyng which þe Lord hath kyndled. And go not ye out from the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, lest ye dye: for the anointyng oyle of God is vpon you. And they dyd as Moyses sayde. And the Lord spake vnto Aaron, con, sayinge: Thou shalt not drynke wyne and stronge drynke, thou and thy sons that ar with the, wht ye go into the tabernacle of wytnesse, lest ye dpe. Let it be a lawe for ever thozowout your generacyons, and that ye maye (have know ledge to) put difference betwene holy and unholy betwene cleane and vncleane, and that ye maye teach the chyldre of Israel al the statutes which the Lorde hath spoken vnto them by the hande of Moles. And Moles sayde vnto Aaron and vnto Eleazar and Ithamar hys sonnes: I were lette take the meate offerynge that remaineth of the sacrifices of the Lorde, & eate it without leuen besyde the aultar: for it is most holy: ye shal eate it in the holy place, because it is thy dutye & thy sons dutye of the sacrifices of the Lorde: for so I am commaunded. And the wauebrest & heue shulder shal ye eate in a cleane place: thou & thy sonnes and thy doughters wyth the. For they be thy dutye and thy sonnes dutye, giuen out of the peace offerynge of the chyldren of Israel. The heueshulder and the wauebrest shal they byrnyng in wyth the sacrifices of fat, to waue it before the Lorde, and it shalbe thyne & thy sons wyth by a lawe for ever, as the Lorde hath commaunded.

And Moles sought the goate that was offered for synne, and se, it was burnte. And he was angry wyth Eleazar and Ithamar the sons of Aaron, whiche were lette alpyue, sayinge: wherefore haue ye not eaten the synne offerynge in the holy place, seynge it is most holy: and God hath geuen it you, to beare the synne of the congregacion, to make agrement for the before the Lorde. Beholde, the blood of it was not brought in w- in the holy place: ye shuld haue eaten in the holy place, as I commaunded. And Aaron sayde vnto Moles: behold, this day haue they offered they synne offerynge & they burnt offering before the Lorde, & it is chaunced me after thys maner. And yf I had eaten the sacrifice to day, shuld it haue bene accepted in the syght of the Lorde? And when Moles hearde that, he was contente.

The xi. Chapter.

Of beastes whyche be cleane, and whyche be vncleane.

Gene. vii. a.
Deu. xiii. a.
Actes. i. c.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moles and Aaron, and sayde vnto them: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and say *these are the beastes whych ye shal eate, among al the catell that are on the earth: what soeuer parteth the hofe, and deuydeth it into two clawes, and chaweth cud amonge the beastes, that shal ye eate. Neuerthelesse, these shal ye not eate, of them that chewe cudde, and deuyde the hooves: as is the Camell, which chaweth cud, but he deuydeth not the hofe therfore is he vncleane vnto you: euen so the conye, whyche chaweth the cud but deuydeth not the hofe, he is vncleane to you. And the hare, though he chaweth the cud, yet because he deuydeth not the hofe, he is therfore vncleane to you. And agayne, the swyne though he deuyde the hofe into two clawes, yet he chaweth not the cud. He is vncleane to you. Of theyr fleshe shal ye not eate, and theyr carkasses shal ye not touche but lette them be vncleane to you.

These shal ye eate of all that are in the waters: what soeuer hath fynnes and scales in the waters, sees and ryuers, that shal ye eate. And all that haue not fynnes and scales in the see, and ryuers, of all that moue and lyue in the waters, let them be abhominacyon vnto you: Ye shal not eate of theyr fleshe, but abhorre theyr carkasses. Let all that haue no fynnes nor scales in the waters, be abhominable vnto you.

These are they, whyche ye shal abhorre amonge the foules, and that oughte not to be eaten, for they are an abhominacyon. The eagle, the goshauke, and the cozmoraunte, the vultur, and the kyte after his kynde, and all rauens after theyr kynde, the estryche, the nyght crowe, the cockowe, and the owle after his kynde, the falcon, the storke, the greete owle, the bakke, the pelycane, the pye: the heron, the Jape after hys kynde, the lapwynge and the swalowe. Let all foules that crepe and goo vpon all foure, be an abhominacyon vnto you.

Yet these maye ye eate, of euerye creppynge thyng that hath wynges and go vpo foure fete: euen those that haue knees aboue vpo their fete to leape wythal vpo the earth, euen these of the ye maye eat: the Arbe after hys kynde: the She laam after his kynd: the Hargol after his kynde and the Hagab after hys kynde. All other foules that moue and haue foure fete, shalbe abhominacyon vnto you. In suche ye be vncleane, & who soeuer toucheth the carkas of them, shal be vncleane vnto the euen: and who soeuer beareth the carkasse of them, shal wash his clothes and be vncleane vntyll euen.

And euerye beaste that hath hoofe and deuydeth it not into two clawes, nor chaweth cudde, suche are vncleane vnto you: euery one that toucheth them, shalbe vncleane. And what soeuer goeth vpon hys handes amonge all maner beastes that go on all foure fete: suche are vncleane vnto you: and who so doth touche the carkasse shalbe vncleane vntyll the euen. And he that beareth the carkasse of them, shal wash his clothes, and be vncleane vntyll the euen, for suche are vncleane vnto you. And let these also be vncleane to you amonge the thynges that crepe vpon the earth, the weasel, and the moule, and the toode, after theyr kynde, the hedgehog, the stellio, the lacerte, the snayle, and the molle, these are vncleane to you amonge all that crepe: who soeuer doth touche them when they be deade, shalbe vncleane vntyll the euen. And what soeuer any of the dead carkasses of them doth fall vpo shalbe vncleane: whether it be vessell or wood, or raiment, or skynne, or bagge, or what soeuer vessell it be that any worke is wrought in. And it must be plunged in the water and it shalbe vncleane vntyll the euen, and so shal it be clenfed.

All maner of earthen vessell wherinto any of them falleth, shalbe vncleane, with al that ther in is: and it shalbe broken. Al maner meate also that is vled to be eate if any such water come vpon it, shalbe vncleane. And al maner drynke that is vled to be dronke in all maner suche vessels shal be vncleane. And euery thyng that theyr they carcasse falleth vpon, shall be vncleane. Whether it be ouen or kettell, let it be broken. For they are vncleane, and shall be vncleane vnto you: Neuerthelater, yet the fountaynes and welles and collectyon of waters shall be cleane styll. And who so toucheth the carcasses, shall be vncleane. If the deade carcasse of anye suche fall vpon anye sede vled to sow, it shall yet be cleane styll: but and if any water be powred vpon the sede, and a deade carcasse fall thereon, it shall be vncleane vnto you. If any beaste of whyche ye maye eat, dye & any man touche the dead carcasse therof, he shall be vncleane vntill the euen, he eateth of the dead carcasse of it, shall washe his clothes and be vncleane vntill the euen. And he also that beareth the carcasse of it, shall wash his clothes, and be vncleane vntill euen.

Let euery creppynge thyng that crepeth vpon the earth be an abhominacyon, and not be eaten. What soeuer goeth vpon the best and what soeuer goeth vpon foure, or that hath moo fete amonge all creppynge thynges that crepe vpon the earth, of that ye eate not, for they are abhominable. Ye shall not make your soules abhominable wyth nothyng that crepeth, neyther make your selues vncleane wyth them: that ye shulde be defyled therby. For I am the Lord your God. Be sanctified therfore, and ye shall be holy, for I am holy: and ye shall not defyle your soules wyth any maner of creppynge thyng, that crepeth vpon the earth. For I am the Lord & brought you out of the lande of Egypte, to be your God. Ye shall be holy therfore, for I am holy. This is the lawe of bestes and foules, and of euery lymynge creature that moueth in the waters, and of euery creature that crepeth vpon the earth, & there may be a difference betwene the vncleane and cleane, and betwene the beaste that may be eaten, and the beaste that ought not to be eaten.

A lawe howe women shulde be purged after theyr deliuerance.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, sayynge: speake vnto the chyldre of Israel and saye: yf a woman hath conceived, and borne a manchilde, she shall be vncleane seuen dayes: euen in lyke maner as when she is put a part in tyme of her natural disease. And in the eyght day the fleshe of the chyldre shall be cut awaye. And she shall then contynue in the bloode of her purifyng thre and thyrty dayes. She shall touche no halowed thyng, nor come in to the sanctuary, vntill the tyme of her purifyng be out. If she beare a mayde chyld, she shall be vncleane two wekes, as whē she hath her natural dyscase. And she shall continue in the blood of her purifyng thre scoze and syxe dayes.

And whē the dayes of her purifyng are out, whether it be for a sonne or for a doughter, she shall bring a lambe of one yere olde for a burnt offering, and a ponge pygeon or a turtill doue for synne, vnto the doore of the tabernacle of witness and vnto the prest: whyche shall offer them before the Lord, and make an attonement for her, and she shall be purged of the flue of her blood. * And this is the lawe for her that hath borne a male or female. But and yf she be not able to bring a lambe, she shall bring two turtleys or two pong pigeons: the one for a burnt offering, & the other for synne. And the prest shall make an attonement for her, & she shall be cleane.

The. xij. Chapter.

The prestes must iudge who are Lepers.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron sayynge: when there appeareth a risynge in anye mannes fleshe, eyther a scabbe, or a glistynge whyte: and the plage of leprosy be in the skynne of his fleshe, he shall be brought vnto Aaron the prest, or vnto one of his sonnes the prestes, and the prest shall loke on the soze in the skynne of his fleshe.

And when the herre in the soze is turned vnto whyte, and the soze also seme to be lower then the skynne of his fleshe it wyl be a plage of leprosy, & the prestes shall loke on hym, and iudge hym vncleane. If there be but a whyte plecthe in the skynne of his fleshe, and seme not to be lower then the skynne, nor the herre therof is turned vnto whyte, the prest shall shut hym vp seuen dayes. And the prest shall loke vpon hym agayne the seuenthe daye. And yf the plage seme to hym to abyde styll, and the plage growe not in the skyn, the prest shall shut hym vp yet seuen dayes mo. And the prest shall loke on hym agayne the seuenthe daye. Then yf the plage be darker, and not growen in the skynne, the prest shall iudge hym cleane, for it is but a scabbe. And he shall washe his clothes, and be cleane. But and yf the scabbe growe in the skynne after that he is sene of the prest, and iudged cleane, he shall be sene of the prest agayne. If the prest se that the scabbe be grown abrode in the skynne, the prest shall make hym vncleane: for it is a leprosy.

When the plage of the leprosy is in a man, he shall be brought vnto the prest, and the prest shall se hym. And yf the risynge be whyte in the skynne, and haue made the herre whyte, & there be rawe fleshe in the soze, it wyl be an old leprosy in the skynne of his fleshe. And the prest shall make hym vncleane, and shall not shut hym vp: seynge he is vncleane. If a leprosy breake out abrode in the skynne, and couer all the skynne, from his head to his fote, where soeuer the prest loketh, and the prest loke vpon hym. And yf the leprosy haue couered all his fleshe, he shall iudge the plage to be cleane, because it is all turned into whytnesse, and he shall be cleane. But and yf there be rawe fleshe on hym when he is sene, he shall be vncleane.

And the prest shall se the rawe fleshe, and declare hym to be vncleane. For the rawe fleshe is vncleane, seynge it is a leprosy. If the rawe fleshe departe agayne and chaunge vnto whyte, he shall come to the prest, and the prest shall se hym and beholde: If the soze be chaunged vnto whyte (and couer the whole man) the prest shall iudge the plage cleane & he shall be cleane. The fleshe also in whose skynne there is a byle and is healed, and in the place of the byle there appeare a whyte a whyte rylpnyng, ether a thynnyng whyte and somewhat reddyshe, it shalbe sene of the p̄reist.

D And yf when the p̄reist seyth hym, it appere lower then the skynne, and the herre thereof be chaunged vnto whyte, the p̄reist shal iudge hym vncleane: for it is a plage of leprosy, broken out of the byle. But and yf the p̄reist loke on it and there be no whyte herres therein, and yf it be not lower then the skynne, but be darker, the p̄reist shal shut hym vp seuen dayes.

And if it spede abzode in the fleshe, the p̄reist shal make hym vncleane, seynge it is the plage. But and yf the spot stande still, and growe not it is the pynte of an hooft byle, and therfore the p̄reist shal declare hym to be cleane. If there be any fleshe, in whose skynne there is a hote burnyng, and the fleshe that burneth haue a whyte spotte, somewhat reddyshe or whyte, the p̄reist shal loke vpon it. And yf the herre in þ̄ bygght spot be chaunged to whyte, and it appere lower then the skynne, it is a leprosy broken out of the burnyng. And therfore the p̄reist shal iudge hym vncleane, seynge it is the plage of leprosy. But yf the p̄reist loke on it & there be no whyte herre in the bygght spot, and be no lower then þ̄ other skynne, but be darker, the p̄reist shal shut hym vp seuen dayes. And the p̄reist shal loke on hym the seuenth dawe: And yf it be growen abzode in the skynne, the p̄reist shal iudge hym vncleane, seynge it is the plage of leprosy. And yf the spot stande still in it, and growe not in the skynne, but is darke, it is a rylpnyng of the burnyng, and the p̄reist shal therfore declare hym cleane, seynge it is the pynte of the burnyng.

E Yf a man or woman hath a soze vpo the head or the bearde, the p̄reist shal se it. And yf it appere lower then the skynne, and there be in it a yelow herre: & thyn ^(more then it was wont to be) the p̄reist shal iudge hym vncleane, seynge that the same frettyng is a token of leprosy vpon the head or beard. And yf the p̄reist loke on the soze of the pynte, and it seme not lower then þ̄ skyn and that the herre is not blacke, the p̄reist shal shutte vp the frettyng soze seuen dayes. And in the seuenth dawe the p̄reist shal loke on the soze and yf the soze be not growen, and there be in it no yelow herre, and the soze seme not lower the skynne, he shalbe shauen: but the place of the soze shal be not shaued: and the p̄reist shal shutte vp the soze seuen dayes more. And in the seuenth dawe the p̄reist shal loke on the soze: And yf the soze be not growen in the skynne, nor seme lower then the other skynne, the p̄reist shal cense hym, and he shal washe his clothes, & be cleane. But yf the soze growe in the fleshe after his censing, the p̄reist shal loke on hym.

F And yf the soze be growen in the skynne, the p̄reist shal not seke for yelow herre, for he is vncleane. But yf he se the pynte stande still, and that there is blacke herre growne vp therein, the soze is healed, and he shalbe cleane, & the p̄reist shal declare him to be cleane. Yf there be whyte spottes in the skynne of the fleshe of man or woman, the p̄reist shal loke vpon it. And yf the spottes in the skynne of theyr fleshe be somewhat darke and whyte withall, ^(he maye be sure, that it is no leprosy) it is a frekell growyng in the fleshe. Therfore is he cleane. And the man whose head is destitute of herre, (wherby he is made bald) is cleane. And he that hath his herre out in his forehead, is forehead balde and cleane. If there be in the bauld head or balde forehead, a whyte reddyshe soze scabbe, there is leprosy spronge vp in his baulde heade or baulde forehead.

And the p̄reist shal loke vpon hym, and yf the rylpnyng of the soze be whyte reddyshe in his baulde heade or bauld forehead, after the maner of leprosy which is in the skinne of the fleshe, the he is a leperous man and vncleane. And þ̄ p̄reist shal make hym vncleane, for the plage thereof is in his heade. The leper in whom the plage is shal haue his clothes rent, and his head bare, & shal put a coueryng vpon his lyppe, and shalbe called vncleane and defyled. And as long as the disease lasteth vpon hym, he shalbe defyled and vncleane: he shal dwel alone, euen without the hooft shal his habitacyō be. The cloth that the plage of leprosy is in, whither it be linnen or wollen, whither it be in the warpe or woofe of linnen or of wolle, ether in a skyn or any thyng made of skynne, yf the dyscase be pale or somewhat reddyshe in the cloth or skynne: whether it be in the warpe or woofe, or any thyng that is made of skynne, then it is a plage of leprosy and shalbe shewed vnto the p̄reist.

The p̄reist therfore shal se the plage, and shut it vp seuen dayes, and loke on the plage the seuenth day. Which yf it be encreased in þ̄ cloth (whether it be in þ̄ warpe or woofe, or in a skyn) or in any thyng that is made of skynne, it is the leprosy of a frettyng soze: it is vncleane: and that cloth shalbe burnt, ether warpe or woofe whether it be wollen or linnen, or any thyng that is made of skynne, wherin the plage is, for it is a frettyng leprosy, it shalbe burnt in the fyre. If the p̄reist se that the plage is not growen in the cloth: ether in the warpe or woofe, or in what soeuer thyng of skynne it be, the p̄reist shal commaund them to wash the thyng wherin þ̄ plage is, and he shal shutte it vp seuen dayes mo. And the p̄reist shal loke on the plage agayne, after that it is washed. And yf the plage haue not chaunged his coloure, and is spred no further abzode, it is vncleane. Thou shalt burne it in the fyre, for it is a frette inwarde: in parte or in all together. And yf the p̄reist se that the plage is darker after that it is washed, he shal rente it out of the clothe, or out of the skyn, or out of the warpe, or out of the woofe. And yf it appere any more in the cloth (ether in þ̄ warpe or in the woofe, or in any thyng made of skynne) it is a warpyng plage. Thou shalt burne the plage that is in it. Mozeouer the cloth, ether warpe or woofe or whatsoeuer thyng of skyn it be whych thou hast washed, if the plage be departed there from, it shal be washed once agayne: and then shal it be cleane. This is the lawe of the plage of leprosy in a cloth whether it be wollen or linnen: ether in the warpe or woofe, or in any thyng of skynnes, to make it cleane or vncleane.

The

The xliii. Chapter.

The cleansing of the leper: and of the house that he is in.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: *this is the law of the leper in the daye of hys cleansing: he shal be brought vnto the priest, and the priest shal go out without the hoste, and loke vpon hym. And if the plague of leprosy be healed in the leper, then shall the priest commaunde that he which is to be cleansed, bring two living bydes and cleane, and cedar wood and purple cloth, and sowe. And the priest shal commaunde that one of the bydes be killed in an earthen vessel, and vpon runninge water. And he shall take the living byde with the Cedar wood, the purple and the sowe, and shal dip them and the living byde in the bloude of the slayne byde, vpon the runninge water, & spraye vpon hym that must be cleansed of his leprosy: seuen tymes, and cleanse hym, and shal lette the living byde go fre into the felde.

And he that is cleansed, shall walke vpon his clothes, and haue of all his haire, and walke hym selfe in water, that he maye be cleane. And after that shal he come into the hoste, and shal tary without his tent seuen dayes, but in the seuenth daye he shall haue of all his haire, namely, hys heade, his beard, and his browes: euen all hys haire shal be shauen of. And he shall walke vpon his clothes and his flesh in water, & he shal be cleane.

In the eighth daye he shall take two lambs without blemyshe, and a ewe lambe of a yere olde without blemyshe, and thre tenth deales of fyne flour for a meate offering myngled with oyle and a logge of oyle. And the priest that maketh hym cleane, shal bring the man whiche is to be made cleane and those thynges, before the Lord, euen before the doore of the tabernacle of witness. And the priest shal take one lambe, and offer hym for trespass, and the logge of oyle, and waue them before the Lord. And he shal sle the lambe in the place where the synne offering and the burnt offering are slayne: euen in the holpe place. For as the synne offering is, euen so is the trespass offering the priestes: seying it is most holy. And the priest shal take of the bloude of the trespass offering, and put it vpon the tye of the ryght eare of hym that is to be cleansed, and vpon the thumbe of his ryght hande, and vpon the great too of his ryght foote.

The priest shal take of the logge of oyle, and powze it into the palme of his lefte hande, & dip his ryghte synger in the oyle that is in hys lefte hand, and spraye of the oyle with his synger seuen tymes before the Lord. And of the rest of the oyle that is in his hande, shal the priest put vpon the tye of the ryght eare of hym that is for to be cleansed, & vpon the thumbe of his ryght hande, and vpon the great too of his ryght foote, euen vpon the bloude of the trespass offering. And the remnaunt of the oyle that is in the priestes hande, he shall powze vpon the head of hym that is for to be cleansed: and the priest shal make an attouement for hym before the Lord.

And the priest shal offer the synne offering and make an attouement for hym that is to be cleansed, for hys uncleynesse. And then shal he kill the burnt offering, and the priest shal offer the burnt offering and the meate offering vpon the altar: and the priest shal make an attouement for hym, and he shal be cleane. * If he be poore, and can not get so much, he shal take one lambe for a trespass offering to waue it for his cleansing, and a tenth deale of fyne flour myngled with oyle for a meate offering, and a logge of oyle, and two turtyl doves or two yonge pygeons, such as he is able to get, wherof the one shal be for synne, and the other for a burnt offering. And he shal bring them the eighth daye for his cleansing vnto the priest before the doore of the tabernacle of witness before the Lord.

And the priest shal take the lambe that is for the trespass, and the logge of oyle, and shal waue them before the Lord. And he shal kill the lambe for the trespass, and the priest shal take of the bloude of the trespass offering, and put it vpon the tye of his ryght eare that is to be cleansed, and vpon the thumbe of his ryght hande, and vpon the great too of his ryght foote. And the priest shal powze of the oyle into his ryght hand and the priest shal with his synger spraye of the oyle that is in his lefte hand, seuen tymes before the Lord. And the priest shal put of the oyle that is in his hande vpon the tye of the ryght eare of hym that is to be cleansed, and vpon the thumbe of his ryght hande, and vpon the great too of his ryght foote: euen in the place where the bloude of the trespass offering was put.

And the reste of the oyle that is in the priestes hande, he shal put vpon the head of hym that is to be cleansed: that he maye make an attouement for hym before the Lord. And he shal offer one of the turtill doves: or of the yonge pygeons: such as he can get: the one for a synne offering, and the other for a burnt offering with the meate offering. And the priest shal make an attouement for hym that is to be cleansed before the Lord. This is the law of hym in whome is the plague of leprosy, and whose hande is not able to get that whiche pertayneth to hys cleansing. And the Lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron saying, when ye be come vnto the lande of Canaan which I geue you in possession.

And if I put the plague of leprosy in a house of the lande of youre possession, he that oweth the house shal come, and tell the priest, saying: me thynke that there is as it were a leprosy in the house. And the priest shal commaunde them to emptye the house before the priest go into it to se the plague: that all that is in the house be not made vncleane, and then must the priest go into the house. If the priest also se that the plague is in the walles of the house, and that there be holowe strakes pale or red which seme to be lower then the wall it selfe, the priest shal go out at the house doore, and shut vp the house seuen dayes. And the priest shal come agayne the seuenth daye, and if he se that the plague be increased in the walles of the house, the priest shal commaunde them to take away the stones in which the

the plague is, and let them caste them into a foule place without the cite, and he shal commaunde the house to be scraped within rounde aboute, & powze out the duste (that they scrape of) wpyth out the cite into a foule place.

¶ And they shal take other stones, and putte them in the places of those stones, & other mortar, to plaster the house withall. And yf the plague come agayne and breake out in the house, after that he hath taken awaye the stones and scraped the walles of the house, and after yf he hath plastered the house a newe: the preast shal come and se it. And yf he perceaue that the plague hath growen further in the house, it is a frettyng leprosy in the house. It is therfore vncleane. And he shal breake downe the house. And the stones of it, and the tymber thereof, and all the mortar of the house, shal he carpe oute of the cite vnto a foule place. Moreover, he that goeth into the house all the whyle that it is shut up, shal be vncleane vntill the euen. He that slepeth in the house shal washe his clothes: he yf he eate in the house, shal washe his clothes.

¶ And yf the preast shal come and se, that the plague hath spred no further in the house (after yf it is newe plastered) the preast shal iudge that house cleane, because the plague is healed. And let hym take to clesse the house wpythall: two byrdes, cedar wood, purple cloth and yslope. And he shal kyl one of the byrdes in an earthen vessell, and vpon runnyng water: and take the cedar wood, and the yslope, and the purple with the luyng byrde, and dyppe them in the bloude of the slayne byrde, and in the runnyng water, & spyn hie the house seuen tymes, and clesse the house w the bloude of the byrde and wpyth the runnyng water, with the luyng birde, w the cedar wood and the yslope, and the purple cloth. But he shal let the luyng byrde flee out of the towne into a byrde felde, and so make an attonment for the house, and it shal be cleane. This is the lawe for all maner plague of leprosy and breakyng out, and of the leprosy of cloth and house: for a swellynge, for a scabbe, and for a whyte blysterr. To teach when it must be made vncleane and cleane. This is the lawe of leprosy.

¶ The maner of purgynge the vncleannes both of men and women.

¶ And yf the Lorde spake vnto Moses, and Aaron sayng: Speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them: Who soeuer hath a runnyng pssue out of his fleshe, is vncleane by reason of that pssue. And thys shal be the token of his vncleannes in his pssue: when he is vncleane yf his fleshe runne, or yf his fleshe congele by the reason of his pssue, then it is vncleannes. Every couch wheron he lyeth that hath the pssue, is vncleane, and every thyng wheron he spyteth, is vncleane: Who soeuer toucheth hys couche, shal washe his clothes, and bath hym selfe in water and be vncleane vntill the euen.

And he that spyteth on any thyng whereon he sat that hath the pssue, shal washe his clothes and bathe hym selfe in water, and be vncleane vntill the euenyng. He that toucheth the fleshe of hym that hath the pssue, shal washe hys clothes, and bath hym selfe in water, & be vncleane vnto the euen. Yf he also that hath the pssue spyt vpon hym that is cleane, he shal washe his clothes, and bath hym selfe in water, & be vncleane vntill euen. And what horse barnesse so euer he rydeth vpon that hath the pssue, shal be vncleane. And who so euer toucheth any thyng that was vnder hym, shal be vncleane vnto the euen. And he that beareth any suche thynges, shal washe his clothes, and bath hym selfe in water, and be vncleane vnto the euen. And who soeuer he toucheth that hath the pssue (& haue not spytte washed hys handes in water) shal washe hys clothes and bath hym selfe in water, & be vncleane vnto the euen. ¶ The vessell of earth that he toucheth, whiche hath the pssue, shal be broken: and all vesselles of wood shal be rymed in water.

¶ And the eyght daye he shal take vnto hym two turtill doves or two ponge pygeons, and come before the Lorde vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of witness, and geue them vnto the preast. And the preast shal offer them: the one for a syn offering, and the other for burnt offering: and the preast shal make an attonement for hym before the Lorde, as concernynge his pssue. Yf a ny mans sede departe from hym in hys slepe, he shal washe his fleshe in water, and be vncleane vntill euen. And all hys clothes and all the furre: wherin is such sede of slepe, shal be washed with water, and be vncleane vnto the euen. And yf he that hath such an pssue of sede, do lye with a woman, they shal both wash them selues with water, and be vncleane vntill euen.

¶ ¶ When a womans bloud runneth long tyme out of the tyme of her naturall course, or yf it run beyonde her naturall course: let all the dayes of the pssue be iudged vncleane, euen as the dayes of her naturall dyscase. And she shal be vncleane. All her couches wheron she lyeth (as longe as her pssue lasteth) shal be as her couche when she hath her naturall dyscase. And what soeuer she spyteth spetteth vpon, shall be vncleane, as is her vncle-nesse when she is putte aparte. And who so euer toucheth any of these, shall be vncleane, and shall washe his clothes, and bath hym selfe in water and be vncleane vnto euen. And after that she is censed of her pssue, she shall counte her seuen dayes, and after that, she shall be cleane. In the eyghte daye she shall take vnto her two turtlys or two yonge pygeons, and bynge them vnto the preaste before the doore of the Tabernacle of wytnes. And the preaste shall offer the one for a synne offering, and the other for a buente offering: and make an attonement for her before the Lorde, as concernynge the pssue of her vncle-nesse. Therfore shall he seporate the chyldren of Israel from theyr vncleanness, that they dye not in theyr vncleanness: for they defyle my habitacy-on that is amonge them. This is the lawe of hym that hath a runnyng pssue, & of hym whose seede runneth from hym in his slepe, and is defy-led therein, and of her that (for her naturall dysease) is put apart, and of who so euer hath a running pssue: whether it be man or woman, and of hym that lyeth with her which is vncleane.

¶ The xvi. Chapter.

What Aaron must do. The cleansing of the Sanctuary. Of the feast of the cleansing. Aaron confesseth the synnes of the chyldren of Israel.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses,
 *after the death of the two sonnes of Aaron, when they offered before the Lorde, and dyed: And he sayde vnto Moses: speake vnto Aaron thy brother, that he come not at all tymes in to the holy place wthyn the vayle before the mercy seate, which is vpon the arke, that he dye not.
 For I wyll appeare in the cloud vpon the mercy seate. But wth this thyng shall Aaron come in to the holy place: euen wth a bullocke for synne, and with a ram for a burnt offering.
 He shall put the holy linnen albe vpon hym, and shall haue a linnen byrche vpon his fleshe, and shall be girded with a linnen gyrdell, and put the linnen mytre vpon his head: These are holy garmentes: therfore shall he washe his fleshe in water, when he doth put them on. And he shall take of the myltitude of the chyldren of Israel, two hegoates for synne, and a ram for a burnt offering. And Aaron shall offer hys bullocke for synne, *and make an attonement for hym, and for his house. And he shall take the two goates, & present them before the Lorde at the doore of the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And Aaron shall cast lottes ouer the two goates: one lotte shall be for the Lorde, and the other for the scape goate.
 And Aaron shall bynge the goate vpon whiche the Lordes lot fell, and offer hym for synne. But the goate on whiche the lotte fell to scape, shall be set alpye before the Lorde, to reconyle wth, & to let hym go (as a scape goate) fre into the wyl-dernesse. And Aaron shall bynge hys bullocke for syn, and reconyle for hym selfe, and for hys house, and shall kyll his bullocke for synne.

And he shall take a censer full of burnynge coles out of the aultare before the Lorde, & shall spyll his handfull of swete cens beaten small, and byng them within the vayle, and put the cens vpon the fyre before the Lorde: that the cloude of the cens maye couer the mercy seate that is vpon the wytnes, and that he dye not. And he shall *take of the bloude of the bullocke, and spyn-kle it with his fynger vpon the mercyseate east warde: and before the mercyseate shall he spyn-kle of the bloude with his fynger seuen tymes.

 Then shall he kyll the goate that is the peoples synne offering, and byng his blond within the vayle, and do with that bloude, as he dyd wth the bloude of the bullocke, spynklynge it vpon the mercyseate, and before the mercyseate. And he shall reconyle the holy place from the vncle-nesses of the chyldren of Israel, and from theyr trespasses in all theyr synnes. And so shall he do for the tabernacle of wytnesse that is set among them, euen amonge theyr vncleanness.

*And let there be no bodye in the tabernacle of wytnesse, when he goeth in to make an attonement in the holy place, vntyll he come out. And lette hym make an attonement for hym selfe, & for his household, and for all the myltitude of Israel. And he shall goo out vnto the aultar that is before the Lorde, and reconyle vpon it, & shall take of the blond of the bullocke, and of the blond of the goate, and put it vpon the hornes of the aultare rounde aboute, and spynkle of the bloude vpon it with his fynger seuen tymes, and cense it, and halow it from the vncleannesses of the chyldren of Israel. And when he hath made an ende of reconcilynge the holy place, and the tabernacle of wytnes, and the aultar, he shall byng the lyue goate: and Aaron shall put both his handes vpon the heade of the lyue goate, & confesse ouer hym all the mysdedes of the chyldren of Israel, and all theyr trespasses, in all theyr synnes, put-tyng them vpon the head of the goate, and sende hym awaye (by the hande of a conuenient man) into the wyl-dernesse. And the goate shall beare vpon hym all theyr mysdedes vnto the wyl-der-nes, and he shall let the goate go free into the wyldernes. And Aaron shall come into the tabernacle of wytnesse, & put of the linnen clothes which he put on (when he went into the holy place) and leane them there. And let hym washe his fleshe wth water in the holy place, and put on his owne raiment, and then come out, and offer his burnt offering, and the burnt offering of the people, and make an attonement for hym selfe, and for the people, and the fat of the synne offering shall be burne vpon the aultare.

And he that carryed forth the goate to Aza-zell, shall washe his clothes, and bath his fleshe in water, and then come into the hoste. And the bullocke which is for synne, and the goate that is for synne, (whose bloude was broughte in, to cense the holy place) shall one carry out without the host to be burnt in the fyre, wth theyr skyn-nes, theyr fleshe, and theyr dunge. And he that burneth them shall washe his clothes, and bath hys fleshe in water, and then come into the hoste.
 And this shall be an ordynance for euer vnto you that in the tenth daye of the seventh moneth, ye humble

humble your soules, & do no worke at all, whether it be one of your selues or a straunger that sojourneth amonge you, for that daye shall the priest make an attonement for you to cleanse you and that ye may be cleane from all your synnes before the Lorde. Lette it be a Sabbath of rest vnto you, and ye shall humble your soules, by an ordynance for euer. And the priest that is appointed, and whose hande was consecrated (to minister in his fathers steade) shall make the attonement, and shall put on the lynen clothes and holy vestmentes, and reconple the holy sanctuary and the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and shall cleanse the altar, and make an attonement then for the priestes and for all the people of the congregation. And thus shall be an everlastynge ordynance vnto you, that he make an attonement for the chyldren of Israel for all their synnes once a yere: and he dyd as the Lorde commaunded.

The xvii. Chapter.

All sacrifice must be brought to the doore of the tabernacle. No deuyls maye they offer.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying speake vnto Aaron to his sons, and vnto all the chyldren of Israel, & say vnto the: This is the thing which the Lorde hath charged, saying: what man soeuer of the house of Israel killeth an ore, or lambe, or gote in the host, or killeth it out of the host, & byngeth it not vnto the doore of the tabernacle of witnes, to offer an offering vnto the Lorde before the dwelling place of the Lorde, bloude shall be imputed vnto that man, as though he had shed blood, and that man shall be rote out from amonge his people. Wherefore, when the chyldren of Israel byng the offerings, that they offer in the wyde felde, they shulde bynge them vnto the Lorde: euen vnto the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse to the priest, to offer them for peace offeringes vnto the Lorde. And the priest must spynkle the bloude vpon the altar of the Lorde which is before the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and burne the fat for a sweete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And let them nomore offer the offerings vnto deuyls, after whome they haue gone a whoynge. This shall be an ordynance for euer vnto them in their generacions.

And thou shalt say vnto them: whatsoeuer man it be of the house of Israel, or of the straungers which sojourn amonge you that offereth a burnt offering or sacrifice, and byngeth it not vnto the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse to offer it vnto the Lorde, that man shall perishe from amonge his people. And whatsoeuer man it be of the house of Israel or of the straungers that sojourn amonge you, that eateth any manner of bloude, I wyll set my face agaynst that soule that eateth bloude, & wyll destroy him from amonge his people: for the lyfe of the fleshe is in the bloude and I haue geuen it vnto you vpon the altar, to make an attonement for youre soules, for bloude shall make an attonement for the soule. And therefore I sayde vnto the chyldren of Israel let no soule of you eat bloude. Neether let any straunger that sojourneth amonge you, eat bloude

And what soeuer man it be of the chyldren of Israel, or of the straungers that sojourn amonge you, which hunteth & catcheth any beast or foule that maye be eaten, let hym powre out the bloude thereof, and couer it with earthe, for the lyfe of all fleshe is in the bloude of it, therefore I sayde vnto the chyldren of Israel, * ye shall eat the bloude of no manner of fleshe for the lyfe of all fleshe is the bloude thereof: who soeuer eateth it, shall perishe. And euery soule that eateth it whiche dyed alone, or that whiche was to the wyld beasts, whether it be one of your selues or a straunger, he shall washe his clothes, & bath hym selfe in water, and be vncleane vnto the euen and then shall he be cleane. If he washe them not nor bath his fleshe, he shall beare his synne.

The xviii. Chapter.

What degrees of kynred maye marie together.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saying: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto the: I am the Lorde your God. After the doinges of the lande of Egypt: where in ye dwelt, shall ye not do: & after the doynges of the lande of Canaan, whither I wyl byng you shall ye not do, neether walke in their ordynances, but do after my iudgementes and kepe my ceremonyes, to walke therein: I am the Lorde your God. Ye shall kepe therefore myne ordynances, and my iudgementes: which if a man do, he shall lyue in them. I am the Lorde.

Ye that none go to his nyghest kynred, for to vncouer the secrets. I am the Lorde. * The secrettes of thy father, and the secrettes of thy mother shalt thou not vncouer: for she is thy mother, therefore shalt thou not discouer her secrettes. * The secrettes of thy fathers wyfe shalt thou not discouer, for it is thy fathers secrettes. * Thou shalt not discouer the preynte of thy sister, the daughter of thy father or of thy mother whither she be borne at home or without. Thou shalt not vncouer the secrettes of thy sons daughter or thy daughters daughter, for that is thyne owne preynte. Thou shalt not vncouer the secrettes of thy fathers wyues daughter, whiche was begotten of thy father, and is thy sister: thou shalt not discouer her secrettes. * Thou shalt not vncouer the secrettes of thy fathers sister, for she is thy fathers nexte kynswoman. Thou shalt not discouer the secrettes of thy mothers sister, for she is thy mothers nexte kynswoman. Thou shalt not vncouer the secrettes of thy fathers brother: that is, thou shalt not go into his wyfe, whiche is thyne aunte.

Thou shalt not discouer the secrettes of thy daughter in lawe: for she is thy sonnes wyfe: therefore shalt thou not vncouer her secrettes. * Thou shalt not vncouer the secrettes of thy brothers wyfe, for that is thy brothers preynte. Thou shalt not discouer the preyntes of thy wyfe and her daughter, neether shalt thou take her sonnes daughter, or her daughters daughter, to vncouer the secrettes: for they are her nexte kyn, and it were wyckednes. * Thou shalt not take a wyfe and her sister also, to vncouer her, that thou woldst woldest vncouer her secretes as longe as she lyueth. * Thou shalt also not go vnto a woman to vncouer her prauitye, as longe as she is put a parte for her vncienesse. * Moreover, thou shalt not lye wth thy neyghbours wyfe, to defyle her wth sede. Thou shalt also not geue of thy sede to offer it vnto * Moloch: neyther shalt thou defyle the name of thy God. I am y^e Lorde * Thou shalt not lye wth mankynde as wth woman kynde, for it is a byhomynacyon. * Thou shalt lye wth no maner of beaste to defyle thy selfe therewith, neyther shall any woman stande before a beaste, to lye downe thereto, for it is a by-homynacyon. Ye shall not defyle poure selues in any of these thynges, wherein also the nacyns are defyled whych I cast out before you: Where thowoe the lande is defyled, and I wyll vsset the wyckednesse therof vpon it, yee and the land it selfe hath caste out her inhabytors. * Ye shall kepe therfore myne ordynaunces, and my iudgementes, and comyt none of these abhomynacyons: neyther any of you nor anye straunger that sojourneth amonge you (for al these abhomynacyons haue the men of the land done which were there before you, and the lande is defiled.) Shal not the lande spewe you out also (yf ye defyle it) as it spued out the people that were before you?

 For who so euer shall comyt any of these abhominacyons, the same soules that comyt them, shall peryshe from amonge theyr people. Therfore shall ye kepe my wathe, that ye comyt not one of these abhominable customes which were comytted before you: and that ye defyle not your selues therein I am the Lorde your God.

¶ The. xix. Chapter.

¶ A repeticon of lawes pertainyng to the ten commaundementes. A consydration for the poore: whyche crafte is forbydden.

¶ And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto al the multitude of the children of Israel, and saye vnto them: * Ye shall be holpe, for I the Lorde your God am holy Ye shall feare every man hys father and his mother, and kepe my Sabbothes: I am the Lorde your God. Ye shall not turne vnto ydolles, nor make you goddes of metal. I am the Lorde your God. If ye offer a peaceofferinge vnto the Lorde ye shall offer it yf ye may be accepted. * It shalbe eaten the same daye ye offer it, & on the morowe
 And yf oughte remaine vntill the thyrde daye, it shalbe burnt in fyre. And yf it be eaten the thyrde daye, it is vncleane and not accepted. He that eateth it, shal beare his syn, because he hath defyled the halowed thing of the Lorde, and that soule shall peryshe from amonge hys people.

* When ye reape downe the rypp corne of poure lande, ye shall not reape downe y^e vtmost border of poure felde, neyther shalt thou gather that which is lefte behynd in thy haruest. Thou shalt not plucke in all thy vyncyard cleane, neyther gather in the grapes that are onescafed. But thou shalt leaue them for the poore and straunger. I am the Lorde your God.

¶ * Ye shall not steale, neyther lye, neyther deale falselye one wth another. * Ye shall not sweare by my name in vayne: neyther shal thou defyle the name of thy God. I am the Lorde.

Thou shalt not doo thy neyghboure wronge, neyther robbe hym violently, * neyther shal the workmans labour abyde wth the vntill the mornyng. Thou shalt not curse the deasse, * neyther put a stumblinge blocke before the blynde: but shalt feare thy God. I am y^e Lorde. Ye shal do no vnrigheteousnes in iudgement. * Thou shalt not fauour the poore: nor honour the mighty, but in ryghteousnesse shalt y^e iudge thy neyghbour.

Thou shalt not goo vp and downe as a pre-uye accuser amonge thy people, neyther shalt thou stande against the bloud of thy neyghbour
 I am the Lorde. Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thyne harte, but shalt in anye wyse * rebuke thy neyghbour: that thou beare not synne for hys sake. * Thou shalt not auenge thy selfe, nor be myndeful of wronge agaynst the chyldre of my people: * but shalt loue thy neyghbour euen as thy selfe. I am the Lorde.

Ye shall kepe myne ordynaunces. Thou shalt not lette cattell gendre wth a contraye kynde, nether sowe thy felde with myngled sede neyther shalt thou put on any garment of lynnen and wollen. Who so euer lyeth and med-leth wth a woman that is a bonde mayde, ne-urtherlesse appoynted to a husbnde, but not re-demed, nor fredome geuen her, she shalbe scourged wth a lathzen whyppe, and they shal not dye, because she was not fre. And he shal byng for his trespass vnto the Lorde: before the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, a ramme for a tres-passe offeringe. And the Preate shal make an attonement for hym wth the ramme whiche is for the trespass before the Lorde, concernyng hys synne whych he hath doone, and the synne whych he hath doone, shal be forgiven hym.

When ye come to the lande, and haue planted all maner of trees conuenient to be eaten of, ye shall put awaye the foresynne of euery one wth the frute therof: euen thre yere shal they be vncircumcised vnto you, and shal not be eaten of. But in the fourth yere all the frute of them shal be holy, and comendable to the Lorde.
 In the fyfte yere shal ye eate of the frute of them and ye may gather in the encrease of them. I am the Lorde your God.

¶ * Ye shall not eate vpon bloude, neyther shal ye vse wycheecraft, nor obserue tymes. * Ye shall not rounde the lockes of poure heades, neyther shalt thou marre the tustes of thy bearde.

Ye shal not rente poure fleshe for any soules sake

Men shall stonke them wth stones, theyr bloude be vpon them.

The xxi. Chapter.

These be the lawes for the preastes.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moles, I speake vnto the preastes the sonnes of Aaron, and saye vnto them. Let none be defiled vpon a soule among his people: but vpon his kinsman y is nye vnto hym: vpon his father, & hys mother, vpon sonne & daughter, and hys brother, and on hys his wyfe a mayde that is nye vnto hym, whom no man hath knowen, vpon her shall he be defy-led. But he shall not be defyled vpon hym that hath auctoryte among his people, to polute him selfe for hym. Let them not make baldnes vpon their head, nor shau of the lockes of their beard nor make any markes in their fleshe. They shall be holy vnto the Lord, and not polute his name of the Lord, for the sacrifices of the Lord whych are as the bzeade of the Lord: God they do offer: ther fore they shall be holy. * Let the not take a wyfe that is an aduoutrisse, or poluted, nor put from her husband: for such a one is holy vnto his god Thou shalt sanctifye hym therfore, for he offereth vpon the bzeade of the Lord: he shall therfore be holy vnto the Lord, for the Lord whiche sanctifye you am holy. If a Priestes daughter fall to playe the whore, she polureth her father, therfore must she be burnt wth fyre. He that is the hye priest among his brethren, vpon whose head anoin-tyng oyle was powred, & that consecrated hys hande to put the vestmentes, shall not vncouer his head, nor rent his clothes, * nether go to any dead body, nor make hym selfe vncleane on hys father or hys mother, neyther shall go out of the sanctuary, nor polute the holy place of hys God for the crowne of the anoynting oyle of his god, is vpon hym: I am the Lord. * He shall take a mayde vnto hys wyfe: but a wydow, a deuorced woman, or an harlot, shall he not marie. But shall take a mayde of hys owne people to wyfe.

Neyther shall he defyle hys seide among his people: for I am the Lord whych sanctifye hym.

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses, sayenge: speake vnto Aaron, and saye. Who so euer of thy seide in the generacions hath any deformitie, let him not pzeace for to offer bzeade vnto hys God, * for whosoever hath any blemyshe, shall not come nere: as yf he be blynde or lame, or that hath a brydled nose, or that hath any mysshapen membze, or is broken footed, or broken handed or haue no heare on hys eye browes, or haue a web or other blemyshe in hys eyes, or be maunge, or skauld, or haue hys stones broken. No man that hath a blemyshe, and is of the seide of Aaron the Prieste, shall come nye to offer the sacrifices of the Lord. When he hath a deformitie, let hym not pzeace to offer the bzeade of hys God. Lette him eate the bzeade of his God: euen of the moste holy and of the holy: Onely lette hym not go in vnto the vayne, nor come nye the aultar, when he is deforimed that he polute not my sanctuary, for I am the Lord that sanctifye them. And Moses tolde it vnto Aaron and to his sonnes, & vnto all the chyldzen of Israel.

sonnes, that they be seperated from the holy thynges of the chyldzen of Israel, & that they polute not my holy name in those thynges, which they halowe vnto me: I am the Lord. Saye vnto them:

Who so euer he be of all your seide amonge your generacions after you, that goeth vnto the holy thynges whych the chyldzen of Israel halowe vnto the Lord, haueinge hys vncleanness vpon hym, that soule shall perishe frome oute of my syghte. I am the Lord.

* What man so euer of the seide of Aaron is a leaper: or hath a runnyng pisse, he shall not eate of the holy thynges vntill he be cleane.
And who so toucheth any man that is vncleane ouer the soule of the deade, or a man whose seide runneth frome hym in hys slepe, or who so euer toucheth any worme, wherby he maye be made vncleane, or a man, of whome he maye take vn-cleanness (what so euer vncleanness he hath) the same soule that hath touched any suche, shall be vncleane vntill euen, and shall not eate of the holpe thynges, vntill he haue washed his fleshe wth water. And when the sunne is downe, he shall be cleane, and shall afterwarde eate of the holy thynges: for as muche as it is hys fode.

* Of a beaste that dyeth alone, or is rente wth wyld beastes (wherby he maye be defyled) he shall not eate. I am the Lord. Let them kepe therfore myne ordynance, lest they for the same lade synne vpon them, and dye for it, yf they defyle it. I the Lord sanctifye them

There shall no straunger eate of the holy thing neyther a giste of the Priestes, neyther shall an hyred seruaunte eate of the holy thyng. But yf the Priest be any soule wth money, he shall eate of it, lyke as he that is bozne in hys house, shall they eate of hys bzeade. If the Priestes doughter also be maried vnto a straunger, she maye not eate of the halowed heue offerynge Nor wthstaudynge yf the Priestes doughter be a wydow or deuorced and haue no chyldre, but is retourned vnto her fathers house agayne, she shall eate of her fathers bzeade, as well as she dyd in her youth. But there shall no straunger eate therof. If a man eate of the holy thyng vnwyttynglye, he shall put the fyfte parte ther-unto, and geue it vnto the Priest wth the halowed thyng. And the Priestes shall not defyle the holpe thynges of the chyldzen of Israel, (whiche they offer vnto the Lord) to lade them selues wth mysdoynge and trespasse whyle they eate theyr holy thynges, for I the Lord do ha-lowe them. And the Lord spake vnto Moyses, sayeng: speake vnto Aaron and his sonnes, and vnto all the chyldzen of Israel, and saye vnto them: what so euer he be of the house of Israel, or straunger in Israel, that wyl offer hys sacri-fyce for al hys vowes, and for al his fre wyl of-ferynge whiche they wyl offer vnto the Lord for a burnt offerynge, ye shall offer (to reconceyle your selues) a male wthout blemyshe of the oxen, of the shepe, or of the goates. But whatsoeuer hath a blemyshe, that shall ye not offer, for ye shall get no fauoure therewyth. And who soe-uer byngeth a peace offerynge vnto the Lord (accordynge as he is appoynted) or a vowe, or a fre wyl offerynge, in oxe or shepe that is wth out deformitie, he shall be accepted. There shall be also no blemyshe therein: blynde or broken,
f. ii. or wounde.

oz wounded, oz haue a wenne, oz be maunge, oz scabbed. Ye shall not offer suche vnto the Lorde noz put an offering of any suche vpon the aultar vnto the Lorde. An ore oz a shepe that hath any membre out of proportion may it thou offer for a freewill offering, but for a vowe it shall not be accepted. Ye shall not offer vnto the Lorde that which is bzosed oz broken, oz plucked out, oz cut a waye, neyther shall ye make any suche in your lande, neyther of a straungers hande shall ye offer bread vnto your God of any suche. Because they? corrupcion is in them, and they haue defoz mytpe in them selues, and therfore shall they not be accepted for you. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayenge: when an ore, oz a shepe, oz a gote is bzought forth, it shall be seuen dayes vnder the damme. And from the epght dape forth, it shall be accepted for a sacrifice vnto the Lorde. And whether it be ore oz shepe, ye shall not kyll it, and her yonge both in one dape. When ye wyl offer a thankofferynge vnto the Lorde, offer it that ye maye be accepted. And the same dape it must be eaten vp, so that ye leaue none of it vntill the morowe. I am the Lorde. Therfore shall ye kepe my commaundementes and do them. I am the Lorde. Neyer shall ye polute my holy name, but I wyl be halowed among the chyldzen of Israell. I am the Lorde whyche halowe you, and that bzought you out of the land of Egypte, to be your God: I am the Lorde.

¶ Of the holy dayes: that they shulde kepe.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses saying, speake vnto the chyldze of Israell, and say vnto them: These are my feastes: euen the feastes of the Lorde, whyche ye shall cal holy conuocations. * Sixe daies ye shall worke, but the seuenth dape is the Sabboth of rest, an holy conuocation: so that ye do no worke therein, it is the Sabboth of the Lord, in al your dwellynge. These are the feastes of the Lorde, euen holpe conuocacions, whyche ye shall proclayme in they? ceasons. In the .xxiii. dape of the fyrste moneth at euen is the Lordes * passequer. And on the fyfteneth dape of the same moneth the feaste of swete breade vnto the Lorde: seuen dayes ye must eate vbleuened bread. * In the fyrste dape ye shall haue an holy conuocation: ye shall do no laborpous worke therein. But ye shall offer sacrifices vnto the Lorde thozowout these seuen dayes, and in the seuenth dape is an holy conuocation: ye shall do no laborpous worke therein. ¶ And the Lord spake vnto Moyses sayeng, speake vnto the chyldzen of Israell, and saye vnto them * when ye be come into the lande (whyche I gyue vnto you) & reape downe the harvest therof, ye shall bzynge a sheafe of the fyrste frutes of your harvest vnto the Dreaste, whiche shall haue the sheafe before the Lorde to be accepted for you: and euen the morowe after the Sabboth, the Dreaste shall waue it. And ye shall offer that dape when ye haue the sheafe, an belambe without blemyshe of a pere olde, for a burnt offering vnto the Lorde: and the meatofferynge therof, shall be made of two tenth deales of fyne flour mengled wth oyle, to be a sacrifice vnto the Lorde for a swete sauoure: & the dzynke offerynge therof shall be of wyne, euen the fourth deale of an hin. And ye shall eate neyther breade noz parched corne, noz fymenty, noz newe corne vntill the selfe same dape that ye haue bzought an offerynge vnto your God. Let this be a lawe for euer in your generacion and in al your dwellynge. ¶ And ye shall count from the morowe after the Sabboth: euen from the dape that ye bzoughte the sheafe of the waue offerynge seuen Sabbothes complete: euen vnto the morowe after the seuenth Sabboth shall ye nombze fyfte dayes. And ye shall bzynge a newe meatofferynge vnto the Lorde. And ye shall bzynge out of your habitacions two waue loues made of two tenth deales of fyne flour, & that are made with leuen for fyrst frutes vnto the Lorde. And ye shall bzynge wth the breade * seuen lambes without defozmytpe of one yere of age, and one yonge ore and two rammes, whiche shall serue for a burnt offering vnto the Lorde, wth meatofferyngs and they? dzynke offerynges, to be a sacrifice for a swete sauour vnto the Lorde.

¶ Then ye shall offer an hegoate for a synofferynge: & two lambes of one yere olde for a peace offerynge. And the prest shall waue them with the breade of the fyrste frutes before the Lorde, and with the two lambes. And these holy thynge of the Lorde, shall be the Dreastes. And ye shall proclayme the same day, that it may be an holy conuocation vnto you: ye shall do no laborpous worke therein: lette it be a lawe for euer in all your dwellynge, and in all your generacions. * And when you reape downe your harvest thou shalt not make cleane ryddaunce of the feld neyther shall thou make anye aftergatheryng of thy heruest: but shalt leaue it vnto the poore and the straunger. I am the Lorde your God.

¶ For what so euer soule it be that humbleth not himselfe that dape, he shall be destroyed from amonge his people. And what so euer soule do any worke that dape, the same soule wyl I destroye from amonge his people. Ye shall do no maner worke therfore: Let it be a lawe for euer in your generacions, and in all your dwellynge. Lette it be vnto you a Sabboth of reste, and ye shall humble your soules in the nynt day of the moneth at euen: from euen to euen shall ye rest in your Sabboth. ¶

And the Lorde spake vnto Moles, sayenge: ^{Exod. xxi. b.} ^{Exod. xxi. c.} ^{Exod. xxi. d.} speake vnto the chyldren of Israell, and say: * the fyfteenth daye of the same seuenth moneth is the feaste of tabernacles, seuen dayes vnto the Lorde. The fyfste daye is an holy conuocacyon: ye shall do no laborpous worke. ^{Exod. xxi. b.} ^{Exod. xxi. c.} ^{Exod. xxi. d.} Seuen dayes ye shall offer sacrifice vnto the Lorde, and in the epyghte daye shall be an holy conuocacion vnto you, and ye shall offer sacrifices vnto the Lorde. It is the collection, and ye shall do no laborpous worke therein. These are the feastes of the Lorde, which ye shall call holpe conuocacions, for to offer sacrifice vnto the Lorde, burnt offering, meat offering, peace offering, and drynke offeringes, every daye bys due sacrifice besyde the Sabbathes of the Lorde, and besyde youre gyftes, besyde your vowes, and all your freewyll offeringes, whyche ye geue vnto the Lorde.

Moreover, in the fyfteenth daye of the seuenth moneth, when ye haue gathered in the frute of the lande, ye shall kepe holpe daye vnto the Lorde seuen dayes. The fyfste daye shall be as a Sabbath: lyke wyse in the epyghte daye shall be the rest of the Sabbath. And ye shall take you in the fyfste daye, the frutes of goodly trees braunches and Palme trees, and the bowes of thycke trees, and wyllowes of the brooke, and shall reioyce before the Lorde your God seuen dayes. And ye shall kepe this feaste vnto the Lorde vii. dayes in the yere. It shall be a lawe for ever in youre generacions, that ye kepe it in the seuenth moneth. Ye shall dwell in bothes. vii. dayes euē al ye are Israelites bozne, that dwell in bothes, for your chyldren after you maye knowe how that I made the chyldren of Israel to dwell in bothes, when I brought them out of the land of Egypte: I am the Lorde your God. And Moles spake vnto the chyldren of Israell, concerning the feastes of the Lorde.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

The oyle for the lampes. He that curieth must be stoned. He that killeth shall be hanged.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moles, sayeng: * comaunde the chyldren of Israell that they bynne vnto the, puer oyle olyue beaten for lightes to cause the lampes to burne away: without the vayle of wytnesse: in the tabernacle of witness shall Aaron dresse them both euē & morning before the Lorde alwaies. ^{Exod. xxi. b.} ^{Exod. xxi. c.} ^{Exod. xxi. d.} Let it be a lawe for ever in your generacions. He shall dresse the lampes vpon the pure candlesticke before the Lorde perpetually. And thou shalt take fyne flour, and bake twelue wassels thereof, two tenth deales shall be in one wassell. And thou shalt set them in two rowes fyve on a rowe vpon the pure table before the Lorde, and put purer frankensence vpon the rowes, that they may be breade of remembraunce, and an offering to the Lorde. Every Sabbath he shall put them in rowes before the Lorde euermore: of the chyldren of Israel shall they be offered for an euerlastyng couenaunt. * And they shall be Aarons & his sonnes, which shall eat them in the holy place. For they are most holy vnto him of the offeringes of the Lordes by a perpetuall statute. And the son of an Israelytische wyfe, whose father was an Egyptian, went out among the chyldren of Israell. And this sonne of the Israelytische wyfe, and a man of Israel stroue together in the hoste.

And the Israelytische womans sonne * blasphemed the name of the Lorde and: cursed, and they brought hym vnto Moles. Hys mothers name was Salomith, which was the daughter of Dibzi: of the trybe of Dan: & they * put hym in ward, that the mynde of the Lorde myght be shewed them. And the Lorde spake vnto Moles sayenge: bynne the cursed speaker without the hoste, and let all that heard him, put theyr handes vpon his head, & let al the multitude ston hym. And thou shalt speake vnto the chyldren of Israell, saying: Who soeuer curseth his God shall beare this synne. And he that blasphemeth the name of the Lorde, let hym be slayne, and all the multitude shall ston hym to death. Whether he be bozne in the land or a strainger, when he blasphemeth the name of the Lord, let him be slayne. ^{Exod. xxi. b.} ^{Exod. xxi. c.} ^{Exod. xxi. d.} And * he that killeth any mā, let him dye the death. And he that killeth a beast, let hym make hym good, soule for soule. And yf a man mayme his neyghbour, as he hath done, so shall it be done to hym: broke for broke: eye for eye and toth for toth: euē as he hath maymed a man, so shall he be maymed agayne. And he that killeth a beast let him paye for it: and he that killeth a man, let hym dye. Ye shall haue one maner of lawe: euē for the straunger aswell as for one of your selues, for I am the Lorde your God. And Moles tolde the chyldren of Israell, and they broughte hym (that had cursed) out of the hoste, and stoned hym with stones. And the chyldren of Israel dyd as the Lorde commaunded Moles.

The xxxv. Chapter.

The Sabbath of the seuen yeres: and of the yere of the tabe: ler, otherwyse called the fyfth yere.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moles in Mount Sinai, sayeng: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell, and saye vnto them: whē ye become into the lande whych I geue you, the lande shall rest, and kepe Sabbath vnto the Lorde. ^{Exod. xxi. b.} ^{Exod. xxi. c.} ^{Exod. xxi. d.} * Syre yeres thou shalt sowe thy felde and syre yere thou shalt cut the vyneyard, and gather in the frute thereof. But the * seuenthyere shall be a Sabbath of reste vnto the lande. The Lordes Sabbath it shall be: thou shalt not sowe the felde, nor cut thy vyneyard. That whyche groweth of theowne accorde thou shalt not reape: neyther gather the grapes that thou haste leste behynde, for it is a yere of rest vnto the lande. And the reste of the lande shall be meate for you: euē for the, for thy seruaunt: and for thy mayde for thy byred seruaunt, and for the strainger that sojourneth with the: and for thy cattell, and for the beastes that are in the lande, shall all the increase thereof be meate.

And thou shalt nombze seue Sabbathes of yeres vnto the, euē seuen tymes seuen yere: and the space of the seuen Sabbathes of yeres: wyl be vnto the nyne and fortye yere.

f.iii. And

And then thou shalt make a trumpe blowe: in the tenth daye of the seventh moneth, euen in the daye of attonement shall ye make a trumpe blowe, thowowe out all your lande. And thou shalt halowe that yere: euen the fyrtyeth yere, and proclame lybertye thowowe out the lande: vnto all the inhabytters therof, for it shall be a yere of iubelye vnto you, and ye shall retourne euery man vnto hys possessyon, and euery man vnto hys kynred agayne. A yere of iubelye shall that fyrtyeth yere be vnto you. Ye shall not sowe neyther reape that whiche groweth of it selfe, neyther gather the grapes that are lefte.

For that yere of iubelye shall be holpe vnto you: but ye shall eate of the increase therof oute of the felde. In the yere of thys iubelye ye shall retourne euery man vnto his possession agayne. If thou sellest oughte to thy neyghboure, or byest of thy neyghbours hande, ye shall not disceane one another: but accordynge to the number of yeaers after the iubelye yere thou shalt buye of thy neyghboure, and accordynge vnto the nombre of yeaers and of the frutes, he shall sell vnto the. Accordynge vnto the multitude of yeaers, he shall encrease the pryce therof, and accordynge to the fewnesse of yeaers, he shall mynyshe the pryce of it: for the nombre of frutes doeth he sell vnto the. * Wylceane not ye therfore euery man his neyghboure, but thou shalt feare thy God. For I am the Lorde your God: Wherefore ye shall do after myne ordynauces: & kepe my lawes, and do them, and ye shall dwell in the lande in safetye. And the lande shall geue her frute, and ye shall eate your fyll: and dwell therein in safetye. And yf ye shall say: what shall we eate the seventh yere, for we shall not sowe, nor gather in our increase? I wyl sende my blessinge vpon you in the syxte yere, and it shall byynge for the frute for thre yeaers, and ye shall sowe the eyght yere, and eate yet of olde corne vntill the nynt yere: euen vntill her frutes come, ye shall eate of olde store. The lande shall not be solde to be waste: for the land is myne, and ye be but straungers and sojourners with me.

In all the lande of youre possessyon, ye shall graunte a redempcyon for the lande. If thy brother be wared poore, and hath solde awaye of hys possessyon, and yf any of hys kynne come to redeme it, lette hym by out that whiche his brother solde. And yf he haue no man to redeme it, let hys hande get so muche as may be sufficient to buye it out agayne, and lette hym counte howe longe it hath bene solde, and deliuer the rest vnto the man to whom he solde it, that he maye retourne to hys possession agayne. But and yf his hande can not get sufficient to restore to the other agayne, then that whiche is solde shall remaine in the hande of hym that hath bought it, vntill the yere of iubelye: and in the iubelye it shall come out, and he shall retourne vnto his possession agayne. And yf a man sell a house or a dwellinge wythin the walles of a cite, he maye buye it out agayne wythin a whole yere after it is solde: euen any daye of the yere shall he redeme it agayne. But and yf he buye it not oute agayne wythin the space of a full yere, then the house that is in the walled Cytie, shall be stablyshed, and be hys owne that boughte it, and hys successours after hym, and shall not go oute in the inbelye. But the houses of byllages, whiche haue no walles rounde aboute them, are counted as the felde of the countre, and therefore they maye be boughte out agayne, and shall retourne in the inbelye. Not wythstandynge, the Cyties of the Leuites, and the houses of the ctyes of theyr possessyon, maye the Leuites redeme at all seasons. And yf a man purchase oughte of the Leuites, the house that was solde and the Cytie of theyr possessyon shall goo oute in the yere of iubelye: for the houses of the Cyties of the Leuites, are theyr possessyon amonge the chyldren of Israel. But the felde of the suburbe that is besyde theyr ctyes, maye not be solde: but is theyr perpetuall possessyon.

If thy brother be wared poore, and fallen in decaye with the, thou shalt releue hym, both the straunger and sojourner, that he maye liue with the. * And thou shalt take no vsurpe of hym, or vantage, but thou shalt feare the God, that thy brother maye lyue wyth the. Thou shalt not geue hym thy money vpon vsurpe, nor lende hym thy corne for encrease. I am the Lorde your God, whiche broughte you out of the lande of Egypte: to geue you the lande of Canaan, and to be your God. * Yf thy brother that dwelleth by the, be wared poore, and be solde vnto the, thou shalt not compell hym to the bondage of seruautes, but as an hyred seruaunte, and as a sojourner he shall be wyth the, and shall serue the vnto the yere of iubelye, and then shall he departe from the, both he and hys chyldren wyth hym, and shall retourne vnto hys owne kynred agayne: and vnto the possessyon of hys fathers, for they are my seruautes, whiche I broughte out of the lande of Egypte, and shall not therefore be solde as bonde men. Thou shalt not rapgne ouer him cruelly, but shalt feare thy God.

Thy bonde seruaunt, and thy bonde mayde: whiche thou shalt haue, shall be of the heathen that are rounde aboute you: of them shalt ye purchase seruautes and maydens, and of the chyldren of the straungers, that are sojourners amonge you, and of theyr generacions that are wyth you, whiche they begat in your lande. These shall be youre possessyon, and ye shall take them as inheritaunce for youre chyldren after you, to possesse them, they shall be your bonde men for euer. But ouer youre brethren the chyldren of Israel, ye shall not rapgne one ouer another cruelly. If a sojourner or a straunger ware ryche by the, and thy brother ydelleth by hym wared poore, and sell hym selfe vnto the straunger or sojourner by the, or to anye of the straungers kyn, after that he is solde, he maye be redeemed agayne: one of hys brethren, or hys vnckle, or hys vnckles sone maye buye him oute: or anye that is nye of hym vnto hym of hys kynred, maye redeme hym: eyther of hys hande can gette so muche, he maye be losed. And he shall reken wyth hym that boughte hym from the

the pere that he was solde in, vnto the pere of iubelpe & the pryce of hys beyng shalbe valued ac-cordinge vnto the nombze of peres. As an hyred seruaunte shal he be wyth hym. If there be yet many peres behynde, accordyng vnto them let hym geue agayn for his deliuerance, of the money that he was boughte for. If there remayne but fewe peres vnto the pere of iubelpy, let him counte with him agayne, and accordyng vnto his peres geue hym agayne for his redempcion and he shalbe with him pere by pere as an hyred seruaunte and the other shal not raygne cruelly ouer him in thy sight. If he be not redeemed thus, he shal go out in the pere of iubelpy, both he and his chyldzen with him: for the chyldzen of Israell are my seruautes, whiche I brought out of the lande of Egypte. I am the Lorde your God.

Che. xvi. Chapter.

They are blessed that kepe thole chenges that God hath sayd.

Ve shall make you no ydols nor grauen ymage, neither reare you vp any stone nether shal ye set vp any image of stone in youre lande to worshippe it: for I am the Lorde youre God, ye shall kepe my Sabbotthes, and feare my sanctuarpe: for I am the Lorde. * If ye walke in myne ordinaun-ces and kepe my comaundementes, and do them I wyll sende you rayne in the righte season, and the lande shal yelde her encrease, and the trees of the felde shal geue theyr frute. And the thres-shinge shal reache vnto wyne harueste, and the wyne haruest shal reache vnto sowynge tyme, and you shal eate your bzeade in plenteousnesse, and dwell in your lande peaceably. And I wyll sende peace in the lande, and ye shall slepe wythout any man to make you affrayde.

And I wyll ryd euil beastes out of the land and there shal no swearde goo throwout youre lande. And ye shall chase your enemies, and they shal fall before you vpon the swearde. * And fyue of you shal chase an hundred, and an hundred of you shal put ten thousande to flyghte, and your enemies shal fall before you vpon the swearde. For I wyll haue respect vnto you, and make you encrease and multiplye you, and sette vp my couenaunte wyth you. And ye shall eate olde store, and cary out olde for the newe. * And I wyll make my dwellynge place amonge you, and my soule shal not loth you. I wyll walke amonge you: and wyll be your God and ye shal be my people. * I am the Lorde youre God whiche brought you out of the lande of Egypt, & ye shulde not be theyr bondmen and I haue broken the cheynes of your yoke, and made you go vpryght. * But and yf ye wyll not harken vnto me, nor wyll not do after these comaundemen-
tes. And yf ye shall despyce myne ordynaunces, ether yf your soule abhorre my lawes, so that ye wyll not do al my comaundementes, but bzeake myne appoyntmente, I also wyll do this vnto
you. For I wyll bypunge vpon you fearfulnesse, swellynge of body, and the burnynge agewe to consume your eyes, and gender sorowe of hart.
And you shal sowe your seede in vayne, for your enemies shal eate it. And I wyll set my face agaynst you, & ye shall fall before your enemies and they that hate you shal raygne ouer you,

* and ye shall flee when no man foloweth you.

And yf ye wyll not yet for al this herken vnto me, then wyll I punyssh you seuen tymes moze for youre synnes, and wyll bzeake the pryde of your stubburnes. And I wyll make your heauen as yron, and your earth as brasle: And your laboure shalbe spent in vayne. For your lande shal not geue her increase, nether shal the trees of the lande geue theyr frutes. And yf ye walke contrary vnto me, and wyll not herken vnto me I wyll bypunge seuen tymes mo plagues vpon you accordyng to your synnes. I wyll also sende in wyld beastes vpon you, whiche shal rob you of your chyldzen, and destroye your cattell, and make you fewe in nombze, and cause youre hys-wayes to growe vnto a wyldernesse. And yf ye may not be reformed by these thynges but shal walke contrary vnto me, then wyll I also walke contrary vnto you, and wyll punyssh you yet seuen tymes for your synnes. And I wyll sende a swearde vpon you, that shal lauenge my testament. And when ye are gathered to gether with in your cities, I wyll sende the pestilence among you, and ye shalbe deliuered into the hand of the enemye. And when I haue broken the staffe of your bzeade: ten wyues shal bake your bzeade in one ouen, and they shal deliuer you your bzeade agayne by weighte * ye shall eate, and not be satisfied. And yf ye wyll not yet for al this, harken vnto me, but shal walke against me, I wyll walke contrary vnto you also in indignacion, and wyll chastice you seuen tymes for youre syn-
nes. * And ye shal eate the fleshe of your sonnes and the fleshe of your daughters shal ye deuoure

I wyll destroye your hys places, and rote out your ymages, and cast your carkasses vpon the bodies of your ydols, and my soule shal abhorre you. And I wyll make your cities desolate, and bypunge your Sanctuary vnto nought, and wyll not smell the swetnesse of youre odours. I wyll bypunge the lande vnto a wyldernesse, and youre enemies whiche dwel therein, shal wonder at it.
And I wyll strow you amonge the heathen, and wyll drawe out a swearde after you, and youre lande shalbe waste, and your cities desolate.

Then shal the lande enioye her Sabbotthes, as longe as it lyeth voyde, & ye shalbe in your enemies lande: euen then shal the lande reste, and re-ioyce in her Sabbotthes. As longe as it lyeth voyde, it shal rest, because it dyd not rest in your Sabbotthes, when ye dwelt vpon it:

And vpon them that are left a lyue of you,
I wyll sende a fayntenesse into theyr hartes in the lande of theyr enemies: and the sounde of a shakynge leafe, shal chase them, and when they flee the swearde, they shal fall: no man folowing vpon them. They shal fall one vpon another, as it were before a swearde, euen no man folowing vpon them, and ye shal haue no power to stande before youre enemies: And ye shall perishe amonge the heathen, & the lande of your enemies shal eate you vp.

E.iiii. shal

And they that are leste of you, shall pynne awaye in theyr vnrightheousnes, euen in theyr enemies lande, and in the misdedes of theyr fathers shal they consume. And they shal confesse theyr misdedes and the misdedes of theyr fathers for their trespase, whiche they haue trespassed agaynst me, and for that also that they haue walked contrary vnto me. Therefore, I also wyl walke contrary vnto them, and wyl byynge them into the lande of theyr enemies. And then at the lest waye theyr vncircumcised hartes shal be tamed, & they shal make attonement for theyr myl dedes.

Deu. llii. e

G

And * I wyl remembre my couenaunt wth Jacob, and my bonde wth Isaac, and myne appoyntment wth Abraham wyl I remember, and wyl thynke on the lande. The lande shal be lest of them, & shal enioye her abbotches wthyle she lyeth waste wthout them.

Deu. llii. e

And they shal make an attonement for theyr myl dedes, because they despised my lawes, and because theyr soule refused myne ordinaunces: And yet for al that when they be in the lande of theyr enemies: * I wyl not cast them away, neither wyl abhorre them, to destrope them utterly, and breake myne appoyntment wth them: for I am the Lord theyr God. I wyl for theyr sakes remembre the couenaunte made vnto their fathers when I broughte them out of the lande of Egypte in the syght of the heathen, & I might be theyr God: I am the Lord. These are y ordinaunces, and iudgementes, and lawes: whiche the Lord made betweue him and the children of Israel in mount Sinai, by the hande of Moyses

Num. iiii. g

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses, say eng: speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto them: If any mā wyl geue a singuler vowe vnto the Lord, accordynge to the value of the soules, the value of the male from twentye yere olde vnto syxtye shal be fyfte * sycles of siluer, after the weyght of the Sanctuary. And if it be a female: the value shal be thirtye sycles. And from fyue yeres to twentye, the male shal be set at twentye sycles, and the female at x. sycles. And fro a moneth vnto fyue yere, the male shal be set at fyue sycles of syluer, and the female at thre. And he that is sixty yere olde, and aboue shal be valued at fyftene sycles, and the woman at ten. But if he be to pooore so to be set he shal present hym selfe before the pcast: and the prest shal value hym accordynge as the hande of him that vowed is able to get, euen so shal the prest value hym. If it be a beast of whiche men byng an offerynge vnto the Lord: all that anye man geueth of luche vnto the Lord shal be counted holy. He shal not aultar it nor chaunge it a good for a bad, or a bad for a good. And if he chaunge beast for beast, the both the same beast and it also wher wth it was chaunged shal be holpe. If it be anye maner of vnclean beast, of whych men do not offer a sacrifice vnto the Lord, he shal set the beaste before the prest, and the prest shal value it, whether it be good or bad. And as y prest setteth it, so shal it be. But if he wyl bye it agayne, he shal geue the fyfte parte more aboue that it was set at. If any man dedicate his house to be holy vnto the Lord: the pcaste shal set it, whether it be good or bad, and as the prest hath set it, so shal the value be. And whē he that sanctified it wyl redeme his house: let him geue the fyfte parte of the money that it was iudged at therto, and it shal be his.

If a man halow a pece of his enhereted lande vnto the Lord: it shal be set accordynge to the sede therof. If it beare an homer of barley it shal be set at fyfte sycles of siluer. If he halow his felde immediatlye from the yere of iubelye, it shal be worth accordynge as it is esteemed. But and if he halowe his felde after the iubelye, the prest shal reken the money accordynge to the nombere of the yeres that remayne vnto the yeres of iubelye foloweng and thereafter it shal be lower set.

If he that consecrated the felde, wyl redeme it agayne, let him put the fyfte parte of the price that it was set at therunto, and it shal be his.

And if he wyl not redeme the felde, but selleth y felde to another mā, he (that bowed) may redeme it nomore. But when the felde goeth out in that yere of iubelye, it shal be holy vnto the Lord: eue as a felde that is utterly put away, and it shal be the prestes possession. If a mā sanctify vnto the Lord a felde which he hath bought, and is not of his enheritaunce, the pcaste shal reken vnto hym what it is worth vnto the yere of iubelye, & he shal geue the price that it is set at, the same daye, as a thyng consecrated vnto the Lord.

And in the yere of iubelye, the felde shal returne vnto hym whose enheritaunce of land it is. And all settinge shal be accordynge to the spele * of the sanctuary. One spele conteyneth twenty halfe-pens. * But the fyrt boone of y beastes that is appoynted vnto the Lord, may no man sanctifye: whether it be ore or shepe, for it is y Lordes already. If it be an vnclean beast, he shal redeme it, as it is set at, and geue the fyfte parte more therto: Or if it be not redemed, it shal be solde, accordynge to the value. Not wthstanding, no damned thyng that a man putteth from hym & dedicateth vnto the Lord of all his good (whether it be mā or beast or land of his inheritaunce) may be solde or redemed: for euery thyng so put away is most holy vnto the Lord. Let no damned thyng that a man separeteth: be redemed, but dye the death. Euery tyth of the lande which is of the sede of the land, or of the frute of y trees is the Lordes: and is sanctified vnto the Lord.

And if a man wyl redeme ought of his tythes: let hym ad the fyfte part therto. And euery tyth of ore and of shepe and of euery beast y goeth vnder the rod, euen euery tenth shal be holy vnto y Lord. He shal not loke if it be good or bad, nor chaunge it. Els if he chaung it, both it and that it was chaunged withall, shal be halowed vnto the Lord, & may not be redemed. These are the comaundementes which y lord comaunded by Moyses vnto the chyldre of Israel in mount Sinai. The ende of the thyrde boke of Moyses, called in y hebrue, Vaicra, & in y Latyn Leuiticus.

All that are apt to battel, are nombred. The trybe of Reu-mussynge in the Tabernacle.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses in the wyldernesse of Sinai, in the Tabernacle of wytnes, the fyrste daye of the seconde moneth in the seconde yere after they were come out of the lande of Egypt, saying

* take ye the summe of all the myltitude of the chyliden of Israell, after they kynredes & houshold of they fathers wyth the nombre of they names all y are males, heade by heade, from .xx.
yere and aboue: euen all that go forth to the war in Israell, thou and Aaron shall nombre them, thorowout they armyes, and wyth you shalbe men of euery trybe wher of euery one is head man of the house of his fathers. And these are the names of the men that shall stande wyth you: of (the trybe of) Ruben Elizur, the sonne of Sedeur: of Simeon, Selumiel the son of Suri, Sadai: of Juda, Nahasson, the sonne of Aminadab of Issachar, Nathanael, the sonne of zuar: of za-bulon, Eliab, the sonne of Helon. Amonge the

Gad, Elisab the sonne of Deguel: of Nephtali Abira the sonne of Enan.

B These were of great fame in the congrega-cyon, lordes of the trybes of they fathers, and heades ouer thousandes in Israell. And Moses and Aaron toke these men (which are expessed by they names) and gathered all the congrega-cyon together, the fyrste daye of the seconde mo-neth, and they were rekened thorowe out they kynredes and houses of they fathers by name: from twenty yere and aboue, head by head. As the Lorde commaunded Moses, euen so he nom-bred them in the wyldernesse of Sinai. And the chyliden of Ruben Israels eldest sonne thorowe out they generacyons, and they kynredes and houses of they fathers in the nombre of names

the trybe of Juda was. lxxiii. thousande & fyre hundred. Of the chyliden of Issachar thorowout they generacyons and they kynredes and houses of they fathers: the nombre of names from twenty yere and aboue whych went all forth to warre, the nombre of them that were of y trybe of Issachar, was. liii. thousand, & .iii. hundred.

Of the chyliden of zabulon, thorowout their generacyons and they kynredes, and houses of
they fathers, the nombre of names from twenty yere and aboue, which were able to go forth in the hoste: The nombre of them that were of y trybe of zabulon, was. lvi. thousande and four hundred. Of the chyliden of Ioseph: Namely, of the chyliden of Ephraim thorowout they generacyons and they kynredes and houses of their fathers, the nombre of names from twenty yeres and aboue, all that wente out to the warre: y nombre of them that were of y trybe of Ephraim was. xl. thousande and fyue hundred.

Of the chyliden of Manasse thorowout their generacyons, and they kynredes, and houses of
they fathers, the nombre of names from twenty yere olde and aboue, all that went out to the warre: The nombre of them that were of the trybe of Manasse was. xxxii. thousande and. ii.
hundred. Of the chyliden of Ben Jamin thorow out they generacyons, and they kynredes and houses of they fathers, y nombre of names fro twenty yere and aboue, all that went forth to y warre: The nombre of them that wer of y trybe of Ben Jamin was. xxxv. thousande & .iii. hundred. Of the chyliden of Dan thorowout they generacyons and kynredes and houses of they fathers: the nombre of names from twenty yere olde and aboue, all that went forth to the war.

The nombre of them that were of the trybe of Dan was. lxii. thousande and seven hundred. Of the chyliden of Aser thorowout they generacyons and they kynredes and houses of they fathers, the nombre of the names from twenty

res and aboue, all that might go forth to þ war
The nombze of thepm that were of the trybe of Rephthali, was thze and fyfte thousande, and foure hundred. These are the summes which Moses and Aaron nombzed and the pynces of Israell: those twelue men, whiche were euery one ouer the house of theyr fathers. And all the nom-bz of the chyldzen of Israell, thozowe out the houses of theyr fathers, from twente yere and aboue, all that went forth to the warre in Israell, dze we all vnto the summe of * fyre hundred and thze thousande, fyue hundred and fyfte.

But the Leuites after the trybes of theyr fathers were not nombzed among them. And the Lorde spake vnto Moles, sayinge: Thou shalt not number þ trybe of Levi, nether take the sum-of them from amonge þ chyldzen of Israel. But thou shalt appoynt the Leuites ouer the habita-cyon of wytnesse, and ouer all the vesselles therof and ouer all thinges that are in it. Yee, they shal beare the tabernacle and all the vesselles therof and they shal minyster in it, & shal dwell round about the tabernacle. And when the tabernacle goeth forth, the Leuites shal take it downe: and when the tabernacle is to be pytched, they shal set it vp: and yf any straunger come npe, he shal dye. And the chyldzen of Israel shal pytch theyr tentess, euery man in hys owne company, and eu-ery man vnder hys owne standerd thozowout theyr hostes. But the Leuites shal pytch round about the tabernacle of wytnesse, that there be no wzath vpon the congregacyon of þ chyldzen of Israel, and the Leuites shal kepe the watche of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And the chyldzen of Israel byd accordyng to all that the Lorde commaunded Moles, euen so dyd they.

The ii. Chapter.

The order of the tentes. The heades of the kyn-redes of Israell.

A And the Lorde spake vnto Moles, and Aaron, sayinge: euery man of the chyldzen of Israell shal pytche vnder his owne standerde and vnder the armes of theyr fathers houses: on the other syde and rounde aboute the Tabernacle of wytnesse shal they pytche. On the easte syde towarde the rysynge of the sunne, shal they of the standerde of the hoste of Iuda pytche thozowout theyr armies: And Nabeon the son of Aminadab was captayn of the sons of Iuda.
And his host and the nombze of them. lxxiii. & and fyre hundred. Nexte vnto hym shal they þ be of the trybe of Issachar pytche and Nathana-el the sonne of zuar was captayne of the chyldze of Issachar: his hoste and the summe of the nobze therof. liiii. thousande, and foure hundred. And then the trybe of Zabulon: and Eliab þ sonne of Helon, captayne ouer the chyldzen of zabulon & his hoste, and the nombze of them. lvi. thousand and foure hundred: so that the whole nombze of the whole hoste of Iuda are an hundred thousande. lxxxvi. thousande and foure hundred thorowout theyr armies: and these shal go befoze.

B On the south syde shal the standerde of the hoste of Ruben kepe thozowe theyr companyes and the captayn ouer the sonnes of Ruben, was Elisur the sonne of Sedeur. And hys hoste and the nombze of them. xli. thousand and fyue hundred. And faste by hym shal the trybe of Simeon pytche, and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Simeon, was Salumiel the sonne of zuri Sadar, and hys hoste, and the nobze of them. lix. thousande and thze hundred. And the trybe of Gad also, and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Gad, was Eliasaph the sonne of Deguell: And his hoste and the nombze of them. xlv. thousand fyre hundred and fyfte. All that were nombzed with the trybe of Ruben: an hundred thousand

li. thousand four hundred and fyfte, thozowout theyr armies, & they shal go in the second place.
And the tabernacle of wytnesse shal goo with the hoste of the Leuites, in the myddes of the hostes And as they lye in theyr tentes, euen so shal they procede in the iourney, euery man in hys degre, and vnder theyr owne standerdes.

The west syde shal the standerd of the hoste Ephraim kepe with theyr armies, and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Ephraim, was Elisa-ma the sonne of Amihud: his hoste and the nom-bze of them. xl. thousand and fyue hundred. And faste by hym, shal be the trybe of Manasse, & the captayne ouer the sonnes of Manasse was Gamaleel the sonne of Pedazur. Hys hoste and the nombze of them. xxxii. thousande and two hundred. And the trybe of Ben Jamin also: and the captayne ouer the sons of Ben Jamin was Abidan the son of Sedeoni. his hoste, and the nom-bze of them. xxxv. thousande and foure hundred.
All that were appoynted with þ hoste of Ephraim were an hundred thousande epght thousand and an hundred, thozowe out theyr armies, and they shal go in the thyrde place. The standerde of the hoste of Dan, shal kepe þ north syde with theyr armies: and the captayn ouer the chyldze of Dan, was Abiezer the sonne of Ammi Sadar. his host and the nombze of them. lxii. thousande and seuen hundred.

And fast by hym shal the trybe of Aser pytch and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Aser, was Pagiel the sonne of Ocran. Hys hoste and the nombze of them. xli. thousand and fyue hundred And the trybe of Rephthali also, & the captayn ouer the chyldzen of Rephthali: was Abira the sonne of Enan. his hoste and the nombze of the liii. thousande and four hundred. All they that were appoynted with the hoste of Dan, was an hundred thousande. lvi. thousande and. vi. hundred. And they shal goo hymnoste wpth theyr standerdes. These are the summes of the chyl-dzen of Israell thozowe out the houses of theyr fathers, euen all the nombzes that pytched tho-rowe out theyr hostes, fyre hundred thousande thze thousande fyue hundred and fyfte. But the Leuites were not nombzed amonge the chyldze of Israel as the Lorde commaunded Moles.
And the chyldzen of Israel byd accordyng to all that the Lorde commaunded Moles: for so they pytched with theyr standerdes, and so they iourneyed thozowe out theyr kynredes and thozowout the householdes of theyr fathers.

The

The. iii. Chapter.

The Levites go not to battell, but minyfter in the Sanctuary. They ppyche they tentes neſte to the habitacyon.

These are the generacions of Aaron and Moſes, in the daye that the Lord ſpake wyth Moſes in mounte Sinai, & theſe are the names of the ſonnes of Aaron: Nadab the eldeſt ſon, Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. * Theſe are the names of the ſonnes of Aaron which were ppynted, & whoſe hande was conſecrated to minyſter. * And Nadab and Abihu dyed befoze the Lord: when they offered ſtraunge ſpyze befoze the Lord in the wylderneſſe of Sinai, & had no chyldzen. And Eleazar and Ithamar minyſtered in the ſyght of Aaron they father.

And the Lord ſpake vnto Moſes, ſaying: bryng the trybe of Leui, and ſette them befoze Aaron the Preaſt, that they maye ſerue hym, & wayte vpon hym and vpon all the multitude, befoze the tabernacle of wytnelle, to do the ſeruyce of the habitacyon. They ſhall kepe all the apparel of the tabernacle of wytnes, and wayte vpon the chyldzen of Iſraell to do the ſeruyce of the habitacyon. And thou ſhalt geue the Leuites vnto Aaron and his ſonnes, for they are geuen: and deliuered vnto hym of the chyldzen of Iſraell. And thou ſhalt appoynt Aaron and his ſonnes to wayte on they ppynted offyce: and the ſtraunger that cometh nye, ſhall be ſlayne.

And the Lord ſpake vnto Moſes, ſaying: beholde, I haue taken the Leuites from among the chyldzen of Iſraell, for all the fyrſte borne, that openeth the matryce amonge the chyldzen of Iſraell, and the Leuites ſhall be myne: becauſe all the fyrſte borne are myne: for the ſame daye that I ſmote all the fyrſte borne in the lande of Egypte, I halowed vnto me all the fyrſt borne in Iſraell, both man and beaſte, and myne they ſhall be: I am the Lord. And the Lord ſpake vnto Moſes in the wylderneſſe of Sinai: ſaying: Nombze the chyldzen of Leui after the houſes of they fathers in they kynredes. All that are males, from a moneth olde and aboue ſhalte thou nombze. And Moſes nombzed them accordyng to the commaundement of the Lord, and as he had commaunded. * And theſe were the chyldzen of Leui in theyre names: Gerson and Cahath, and Merari. And theſe are the names of the chyldzen of Gerson in theyre kynredes: Libni and Semei. The ſonnes of Cahath in theyre kynredes: Amram, Jezebar, Hebzon and Oziel. And the ſonnes of Merari in theyre kynredes, Gabel and Muſi. Theſe are the kynredes of the Leuites, accordyng to the houſes of they fathers. Of Gerson came the kynred of the Libnites and the kynred of the Semeites. Theſe are the kynredes of the Gersonytes.

And the ſum of them (after the number of all the males frome a moneth olde and aboue) was ſeuene thouſande and ſyue hundred. And the kynredes of the Gersonites ſhal ppyche behynde the habitacyon weſtward. The captayne and moſt auncyente of the houſe of the Gersonites, was Eliasaph the ſonne of Lael. And vnder the keepinge of the chyldzen of Gerson in the tabernacle of wytnes was the habitacyon and the tent the couerynge thereof, and the hanginge of the doore of the tabernacle of wytnelle and the hanginges of the courte, and the curtayne of the doore of the courte: whyche is rounde aboute the Tabernacle, and the aultar, and the cordes of it for all the ſeruyce thereof. And of Cahath came the kynred of the Amramites, and the kynred of the Jezebarites: the kynred of the Hebzonites, and the kynred of the Ozielites. Theſe are the kynredes of the Cahathites. And the nombze of all the males frome a moneth olde and aboue, was eyght thouſande and ſyre hundred, & theſe ſhall kepe the thynges that are to be kepte in the holy place. And the kynred of the chyldzen of Cahath ſhall ppyche on the ſouthſyde of the Tabernacle. The captayne and moſt auncyent of the houſe of the kynred of the Cahathites, was Eliſaphan the ſonne of Oziel, & vnder theyre keepinge was the arke, the table, the candelſtycke, and the aultars, and all the veſſels of the ſanctuary that they minyſter in, and the vayle, and what ſoener belonged to the minyſtracyon thereof. And Eleazar the ſonne of Aaron the preaſt, was captayn ouer all the captaynes of the Leuites, and had the ouerſyghte of them that wayted vpon the ſanctuary. And of Merari came the kynred of the Gabelites, and the kynred of the Muſites.

Theſe are the kynredes of Merari. And the ſumme of them accordyng to the nombze of all the males, frome a moneth olde and aboue was ſyre thouſande and two hundred. The captayn and the moſt auncyent of theyre houſe that were of the kynred of Merari, was zuriel the ſonne of Abihael: and theſe ſhal ppyche on the northſyde of the tabernacle. And vnder the cuſtody of the ſonnes of Merari ſhal be the bordes of the dwelling, and the barres, pylles and ſockettes thereof, all the veſſel thereof, and all that ſerueſſe thereof: and the pylles of the courte rounde aboute, with theyre ſockettes, theyre pynnes and theyre cordes. But on the fore front of the habitacyon befoze the tabernacle of wytnelle eaſtward ſhall Moſes and Aaron and theyre ſonnes ppyche and wayte to kepe the ſanctuary, and to kepe the chyldzen of Iſraell. And the ſtraunger that cometh nye, ſhall be ſlayne. And the whole ſumme of the Leuites whyche Moſes and Aaron nombzed, at the commaundemente of the Lord thowout theyre kynredes (euen all the males frome a moneth olde and aboue) was .xxii. thouſand

And the Lord ſayde vnto Moſes: Nombze all the fyrſt borne that are males amonge the chyldzen

xx. xvi. s

Open of Israel (from a moneth olde and aboue) and take the nombze of theyr names. And thou shalt appoynte the Leuites to me (for I am the Lorde) for all the fyrste borne of the chyldzen of Israel, and the cattell of the Leuites, for all the fyrste gendred of the cattell of the chyldzen of Israel. And Moles nombzed as the Lorde comaunded hym, all the fyrst borne of the chyldzen of Israel. And all the fyrste borne males reherfed by theyr names (from a moneth olde and aboue, accordyng to theyr nombze) were. xxii. thousand two hundred and. lxxiii. And the Lorde spake vnto Moles, saying: take the Leuites for all the fyrst borne of the chyldzen of Israel, and the cattell of the Leuites for theyr cattell, and the Leuites shall be myne. I am the Lorde. And for the redempcyon of the two hundred & lxxiii. (whych are mo then the Leuites in the fyrste borne of the chyldzen of Israel) take fyue syles of euery head after the weyght of the Sanctuary, * the syle conteyning twenty halpens. And geue the money wherwith the odde nombze of them is redeemed vnto Aaron and his sonnes. And Moles toke the redempcyon money, of þ ouerplus that were mo then the Leuites: of the fyrste borne of the chyldzen of Israel toke he this money: euen a thousande thre hundred and. lxx. syles, after the syle of the Sanctuary. And Moles gaue the money of them that were redeemed, vnto Aaron and his sonnes, accordyng to the worde of the Lorde, euen as the Lorde comaunded Moles.

The. liii. Chapter.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moles, and Aaron sayinge: Take the sum of the chyldzen of Cabath from amonge þ sonnes of Leni, after their kynredes & houses of theyr fathers (from thyrre pere and aboue vntyll fyfthe) all that are able to go furth to the warre: for to doo the worke in the tabernacle of wytnesse. The offyce of the chyldzen of Cabath in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, is most holy. And when the host remoueth, Aaron and his sonnes shall come and take downe the bayle, that hangeth betwene & wrappe the arke of wytnesse in it: and shall put thereon a couerpyng of tarus skynnes, and shall sprede vpon it a clothe that is altogether of yelowe sylke, and put in the barres thereof. And vpon the shewe table, they shall sprede abroade a cloth of yelowe sylke, and put thereon the dysches, spones, flat peces, and pots to powze wyth and there shall be bread thereon continually: and they shall sprede vpon them a couerpyng of purple, and couer the same with a couerpyng of tarus skynnes and putte in the barres thereof. And they shall take a clothe of yelowe sylke, and couer the candelsycke of lycht, with his lampes tonges, and snoffers, and all the oyle vessels: which they occuppe about it, and they shall put both it, and all the vessel therof within a couerpyng of tarus skynnes, and put it vpon a bar.

And vpon the golden altar they shall sprede a cloth of yelowe sylke, and couer it with a couerpyng of tarus skynnes, and putte in the barres thereof. And they shall take all the thynges, (which they occuppe to minyster within the holye place) and put a clothe of yelowe sylke vpon them, and couer them with a couerpyng of tarus skynnes, and put them on a barre.

And they shall take awaye the ashes from the altar, and sprede a purple cloth thereon: and put vpon it all the vessels therof that they minister withall: euen the cole pannes, the fleshpokes, the shouels, the basens, and the other vessels of the altar, & they shall sprede vpon it a couerpyng of tarus skynnes, and put in the bars of it. And when Aaron and his sonnes haue made an ende of couerpyng the holy thynges, and all the vessels of the sanctuary (agaynst that the hosteremoue) then the sons of Cabath shall come in for to beare, but they shall not touche any holy thing lest they dye. And this is the charge of the sonnes of Cabath in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And to the offyce of Eleazar the sonne of Aaron þ prest pertayneth the oyle for the lycht, the swete cens the dayly meate offerpyng, and the anoyntpyng oyle, and the ouersyghte of all þ tabernacle, and of all that therein is, both in the Sanctuary and in all the vessels therof.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moles and Aaron, sayinge: Ye shall not destroye the trybe of the kyned of the Cabathites, from amonge the Leuites. But thus do vnto them, that they may lyue and not dye, when they goo vnto the moste holy thynges: Let Aaron and his sonnes go in, and take them downe, to euery one after his serpyce, and after his charge. But let them not go in, to se when the holy thynges are folden vp, lest they dye. And the Lorde spake vnto Moles, sayinge: Take also the summe of the chyldzen of Gerson, thowout the houses of theyr fathers and thowout theyr kynredes: from thyrre pere and aboue, vntyll fyfthe shalt thou nombze them, all that are able to go forthe to the warre for to do serpyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And this is the serpyce of the kyned of the Gersonites, to serue and to beare. They shall beare the curtaynes of the dwellinge, and the rouse of the tabernacle of wytnesse, his couerpyng, and the couerpyng of tarus skynnes, that is an hye aboue vpon it, and the hanging of the doze which is in the Tabernacle of wytnesse: and the hangynges of the court, and the hangyng that is in the entrepyng in of the gate of the court round aboute the dwellinge and the altar, with þ cordes, and al the instrumentes that serue vnto the and all that is made for to serue them.

At the mouth of Aaron and his sons, shall al the serpyce of the chyldzen of the Gersonites be done, in all theyr charges and in al theyr serpyce and ye shall nombze vnto them all theyr byrdes to kepe. And this is the serpyce of the kyned of the chyldzen of Gerson in the tabernacle of wytnesse, and theyr watche shall be vnder the hande of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron the Priest. And thou shalt nombze the sonnes of Merari after theyr kynredes, and after the houses of theyr fathers: from thyrre peres and aboue vnto fyfthe shalt thou nombze them, euery one that is able to go to go forth to the warre, to do the seruyce of the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And this is the charge that they muste wayte vpon, accordyng to all theyr seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse. The lordes of the dwellynge, wyth the barres, pyl- lers and sockettes thereof, and the pyl- lers that are rounde aboute the courte, with theyr socket- tes, pyms and cordes, and wythall the instru- mentes of it, for all theyr seruyce. And by name ye shal reken the thynges that they must wayte vpon to beare. This is the seruyce of the kynre- des of the sons of Merari accordyng to all theyr offyce in the Tabernacle of wytnesse vnder the hande of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron the prest.

And Moyses and Aaron and the prynces of the multitude nombred the sonnes of the Caba- thites, after theyr kynredes and houses of their fathers from thyrty yere and aboue vnto fyfty, all that were able to go forth to the warre, to do seruyce in the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And the numbers of them thowowe out theyr kynredes were two thousande, seuen hundred and fyfye. This is the nombze of the kynredes of Caba- th: namely, all that myght do seruyce in the taber- nacle of wytnesse, which Moyses and Aaron did nombze accordyng to the comaundement of the Lorde by the hande of Moyses. These are the nom- bzes of the sonnes of Gerson thowowe out theyr kynreds and houses of theyr fathers, from thyrty yere vnto fyfty all that were able to go forth to the warre, for to do seruyce in the taber- nacle of wytnesse. And the nombzes of them tho- rowe out theyr kynredes, and houses of theyr fathers, were two thousande syxe hundred and thyrtye. This is the nombze of the kynredes of the sonnes of Gerson of all that dyd seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse, whiche Moyses and Aa- ron dyd nombze accordyng to the commaunde- mente of the Lorde. And these are the nombzes of the kynreds of the sonnes of Merari thowow- out theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers from thyrty yere vnto fyfty: all that wente forth to the warre, and serued in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And the nombzes of them after their kynredes were thre thousand and two hundred. This is the summe of the kynredes of the sons of Merari, whiche Moyses and Aaron nombred accordyng to the worde of the Lorde, by the hande of Moyses. And so all the nombzes of the Leui- tes, which Moyses, Aaron and the Lordes of Is- rael nombred, after theyr kynreds and hou- ses of theyr fathers, from thyrty yere vnto fyfty every one that came to do his offyce and ser- uyce and to beare his burthen in the Tabernacle of wytnesse: were (when they wer nombred) viii thousande syxe hundred and lxxx. Accordyng to the worde of the Lorde dyd (Aaron) nombze them by the hande of Moyses, every one accordyng to theyr seruyce and charge, & accordyng to their offyces: as the Lorde comaunded Moyses.

The v. Chapter.

The knowyng of synne. The clensyng of synne. The lawe of the fyfth cruete, and of gelousye.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayng: I commaunde the chyldzen of Israell that they put out of the hoste, every leper and eue-ry one that hath an yllue, and whosoever is despy- led vpon a soule. Both male and female shal ye put out: euen oute of the hoste shal ye put them, that they despyle not the tentes amonge which I dwel. And the chyldzen of Israell dyd so, and put them out of the hoste, euen as the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, so dyd the chyldzen of Israell.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayng: speake vnto the chyldzen of Israell: whether it be man or woman. If they haue comytted any synne that a man doth, & haue trespassed against the Lorde, that soule hath done amysse: Therefore they shal knowlege theyr synne whiche they haue done, and let hym restore agayne the hurte that he hath done in the hole, and putte the fyfte parte of it moze thereto, and geue it vnto hym, whome he hath trespassed agaynst.

But and yf there be not a man to restore the hurte vnto, nor a kynsman of hym, lette the tres- pace be made good vnto the Lorde, and it shalbe the prestes, besyde the ram of the attonement, wherby an attonement shalbe made for hym. And every heue offering that is made of the ho- ly thynges of the chyldzen of Israell whiche they byng vnto the prest, shalbe his, and every mans halowed thynges shal be his: and what so euer any man geueth the prest, it shalbe his. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayng: Speake vnto the chyldzen of Israell, and saye vnto them. If any mans wyfe go asyde & trespace agaynst hym, so that another man lye with her fleshy, & it be hyd from the eyes of her husbände, & is not come to lyght that she is despyled, and there is no wytnesse agaynst her, neyther she taken with any maner, and the sprete of gelousy cometh vpon hym, so that he is gelouse ouer his wyfe, whiche is despyled: or yf the sprete of gelousy come vpon hym, so that he is gelouse ouer his wyfe whiche is yet vndespyled: then let the man byng his wyfe vnto the prest, and byng with her an offering for her: the tenth part of an Ephah of barley meale but let hym put none oyle vpon it, nor put fran- kenscens thereon: for it is an offering of gelousy an offering for a remembraunce, calsyng the synne to be thought vpon.

And the prest shal byng her: and let her befoze the Lorde, and let hym take holy water in an erthen vessel, and of the dust that is in the floore of the habitacyon, and put it into the wa- ter. And let the prest let the woman befoze the Lorde, and vncouer the womans heade, and put the memoyal of the offering in her handes which is the gelousy offering, and the prest shal haue bytter and cursed water in his hande, & the prest shal charge her, and saye vnto the woman. If no man haue lye with the, neyther haste gone asyde to vncleynesse without thy husbände, then haue thou no harme of this bitter and cursed wa- ter. But and yf thou haste gone asyde behynde thyne husbände, and art despyled, and some othe- ran hath lye with the besyde thyne husbände, (and the prest shal charge the woman with an horrible curse, and the prest shal saye vnto the woman) the Lorde make the to be an abhominacyon and a curse amonge the people: when the Lorde

Lozde doth make thy thyre rotte, And thy belly swell: These cursed waters go into the bowels of the, that they maye make thy belly swell, and thy thyre rot, and let the woman saye, Amen, Amen. And let the preast wyte these curses.

D And when they be clesed, let hym cast the in to bytter waters, and geue the woman those bitter and cursed waters to drynke, that those cursed and bytter waters maye enter into her. And then the preast shall take the gelousye offer yng out of the womans hand, and waue it befoze the Lozde, and byng it vnto the aultar and ppreest shall take an handfull of the offer yng for a me-morall, and burne it vpon the aultar, and then make the woman drynke the water: and when he hath made the woman drynke the waters, (yf she be defyled and haue trespassed agaynst her husbnde:) then shall the cursed and bytter waters go into her, and her belly shall swell, and her thyre shall rot, and the woman shall be a curse amonge her people. And yf the woman be not defyled, but is clean, she shall haue no harme but shall conceane and bare. This is the lawe of gelousye, when a wyfe goeth asyde behynd her husbnde, and is defyled, or when the spete of gelousye cometh vpon a man and he byng gelowse ouer his wyfe, both byng her befoze the Lozde. And the preast shall do accordyng vnto al this lawe, and the man shall be gylelesse, and the woman shall beare her synne.

The vi Chapter.

The lawe of abstinence. The blessing of the people.

A And the Lozde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them: when e-ther man or woman dothe seperate them selues to vowe a vowe of an abstepner, & appoynt them selues vnto the Lozde he shall seperate hym selfe from wyne & strong drynke, and shall drynke no vyneagre of wyne or of stronge drynke, nor shall drynke whatsoeuer is pressed out of grapes: & shall eate no fre the grapes, nether yet dyped. As longe as his abstep-nence endureth, shall he eate no thyng that is made of the vyne tre, or of the carnels, or of the huske of the grape. And as longe as he voweth, & is sepe-rated, there shall no rasure come vpon his heade: but vntyll his dayes be oute, in the which he se-perateth hym selfe vnto the Lozde, he shall be holy, and shall let the lockes of his heare growe.

B As longe as he consecrateth him selfe vnto the Lozde, he shall come at no dead body: he shall not make hym selfe vncleane at the deathe of his fa-ther, mother, brother, or sytler: because that the vowe of the abstinence of his God is vpon his heade. All the dayes of his abstinence he is holy vnto the Lozde. And yf it fortune that any man by chaunce dye sodenly befoze hym, the heade of his abstepnence shall be defyled, and he shall haue his heade the dayes of his clesyng: euen the seventh daye he shall haue it. And the eyght day he shall bynge two turtels or two yonge pyge-ones to the preast, befoze the doze of the taberna-cle of wytnesse. And the preast shall offer the one for synne, and the other for a burnt offering, and make an attouement for hym as concerninge he synned vpon a soule, & shall halowe his heade the same daye, and he shall consecrate hym selfe vnto the Lozde (the tyme of his abstepnence) and shall bynge a lambe of a yere olde for trespase: but the dayes that were befoze are lost, because his abstepnence was defyled. This is the lawe of the abstepner, when the tyme of his abstepnence is out, he shall be brought vnto the doze of the ta-bernacle of wytnesse, and he shall bynge his of-fer yng vnto the Lozde: an he lambe of a yere olde without blemyshe for a burnt offering, and a she lambe of a yere olde without blemyshe for synne, a ram without blemyshe also for a peace-offeryng, and a basket of swete breade, euen ca-kes of fyne floure myngled wpyth oyle, and wa-fers of swete breade anoynted wpyth oyle, wpyth theyr meat offer ynges and drynke offer ynges.

And the preast shall bynge hym befoze the Lozde, and offer his syn offer yng and his burnt-offeryng and shall offer the ram for a peace offe-ryng vnto the Lozde, wpyth the basket of swete breade, and the preast shall offer also his meate-offeryng and his drynke offer yng. And he shall haue the heade of the abstepner in the doze of the tabernacle of wytnes: euen the head of his abstep-nence, and shall take the heare of his sober head and put it in the fyre, whiche is vnder the peace-offeryng. And the preast shall take the soden shulder of the ram, and one swete cake out of the basket, and one swete wafer also, and put them vpon the bandes of the abstepner (after he hath shauen his abstepnence of) and the preast shall waue them befoze the Lozde. And these holy thynges shall be the prestes with the wauebest and heue shulder, and then the ab-stepner maye drynke wyne. This is the lawe of the abstepner whiche hath vowed his offer yng vnto the Lozde for his consecracyn: Besydes those thynges that his hande can get, accordyng to the vowe whiche he vowed, euen so he muste do after the lawe of his abstepnence. And the Lozde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: speake vnto Aaron and his sons, sayinge: of this wyse ye shall blesse the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them.

The Lozde blesse the, and kepe the.

The Lozde make his face shyne vpon the and be merciful vnto the. The Lozde lyft vp his coun-tenaunce vpon the, and geue the peace. And they shall put my name vpon the chyldren of Israel, and I will blesse them.

The vii Chapter.

The offer ynges of the Lozdes and heades of Israel.

A And it fortuneth in that daye, when Moyses had full set vp the habyta-cyn, and anoynted and sanctified it and all the apparell therof, the Aul-tar also and all the vesselles thereof, and had anoynted them and sanctified them, the the prynces of Israel heades ouer the houses of theyr fathers which were the Lozdes of the try-bes, standyng in theyr offyces, offered & brought theyr sacrifice befoze the Lozde: syxe covered cha-rettes, and twelue oxen: one charer for two Loz-des, and for one an ox, and they broughte them befoze

before the habitation. And the Lorde spake vnto Moles, sayinge: take it of them, & they maye be to do the scrupce of the tabernacle of wytnes and thou shalt geue them vnto the Leuytes, to euery man accordyng vnto his offyce. And Moles toke the charets and the oxen, and gaue the vnto the Leuytes: two charettes and thre oxen he gaue vnto the sonnes of Gerson, accordyng vnto theyr offyce. And foure charets and epyght oxen he gaue vnto the sonnes of Merari (accordyng vnto theyr offyces) vnder the bande of Achamar the sonne of Aaron the Priest. But vnto the sonnes of Cahath he gaue none, because they had vpon them the offyce of holy thynges, which they dyd beare vpon shulders.

25 And the Prynces offered for the dedicatyng for the aultar (in the daye that it was anoynted) and brought theyr sacrifyces before the aultar. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moles: The Prynces shall bypunge theyr offerynges, euerye daye one Prynce, for the dedicatyng of the aultar.

And so on the first daye dyd Nabesson the sonne of Aminadab of the trybe of Iuda offer his sacrifyce: And his offeryng was a syluer charger of an hundred and thyrtye cycles: a syluer boule of .lxx. cycles after the weyght of the Sanctuary: and they were both full of fyne wheten flour, myngled wyth oyle for a meate offeryng: a spone of .x. cycles of gold, full of cens, a bullocke a ram, a lambe of a yere olde for a burnt offeryng an hegote for a syn offeryng: and (for a peace offeryng) two oxen, fyue rammes, fyue hegotes, and fyue lambes of a yere olde: thys was the gyft of Nabesson the son of Aminadab. The seconde daye Nathanael, the sonne of Zuar, captayne ouer Isachar dyd offer: And he offered for his gyft a syluer charger of an hundred and thyrtye cycles: a syluer boule of seuentie cycles after the cycle of the Sanctuary: both full of fyne flour myngled wth oyle for a meate offeryng: a golden spone of .x. cycles, full of cens: a bullocke, a ram, a labe of a yere olde for a burnt offeryng: and an hegote for synne: and (for a peace offeryng) two oxen, fyue rammes, fyue hegotes, fyue lambes of one yere olde. C This was the dedicacyon of the aultar in y daye when it was anoynted: vnto the whiche was broughte of the princes of Israell, twelve chargers of syluer twelve syluer boules twelve spones of golde: euery charger contaynyng an hundred and thyrtye cycles of syluer, euery boule lxx. And all y syluer vessel contayned two thousande and foure hundred cycles after the cycle of the sanctuary. And the golden spones were .xii.
full of cens contayning .x. cycles a pece after the cycle of the sanctuary: so that all the golde of the spones, was an hundred and twenty cycles.

All the bullockes for the burnt offerynge:
were twelue, the rammes twelue, the lambes of a yere olde twelue, with the meate offerynge: and the hegotes for synne twelue. And all the oxen for the peace offerynge, were .xxiii. the rammes lxxv, the hegotes .lx. the lambes of a yere olde lxxv. This was the dedicacyon of the aul-tar, after that it was anoynted. And when Moses was gone into the tabernacle of wytnes, to speake with hym, he hearde y voyce of one speakyng vnto hym from of the merce seate, that was vpon the arke of wytnes betwene the two cherubins, and he talked with hym.

C The. viii. Chapter.

The order of the lampes. The for me of the candellspcke.
The cleansing and offerynge of the Leuites.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moles, & sayinge: speake vnto Aaron, & saye vnto hym: * when thou puttst on the lampes, the same seuen lampes shall geue lychte toward the forefronte of the candellspcke. And Aaron dyd euery so, and lychted the lampes toward y fore front of the candellspcke, as the Lorde commaunded Moses, and the worke of the candellspcke was of styffe golde, bothe the shafte and the floures therof: accordynge vnto the visyon whiche the Lorde had shewed Moses, euen so he made the candellspcke. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: take the Leuites from amonge the chyldren of Israel, and cleanse them. But thus shalt thou do vnto them, when thou cleansest the: sprinkle water of purifyenge vpon them, and let the make a rasure to runne a longe vpon al the flesh of them, and let them washe their clothes, and so make them selues cleane.

Then lette them take a bullocke with hys meat offerynge: euen fyne floure myngled with oyle: and another bullocke shalt thou take for synne. And when thou dost bapnge the Leuites before the tabernacle of wytnesse, thou shalt gather the whole myltitude of the chyldren of Israel together, and bapng the Leuites before the Lorde, and the chyldren of Israel shall put theyr handes vpon y Leuites. And Aaron shall waue the Leuites before the Lorde, for a waue offerynge of the chyldren of Israel, that they maye execute the ministracyon of the scrupce of y lord.
And the Leuites shall put theyr handes vpon y heades of the bullockes, and thou shalt offer the one for synne, and the other for a burnt offerynge vnto the Lorde, that thou mayst make an attonement for the Leuites. And thou shalt set the Leuites before Aaron and hys sons, and waue them for a waue offerynge before the Lorde. And thus thou shalt seporate y Leuites from among the chyldren of Israel, and the Leuites shall be myne: after that shall the Leuites go in, to do y seruice of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And thou shalt cleanse them and waue them, for they are geuen and deliuered vnto me from amonge y chyldren of Israel, for suche as open euery wombe: euen for the fyrste borne of all the chyldren of Israel haue I taken them vnto me.

* For all the fyrst borne of the chyldren of Israel, are myne both man and beast: sens the daye that I smote euery fyrste borne in the lande of Egypte. I sanctified them for my selfe: and I haue taken the Leuites for all the fyrst borne of the chyldren of Israel, and haue geuen the Le-uites as a gyfte vnto Aaron, and his sonnes fro amonge the chyldren of Israel, to do the scrupce of the chyldren of Israel in y tabernacle of wyt-nesse, to make an attouement for the chyldren of Israel, that there be no plage amonge the chyldren of Israel, of the chyldre of Israel come nye vnto the holy thynges. And Moses And Aaron and all the congregacyon of the chyldren of Israel dyd with the Leuites, accordynge vnto al that the Lorde commaunded Moses concernynge the Leuites: euen so dyd the chyldren of Israel

unto them. And the Leuites were purifyed and washed theyr clothes. And Aaron waied them before the Lorde, and made an attonement for them, and blessed them. After that went the Leuites into the seruyce in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, before Aaron and his sonnes: as the Lorde had commaunded Moyses concerning the Leuites, euen so they dyd vnto them.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayenge: Thys is it that belongeth vnto the Leuites: * fro xxv. pere vppwarde they shall go in, to wayte vpon the seruyce of the tabernacle of wytnes, and from the age of fyfye pere, they shall cease waytyng vpon the seruyce therof, and shall serue no more: but shall minystr vnto theyr brethren in the tabernacle of wytnes, to wayte, but shall do no more seruyce. Thus therfore shalt thou do vnto the Leuites in theyr watche.

¶ The .ix. Chapter.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses in the wyldernes of Synai, in the first moneth of the seconde pere, after they were come out of the land of Egypt sayenge: lette the chyldren of Israel offer passeouer in this season: euen the fourtene daye of this moneth at euen lette hym kepe it in this season, accordyng to all the ceremonyes of it, and accordyng to all the maners therof. And Moyses spake vnto the chyldren of Israel, that they shoulde offer passeouer, & they offered passeouer the fourtene daye of the fyfthe moneth at euen in the wyldernes of Synai, accordyng to all that the Lorde commaunded Moyses, euen so dyd the chyldren of Israel.

And certayne men were defiled vpon the soule of a man, that they myghte not offer passeouer the same daye. And they came before Moyses and Aaron the same daye. And the men sayde vnto hym: We are defiled vpon the soule of man, wherfore ate we keppe backe that we maye not offer an offering vnto the Lorde in the due season, amonge the chyldren of Israel. And Moyses sayd vnto them: Stande still, and I wyll heare what the Lorde wyll commaunde concernyng you.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses sayenge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel and saye: Ye any man amonge you or your chyldren after you be vncleane, by the reason of a cozle, or is in the wayefarre from you, and wyll offer Passeouer vnto the Lorde: the fourtene daye of the seconde moneth at eue let them offer it, and eate it with swete breade and sowte herbes: lette them leaue none of it vnto the moornyng: nor breake anye bone of it. But accordyng to all the ordinaunce of the passeouer, let them offer it.

But the man that is cleane & is not in a journey, and yet was negligent to offer Passeouer: the same soule shall perishe from his people, because he brought not the offering of the Lorde in his due season: that man shall beare his synne. And if a straunger dwel amonge you, and wyll offer Passeouer vnto the Lorde, accordyng to the ordinaunce of Passeouer and maner therof, he shall offer it thus. Ye shall haue one lawe both for the straunger, and for hym that was borne at home in the lande.

At the same daye that the Tabernacle was reared vp, a cloude couered the habitacon, whiche was a tabernacle of the wytnesse: and at euen there was vpon the habitacon, as it were the sympletyude of fyre vntyll the moornyng.

So it was alwaye, the cloude couered it by day and the sympletyude of fyre by nyght. And when the cloude was taken vp from the tabernacle, then the chyldren of Israel iourneyed: and where the cloude abode, there the chyldren of Israel pitched theyr tentes. At the mouth of the Lorde the chyldren of Israel iourneyed, and at the mouth of the Lorde they pitched. And as longe as the cloude abode vpon the habitacon they laye still: and when the cloude tarped still vpon the habitacon longe tyme, the chyldren of Israel kepte the watche of the Lorde, and iourneyed not. And it chaunced that when the cloude abode a fewe dayes vpon the habitacon, they abode in theyr tentes, according to the commaundement of the Lorde: and they iourneyed also at the commaundement of the Lorde.

And it happened that when the cloude abode vpon the habitacon from euen vnto the moorning, & was taken vp in the moornyng, then they iourneyed. Whether it was by day or by night the cloude was takē vp they iourneyed. Of yf the cloude taried two dayes or a moneth, or a longe season vpon the habitacon, and remayned thereon, the chyldren of Israel abode still, and iourneyed not. And as sone as the cloude was taken vp, they iourneyed. At the mouth of the Lorde they rested in the tentes, and at the commaundement of the Lorde, they iourneyed, keepyng the watch of the Lorde, at the commaundement of the Lorde by the hande of Moyses.

¶ The trumpettes of synner. The Israelites departe from Synai. The captaynes of the hoste are nombred. Balaab refuseth to go with Moyses.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayenge: Make the two trumpettes of siluer: of an whole pere shalt thou make them, that thou mayest ble them to call the congregacion together, and when the hoste shall iourney. Therfore shall they blowe with them, that all the multitude may resorte to the before the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And if they blowe but one trumpette, then the prynces whiche are heades ouer the thousandes of Israel shall come vnto the. But if ye trumpe, & hostes flye on the east partes shall go forwarde. And if ye trumpe the seconde tyme, the hoste that lyeth on the south syde shall take theyr iourney: for they shall trumpe whē they take theyr iourneys. But when the congregacion is to be gathered together, they shall blowe only, and not trumpe. And the sonnes of Aaron the prestes shall blowe with theyr trumpettes, & ye shall haue them as a lawe for euer in your generacions.

And if ye go to warre in your lande agaynst

your enemyes that were you, ye shall blow with the trumpets, and ye shall be remembered before the Lord your God to be saved from your enemyes. Also in the daye of your gladnesse, and in your feast dayes, and in the begynnyng of your monethes, ye shall blowe the trumpettes ouer your burnt sacrifices and peaceofferynges, that they may be a remembrance for you before your God. I am the Lord your God.

And it came to passe the twentieth daye of the seconde moneth in the second pere, that the cloude was taken up from of the habitation of witness. And the chyldren of Israel toke theyr journey out of the deserte of Sinai, and the cloude rested in the wyldernes of Pharan. And the fyrst toke theyr journey at the mouth of the Lord, by the hand of Moses. In the fyrst place went the standarde of the hoste of Juda, accordyng to theyr armyes: whose captayne was Nabalson the son of Aminadab. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the chyldren of Issachar, was Nathanael the sonne of Zuar. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the chyldren of Zabulon, was Eliab the sonne of Helon. And the habitation was taken downe: and the sonnes of Gerson and Merari wente forthe bearyng the habitation.

And the hoste of Ruben went forth with theyr standarde and armyes, whose captayne was Elisur the sonne of Sedeur. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the chyldren of Simeon was Salamiel the sonne of Suri Saddai. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the chyldren of Gad was Eliasaph the sonne of Deguell. The Capathites also went forwarde and bare the sanctuary, & the other dyd set up the habitation against they cam. And the standarde of the hoste of the chyldren of Ephraim went forth accordyng to theyr armyes whose captayne was Elisama the sonne of Amiad. And ouer the hoste of the tribes of the sonnes of Manasse, was Gamaliel the sonne of Pedazur. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the sonnes of Beniamin was Abidan the sonne of Gedeon.

And the standarde of the hoste of the chyldren of Dan came forth (haupnge all the hostes together) thowout theyr armyes: whose captain was Abizer the sonne of Ammi Saddai. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the chyldren of Aser, was Dagiel the sonne of Othram. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the chyldren of Reueben, was Abira the sonne of Ena. These are the journeyes of the chyldren of Israel thowout theyr armyes: and thus the hostes remoued.

And Moses sayde vnto Hobab the sonne of Raguell the Midianite: whych was Moses father in lawe: we go into the place of whiche the Lord sayde: I wyl geue it you. Come thou therfore with vs, & we wyl do the good: for the Lord hath promysed good vnto Israel. And he answered him: I wyl not go: but wyl depart to myne owne lande & to my kynred. He sayde: Oh naye, leane vs not: for thou knowest our manions in the wyldernesse: & thou hast bene to vs in steade of eyes. And if thou go with vs loke what goodnesse the Lord sheweth vnto vs the same wyl we shewe vnto the.

And they departed from the mount of the Lord the dayes journey: & the arke of the testament of the Lord went before the in the thre dayes journey, to searcho out a resting place for them. And the Lord made a shadowe for them thowout the cloude by day, whē they went out of the tent.

And it fortuned, that when the arke wente forthe Moses sayde: * Ryle up Lord, and lette thyne enemyes be scattered: and lette them that hate the, flye before the. And when the arke rested, he sayde: Returne O Lord vnto the many thousandes of Israel.

The xi. Chapter.

The people murmured. They despye flesh. They loth man. The waiering faith of agosles. The Lord deuideth the burden of agosles to seuerall of the assidues, and they praye. He rayneth quailles. The flesh rauens are punished.

And it fortuned, that when the people dyd wyckedlye, it was a displeasure in the eares of the Lord. And when the Lord harde it bys countenance was prouoked to wrath, and the fyre of the Lord burnt amonge the, and consumed them & were the uttermost of the host. And the people cryed vnto Moses. And whē Moses made intercessio vnto the Lord, the fyre quethed. And the name of the place was called Chaberah, because the fyre of the Lord burnt amonge the.

And the rascal people that was amonge them, fell a lustyng, and turned the selues and wepte (euen as dyd also the chyldren of Israel) & sayd who shall geue vs fleshe to eate? we remember the fysh whiche we dyd eate in Egypt for naught and the cucumbers and melons, lekes, onions & garleke. But now our soule is dryed awaye, for we can se nothyng els saue Manna.

The Manna was as coriander seede, & (to se to) lyke Bedellio. And the people went about and gathered it, & ground it in mylles, or bet it in morters, & baked it in pannes, & made cakes of it. And the taste of it was lyke vnto the taste of an oyle cake. And whē the dew fel downe vpon the host in the nyght, the Manna fell vpon it.

And when Moses herde the people wepe thowout theyr householdes, euery man in the doore of his tente, the face of the Lord was prouoked vnto wrath exceedinglye: and it grieved Moses also. And Moses said vnto the Lord: wherfore hast thou dealt cruelly with thy seruants? And wherfore haue I not founde fauour in thy sight, seing that thou putteth the weyght of all this people vpon me: haue I concyued all this people? Or haue I begotten them: that I shuldest say vnto me: carry them in thy bosome (as a nurse beareth the suckyng chylde) vnto the lande, whych thou swarest vnto theyr fathers: where shuld I haue fleshe, to geue vnto all this people, which wepe before me, sayeng: geue vs flesh & we maye eate? I am not able to beare all this people alone, seing it is to heuy for me. If thou deale thus with me, kyl me, I praye the, for I haue founde fauoure in thy sight, that I se not my wretchednes.

And the Lord sayd vnto Moses, * gather vnto me. lxx. men of the elders of Israel, whych I knowest, & they are the elders of the people & officers ouer and thou shalt bringe them vnto the tabernacle of wyrtneſſe, that they maye ſtande there byt the. And I wyll come downe, and ſpake wyth the there, and take of the ſpyete whych is vpon the, and put vpon them, and they ſhall be the burthen of the people wyth þ, leſt thou be conſtrayned to beare it alone.

And ſaye thou vnto the people be halowed agaynſte to morowe, and ye ſhall eate fleſhe: for your whynnyng is in the eares of the Lorde, ſe-ynge ye ſayde: who ſhall geue vs fleſhe to eate we were happye in Egypte: therfore the Lorde wyll geue you fleſhe, and ye ſhall eate. Ye ſhall not eate one daye nor two, nor thye dayes, neyther ten, nor twentye dayes: but euen a moneth longe vntill it come out at the noſtreils of you:
and make you to perbryſke, becauſe that ye haue caſte the Lorde aſyde whych is amonge you: and haue wepte before hym, ſayinge, why came we thus out of Egypte? And Moſes ſayde: A ſyre hundred thouſande ſotemen are there of the people, amonge whych the Jam. And thou haſt ſayde I wyll geue them fleſhe, that they maye eate a moneth longe. Shall the ſhepe and the oxen be ſlayne for them, to fynde them: ether ſhall all the fyſhe of the ſee be gathered together for them to ſerue them? And the Lorde ſayde vnto Moſes: Shall the Lordes hande be waxed ſhort?

Thou ſhalte ſe now whether my worde ſhall come to paſſe vnto the, or not.

And Moſes wente out, and tolde the people the ſayinge of the Lorde, and gathered the lxx.
elders of the people, and ſet them rounde aboute the tabernacle. And the Lorde came downe in a cloude, and ſpake vnto hym, and toke of þ ſpyete that was vpon hym and gaue it vnto the lxx. elders. And it fortuned, that when the ſpyete reſted vpon them, they prophesied, and dyd not ceſſe. But there remayned two of the me in the hoſte: the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad. And the ſpyete, reſted vpon them, and they were of them þ were wyrt-ten, and wente not out vnto the tabernacle, but prophesied in the hoſt. And there ranne a yonge man, and tolde Moſes and ſayde: Eldad & Me-dad do prophesie in the hoſte. And Joſua the ſon of Nun the ſeruaunt of Moſes one of hys yonge men, answered and ſayde: maſter Moſes, forbyd them. And Moſes ſayde vnto hym, enyſt thou for my ſake? wolde God that all the Lor-des people coulde prophesie, and that the Lorde wolde put hys ſpyete vpon them. And Moſes gat hym into the hoſte, he and the elders of Israell. And there went forth a wynde from the Lorde: and broughte quayles from the ſee: and let them fal aboute the hoſte, euen a dayes iour-ney rounde about on euery ſyde of the hoſte, and as it were two cubites highe ouer the earthe. And the people ſtoode vp, and all that daye and all that nyght, and on the mo-row they gathered quayles. And he that gathered a lyle, gathered ten homers full. And they ſpyed them abrode rounde about the hoſte:

* And whyle the fleſhe was yet betwene they teeth, and yet it was chewed vp: beholde the couſequence of the Lorde was moued agaynſte the people, and the Lorde ſawe the people with an exceedyng greuous plague. And the name of þ place was called, the graue of iuſte, becauſe they buryed the people that luſted there. And the people toke they iourney from the graue of iuſte vnto hazereth, and habat hazeroth.

The xii. Chapter.

And Moſes and Aaron ſpake vnto the people, ſayinge: Ye haue ſpoken agaynſte the Lorde, and healeth at the prayer of Moſes.

Moſes and Aaron ſpake vnto the people, ſayinge: Ye haue ſpoken agaynſte the Lorde, becauſe of the woman of Inde whych he had taken: for he had taken to wyfe one of Inde. And they ſayde: ha the the Lorde in-dede ſpoken only thow Moſes? ha the he not ſpoken alſo by vs? And the Lorde harde it. But Moſes was a very meke man, aboue all þ men of the earthe. And the Lorde ſpake at once vnto Moſes vnto Aaron and to Miriam, come out ye thre vnto the tabernacle of wyrtneſſe, & they came out all thre. And the Lorde came downe in the ſpyer of the cloude, and ſtoode in the doore of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam.

And they went and ſtoode before him. And he ſayd heare my wordes. If there be a prophet of þ Lor-des amonge you, I wyll be knowne of hym in a viſyon: and wyll ſpeake vnto hym in ſlepe. My ſeruaunt Moſes is not ſo, whych is ſaythfull in all myne houſe. Vnto hym wyll I ſpeake a mouth to mouth in a viſyon: but in rydes and ſimplytudes doth not he ſe the Lorde. Wherefore then were ye not affrayed to ſpeake agaynſte my ſer-uaunt Moſes? And the Lorde was moued vnto wrauth agaynſt them, and he went hys way: and the cloude departed from the tabernacle. And he hold Miriam was become leprous, as it were ſnowe. And Aaron looked vpon Miriam & be-holde, ſhe was leprous, and Aaron ſayde vnto Moſes: I beſeeche the my Lorde, put not the ſyn vpon vs, whych we haue folowly comytted and ſinned. Oh, let her not be as one that cometh out of his mothers wombe, and whoſe halfe fleſh is eaten a waye. And Moſes cryed vnto the Lorde ſayinge: Heale her O God, I beſeeche the.

And the Lorde ſayd vnto Moſes: If her father had ſpyt in her face, ſhoulde ſhe not be aſha-med ſeven dayes? let her be ſhut out of the hoſte ſeven dayes, and after that let her be receyued in agayne. And Miriam was ſhut out of the hoſt ſeven dayes, and the people remoued not, tyll ſhe was broughte in agayne. And afterwarde the people remoued from hazeroth, and pitched in the wylderneſſe of Pharan.

The xiii. Chapter.

Certaine men are ſent to ſearch the lande of Canaan.

And the Lorde ſpake vnto Moſes, ſayinge:
Sende men out to ſearch the lande of Canaan whych I geue vnto þ chyldren of Israell: of euery trybe of they fathers ſhal ſende a man, and let them all be ſuche as are rulers amonge them. And Moſes at the commandement of þ Lord ſent forth out of the wylderneſſe of Pharan ſuch men as were at heades of þ chyldren of Iſraell: They names are theſe. Of the trybe of Ruben, Sammua the ſonne of Iſacur.

g. ii. Of the

Of the tribe of Simeon, Saphat the sonne of Hori. Of the tribe of Iuda, Caleb the sonne of Iephune, of the tribe of Machab, Igeal the sonne of Joseph. Of the tribe of Ephraim, Osea the sonne of Nun. Of the tribe of Beniamin, Palti the sonne of Raphu. Of the tribe of Zabulon, Gadiell the sonne of Sadi. Of the tribe of Joseph, namelpe of the tribe of Manasse, Gadthi the sonne of Sadi. Of the tribe of Dan, Amiel the sonne of Gemali. Of the tribe of Aser, Sethur the sonne of Michaell. Of the tribe of Nephtali, Nabebi the sonne of Naphtali. Of the tribe of Gad, Gueli the sonne of Warhi. These are the names of the men, whiche Moles sent to spye out the lande. And Moles called the name of Osea the sonne of Nun, Iosua.

And Moles sent them forth to spye out the lande of Canaan, and sayde vnto them: get you vp this waye southwarde, that ye maye go vp into the hie countrey, and se the lande what manner chynge it is, and the people y dwelleth therein: whether they be stronge or weake, ether few or manye, and what the lande is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad: and what maner of cities they be, that they dwell in whether they dwell in tentes or walled townes: and what maner of lande it is: whether it be fat or leane, and whether there be trees therein or not. Be of a good corage, and byng of the frute of the lande. And it was about the tyme that grapes are first ripe. And so they went vp, and searched out the lande from the wyldernesse of zin vnto Rehob, as men come to Hemath, and they ascended vnto the south, and came vnto Hebron, where Abimam was and Sefai and Calmani, the sonnes of Enack. Hebron was buylte seuen yere before ioan in Egypte. And they came vnto the ryuer of Escoll, and cut downe there a braunche wyth one cloustre of grapes and twayne bare it vpon a staffe: and they broughte also of the pomgranates and of the fygges. And the place was called the ryuer Escoll, because of the cloustre of grapes whych the chyldren of Israel cut downe thence. And they turned backe againe from searching of the lande after forty dayes. And they wente and came to Moles and Aaron and vnto all the multitude of the chyldren of Israel in the wyldernes of Phara: which is cadex, & brought them worde, and also vnto all the congregacion, and shewed them the frute of the lande. And they tolde hym, and sayde: we came vnto the lande whither thou sendest vs, and surely it floweth wyth mylke and honye: and here is of the frute of it. Neuerthelesse, the people be stronge that dwell in the lande, and the ctytes are walled and excedynge greate: and mozeouer, we sawe the chyldren of Enack there. The Amalechites dwell in the south countrey, and the Hethites, Jebusites, and the Amorites dwell in the mountaynes, and the Cananites dwell by the see and by the coste of Iordan.

And Caleb stilled the people (murmure that was raised by) Of the people before Moles, saying: we wyl go vp, and conquere it: for we be able to overcome it. But the men that wente by wyth hym, sayde

We be not able to go vp agaynst the people: for they are stronger then we. And they brought vp an euell reporte of the lande which they had searched, sayinge vnto the chyldren of Israel: the lande whych we haue gone thow we to searche it oute, is a lande that eateth vp the inhabiters therof: and the people that we sawe in it, are men of a greates stature. And there we sawe also grauntes, the chyldren of Enack, whych come of the grauntes. And we seemed in oure syght as it were greshoppers, and so we dyd in theyr syght.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

The people murmure agaynst God, and wolde haue stoned Moles and Aaron. The searchers of the lande spe. Amalech killeth the Israelites.

And all the multitude of the people crept out, and wepte thowout that nyght, and all the chyldren of Israel murmured agaynst Moles and Aaron. And the whole congregacion sayd vnto them: Wold God that we had dyed in the lande of Egypt, ether that we had dyed in this wyldernes. Wherefore hath the Lord brought vs vnto this lande: to fall vpon the swerde: and that our wyues, & our chyldren shulde be a praye: Were it not better that we retorne vnto Egypte agayne? And they sayd one to another: We wyl make a captain and retorne vnto Egypte agayne.

But Moles and Aaron fell on theyr faces before all the congregacion and multitude of the chyldren of Israel: And Iosua the sonne of Nun, and Caleb the sonne of Iephune (whych were of them that searched the lande) rent theyr clothes, and spake vnto all the companie of the chyldren of Israel, sayinge: The lande whych we walked thow we to searche, it is a very good lande. If the Lord haue lust to vs, he wyl bring vs into his lande and geue it vs, whiche is suche a lande as floweth wyth mylke and honye. But in any wyse rebel not ye agaynst the Lord.

*Nether nede ye to feare the people of the land for they are but breade for vs. Theyr shadowe is departed from them, and the Lord is with vs feare them not therfore.

But all they whych were in that multitude had stoned them wyth stones. And the glorie of y Lord appeared in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, before all the chyldren of Israel. And the Lord sayde vnto Moles: howe longe do this people prouoke me, and howe longe wyl yt be per they helene me: for all the signes whych I haue shewed amonge them: I wyl smyte them with the pestilence and destroye them: and wyl make of the a greater nacyon and myghtyer then they.

And Moles sayde vnto the Lord: then the Egyptians shall heare it, for thou broughtest this people in thy myght from amonge them. And it wyl be tolde to the inhabytors of this lande also: for they haue harde lyke wyse, that y Lord arte amonge this people: and that thou Lord arte sene face to face, and that thy cloude standeth ouer them, and that thou goest before them by daye tyme in a pyller of a cloude, and in a pyller of fyre by nyght.

if thou shalt kill all this people as they were but one man, then I pray thee, which have heard the same of the, wyl saye: The Lorde is not able to bring in this people into the lande, whiche he swore vnto them: but hath slayne them in the wyldernesse. And nowe I beseeche the, let the power of my Lorde be greates, accordynge as thou hast spoken: sayinge the Lorde is longe per he be angrye, and full of merce, and suffereth iniquitye, and sinne, and leaueth no man innocent, and visiteth the vnrightheousnesse of the fathers vpon the chyldren, in the thyrde and fourth generation: be mercifull I beseech the vnto the synne of this people, accordynge vnto thy greates merce, as thou hast forgiven this people from Egypte, even vntill nowe. And the Lorde sayde: I have forgiven it, accordynge to thy request. But as tyme as I lyue, al the earth shal be fylled wyth the glorie of the Lorde. But all those men whiche haue sene my glorie and my myracles whiche I dyd in Egypte and in the wyldernesse and haue tempted me nowe thys ten times and wyl not hearken vnto my voyce, shall not see the lande whiche I swore vnto theyr fathers: neither shall any of them that prouoked me se it. But my seruante * Caleb: wyth whome there was another maner of sperte: & because he hath folowed me vnto the vtmost, hym wyl I bring into the lande whiche he hath walked in, and hys sede shal inheret it, and also the Amalechites & Cananites whiche dwell in the playne countrey. To morow turne you, and get you into the wyldernesse: even by the waye of the red see.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses and Aaron, sayinge: howe longe doth this euell multitude murmur agaynst me? I haue heard I murmurings of the chyldren of Israel, wyth the whiche they murmur agaynst me: Tell them therefore: As truly as I lyue (sayeth the Lorde) I wyl doo vnto you even as ye haue spoken in myne eares. Your carkasses shal lye in this wyldernesse. And all you that were tolde thowdoute your nombres, from twenty yere & aboue, (whiche haue murmured agaynst me) shall not come into the lande, ouer whiche I lyfted up myne hande, to make you dwell therein, saue Caleb the sonne of Iephane, and Josua the sonne of Nun.

But your chyldren, whiche ye sayde shulde be a praye, them wyl I bringe in, and they shal know the lande whiche ye haue refused, and your carkasses shal lye in this wyldernesse. And your chyldren shal wander in this wyldernesse, forty yeres, and suffre for your whoredome, vntill your carkasses be wasted in the wyldernesse, after the nombze of the dayes in whiche ye serched out the lande, even forty dayes, & every daye for a yere shal ye beare your vnrightheousnesse even forty yeres, and ye shall know my displeasure: I the Lorde haue sayde, that I wyl do it vnto all this euell congregacion that are gathered together agaynst me. If in this wyldernesse they shal be consumed, and here they shal dye.

And the men whiche Moyses sente to searche the lande, and whiche (when they came agayne) made all the people to murmur before hym and brought up a sclander vpon the land, even those men that dyd bring up that sclander vpon it, as though it had bene euell, dyed in a greates plage before the Lorde. But Josua the sonne of Nun and Caleb the sonne of Iephane whiche were of the men that wente to searche the lande, lpyed still. And moyses tolde these saynges vnto all the chyldren of Israel, & the people toke greates sorowe. And they rose vp early in the mornynge, & gatte them vp into the toppe of the mountayne, sayinge: * lo, we be here, and wyl go vp vnto the place of whiche the Lorde sayde vnto vs, for we haue sinned. And Moyses sayde: wherefore wyl ye go on this maner, beyonde the worde of the Lorde? it wyl not come well to passe: go not up therefore: (for the Lorde is not amonge you) that ye be not slayne before your enemies. For the Amalechites and the Cananites are there before you, and ye wyl fall vpon the swerde because ye are turned awaye from the Lorde, and the Lorde wyl not be wyth you.

But they presumed obstynately to go up into the hyll toppe. Nevertheless, the Arke of the testamente of the Lorde, and Moyses departed not out of the holte. Then the Amalechites and the Cananites, whiche dwelte in that hyll came downe and smote them, and bewed them, even vnto hozma.

The .xv. Chapter.

The burne offerynges of them that entre into the lande. The punishment of him that cometh of arrogancy of pryde.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, & saye vnto them: * when ye be come into the lande of your habitacions, whiche I geue vnto you, and wyl offer an offeryng vnto the Lorde: namely a burnt offeryng or a speciall sacrifice, ether of a bowe or of a wollynge mynde, and in your pryncypall feastes, to make a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde of the oxen or of the floske.

Then * let hym that offereth hys offeryng vnto the Lorde, bringe also a meate offeryng of a tenth deale of flour myngled wyth the fourth parte of an hyne of oyle, and the fourth parte of an hyne of wyne for a burne offeryng, and offer wyth the burnt offeryng or any other offeryng when it is a lambe. Or if it be a ram, thou shalt offer for a meate offeryng, two tenth deales of flour myngled wyth the thyrde parte of an hyne of oyle: and for a burne offeryng, thou shalt offer the thyrde part of an hyne of wyne for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde.

And when thou offerest a bullocke for a burnt offeryng or for a speciall bowe or peace offering vnto the Lorde, let hym bringe wyth a bullocke a meate offeryng of thre tenth deales of flour myngled wyth halfe an hyne of oyle. And thou shalt bringe for a burne offeryng: even halfe an hyne of wyne, for an offeryng of a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. After this maner shall it be done for an ore, or for a ram, or for a lambe or a kyd. Like what nombze thou makest in these, such a nombze shalt thou make in them also.

And accordynge to the nombze of such offerynges thou thou shalt eentrease the meatofferynges and the drynkofferynges. All that are of your selues shall do these thynges after this maner, to offer an offerynge of swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And yf a straunger sogezorne wyth you, or who-soeuer be amonge you in your generacions, and wyll offer an offerynge of a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde: euen as ye do, so he shall do. One offerynge shall be bothe for you of the congregacyon, and also for the straunger. It shall be an offerynge for euer in your generacions, both vnto you and to the straunger before the Lorde. One lawe and one maner shall serue, bothe for you and for the straunger that sogezorneth wyth you. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell, and saye vnto them: * When ye be come into the lande to the whiche I brynge you, then when ye wyll eate of the breade of the lande, ye shall take vp an heue offerynge vnto the Lorde.

Deu. xiii. c

E Ye shall take vp a cake of the fyrste of your dowe for an heueofferynge, * as ye do the heueofferynge of the barne, euen so ye shall heue it. Of the fyrste of your dowe ye shall geue vnto the Lorde an heueofferynge in your generacions. And yf ye ouerle your selues, and obserue not all these commaundementes, which the Lorde hath spoken vnto Moyses, euen all that the Lorde hath commaunded you by the hande of Moyses frome the fyrste daye that the Lorde commaunded Moyses, and hence forwarde amonge your generacions. If it happen that ought is commytted ignorantly of the congregacyon, al the multitude shall offer a bullocke for a burnt offerynge, to be a swete sauour vnto the Lorde, wyth the meatofferynge and drynkofferyng thereto, accordyng to the maner, and an he goate for synne. And the preast shall make an attonement for al the multitude of the chyldren of Israell, and it shall be forgiven them: for it is ignorance. And they shall brynge theyr offerynge for a sacrifice vnto the Lorde: and theyr synofferynge before the Lorde for theyr ignorance. And it shall be forgiven vnto all the multitude of the chyldren of Israell, and vnto the strainger that dwelleth amonge you: seynge all the people were in ignorance.

Leui. xiii. c

I * If any one soule synne thowowe ignorance he shall brynge a he goate of a yere olde for syn. And the preast shall make attonement for the soule that sinned ignorantly, wyth the synofferynge before the Lorde to reconcele hym: & that it maye be forgiven hym. And bothe thou that arte borne of the chyldren of Israell, & the strainger that dwelleth amonge you, shall haue bothe one lawe, who so doth synne thowowe ignorance. But the soule that doth synne presumptuously, whether he be an Israelyte or a strainger, the same blasphemeth the Lorde. And that soule shall be roted out frome amonge hys people, because he hath despyed the worde of the Lorde, & hath broken hys commaundemente, that soule therefore shall perishe, & hys synne shall be vpon hym. And whyle the chyldren of Israell were in synne, they founde a man that gathered styc-kes vpon the Sabboth daye,

Exo. xxxi. c

And they that founde hym gathering styc-kes, brought hym vnto Moyses and Aaron, and vnto all the congregacyon: * and they put hym in warde, seynge it was not declared what shoulde be done vnto hym. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: Let the mandye: and let all the multitude stone hym wyth stones wythout the hoste. And all the multitude broughte hym wythout the hoste, and stoned hym wyth stones, and he dyed as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell and byd them that they * make them gardes in the quarters of their garments thowout theyr generacions, and put vpon the garde of the quarters a rybande of yelowe sylke. And the garde shall be vnto you to loke vpon it, that ye maye remembre all the commaundementes of the Lorde, and doo them: and that ye seke not after youre owne harte, or youre owne eyes: after the whiche ye vse to go a whorpyng: but ye shall remember rather and doo all my commaundementes, and be holy vnto your God: I am the Lorde your God, which brought you oute of the lande of Egypte, for to be your God: I am the Lorde your God.

The xvi. Chapter.

The rebellion of Corah, Dathan and Abiram.

AND * Corah the sonne of Jezehar, the sonne of Cahath, the sonne of Leui, and Dathan, and Abiram the sonne of Eliab and On the sonne of Bel-leth, the sonne of Ruben: rose vp before Moyses, wyth other men of the chyldren of Israell, two hundred and fftyfe, whiche were Captaynes of the multitude, great and famous men in the congregacion: and they gathered them selues together, agaynst Moyses and Aaron, and sayde vnto them: ye make muche to doo, seynge all the multitude are holpe euerie one of them, and the Lorde is amonge them. Why heue ye youre selues vp above the congregacyon of the Lorde? And when Moyses hearde it, he fell vpon hys face, and spake vnto Corah and vnto all hys company, sayinge: to morowe the Lorde wyll shewe who are hys, who are holy, and who oughte to appoche nye vnto hym, and who he hath chosen to come to hym. Chys do therefore, take you fyrepans, both Corah and all his company and do fyre therein, and put cens in them before the Lorde to morowe.

And the man which the Lorde doth chose, the same shall be holy. Ye make muche to do, ye chyldren of Leui. And Moyses said vnto Corah: * hear ye chyldren of Leui: It is but a smal thyng vnto you that that the God of Israel hath separated you from the multitude of Israel: and broughte you to hymselfe, to do the seruice of the dwelling place of the Lorde, and to stande before the multitude and to minister vnto hym: he hath taken the to hym and all thy brethren the sons of Levi with the, and sette ye the office of the priest also: For which cause both thou and all thy company are gathered together agaynst the Lorde. And what is Aaron, that ye murmur agaynst hym?

And Moses sente, and called Nathan, and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab, whyche sayde: We wyll not come vp. Is it a small thyng that thou hast broughte vs out of a lande of floweth with mylke and honye, to kyll vs in the wyldernesse, and to raygne ouer vs also? Hast thou brought vs vnto a lande that floweth with mylke and honye, and geuen vs inheritaunce of feldes and vineyardes? Wylt thou pull out the eyes of these men? We wyll not come vp. And Moses wared very angrie, and sayde vnto the Lorde. Turne not thou vnto theyr offeringe. I haue not taken so muche as an asse from them, neyther haue I hurte any of them. And Moses sayde vnto Corah: Be thou and all thy company before the Lorde: both thou, they, and Aaron to morowe. And take euery man hys censur, and put cens in them, that ye maye offer before the Lorde: euery man of the two hundred and fyfthe take his censur, thou also Aaron, that euery one may haue hys censur. And they toke euery man hys censur, and put fyre in them, and layed cens thereon, and stode in the doore of the Tabernacle of wytnesse with Moses and Aaron. And Corah gathered all the congregacion agaynst them vnto the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse.

And the gloze of the Lorde appeared vnto all the congregacion. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron laying: seporate youre selues from amonge this congregacion, that I maye consume them at once. And they fell vpon theyr faces and sayde. * O moost myghty God of the spytes of all flesh, if one man hath sinned, wylt thou be wroth with all the multitude? And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the congregacion and say: Get you a way from aboute the dwellinge of Corah, Nathan, and Abiram. And Moses rose vp, and wente vnto Nathan and Abiram, and the elders of Israel folowed hym. And he spake vnto the congregacion, sayinge: departe frome the tentes of these wycked men, and touche nothinge of theyr: lest ye perishe in all theyr synnes. And so they gate them from the dwellinge of Corah, Nathan and Abiram on euery syde. And Nathan and Abiram came out and stode in the doore of theyr tentes with theyr wyues, theyr sonnes, and theyr lytle chyldren. And Moses sayde: Here by ye shall knowe that the Lorde hath sente me to do all these workes, and that I haue not done them of myne owne mynde. If these men dye the comē death of all men, or yf they be vylted after the vyltacion of all men, then the Lorde hath not sente me. But and yf the Lorde make a newe thyng, and the earth open her mouth, and swa-lowe them by wyth all that they haue: and they go downe quicke into hell: then ye shall understande, that these men haue prouoked the Lorde.

And it fortunēd that as lone as he had made an ende of speakyng all these wordes, the ground cloue a sunder that was vnder them: and perthe opened her mouth, and swallowed them vp, and theyr houles, and all the men that were with Corah, and all theyr goodes. And they and all that they had, went downe a lyne vnto hell, and the earth closed vpon them: and they perisshed from amonge the congregacion. And all Israel that were aboute them fled at the crye of them.

And they sayde: lest the earth swallowe vs vp also. And there came out a fyre from the Lorde, and consumed the two hundred and fyfthe men that offered cens. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: Speake vnto Eleazar, the sone of Aaron the Priest that he take vp the censers out of the burnyng and skater the fyre here and there, for the censers of these synners are halowed in theyr deatthes: and lette them make of them thyne beaten plates for a couerynge of the altar. For they offered them before the Lorde, and therefore they are halowed, & they shalbe a sygne vnto the chyldren of Israel. And Eleazar the prest toke the brasen censers whyche they that were burnt had offered, and beate them thyne for a couerynge of the altar, to be a remembraunce vnto the chyldren of Israel, that no straunger whyche is not of the seide of Aaron, come nere to offer cens before the Lorde, that it happen not vnto hym: lyke as vnto Corah and hys companye, as the Lorde sayde of hym by the hande of Moses. But on the morowe all the multitude of the chyldren of Israel murmured agaynst Moses and Aaron, sayinge: ye haue kyllled the people of the Lorde. And it fortunēd that when the multitude was gathered agaynst Moses and Aaron, they looked towarde the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And beholde, when they were entred in the cloude couered it, and the gloze of the Lorde appeared. And Moses and Aaron came before the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Get you from amonge this congregacion, that I may consume them quicke. And they fell vpon theyr faces. And Moses sayd vnto Aaron: take a censur, and put fyre therein out of the altar, and poure on cens, and go quicke vnto the congregacion, that thou mayste obtayne the forgyuēse for the. For there is wrath gone out from the Lorde, and there is a plage begone.

And Aaron toke as Moses commanded hym and ranne into the myddes of the congregacion and behold, the plage was begonne amonge the people, and he put on cens, and made an attonement for the people. And when he stode betwene the deade and them that were alpyue, the plage ceased. They that dyed in the plage were foure tene thousande and seven hundred: belyde them that dyed aboute the busynesse of Corah. And Aaron went agayne vnto Moses before the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, & the plage ceased.

Drut. xi. a.
Nu. xvi. d.
Psal. cxi. c

Aarons rod buddeth, and beareth blossoms.

And the Lord spake vnto Moles, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell: and take of euery pynce of the a rodde, after the houses of theyr fathers, eue twelue rodde: and wyte euery mans name vpon hys rodde. And wyte Aarons name vpon the rodde of Levi: for euery rodde is for an house of theyr fathers. And put them in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, euen in the place where I mete you. And the mans rod whō I chuse, shall blossom. And I wyll make ceasse from me the grudgynge of the chyldren of Israell wherby they grudge agaynst you.

And Moles spake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and all the pynces gaue hym euery pynce ouer theyr fathers houses, a rodde, euen twelue rodde: and the rod of Aaron was amonge the rodde. And Moles put the rodde before the Lorde, in the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And on the morowe, Moles wente into the Tabernacle of wytnesse: and beholde, *the rod of Aaron for the house of Levi was budded, & bare blossoms and almondes. And Moles broughte out all the rodde from before the Lorde vnto all the chyldren of Israel: and they looked vpon them, & toke euery man hys rod. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moles: byynge Aarons rod agayne before the wytnesse to be kepte for a token of the chyldrens rebellion, and that theyr murmurynge may cease from me, and that they dye not. And Moles dyd as the Lorde commaunded hym, euen so dyd he.
And the chyldren of Israel spake vnto Moles sayinge: beholde, we are wasted awaye and consumed: we all come to nought, who so euer commeth nye the dwellynge of the Lorde, dyeth.
Shall we vtterly consume awaye?

The. xviii. Chapter.

The office of the Leuytes. The tythes and fyfte frutes must be geuen them. Aarons heritage.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Aaron, & thy sones and thy fathers house wyth the shall beare the faute of that whych is done amysse in the holpe place. And thou and thy sones wyth the shall beare the faute of that whych is done amysse in your preasthode. * And the brethren of the trybe of Levi and of theyr fathers house-holde thou shalt take vnto the, that they maye be ioyned vnto the and mynstre vnto the: euen vnto the and thy sones wyth the before the tabernacle of wytnesse. They shall wayte vpon the and vpon all the tabernacle: onely let them not come nye the vessels of the sanctuary and the altar, that they and ye also dye not. And they shall be by the, and wayte on the Tabernacle of wyt-nesse for all the seruyce of the tabernacle, and let no straunger come nye vnto you.

Therefore shall ye kepe the holy place and the aultar, that there fall no more wrath vpon the chyldren of Israel: beholde, I haue taken your brethren the Leuytes from amonge the chyldren of Israel, whiche as a gyfte of yours are geuen vnto the Lord, to do the seruyce of the tabernacle of wytnesse. Therefore shalt thou and thy son-nes wyth the take hede vnto your preastes office

for all thynges that pertayne vnto the aultar, and for al that are within the vayle. And se that ye serue: for I haue geuen your preastes office vnto you as a gyfte: and therefore the straunger that cometh nye, must be slayne. And the Lorde spake vnto Aaron: beholde, I haue geuen the the kepyng of myne heue offerpnynges, of all the ba-lowed thynges of the chyldren of Israel. Euen vnto the, I haue geuen them for the anoyntynge and to thy sones, for a dutte for euer. Thy shall be thynne of most holy from the fyre of the aultar.
All theyr sacrifyses for all theyr meate offerpny-ges, synofferings of trespasses offerpnynges, which they byynge vnto me, are most holy. It is thynne and thy sones. In the most holy place shalt thou eate it: and all that are males shall eate of it, let it be holy vnto the. And thys also is thynne
*the heue offerpnynges of theyr gyftes, thow out all the waueofferpnynges of the chyldren of Israel: I haue geuen them vnto the and thy sones and thy daughters wyth the, to be a dutte for e-uer, and all that are cleane in thy house, shall eate of it, all the fat of the oyle, and all the fat of the wyne and of the corne, which they shall offer vnto the Lorde for fyft frutes, the same haue I geuen vnto the. And what soffer is fyfte rype in theyr lande whych they byynge vnto the Lorde shall be thine, & all that are cleane in thynne house shall eate of it. All dedicate thynges in Israel, shall be thynne. All that breaketh the matryce in all fleshe that men byynge vnto the Lorde, whether it be of men or beastes, shall be thynne. Neuer thelater the fyfte bozne of man shalt thou redeme and the fyfte bozne of vncleane beastes shalt thou redeme lyke wyse. Those that are to be re-demed, shalt thou redeme from the age of a mo-neth, for the value of y moneth, namely for fyue syckles after the syckle of the Sanctuarye. A syckle maketh twenty halpys. But the fyfte bozne of oxen, shepe and goates shalt thou not redeme.
For they are holy: therefore thou shalt spraynle theyr bloude vpon the aultar, and shalt burne theyr fat vpon the sacrifys for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And the fleshe of them is thynne *as the wauebrest and the ryght shulder. These are thynne. All y holy heueofferpnynges whych the chyldren of Israel offer vnto the Lorde, haue I geuen the, and thy sones and thy daughters w-the, to be a dutte for euer, let it be a salted connauente for euer: before the Lorde, both vnto the and to thy seide wyth the. And the Lorde spake vnto Aaron: *thou shalt haue none inheritance in theyr lande, neyther shalt thou haue any part amonge them. I am thy parte and thy enheritaunce amonge the chyldren of Israel. Beholde I haue geuen the chyldren of Levi all the tenthe in Israel to inheret, for the seruyce whych they serue in the tabernacle of wytnesse. Nether must the chyldren of Israel henceforth come nye the tabernacle of wytnesse, lest they beare synne, and dye. But the Leuytes shall do the seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse and beare theyr synne.
It shall be a lawe for euer in youre generacions that amonge the chyldren of Israel, they pos-sele none enherytaunce. But the tythes of the chyldezen of Israel, whych they pape as an heue offering vnto the Lorde, I haue geuen the Leuites to inheryte. And therfore I haue sayde vnto them. Amonge the chyldezen of Israel ye shall possesse none enherytaunce. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: speake vnto the Leuites: and saye vnto them, when ye take of the chyldezen of Israel the tythes whych I haue geuen you of them for your enherytaunce, ye shall take an heue offering of that same for the Lorde: euen the tenth parte of the tyth. And thys your heue offering shalbe reckened vnto you, eue as though it were of the corne of the barne, or out of the fulnesse of the wyne presse. Of thys maner ye shall therfore separte an heue offering vnto the Lorde of all your tythes whiche ye receyue of the chyldezen of Israel, and ye shall geue therof vnto the Lorde an heue offering, whych shalbe belonge to Aaron the prest. Of all your gyftes, ye shall take out all the bestes heue offerings, euen the fatte of theyr halowd thynges. Therfore thou shalt saye vnto them: when ye haue taken away the fat of it from it it shalbe counted vnto the Leuites, as yf it were the encrease of the corne flore, or the encrease of the wyne presse. And ye shall eate it in all places, both ye and your households for it is your rewarde for your seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And ye shall beare no syn by the reason of it, when ye haue taken frome it the fat of it: neyther shall ye vnhalowe the holy thynges of the chyldezen of Israel, lest ye dye.

The. xix. Chapter.

Of the red kowe. The lawe of hym that dyeth in the tabernacle, & of hym also that toucheth any vncleane thyng.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, and Aaron sayinge: thys is the ordynance of the lawe: whych the Lorde hath commaunded, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldezen of Israel that they byngne the a red kowe wythout spot, and wherin is no blemyshe, and vpon which neuer came poke. And ye shall geue her vnto Eleazar the preaste, that he maye byngne her wythoute the hoste, and cause her to be slayne before his face. And let Eleazar the preaste take of her bloude wyth his synger, and spynkle it before the Tabernacle of wytnesse seuen tymes. And cause the kowe to be burnt in his syght with her skynne, fleshe and bloude. And the dunge of her shall be burne also. And let the preaste take Cedar wood, and ysope and purple clothe, and cast it vpon the kowe as she burneth. Then let the preast washe hys clothes, and he shall bath his fleshe in water, and then come into the hoste and the preast shalbe vncleane vnto the euen.

And he that burneth her, shal washe his clothes in water, and bath his fleshe in water, and be vncleane vntill euen. And a man yf is cleane shal take vp the ashes of the kowe, and put the without the hoste in a cleane place. And it shalbe kepte for the multitude of the chyldezen of Israel: for a spynklynge water and for an attonement of synne. Therfore he that gathereth the ashes of the kowe, shal washe his clothes, and remayne vncleane vntill euen. And this shalbe vnto the chyldezen of Israel and vnto the stranger that dwelleth amonge them, a statute for euer. * He that toucheth the deade bodye of any man, shalbe vncleane seuen dayes. And he shall purifye hym selfe with this water the thyrde daye and the seuenth daye, and he shalbe cleane.

But yf he purifye not hym selfe the thyrde daye and the seuenth daye, he shall not be cleane. Who so euer toucheth the corse of any man that is deade, and spynkleth not hym selfe, despyeth the dwellinge of the Lorde, and that soule shalbe rote out of Israel, because the spynklynge water was not spynkled vpon hym. He shalbe therfore vncleane, and hys vncleannesse shal remayne vpon hym. This is the lawe of the man that dyeth in a tente: all that come into the tent, and all that is in the tente shalbe vncleane seuen dayes. And all the vesselles that be open whych haue no yd nor couerynge vpon them shalbe vncleane. And who so euer toucheth one that is slayne with a sword in the felde, or a dead person, or a bone of a deade man, or a grane shalbe vncleane seuen dayes. Therfore, for an vncleane persone they shall take of the burnt ashes of the synofferynge, and runnyng water shal be put thereto in a vessel. And let a cleane person take ysope and dippe it in the water, and spynkle it vpon the tent, and vpon all the vesselles, and on the soules that were therein, and vpon hym that touched a bone, or a slayne persone, or a dead bodye, or grane. And yf a cleane person shal spynkle vpon yf vncleane the thyrde daye & the seuenth daye & the seuenth daye he shal purifye hym selfe, & washe his clothes, and bath hym selfe in water, & shalbe cleane at euen. But the man that is vncleane and spynkleth not hym selfe, yf same soule shalbe destroyed from amonge the congregacyon: because he hath despyed the holy place of the Lorde and the spynklynge water hath not bene spynkled vpon hym, therfore shal he remayne vncleane. And this shalbe a perpetuall lawe vnto them. And he that spynkleth the spynklynge water, shal washe his clothes. And he that toucheth the spynklynge water, shal be vncleane vntill euen. And what so euer the vncleane persone toucheth: shal be vncleane. And the soule that toucheth it, shalbe vncleane vntill the euen.

And the chyldezen of Israel came with the whole multitude into the deserte of Syn in the fyrste moneth, and the people abode at Cadis. And there died Miriam, and was buried there. But there was no water for the multitude, and they gathered themselves together agaynst Moyses and Aaron. And the people chode wyth Moyses, and spake, sayinge: wolde God that we had perished, when oure brythren dyed before the Lorde. Why haue ye brought the congregacyon of the Lorde vnto thys wyldernes? that both we and our catell shulde dye in it? * Wherefore haue ye made vs to goo oute of Egypte, to geue byng byynge vs into this vngacious place, which is no place of sede nor of fygs, nor vynes, nor of p^r granates, neither is there any water to drynke.

W And Moyses and Aaron went from the congregacyon, vnto the doze of the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and fel vpon theyr faces.

And they cryed vnto the Lorde and sayde, O Lorde God, heare the crye of this people, and open them thy creature, euen a fountayne of lyuynge water, that they maye be satisfied, and that theyr murmurynge maye cease. And the gloze of the Lorde appeared vnto them.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying: take the rodde, and gather thou and thy brother Aaron the congregacyon together, and speake vnto the rocke before their eyes and it shal geue forth his water. And thou shalt byynge them water out of the rocke, to geue the company drynke, and theyr bestes also. * And Moyses toke the rodde from before the Lorde, as he comaunded hym. And Moyses and Aaron gathered the congregacyon together before f rock and Moyses sayde vnto them: heare ye rebellions: must we fet you water out of this rocke?

And Moyses lyfte vp his hande, & with his rodde he smote the rocke two tymes, & the water came out abundantly, and the myltitude dranke and theyr bestes also. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses and Aaron: because ye beleued me not, to sanctifye me in the eyes of the chyldren of Israel, therfore ye shall not byynge this congregacyon into the lande which I haue geuen them

C This is the water of stryfe, because the chyldren of Israel stroue wth the Lorde, and he was sanctified in them. * And Moyses sent messengers from Cades vnto the kynge of Edom.

Thus sayth thy brother Israel: Thou knowest all the tranayle that hath happened vs. Our fathers wente downe in to Egypte, and we haue dwelte in Egypte a longe tyme, and the Egyptians vexed vs and our fathers. And when we cryed vnto the Lorde, he hearde oure voyce, and sent an aungel, and hath fet vs vp out of Egypt. And beholde we are in Cades, euen in the vtermost cite of thy border. We wyl go nowe thowowe thy countrey: but we wyl not go thowowe the felde of vynyardes, nether wyl we drynke of the water of the fountaynes: we wyl go by f kynges hye waye, and nether tourne vnto the ryghte hande nor to the lefte, vntyll we be past thy countrey. And Edom answered hym.

D Thou shalt not go by me: lest I come out agaynst the wyth the swearde. The chyldren of Israel sayde vnto hym: we wyl go by the beaten waye: and yf I and my cattell drynke of thy water, I wyl paye for it, I wyl but only (with out any harme) go thowowe on my fete. He answered: Thou shalt not go thowow. And Edom came out agaynst hym with muche people, and with a myghtye power. And thus Edom denyed to geue Israel passage thowowe his countrey wherfore Israel turned a waye from hym. And the chyldren of Israel departed from Cades, & came vnto mount Hoz with all the congregacyon. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses and Aaron in mount Hoz, harde by the coiste of the lande of Edom, sayinge: Aaron shalbe gathered vnto his people, for he shall not come in to the lande, whiche I haue geuen vnto the chyldren of Israel, because ye dylobyed my mouthe at the water of stryfe. Take Aaron and Eleazar his son, and byynge them vp into mount Hoz, and thou shalt strypppe Aaron out of his vestimentes and put them vpon Eleazar his sonne, and Aaron shall be gathered vnto his people, and shall dye there. And Moyses dyd as the Lorde comaunded and they went vp into mount Hoz in the syght of all the myltitude. And Moyses toke of Aarons clothes, and putte them vpon Eleazar his son, * & Aaron dyed there in the top of the mount. And Moyses and Eleazar came downe oute of f mount. When all the myltitude sawe that Aaron was dead, they mourned for Aaron thyrty dayes, thowowt all f householdes of Israel.

¶ Israel banqueth kyng Arab. The fyre serpentes kyng them. The kynges Schon & Og are overcome in battayle.

And when kyng * Arab the Canaanite whych dwelt toward the south hearde tell that Israel came by the waye that the spies had founde out he fought agaynst Israel, and toke some of them prysoners. And Israel bowed a-vowe vnto the Lorde, and sayde: Vt thou wylt delpyner this people into my hande, I wyl utterly destroye theyr ctyes. And the Lorde hearde the voyce of Israel, and delpynered them the Cananites. And they destroyed them and theyr ctyes, and called the name of the place: Hozma.

* And they departed from mount Hoz by the waye of the red see: to compasse the lande of Edom. And the soule of the people saynted by the waye. And the people spake agaynst God and agaynst Moyses: wherfore hast thou brought vs out of Egypte, for to dye in the wyldernesse, for here is nether breade nor water, and oure soule lotheth this lyght breade. * Wherfore the Lorde sent fyrry serpentes amonge the people whiche stonge them: and muche people of Israel dyed. Therfore the people came to Moyses & sayde: we haue synned, for we haue spoken agaynst the Lorde and agaynst the, * make intercessyon to the Lorde, that he take awaye the serpentes from vs. And Moyses made intercessyon for the people. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: make the a fyrry serpente, and set it vp for a sygne, that as many as are bytten, maye lye vpon it, and lyue. * And Moyses made a serpente of brasse, and set it vp for a sygne. And when serpentes had bitten any man, he behelde the serpente of brasse, and was healed. * And the chyldren of Israel departed thence, and pyched in Oboth. And they departed from Oboth, & pitched at the heapes of Abarim: euen in the wilderness which is by the playne of Moab on the east syde. And they remoued thence, and pitched vpon the ryuer of zarad. And they departed thence and pitched on the other syde of Arnon, which is in the wilderness, and cometh oute of the coastes of the Amozites: for Arnon is the border of Moab, betwene Moab and the Amozites.

Wherefore it is spoken in the booke of the war of the Lorde, what thyng he dyd in the red see, and in the ryuer of Arnon. And the heade of the ryuer that goeth downe to the dwelling of Ar, and stretcheth vnto the border of Moab, frome thence it turneth vnto Beer. The same is Beer or well wherof the Lorde spake vnto Moles: gather the people together, and I will geue them water. Then Israell sang this songe. Arple ye well, synge ye vnto hym. The pyres dygged thys well, the captaynes of the people dygged it, with the teacher, and with theyr staues.

And from the wilderness they went to Matana, and from Matana to Nabaliel, and from Nabaliel to Bamoth, and from Bamoth to the valey that is in the felde of Moab, vnto the top of the hill that apereth before Jeshimon. And Israell sent messengers vnto Sehon, kynge of the Amozites, sayinge: * I will go thorowe thy lande: we wyl not turne into the felde or vnpardes, neyther drynke of the waters of the well but we wyl go alonge by the kynges hye waye, vntill we be passe thy countrey. * But Sehon wolde geue Israell no lycence to passe thorowe his countrey, but gathered all his people together and went out agaynst Israell into the wilderness. And he came to Iabesa, and fought agaynst Israell. * And Israell smote hym in the edge of the sword, and conquered his lande from Arnon vnto Iabok, and vnto the chyldren of Ammon. For the border of the chyldren of Ammon was stronge. And Israell toke all these cityes and dwelt in all the cityes of the Amozites: in Heshon and in all the townes that long therto. For Heshon was the cite of Sehon the kynge of the Amozites whych fought before agaynst the kynge of the Moabites, and toke all his lande out of his hande, euen vnto Arnon. Wherefore they saie in the proverbe: come to Heshon, and let the cite of Sehon be buylte and repared: for there is a fyre gone oute of Heshon, and a flame from the cite of Sehon, and hath consumed Ar in Moab, and the enherytours of the hye places in Arnon. Wo be to the Moab: o people of Chamos, ye are vndone, he hath put his sonnes to dryght, and his daughters to captiuite vnto Sehon the kynge of the Amozites. Their empyre is losse from Heshon vnto Dibon, and we made a wilderness euen vnto Nophah, whych reacheth vnto Mediba. And thus Israell dwelt in the lande of the Amozites. And Moles sent to search out Iazer, and they toke the townes belongyng therto, and roted out the Amozites that were therein. * And they turned and wente vnto ward Ba-san. And Og the kynge of Ba-san came oute agaynst them, he and all his people to fyghte at Adrei. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moles, feare hym not, for I haue deliuered hym in thy hande and all his people, and his land. And thou shalt do to hym as thou dydest vnto Sehon the kynge of the Amozites which dwelt at Heshon. They smote hym therfore, and his sonnes, and all his people, vntill there was nothyng lefte hym. And they conquered his lande.

The xxii. Chapter.

The kynge Balac sendeth for Balaam (whose name in the Hebrew is Balaam) Balaams alle speaketh.

And the chyldren of Israell departed and pitched in the felde of Moab on the other syde of Iordane, ouer agaynst Jericho. And Balac the sonne of ziphor sawe all that Israell had done to the Amozites: and the Moabites were sore afrayde of the people, because they were many, and stode in feare of the chyldren of Israell. And Moab sayde vnto the elders of Madian: now what this company lycke vnto that are rounde aboute vs, as an ore lycketh vnto the grasse of the felde. And Balac the sonne of ziphor was kynge of the Moabites at that tyme.

He sente messengers therfore vnto Balac the sonne of Beor in Bethor (whych is by the ryuer of the land of the chyldren of his folke) to call hym, sayinge: beholde, there is a people come out of Egypte, and beholde, they couer the face of the earth, and dwell ouer agaynst me. Come nowe therfore, and curse thys people for my sake. For they are to myghte for me, yf so peradventure I myght be able to smyte them & to dryue them out of the lande. For I wote that he whome thou blestest, is blessed, and whome thou cursest, is cursed. And the elders of Moab and the elders of Madian departed, hauyng the rewarde of the southsayinge in theyr hande. And they came vnto Balaam, and tolde hym the wordes of Balac. He answered them: tary here this nyght, and I will brynge you worde, euen as the Lorde shall saye vnto me. And the Lordes of Moab abode wyth Balaam.

And God came vnto Balaam: and sayde, What men are these with thee? And Balaam sayde vnto God: Balac the sonne of ziphor, kynge of Moab hath sent vnto me, saying: behold, there is a people come out of Egypte and couereth the face of the earth: come nowe therfore, and curse them for my sake, yf so peradventure I maye be able to ouercome them in battell, and to dryue them oute. And God sayde vnto Balaam: Go not thou with them, neither curse the people, for they are blessed. And Balaam rose vp in the morninge, and sayde vnto the Lordes of Balac: get you vnto your lande: for the Lorde wyl not suffer me to go with you. And the lordes of Moab rose vp, and went vnto Balac and sayde: Balaam wolde not come with vs. And Balac sente agayne a greater company of Lordes and more honorable then they: whych came to Balaam, and tolde hym: Thus sayth Balac the sonne of ziphor: oh, lette nothyng let the, but come vnto me, for I will greatly promote the vnto greate honoure, and wyl doo what so euer thou sayest vnto

unto me, come I praye the, curse thys people for my sake. And Balaam answered and sayde vnto the seruantes of Balac: * If Balac wolde geue me his house full of silver and golde, I can not go beyonde the worde of the Lorde my god, to do lesse or more. Howe therfore sarpe ye here this nyght: that I maye wete, what the Lorde wyll saye vnto me more. And God came vnto Balaam by nyght, and sayde vnto hym: If the men come to call the, ryse vp and go with them, but loke what I saye vnto the, that shalte thou do. And Balaam rose vp early, and saddled hys asse, and went with the Lordes of Moab.

And the countenaunce of God was angry, because he wente. And the aungell of the Lorde stode in the waye agaynst hym, as he rode vpon his asse, and his two seruantes were with him. And when the asse sawe the aungell of the Lorde stande in the waye, and hauinge a sword drawen in his hande, the asse turned asyde oute of the waye, and went out into the felde. And Balaam smote the asse, to turne her into the waye.

But the aungell of the Lorde stode in a path betwene the bynepardes, and there was a wall on the one syde, and another on the other. And when the asse sawe the aungell of the Lorde, she wrenched vnto the wall, and thruste Balaams fote vnto the wall, and he smote her agayne. And the aungell of the Lorde went further and stode in a narrowe place, where was no waye to turne, eyther to the ryght hande or to the lyfte. And when the asse sawe the aungell of the Lorde she fell doونه vnder Balaam: & Balaam was wrooth, and smote the asse with a staffe. And the Lorde opened the mouth of the asse, and she sayde vnto Balaam: what haue I done vnto the, that thou haste smytten me nowe thre tymes? And Balaam sayde vnto the asse: because thou haste mocked me: I wolde also there were a swerde in myne hande, for euery nowe wolde I kylle the. And the asse sayde vnto Balaam: am not I thynne asse which thou hast rydden vpon sence I was borne vnto this daye? Was I euer wont to doo so vnto the? he sayde: naye.

And the Lorde opened the eyes of Balaam: and he sawe the aungell of the Lorde standynge in the waye, hauinge a swerde drawen in hys hande. He bowed hym selfe therfore, and fell flatte on hys face. And the aungell of the Lorde sayde vnto hym: Wherefore haste thou smytten thynne asse thre tymes? beholde, I cam out as an aduersarye, because thou makest thy waye contrary vnto me, and the asse sawe me, and wente backe from me thre tymes: or elles if she had not turned from me, I should haue slayne her in the waye. I had surely slayne the, and saved her a lyue.

Balaam sayde vnto the aungell of the Lorde: I haue synned: for I wyl not that thou stodest in the waye agaynst me. Howe therfore if it displease the I will turne home agayne. The aungell sayde vnto Balaam, go with the men: but what I saye vnto the, that shalte thou speake. And so Balaam went with the Lordes of Balac. And when Balac heard that Balaam was come, he wente out to mete hym vnto a Citie of Moab, which is in the border of Arnon, euen in the vtmost east. And Balac sayde vnto Balaam: byd I not send for the, to call the? And wherfore comest thou not vnto me, because I am not able to promote the vnto honour? And Balaam made answer vnto Balac: Lo, I am come vnto the. And can I now saye any thyng at all? The worde that God putteth in my mouth, that shall I speake. And Balaam wente with Balac, and they came vnto a citie of stretes.

And Balac offered oxen and shepe, and sente oxen (rewarden) for Balaam and for the Lordes that were with hym. And on the morow Balac toke Balaam, and brought hym vp into a hye place of Baal, that thence he myght see the vttermoost parte of the people.

The. xliii. Chapter.

Balaam blasphemeth the people.

And Balaam sayde vnto Balac: I buylde me here seuen altars, and prepare me here seuen oxen, and seuen rammes. And Balac byd as Balaam sayde. And Balac and Balaam offered on euery altar, one ore and a ram. And Balaam sayde vnto Balac: stande by the sacrifice, and I wyll go, yf happlye the Lorde wyll mete me: and what so euer he sheweth me, I wyll tell the, and he wente forth alone. But God met Balaam, & Balaam sayde vnto hym, I haue prepared seuen altars, and haue offered vpon euery altar, an ore and a ramme. And the Lorde put a saying in Balaams mouth, & sayde go agayne to Balac and saye on this wyse. And when he went agayne vnto hym, lo, he stode by his sacrifice, he and all the lordes of Moab.

And he toke vp his parable and sayde, * Balac the kynge of Moab hath fet me from Mesopotamia out of the mountaynes of the east (saying) come curse Iacob for my sake: come and despyse Israel. Howe shall I curse hym, whom God hath not cursed: or howe shall I despyse hym whom God hath not despyed? from the top of the rocks I se hym, and from the hylls I beholde hym: lo the people shall dwell by them selues, and shall not be rekened amonge the nacyns. Who can tel the dust of Iacob, and the number of the fourth parts of Israel? I praye God, that my soule maye dye the deathe of the ryghteous, and that my last ende maye be lyke his. And Balac sayde vnto Balaam: what hast thou done vnto me? I fet the to curse myne enemyes, & beholde, thou haste blessed them. He answered and sayde: must I not kepe that and speake it, whiche the Lorde hath put in my mouth? And Balac sayde vnto hym: come I praye the with me vnto an other place, whence thou mayst see them, and thou shalt see but the vtmost parte of theym, and shalt not see them all: curse them out of the place for my sake.

And he brought hym into a felde (where men myght see farre of) euen to the topp of an hyll, and buylt seuen altars, and offered an ore and a ram on euery altar. And he sayde vnto Balac stande here by the sacrifice, whyle I go yonder. And the Lorde met Balaam, and put a worde in his mouth, and sayde: go agayne vnto Balac: and lac, and sape thus. And when he came to hym: beholde, he stode by hys sacrifice, and the Lozdes of Moab wyth hym. And Balac sayde vnto hym: what hath the Lozde sayde?

And he toke vp hys parable and answered: ryle vp Balac and heare, and berken vnto me þ some of ziphor. * God is not a man þ he shulde lye, neyther the sonne of a man that he shulde repent: shulde he saye: & not do: or shulde he speake and not make it good: beholde I haue taken vpon me to blesse, for he hath blessed, and it is not in my power to alter it. he behelde no vanytie in Jacob, nor sawe trauayle in Israel. The Lozde his God is with him, and the presence of þ hyng is amonge them. * God brought them out of Egypte, he hath strength as an vncorne. There is no sorcery in Jacob, nor sothsayinge in Israel. It is nowe tolde vnto Jacob and Israel, what God hath wrought. Beholde, the people shall ryle vp as a lyoness, and heue vp hym selfe as a Lyon. he shall not lye done, vntill he eat of the praye, and drynke the blood of them that are slayne. And Balac sayde vnto Balaam: neyther curse them nor blesse them.

But Balaam answered and sayde vnto Balac: tolde not I the saying, all þ the Lozde speake, that I must do: And Balac sayd vnto Balaam: come I praye the, and I wyl byynge the yet vnto another place, þ peradventure it wyl please God, that thou mayste thence curse them for my sake. And Balac brought Balaam vnto the toppe of Beor, that boweth towarde þ wyl-dernes of Ielymmon. And Balaam sayd vnto Balac: make me here seuen aulters, and prepare me here seuen oxen, and seuen rammes. And Balac dyd as Balaam had sayde, and offred an ox and a ram on euery aultare.

¶ The. xliii. Chapter.

Balaam propheseth of the kyngdome of Israel and of the coming of Christ. Balac is angry with Balaam. The destruction of the Amalakites, and of the Kenites.

And when Balaam saw that it pleased the Lozde, that he shulde blesse Israel, he went not as he dyd twise before to set forth sayinge: but set hys face towarde the wyldernesse.

And Balaam lyfte vp his eyes, and looked vpon Israel, as he laye accordynge to his trybes, and the spiryte of God came vpon hym. * And he toke vp his parable and sayde. Balaam the son of Beor hath sayde, and the man whose eye is open hath sayde: he hath sayde, whyche heareth the wordes of God, and seyth the visyons of the almyghtye: and falleth downe with open eyes.

Howe goodly are thy tentes, O Jacob, and thyne habitacions, O Israel! Euen as the valleys are they layd abroad, and as gardens by þ ryuers syde: as the tentes which the Lozde hath pytched, and as cyppers trees besyde the waters. The water droppeth oute of hys boket, and hys sede shalbe many waters: and his kyng shalbe hyer then Agag. And his kyngdome shalbe exalted. * God brought hym out of Egypt: as the strength of an unicorne is he vnto hym. he shal eate the nacions his enemyes, and gnawe they:

bones, and pearce them throughte with hys arrowes. * he couched hym selfe, and layde downe as a Lyon, and as a lyones, who shal lere hym vp: blessed is he that blesseth the, and cursed is he that curseth þ. And Balac was wroth wyth Balaam, and smote his handes together: * Balac sayde vnto Balaam: I sente for the to curse myne enemyes, and beholde, þ hast blessed them this tyme. Therefore nowe get the quickly vnto thy place. I thoughte that I wolde promote the vnto honoure, but loo, the Lozde hath kepte the backe from worshipp.

Balaam answered vnto Balac: tolde I not thy messengers which thou sentest vnto me, sayinge: * If Balac wolde geue me hys house full of syluer and golde, I can not passe the worde of the Lozde, to do ether good or bad of myne owne mynde. But what the Lozde sayth: þ am I compelled to speake. And nowe beholde, I go vnto my people: come therfore, and I wyl aduertise þ what this people shal do to thy folke in the later dayes. And he toke vp his parable & sayde: Balaam the son of Beor hath sayde the man whose eye is open, hath sayde. he hath sayde that heareth the wordes of God, and hath þ knowledge of the most hygh, and beholdeth the visyon of þ Almyghtye, and that falleth with open eyes: I shal se hym, but not nowe. I shal beholde hym, but not nygh. * There shal come a starre of Jacob, and ryle a scepter of Israel, and shal smyte the costes of Moab and vndermyne all the chyl- dren of Seth. * And Edom shalbe possessed, and Seir shal fall to the possession of theyr enemyes and Israel shal do manfully.

Out of Jacob shal come he that shal haue domynon, and shal destroye the remnaunte of the Citie. And when he looked on Amelech, he toke vp his parable, and sayde: Amelech is the fyrste of the nacions * but hys latter ende shal perishe utterly. And he looked on the Kenites, & toke vp hys parable, and sayde: stronge is thy dwellynge place, and thou putttest thy neste in a rocke. Nevertheless, the Kenite shal be roted out, vntill Assur take the prysoner. And he toke vp his parable & sayd: Alas, who shal lye whe God doth this! The Assyres also shal come out of the coastes of Italy, & subdue Assur, and subdue Eber, and he hym selfe shal perishe at þ last. And Balaam rose vp, and wente and returned to his place: and Balac also went his waye.

¶ The. xlv. Chapter.

The people commyttech fornicacyon with the daughters of Moab. Whichees kylleth samri and Cozbi. God commaundeth to kyll the Moabianites.

And Israel dwelt in Sittim and the people beganne to commyt whoze- dome with the daughters of Moab which called the people vnto the sacrifice of theyr gods. * And the people dyd eate, and worshipped theyr goddes, and Israel coupled hym selfe vnto Baal Beor. And the indignacyon of the Lozde was prouoked agaynst Israel, and the Lozde sayde vnto Moses: take all the heades of the people, & hang them by before the Lozde agaynst þ sonne, that the

the wrath of the Lordes countenance maye be turned awaye frome Israel. And Moyses sayde vnto the Judges of Israel: every one slaye his men that were ioynd vnto Baal Deoz.

And beholde, one of the chyldren of Israel came and brought vnto his brethren a Midianitish wyfe in the syghte of Moyses, and in the syght of all the multitude of the chyldren of Israel, that kepte before the doore of the Tabernacle of witness. And when Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the Priest sawe it, he rose vp out of the myddes of the companye and toke a weapon in his hande, and went after the man of Israel into the tent, and thrust them thorow: both the man of Israel and also y^e woman, euen thorow the belly of her. And y^e plague ceassed from the chyldren of Israel. And there dyed in the plague. xlii. thousande.

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses, saying: Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, hath turned myne anger awaye fro the chyldren of Israel, whyle he was gelous for my sake amonge them that I had not consumed the chyldren of Israel in my gelousye. Wherefore I saye: beholde, I geue vnto hym my couenaunt of peace, and he shall haue it, and his seed after hym, euen the couenaunte of the Priestes offyce for euer: because he was gelouse for mys Goddes sake and made an attonemente for the chyldren of Israel. The name of the Israelyte, which was slayne with the Midianitish wyfe was zamri the son of Salu, a Lord of an house and kynred of Simeon. And the name of the Midianitish wyfe that was slayne, was Cozbi the daughter of zur, a heade ouer the people of an house and kynred of Midian.

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: These were the Midianytes, I saye them, for they trouble you with theyr wyfes, which haue begyled you by disceate in the cause of Deoz, and in y^e cause of theyr syster Cozbi y^e daughter of a lord of the Midianites, whiche was slayne in y^e daye of the plague for Deozs sake.

The xxvi. Chapter.

And it fortuned that after the plague the Lord spake vnto Moyses, & Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the priest sayinge: take the nombre of al the multitude of the chyldren of Israel from twenty yere and aboue thorow out theyr fathers houses, all that are able to goo to waire in Israel. And Moyses and Eleazar the priest spake vnto them in the felde of Moab, by Iordane ouer agaynst Jericho from twenty yere & aboue, as the Lord commaunded Moyses and y^e chyldren of Israel, when they were come out of Egypt. Ruben the eldest sonne of Israel. The chyldren of Ruben: Hanoch, of whome cometh the kynred of the Hanochites, & Salu of whome cometh the kynred of the Saluities. Of Heliron cometh the kynred of the Helironytes, of Carmi, cometh the kynred of the Carmities. These are the kynredes of the Rubenytes. And they were in nombre. xlii. thousande seuen hundred and thyrty. And the sonnes of Bala: Gadd and the sonnes of Chab: Gemel: Dathan and Abiram. Thys is that Dathan and Abiram, whiche were famous in the congregacion, and y^e stroue agaynst Moyses and Aaron in the companye of Cozab, when they stroue agaynst the Lord. And the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them vp: Cozab also was in y^e death of that multitude, what tyme y^e fyre consumed two hundred and fyfye men, and they became a sygne: Forwithstandynge, the chyldren of Cozab dyed not. And the chyldren of Simeon after theyr kynredes were Gemel, of whome cometh the kynred of the Gemelites: Jamin of whome cometh the kynred of the Jaminities: Jachin, of whome cometh the kynred of y^e Jachinites: of Zareb, cometh the kynred of the Zarebites. And of Saul, cometh the kynred of y^e Saulytes. These are the kynredes of Simeon: euen. xlii. thousande and two hundred.

The chyldren of Gad after theyr kynredes were Zephon, of whome cometh the kynred of the Zephonites: Haggi, of whome cometh the kynred of the Haggites: Sumi of whome cometh the kynred of the Sumites: Of Aleri, cometh the kynred of the Alerites: and of Eri, cometh the kynred of the Erites: Of Arod, cometh the kynred of the Arodites. Of Ariel, cometh the kynred of the Arielites. These are the kynredes of the chyldren of Gad accordyng to theyr nombres forty thousande and fyue hundred.

The chyldren of Iuda, Er and Onan: and Er and Onan dyed in the land of Canaan. But the chyldren of Iuda after theyr kynredes, were Sela, of whome cometh the kynred of the Selanites: Phares, of whome cometh the kynred of the Pharesytes, Zareb, of whome cometh the kynred of the Zarebites. And y^e chyldren of Phares were Helson, of whome cometh the kynred of the Helsonytes: Hamul, of whom cometh the kynred of the Hamulites. These are the kynredes of Iuda, after theyr nombres. lxvi. thousande and fyue hundred.

And vnto Aaron were bozne Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar & Ithamar. * And Nadab and Abihu dyed when they offered straunge fyre befoze the Lorde. And after they^r nombres, there were * thre and twentye thousand, all males from a moneth olde and aboue. For they were not nombzed amonge the chyldren of Israel, because there was no enherytaunce geuen the amonge y^e chyldren of Israel.

These are the nombres, when Moses and Eleazar the preaste nombzed the chyldren of Israel in the playne of Moab, fast by Jordan, ouer agaynst Jericho. And amonge these there was not a man of theym, whome Moses and Aaron nombzed, when they tolde the chyldren of Israel, in the wyldernesse of Synay. For the Lorde sayde of them: they shall dye in the wyldernesse, and there was not lefte a man of them: saue Caleb the son of Iephune, & Joshua the son of Nun.

The xxvi. Chapter.

The lawe of the heritage of the daughters of zelaphead The land of promys is shewed vnto Moses, in whose dead is appointed Joshua.

And the daughters of * zelaphead y^e sonne of Heber, the sonne of Gilead the sonne of Machir, the son of Manasse: of the kynred of Manasse the sonne of Joseph (whose names wer Habela, Noa, Hagla, Melcha, and Thirza) came, and stode befoze Moses, and Eleazar the preast, and befoze the Lordes, and all the multitude by the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, sayinge: our father dyed in the wyldernesse: and * was not in the compagne of them that gathered them selues together agaynst the Lord in y^e congregacyon of Corah. But dyed in his owne synne, and had no sonnes. Wherefoze then is the name of oure father taken awaye from amonge his kynred, because he hath no sonne?

* Geue vnto vs therfore a posselion amonge the brethren of our father. And Moses brought they^r cause befoze the Lord. And y^e Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: The daughters of zelaphead spake ryghte: thou shalt geue them a posselion to enheret amonge their fathers brethren and shalt carue the enherytaunce of they^r father vnto Exo. xlii. c.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: * get the vp into this mount Abarim, and beholde y^e land whiche I haue geuen vnto the chyldren of Israel. And when thou hast sene it, thou shalt be gathered vnto thy people also, as Aaron thy brother was gathered. For ye were disobediente vnto my mouth in the deserte of Syn, in y^e streyfe of the congregacyon. Neether dyd ye sanctifie me in the waters befoze they^e eyes. * That is the water of streyfe in Cadis in the wyldernesse of Syn. And Moyses spake vnto the Lorde, saying: let the Lorde God of the spyetes of al fleshe set a man ouer the congregacyon, whiche maye go out and in befoze them, and leade them out & in: that the congregacyon of the Lorde be not as shepe whiche haue not a shepe hearde.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: take Josua the sonne of Nun, in whom is the sprete, and put thyne handes vpon hym, and let hym befoze Eleazar the preast, and befoze all the congregacyon: and geue him a charge in their syght. And put of thy prayle vpon hym, that all the company of the chyldren of Israel maye be obedyente. And he shall stande befoze Eleazar the preast, whiche shall aske counsell for hym * after the iudgement of Urim befoze the Lorde. And accordyng vnto his worde shall they go out and in, both he and all the chyldren of Israel with hym and all the congregacyon. And Moyses did as the Lorde commaunded hym: and he toke Josua, and let hym befoze Eleazar the preast, and befoze all the congregacyon: * and put his handes vpon hym, and gaue hym a charge, as the Lorde commaunded thowowe the hande of Moyses.

The xxviii. Chapter.

What must be offered on euery feaste daye.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: Commaunde the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them: My offerynge and my breaude for my sacrifices whiche are made for a swete sauoure, shall ye obserue in they^e due season.

Exo. xxix. g

Num. xv. a

And thou shalt saye vnto them: * This is the offerynge whiche ye shall offer vnto the Lorde, two lambes of a yere olde without spot daye by day, for a continual burnt offering. One lambe shalt thou offer in the moornyng, and the other at euen. * And therto the tenth parte of an Ephah of flour for a meat offering mingled with beaten oyle cōtepyning the fourth parte of an hin. It is a dayly burnt offeringe lache as was ordeyned in the mounte Synai for a swete sauoure, a sacrifice vnto the Lorde. And let the drynke offe ryng of the same be the fourth part of an hin for one lambe, and in the holy place shalt thou commaunde the wyne to be powred vnto y^e Lorde.

And the other lambe thou shalt offer at euen after the maner of the meate offeringe, and the drynke offeringe of y^e moornyng: a sacrifice shalt thou offer for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And on the Sabbath daye two labes of a yere olde a pece, and without spot, & two tenth deales of flour for a meat offering mingled with oyle and the drynke offeringe thereto. The burnt offeringe of the Sabbath muste be done in the selfe Sabbath, besydes the dayly burnt offeringe, and his drynke offeringe. And in the begynnyng of your monethes, ye shall offer a burnt offeringe vnto the Lorde: two yonge bullocks, and a ram, and seuen lambes of a yere olde without spot: & thre tenth deales of flour for a meate offering mingled wth oyle for one bullocke, and two tenth deales of flour for a meate offeringe, mingled with oyle for one ram. And a tenth deale of flour mingled wth oyle for a meate offeringe vnto one lambe, for a burnt offeringe and a swete sauoure, and a sacrifice vnto the Lorde.

And they^e drynke offeringes shall be halfe an hin of wyne vnto one bullocke, and the thyrde parte of an hin of wyne vnto a ram, & the fourth parte of an hin vnto a lambe. This is the burnt offeringe of the moneth in his moneth, thowowout the monethes of the yere: and one hegoate for a syn offeringe vnto the Lorde shall be offered, after the dayly burnt offeringe and his drynke offeringe. * And the fourtenth daye of the fyfth moneth, is the passeouer of the Lorde. And in the fyfteenth daye of the same moneth is y^e feast, and seuen dayes longe shall vntenened breade be eaten. In the fyfthe daye shall be an holy conuocacyon, ye shall do no maner of seruile worke therein. But ye shall offer a sacrifice for a burnt offeringe vnto the Lorde, two yonge bullocks, one ram, and seuen lambes of a yere olde, without spot, and let they^e meat offering be of flour mingled wth oyle: thre tenth deales also shall ye offer for a bullocke, & two tenth deales for a ram: one tenth deale shalt thou offer for euery lambe of the seuen lambes: and an hegoate for synne to make an attonement for you.

Ye shall offer these, besyde the burnt offering in the moornyng, whiche is a continual burnt sacrifice. After this maner ye shall offer thowowout the seuen dayes: the fode of the sacrifice for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And it shall be done besyde the dayly burnt offeringe and hys drynke offeringe. And in the seuenth daye ye shall haue an holy conuocacyon, and ye shall do no seruile worke. Therfoze in the daye of youre fyfthe frutes, when ye bynge a newe meate offeringe vnto the Lorde (accordyng to your workes) ye shall haue an holy conuocacyon, and ye shall do no scruple worke in it: but offer a burnt offering for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde, two yonge bullocks, a ram, * and seuen lambes of a yere olde a pece, with they^e meat offeringes of flour mingled with oyle, thre tenth deales vnto a bullocke, two tenth deales to a ram, and one tenth deale deale vnto a lambe thowout the seven lambes, and an he gote to make an attonement for you. Thys ye shall do besydes the contynual burnt offeringe, and hys meate offeringe: and they shalbe vnto you wythoute spot, with theyr dypnke offeringes.

The. xxix. Chapter.

What must be offered the eighth day: & dayes of the seventh moneth.

And in the fyrste daye of the seventh moneth ye shal haue an holy conuocacyon: * ye shall do then no scruple worke. For it is a daye of blowyng vnto you. But ye shall offer a burnt offeringe for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde: one yonge bullocke, one ram, and seven lambes of a yere olde a pece that are pure. And theyr meate offeringe shal be made of floure myngled wyth oyle, thre tenth deales vnto the bullocke, and two vnto a ram: and one tenth deale vnto one lambe thowout the seven lambes. And an hegoate for synne to make an attonement for you, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe of the moneth, and hys meate offeringe, and besyde the dayly burnt offeringe and hys meate offeringe and the dypnke offeringes of the same, whiche must be done accordyng vnto the maner of them for a sauoure of swetnesse of the sacrifice of the Lorde. * And ye shal haue the tenth daye of that same seventh moneth an holy conuocacyon: and ye shal humble your soules, and shal do no maner worke therein. But ye shal offer a burnt offeringe vnto the Lorde for a swete sauour: one bullocke, a ramme, and seven lambes of a yere olde a pece, whiche shal be vnto you wythoute faute. Theyr meate offeringe shal be of floure myngled wyth oyle thre tenth deales to a bullocke, and two to a ramme, and a tenth deale vnto a lambe, thowout the seven lambes.

An hegoate for synne, besyde the synne offeringe of attonement and dayly burnt offeringe and the meate and dypnke offeringes that longe to the same. * And in the fyfteenth daye of the seventh moneth ye shal haue an holy conuocacyon, & do then no scruple worke, & ye shal kepe a feast vnto the Lorde seven dayes longe. And ye shal offer a burnt offeringe for a sacrifice of a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde thys tene bullockes, two rams, and fourtene lambes of a yere olde, whiche shalbe wythout blemyshe. And theyr meate offeringe shalbe of floure myngled wyth oyle thre tenth deales vnto every one of the thys tene bullockes, two tenth deales to ether of the rams, & one tenth deale vnto eache of fyfourtene lambes. And one gote for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe wyth his meate and dypnke offeringe.

And the seconde daye, ye shal offer twelue yonge bullockes, two rams, fourtene pearlyng lambes wythout spot: and let theyr meate offeringe and dypnke offeringes vnto the bullockes, rams, and lambes be accordyng to the nombze of them and after the maner. And an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe and hys meate and dypnke offeringes. And the thyrde daye ye shal offer eleuen bullockes two rams, & fourtene pearlyng lambes wythout spot: & let theyr meate and dypnke offeringes vnto the bullockes rams, and lambes be after the nombze of them & accordyng to the maner. And there shalbe offered an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe and hys meate and dypnke offeringe.

And in the fourth daye ye shal offer ten bullockes two rams, & fourtene lambes pearlynges and pure: let theyr meate and dypnke offeringes vnto the bullockes, rams, and lambes be accordyng to the nombze of them and after the maner. And an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe and hys meate and dypnke offeringe. In the fyfth daye ye shal offer nync bullockes, two rams, and fourtene lambes of one yere olde a pece without spot. And let theyr meate and dypnke offeringes vnto the bullockes, rams, and lambes be accordyng to the nombze of them, and after the maner. And an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringes and hys meate and dypnke offeringe.

And in the syxte daye, ye shal offer eyght bullockes, two rams, and fourtene pearlyng lambes wythout spot. And let theyr meate & dypnke offeringes vnto the bullockes, rams and lambes be accordyng to the nombze of them, and after the maner. And an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe, and hys meate and dypnke offeringes. In the seventh daye, ye shal offer seven bullockes, two rams and fourtene lambes that are pearlynges and pure. And let theyr meate and dypnke offeringes vnto the bullockes, rams & lambes be accordyng to theyr nombze, and after the maner. And an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe, and hys meate and dypnke offeringe. In the eyght daye, ye shal haue a collection of the feaste vnto you, and ye shal do no scruple worke therein. But ye shal offer a burnt offeringe, a sacrifice for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde: one bullocke, one ram and seven pearlyng lambes without spot. Let theyr meate & dypnke offeringes vnto the bullocke, ram and lambes be accordyng to the number, and accordyng to the maner. And an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe and hys meate and dypnke offeringes. These thynges ye shal do vnto the Lorde in your feastes: besyde your vowes and free wyl offeringes, in your burnt offeringes, meate offeringes, dypnke offeringes, and peace offeringes. And Moyses tolde the chyldre of Israel all that the Lorde commaunded hym.

The. xxx. Chapter.

Of vowes when they shalbe kepte, and when not.

And Moyses spake vnto the heades of the trybe of the chyldren of Israel sayinge: this is the thing whiche the Lorde hath commaunded. * If a man vow a vow vnto the Lorde, or sweare an othe to bynde hys soule: he shal not go backe wyth hys worde: but shal fulfill all that is proceeded out of hys mouth.

If a woman also vow a vow vnto the Lorde and bynde her selfe byng in her fathers house: in the tyme of her yowth, and her father hear her voyce and vowe which she hath made vpon her soule, and holde hys peace thereto: then all her vowes and bondes whiche she hath made vpon her soule, shall stande in effecte. But and yf her father forbyd her the same daye that he heareth it, none other vowes nor bondes which she hath made vpon her soule shall be of value: and the Lorde shall forgiue her, because her father forbade her. Yf she had an husbände when she vowed or pronounced ought out of her lippes, wherewith she bounde her soule, and her husband heard it and helde hys peace there at the same daye he hearde it, then her vowes and her bondes wherewith she bounde her soule shall stande in effecte. And yf her husbände forbade her the same daye that he heard it: and made her vowe whiche she hath vpon her of none effecte, and released the opening of her lippes, wherewith she bounde her soule, the Lorde shall forgiue her.

But euerye vowe of a toydowe, and of her that is deuorced (that they haue bounde theyr soule wythall) shall stande in effecte wyth them. If she vowed in her husbandes house, or bounde her soule wyth an othe, and her husbande heard it, and helde hys peace, and forbade her not, then all her vowes and bondes wherewith she bounde her soule, shall stande. But yf her husbande dysanulled them, the same daye that he heard them then nothyng that proceedeth oute of her lippes in vowes and bondes (wherewith she bounde her soule) shall stande in effecte: for her husbande hath loosed them. And the Lorde shall forgiue her. All vowes and othes that bynde to humble the soule, maye her husbande stablyshe or bryake. But yf her husbande holde hys peace frome one daye vnto another, then he stablysheth all the vowes and bondes whiche she had vpon her, because he held hys peace the same day that he hearde them. But yf he bryake them, after that he hath hearde them, he shall beare her synne hym selfe. These are the ordynances which the Lord commaunded Moses, betwene a man and his wyfe: and betwene the father and hys doughter, beyng yet a damsell in her fathers house.

The xxxi. Chapter.

The Mediantes and Balaam are slayne. The plage is equally deuyded. A present given of Israel.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: *auenge the chyldren of Israel of the Mediantes, and afterward shalt thou be gathered vnto thy people. And Moses spake vnto the folke, sayinge: Harnesse some of you vnto warre, and let them go vnto the Mediantes, and auenge the Lorde of the Madianites. Let there be chosen a thousand out of euery tribe of Israel, that out of all the trybes ye maye sende some to the warre. And there were taken out of the thousands of Israel, twelue thousande prepared vnto warre, of euery trybe a thousande.

And Moses sente them to the warre, euery thousande of euery trybe, and wyth them, Phineas the sonne of Eleazar the prest, and the holpe vesselles: and the *trompets to blowe were in his hande. And they warred against the Madianites, as the Lorde commaunded Moses, and slue all the males. And they slue the kynges of Madian amonge other that were slayne: namely, Eui and Rekem, zur and Hur and Reba five kynges of Madian wyth Balaam, the sonne of Beor, whom they slue wyth the swearde: And the chyldren of Israel toke all the wemen of Madian prisoners, and theyr chyldren, and spoyled all theyr cattel, and all theyr flockes, and all their goodes. And they burnt all theyr cyties wherin they dwelte, and all theyr castels wyth fyre.

And they toke all the spoyle and all that they coulde catche both of men and beastes. And they brought the captynes and that whiche they had taken and the spoyle vnto Moses and Eleazar the prest, and vnto the company of the chyldren of Israel, euen vnto the hoste that were in the felde of Moab by Jordā, ouer agaynst Jericho. And Moses and Eleazar the prest, and all the lordes of the congregacion went out of the host agaynst them. And Moses was angry wyth the officers of the hoste, wyth the captaines ouer thousandes and ouer hundredes, whiche came from the warre and battayle: and Moses sayde vnto them: haue ye saued all the wemen alpyue? beholde, these caused the chyldren of Israel to rowe the counsell of Balaam, to commyt treason agaynst the Lorde, in the busynesse of Beor, and there folowed a plage amonge the congregacion of the Lorde. Nowe therfore, *slaye al the men chyldren, and the wemen that haue lyen wyth men fleshly. But all the wemen chyldren that haue not lien with men, kepe a liue for your selues. And ye shall remayne wythout the hoste seven dayes, all that haue kyllid anye persone: *and all that haue touched any deade bodye, and purifye both your selues and your prisoners the thyrde daye and the seuenth. And sprayle all your raymentes and all that is made of skynnes and all worke of goates heare, and all thynges made of wood.

And Eleazar the prest sayde vnto the men of warre, whiche came from the battayle: this is the ordynance of the lawe whiche the Lorde commaunded Moses, golde, syluer, brasse, and yron, synne, and leade, and all that maye abyde the fyre, ye shall make it goo thowow the fyre, and it shall be cleane. Neuerthelesse, it shall be sprayled wyth spraylyng water. And all that suffereth not the fyre: ye shall make go thowow the water. And washe youre clothes the seuenth daye, and ye shall be cleane.

And afterwarde come into the host. And the Lorde

Forde spake vnto Moles, sayinge: take þe summe of the prape that was taken both of the women and of catel: thou and Eleazar the preste, and the auncient fathers of the congregacyon. And deuyde it into two partes betwene them that toke the warre vpon them, and went out to battayle and all the congregacyon. And take a porcyon vnto the Forde of the me of warre, which wente out to battayle: one soule of fyue hundred, both of the women, and of the oren, and of the asses, and of the shepe: and ye shall take it of theyr halfe and geue it vnto Eleazar the preste, as an heue-offerynge of the Forde.

And of the halfe of the chyldren of Israell, thou shalt take one porcyon of fyfty, of the women, of the oren, of the asses, and of þe shepe, and of all maner of beastes: and geue them vnto the Leuytes, whyche wayte vpon the habitacion of the Forde. And Moles and Eleazar the preste dyd as the Forde commaunded Moles. And the shepe, and the prape whyche the men of warre had caughte, was fyve hundred thousande, and lxxv. thousande shepe, and lxxii. thousande oren lxi. thousande asses: and xxxii. thousande soules of women, that had lye by no man. And the halfe whyche was the parte of them that wente out to warre was thre hundred thousande: and seven and threty thousande & fyue hundred shepe. And the Fordes part of the shepe was fyve hundred and lxxv. And the oren were xxxvi. thousande, of whyche the Fordes parte was lxxii.

And the asses were xxx. thousande and fyue hundred, of whyche the Fordes parte was lxi. And the soules of women were xvi. thousande, of whyche the Fordes parte was xxxii. soules. And Moles gaue that summe whyche was the Fordes heue-offerynge, vnto Eleazar the preste as the Forde commaunded Moles. And the other halfe of the chyldren of Israell whyche Moles seperated from the men of warre, (that is to wete the halfe that pertayned vnto the congregacyon) was thre hundred thousand, and xxxvii. thousande and fyue hundred shepe: and xxxvi. thousande oren: and xxx. thousande asses, and fyue hundred and xvi. thousande soules of women. And Moles toke of thys halfe that pertayned vnto the chyldren of Israell, one porcyon of fyfte, bothe of the women and of the cattell, and gaue them vnto the Leuytes, whyche wayted vpon the habitacyon of the Forde, as the Forde commaunded Moles. And the officers of thousandes of the hoste, the captaynes ouer the thousandes, and the captaynes ouer the hundredes came forth, and sayde vnto Moles: Thy seruantes haue taken the sum of the men of warre whych are vnder our authoryte, and there lacketh not one man of vs.

We haue therfore broughte a presente vnto the Forde what euery man founde of iewelles of golde, cheynes, bracelettes, rnynges, eare rnynges, and spangelles, to make an attonemente for oure soules before the Forde. And Moles and Eleazar toke the golde of them, iewelles of all manerfashyons. And all the golde of the heue-offerynge that they heued vp to the Forde, (of the captaynes ouer thousandes and hundredes) was syxtene thousande seven hundred and fyfty cycles, for the men of warre had spoyled, euery man for hym selfe. And Moles and Eleazar the preste, toke the golde of the captaynes ouer the thousandes, and of the captaynes ouer the hundredes, and broughte it in to the Tabernacle of wytnesse, for a memoiall of the chyldren of Israell before the Forde.

The xxxii. Chapter.

To Ruben and Gad and to halfe the trybe of Manasses, is promysed the possession beyonde Jordan. Eastwarde.

he chyldren of Ruben, and the chyldren of Gad had an exceeding great multitude of cattel. And when they sawe the lande of Jazer, and þe lande of Gilead, that it was an apte place for cattell, the chyldren of Ruben and the chyldren of Gad came and spake vnto Moles and Eleazar the preste, and vnto the Fordes of the congregacyon, sayinge: The lande of Astaroth and Dibon Jazer, and Remrah, Hesbon and Elealeh, Sabam and Bebo and Beon: whyche countrey the Forde smote before the congregacyon of Israell: is a lande mete for catell, and we thy seruantes haue catel: wherfore (sayd they) if we haue founde grace in thy syghte, let thys lande be geuen vnto thy seruantes to possesse, and bypunge vs not ouer Jordan.

And Moles sayde vnto the chyldren of Gad and of Ruben: Shall poure brethren go to warre and ye shall sytte here? Wherfore dyscourage ye the parte of the chyldren of Israell: if they shulde not go out into the lande, which the Forde hath geuen them? * Thus dyd poure fathers when I sente them from Cades Barne to see the lande. For when they wente vpon vnto the ryuer of Escoll, and sawe the lande: they dyscourage the hartes of the chyldren of Israell, that they shulde not goo into the lande, whyche the Forde hath geuen them.

And the Forde was wrothe the same tyme, and swaure, sayinge: * None of the men that came out of Egypte from twentye yere olde and above, shall see the lande whyche I swaure vnto Abraham, Isahac, and Jacob, because they haue not wholye folowed me: saue Caleb the sonne of Iephune the Kenelyte, and Josua the sonne of Nun: for they haue folowed the Forde. And the Forde was angrie wyth Israell, and made them wander in the wyldernesse forty yere, vntyll all the generacyon that had done euell in the syght of the Forde were consumed.

And beholde, ye are rysen vp in your fathers stede, as an encrease of synful men, to augment the fearce wrathe of the Forde, towarde Israell. For if ye turne away fro after hym, he wyll yet agayne leaue the people in the wyldernesse, and ye shall destroye all thys folke. And they wente nere hym and sayde: we wyll buylde shepe foldes here for our shepe and for our catell, & we wyll cityes for oure chyldren. But we oure selues wyl go ready armed before the chyldren of Israell, vntyll we haue broughte the vnto their place.

b.ii. And

And oure chyldren (and what so ever we maye haue) shall dwell in the fenced ctytes, because of the inhabytors of the lande. We wyll not retorne vnto our houses, vntyl the chyldren of Israel haue enhereted, euerye man hys enherptaunce. After that wyll we enheret with them on yonder syde Jordan forwarde, because oure enherptaunce is fallen to vs on this syde Jordan eastwarde.

And Moyses sayde vnto them: yf ye wyll do this thynge, and go harnessed befoze the Lorde to warre, and wyll go all of you in harnesse ouer Jordan befoze the Lorde, vntyll ye haue caste oute hys enemyes befoze hym: and vntyl þe lande be subdued befoze the Lorde, then ye shall retorne and be wythout synne befoze the Lorde, and befoze Israell: and this lande shall be your possession befoze the Lorde. But and yf ye wyll not do so, beholde: ye haue synned agaynst the Lorde: be sure your synne wyll fynde you out.

Nowe therfore, buylde ctytes for your chyldren, and foldes for your shepe, and doo that ye haue spoken. The chyldren of Gad and the chyldren of Ruben spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: thy seruantes wyll do as my Lorde commaundeth. Our chyldren, our wyues, our shepe, and our castell shall remayne here in the ctytes of Gilead, Josu. iiii. c But * thy seruantes wyll goo all harnessed to warre, and vnto battayle befoze the Lorde, as my Lorde sayeth. And for theyr sake Moyses commaunded Eleazar the p̄easte, and Josua the sonne of Nun, and the auncyente fathers of the trybes of the chyldren of Israell: & Moyses sayde vnto them: Yf the chyldren of Gad and the chyldren of Ruben wyll go wyth you ouer Jordan, all prepared to fight befoze the Lorde, then whē the lande is subdued befoze you, ye shall geue them the lande of Gilead to possesse: but and yf they wyll not go ouer with you in harnesse, they shall haue theyr possessions amonge you in the lande of Canaan.

And the chyldren of Gad and the chyldren of Ruben answered, sayinge: as the Lorde hath sayde vnto thy seruantes, so wyll we doo.

Josu. xiii. a * We wyll goo harnessed befoze the Lorde into the lande of Canaan: that the possession of oure enherptaunce maye be on this syde Jordan.

And Moyses gaue vnto the chyldren of Gad, and to the chyldren of Ruben, & vnto halfe the trybe of Manasse the sonne of Joseph, the kyngdome of Sehon kyng of the Amozites, and the kyngdome of Og: kyng of Basan, the lande wyth the ctytes therof in the costes and ctytes of the countrey rounde aboute. And the chyldren of Gad buylt Dibon, and Ataroth, and Aroer, and Atroth, Hophan, Jaaser, and Jegabea, Bethnimra, and Betharan, fenced ctytes, and they buylt foldes for the shepe.

And the chyldren of Ruben buylte Hesbon, Celale, Kiryataim, Nebo, Baall, Meon, and turned theyr names, and Sibama also: & gaue other names vnto the ctytes whiche they buylde. And the chyldren of Machir: the sonne of Manasse went to Gilead, & toke it and put oute the Amozites that dwelte therein. And Moyses gaue Gilead vnto Machir the sonne of Manasse, and he dwelt therein. And * Jachir the sonne of Manasse went & toke the small townes therof, and called them Manoth Jachir. And Robah went and toke Kenath, and the townes lōgyng therto and called it Robath, after hys owne name.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

The iourneys of Israel are nombred. They are commaunded to kyll the Cananites.

These are the iourneys of the chyldren of Israel, whych went out of þe land of Egypt wyth theyr armyes vnder the bande of Moyses and Aaron. And Moyses wrote theyr going out by theyr iourneys accordyng to the commaundement of the Lorde: euen these are the iourneys of theyr goinge out. They departed from Rameses the fyftene daye of the fyfthe moneth, on the morowe after * Pasche: and the chyldren of Israel went out with an hye bande in þe sight of all the Egyptians. For the Egyptians buryed all theyr fyfthe bozne, whiche the Lorde had smytten amonge them. And vpon theyr goddes also the Lorde dyd executyon.

And the chyldren of Israell remoued from Rameses, and pytched in Socoth. And they departed fro * Socoth, and pytched theyr tentes in Ethan, whiche is in the edge of the wylbernesse. And they remoued from Ethan, and turned agayne vnto * Bihroth whiche is befoze Baalzephon: and pytched befoze Migdoll. And they departed from the playne of Huroth: and * wente thozowe the myddes of the see into the wylbernesse, and went thre dayes iourney in the wylbernesse of Ethan, and pytched in Marah. And they remoued from Marah, and came vnto * Elim, where were twelue fountayns of water, and .lxx. palme trees, and they pytched there.

And they remoued from Elim, and laye fast by the red see. And they remoued from the red see, and laye in the * wylbernesse of Sin. And they toke theyr iourney out of the wylbernesse of Sin, and set vp theyr tentes in Daphka. And they departed from Daphka and laye in Alug. And they remoued from Alug, and laye at * Raphedim, where was no water for the people to drynke. And they departed from Raphedim, and pytched in the * wylbernesse of Sinai.

And they remoued from the deserte of Sinai, and pitched at the * graues of Iust. And they departed from the sepulchres of Iust, and laye at * Hazereth. And they departed from Hazereth, and pytched in Rithma. And departed from Rithma, and pytched at Rimon Parez. And they departed from Rimon Parez, and pytched in Libna. And they remoued from Libna, and pytched at Risa. And they iourneyed from Risa, and pytched at Rebelatha. And they wente from Rebelatha, and pytched in mounte Saphar. And they remoued from mounte Saphar, and laye in Harada. And they remoued from Harada, and pytched in Wakeheloth. And they remoued from Wakeheloth, and lay at Tabath. And they departed from Tabath, & pytched at Charath. And they remoued from Charath, & pytched in Mithca. And they went fro Mithca, and and pitched in Halmona. And they departed fro Halmona, & laye at Holeroth. And they departed from Holeroth and pitched at Bane Jakan. And they remoued from Bane Jakan, & laye at Hozgadgad. And they went from Hozgadgad & pitched in Jathbatha. And they remoued from Jathbatha, and lay at Abzona. And they departed from Abzona, and lay at Ezeon gaber. And they remoued from Ezeon gaber, and pitched in the wylderneſſe of Sin, whych is Cades.

And they remoued from Cades, and pitched in mount Hoz, whych is in the edge of the lande of Edom. * and Aaron the Preſte wente vp in to mounte Hoz at the commaundemente of the Lorde, and dyed there, euen in the fourtyeth yere after the chyldren of Iſrael were come out of the lande of Egypte, and in the fyrſt day of the fyrth moneth. And Aaron was an hundred and .xxiii. yere olde when he dyed in mount Hoz. And kynge Arad the Cananyte, whych dwelt in the ſouth of the lande of Canaan, hearde of the comynge of the chyldren of Iſrael.

And they departed from mounte * Hoz, and pitched in zalmona. And they departed from zalmona, and pitched in Bhumun. And they departed from Bhumun, and pitched in Oboth.

And they departed from Oboth, and pitched in Igehabarim, and towarde the border of Moab. And they departed from * Igitim, and pitched in Dibon Gad. And they remoued from Dibon Gad, and laye in Almon Diblatthaim.

And they remoued from Almon Diblatthaim, and pitched in the mountaynes of Abarim befoze Raho. And they departed from the mountaynes of Abarim, and pitched in the feldeſ of Moab, faſte by Iordane: ouer a gapynſte Jericho. And they pitched by Iordan, frome Beth Haleſmoth * vnto the playne of Sittim in the feldeſ of Moab.

And the Lorde ſpake vnto Moſes in the feldeſ of Moab, by Iordan ouer agaynſte Jericho ſaying: ſpeape vnto the chyldren of Iſrael, and ſaye vnto them: * when ye are come ouer Iordan to entre into the lande of Canaan, ye ſhall dyue out all the inhabyters of the lande befoze you, and deſtrope all theyr pyctures, and breake a ſunder all theyr ymages of metall, and plucke downe all theyr aultars. And poſſeſſe the lande and dwel therein, for I haue geuen you the lande to enioye it. And ye ſhall deuyde the enherytaunce of the lande by lot amonge youre kynredes, * and geue to many, the moze enherytaunce and to the fewe the leſſe enherytaunce. And youre enherytaunce ſhalbe in the trybes of your fathers, euerye mans enherytaunce in the place where hys lot falleth. * But and yf ye wyl not dyue out the inhabyters of the land befoze you, then thoſe whych ye let remayne of them, ſhall be pyckes in youre eyes, and darter in youre ſydes, and ſhall bere you in the lande wherein ye dwell. Moreover, it wyl come to paſſe, that I ſhall do vnto you, as I thought to do vnto the.

The .xxiii. Chapter.

The cooſtes and borders of the lande of promiſſe. Ceuſtayne men are aſſigned to deuyde the lande.

And the Lorde ſpake vnto Moſes, ſaying: commaunde the chyldren of Iſrael, and ſaye vnto them, when ye come into the lande of Canaan, thys is the lande that ſhall fal vnto youre enherytaunce, the lande of Canaan wpth her coaſtes. * And your ſouthquarter ſhalbe fro the wylderneſſe of Sin: a longe by the coaſte of Edom, ſo that youre ſouthquarter reache vpon the ſyde of the ſalte ſee eaſtwarde: and ſet a compaſſe from the ſouthe vp to Acrabim: and reache to zinna. And go out from the ſouthe to Cades Barne, and go out alſo to Hazar Adar, and goo alonge to Azmon, and ſet a compaſſe agayn fro Azmon vnto the ryuer of Egypte, and ſhall goo oute at the ſee.

And let youre weſtquarter be the greate ſee. let the ſame ſee be your weſtcoſte. And thys ſhal be your nozthquarter: ye ſhal compaſſe your bozder from the greate ſee vnto mounte Hoz. And from mount Hoz, ye ſhall deſcrybe your bozder, tyll it come vnto Hemath, & the ende of the coſte ſhalbe at zebada, and the cooſt ſhal reache out to ziphron, and goo oute at Hazar Enan. Thys ſhal be youre nozthquarter.

And ye ſhal compaſſe your eaſtquarter from Hazerenan to Sephan. And the coaſte ſhall go downe from Sephan to Ribla on the eaſte ſyde of Ain. And the ſame bozder ſhall deſcende and goo out at the ſyde of the ſee of Cenereth eaſtwarde. And then go downe alonge by Iordan, and leaue at the ſalte ſee. And thys ſhalbe youre lande wth the coſtes therof rounde about.

And Moſes commaunded the chyldren of Iſrael, ſaying: thys is the lande whiche ye ſhal enherit by lot, and whych the Lorde commaunded to gyue vnto myne tribes and an halfe: * for the trybe of the chyldren of Ruben, accordyng to the houſholdes of their fathers, and the trybe of the chyldren of Gad, accordyng to theyr fathers houſholdes, and halfe the trybe of Manaſſe, haue receyued theyr enheritaunce: two tribes & an half haue receyued theyr enheritaunce on the other ſyde of Iordan, ouer agaynſt Jericho eaſtward. And the Lorde ſpake to Moſes, ſaying: theſe are the names of the men whiche ſhall deuide the land vnto you: Eleazar the preſte, & Joſua the ſonne of Nun. And ye ſhall take alſo a lorde of euerye trybe when ye deuyde the lande.

The names of the men are theſe: Of the tribe of Juda, Caleb the ſonne of Iephune. Of the trybe of the chyldren of Simeon, Semuel the ſonne of Amiad. Of the trybe of Ben Jamin, Elidad: the ſonne of Cillon. Of the trybe of the chyldren of Dan, the lorde Bucki, the ſonne of Jagli.

From amonge the chyldren of Joſeph for the tribe of the chyldren of Manaſſe, the lorde Haniel, the ſonne of Ephod. Of the trybe of the chyldren of Eſſaym, the lorde Camuel, the ſonne of Siphthan. Of the trybe of the ſonnes of Zabul6, the lorde Elizaſhan: the ſonne of Barnache. Of the trybe of the chyldren of Iaſſachar, the lorde Baltiel: the ſonne of Alan. Of the trybe of the ſonnes of Aſer, the lorde Abihud the ſonne of Salomi.

h. iiii. Of the

Of the trybe of the chyldren of Repehall, the lord Bedael, the sonne of Ammihud. These are they whome the Lord commaunded to deuyde the enheritaunce vnto the chyldren of Israel in the lande of Canaan.

The xxxv. Chapter.

¶ Vnto the Leuites are gyuen cyties and suburbs. The cyties of refuge. The lawe of manquelling. For one mannes wytnesse shall no man be condemned.

Isol. xli. a

And the Lord spake vnto Moses in the feldeg of Moab by Jorda, ouer agaynst Jericho, saying: comaund the chyldren of Israel, & they gyue vnto the Leuites of þ enheritaunce of theyr possessyon, * cytyes to dwell in. And ye shall gyue also vnto the cytyes of the Leuites, suburbs harde by theyr cytyes rounde aboute them. The cyties shal they haue to dwell in, and the suburbs for theyr cattell, and for theyr possessyon and all maner of beastes of theyrs. And the suburbs of the cyties whiche ye shall gyue vnto the Leuites, shall reache from the wall of the citie outwarde, a thousande cubites rounde about. And ye shall measure wythout the cytye of the east syde, two thousande cubytes. And of the south syde, two thousande cubytes. And of the west syde two thousand cubites. And of the north syde two thousande cubytes also: and the citie shalbe in the myddes. And these shalbe the suburbs of theyr cytyes.

Isol. xli. a

B And from amonge the cyties which ye shall gyue vnto the Leuites, * there shall be syxe cyties for refuge, whych ye shall appoynt to that entent, that he whych killeth, may fflye thither. And to them ye shal adde. xlii. cities mo: so that all the cyties whych ye shal gyue the Leuites, may be. xl viii. wyth theyr suburbs. And the cyties whiche ye shal gyue, shalbe out of the possessyon of the chyldre of Israel. They that haue many, shall gyue many. But of them that haue fewe, ye shall take fewe. Eury one shal gyue of hys cytyes vnto the Leuites, accordyng to the enheritaunce whych he enheriteth. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and say vnto them: * whe ye be come ouer Jordane into the lande of Canaan, ye shall appoynte you cyties to be cytyes of refuge, for you: that he whych sleeth a soule vnwares, maye fflye thither. And the cytie shal be to fflye from the auenger of bloode, that he whych killeth, dye not, vntyll he stande before the congregation in iudgement.

Exod. xxi. b
Deu. xix. a
Isol. xli. a

C And of these syxe free cytyes whych ye shall gyue, ye shal gyue thre on this syde Jorden, and thre in the lande of Canaan. And these syxe free cytyes shalbe a refuge bothe for the chyldren of Israel, and for the straunger, and for hym that dwelleth amonge you, that all they whych kyll any personne vnwares, maye fflye thither.

Exo. xxi. b

* And yf any man smyte an other w an instrument of yron that he dye, then is he a murderer, and shal dye for it. Yf he smyte hym with a throwyng stone that a man may dye with, and yf he dye, he that smote hym is a murderer, let the same murderer be slayne therfore. Or yf he smyte hym wyth a handeweapon of wood that a man dye wyth: then yf he dye, he is a murderer, let the murderer be slayne therfore.

The Justyce of blood shall slaye the murderer: when he meteth hym, he may slay him. But yf he thrust at hym * of hate, or hurle at hym a laynge of wayte, that he dye, or smyte hym w hys hande of enuye, that he dye, he that smote hym shal dye, for he is a murderer. The Justyce of blood shall slepe the murderer as soone as he fyndeth hym.

But and yf he pushed hym by chaunce, and not of hate, or cast at hym wyth anye maner of thyng, and not of laynge of wayte: or cast any maner of stone at hym (that a man may dye with) and save hym not. And he caste it vpon hym and he dye, and was not his encmye, neyther sought hym anye harme. Then the congregation shal iudge betwene the sleper and the executer of bloode in suche cases. And the congregation shal deliuer the sleper out of the hande of the auenger of bloode, and the congregation shal restore hym agayne vnto the cytye of hys refuge, whycher he was fled.

And he shal byde there vnto the deathe of the hye preist, whych was anoynted with holy oyle. But and yf the sleper come wythoute the borders of hys priuileged cytie whycher he was fledde, yf the auenger of bloode fynde hym without the borders of his free towne, and slepe the murderer, he shal be gylelesse, because he shulde haue bydden in his free towne, vntyll the death of the hye preist, and after the death of þ hye preist: to retorne agayne vnto the lande of hys possessyon.

These Commaundementes shal be a lawe vnto you, for youre generacions in all youre dwellynge. Whoso euer killeth a soule, the same manslayer muste be slayne hym selfe, thorowe * wytnesses. Neyther shal one wytnesse aunswere to put a man to deathe. Moreouer ye shal take none amendes for the lyfe of the murderer, whych is worthe to dye: But he shal be put to death.

Also ye shall take no monye of hym that is fledde to a free cytye, that he shoulde come agayne, and dwell in the lande, before the death of the hye preiste. And se that ye pollute not the lande whych ye shal dwell in: for bloode defyleth the lande. And the lande can none otherwyle be clenfed of the blood that is shedde therein, but by the blood of hym that shedde bloode. Defyle not therfore the lande whych ye shal inhabit, for I am in the myddes therof: Euen I the Lord dwell amonge the chyldren of Israel.

The fyrst Chapter.

A bryefe reherfall of thynges done before.

These be þe wordes which Moses spake vnto all Israel, on þe other syde Jordan in the wyl-dernesse: in the playne ouer a-gaynst þe red see, betwene Pharam and Chophel, Laban, Ha-zerot, & Disabab, eleuen dayes iourney fro Hozeb vnto Tades barne, by mount Seir. And it fortuned the fyrste daye of the ele-uenth moneth in the .xl. yere þe Moses spake vnto the chyldren of Israel accordyng vnto al that the Lorde had gyuen him in comaundement vnto them, after that he had syncten * Sithon the kyng of the Amozites which dwelt in hesoon, and Og kyng of Basan, which dwelt at Asta-roth in Edrai. On the other syde Jordan in the lande of Moab beganne Moses to declare thys lawe, saying: the Lorde our God spake vnto vs in Hozeb, sayinge: ye haue dwelt longe ynough in this mount, departe therfore and take poure iourney, and go vnto the hyll of the Amozites, and vnto all places nye therunto: both vnto the playne and hylls and dales: to the south, to the lees syde, to the lande of Canaan, and vnto Libanon: euen vnto the great ryuer Euphrates.

Beholde, I haue set that lande before you: B go in and * possesse the lande whiche the Lorde swore vnto your fathers Abrahā, Isahac, and Jacob, to gyue vnto them and theyr seed after them. And I spake vnto you the same season, sayinge: I am not able to beare you my selfe alone. For the Lorde your God hath multiplyed you: and beholde, ye are this daye as the starres of heuen in nombze (the Lorde God of your fathers make you a thousand tymes so many mo as ye ar, & blesse you, as he hath promysed you) how can * I my self alone beare the cūbzance, charge and tryfe that is amonge you: bypunge (from amonge you) men of wylsom and of vnderstandyng, and experte, accordyng to poure trybes, and I wyl make them rulers ouer you.

And ye answered me and sayde: that whych thou hast spoken is good for vs to do. And so out of your trybes I toke the captaynes, (men of wylsome: and that were experte) and made them rulers ouer you, captaynes ouer thousandes, and

and sayde: * The Lorde comaunded my lorde to gyue the lande to enheryte by lot to the chyldren of Israel. And my lorde comaunded in Gods behalfe, to gyue the enheritaunce of * ze-laphead our byother vnto hys doughters. Whō yf any of the sonnes of the other tribes of Israel take to wyues, then shall theyr enheritaunce be taken from the enheritaunce of our fathers, and shall be put vnto the enheritaunce of the trybe whych they are receyued into: and shall be taken from the lotte of our enheritaunce. And when the yere of Jubelye of the chyldren of Israel cometh, then shall theyr enheritaunce be put vnto the enheritaunce of the trybe wherein to they are receyued: and so shall theyr enheritaunce be taken awaye from the enheritaunce of the trybe of our fathers.

And Moses comaunded the chyldren of Israel, accordyng to the worde of the Lorde, saying: the chyldren of the trybe of Joseph haue sayde well. This therfore doth the Lorde commaunde the doughters of zelaphead, sayinge:
* let them be wyues, to whome they them selfe thynke best, onelye to the kynrede and trybe of theyr father shall they mary, so shall not the en-heritaunce of the chyldren of Israel remoue fro trybe to trybe, when the chyldren of Israel a-byde euery man in the enheritaunce of the trybe of hys fathers.

And euery doughter that posseseth anye en-heritaunce in any trybe of the chyldren of Israel, shall be wyfe vnto one whych is of the kynred of the trybe of her father, that the chyldren of Israel maye enioye euerye man the enheritaunce of hys father. Neyther ought the enhe-ritaunce to goo from one trybe to an other: but euery one of the trybes of the chyldren of Israel must abyde in hys owne enheritaunce.

And as the Lorde comaunded Moses: euen so dydde the doughters of zelaphead. And Mabelā, Chirza, Hagla, Milcha, & Noa were maryed vnto theyr fathers byothers sonnes, whych were of the kynredde of the chyldren of Manasses: the sonne of Joseph, and so theyr en-heritaunce remayned in the trybe of the kynred of theyr father.

These are the comaundementes and lawes whych the Lorde comaunded by the hande of Moses, vnto the chyldren of Israel in the felde of Moab: by Jordane ouer a-gaynst Jericho.

And when we departed from Horeb, we wente thowowe all that greate and terrible wildernesse, as ye haue sene alonge by the way of the hyll of the Amozites, as the Lord our God commaunded vs, and came to Cades barne.

D And I sayde vnto you: Ye are come vnto the hyll of the Amozites, which the Lord our God wyl gyue vnto vs. Beholde, the Lord thy God hath set the lande before the: go vp and conquer it, as the Lord God of thy fathers hath sayde vnto the: *feare not, neither be discoraged. But ye came vnto me euery one and sayde: we wyl sende men before vs, to searche vs out the lande and to bypunge vs worde agayne, what way we must go vp by, and vnto what cytyes we shall come. And the sayinge pleased me well, and I toke twelue men of you, of euery trybe one.

Deut. xx. a. Num. xiii. a. Which departed, and went vp into the hye countrey, and came vnto the ryuer Escol, & searched it out, and toke of the frute of the lande: (to declare the plentifulnesse thereof) in theyr handes, and brought it vnto vs, and brought vs worde agayne, and sayde: it is a good lande, whiche the Lord our God doeth gyue vs.

E Notwithstanding, ye wolde not consent to go vp, but were disobedient vnto the mouth of the Lord your God, and murmured in your tentes, and sayd: bycause the Lord hated vs, therefore hath he brought vs oute of the lande of Egypte, to deliuer vs into the hande of the Amozites, and to destroye vs. How shall we go vp? Our brethren haue discoraged our hertes, sayinge: *the people is greater and taller then we, and haue cyties great and walled, euen vnto heauen, and mozeouer we haue sene the sommes of the Enakims there. And I sayde vnto you: drede not, nor be afrayd of the. The Lord your God whiche goeth before you, he shall fyght for you, accordynge to all that he dyd vnto you in Egypt before your eyes. In the wildernesse also thou hast sene howe that the Lord thy God bare the, euen as a man doeth beare his sonne in all the waye whiche ye haue gone by, vntill ye came vnto this place. And yet in this thyng ye dyd not beleue the Lord your God. He went in the waye before you, to searche you out a place to pitche your tentes in, *in fyre by nyght, & by daye he shewed you what way to go, & in a cloude by daye.

Exod. xvi. d. Num. xxiij. d. and. xvi. g. And the Lord hearde the voyce of your wordes, and was wroth, and swaie, sayinge: *there shall not one of these me and of this forward generation, se that good lande whiche I swaie to gyue vnto youre fathers, saue Caleb the son of Iephune, he shall see it, *and to hym wyll I gyue the lande that he hath troden vpon, and to hym chyliden, bycause he hath folowed the Lord.

(wonderfull was the indignacion agaynst the people, saying, &c.) *The Lord was angry with me, lyke wise for your sakes, sayinge: thou shalt not go in thither. But Josua the sonne of Nun whiche standeth before the, shall go in thither. Golden him therefore, for he shall cause Israel to inheret the lande. *Mozeouer, your chyliden which ye said shulde be a pray, and your sonnes which in that day had no knowledge betwene good and euyl, they shall go in thither, and vnto them wyll I gyue it, and they shall enioye it. But as for you: turne your faces, and take your iourneye into the wildernesse: euen by the waye of the red see. Then ye answered & sayde vnto me: *We haue synned agaynst the Lord: we wyll go vp, and fyghte, accordynge to all that the Lord our God commaunded vs.

And when ye had gyde on euery man bys weapons of warre, beholde, ye were redy to go vp into the hyll. And the Lord sayde vnto me: saye vnto them that they go not vp, & that they fyght not, for I am not amonge you: lest ye fall before your enemyes. I tolde you therefore, and ye wolde not heare, but disobeyed the mouth of the Lord, and went presumptuously vp into the hyll. And the Amozites which dwelt in that hyll came out agaynst you, and chased you (as bees vse to do) and smot you in Seir, euen vnto Horema. And ye came agayne, and wepte before the Lord: but the Lord wolde not heare your voyce, nor gyue you audience. *And so ye abode in Cades a longe season, accordynge vnto the tyme ye remayned in other places.

The. ii. Chapter.

I He we *turned our face, and toke our iourney into the wildernesse, euen by the waye of the redde see, as the Lord spake vnto me. And we compassed mount Seir a longe tyme. And the Lord spake vnto me, sayinge: Ye haue compassed this mountayne longe ynough, turne you northwarde. And warne thou the people, sayinge: ye shall go thowowe the coast of your brethren the chyliden of Esau which dwell in Seir, and they shall be afrayde of you: Take ye good heed vnto your selues therefore. Ye shall not prouoke them, for I wyl not gyue you of theyr land, no not so moch as a fote bredth, *bycause I haue gyuen mount Seir vnto Esau to possesse, ye shall bye meat of them for money to eate, and ye shall procure water of them for money to drynke. For the Lord thy God hath blessed the in all thy workes of thy hande. He knewe thy entrynge into this great wildernesse this fourtye yeres, and the Lord thy God hath be with the, so that thou hast lacked nothyng. And when we were departed from our brethren the chyliden of Esau which dwell in Seir, the playne way from Elath, and from Ezion Gaber, we turned and went by the way of the wildernes of Moab. And the Lord sayd vnto unto me: * Thou shalt not fyght agaynst the Moabites, neyther prouoke them to batell, for I wyl not geue the of thes lande to possesse, because I haue geuen Ar vnto þ children of Loth to possesse. The terrible people the * Emims dwelt therein in tymes past, a people great, many and tall, as the Enakims whiche also were taken for gyautes as the Enakims: whom the Moabites call Emims. The Horims dwelt in Seir before tyme, whose possession the chyl- dren of Esau occupied, and destroyed them be- fore them, and dwelt in thes steade: as Israel dyde vnto the lande of hys possession, whiche the Lorde gaue them.

C Nowe tyme vp (sayde I) and get you ouer the ryuer zared: and we went ouer the ryuer zared. The space in which we came from Eades barne vntyll we were come ouer the ryuer zared was: xxxviij. yeres, vntyll all the generacyon of the men of warre were wasted out from among the hoste, as the Lorde swaue vnto them. * For in dede the hande of the Lorde was agaynst them, to destroy them from among the hoste, tyl they were consumed. And so it came to passe, that all the men of war were consumed and deade from amonge the people. And the Lorde spake vnto me, saying: Thou shalt go thorowe Ar the cost of Moab this daye: and when thou comest nye vnto the children of Ammon, thou shalt not lay sege vnto them, nor moue warre agaynst them.

D For I wyl not geue the of the lande of the chyl- dren of Ammon a possession: but I haue ge- uen it vnto the chyl- dren of Loth to possesse. That also is taken for a lande of gyautes, and gyautes dwelt therein in olde tyme whom the Ammonites call zanzumims. * A people that was great, many and tall, as the Enakims. But the Lorde destroyed them before them, and they succeeded them in the inheritaunce & dwelt in thes steade: as he dyd for þ chyl- dren of Esau * which dwelt in Seir, when he destroyed þ Ho- rims before them: they conquered thes posses- syon, and dwelt in thes steade vnto this daye. And the Anims which dwelt in Hazarim euen vnto Aza, the Capthozims which came out of Capthoz destroyed them & dwelt in their stead

E Ryle vp therfore, and take your iourney ou- er the ryuer Arnon. Beholde, * I haue geuen into thy hande Sehon þ Amorite kyng of Hes- bon, and his lande. Go to therfore and conquer, and prouoke hym to batell. This daye wyl I begynne to send the feare and drede of the, vpon all nacyns that are vnder all the heuen: so that they whiche here speake of the shal tremble and quake before þ. And so I sent messengers out of the wyl- derness of Iredemoth vnto Sehon kyng of Hesbon, wyth wordes of peace, sayinge: * I wyl go thorowe thy lande I wyl go a longe by the hys waye: I wyl neyther turne vnto þ right hande nor to the left. Thou shalt sell me meate for money for to eat, and geue me water for mo- ney for to drynke: Only graunt me, that I may go thorow on my fote (as the chyl- dren of Esau whiche dwelt in Seir, and the Moabites which dwelt in Ar, dyd vnto me) vntyll I be come ouer Jordane, into the lande whiche the Lorde oure God geueth vs. But Sehon the kyng of Hes- bon wolde not let vs passe by hym, for the Lorde thy God hardened his spere, and made his bert- toughe, because he wolde deliuer hym into thy hande, as it is come to passe this daye.

And the Lorde sayde vnto me: beholde, I haue begonne to set Sehon and his land before the: go to and conquer, and possesse hys lande. * Then both Sehon and al his people came out agaynst vs to fyght at Jaza. And the Lorde set hym before vs, and we smote hym, and his sons, and all hys people. And we toke all hys cyties, the same ceason and slewe the men, women, and chyl- dren of al the cities, & let nothing remayne, saue the catell only we caught vnto our selues, and the spoyle of the cities which we toke from Aror which is by the bynke of the ryuer of Ar non, and from the cite that is in the ryuer, vnto Gilead: there was not one cite to strong for vs. The Lorde our God deliuered all vnto vs: on- ly vnto the land of the chyl- dren of Ammon thou camst not, nor vnto euer place of the ryuer Ja- bok, nor vnto the cities in the mountaynes, nor vnto whatsoeuer the Lorde oure God forbad vs.

The iij. Chapter.

C Thynges þ chaunged from the bycropp of the two kyn- ges Sehon and Og vnto the iustitucion of Israel in Mo- ses steade.

Then we turned & went by the way to Ba- san. * And Og the kyng of Ba- san came out agaynst vs, he and all his people to battel at Edrai. And þ Lorde sayd vnto me: feare hym not, for I wyl deliuer hym, and all hys people, and his lande into thy hande, and thou shalt do vnto hym, as thou dydest vnto Sehon kyng of the Amozites, whiche dwelt at Hesbon. And so the Lorde our God deliuered into our handes, Og also the kyng of Ba- san and all his folke. And we smote hym, vntyll none was lefte hym alpye. And he toke all his cyties the same ceason (ney- ther was there a cite which we toke not from them) euen the score cyties thorowe out all the regyon of Argob, the kyngdome of Og in Ba- san. All these cities also were made stronge w- hys walles, gates and barres, besyde vnwalled townes a gret meany. And we utterly destroy- ed them, as we dyd vnto Sehon kyng of Hes- bon, bynngynge to noughte all the cyties, wyth men, women, and chyl- dren. But all the catell and the spoyle of þ cyties, we caught for our selues

And thus we toke the same ceason, out of the hande of two kynges of the Amozites, the lande that was on the other syde Jordan from the ri- uer of Arnon vnto mount Hermon (which Her- mon the Sidons call Sirion, and the Amozites call it Senir) all the cyties that laye in þ playne and all Gilead and all Ba- san vnto Salecha & Edrai, cyties of the kyngdom of Og in Ba- san. For onely Og kyng of Ba- san remayned of the remnaunte of þ gyautes, whose bed was a bed of yron. And is it not yet at Rabah amonge the chyl- dren of Ammon: ix. cubytes dothe þ length ther of contere, and foure cubites the bredth of þ v it, after it after the cnyte of a mā. And so we conquered this lande the same tyme, from Aror whych is by the ryuer of Arnon, vnto halfe mount Gilead; * and the cityes therof gaue I vnto the Rubenites and Gaddites. And the rest of Gilead, and all Basan of the kyngdome of Og, gaue I vnto the halfe tpybe of Manasse: euen all the regyon of Argob with all Basan: which is called the lande of giauntes. Jair the sonne of Manasse toke all the regyon of Argob, vnto the costes of Sesuri and Maachati, and called them after his owne name: Basan hauoth Jair vnto this daye. And I gaue Gilead vnto Machir.

C And vnto the Rubenites & Gaddites I gaue halfe Gilead vnto the ryuer of Arnon, halfe the valey and beyond, euen vnto the ryuer Iabock, whyche is the bozder of the chyldren of Ammō: the playne also * (of the wyldernes) and Jordan & the cost therof, from Ceneroth euen vnto the see whyche is in the playne, euen the salt see vnder the spyrnges of the byll, eastwarde. * And I commaunded you the same tyme sayinge: the Lorde your God hath geuen you this lande to enioye it: ye shal go harnessed before your bzethern the chyldren of Israel al that are mete for the war. Your wyues onely, your chyldren, and your cattell (for I wote that ye haue much cattell) shal abyde in your cityes, whyche I haue geuen you, vntyll the Lorde haue geuen rest vnto your bzethern as well as vnto you, and vntyll they also haue conquered the lande, which the Lorde your God hath geuen them beyonde Jordan: and then shal ye retourne agayne, euery man vnto his posselion whyche I haue geuen you.

An. xxxij. d

D * And I warned Josua the same tyme, sayinge: thyne eyes haue sene al that the Lorde your God hath done vnto these two kynges, euen so shal he do vnto all kyngdoms whyther thou goest. Ye shal not feare them: for the Lorde your God, he shal fyght for you. And I besought the Lorde the same tyme, sayinge: O Lorde God, I haue begonne to shewe thy seruauent thy greatnesse and thy myghty hande, for elles where is there a God in heuen or in earth, that can do after thy workes, and after thy power: let me go ouer and se the good lande that is beyonde Jordan that goodly mountayne, and Libanon.

The. iij. Chapter.

An exhortacion to geue dyligent hede vnto the lawe. Images may not be made to worship. The thre cityes of refuge.

A And nowe herken O Israel vnto the ordinaunces and lawes whyche I teache you for to do them, that so ye maye lyue and go in and conquer the lande, whyche the Lorde God of your fathers geueth you. * Ye shall put no thynge vnto the worde whyche I commaunded you, neyther do ought therefrom, that ye maye kepe the commaundementes of the Lorde your God whyche I commaunde you. Your eyes haue sene what the Lorde dyd vnto Baal Deoz: * For all the men that folowed Baal Deoz, the Lorde your God hath destroyed from amonge you.

But ye that cleaue vnto the Lorde your God, as al yeue every one of you this day. Behold, I haue taught you ordinaunces and lawes, such as the Lorde my God commaunded me, that ye shulde do euen so in the lande, whither ye go to possesse it. Kepe them therfore and do them, for that is your wysdome and vnderstandyng in the syght of the nacyns: that they maye heare all these ordinaunces, and saye: Surelye it is a wyse and vnderstandyng people: it is a great nacyn.

For what other nacyn is so great, that God shal come so nye vnto: as the Lorde our God is nye vnto vs, in all thynges * as ofte as we call vnto him: Ye and what nacyn is so great, that hath ordinaunces and lawes so ryghteous, as all this lawe whyche I set before you this daye. Take hede to thy selfe therfore, & kepe thy soule diligently, that ye forget not the thynges which thyne eyes haue sene, and that they departe not out of thyne herte, all the dayes of thy lyfe: but * teache them thy sonnes and thy sonnes sonnes. Specially the daye that thou stodest before the Lorde thy God in Horeb, when the Lorde sayde vnto me: gather me the people together, & I will make them heare my wordes, that they maye learne to feare me al the dayes & they shal lyue vpon the earth: and that they maye teach theyr chyldren: ye came: and stode also vnder the byll and the byll burnt with fyre: euen vnto the myddes of heuen, and there was darknesse, cloudes and myst. And the Lorde spake vnto you out of the myddes of the fyre, and ye heard the voyce of the wordes: but sawe no Image, saue heard a voyce onely. And he declared vnto you his couenant which he commaunded you to do, euen ten verses which he wrote vpon two tables of stone. And the Lorde commaunded me that same reason, that I shoulde teache you ordinaunces and lawes, whyche ye ought to do in the lande whither ye go to possesse it.

Take therfore good hede vnto your selues, as pertainyng vnto your soules, for ye sawe no maner of ymage in the day that the Lorde spake vnto you in Horeb out of the myddes of the fyre: lest ye marre your selues and make you a graue ymage and ppycture of any maner of fygure: the lykenesse of man or woman, the lykenesse of any maner of beast that is on earth, or the lykenesse of any maner feathered foule that flyeth in the ayre: or the lykenesse of anye maner worme that crepeth on the earth, or the lykenesse of any maner fyre that is in the waters beneth the earth.

* Ye and lest thou lyfte vp thyne eyes vnto heauen, and when thou seest the lone the mone and starres with all the hoste of heauen, shuldest be deceyued, and shuldest worship & serue the thynges, ges, whyche the Lorde thy God hath made to serue all nacjons vnder the whole heauen.

But the Lorde hath taken you and brought you out of the yron forname: euen out of Egypte to be vnto hym a people and enheritaunce as ye be this daye. Furthermore, the Lorde was angry with me for your wordes, and swaie that I shulde not go ouer Iordane, and that I shuld not go in vnto that good lande, which the Lorde thy God geueth the to enheritaunce. * But I must dye in this lande, and shal not go ouer Iordan. But ye shall go ouer, & conquer that good lande. Take hede vnto your selues, that ye forget not the appointment of the Lord your God which he made with you, and that ye make you no graue ymage, nor any picture that the Lorde thy God hath forbydden the: for the Lorde thy God is a consuming fyre, and a gelous God.

If thou doest beget chyldren and chyldrens chyldren, and when ye haue dwelt in the lande, ye do wickedly, and make any maner of grauen ymage & worke euill in the syght of the Lorde thy God, to prouoke hym to angre, I call heauen and earth to recorde agaynst you this daye, that ye shal shortly perishe from of the lande, whither ye go ouer Iordan to possesse it: ye shal not prolonge your dayes therein, but shal vterly be destroyed. And the Lorde shall scatter you amonge the nacjons, and ye shal be leste fewe in nombre amonge the people, whither the Lorde shal byng you: and there ye shal serue goddes whyche are the worke of mans hand, wood and stone, whiche neyther se, nor heare, nor eate, nor smell. And there thou shalt seke the Lorde thy God: and shalt fynd him, yf thou seke hym with all thyne herte, and wyth all thy soule. When thou arte in tribulation, & when all these thynges (that be here spoken of) are come vpon the, euen in the later dayes, thou shalt retourne agayne to the Lorde thy God, and be obedyent vnto his voyce. For the Lorde thy God is a mercifull God: he wyl not forsake the, nether destroye the: nor forget the appoyntemente of thy fathers, whyche he swaie vnto them.

For aske of the dayes that are past, whyche were before the, sence the daye that God created man vpon the earth, and (aske) fro the onesyde of heauen vnto the other, yf euer there came to passe suche a great thyng, or whether any suche lyke thyng hath bene hearde. Wyl euer a nacjon heare the voyce of God speakyng out of the myddes of a fyre, as thou hast heard, and yet lyued? yether whether God assayed to go & take hym a people from amonge nacjons thow we temptacions, sygnes, wonders, warre, a myghty hande, a stretched out arme, & thow we great syghtes, accordyng vnto al that the Lorde your God byd vnto you in Egypt before your eyes?

Vnto the it was shewed, that thou mightest knowe, howe that the Lorde he is God, and that there is none other but he. Out of heauen he made the heare his voyce, that he myght nourture the, & vpon earth he shewed the his great fyre, and thou heardest his voyce out of the myddes of fyre. And because he loued thy fathers, he chose theyr sede after them, and broughte the out in his syght, and with his myghtye power out of Egypt: to thrust out nacjons great and myghty then thou, before the, & to byng the in, and to gyue the theyr lande to enheritaunce: as it is come to passe this daye.

Understande therfore this daye, and tourne it into thyne harte, that the Lorde, he is God in heuen aboue, and vpon the earth beneth: neither is there any other. Thou shalt kepe therfore his ordynaunces, and his comaundementes whiche I commaund the this daye, that it may go well with the, and with thy chyldren after the, & that thou mayst prolonge thy dayes vpon the erth, whyche the Lorde thy God geueth the thy lyfe longe. * Then Moyses leuered the cyties on the other syde Iordan toward the sonne risinge: he shoulde syle thither, whyche had kyled his neyghboure vnwares, & hated hym not in tyme paste, & therfore shuld syle vnto one of the same cyties, and lyue: Namely Bezer in the wyldernes: euen in the playne countrey of the trybe of Ruben, & Ramoth in Gilead of the trybe of Gad and Golan in Basan of the trybe of Manasse.

And so this is the lawe which Moyses set before the chyldren of Israel. These are the wytnesses, statutes, and ordynaunces, whiche Moyses tolde the chyldren of Israel after they came out of Egypte, on the other syde Iordan, in the valley ouer agaynst the house of Deor, in the lande of Sehon kynge of the Amozites whiche dwelt at Heshbon: whom Moyses and the chyldren of Israel smote, after they were come out of Egypt and conquered his lande, and the lande of Og, kynge of Basan, two kynges of the Amozites, whiche were on the other syde Iordan toward the sonne risinge: from Aroer whiche is by the banke of the ryuer Arnon, vnto mount Syon: whiche is Hermon, and all the playne on the other syde Iordan estward, eue vnto the see, which is in the playne vnder the sprynges of the hyll.

The. v. Chapter.

The ten commaundementes.

And Moyses called all Israel, & sayde vnto them. Heare O Israel the ordynaunces & lawes whiche I speake in your eares this daye, that ye may learne them, and fulfill them in dede.

The Lorde our God made an appoyntment wth vs in Horeb. The Lorde made not this bonde wth oure fathers, but with vs: euen with vs, whiche are all here alvye this daye. The Lorde talked with you face to face in the mount, out of the myddes of the fyre. And I stode betwene the Lorde and you the same tyme, & shewed you the worde of the Lorde. For ye were a frayde at the syght of the fyre, & went not vp into the mount, and he sayde: * I am the Lorde thy God, which broughte the out of the lande of Egypt from the house of bondage. Thou shalt haue none other goddes in my presence.

* Thou shalt make the no grauen ymage of any maner of lykenesse that is in heuen aboue, & that is in the earth beneth, and that is in the waters beneth the earth. Thou shalt neyther bowe thy thy self vnto them, nor serue them, for I þ Lord thy God, am a gelouse God, vispytting the wyc kednesse of the fathers vpon the chyldren, euen in the thyrde and fourth generacyon amonge the that hate me: and shewe mercy vpon thousands amonge them that loue me, and kepe my Commaundementes.

Exod. xix. c.

¶ Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vayne: for þ Lord wyll not holde hym gylelesse, þ taketh his name in vayne. Kepe the Sabbath day, that thou sanctifye it, as the Lord thy God hath commaunded the. * Syre dayes thou shalt labour and do all that thou hast to do, but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God: thou shalt not do any worke, thou and thy sonne, thy daughter, thy seruaunte, and thy mayde, thyne ore and thyne asse, and all thy catel, and the straunger þ is within thy gates, that thy seruaunte and thy mayde maye reste as well as thou. Remember that thou wast a seruaunt in the lande of Egypt and howe that the Lord thy God broughte the out thence throzowe * a myghty hand & a stretched out arme. For whiche cause the Lord thy God commaunded the to kepe the Sabbath daye.

These wordes the Lord spake vnto al your multitude in the mount out of the myddes of the fyre, cloud and darkenesse, with a greate voyce, and added nomore therto, and wrote them in two tables of stone, and deliuered them vnto me.

¶ And it fortuned, þ when ye heard the voyce oute of the myddes of the darkenesse, and sawe, that the hyll dyd burne with fyre, ye came vnto me with the captaynes of your trybes and your elders, and ye sayde: beholde, the Lord our God hath shewed vs his glozy and his greatnes, and we haue hearde his voyce out of the myddes of the fyre: we haue sene this daye that God dothe talke with a man, and he yet lyueth. ¶ These are the commaundementes, ordinaunces, and lawes, whiche the Lord poure God commaunded me to teache you, that ye myght do the in the lande: whither ye go to possesse it: namely, that thou myghtest * feare the Lord thy God, and kepe all his ordinaunces, and commaundementes whiche I commaunde the: thou and thy sonne, and thy sonnes sonne al dayes of thy lyfe, that thy dayes maye be prolonged. Heare therfore, O Israel, and take hede that thou do thereafter, that it may go well with the, and that ye maye encrease mightely, euen as the Lord God of thy fathers hath promysed the a lande, that floweth wyth mylke and hony.

* Heare O Israel, the Lord our God is Lord onely, and * thou shalt loue the Lord thy God with all thyne harte, and with al thy soule, and with all thy myght: * And these wordes whiche I commaund the this day, shalbe in thyne hart and thou shalt shewe them vnto thy chyldren, & shalt talke of them when thou arte at home in thyne house, and as thou walkest by the waye, and when thou lyst downe, and when thou restest vp: and thou shalt bynde them for a sygne vpo thyne hande. And they shalbe warnynges, betwene thyne eyes, and thou shalt wypte them vpo the postes of thy house, & vpon thy gates.

¶ And when the Lord thy God hath brought the into the lande, whiche he swore vnto thy fathers, Abraham Isahac, and Jacob, and geueth the, grete and goodly ctytes whiche thou buildest not, houses ful of al maner of goods whiche thou fyllest not, and wels dygged whiche thou diggest not, vineyardes and olyue trees whiche thou plantedst not, and when thou haste eaten and arte full: Then beware lest thou forget the Lord, whiche brought the oute of the lande of Egypt, from the house of bondage.

* Thou shalt feare the Lord thy God, and serue hym, and sweare by his name. So that ye walke not after straunge goddes: the goddes of the nacjons whiche are aboute you. For þ Lord thy God is a gelouse God amonge you: lest the countenance of the Lord thy God be moued to wrath what he agaynst the, and destrope the frome of the earth. * He shall not tempte the Lorde your God, as he dyd in the temptacyon. But kepe the commaundementes of the Lorde your God, and his wytnesses and his ordynaunces: whyche he hath commaunded the, and thou shalt doo that which is ryght and good in the syght of the Lorde that thou mayst prosper, and that thou mayst go in, and conquere that good lande whyche the Lorde sware vnto thy fathers, to caste oute all thyne enemyes before the as the Lorde hath sayde.

* And when thy sonne asketh the in tyme to come, sayinge: What meaneth these wytnesses, ordynaunces, and lawes, whiche the Lorde our God hath commaunded you? Then thou shalt say vnto thy sonne: We were Pharaos bondmen in Egypt, and the Lorde brought vs out of Egypt with a myghty hande. And the Lorde shewed signes and wonders great & euell vpon Egypt vpon Pharaos and vpon all his household, before our eyes, but broughte vs oute from thence: to bringe vs in, and to geue vs the lande which he sware vnto our fathers. And the Lorde hath commaunded vs, to do all these ordynaunces, and to feare the Lorde our God, for oure welth all the dayes of our lyfe, as it is come to passe this day. Moreover, thys shall be our ryghteousnesse before the Lorde our God, if we take hede & kepe all these commaundementes, as he hath commaunded vs.

The vii. Chapter.

The Israelites may make no covenannt with the Gentiles. They must destrope theyr ydols. Idolaters must be slayne.

When the Lorde thy God hath brought the into the lande whither thou goest to possesse it, and hath caste oute many nacjons before the: namely the Hethites, the Gergesites, the Amorites, the Cananites, the Pherezites, the Hivites and the Jebusites, seven nacjons greater and myghtyer then thou, * and when the Lorde thy God hath set them before the, & shalt smyte them, and utterly destroy them, and make no covenannt with them, nor haue compassion on the. Thou shalt make no marriages with them, neyther geue thy daughter vnto his sonne, nor take his daughter vnto thy sonne. For they wyl dysceyue thy sonne that he shulde not feare me, and they shall serue straunge goddes, and then wyl the wrath of the Lorde waxe whote against you and destroye you shortly.

But thus ye shal deale with them: * Ye shal ouerthrow theyr altars, & breake downe theyr pylers, cut downe theyr groves, and burne theyr grauen ymages with fyre. * For thou arte an holy nacjon vnto the Lorde thy God: the Lorde thy God hath chosen the, to be a seuerall people vnto hym selfe, aboue all nacjons that are vpon the earth. It was not because of the multitude of you aboue all nacjons, that the Lorde had lust vnto you and chose you, for ye were fewest of all nacjons. But because the Lorde loved you and because he wolde kepe the * other whyche he had sworne vnto your fathers, therefore hath the Lorde brought you out thowowe a myghty hand and deliuered you oute of the house of bondage:

Understande therefore, the Lorde thy God he is God, and that a trewe God * which kepeth appoyntment and mercye vnto them that loue hym and kepe his commaundementes, euen thowowe out a thousande generacions, and rewardeth them that hate hym before his face, so that he bringeth them to naught, and doth not deface the tyme, but rewardeth hym that hateth hym, before his face. Kepe thou therefore the commaundementes, and ordynaunces and lawes, whiche I commaunde the this daye that thou do them.

* If ye hearken vnto these lawes, and obserue and do them, the Lorde thy God also shall kepe vnto the the apoyntment, and the mercye which he sware vnto thy fathers. He wyl loue the, and blesse the, and multiplye the: he wyl also blesse the frute of thy wombe, and the frute of thy land thy corne, thy wyne, and thyne oyle, and the increase of thine oren, and the flockes of thy shepe in the lande, whiche he sware vnto thy fathers to geue the. Thou shalt be blessed vnto all nacjons: there shall be nether man nor woman vnfutell amonge you, nor any thyng vnfutell amonge your cattell. Moreover, the Lorde wyl * take awaye from the all maner infirmities, and wyl put none of the euell dysceases of Egypt (whyche thou knowest) vpon the, but wyl sende them vpon all them that hate the.

Thou shalt consume all nacjons whiche the Lorde thy God shall deliuer the: thyne eye shall haue no pitye vpon them, nether shalt thou serue theyr gods, for that shal be thy decaye. If thou saye in thyne harte: these nacjons are mo then I howe can I caste them oute? * Thou shalt not feare them, but remember what the Lorde thy God dyd vnto Pharaos and vnto all Egypt: the greates temptacions whiche thyne eyes sawe, & the signes and wonders, and the myghty hand and stretched out arme, wherewith the Lorde thy God brought the out, euen so shall the Lorde thy God do vnto all the nacjons, of whom thou arte afraid. * Moreover, the Lorde thy God wyl sende hornets amonge them vntyll they that are left, and hyde them selues from the, be destroyed. Thou shalt not feare them, for the Lorde thy God is amonge you a myghty God: and a terrible. For the Lorde thy God wyl put out these nacjons before the by a lytle and a lytle: thou mayst not consume them at once, lest the bestes of the felde increase vpon the.

But the Lorde thy God shall geue them ouer before the, and shall destroye them with a myghty tempeste, vntyll he haue broughte them to nought. * And he shal deliuer their kyn ges in to thyne hande, and thou shalt destroye theyr name from vnder heauen. There shall no man be able to stande before the, vntyll thou haue destroyed them. The grauen ymages of theyr goddes shalt thou burne with fyre and couet not the golde & syluer that is on them, nor take it vnto the, lest thou be snared therein. For it is an abhominacyon before the Lorde thy God.

Bring not therefore abhominacyon into thyne house: lest thou be a damned thyng, as it is: but utterly utterly desyre it & abhor it, for it is a dāned thig.

¶ The viii. Chapter.

¶ Moses putteth the Israelites in remembrance what God hath done to them in the wyldeynes.

All the commaundementes whiche I commaunde the this daye, shal ye kepe for to do them þe ye maye lyue: and multiplie & go in, and possesse the lande whiche the Lorde swaue vnto your fathers. And thou shalt thynke on all the waye whiche the Lorde thy God led the thyse fortye yere in the wyldeynes, for to humble the and to proue the, and to wete what was in thine herte, whether thou woldest kepe his commaundementes or no. He * humbled the, and suffered the to hunger, and fed the with Manna, whiche neyther thou nor thy fathers knewe of, to make the to knowe, þe a man doth not lyue by breade onely: but by euerye (worde) that procedeth oute of the mouth of the Lorde, doth a man lyue.

Deu. xxi. a.

* Thy rayment waxed not olde vpon the: neyther dyd thy fote swell those fortye yeres.

B This also shalt thou consyder in thyne herte that as a man nurtereth his son, euen so þe Lorde thy God nourtereth the. Therfore shalt þe kepe the commaundementes of the Lorde thy God: that thou walke in his wayes, and feare hym.

For the Lorde thy God bringeth the into a good lande, a lande in the whiche are ryuers of water and fountaynes and springes that sprayge out of valeys and hylls: a lande wherin is wheate and barley, vnyardes, fygtrees, and pomegranates: a lande wherin is oyle olyue and honey: a lande wherin thou shalt eate bread wout scarcenes, neyther shalt thou lacke any thyng: a lande whose stones are yron, and oute of whose hylls thou shalt dygge brasie. When thou hast eaten therfore and fylled thy self, thou shalt blesse the Lorde thy God in that good lande, which he hath geuen the.

Job. xxi. b.

C Beware that thou forget not the Lorde thy God, that thou woldest not kepe his commaundementes, his lawes & his ordynances whiche I commaunde the this daye: * yee, and when thou haste eaten and fylled thy self, and haste buylte goodly houses and dwelt therein, and when thy beastes, and thy shepe are waxed many, and thy syluer and golde is multiplied, and all that thou haste is encreased, then beware lest thyne harte ryle and thou forget the Lorde thy God, whych broughte the out of the lande of Egypte, & from the house of bondage, and which was thy guide in the greate and terryble wyldeynes (wherin were) fyre serpentes, scorpions, and drouthe: without any water. But he brought out water for the, euen out of the rocke of synte: he fed the in the wyldeynes with Manna, whiche thy fathers knewe not, euen for to humble the, and to proue the, and that he myght so doo the good at thy latter ende. Lest thou shouldest saye in thyne herte * my power and the myghte of myne owne hande hath prepared me this aboundaunce: But remember the Lorde thy God, howe that it is he whiche geueth the power to get the substance for to make good the promise whiche he swaue vnto thy fathers, as this daye doth wytnesse. And yf thou forget the Lorde thy God, and walke after straunge * goddes, and serue them, and worshyppe the, I testifie vnto you this daye ye shall surely perishe. As the nacjons whiche the Lorde destroyeth before you, euen so ye shall perishe because ye wolde not be obedyente vnto the voyce of the Lorde your God.

Care O Israell, thou passest ouer Jordan this daye, to go in, and conquer nacjons greater and myghty er then thy selfe: Cities greete and walled vp to heuē, * a people great and tall, euen the chyldren of þe Enakims, which thou knowest of, and of whom thou hast heard saye, who wyll stande before the chyldren of Enacker. Understande therfore this daye, that the Lorde thy God is euen he whiche goeth ouer befoze the as a god (deuourynge and) a conlumynge fyre, he shall destroye them and he shall byynge them downe before thy face. He shal cast them out and byynge them to nought quykely, as the Lorde hath sayde vnto the. Speake not thou in thyne harte (after that the Lorde thy God hath caste them out before the) sayinge: for my ryghteousnesse the Lorde hath broughte me in, to possesse this lande. Hape: but for the wyckednesse of these nacjons the Lorde hath caste them out before the. It is not for thy ryghteousnesse sake, or for thy ryghte harte, that thou goest to possesse the lande. * But for the wyckednesse of these nacjons, the Lorde thy God doth cast them out before the, euen to perfourme the worde whiche the Lorde thy God swaue vnto thy fathers, Abraham, Isahar, and Jacob.

Understande therfore, that it is not for thy ryghteousnesse sake, that the Lorde thy God doth geue the this good lande to possesse it, seying thou arte a stiffnecked people. Remember, and forget not, howe thou prouokedst the Lorde thy God in the wyldeynes, sence the daye that thou dydest departe out of the lande of Egypt vnto this place: ye haue rebelled against the Lorde. * Also in Horeb ye angered the Lorde so that the Lorde was wroth with you: euen to haue destroyed you, when I was gone vp in to the mounte, to receaue the tables of stone, the tables of appoyntmente, whiche the Lorde made with you. And I abode in the hyll fortye dayes and fortye nyghtes, when I nether dyd eat bread nor dranke water. * And the Lorde deliuered me two tables of stone, wyrtten wyth the fynger of God, and in them was accordynge to all the wordes whiche the Lorde sayde vnto you in the mounte out of the myddest of the fyre in the daye of the gatherynge together.

And when the fortye dayes and fortye nyghtes were ended, the Lord gaue me þe two tables of stone, the tables of the couenaunt and þe Lorde sayde vnto me. * Up, and get the downe quykely from hence, for thy people whiche thou haste broughte out of Egypte, haue marred all.

They are turned at once out of þe waye, which I com-

I commaunde them, and haue made them a molten ymage. Furthermore, the Lorde spake vnto me, saying: I haue sene this people, and beholde it is a stifnecked people, let me alone, that I may destroye them, and put out the name of them fro vnder heauen, and I wyll make of the a myghty nation: and greater then they be.

And I turned me, and came downe from the hyll (euen from the hyll that burnte with fyre) & the two tables of the appoyntment were in my handes. And I looked, and beholde: ye had synned agaynst the Lorde your God, and had made you a molten calfe, and had turned attonce out of the waye whiche the Lorde had commaunded you: * And I toke the two tables and cast them oute of my two handes, and brake them before your eyes. * And I fell downe flatte before the Lorde: euen as at the fyrste tyme, & forty dayes, and forty nyghtes I dyd nether eate breade nor drynke water, because of all your synnes, which ye synned: in doyng wyckedly in the syghte of the Lorde in that ye prouoked hym vnto wrath.

For I was afrayd that for the wrath and fearenesse wherewith the Lorde was moued agaynst you, he wolde haue destroyed you. But the Lorde hearde me at that tyme also.

The Lorde was very angry with Aaron also euen to haue destroyed him, & I made intercessyon for Aaron also the same tyme. And I toke your synne: the calfe whiche ye had made, and burnt hym with fyre, and stamped hym & grounde hym a good, euen vnto small duste. And I caste the duste thercof in to the brooke, that descended oute of the mounte. Also at the burnynge * at the temptacyon, and at the sepulchres of luste ye angered the Lorde, lyke wyse when the Lorde sente you from Cadex Barne, saying: go vp, and conquer the lande whiche I haue geuen you: ye disobeyed the mouth of the Lorde your God, and nether beleued hym, nor harkened vnto his voyce. Ye haue bene disobedient vnto the Lorde, sence the daye that I knewe you.

And I fell downe flat before the Lorde forty dayes and forty nyghtes whiche I laye there for the Lorde sayde, that he wolde destroye you. I made intercessyon therfore vnto the Lorde, & sayde: * O Lorde God, destroye not thy people and thyne inheritaunce, whiche thou haste deuyluered thowowe thy gractnesse and whiche thou haste brought out of Egypte thowowe a myghty hand. Remember thy seruantes Abraham Isaac, and Jacob, and loke not to the stubbornnesse of this people, nor to theyr wyckednes and synne: lest the lande whence thou broughtest the saye: The Lorde is not able to bypunge them in to the lande whiche he promysed them: and because he hated them, therfore hath he carryed the oute, to slaye them in the wyldernes. Beholde, they are thy people, & thyne inheritaunce whiche thou broughtest oute in thy myghty power and in thy stretched oute arme.

The .x. Chapter.

The remynge of the tables. An exhortacyon to geue heed to the lawe.

At the same reason the Lorde sayd vnto me, * Hewe the two tables of stone lyke vnto the fyrste, and come vp vnto me into the mounte, and make the an arke of wood, and I wyll wyte in the tables, the wordes that were in the fyrste tables whiche thou brakest, and thou shalt put the in the arke. And I made an arke of sethe wood, and hewed two tables of stone lyke vnto the fyrste, and went vp into the mountaine, hauing the two tables in myne hande.

And he wrote in the tables: accordyng to the fyrste wytyng (the ten verses whych the Lorde spake vnto you in the mount out of the myddes of the fyre, in the daye of the gatherynge together) and the Lorde gaue them vnto me. And I departed, and came downe from the hyll, and put the tables in the arke whiche I had made: & there they be, as the Lorde commaunded me.

* And the chyldren of Israel toke theyr iourney from Beroth of the chyldren of Isahan to Mosera, where Aaron dyed, and was buryed, and Eleazar his sonne became heauest in his steade. From thence they departed vnto Gadgad: and from Gadgad to Jathbath a lande whiche hath ryuers of water. The same reason the Lorde separated the tribe of Leui to beare the arke of the appoyntment of the Lorde, and to stande before the Lorde, and to minyster vnto hym, & to blesse in his name vnto this daye. * Wherfore the Leuites haue no parte nor inheritaunce with their brethren. But the Lorde is theyr inheritaunce as the Lorde thy God hath promysed them.

* And I carryed in the mount, euen as at the fyrst tyme forty dayes and forty nyghtes, and the Lorde herkened vnto me at that tyme also, and the Lorde wolde not destroye the. And the Lorde sayde vnto me: vp, and go forth in the iourneys before the people, that they maye go in and conquer the lande whiche I swaie vnto theyr fathers, to geue vnto the. And nowe Israel, what doeth the Lorde thy God requyre of the: but to feare the Lorde thy God, and to walke in all his wayes, to loue hym, and to serue the Lorde thy God with all thyne harte and with all thy soule. Namely, that thou kepe the commaundementes of the Lorde, and his ordynaunces whiche I commaunde the this daye, for thy welth.

Beholde, heauen and the heauen of heauens is the Lordes thy God, and the earthe with all therein is: Not withstandynge, the Lorde had a lust vnto thy fathers to loue them, & those theyr seds after them, euen you, aboue all nacyns, as thou seyst this daye.

* Circumcise therfore the foreskyn of your herte: and be nomore styfnecked: For the Lorde your God, is God of goddes, and Lorde of lordes, a great God a myghty & a terrible: whiche regardeth no mans personne nor taketh gyfte. He doth ryghte vnto the fatherlesse and wydow and loueth the straunger, to geue hym fode and rayment. * Loue ye therfore the straunger also: for ye were straungers your selues in the lande of Egypte. * Thou shalt feare the Lorde thy God, and hym (onely) shalt thou serue, to hym shalt shalte thou cleue, and sweare by hys name: he is thy prayse and thy God, that hath done for the these greates and terrible thynges, whiche thyne eyes haue sene. Thy fathers wente downe into Egypte with lxx. soules, and nowe the Lorde thy God hath made the and multiplied the, as the starres of Heauen.

The xi. Chapter.

An exhortacion to regard the lawe.

Therfore, thou shalte loue the Lorde thy God and kepe his obseruances his ordynaunces, his lawes, and hys commaundementes alwaye. Call to poure mynde thys daye that whiche your chyldren haue neyther knowne nor sene: euen the nurtour of the Lorde your God, his greatnesse, his myghty hande, and hys stretched out arme, his myracles, and his actes whiche he dyd in the myddes of Egypte, euen vnto Pharaon the kynge of Egypte and vnto all his lande: & what he dyd vnto the hoste of Egypte, vnto theyr horses and charettes howe he broughte the water of the red see vpon them: as they chased you beynde, and howe the Lorde hath broughte them to nought vnto this daye, and what he dyd vnto you in the wylterne, vntill ye came vnto this place: and what he dyd vnto Dathan and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab the son of Ruben, howe the earth opened her mouth, & swallowed them wyth theyr householdes and theyr tentes, and all theyr substance that was in theyr possession, in the myddes of Israel.

Woutlesse, your eyes haue sene all the great actes of the Lorde whiche he dyd. Therfore shal ye kepe all the commaundementes, whiche I commaunde you this daye, that ye maye be stronge: and go in and conquer the lande whither ye go to possesse it, and ye maye prolonge your dayes in the lande whiche the Lorde swaie vnto your fathers, to geue vnto them and to theyr seide, a lande that floweth with mylke and honye. For the lande whither thou goest to possesse it, is not as the lande of Egypte that ye came out of, where thou sowedst thy seide: and wateredst it as thy fete as a garden of hearbes: but the lande whither ye go ouer to possesse it, is a lande that hath hylles and valleyes, and drynketh water of the rayne of heauen. This lande doth the Lorde thy God care for, and the eyes of the Lorde thy God are alwayes vpon it, from the begynnyng of the yere, vnto the ende of the yere.

Ye shall hearken therfore vnto my Commaundementes, whiche I commaunde you this daye, that ye loue the Lorde your God and serue hym with all your hart, and with all your soule. I also will geue rayne vnto your lande in due season: the fyrste rayne and the latter, that thou mayste gather in thy corne, thy wyne, and thine oyle. And I will sende grasse in thy felde for thy catel: that thou mayste eate, and fyll thy selfe. But beware that your harte deceaue you not: ye turne asyde, and serue straunge goddes, and worshipp them, and then the Lorde being wroth agaynst you, & shutt up the heauen, that there be no raine, and that your lande yelde not her frute and lesse ye perishe quykely frome of the good lande, whiche the Lorde geueth you.

Therfore shall ye putte vpon these my wordes in your harte and in your soule, and bynd them for a sygne vpon your hande, that they maye be as a warnyng betwene your eyes, and ye shall teach them in your chyldren that they maye talke of them, when thou sittest in thine house & when thou walkest by the waye: when thou lyekest downe, and when thou rylest vp: yee, and thou shalt wyte them vpon the doze postes of thyne house, and vpon thy gates, that your dayes maye be multiplied, and the dayes of your chyldren in the lande whiche the Lorde swaie vnto poure fathers to geue them, as longe as the dayes of heauen laste vpon the earth. For if ye kepe all these commaundementes, whiche I commaunde you so that ye do them: Namely, that ye loue the Lorde your God: and walke in all his wayes and cleue vnto hym. Then will the Lorde caste out all these nacyns before you, and ye shall be the heyres of great nacyns and of them that are myghtyer then your selues. All the places whercon the soles of your fete shall treade, shall be yournes euen from the wylterne and from Libanon, & from the ryuer Euphrates, euen vnto the uttermost see, shall your coste be. There shall no man be able to stande before you: for the Lorde your God shall caste the feare and drede of you vpon all the lande that ye shall tread vpon, as he hath sayde vnto you.

Behold, I set before you this daye a blessinge and a curse: a blessinge: if ye obey the commaundementes of the Lorde your God whiche I commaunde you this daye. And a curse: if ye will not obey the commaundementes of the Lorde your God: but turne out of the waye, whiche I commaunde you this daye, to go after straunge goddes, whiche ye haue not knowne. When the Lorde thy God therfore hath broughte the in to the lande, whither thou goest to possesse it, thou shalt put the blessinge vpon mount Garizim, and the curse vpon mount Ebal, whiche (mountaynes) are on the other syde Jordan on the backe syde of the waye towarde the goynge downe of the sunne, in the lande of the Canaanites whiche dwelle in the playne ouer agaynst Gilgal besyde the groue of Ebro. For ye shall passe ouer Jordan, to go in, and possesse the lande, whiche the Lorde your God geueth you, & ye shall conquer it, and dwel therein. Take hede therfore that ye doo all the commaundementes and lawes, whiche I sette before you this daye.

The xii. Chapter.

Thou shalt not make the image of any thing that is in heauen, or on the earth, or under the earth: for thou shalt worshippe them, and they shall be a snare vnto thee.

These are the ordynaunces and lawes, whiche ye shall obserue and doo in the lande which the Lorde God of thy fathers geueth the to possesse it as longe as ye lyue vpon the earth. Ye shall destroye all places wherin the nacyns whiche ye shall conquer serued the goddes, vpon hye mountayns on hylles, and vnder euerye thycke tree.ouerthrowe theyr altars, and breake theyr pillars and

and burne they: groues wth fyre, and hew downe p^r grauen ymages of the goddes that they haue, and byng the names of them to nought out of that place. Ye shal not so do vnto the Lord your God, but ye shal seke the place which the Lord your God shall haue chosen out of all your trybes, to put his name there, and there to dwell.
And whither thou shalt come, and thither ye shal bynge your burnt sacrifices, your offerin-ges, your tythes, and heue offeringes of your hande, your vowes, your freewill offeringes and the first gendered of your oxen & of your shepe.
And there ye shall eate before the Lord your God, and ye shall reioyce in all that ye put your hand vnto both ye and your householdes, wher-in the Lord thy God hath blessed the.

B Ye shall not do after all these thynges that we do here this daye, euerye man what semeth hym good in his owne eyes. For ye are not yet come to rest, & to the inheritaunce which y^e Lord your God gyueth you. But whē ye go ouer Iordan, and dwell in the lande which the Lord your God hath gyuen you to inheret, & when he hath gyuen you rest from all your enemyes round about, so that ye dwell in safetie, thā vnto y^e place which y^e Lord your God hath chosen, to put his name there, ye shal bring al that I commaund you:
namely your burnt sacrifices, your offeringes, your tythes, the heue offeringe of your hande, & al your special vowes which ye vow vnto the Lord. And ye shal reioyce before the Lord your God, ye and your sones & your daughters, your seruautes, and your maydens, and the Leuite y^e is within your gates * forasmuch as he hath no parte nor inheritaunce with you. Take hede y^e thou offere not thy burnt offeringes in euery place that thou seest: but in the place which the Lord shal haue chosen in one of thy tribes, there thou shalt offere thy burnt offeringes, and there thou shalt do al y^e I commaund the. Notwithstanding thou mayst kyl & eat flesh in al thy cities, what soener thy soule lusteth after, accordynge to the blessyng of the Lord thy God which he hath ge-uē the. Both the vncleane & the cleane may eate therof, euē as the roo, or y^e hart: only ye shal not eat y^e blood, but poure it vpon y^e earth as water.

C Thou mayest not eat win thy gates the tythe of thy corne, of thy wine & of thy oyle, & the first gendered of thyne oxen, & of thy shepe, neither any of thy vowes which y^e vowest, nor thy freewill-offeringes or heue offeringe of thyne hande: but thou must eat them before the Lord thy God, in the place which the Lord thy God hath chosen, thou and thy son, & thy daughter, thy seruaunt, and thy mayde, & the Leuite that is within thy gates, & thou shalt reioyce * (and be refreshed) before the Lord thy God, in all that thou puttest thyne hāde to. * Beware, that thou forsake not the Leuit, as longe as thou lyuest vpon y^e earth.

Pf (when the Lord thy God hath enlarged thy border * as he hath promysed the) thou say, I wyle eat flesh, because thy soule logeth to eate flesh: thou mayst eat flesh whatsoener thy soule lusteth. Pf the place whiche the Lord thy God hath chose to put his name there, be to far from the, then thou shalt kyl of thy oxen, and of thy shepe which the Lord hath gyuen the, as I haue commaunded the, and thou shalt eate in thyne owne cytye, whatsoener thy soule lusteth.

And as the roo and the harte is eaten, euē so thou shalt eat them: both the cleane and the vncleane shall eate of them. But be stronge y^e thou eate not the blood. For the blood, that is y^e lyfe, & thou mayst not eat the lyfe with the fleshe: y^e shalt not eate it: but poure it vpon the earth as water. Se thou eat it not, that it maye go well wth the and wth thy chyldren after the: But thou shalt do that which is ryght in the syghte of the Lord. But thy holy thynges which thou hast, and thy vowes thou shalt take, and come vnto the place whiche the Lord hath chose, and thou shalt offere thy burnt offeringes both flesh and blood vpo the altar of the Lord thy God, and the blood of thyne offeringes shall be poured out vpon the altar of the Lord thy God, & thou shalt eate the flesh. Take hede and heare al these wordes which I commaund the, that it maye go well wth the and wth thy chyldre after the foreuer, if thou doest that which is good and ryght in the syght of the Lord thy God.

When the Lord thy God hath destroyed the nacyons before the, whither thou goest to conquere them, and y^e succeedest in their inheritaunce and dwellest in theyr lande: Beware, that thou be not taken in a snare after them, after y^e they be destroyed before the, and y^e thou aske not after theyr goddes, saying: howe dyd these nacyons serue theyr goddes? I wyl do so lykewyse. Nay
* thou shalt not so do vnto y^e Lord thy God: for all abhominacyons, and that whiche the Lord hateth, y^e same haue they done vnto theyr god-des: & for they burne both theyr sones and their daughters with fyre before theyr goddes. Therfore whatsoener I commaund you, that take hede you doo (only vnto the Lord) & * put thou noughte thereto, nor take ought therefrom.

Leuit. xi. a

Yare the children of the Lord your God. *Ye shall not cut your selues, nor make you any baldnesse betwene your eyes for any deed man. *For thou arte an holpe people vnto the Lord thy God, & the Lord hath chosen the to be a seueral people vnto hym selfe, aboue all the nacjons that are vpon the earth. Thou shalt *eate no maner of abhominacion. These are the beastes which ye shal eate, oren, shepe, and gootes, hart, roo & bugle, wilde gote, vnicorne, wylde oxe, and camelion. And all the beastes that cleaue the hofe, and slit it in p two clawes, and chewe the cud, them ye shal eate. Neuerthelesse, these ye shal not eate: of them that chewe cud, and of them that deuide & cleaue the hofe: the camell, the hare, & the cony: whiche chewe cud, but deuide not the hofe: therfore are they vncleane vnto you: & also p swyne, though he deuide the hofe, yet he cheweth not cud, therfore is he vncleane vnto you: ye shal not eate of the flesh of suche, nor touch the deed carkasse of them. *These ye shal eate, of all that are in the waters: All that haue fynnes and scales shal ye eat. And whatsoeuer haue no fyns & scales, of p ye shal not eate, but let it be vncleane vnto you.

Of all cleane byrdes ye shal eate: but these are they of which ye shal not eate: the Eagle, the goshawke, the cormeraunt, the Trion, the vultur, the kyte, after her kynde, & all kynde of rauen, the estrych, the nyghtcrowe, the kuckowe and the sparowhawke, after her kynde, the lytle owle, the great owle, the backe, the bitture, the ppe, the storke, the heron, the iay in his kynd the lapwing, the swalowe. And let all crepyng foules be vncleane vnto you, and not be eate of: but of al cleane foules ye maye eate.

Ye shal eate of nothyng that dyeth alone: But thou shalt gyue it vnto the straunger that is in the cytie, that he eate it, or thou mayest sell it vnto an aliaunt. For thou art an holy people vnto the Lord thy God. Thou shalt not *seeth a kynd in his mothers mylke: Thou shalt eate of al the encrease of thy seed, that p felde bringeth forth yere by yere. And thou shalt eate before p Lord thy God (in the place which he hath chosen, and where he hath put his name) the tythe of thy corne, of thy wyne, and of thyne oyle, and the first gendzed of thyne oren and of thy shepe, p thou mayest learne to feare the Lord thy God alwaye. *Yf the waye be to longe for the, so that thou art not able to cary it, and if the place be far from the, which the Lorde thy God hath chosen to set his name there (and the Lorde thy God hath blessed the) tha shalt p make it in money, and take the money in thyne hande, and go vnto p place which the Lord thy God hath chosen, and bestowe the money for whatsoeuer thy soule lusteth after: for ore, and shepe, wyne and strong drynke, and for whatsoeuer thy soule desireth, and eate there before the Lord thy God, and be merve: both thou & thyne housholde, and the Leuite that is within thy gates, shalte thou not forsake, *for he hath neyther parte nor inheritance with the. *At the ende of thre yere thou shalt bring forth al the tythes of thyne encrease the same yere, and lay it vpon within thyne owne gates: And the Leuite which hath no parte nor inheritance with the, shall come, & the straunger, the fatherlesse, and the wydowe, which are within thy gates, shal eate, and be fylled: that the Lorde thy God may blesse the in al the workes of thyne hande which thou doest.

But * be that is thy brother, hym shall thynne hand remyt. Nevertheless there shall be no begger amonge you. For the Lord shall blesse the in the lande, whiche the Lord thy God gyueth the, an inheritaunce to possesse it: so that thou herken vnto the voyce of the Lord thy God to obserue and do al these commaundementes, whiche I commaunde the this daye. For the Lord thy God hath blessed the as he hath promysed the, and * thou shalt lende vnto many nacyons, but thou thy selfe shalt not borowe: And thou shalt raygne ouer many nacyons, & they shall not raigne ouer the. If one of thy brethren amonge you be poore win any of thy gates in thy lande, whiche the Lord thy God gyueth the: thou shalt not harden thy herte, nor shut thynne hand from thy poore brother: But open thynne hand vnto him and lend hym sufficient for his nede whiche he hath. Beware that there be not a wicked poynt in thynne hert, that thou woldest saue.

The seventh yere, the yere of fredome is at hand, and therfore it greueth the to loke on thy poore brother, and gyuest hym nought, and he then crye vnto the Lord agaynst the, and it be synne vnto the: But gyue him, & let it not greue thynne hert to gyue vnto hym. Becaue that for thys thyng, the Lord thy God shall blesse the in all thy workes, and in all that thou putteste thynne hande to. * The lande shall neuer be without poore: And therfore I commaunde the, saying: Thou shalt open thynne hande vnto thy brother that is nedye and poore in thy lande.

* If thy brother an hebreue sell hym selfe to the, or an hebreuelle, and serue the syxe yere, in the seventh yere thou shalt let hym go free from the. And when thou sendest hym oute free from the, thou shalt not let hym go away empty, but shalt gyue hym of thy shepe, of thy corne, and of thy wyne, and gyue him of that, wherewith the Lord thy God hath blessed the. And remember that thou wast a seruaunt in the land of Egypt, and the Lord thy God deliuered the thence: and therfore I commaunde the this thyng todaye.

* And if he saue vnto the: I will not goo away from the, because he loueth the & thy house and is well at ease wth the. Then shalt thou take a naule, & naye his eare to the dooze therewith, and let hym be thy seruaunt for ever: And vnto thy maydeseruaunte thou shalt do lyke wyse. And let it not greue thynne eye, when thou lettest hym go out free from the, for he hath ben worth a double hyred seruaunt to the in his seruyce syxe yeres. And the Lord thy God shall blesse the in all that thou doest.

* All the fyrste gendred that come of thynne oxe, and of thy shepe that are males, thou shalt halowe vnto the Lord thy God. Thou shalt do no worke with the fyrst gendred of thynne oxe, nor sheare the fyrst gendred of thy shepe. * Thou shalt eate it before the Lord thy God yere by yere, in the place whiche the Lord hath chosen, both the and thynne household. * If there be any deformitie therein, as if it be lame or blind, or haue any other euyl fauourdnes, thou shalt not offre it vnto the Lord thy God. But shalt eate it wth thynne owne * gates, & vncleane, & the cleane indifferently, as the ro & the herte. Only eate not the blood therof, but poure it vpon the ground as water.

The xvi. Chapter.

Of enter, whysontyde, and the feast of tabernacles, what offycers ought to be ordeyned.

Obserue the * moneth of newe corne that thou maist offre & passeouer vnto the Lord thy God. For in the moneth when corne begynneth to rypp, the Lord thy God brought the out of Egypt by night. Thou shalt therfore offre passeouer vnto the Lord thy God (and shepe & oxen) * in the place whiche the Lord shall chole to put his name there. Thou shalt eat no leuened bred with it: but seven dayes shalt thou eate vncleanned bred therewith: euen the bred of tribulatio (for thou camest out of the land of Egypt in haste) & thou mayest remembre the day when thou camest out of the lande of Egypt, al dayes of thy lyfe. And there shall be no leuened bred sene in al thy cosses seven dayes long, nei ther shall there remayne any thyng of the flesh whiche thou offrest the fyrst day at euen, vntyll the moynyng. Thou mayest not offre passeouer within any of thy gates, whiche the Lord thy God gyueth the: but in the place whiche the Lord thy God shall chole to set his name in, there thou shalt offre passeouer at euen about the goyng downe of the sunne, euen in the season that thou camest out of Egypt. And thou shalt seeth and eate it, in the place whiche the Lord thy God hath chosen, and depart on the morow, and get the vnto thy tent: Sixe dayes shalt thou eat swete bred and the seventh day is a gathering together before the Lord thy God: thou shalt do no worke therein. * Seven weekes shalt thou nembre vnto the and begyn to nembre the vii. weekes, when thou shalt put thy shekel to the corne, & * kepe the feast of weekes vnto the Lord thy God, wth a free wylofferyng of thynne hande, whiche thou shalt gyue vnto the Lord thy God, accordyng as the Lord thy God hath blessed the. And reioyce before the Lord thy God, & thy son, thy daughter, thy seruaunt, & thy mayde, and the Leuite & is wth in thy gates, & the straunger, & fatherlesse, & the widow, & are amonge you, in the place whiche the Lord thy God hath chole to put his name there. And remembre that thou wast a seruaunt in Egypt & thou shalt obserue and do these ordinaunces.

Thou shalt also obserue the feast of tabernacles. vii. dayes, after that thou shalt gathered in thy corne and thy wyne. And thou shalt reioyce in the feast: thou & thy son, thy daughter, thy seruaunt and thy mayde, the Leuite, the straunger, and fatherlesse, & the wydow, that are within thy gates. Seven dayes shalt thou kepe holy day vnto the Lord thy God, in the place whiche the Lord shall chole: for the Lord thy God shall blesse the in all thy frutes, & in al the workes of thynne handes, therfore shalt thou be glad. * These tymes in the yere shall al the males apere before the Lord thy God in the place whiche he shall chole: in the feast of swete bred, in the feast of weekes, and in the feast of tabernacles. And they shall not appere before the Lord empty, but euery man accordyng to the

And it shall be with hym, and he ought to reade therein * all dayes of his lyfe, that he may learne to feare the Lorde his God, & to kepe all the wordes of this lawe, and these ordinaunces, for to do them: and that his hert arise not aboue his bzyethren, and that he turne not from the comaundement, to the ryght hande or to the left, but that he may prolong his dayes in his kyngdome: he and his chyldren in Israel.

The. xix. Chapter.

The Leuites had no possessions. Ydolatre must be fled. The prophet Chyft is promysed. The false prophet must be slayne, and how he maye be knowen.

The preistes, the Leuites, and all f tribe of Leui * must haue no parte nor enherytaunce with Israel: but shall eate f offer ynges of the Lorde, and hys enherytaunce: Therefore shall they haue no enherytaunce amonge they bzyethren: but the Lorde, he is the y enherytaunce, as he hath sayd vnto the. And this is the preistes butye of the people, and of them that offre sacrifice, whether it be oxe or shepe: They must gyue vnto the preist, the shulder, and the two chekes, and the mawe, the fyrst frutes also of thy corne, wyne, and oyle, and the fyrste of the wolfe of thy shepe shalt thou gyue hym: * for the Lorde thy God hath chosen hym out of all thy trybes, to stande and to mynister in the name of the Lorde: he and his sonnes for euer. If a Leuyte come out of any of thy cyties of all Israel, where he is a soiourner, and come with al the lust of his hert vnto the place which the Lorde hath chosen: he shall mynister in the name of the Lorde his God, as his other bzyethren the Leuites do, which remayne there before the Lorde. And they shall haue lyke porcions to eate besyde that whiche cometh to hym of the patrimonie of hys elders.

* When thou arte come into the lande whych the Lorde thy God gyueth the, se that f learne not to do after the abhominacyons of those nacyns. Let there not be founde amonge you any one that maketh his son or doughter to go thowow f fyre, or that sleth witchcraft, or a choser out seleth with spirites, or a sothlayr, or that as-keth * (the truthe) at them that be deed.

For all that do suche thynges, are abhomination vnto the Lorde, and bycause of these ab-hominacions the Lord thy God doth cast them out before the. Thou shalt be perfecte therfore

*(and without blemyshe) in the syght of the Lord thy God. For these nacions whych thou shalt conquer, herken vnto chosers out of dayes, and vnto sozcerers: But the Lorde thy God hath not suffered the so to do. The Lorde God wyl * stere vp vnto the a prophet amonge you: euen of thy brethren, lyke vnto me: vnto hym ye shal hearken, accordyng to all that thou despydest of the Lord thy God in Egipt, in the day of the gatheryng together, when thou saydest: * Let me heare the voyce of my Lord God nomore, nor se this great fyre any more, that I dye not.

And the Lorde sayd vnto me, they haue wel spoken, I wyl rase them vp a Prophete from amonge they: brethren lyke vnto the, and wyl put my wordes in his mouth, and he shal speake vnto the all that I shall comaunde hym. * And whosoener wyl not hearken vnto the wordes, whiche he shal speake in my name, I wil require it of hym. * But the prophete whych shall presume to speake a worde in my name, whych I haue not comaunded hym to speake, or that speketh in the name of straunge goddes, the same prophet shal dye. And if thou say in thyne hert, how shall we knowe the worde which the Lorde hath not spoken? * (This token shalt thou haue) Euen when a prophet speaketh in the name of the Lord if the thyng folowe not, nor come to passe, that is the thyng which the Lorde hath not spoken.
But the prophet hath spokē it presumptuously.
Thou shalt not therfore be afrayed of hym.

in they: enheritaunce, and dwellest in they: cy-ties, and in they: houses: thou shalt appoynte
* thre cyties for the in the myddes of the lande whych the Lorde thy God gyueth the to possesse it: thou shalt prepare the waye, and deuyde the coostes of the lande, whiche the Lorde thy God giueth the to enheret, into thre partes, that who soeuer comytteth murder, maye flye thither.

* For this cause muste the slayer flye thither, that he maye lyue. Whoso killeth his neygh-bour ignorantly, & hated hym not in tyme passed: As when a man goeth vnto the wood w his neyghboure to heve wood, *(thyngunge no harme,) and as hys hande fetcheth a stroke with the axe to cut downe the tree, the heed slippeth fro the helue, and smyteth hys neyghbour that he dyeth the same shal flye vnto one of the same cyties, and lyue. Lest the executer of blood folowe after the slayer whyle hys herte is hote, and ouertake hym, bycause the waye is longe: and slaye hym, and yet ther is no cause worthy of death in him, inasmuche as he hated hym not in tyme past. d.

Wherfore I commaund the, saying: thou shalt appoynt out thre cyties for the.

And if the Lorde thy God enlarge thy coostes (as he hath sworne vnto thy fathers) and gyue the all the lande whiche he sayde he wolde gyue vnto thy fathers, thou shalt kepe all these commaundementes to do them, whych I commaunde the this daye, that thou loue the Lorde thy God: and walke in hys wayes euer, & adde thre cyties mo for the vnto those thre, that innocent blood be not shed in thy land, which the Lord thy God gyueth the to enheret, & so blood come vpon the. * But and if a man hate his neygh-bour, and laye wayte for hym, and ryle agaynst him, and smyte him that he dye, and then flyeth vnto any of these cyties: the elders of hys cytye shal sende and fetch hym thence, & deliuer hym into the handes of the Justyce of bloode, that he maye dye. Thyne eye shal not spare hym, but thou shalt put a waye innocent blood from Israel, that it may go well with the. * Thou shalt not remone thy neyghbours marke, whiche they of olde tyme haue set in thyne enheritaunce, that thou shalt enheret in the lande, whiche the Lorde thy God gyueth the to enioye it.

* One wytnesse shal not ryle agaynst a man for any maner trespasse, or for any maner synne, or for any maner faute, that he offendeth in.

* But at the mouth of two wytnesses or of thre wytnesses shal the matter be stablyshed. If an vnrighteous wytnesse ryle vp agaynst a ma to accuse hym of trespasse: then bothe the men whych steyne together, shal stande before the Lorde, before the preistes and iudges, whiche shal be in those dayes, and the iudges shal make diligent inquisition. And if the wytnes be found falle, and that he hath gyuen false wytnesse a-gaynst his brother, then shal ye do vnto him as he had thought to doo vnto hys brother, & thou shalt put euill awaye from the. And other shal heare, and feare: and shall henceforth comyt no more any suche wyckednesse amonge you. And thyne eye shal haue no compassion, but * lyfe for lyfe, eye for eye, toth for toth, hand for hand fote for fote, shalt thou requyre.

And yf any man haue plated a vyneard, and haue not made it comen (and lawfull for euery man to cate of) let hym go and returne agayne vnto his house, lest he dye in the battayl, and another make it comen. * And if any man be betrouthed vnto a wyfe, and haue not taken her, let him go and returne agayne vnto his house, lesse he dye in battayle, and an other man take her.

B And let the officers speake further vnto the people, and say: * Yf any man feare and be faynt herted, let hym go & returne vnto his house, lest he make his brothers hert faynte as wel as his. And when officers haue made an ende of speaking vnto the people, they shall make captaynes of warre ouer them. When thou comest nye vnto a citie to fyght agaynst it * offre the peace. And yf they answer the agayne peaceablye, and open vnto the, then let all the people y is founde therein, be tributaries vnto the, and serue the. And yf they wyll make no peace with the, but make warre agaynst the, thou shalt besiege it. And when the Lord thy God hath deliuered it into thyne handes, thou shalt smyte all y males therof with the edge of the sword. But the women and the chyldren, * and the cattell, and all that is in the citie, and al the spoyles therof shalt thou take vnto thy selfe, and cate the spoyles of thyne enemyes whiche the Lord thy God hath gyuen the. Thus shalt thou do vnto all the cyties whiche are a greete waye of from the, and not of the cyties of these nations.

C But of the cyties of these nations, which the Lord thy God shall gyue the to enherete, thou shalt saue alpye nothynge that bzyetheth. * But shalt destroye them without redemption, namelye, the Hethytes, the Amozites, the Canaanites, the Pherezites, the Heuites, and the Jebusites, as the Lord thy God hath commaunded the, that they teache you not to do after all theyr abominacions, which they haue done vnto theyr goddes, and so ye shaloe synne agaynst the Lord your God. When thou hast besieged a citie longe tyme, and made warre agaynst it to take it, destroye not the trees thereof, that thou woldest thrust an ax vnto them. But eat of the and cut them not downe, for the trees of the fel-des are nomen, to come agaynst the, & to besege the. Only those trees whiche thou knowest that they are not frutefull, (but wyld & fyr for other vses) those shalt thou destroye and cut downe, & make bulworkes agaynst the cytie that maketh war with the, vntyll thou subdue it.

The. xxi. Chapter.

Inquisition for murther. Punishment for chyldren that disobey father and mother.

A If one be founde slayne in y land, which the Lord thy God gyueth y to possesse it, & lyeth in the felde: and it is not knownen who hath slayn him, Then thyne elders and thy iudges shal come forth and mete vnto the cities that are rounde about the slayne. And let the elders of that cytie whiche is nexte vnto the slayne man, take oute of the droue, an heyfer that is not labourd with, nor hath dya-wen in the yoke, and let the elders of that cytye bypunge the heyfer vnto an harde valley, which is neyther eared nor sownen, and stryke of the heyfers necke there in the valley.

* And the prestes the sonnes of Levi (whome the Lord thy God hath chosen to minister, and to blesse in the name of y Lord) shall comeforth and at theyr mouth shal all stryfe and plage be tryed. And all the elders of the cytie that come forth to the slayne man, shal washe theyr handes ouer the heyfer that is beheaded in the valley, and shal answer and say: our handes haue not shed this blood, neither haue our eyes sene it. Be mercyfull Lord, vnto thy people Israel, whiche thou hast deliuered, * and lape no innocent bloode vnto thy people of Israels charge: and the blood shalbe forgyuen the. And so shalt thou put innocent blood from the, when y shalt haue done that which is right in the sight of the Lord. When thou goest to war agaynst thyne enemyes, and the Lord thy God hath deliuered them into thyne handes, and thou hast taken the captiue, and seest amonge the captiues a beautifull woman, and haste a desyre vnto her, that thou woldest haue her to thy wyfe.

Thou shalt bypunge her home to thyne house, & let her haue her heed, & let her nayles growe, and put her raimet that she was taken in from her, and let her remayne in thyne house, and bewepe her father and her mother a moneth long and after that shalt thou go in vnto her, & marrye her, and she shall be thy wyfe. And yf thou haue no sauoure vnto her, then let her go whither she lusteth, and sell her not for monye, nor make chevisaunce of her, bycause thou hast humbled her. Yf a man haue two wyues, one loued and an other hated, & they haue bozne him chyldren, both the loued & also y hated: Yf the fyrste bozne be the sonne of the hated, then when the tyme cometh, y dealeth hys goodes amonge hys chyldren, he may not make the sonne of the beloued fyrst bozne, before the son of the hated, which is indede y first bozne: But he shal knowe the sonne of the hated for the fyrst bozne, & gyue hym double porcyon of all that he hath. For he is the fyrste of hys strength, and to hym belongeth the ryght of the fyrst bozne.

* Yf any man haue a sonne that is stubburne and disobedient, that he wyl not hearken vnto y voyce of hys father, & voyce of hys mother, and they haue chastened hym, and he wolde not hearken vnto them: Then shall hys father and hys mother take hym, and bypunge hym out vnto the elders of that cytye, and vnto the gate of that same place, and say vnto the elders of the cytie: This our sonne is stubburne and bysobydent, and wyl not hearken vnto our voyce: he is a ypotour, and a dyonkarde: And all the men of that cytye shal stone hym wyth stones vnto death. And thou shalt put euyl a waye from the, that al Israel maye heare and feare. * Yf a man haue commytted a trespasse worthy of death, and is put to death for it, and thou hangest hym on tre, hys body shal not remayne all nyght vpon the tree, but thou shalt burye hym the same daye.

For the curse of God is on hym that is baged. Defyle not thou thy lande, whych the Lorde thy God gyueth the to enheret.

The. xxii. Chapter.

What thou oughtest to doo, when thou syndest thy neyghbours beaste goinge astraye. A man shall not weare womens clothyng, or a woman mannes clothyng. To weare a cote of wol and of flaxe is also forbydden. The punishment of hym that accuseth a man vnrightheously, of an aduourcer also, and of hym that rauyneth a mayde.

Thou shalt not se thy brothers ore or shepe go astray, & withdraue thy selfe from them: But shalt byynge them agayne vnto thy brother. And yf thy brother be not nio vnto the, or if thou know him not, then byynge it vnto thyne owne house, & it shall remayn to the, vntil thy brother aske after them, & then deliuer hym them agayne. In lyke maner shalt thou do with his asse, and so shalt thou do with his rayment, and with all lost thynges of thy brother which he hath lost, and thou hast found, shalt thou do lyke wyse, for thou mayest not hyde it. * Thou shalt not se thy brothers asse or ore fall down by the way, and withdraue thy selfe fro them: but shalt helpe hym to heue hym vp agayne. * The woman shall not weare y whych the perterpeth vnto the ma, neither shall a man put on womans rayment. For all that do so, ar abhominacion vnto the Lorde thy God. Yf thou chance vpon a byrdes nest in the waye, in whatsoeuer tree it be, or on y ground, whether they be ponge or egges, and the dam sytting vpon y ponge, or vpon the egges: Thou shalt not take the dam w the pong. But shalt in any wyse let the dam go and take the ponge to the, that thou mayest prosper and prolonge thy dayes. When thou buyldest a newe house: thou shalt make a batelmēt on the roof, that y lade not blood vpon thyne house, yf any man fall therof. * Thou shalt not sowe thy vyneyard with dyuers seedes: lest the frute of y seed which thou hast sown, and the frute of thy vyneyard be defyled. Thou shalt not plowe w an ore & an asse together. Thou shalt not weare a garment made of woll and flaxe together.

* Thou shalt make the gardes (in the hemmes) vpon the. iiii. quarters of thy vesture, whereto thou couerest thy selfe. Yf a man take a wyfe, & when he hath lye wth her, hate her, and laye shameful thynges vnto her charge, & bringe vp an euill name vpon her, & saye: I toke this wyfe, and whē I came to her I found her not a mayd. Then shall the father of the dāsell and y mother byynge forth the tokens of the dāssels virginite vnto the elders of the cytie in the gate. And the dāssels father shall say vnto the elders: I gaue my doughter vnto this man to wyfe, and he hateth her: and lo: he layeth shameful thynges vnto her charge, saying: I found not thy doughter a mayd. And yet these are y tokens of my doughters virginite. And they shall spede the vesture before the elders of the citie. And the elders of y citie shall take that man and chastice hym, and merce hym in an hundred sylvers of syluer, and gyue them vnto the father of the dāsell, bycause he hath brought vp an euill name vpon a mayd of Israel. And she shall be his wyfe, and he maye not put her awaye all his dayes. But and yf the thing be of a surety, that the dāsell be not found a virgin, they shall bring the dāsell to the doze of her fathers house, & the men of that cytie shall stone her with stones to death, bycause she hath wrought follye in Israel, to playe the whoze in her fathers house. And so thou shalt put euill away from the.

* Yf a man be found lying with a woman that hath a wedded husband, they shall dye eyther o: ther of them: bothe the man that laye wth the wyfe, and also the wyfe: and so thou shalt put awaye euill from Israel. Yf a mayde be handfasted vnto an husband, and then a man synde her in the towne and lye with her, ye shall bring the both out vnto the gates of the same citie, & shall stone them with stones to death. The dāsel bycause she cryed not, beinge in the cytie. And the man, bycause he hath humbled hys neyghbours wyfe, and y shalt put awaye euill from the. But yf a man synde a betrothed dāsell in the felde, & force her, and lye w her: Then the man that laye with her shall dye alone: but vnto the dāsell y shalt do no harme: because there is in the dāsell no cause of death. For as when a man ryseth agaynst his neyghbour and slepeth hym, euē so is this matter. For he found her in the felde, & the betrothed dāsell cryed: and there was no man to succour her. * Yf a man synde a mayde that is not betrothed, and take her, and lye with her, & they be founde: Then the man that lay with her shall gyue vnto the dāssels father fyftee sylvers of syluer. And she shall be his wyfe, bycause he hath humbled her: and he may not put her awaye all hys dayes. * No man shall take hys fathers wyfe, nor vnhale hys fathers couerynge.

The. xxiii. Chapter.

What maner of men may not be admytted into the church. Of pollucions that happen in the nyght. Yf a man be gelded or hath his preuie

None that is gelded or hath his preuie members cut of, shall come into the congregation of the Lorde. And he that is borne of a comen womā, shall not come into y congregacion of y Lorde, no not in y tenth generacion he shall not entre into the congregacion of the Lorde. * The Ammonites & the Moabites shall not come into the congregacion of y Lorde, no, not in the tenth generacion, nor they shall neuer come into y congregacion of y Lorde bycause they met you not with byeed and water in the way, when ye came out of Egypt, and because they byred agaynst the * Balaam the son of Beor, of Bethor, of Mesopotamia, to curse y Reuerthelesse, the Lorde thy God wold not herken vnto Balaam, but the Lorde thy God turned the curse to a blessing vnto the, bycause the Lorde thy God loueth the. Thou shalt not seke the prosperite or wealth of the al thy dayes for euer. * Thou shalt not abhorre an Edomite, for he is thy brother, neither shalt y abhorre an Egyptian, bycause thou wast a straüger in his land. The children y are begotten of them shall come into the congregacion of the Lorde, in the thyrde generacion. When thou goest out with the host agaynst thyne enemies, kepe y from all wyched

W nelle. If there be among you any man that is uncleane by the reason of uncleannes that chaunceth hym by nyght, let hym go out of the host, & not come in agayne into the host, but at even let hym wash him selfe with water, and then when the son is downe, let hym come into the host agayne. Thou shalt haue a place also without the host whither thou shalt resort to, & (for thy naturall necessitie) and thou shalt haue a sharpe point vpon thy weapon, and when thou wilt ease thy selfe, dyg therewith, and turne and couer the whyche is departed from the. For the Lord thy God walketh in the midst of thyne host, to rypd the, & to set thyne enemies before the. Therefore thou shalt place of thyne host be pure, that he se no uncleane thyng in the and so turne hym selfe from the. Thou shalt not deliuer vnto his master a seruauit which is escaped from his master vnto the. He shall dwel with the, euen among you in what place he hym selfe lyketh best, in one of thy cities where it is good for him, and thou shalt not vex him. There shall be no whoze of the daughters of Israel, nor whoze keeper of the sonnes of Israel. * Thou shalt neither bring a hyze of an whoze, nor the price of a dog into the house of the Lord thy God in any manner of vow: for euen both of them are abominacions vnto the Lord thy God. * Thou shalt not hurt thy brother by vsury of moneye, nor by vsury of corne, nor by vsury of any thing that he may be hurt withal. Vnto a straunger thou mayst lend vpon vsury, but not vnto thy brother: for the Lord thy God may blesse the in al that thou settest thyne hande to, in the land whither thou goest to conquer it. * When thou hast vowed a vow vnto the Lord thy God, thou shalt not slacke to paye it. For the Lord thy God wyl surely requyre it of the, and it shall be syn in the. If thou shalt leaue vowing, it shall be no syn in the, but if whyche is ones gone out of thy lippes, thou must kepe and do, accordyng as thou hast vowed vnto the Lord thy God of a freewill: and as thou hast spoken with thy mouth. When thou comest vnto thy neyghbours vyneyard, thou mayest eat grapes thy belly full at thyne owne pleasure: but thou shalt put none in thy vessel: Euen so when thou comest into thy neyghbours corne, thou mayest plucke the eares with thyne hande, but thou shalt not moue a speckle vnto thy neyghbours corne.

The. xliiii. Chapter.

Divorcement is permitted. He that is newly married shall not be compelled to go to warre.

When a man hath taken a wife and married her, if she fynde no fauour in his eyes, because he hath espied some uncleannes in her. * He let him write her a bill of divorcement, and put it in her hande, & send her out of his house. And when she is departed out of his house, let her goe, and be an other mans wyfe. And if the seconde husband hate her, let him write her also a letter of divorcement, and put it in her hand, & send her out of his house: or if the seconde man dye which took her to wyfe, her first man which sent her away, may not take her agayne to be his wife, after she is defyled. For it is abhominacion in the sight of the Lord. And thou shalt not cause the land to syn, whych the Lord thy God shall gyue the to inheret.

* When a man taketh a newe wyfe, he shall not go a warfare, neither shall he be charged w any business: but shall be free at home one yere, and reioyse with his wyfe whiche he hath taken. * No man shall take the nether nor the upper milstone to pledge, for then he shall hurt a mans lyfe. * If any man be found stealing any of his brethren the chyldren of Israel, & abuse th hym, or selleth hym, the these shall dye. And thou shalt put euyl awaye from the, take hede to thy selfe as concerning the plague of leprosy, that thou obserue diligently. And ye shall do accordyng to al that the preist of the Levites shall teach you. Euen as I commaunded the, so ye shall obserue to do. Remembre what the Lord thy God dyd vnto * Miriam by the way after ye were come out of Egypt. When thou dost lede thy brother any thing: thou shalt not go into his house to fetch a pledge from thence: but thou shalt stande wout, and the man that hath borrowed it of the, shall bring the pledge out vnto the: Furthermore if it be a poore bodye, thou shalt not sleepe with his pledge: but thou shalt deliuer him his pledge agayne when the sun goeth downe, so he may sleepe in his owne raiment, and blesse the. And it shall be rightousnesse vnto the, before the Lord thy God.

* Thou shalt not defraude an hyred seruauit that is nedy and poore, whether he be of thy brethren, or of the straungers that are in thy lande within thy gates. * But thou shalt gyue him his hire the same day, & let not the sun go downe thereon. For he is nedy, and therewith sustenteth his life, lest he crye agaynst the vnto the Lord, and it be syn vnto the. * The fathers shall not dye for the chyldren, nor the chyldren for the fathers: but euery man shall dye for his owne syn. Thou shalt not hynder the ryght of the straunger nor of the fatherles, nor take a widows raiment to pledge. But remembre that thou wast a seruauit in Egypt, and how the Lord thy God deliuered the thence. And therefore I commaund the to do this thyng.

* When thou cuttest downe thyne harvest in the felde, and hast forgotten a shefe in the felde, thou shalt not go agayne to fet it. But it shall be for the straunger, the fatherlesse, & the wydow, that the Lord thy God maye blesse the in all the workes of thyne hande. When thou beatest downe thyne olyue tree, thou shalt not turne agayne to gather vp that thou ledest behynde the, but it shall be for the straunger, the fatherlesse, and the wydow. When thou gatherest thy vyneyard, thou shalt not gather the grapes cleane after thee, but leaue them for the straunger, the fatherlesse and the wydow. And remembre that thou also wast a seruauit in the lande of Egypt: and therefore I commaunde the to do this thyng.

set hys name in it. And y shalte come vnto the preist, that shal be in those dayes, & say vnto him I knowlege this day vnto the Lord thy God, y I am come vnto the couñtrei which the Lord swore vnto our fathers for to geue vs. And the preist shal take the maund out of thyne hande, & set it doune befoze the aultar of y Lord thy God & thou shalt answere & saye befoze the Lord thy

God: The Shiriās went about to destroy my father, & he went downe into Egypte, & sojour-ned there with a fewe folke, & grewe there vnto a nacion great, mighty, and ful of people. * And the Egyptians vexed vs, and troubled vs, & laded vs w most cruel bondage. And whē we cry-

And Moses charged the people the same day, saying: These shall stande vpon mount Garisim, to blesse p people when ye are come ouer Iordan: Simeon, Leui, Iuda, Issachar, Ioseph, & Benjamin. And these shall stande vpon mount Ebal to curse: Ruben, Gad, Aser, Zabulon, Dan, and Nephthali. And p Leuites that answered and saue vnto al the men of Israel with a loude voyce.

* Cursed be the man that maketh any carved or molten ymage (an abhominacyon vnto the Lord, the worke of the handes of p craftesman) and putteth it in a secreete place: and all the people shall aunswere, and saue: Amen.

* Cursed be he that curseth his father and his mother, and all the people shall saue: Amen.

* Cursed be he that remoueth hys neyghbours marke, and all the people shall saue: Amen.

* Cursed be he that maketh the blynd go out of his way, and all the people shall saue: Amen.

* Cursed be he that hyndreth the ryght of the stranger, fatherlesse and wydowe, and all the people shall saue: Amen.

* Cursed be he that lyeth wth hys fathers wyfe and vnhealeth his fathers coueryng, and all the people shall saue: Amen.

* Cursed be he that lyeth wth any maner of beast, and all the people shall saue: Amen.

* Cursed be he that lyeth wth hys syster, the doughter of hys father, or the doughter of hys mother, and all the people shall saue: Amen.

* Cursed be he that lyeth wth his mother in lawe, and all the people shall saue: Amen.

* Cursed be he that smyte th his neyghboure secretly, and all the people shall saue: Amen.

* Cursed be he that lyeth wth hys neyghbours wyfe, and all the people shall saue: Amen.

* Cursed be he that taketh a rewarde to slaye the soule of innocent blood: and all the people shall saue: Amen.

* Cursed be he that contynueth not in all the wordes of this lawe, to do them: and all the people shall saue: Amen.

The xxviij. Chapter.

The promyses of the blessings vnto them that regard the commaundementes, and the curses to the contrary.

* thou shalt hearken diligently vnto the voyce of the Lord thy God, & obserue & do al his commaundementes, which I commaunde the this day. The Lord wyl set the on hygh aboue all the nacys of p earth. * And al these blessings shall come on the, & ouertake the, yf p shalt hearken vnto the voyce of the Lord thy God. Blessed shalt thou be in the towne, & blessed in the felde: blessed shalt be the frute of thy body, & p frute of thy ground, & the frute of thy catel, the encrease of thyne oren, and the flockes of thy shepe: blessed shalt be thy basket & thy store. Blessed shalt thou be, when thou goest out, and blessed when p comest in. * The Lord shall gene ouer thyne enemyes that ryle agaynst p , that they may fall before thy face. They shall come out agaynst p one way, and flye before the seuē wayes. The Lord shall put the blessing vpo the in thy store houses and in al that thou lettest thyne hande to, & wyl blesse the in all the lande whych the Lord thy God geneth the. The Lord shall make the an holy people vnto hym selfe, as he hath sworne vnto the: yf thou shalt kepe the commaundementes of the Lord thy God, and walke in his wayes.

And all nacys of the earth shall se that the name of the Lord, is called vpon ouer the, & they shall be afrayde of the. And the Lord shall make the plenteous in goodes, in p frute of thy body, in the frute of thy catell, and in the frute of thy ground, in the lande which the Lord swore vnto thy fathers, to gene the. The Lord shall open vnto the his good treasure, & euen p heuē to geue rayne vnto thy land in due reason, & to blesse all the labours of thy hand. * And thou shalt lende vnto many nacys, but shalt not borrowe thy selfe. And the Lord shall set the before & not behynde, and thou shalt be aboue only, and not beneth: yf that p hearken vnto the commaundementes of the Lord thy God, which I commaunde the this day, to kepe and to do the. And se that thou p bow not asyde fro any of these wordes, which I commaund the this day, ether to the right hand or to the left, that thou woldest go after strange gods to serue them. * But and yf thou wylt not hearken vnto the voyce of the Lord thy God, to kepe and to do al his commaundementes and his ordinaunces which I commaund p thys day: al these curses shall come vpon the, and ouertake the. Cursed shalt thou be in the towne, & cursed in the felde: cursed shalt thy basket be, & thy store. Cursed shalt be the frute of thy body, & the frute of thy lande, and the frute of thyne oren, and the flockes of thy shep. Cursed shalt thou be when p goest in, and cursed when p goest out. The Lord shall sende vpon the cursyng, destruction, and rebuke, in all that thou lettest thy hande to, & that thou doest, vntyl he destroye the, & byng the to noughte quickly: because of the wickednesse of thyne inuencyons, and because thou hast forsaken me. The Lord shall make the pest p^lce cleue vnto the, vntil he haue consumed the from of the lande, whycher p goest to enioy it. * The Lord shall smyte p wth swellynge, wth feuers, heate burnynge burnyng, & wyth the sword, wyth wetherpyng and wyth blastpyng. And they shal folow the vntyll thou perishe. * And the heauen that is ouer thy head shal be brasse, and the earth that is vnder the, yron. The Lord shal turne the rayne of the land vnto powder and dust: euen from heuen shal they come downe vpon the, vntyll thou be brought to nought. And the Lord shal plage þe before thyne enemies: Thou shalt come out one waye agaynst them, and fyve seuē wayes before them, and shalt be scattered amonge all the kyngdomes of the earthe. And thy carcashe shall be meate vnto all maner foules of the ayre, and vnto the bestes of the earth, and no man shal fraye them away. * The Lord wyl smyte the wyth þe botch of Egypt, and the Emeroides, scalle, and maungynes, that thou mayst not be healed therof. * And the Lord shal smyte þe wyth madnes, & blindnes, and dasyng of hert. Thou shalt grope at none dayes, as the bynd gropeth in darknes and shalt not prosper in thy wayes. Thou shalt be oppressed wyth wrong, & be polled euermore and no mā shal succour the. * Thou shalt be betrouthed vnto a wyfe, & another man shal lye wyth her. Thou shalt buylde an house, and not dwell therein. Thou shalt also plant a vineparde & shalt not gather the grapes. Thyne ore shall be slayne before thyne eyes, & thou shalt not eate therof. Thyne asse shal be violently take away euen before thy face, and shalt not be restored to the agayne. Thy shepe shal be geue vnto thyne enemies, and no man shal rescue them.

D Thy sonnes and thy doughtes shal be geuen vnto another nacyō, and thyne eyes shal be it, & dase vpon them al the day longe, and there shal be no myghte in thyne hande. The frute of thy lande and all thy labours shal a nacyō which thou knowest not, eate, and thou shalt contynually suffre violence only, & be oppressed alwaye so that thou shalt be cleane besyde thy selfe, for the spght of thyne eyes whyche thou shalt se. The Lord shal smyte the in the knees and legges, with a mischeuous botch that canos be healed: euen from the sole of thy fote vnto the top of thy head. * The Lord shal bypnyng the & thy kyng (which þe shalt set ouer the) vnto a nacyō, which nether thou nor thy fathers haue knowē, & there thou maist serue straunge gods: euen wood and stone. And thou shalt be wonderd at, spoken of, and iested at amonge all nacyōs, whyther the Lord shal cary the. * Thou shalt cary much sede into the felde: and shalt gather but lytle in, for þe grethoppers shal destroy it. Thou shalt plant a vyneyard and drasse it, but shalt neither drynke of the wyne, nether gather þe grapes, for þe wormes shal eate it. Thou shalt haue olyue trees thorowout all thy costes, but shalt not anoynte thy selfe wyth the oyle, for thine olyue trees shal be roted out. Thou shalt beget sons, and doughters, but shalt not haue them: for they shal be carryed away captiue. All thy trees & frute of thy lande shal be marred wyth blastpyng. The straunger that is among you, shal clyme aboue the vpon hye, and thou shalt come downe beneth alow. He shal lende the, and thou shalt not lende hym:

he shal be before, and thou behynde. Moreouer, all these curses shal come vpon the, and shal folow the and ouertake the, tyl thou be destroyed because thou herkenest not vnto the voyce of þe Lord thy God, to kepe his comaundementes, & hys ordinaunces, which he comaunded the, and they shal be vpon the as myzacles and wonders & vpon thy sede for euer, because thou seruedst not the Lord thy God wyth ioyfulnesse & with a good hert, when thou hadst abundaunce of all thynges, therfore thou shalt serue thyne enemy which the Lord shal sende vpon the: in honger and thurst, in nakednes, and in nede of al thyng and he shal put a poke of yron vpon thy necke vntyll he haue brought the to nought. And þe Lord shal bypnyng a nacyō vpon the from far, and fro the ende of the worlde as swyfte as an Egle flyeth: a nacyō whose tonge thou shalt not vnderstande: a harde fauoured nacyō, which shal not regarde the person of the olde, nor haue compasyon of the yonge. The same shal eate the frute of thy catell, and the frute of thy lande vntyll he haue destroyed the: & shal leaue the nether corne, wyne, nor oyle, nether the encrease of thyne ore nor þe flockes of thy shepe: vntill he haue brought the to nought. And he shal kepe the in all thy cityes, vntyll he haue cast downe thy hye wals & stronge holdes, wherin thou trustedst, thorowout al the lande. And he shal besege the in al thy cityes thorowout all thy lande, which the Lord thy God hath geuen the. * And thou shalt eat þe frute of thyne own body: the flesh of thy sonnes and of thy doughters, which the Lord thy God hath geuen the in that straitnes and sege wherewith thyne enemy shal besege the: so that it shal greue the man (that is tender and excedyng delicate amonge you,) to loke on his bzother and vpon his wyfe that lyeth in hys bosome, and on þe remnaunt of hys chyldre, which he hath yet left for feare of geupnyng (vnto any of them) of þe flesh of his chyldren, whō he shal eat, because he hath nothyng left hym in that straitnesse and sege, wherewith thyne enemy shal besege the in al thy cityes. Yee, and the womā that is so tender and delicate, þe dare not aduenture to set the sole of her fote vpon the ground, (for softnes and tendernes) shal be greued to loke on her husbāde & lyeth in her bosome, and on her sonne and on her doughter: and on her after byrth (that is to com out from betwene her legges,) and her chyldren which she shal beare: For whē al thynges lacke she shal eate them secretly, in the sege and straitnes, wherewith thyne enemy shal besege the in thy cityes. If thou wylt not kepe and do al the wordes of this law (þe are wyrtten in this booke) and feare this glorpyous and fearful name of the Lord thy God: the Lord wyl sende vnto the and thy iede, great plagis and of longe continuance, euell sykneses and of longe durance.

Moreouer, he wyl bypnyng vpon the all the diseases of Egypte, and those which thou wast afraid of, shal cleaue vnto the. And al maner sykneses, and al maner plagis which are not written in the booke of this law, wyl the Lord bypnyng vpon the, vntyll he bypnyng the to nought. And ye shal be

¶ And ye shalbe wasted from of the lande, whyther thou goest to enioye it. And the Lord shal scatter the amonge all nacions, fro the one ende of the worlde vnto the other, & there thou shalt serue straunge goddes whyche thou nor thy fathers haue knowen: euen wood and stone. And amonge these nacions thou shalt fynde no ease, neyther shal the sole of thy fote haue reste. But the Lord shal geue the there an vnquyet hert, and dasping eyes, and sorow of mynde. And thy lyfe shal hange before the and thou shalt feare both daye and nyght, & thou shalt haue no trust in thy lyfe. In the moornyng thou shalt say wold God it were night. And at night thou shalt say wold God it were moornyng: for feare of thyn herte, whych thou shalt feare and for the syghte of thyn eyes, whyche thou shalt se.

¶ And the Lord shal brynge the into Egypt agayne with shyppes, by the way which I bad the, that thou shuldest * se it nomore. And there ye shalbe solde vnto your enemyes, for bondemen and bondwomen: and no man shal by you.

¶ The. xix. Chapter.

¶ The people are exhorted to obserue the commaundementes whyche ys theyre they are thretened to be plagued.

¶ These are the wordes of * appointmēt which the Lord comaunded Moyses to make with the chyldre of Israel in the lande of Moab besyde the appoyntmēt which he made wyth the in Horeb, & Moyses called al Israel, & sayd vnto them: Ye haue sene all that the Lord dyd before your eyes in the lande of Egypte: vnto Pharaō and vnto all hys seruautes, and vnto all hys lande, the great temptacions which thyn eyes haue sene, those great miracles & wonders: & yet the Lord hath not geue you an hert to perceaue and eyes to se, and eares to hear, vnto this day. And I haue led you fourty yere in the wyldernes and your * clothes are not waxed old vpon you, and thy shoue is not waxed old vpon thy fote. Ye haue eaten no breade: nor dronke wyne: or stronge drinke, that ye myght know, how that I am the Lord your God.

¶ And ye came vnto this place and Sihon the kynge of Hesbon, and Og kynge of Basan came out agaynst vs vnto battell, & we smote them: and toke theyr land, and gaue it for an inherytaunce vnto the Rubenytes, and Gadynes, and to the halfe trybe of Manasse, * kepe therefore the wordes of this appointment and do the that ye may vnderstande al that ye ought to do. Ye stande this daye euery one of you before the Lord your God: your captaynes, your trybes, your elders, your offycers, and all the men of Israel: your chyldre also, your wiues, & the straunger that is in your houte * from the heuer of thy wood, vnto the drauer of thy water: that thou shuldest go into the appoyntmēt of the Lord thy God, and into hys othe * whyche the Lord thy God maketh with this daye. For to make the a people vnto hym selfe, and that he may be vnto the a God, as he hath sayde vnto the, and as he hath sworne vnto thy fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

I make not this bonde and this othe wyth you only, but with hym that standeth here with vs this daye before the Lord our God, and also with hym that is not here with vs this daye. For ye knowe, howe we haue dwelt in the land of Egypt, and howe we came thowre the myddes of the nacions which ye passed by. And ye haue sene theyr abhominacions and theyr ydols (wood and stone, syluer and golde) which were amonge them. Leste there be amonge you man or woman, kynred or trybe, whose hert turneth awaye this daye from the Lord your God, to goo and serue the goddes of these nacions: and lest there be amonge you summe rote that beareth gall and wormewood, so that when he heareth the wordes of this othe, he blysse hym selfe in his herte, sayinge. * I shall haue peace. I wyll walke in the meanyng of myne owne herte, (to put the dronken to the trystie) And so the Lord wyll not consent to be mercifull vnto hym, but then the wrath of the Lord & hys gelousy shal smoke agaynst that man, and al the curses that are wyrtten in this booke, shal light vpon hym, and the Lord shal wote out his name from vnder heauen, and the Lord shal separte hym vnto enell out of all the trybes of Israel, accordyng vnto all the curses of the appoyntmēt, that are wyrtten in the booke of this lawe.

¶ So that the generacion to come of your chyldren, that shall ryle vp after you, and the straunger that shall come from a farre lande shall say whē they se the plagis of that lande, and the diseases wherewith the Lord hath smytten it, how all the lande is burnte by wyth byrmstone and salt, & that it is neyther lowen: nor beareth, nor any grasse groweth therein, lyke as in the place of the ouerthrowyng of * Sodome, Gomor, Adama, and zeboim: which the Lord ouerthrew in his wrath and angre: Euen then shall all nacions saye: * wherfore hath the Lord done of this facyon vnto this lande? Howe feare is this great wrath? And men shall saye, because they leste the testamēt of the Lord God of theyr fathers, whyche he made wyth theym, when he brought them out of the lande of Egypte. For they went and serued straunge goddes and worshypped them: Goddes which they knewe not, and whyche had geuen them noughte. And the wrath of the Lord waxed whote agaynst this lande, to brynge vpon it all the curses that are wyrtten in this booke. And the Lord cast them out of theyr lande in anger, wrath, and great indignacyon, and cast them into a straunge lande as this daye beareth wytnesse. The secretes of the Lord our God * are opened vnto vs, and to our chyldren for ever, that we maye doo all the wordes of this lawe.

¶ The worde of God is at hande.

When al these wordes are come vpon the, * þ blessing & the curse whyche I haue set before þ, thou shalt turne vnto thynne hert, amonge all the nacpions whyther the Lorde thy God hath thrust the, * & come agayne vnto þ Lorde thy God, and herken vnto hys voyce in al these thynges that I commaunde the thys day: thou and thy chyldren with all thynne hert and all thy soule. * And þ Lorde thy God wyl turne thy captiuitie, and haue compassy on vpon the, and wyl turne, and fet the agayne from all the nacpions, among which the Lorde thy God shal haue scattered the. Though thou were caste vnto the extreme partes of heauen, euen fro thence wyl the Lorde thy God gather the, and from thence wyl he fet the, and the Lorde thy God wyl bypunge þ into the lande whiche thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt enioye it.

And he wyl shewe the kyndnesse, and multiplye the aboue thy fathers. * And the Lorde thy God wyl circumsyle thynne harte, and the herte of thy seide, that thou mayste loue the Lorde thy God wyth all thynne herte, and all thy soule that thou mayste lyue. And the Lorde thy God wyl putte all these curses vpon thynne enemyes, and on them that hate the, and that persecute the. But thou shalt turne, and herken vnto þ voyce of the Lorde, and do al his commaundementes, which I comaunde the thys day. And the Lorde thy God wyl make the plenteous in all the workes of thynne hande, in the frute of thy body, and in the frute of thy cattell, and in the frute of thy lande for thy welth. * For the Lorde wyl turne agayne and reioyce ouer the to do þ good, as he reioysed ouer thy fathers. If þ herken onely vnto the voyce of the Lorde thy God to kepe his commaundementes and his ordinaunces which are wyrtte in the booke of thys lawe, & þ thou turne vnto the Lorde thy God with al thynne hert and all thy soule. * For the commaundement which I comaunde the this day, is not seperated from the, neyther farre of.

It is not in heuen, that thou nedest to (complayne and) saye: who shall go vp for vs to heauen, and fet it vs, that we maye heare it, and do it? Neither is it beyonde the see, that thou shuldest saye: who shall go ouer the see for vs, and fet it vs, that we maye heare it, and doo it? But the worde is very nye vnto the: euen in thy mouth and in thynne herte, that thou do it. * Beholde I haue set before the this day lyfe and good, death and euell: For where as I commaunde the this daye, to loue the Lorde thy God, to walke in hys wayes, and to kepe hys commaundementes, hys ordinaunces, and his lawes (þ thou so do) thou shalt lyue and multiply, and the Lorde thy God shall blesse the in the lande, whyther thou goest to possesse it. But and þ thynne hert turne away so that thou wylt not heare: but shalt go astray and worshyp straunge goddes, and serue them, I pronouce vnto you also thys day that ye shall surely perishe, & that ye shal not prolonge your dayes vpo the lande whyther thou passest ouer Jordan to possesse it. * I call heauen and earthe to recorde thys daye agaynst you, that I haue set before you lyfe and death, blessing and cursynge. Therefore chose lyfe, that both thou & thy seide maye lyue, that thou mayst loue the Lorde thy God, and be obedyent to his voyce, & cleaue vnto hym. For he is thy lyfe, and the lengthe of thy dayes, that thou mayst dwell vpo the earth which the Lorde sware vnto thy fathers: Abrahams, Isahac and Jacob to geue them.

The. xxxi. Chapter.

Moses beyng to dye, ordereth Josua to rule the people in hys steade. Thys booke Deuteronomie is wyrtten and layde in the Tabernacle besyde the Arke. The Leuites are charged to reade it to the people.

And Moses went & spake these wordes vnto all Israel, and sayde vnto them, I am an hundred and twentie yere olde thys daye, and can nomore go out and in. Also the Lorde hath sayde vnto me: thou shalt not go ouer this Jordan. The Lorde thy God he wyl go ouer before the, and he wyl destroy these nacpions before the and thou shalt conquer them. * And Josua, he shall go before the, as the Lorde hath sayde.

And the Lorde shall do vnto them, as he dyd to * Sehon and Og kynges of the Amozites and vnto the lande of them: whome he destroyed.

And the Lorde shal geue them ouer before your face that ye maye do vnto them accordynge vnto all the commaundementes which I haue commaunded you. Plucke vp your hartes therefore, and be stronge, drede not, nor be afraide of them: for the Lorde thy God hym selfe doth go with þ. He shall not fayle the, nor forsake the.

And Moses called vnto Josua, and sayd vnto hym in the syght of all Israel. * Be stronge & bolde, for thou must go with this people vnto þ lande which the Lorde hath sworne vnto they fathers, to geue them, and thou shalt geue it the to enheret. And the Lorde he doth go before the: he shall not fayle the, neyther forsake the: feare not therefore, nor be dysconforted: And Moses wrote this lawe, and deliuered it vnto the preisttes the sonnes of Leuy (whiche * bare the Arke of the testament of the Lorde) and vnto al the elders of Israel, and Moses commaunded them, sayinge: * At the poynt of seuen yeres in the solemnitie of the free yere, euen in the feast of tabernacles, when all Israel is come to appere before the Lorde thy God, in the place whyche he hath chosen: thou shalt reade thys lawe before all Israel in they eares. Gather the people together: men women, and chyldren, & the stranger that is within thy gates, þ they may heare, and learne and feare the Lorde your God, and kepe, and obserue all the wordes of thys lawe, and that they chyldren which knowe nothyng maye heare, and learne to feare the Lorde your God, as long as ye lyue in the lande: whyther ye go ouer Jordan to possesse it.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Beholde thy dayes are come, that thou must dye. Cal Josua therefore, and stande ye in the tabernacle of wytnesse that I maye geue hym a charge. And Moses, and Josua went, and stode in the tabernacle

The xxxij. Chapter.
The songe of Moses.

Hear O ye Heavens, and * I shall speake, and lette the earthe heare the wordes of my mouth. * My doctrine shall droppe as dothe the rayne, and my speache shal flowe as doth the dewe, as the shower vpon the herbes, & as the droppes vpon the grasse. For I wyll call on the name of the Lorde: & scribe ye honour vnto our God. * Perfecte is the worke of the most myghty God: for all hys wayes are iudgemente. He is a God of truthe, wythout wyckednesse: ryghtuous, and iuste is he.

Frowardly haue they done agaynst hym thowowe theyr deformities: not hys owne chyldre, but a wycked and frowarde generacyon. Do ye sorewarde the Lorde, O foolyshe nacyon and vndyle: * Is not he thy father, and thyne owner? hathe he not made the, and ordeyned the? Remembre the dayes of the world that is past: consyder the yeres fro tyme to tyme. * I sae thy father, and he wyll shewe the: thy elders, & they wyl tell the. * Whē the most hyghest deuyded nacyons, and when he seperated the sonnes of Adam, he put the borders of the nacions fast by the multitude of the chyldren of Israel.

For the Lordes parte is hys folke, and Jacob is the porcyon of hys enderptauce.

He founde hym in a deserte lande, in a voyde grounde, and in a roaryng wyldernesse. He led hym aboute, he gaue hym vnderstandyng, and kepte hym as the apple of hys eye.

As an Egge that stereth vp her nest and fletchereth ouer her yong, & stretcheth out her wynges, so doth he take them vp, and beareth them on his shulders. The Lord alone was his guide and there was no straunge god wyth hym.

He carped hym vnto an hye lande, that he myght eate the encrease of the felde. * And he fed hym wyth honye out of the rocke, and wyth oyle out of the most harde stone. With butter of kyne, and mylke of the shepe, with fat of the lambs and of fat rammes and begoates, wyth the fat of most plenteous wheate, and that y mightest drynke the most pure bloode of the grape.

But he that shulde haue bene vpright, when he waxed fatte, spurned wyth his heile.

Thou art wel fed, thou arte growen thicke, thou art laden wyth fatnesse.

And he forsoke God hys maker, and regarded not the God of hys saluacyon. They prouoked hym to anger wyth straunge Goddes: euen w abhominacyons prouoked they hym. * They offred vnto deuels, and not to God, euen to goddes whom they knew not: to newe goddes that came newly vp, whom theyr fathers feared not. Of God that begate the thou arte vniyndful, & hast forgotten God that made the. The Lord therfore laue it, and was angry, bycause of the prouokynge of his sonnes and of his doughters.

And he sayd: I wyll hyde my face from them, and wyll se what theyr ende shal be. For they are a verpe frowarde generacyon, chyldren in whom is no fayth. They haue angered me wyth that which is no god, & prouoked me wyth their vanities. * And I also wyl prouoke them wyth those to those whiche are no people, I wyl anger them with a foolyshe nation. * For fyre is kyndled in my wrath, and burneth vnto the botome of hel. And hath consumed the earth with her increase, and set a fyre vnto the bottomes of the mountaynes. I wyl heape mylchenes vpon them, and wyl destroye them with myne arrowes.

They shalbe burnt with hunger, and consumed with heate, and with bitter destruction. * I wyl also sende the teeth of beastes vpon them, with the furpousnesse of serpent in the duste. Without forth, shall the swerd robbe them of theyr chyldre: and within in the chambze feare, both yonge men and yonge women, and the suckelinges with the men of grape heades. I haue sayde: I wyl scatter them abrode: and make the remembraunce of them to cease frome amonge men. Were it not that I feared the wrath of the enemy, lest theyr aduersaries shulde utterly destroye them selues, and lest they shuld saye: our hye hande hath done all this, and not the Lorde.

For it is a nacyon without foretell, neyther is there any vnderstandyng in the: O that they were wyle, & vnderstode thys, that they wolde consider theyr latter ende.

Howe shulde one chase a thousand, & two put tenthousand to flyght: except theyr maker had solde them, & except the Lord had shut them vp?

For theyr God is not as oure God, oure enemies also them selues are Iudges.

For theyr wyne is of the vyneparde of Sodom, and of the felde of Gomorra: Theyr grapes are grapes of Gal, & theyr clusters be bitter.

Theyr wyne is the popson of draggons, and the cruel gall of aspes. Is not this sayde in store with me, and sealed vp amonge my treasures?

* Vengeance is myne, & I wyl rewarde, theyr fete shal lyde in due tyme: For the daye of theyr destruction is at hande, and the thynges y shall come vpon them, make haste.

* For the Lorde shal iudge his people, & haue compassyon on his seruauntes, when he seyth y theyr power is gone, & that they be in a maner shut vp, or brought to nought and forsaken.

And he shall saye * where are theyr goddes? theyr God in whom they trusted.

The fat of whole sacrifices they dyd eat, and dranke the wyne of theyr dynke offerpuges: let them yse vp and helpe you, and be your protection. (in necessitye.)

Se nowe howe that I, * I alone am God, & there is none but I: * I kill, & wyl make alpye: I wounde, and I wyl heale: * neyther is there any that can delpyer oute of my hande,

For I wyl lyfte vp myne hande to heauen, and wyl saye: I lyue euer.

If I whet the edge of my swerde, and myne hande take holde to do iustyce, I wyl recopence vengeance on myne enemies, and wyl rewarde them that hate me.

I wyl make myne arrowes dronke with blood, & my swerde shall eat fleshe, & that for the blood of the slayne, and for theyr captiuitie, sens the begynnyng of the wrath of the enemy.

* Prayse ye hethen bys people, for he wyl avenge the blood of bys seruauntes, and wyl avenge hym of his aduersaries, and wyl be mercifull vnto bys lande, and to bys people.

And Moses came and spake all the wordes of this songe in the eares of the people, he & Joshua the sunne of Sun. And Moses spake al these wordes vnto the ende to all the people of Israel and sayd vnto them: * Set your hartes vnto al the wordes which I testifie vnto you this day: and ye shal comaunde them vnto your chyldre, that they maye obserue and do al the wordes of this lawe. And let it not be a vayne worde vnto you: for in it is your lyfe, & thowoe thys worde ye shall prolonge your dayes in the lande whither ye go ouer Jordan to conquire it.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses the selfe same daye, sayinge, get the vp into thys mountayne Abarim, (that is to saye a passage) vnto the mounte Rebo, whych is in the lande of Moab: ouer agaynst Jericho. And beholde the lande of Canaan, whiche I geue vnto the chyldren of Israel to possesse: And dye in the mounte whych thou goest vp vnto, & thou shalte be gathered vnto thy people. * As Aaron thy brother dyed in mount Hor, and was gathered vnto bys people, because ye trespassed agaynst me among the chyldren of Israel, * at the waters of stryfe, at Cadis in the wyldernes of zin: for ye sanctified me not amonge the chyldren of Israel. Thou shalte therfore se the lande before the, and shalt not go thither, vnto the lande which I geue the chyldren of Israel.

The xxxij. Chapter.

Moses dynged blessed all the trybes of Israel.

This is the blessing wherewith Moses the man of God blessed the chyldre of Israel befoze his death, & said * The Lorde came from Sinai, and he wed his beames: fro Scir vnto them, and appeared from mounte Pharan, and he came with thousandes of sayntes, and in bys ryght hande a lawe of fyre for them. And he loued the people. * All bys sayntes also are in thy handes. They were smytted to go after thy fete, and to receyue of thy wordes. Moses gaue vs a lawe to be an enherptaunce of the congregacio of Jacob. And he was in Israel kyng when the heades of the people, and the trybes of Israel were gathered together.

Let Ruben lyne, and not dye: and be fewe in nobre. Thys same also happen to Juda. And he sayde: heare Lorde, the voyce of Juda, and byngne hym vnto bys people: bys handes shalbe good ynough for hym, yf thou healde hym agaynst bys enemies.

And vnto Levi he sayde: Thumam and Arim shalbe with the, & with euery one that is godly in the. Thou dydest proue hym also in the tentacion, and strydest with hym at the waters of stryfe. He that hath sayd vnto his father and to his mother: I haue not sene him. And he that knewe not bys bethren, nor knewe bys owne chyldren, those are they that haue obserued thy worde, and shal kepe thy couenaunt. They shal teache Jacob thy iudgementes, and Israel thy lawe lawe. They shall put cens before thy nose, and the burnt sacrifice vpon thyne Altare. Blesse the Lozde thy frutes, and accepte the worke of thy handes, smyte the lopnes of the that ryle agaynst hym, and of them that hate hym, that they ryle not agayne.

E And of Ben Jamin he sayde. The Lozdes derlyng shall dwell in safety vpon hym, and the Lozde shall couer hym all the daye longe, and he shall dwell betwene thy shoulers.

E And of Joseph he sayde: blessed of the Lozde is thy lande for the frutes of heuen, thow we the dewe and sprynges that lye beneth, and for the swete frutes of the increace of the sunne, & rype frutes of the Moone: for the frutes of the principall mountaynes, and for the frutes that the hylles bynge forth for ever and for the frutes of the earth, and fulnesse therof: and for the good wyl of hym that dwelt in the bush, shall the blessing come vpon the head of Joseph, and vpon the toppe of the head of hym that was separated from amonge thy brethren: thy frutes borne ore hath bewte, and his hornes are as the hornes of an Unicorne. And with them he shall trouble the nacions together, euen vnto the endes of the worlde. These are also the many thousandes of Ephraim, and the thousandes of Manasses. And vnto zabulon he sayde: Reioyce zabulon in thy goynge oute, and thou Isacker in thy tentes.

They shall call the people vnto the hyl, and there they shall offer offerynges of ryghteousnesse. For they shall sucke of the abundaunce of the see, and of treasure hyd in the lande.

D And vnto Gad he sayde: blessed be the crowner maker Gad: he dwelleth as a Lyon, that catcheth the arme with the head. He sawe therfore thy begynnyng, and that there was a porcyon there to hyde the lawe geuer, and he came wth the heades of the people, and executed the ryghtuousnesse of the Lozde, and thy Judgementes wth Israel.

And vnto Dan he sayde: Dan is a Lyons whelp, he shall flowe from Balan.

And vnto Nephtali he sayde: Nephtali hath abundaunce of Gods good pleasure, and is fylled with the blessing of the Lozde, and shall haue thy possessyons toward the south west.

And vnto Asser he sayde: Asser shall be blessed with chyldren: he shall be acceptable vnto thy brethren, and shall dyppe his fote in oyle. Thy dwellynge be pzyon and byasse, and thyne age be as thy youth.

There is none lyke vnto the God of Israel: which though he sit vpon the heauen as vpon a horse, yet is he thy helper, whose glory is in the celestial places. The eternal God is thy refuge and vnder the armes of the euerlastynge God: shalt thou lye. He shall cast out the enemy before the, and saye: destroye. Israel then shall dwell in safety, and alone. And the eye of Jacob shall be vpon a lande of corne and wyne, and his heauens shall droppe the dewe. Happy art thou O Israel, who is lyke vnto the people that are lained in the Lozde, whyche is the hyld of thy helpe, and swearde of thy glory. Thy enemies haue lost thy strength to the warde, and thou shalt treade vpon the hegyth of them.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

Moses dyeth. Israel wepeth. Josua succeedeth in Moses coloure.

And * Moses went from the playne of Moab vnto mount Nebo and vnto the toppe of * the hyl that is ouer agaynst Jericho. And the Lozde shewed hym all the lande of Gilead, euen vnto Dan, and al Nephtaly and the lande of Ephraim and Manasse, and all the lande of Iuda: euen vnto the vtmost see, and the South and the regyon of the playne of Jericho the Citie of palmetrees, euen vnto zoar. And the Lozde sayde vnto hym. * This is the lande whyche I sware vnto Abraham, Isahac and Jacob sayyng: I wyl geue it vnto thy seide, I haue caused the also to se it with thyne eyes, but thou shalt not go ouer thither.

So Moses the seruante of the Lozde dyed there in the lande of Moab, accordyng to the worde of the Lozde. And he buried hym in a valley in the land of Moab ouer agaynst the house of Moab, but no man knoweth of thy sepulchre vnto this daye. Moses was an hundred and twente yere olde when he dyed: thy eye was not dimme, nor thy naturall coloure abated. And the chyldren of Israel * wepte for Moses in the playne of Moab thyrty dayes. And the dayes of wepyng and mournynge for Moses were ended.

And Josua the sonne of Nun was ful of the sperte of wysdome: * for Moses had put his handes vpon hym. And the chyldren of Israel were obedient vnto hym, and dyd as the Lozde comaunded Moses. And there arose not a prophet sence in Israel lyke vnto Moses, whom the knewe face to face, accordyng vnto all the myracles and wonders whyche the Lozde sent hym to do in the lande of Egypte, vnto Pharaos and all thy seruantes and before all thy lande and accordyng to all that myghty hand and all the greates wysdom, whyche Moses shewed in the syght of all Israel.

The first Chapter.

The Lord courageth Josua to invade the lande of promise, and commaundeth hym continuallye to reade Deuteronomie.

After the death of Moyses the seruaunt of the Lord, it happened also þ the Lord spake vnto Josua the son of Nun, Moyses minister saying: Moyses my seruaunte is deed.

Now therfore vp, & go ouer Jordā, thou & al this people vnto the lande which I gve vnto the chyldren of Israel. * All the places that þ sooles of your feet shall treade vpon, haue I gven you, as I sayd vnto Moyses. Fro the wilderness and this Libanon vnto the greate ruer Euphrates: all the lande of the Hethtes: euen vnto the greate see towarde the going downe of the sunne, shall be your cooste. There shall not a man be able to withstande the all the dayes of thy lyfe. * For as I was wth Moyses, so wyl I be wth the, and wyl not fayle the, nor forsake the. * Be stronge therfore and bolde: for vnto this people shalt thou deuyde the lande which I sware vnto thy fathers to gve thm. Onely be thou stronge, and as bolde as thou canst, that thou mayst obserue and do accordyng to al the law, which Moyses my seruaunte commaunded the. * Turne therefrom neyther to the ryght hande, nor to the left: that thou mayest do wylly in all that thou takest in hande: * let not the booke of this lawe departe oute of thy mouth. But recorde therein daye and nyght, that thou mayest obserue, and do accordyng to all that is wyrtten therein. For then shalt thou make thy waye prosperous, & then shalt thou do wylly. Haue not I commaunded the, that thou shouldest be stronge and hardye, and not feare nor be faynte herted? For I the Lord thy God am wth the, whither soeuer thou goest.

Then Josua commaunded the offycers of the people, sayinge: Go thorowe the myddes of the wood, and commaunde the people, sayinge: prepare you byttayles: for after thre dayes ye shall passe ouer this Jordā, to go in & enioye þ lande, which þ Lord your god giueth you to possesse it. And vnto the Rubenites, Gadites, and halfe the tribe of Manasses, spake Josua, sayinge:

* Remembre the worde, whiche Moyses the seruaunt of the Lord commaunded you, sayinge:

the Lord your God hath gven you rest, and hath gven you this lande: Your wyues, your chyldren, and your cattell shall remayne in the lande which Moyses gane you on this syde Jordane: but ye shall go before your brethren, armed al þ be men of warre, and helpe them vntil the Lord haue gven your brethren rest, as he hath you, and vntyl they also haue obtayned þ lande, which the Lord your God giveth them. And then shall ye returne vnto the lande of your possession and enioy it, whych lande Moyses the Lordes seruaunt gane you on this syde Jordan towarde the sunne rysyng. And they answered Josua, sayinge: * All that thou hast commaunded vs, we wyl do, and whither soeuer thou shalt vs, we wyl go. Accordyng as we obeyed Moyses in al thynges, so wyl we obey the, onely the Lord thy God be wth the as he was wth Moyses. And whosoever he be that doth disobey thy mouth, and wyl not hearken vnto thy wordes in al that thou commaundest hym, let hym dye. Onely be stronge and of good courage.

The ii. Chapter.

Josua sendeth spies to Jericho, which were hyd of Rahab.

And Josua the sonne of Nun sente oute of Bethim two men to spy secretly, saying: go and vewe the lande, and also Jericho. And they wente, and came into an harlottes house, named Rahab, and lodged there. And it was tolde the kynge of Jericho, and sayde: Beholde, there came men in byther to nyght, of the chyldren of Israel, to spy out the countrey.

And the kynge of Jericho sent vnto Rahab, sayinge: bypnyge for the the men that are come to the, and whiche are entred into thyne house, for they be come to searche out all the lande.

And the woman toke the two men, & and hyd them. And sayde thus: in dede there came men vnto me, but I wylte not whence they were. And about the tyme of the shatpyng of the gate whē it was darke, the men went oute, whither the men went I wote not: folowe ye after them quyklye, for ye shall ouertake them. But she brought them vp to the rofe of the house, & hyd them with the stalkes of flaxe, whych she hadde lpyng abrode vpon the rofe. And the men of the cite pursued after the, þ way to Jordā, euen vnto the serpe, & as sone as they whiche pursued after them were gone out, they shut the gate.

And ouer they were a slepe, she came vp vnto them vpon the rofe, and sayd vnto the men: I knowe þ the Lord hath gven you the lande, * for the feare of you is fallen vpon vs, and the enhabiters of the lande faynte at the presence of you. For we haue heard, how the Lord dyed vp the water of the reed see before you, whē you came out of Egypt, and what you dyd vnto the two kynges of the Amorites, that were on the other syde Jordan, * Sehon & Og, whom ye vtterly destroyed: And as sone as we haue heard these thynges, our (we were sore affrayed, &) our hertes dyd faynte. And there remayned nomore courage in any man at the presence of you. For the Lord your God, he is the God in heauen aboue, and in earth beneth.

And ye shall deliuer our soules from death.

And the men answered her: our lyues for you then she let the downe by a coorde, * thorow a ded from the mountayne, and passed ouer, and came to Josua the sonne of Nun, and tolde hym all that had chaunced them. And they sayde vnto Josua: the Lord trulye hath deliuered into our handes all the lande, and all the inhabyters of the countrey saynte at the presence of vs.

The.iii. Chapter.

Josua with the people passe ouer Jordan.

And Josua rose earlye: & they remoued from Bethim, and came to Jordan, he and all the chyldren of Israel, and lodged there, before they went ouer.

And after thre dayes it fortuneth, that the officers wente thorowout the hooste, and commaunded the people, saying: when ye se the arke of the testament of the Lord your God, and the preistes that are Leuites bearynge it: ye shal depart from your place, and go after it. So yet that there shalbe a space betwene you and it, about a two thousande cubites by measure. And ye shal not come nye vnto it, that ye maye knowe the waye, by which ye must go: for ye haue not gone thys waye in tymes past, and betwene, that ye approche not nye vnto the arke. And Josua sayd vnto the people: Sanctifye your selues, for tomorrow the Lord shall do wonders amonge you.

And Josua spake vnto the preistes, saying: Take vp the arke of the couenante, and go before the people. And they toke vp the arke of the testament, and went before the people.

And the Lord sayde vnto Josua: thys daye wyl I begynne to magnifye the in the syght of all Israel, that they maye knowe howe that
* as I was with Moyses, so wyl I be with the.
And thou shalt commaunde the preistes that beare the arke of the couenante, sayinge: when ye are come to the edge of the waters of Jorda, ye shall stande styll in it.

And Josua sayd vnto the chyldren of Israel:
come hyther, and heare the wordes of the Lord your God. And Josua sayde: herebye ye shall knowe that the lypunge God is amonge you, and that he wyl wythout fayle cast out before you, the Cananites, and the Hethtites, the He-uytes, the Pherehtites, the Gergesites, the Amorytes, and the Jebusites: Beholde, the arke of the appoyntment of the Lord of all the worlde goeth before you into Jordan. Nowe therefore take from amonge you twelue men oute of the tribes of Israel out of euery tribe a man.

And as soone as the sooles of the feete of the preistes (that beare the arke of the Lord the gouernoure of all the worlde) treade in the waters of Jordan, the waters of Jordane (that me-beneath, shall runne downe, and) shall be dryed: and the waters that come from aboue, shall stande styll vpon an heape. And it fortuneth, that when the people wer departed fro their tentes to go ouer Jordan, the preistes bearynge the * arke of the appoyntment, went before the people. And as sone as they that bare the arke came vnto Jordan, and the feete of the preistes that bare the arke were dyped in the byrm of the water. * (For Jordan vseth to fyl all his bankes all the tyme of harueste,) the waters also that came downe from aboue, dyd ryle vp vpon an heape (and appeared as great as a mountayne,) and departed far from the cytie of Adā, that was besyde Zartan. And the waters that were beneth towarde the see of the wyldernes, fel awaye and departed into the salt see, & the people * went ryght ouer agaynst Jericho. And the preistes that bare the arke of the appoyntment of the Lord, stode dreye within Jordane ready prepared, and all the Israelites went ouer thorow the dreye, vntill all the prople were gone cleane ouer thorow Jordan.

The.iii. Chapter.

Josua setteth vp twelue stones in Jordane.

And it fortuneth, that whē the people wer all gone * ouer Jordan, the Lord spake vnto Josua, sayinge: Take you twelue men out of the people, out of euery tribe a man.
And commaunde you them, sayinge: take you out of the middes of Jordā (cut out of the place where the preistes stode in a readynesse) twelue stones, whiche ye shal take awaye wyth you, and leaue them in the place, where you shall lodge thys nyght.

And

And Josua called the. xii. men whiche he had prepared of the chyldren of Israel, oute of euery trybe a man, & Josua sayde vnto them: get you before the arke of the Lord your God, euen thow the myddes of Jordan, and take vp euery man of you a stone vpon his shulder accordyng vnto the nombze of the tribes of the chyldren of Israel, that this maye be a sygne amonge you. That when your chyldren aske their fathers in tyme to come, saying: what meane these stones vpon you? ye maye answere them howe & the waters of Jordan deuyded at the presence of the arke of the appoyntment of the Lord. For whē it went ouer Jordan, the waters of Jordan deuyded. And these stones are become a memorial vnto the chyldren of Israel for euer.

And the chyldren of Israel dyd euen so as Josua commaunded, and toke vp twelue stooncs out of the myddes of Jordan, as the Lord sayd vnto Josua, accordyng to the nombze of the tribes of the chyldren of Israel, and carped them awaye wth them, vnto the place where they lodged, and layed them downe there. And Josua sette vp twelue stoncs also in the myddes of Jordan, in the place where the feete of the prestes which bare the arke of the testament, stode.

And there haue they continued vnto this day. For the prestes which bare the arke stode in the myddes of Jordan, vntill all was finished that the Lord commaunded Josua to saye vnto the people, accordyng to all that Moyses charged Josua. And the people hasted and wēt ouer. It fortunēd also, that when all the people were cleane ouer, the arke of the Lord wente ouer also, and the prestes before the people. And the chyldren of Ruben, and the chyldren of Gad, and halfe the trybe of Manasses wēt before the chyldren of Israel armed, as Moyses charged thē. Euen fourty thousand prepared for war, went before the Lord vnto battel, thowoe & playne of Jericho, & that day the Lord magnified Josua in the syght of al Israel, & they feared hym, as they feared Moyses all dayes of his lyfe.

And the Lord spake vnto Josua, sayinge: commaunde the prestes that beare the arke of wytnesse, to come vp out of Jordan. Josua therfore, commaunded the prestes, sayinge: Come ye vp out of Jordan. And whē the prestes that bare the arke of the appoyntment of the Lord were come vp out of the myddes of Jordan, and as soone as the sooles of the prestes feete were set on the drye lande, the waters of Jordan returned agayne vnto theyr place, and went ouer all theyr bankes as they dyd before. And the people came vp out of Jordan the tenth daye of the fyrst moneth, and pytched in Gilgal, euen in the east boorde of the ctyte Jericho.

And the twelue stoncs whiche they toke out of Jordan, dyd Josua pytche in Gilgal. And he spake vnto the chyldren of Israel, sayinge: *Ye your chyldren aske theyr fathers in tyme to come & saye: what meane these stoncs? ye shall shewe your chyldren, and saye: Israel came ouer this Jordan on drye lande. For the Lord your God dyed vp the water of Jordan before you, vntill ye were gone ouer, as the Lord your God dyd the red see, which he dyed vp before vs, till we were gone ouer, & al the people of the world may know the hand of the Lord, how mightie it is, & ye may feare the Lord your God for euer.

The. v. Chapter

The Cananites are afraied.

And it fortunēd that whē al the kinges of the Amorites which are beyond Jordan westward, & all the kinges of the Cananites which were by the see, herde how the Lord had dyed vp the waters of Jordan before the chyldren of Israel vntill they were gone ouer, they herthes faynted for feare. And ther was no spirit in thē any more for the presence of the chyldren of Israel. That same tyme the Lord sayde vnto Josua: *Make the sharpe knyues (of stone) & to go agayne & circūcise the chyldren of Israel the second time.

And Josua made hym sharpe knyues (of stone) and circūcysed the chyldren of Israel in the top of the forskynnes. And this is the cause why Josua circūcysed al the people that came out of Egypt: Namely suche as were males, bycause all the men of warre dyed in the wyldernesse by the waye after they came out of Egypt. For all the people that came out were circūcysed. But all the people that were bozne in the wyldernesse by the way after they came out of Egypt were not circūcysed. For the chyldren of Israel walked fourty yeres in the wyldernesse, till all the people of the men of warre that came out of Egypt were consumed bycause they hearkened not vnto the voyce of the Lord.

Wherfore the Lord sware, that he wolde not shewe them the lande, which the Lord sware vnto theyr fathers, that he wolde geue vs, eue a lande: that floweth wth mylke & honny. And theyr chyldren whō he set vp in theyr stede, them Josua circūcysed: for they were vncircūcysed, bycause they circūcysed them not by the waye.

And when they had circūcysed al the people they abode stil together in the host till they were hōle. And the Lord sayd vnto Josua: this daye I haue take away the shame of Egypt fro you: wherfore the name of the same place is called Gilgal vnto this day. And the chyldren of Israel abode in Gilgal & held the feast of passeouer the. xiii. daye of the moneth at eue in the playne of Jericho. And they dyd eate of the corne of the lande, on the morow after passeouer swete cakes & parched corne in the selfe same day. For the. Manna ceased on the morow after they had begone to eate of the corne of the land, neyther had the chyldren of Israel Manna anye more, but dyd eate of the corne of the lande of Canaan that yere.

And it fortunēd, that when Josua was nye to Jericho, he lyft vp his eyes and looked: and he holde, there stode a man agaynst hym, haupnge a swerde drawn in his hande. And Josua wēt vnto hym, and sayde vnto hym: art thou on our syde, or on our aduersarys?

And he sayd: Naye, but as a captayne of the host of the Lord am I now come. And Josua fel on his face to the earth, & dyd reuerēce, & sayd unto hym, what sayth my Lorde vnto his seruante? And the captayne of the Lordes hooste sayde vnto Josua: do thy good of thy fote, for þ place wherō þ stādest, is holy. And Josua did so

The. vi. Chapter.

The walles of Jericho fall, and it is destroyed.

And Jericho was shut vp, & locked, bycause of the chyldren of Israel, neyther myght any man go out or in. And the Lord sayd vnto Josua: behold, I haue gyuen into thy hānd Jericho & her kyng, & the strong men of warre.

And ye shall compasse the ctyte, all ye that be men of warre, & go rounde about it ones, and so shall you do syre dayes. And seuen preistes shall beare before the arke, seuen trompettes of rammes hornes (that be used in the Jubyle.) And the seuenth daye, ye shall cōpasse the citie. vii. tymes, & the preistes shall blowe with the trompettes.

And when they make a longe blast with the rāmes hozne, & ye heare the sounde of the hozne, all the people shall shoute wyth a great shoute. And then shall the wall of the ctyte fall downe, & the people shall ascende vp, euery man streyght before him. And Josua the son of Nun called the preistes & sayd vnto them: take vp the arke of appoyntmēt, & let. vii. preistes beare. vii. trompettes of rammes hornes before the arke of the Lorde. And he sayd vnto the people, go and cōpasse the ctyte: and let him þ is harnessed, go before the arke of the Lorde. And when Josua had spoken vnto the people, the seuen preistes bare the seuen trompettes of rammes hornes, & wēt forth before the arke of the Lorde, and blew wyth the trompettes, and the arke of the cōnaunt of the Lorde folowed them.

And all the men of armes wēt before the preistes, that blew wyth the trompettes, and the comen people came after the arke: & the preistes that went blew wyth trompettes. And Josua commaunded the people, saying: Ye shall not shoute, ner make any noyse wyth poure voyce, neyther shall anye worde procede oute of poure mouth, vntyll the daye I byd you shoute, then shall ye shoute. And so the arke of the Lorde cōpassed the citie, and went aboute it ones: & they retourned into the hoost, and lodged there.

And Josua rose early in the morning, and the preistes toke the arke of the Lorde, and. vii. preistes bare. vii. trōpettes of rammes hornes, and went before the arke of the Lorde, and blew wyth the trompettes. And all the men of armes went before them, but the comen people came after the arke of the Lorde, whiche went before wyth the blowing of the trompettes. And the second day they cōpassed the citie ones, and returned agayne into the hoost, and so they byd syre dayes.

And whē the seuēth day came, they rose early: euen w the dawning of the daye, and compassed the citie after the same maner seuen tymes: only that daye they compassed the citie seuen tymes.

And at the seuēth tyme, when the preistes blew wyth the trompettes, Josua sayde vnto the people, shoute, for the Lorde hath gyuen you the citie. And the citie shall be damned both it and al that are therein, vnto the Lorde: only Rahab the harlot shall lyue, and al that are with her in the house, bycause she *hyd the messengers that we sent. And in any wyse be ye ware of the excommunicate thynges, lest ye make your selues excommunicate, and take of the excommunicate thynges, and make the hoost of Israel excommunicate and trouble it. But all the syluer, golde, vesselles of brasse, and yron shall be cōsecrate vnto the Lorde, and shall come into hys treasure.

And the people shouted, and blew wyth trompettes. And when the people hearde the sounde of the trōpe, they shouted with a greete shoute: and the *wall fel downe, so that the people wēt vp into the citie, euery man streyght before him and toke the ctyte. And they vterlye destroyed all that was in the ctyte, bothe man and woman, younge, and olde, oxe, shepe, and asse, wyth the edge of the swerde.

Then Josua sayde vnto the two men that had spyed out the countrey: *goe into the harlottes house, and byng out thence the woman, and al that she hath, as ye sware to her. And the yong men that were spyes, went in, and brought out Rahab, and her father and mother, and her brethren, and all that she had. And they brought out all her kynrede, and put them wythoute the hoost of Israel.

And they burnt the ctyte wyth fyre, and all that was therein. Only the syluer and the golde, the vesselles of brasse and yron, they put vnto the treasure of the house of the Lorde. *And Josua saved Rahab the harlotte, and her fathers householde, and all that she had, and she dwelt in Israel euen vnto this day, bycause she hyd þ messengers, whiche Josua sent to spy out Jericho.

And Josua sware at that tyme, saying: cursed be the man before the Lorde, that replēt vp, and buyldeth this ctyte Jericho: he shall laye the foundation in his eldest sonne, and in hys yongest sonne shall he set vp the gates of it. And so the Lorde was wyth Josua, and his fame was noyled thowout all landes.

The. vii. Chapter.

Hai is spyed out. Acan is stoned.

Al pet the chyldren of Israel trespassed in þ *excommunicate thynges. And Acan the sonne of Carmy, the sonne of Zabdi, the sonne of Zareth of þ tribe of Iuda tooke of the excommunicate thynges. And the wraethe of the Lorde waxed whote agaynst the chyldren of Israel.

And Josua sent men frō Jericho to Hai, which is besyde Bethanē, on the east syde of Bethel, & spake vnto the, saying: get you up, & be wyth you a cōtrie. And þ mē wēt vp, & spyed out Hai. And returned to Josua, & sayd vnto hym: let not al the people go vp, but lette as it were a two or thre thousand mē go vp, & smyte Hai, & make not al the people to labour thither, for they are but few.

And so there went vp thither of the people, about a thre thousande men, & they fled before the men of Hai. And the men of Hai smote of them vpon a thyrte and syre men: for they chased them from before þ gate euen vnto Sebarim, & smote

And smote them in the going downe. Wherefore the bertes of the people * for feare, melted awaye lyke water. And Josua rente hys clothes, and fell to the earth vpon his face before the arke of the Lord, vntyl the euentide, he and the elders of Israel, and put earth vpon theyr heedes.

And Josua sayde: * Alas, O Lord God, wherefore haste thou broughte this people ouer Jordan, to deliuer vs into the hande of the Amorites, and to destroye vs: wolde to God we had bene content, & dwelt on the other syde Jordan.
O Lord what shal I saye, when Israel turne theyr backes before theyr enemyes. Surely the Cananites, and all the inhabitants of the lande shall heare of it, and shall conspyre agaynst vs, and destroye the name of vs out of the worlde.
And what wyl I do vnto thy myghty name?

And the Lord sayde vnto Josua: get the vp:
wherefore yest thou thus vpon thy face? Israel haue synned, and they haue transgressed myne appoyntmente, whiche I commaunded them: for they haue taken of the excommunicate thinges, & haue stolen, and dissembled, and put them vnto theyr owne stuffe. And therefore is it that the chyliden of Israel cannot stande before theyr enemyes, but shall tourne theyr backes before their enemyes because they be excommunicate. Neither wyl I be with you any more, except ye rote out the excommunicate from amonge you.

¶ And therefore, and sanctifye the people, and saye: sanctifye youre selues agaynst tomozowe for so sayde the Lord God of Israel. There is a damned thyng amonge you (O Israel) & therefore ye cannot stande agaynst your enemyes, vntyl ye haue put the dāned thyng fro amonge you. Tomozowe moznyng therefore ye shall be brought accordyng to your trybes. And the tribe whych the Lord taketh, shall come accordyng to the kindreds thereof. And the kindred which the Lord shall fynde gylty, shall come by houthol-des. And the houtholde whiche the Lord shall fynde faulty, shall come man by man. And he y is founde in excommunication, shal be burnt w fyre he & al y he hath, because he hath trasgessed y couenaūt of y Lord & wrought folly in Israel.

And so Josua rose vperly in the moznyng and brought Israel by theyr trybes: & the trybe of Juda was caught. And he brought y kynredes of Juda, and toke the kynrede of the zarahytes.
And he brought the kindred of y zarahytes, man by mā, and zabdi was caught. And he brought hys houtholde man by man, and Acan the sonne of Carmy, the sonne of zabdi, the sonne of zareth in the trybe of Juda was caught.

And Josua sayd vnto Acan: my sonne: I beseeche the, gyue glozre to the Lord God of Israel, and gyue hym prayse, and shewe me what thou hast done, hyde it not from me.

¶ And Acan answered Josua, and sayde: of a truthe: I haue synned agaynst the Lord God of Israel, & thus and thus haue I done. I saue amonge the spoyle a goodly Babylonish garment, & two hundred sicles of syluer, & a tonge of golde of fyftie cycles weyght, and I coueted them, and toke them. And behold they lye hyd in the earth in my tent, & the syluer is there vnder.

And so Josua sent messengers: whych when they ranne vnto hys tent, beholde, they wer hyd in hys tent, and the syluer there vnder.

Therefore they tooke them out of the myddest of his tent, and brought them vnto Josua, and vnto all the chyliden of Israel, and layed them out before the Lord.

And Josua toke Acan the sonne of zareth and the syluer, and the garment & the tonge of golde and hys sonnes and hys doughters, hys oren, & hys asses, his shepe, and hys tent, and all that he had: and all Israel wyth hym brought them vnto the valleye of Acor.

And Josua sayde: In as moche as thou hast troubled vs, the Lord shal trouble the this day.
And all Israel stoned hym with stones, and burned them wyth fyre, and ouerwhelmed them w stones. And they cast vpon hym a greate heape of stones vnto this daye. And so the Lord turned from the wrath of his indignacion. And the name of the place is called the valleye of Acor vnto this daye.

The viii. Chapter.

The siege & wymping of Hai. The kynge thereof is banged. Josua setteth vp an altare. He blesteth the people.

And the Lord sayde vnto Josua:
* feare not, neyther be thou saynte berthed. Take all the men of warre wyth the and vp, and gette the to Hai. Beholde, I haue gyuen into thyne hande the kynge of Hai, and hys people, hys ctyte, and hys lande.

And thou shalt do to Hai and her kynge, as thou dydest vnto * Jericho and her kynge. Reuerthelesse, the spoyle and cattell thereof shal ye take vnto your selues. And laye a watche vnto the towne, on the backsyde thereof.

And so Josua arose, and all the men of warre to go vp agaynst Hai. And Josua chose out. xxx thousande stronge men of warre, and sent them awaye by nyght. And he commaunded them sayinge: beholde, ye shall laye a wayte vnto the to wne on the backsyde thereof. So not very far from the ctyte, but be all readye.

And I and all the people that are wyth me, wyl appoche vnto the ctyte. And when they come out agaynst vs, as they dyd at the fyrste tyme, then wyl we lye before the. For they wyl come out after vs, and we wyl bynge them out of the ctyte: For they wyl saye: they lye before vs as at y fyrst tyme, & we wyl lye before the.
In the meane tyme shal ye ryle vp from lying awayte and destroy the ctyte. For the Lord your God wyl deliuer it into your hande. And whē ye haue taken the ctyte, ye shall set it on fyre.

Accordyng to the commaundement of the Lord shal ye do: beholde, I haue charged you.
Josua therefore sent them forth, and they went to lye awayte, and abode betwene Bethel and Hai, on the west syde of the citie of Hai. But Josua lodged that nyght amonge the people.

And Josua rose vperly in the morning, and nombred the people and went vp, he & the elders of Israel before the people agaynst Hai. And al

A.iii. the men

the men of warre that were with hym went vp and dꝛue nye, and came agaynst the cytie, & pitched on the north syde of Hai. And there was a valey betwene them & Hai. And he toke vpon a fyue thousand men, & put them to lye awayte, betwene Bethel and Hai, on the weste syde of the citie. And they put the people (euē all þe hoste that were on the northsyde) agaynst the cyppe & the lvers awayte on the west. And Josua walked the same nyght in the myddes of the valley. And it fortuned, that whē the kyng of Hai saw it, they hastid & rose vp early, and the men of þe cyppe went out agaynst Israel to battayle, he and al his people at a tyme appoynted, euē before the playne, and wiste not that there were lvers awayte on the backsyde, of the cyppe.

And Josua and all Israel sayned them selues to be put to the woꝛke before them, and fled towarde the wyldernesse. And all the people of the towne were called togyther, to folowe after thym. And they folowed after Josua, and were drawen awaye from the cyppe. And there was not a man left in Hai and in Bethel, that went not out after Israel. And they lefte the cytie open, and folowed after Israel.

And the Lorde sayd vnto Josua: stretch out the spere þe is in thyne hande toward Hai, for I wil gyue it vnto thy hand. And Josua stretched out the spere that he had in hys hande, towarde the cytie. And the lvers awayte arose quyklye out of theyꝝ place, and ran allone as Josua had stretched oute hys hande, and they entred into þe cyppe, and toke it, and hastid, and set the citie on fyꝛe. And when þe men of Hai looked backe after them, they sawe the smoke of the citie ascend vp to heauē. And they had no leysure to slype, eyther this way or þe, & the people þe fled to the wyldernesse, turned backe agayne vpon the folowers.

And when Josua and all Israel sawe that the lvers awayte had taken the cytie, and that the smoke of it ascēded, they turned agayne & layed on the men of Hai. And the other ensued oute of the citie agaynst them. And so were they in the myddest of Israel: for these were on the one side of them, and the rest on the other syde. And they layed vpon them, so that they let none of them eschape, nor remayne. And the kyng of Hai they toke alque, & brought him to Josua. And when Israel had made an ende of slayinge all the inhabytors of Hai in the felde of the wyldernesse, where they chaled them, & when they were all fallen on the edge of the swerde, vntyl they wer wasted, all the Israelites returned vnto Hai, & smote it in the edge of the swearde. And all that fell that daye, bothe of men and women, were twelue thousande, euē all the men of Hai.

For Josua plucked not his hande backe agayne which he stretched out vpo þe spere, vntyl he had vtterlye destroyed all the enbaptours of Hai. * Onely the cattell & the spoyle of the cytie, Israel toke vnto the selues, accordyng to the woꝛde of the Lorde, whyche he comaunded Josua. And Josua set Hai on fyꝛe, and made it an hepe for euer, and a wyldernesse, euē vnto this daye. And the kyng of Hai he hanged on a tree, vntyl euē. And allone as the sunne was downe, Josua commaunded * that they shulde take the carcasle downe of the tree, & cast it at þe entryng of the gate of the citie, and * laye thereon a great heape of stones, that remayneth vnto this day.

Then Josua * buylt an altare vnto the Lorde God of Israel, in mounte Ebal, as Moyses the seruaunt of the Lorde commaunded the chyldren of Israel, and as it is wrytten in the * booke of the lawe of Moyses: an altare of whole stones, ouer which no man hath lyfte any tole of yꝛon. And they sacrificed thereon burnt sacrifices vnto the Lorde, & offred peaceoffringes. And he wꝛot there vpon þe stones, a rehersal of the lawe of Moyses, & wꝛot it in þe presence of the chyldren of Israel.

And all Israel and the elders therof, and theyꝝ officers & Judges stode, parte on this syde the arke, and parte on that syde, before the prestes that were Leuytes, whyche bare the arke of the appoyntment of the Lorde: as well the strainger, as they that were boꝛne amonge them: halfe of them on the forefront of mount Garezin, & halfe of them on þe forefront of mounte Ebal * as Moyses the seruaunt of the Lorde had commaunded before that they shoulde blesse the people Israel.

Afterwarde, he red all the woꝛdes of the lawe, the blessinges and cursynges, accordyng to all that is wrytten in þe booke of the lawe: And there was not one woꝛde of all þe Moyses comaunded, which Josua red not before al the congregation of Israel: The women and chyldren (& the straingers that were come) standyng amonge them.

The ix. Chapter

The Gibeonites obtayne peace of Josua.

And it fortuned, that when all the kynges that dwell on this syde Jordan, in the bylles and valeyes, and alonge by al the crookes of the great see ouer agaynst Libanon. (Namely the Hethites, the Amorites, the Cananites, the Pherezites, the Heuites, and the Jebusites) hearde therof, they gathered them selues togyther, to fyght agaynst Josua, & agaynst Israel wꝛth one accorde.

* And the enbaptours of Gibeon herd what Josua had done vnto Jericho, and to Hai. And they dyd woꝛke wyllye, and went, and made them selues embassadours, and toke ^{olden} ^{tabyles, and} olde sakes vpon theyꝝ asses and wyne bottelles olde, and rent and woꝛne, and old clouted shoes vpon theyꝝ feete, and theyꝝ raymente was olde, and all theyꝝ prouision of breed was dꝛyed vp, and hooꝛed. And they came vnto Josua in to the host, to Gilgal, and sayd vnto hym and vnto al the men of Israel: We be come from a farre countrey, and nowe make agrement wꝛ vs. And the men of Israel sayde vnto the Heuytes: peradventure thou dwellest among vs, and then howe can I make peace with the?

And they sayde vnto Josua: We are thy seruantes. And Josua sayde vnto them agayne: what are ye? and whēce come ye? They answered hym. Fro a very farre countrey thy seruantes are come, for the name of the Lorde thy God: for we haue herd the fame ^(of the power) of him, & all that he dyd in Egypte, & all that he dyd to the two the two kynges of the Amozites that wer be-poude Jozdane, Sehon kynges of Hesbon, and Og kyng of Basan, whych was at Astharoth Wherfore, oure elders and al the enbaprouers of oure contrey spake to vs, sayinge: take vytayles wyth you to serue by the waye, and goo mete them, and saye vnto them: we are your seruauntes, And now make ye a couenāt of peace wyth vs, Thys oure foode of breade, we toke wyth vs oute of oure houses whotte, the dape we departed to come vnto you, But now we be-holde, it is dyled vp & hored, And these bottels of wyne which we fylled, were new: and se they be rent, And these oure garmentes & shoes, are wozne for oldenes, by the reason of the excea-dynge longe iourney,

And the men toke of theyr vitayles, and counceled not wyth the mouth of the Lorde. And Josua made peace wyth them, and made couenāt wyth them, that they shulde be suffered to lyue:
and the Lordes of the congregacyon swore vnto the: And it fortuneth, that .iiij. daies after they had made peace wyth the, they hearde that they were theyr neyghbours, & that they dwelt among the. And the chyldre of Israel toke theyr iourney, & came vnto theyr cytyes the thyrday & theyr cytyes were Gibeon, & Caphira, Beroth & Ariath Jarim. And the chyldre of Israel slewe the not, because the Lordes of the congregatiō had sworne vnto them by the Lorde God of Israel.
And al the multitude murmured agaynst the Lor-
des. But al the Lordes sayd vnto all the cōgrega-cyon: we haue sworne vnto them by the Lorde God of Israel, and therfore we maye not hurte them. But this we will do to them. We wyl let them lyue, lest wrath be vpon vs because of the othe which we swore vnto the. And the Lordes sayde vnto them agayne: Let them lyue, & and hewe wood, & draw water vnto al the cōgrega-cion & they dyd as the Lordes sayd vnto them.

And Josua sent for them, and talked wyth them, and sayde: wherfore haue ye begyled vs saying: We dwel farre from you, whā ye dwell amonge vs: & now we are ye cursed, and there shal not lease to be of you, bondmen and hewers of wood & drawers of water for the house of my god

And they answered Josua and sayde: it was tolde thy seruauntes, howe that the Lorde thy God had commaunded his seruaunte Moses to gyue you all the land, and to destrope all the enhabitoures therof out of youre syght, and therfore we were excedyng sore afrayde. (& dyd pro-myse) for our lyues at the ptesence of you, & haue done thys thyng: and beholde we are in thyne hande, as it semeth good and ryghte in thyne eyes to do vnto vs, so do.

And euen so dyd he vnto them, and ryd them oute of the hande of the chyldren of Israel, and they slewe them not. And Josua made the that same daie hewers of wood, & drawers of water for the cōgregacyon & for the altar of God vnto thys daie, in the place which God shulde chose.

The .x. Chapter.

The Amozites are overcome of Josua. It rayneth stones.
The sunne standeth still. The syue kynges are hanged.

And it fortuneth, that when Adonize-dech kyng of Jerusalem had hearde howe Josua had taken Hai and had destroied it, and howe that * as he had done to Jericho and her kyng, euen so he had done to Hai & her kyng, and how the enhabitoures of Gibeon had made peace wyth Israel, and were amonge them, they feared excedynglye, for Gibeon was a greate cytye, as any cytye of that kyngdome, and was greater then Hai, and all the men thereof were very myghtye.

Wherfore Adonizedech kyng of Jerusalem sent vnto Hoham kyng of Hebron, and vnto Piria kyng of Jarmuth, & vnto Japhia kyng of Lachis, and vnto Dabir kyng of Eglon, sayinge:
Come vp vnto me, & helpe me, for we maye smyte Gibeon: for they haue made peace wyth Josua & wyth the chyldren of Israel. Therfore the syue kynges of the Amozites, the kyng of Jerusalem, the kyng of Hebron, the kyng of Jarmuth, the kyng of Lachis, and the kyng of Eglon gathered the selues togyther: thei with al their hostes and besieged Gibeon, & made warre agaynst it.

And the men of Gibeon sent vnto Josua, and to the hoste of Gilgal, sayinge: wythdrawe not thy hande from thy seruauntes, come vp to vs, to saue vs: & to helpe vs. For all the kynges of the Amozites which dwell in the mountaynes, are gathered togyther agaynst vs.

And so Josua ascended from Gilgal, he and all the people of warre wyth hym, and all the men of myght, and the Lorde sayd vnto Josua: feare them not, for I haue deliuered them into thyne hande. Nextther shall any of them stande agaynst the. Josua therfore came vnto them sodeynly, and went vp from Gilgal all nyghte.
And the Lorde troubled the before Israel, and slewe them wyth a greate slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them alonge the way that goeth vp to Bethoron, and smote them to Elaka & Ma-kedda. And it fortuneth, that as they fled from Israel, and were in the goynge downe to Bethoron, the Lorde caste downe greate stones from heuen vpon them, vntyl Elaka. And ther were more dead with the hayle stones, then they were whom the chyldre of Israel slewe w the swerde

Then spake Josua before the Lorde, in the dape when the Lorde deliuered the Amozites before the chyldren of Israel, and he sayde in the syght of Israel. * Sunne stand thou still vpo Gibeon, and thou Moone, in Aialon. And the Sunne abode, and the Moone stode still, vntyl the people auēged them selues vpo theyr enemies
Is not this wyrtten in the booke of the ryghteous
The sunne (I say) abode in the meddels of heauen, and halted not to go downe by the space of an hole dape. And there was no dape lyke that before it, or after it, that the Lorde hearde the voyce of a mā. For the Lord fought for Israel.

And Josua returned, and al Israel with him vnto the host of Gilgal: but the syue kynges fled and were hyd in a caue at Makeda. And it was told Josua of one, sayinge: the syue kynges are foude hyd in a Caue which is at Makeda. And

The. v. Kynges whom Josua. Josua Destroy

Josua sayde: roule great stones vpon the mouth of the caue, and set men by it, for to kepe them.

And stande ye not styl, but folowe after your enemyes, and smyte all the hyndemost: And suffer them not to entre into theyr cities for þe Lord your God hath deliuered them into your hand. And it fortuned when Josua and the chyldre of Israel had made an ende of slepunge them wpyth an excedyng great slaughter tyll they were wasted, the reste that remayned of them, entred into walled cyties.

And all the people returned to the hoste, to Josua at Makeda in peace, neyther dyd any man moue hym tonge agaynst the chyldren of Israel. Then sayd Josua: open the mouth of the caue, and brynge out these fyue kynges vnto me oute of the caue. And they dyd so, and broughte those fyue kynges vnto hym out of the caue, even the kyng of Jerusalem, the kyng of Hebron, the kyng of Jarmuth, the kyng of Lachys, and the kyng of Eglon.

And it fortuned, that when they broughte oute those kynges vnto Josua: Josua called for all the men of Israel, and sayde vnto the chefe of the men of warre, whyche went wpyth hym: come nere, and put youre fete vpon the neckes of these kynges. And they came nere and putte theyr fete vpon the neckes of them. And Josua sayde vnto them. Ye shall not feare nor be faynt herted: But be stronge and plucke vp your hertes, for thus shall the Lord do to all your enemyes agaynst whom ye fyghte.

And then Josua smote them, and slewe them, and hanged them on fyue trees. And they hanged styll vpon the trees vntyll the euenyng. And at the goyng downe of the sunne, it fortuned that Josua gaue commaundement, and they toke them downe of the trees, and caste them into the caue, (where in they had bene hyd) and layed stones in the caues mouth, whyche remayne vntyll this daye.

And that same day Josua toke Makeda and smote it wpyth the edge of the swearde, and the kyng therof also destroyed he vtterly, wpyth all the soules that were therein, and let nought remayne. And he dyd to the kyng of Makeda as he dyd vnto the kyng of Jericho.

Then Josua went from Makeda, and all Israel wpyth hym vnto Libna, and fought agaynst Libna. And the Lord deliuered it and the kyng therof into the hande of Israel: and he smote it wpyth the edge of the swearde, and all the soules that were therein. He let nought remayne in it, but dyd vnto the kyng therof as he dyd vnto the kyng of Jericho.

And Josua departed from Libna, and all Israel wpyth hym vnto Lachys, and besieged it, & assaulted it. And the Lord deliuered Lachys into the hande of Israel, which toke it the seconde daye, and smote it wpyth the edge of the swearde, and all the soules that were therein, doyng accordyng to al, as he had done to the cite of Libna.

Then Hozai kyng of Gaser came vp to helpe Lachys: And Josua smote hym and hym people, vntyll nought remayned of hym.

And fro Lachys Josua departed, vnto Eglon, and all Israel wpyth hym, and they besieged it, and assaulted it, and toke it the same daye, and smote it wpyth the edge of the swearde, and all the soules that were therein he vtterly destroyed the same daye, accordyng to all that he had done to Lachys.

And Josua departed vp from Eglon and all Israel wpyth hym, vnto Hebron. And they fought agaynst it, and when they had taken it, they smote it wpyth the edge of the swearde, and the kyng therof, and all the townes that perteyned to it, and all the soules that were therein, and he lefte nought remaynyng: but dyd accordyng to all as he had done to Eglon, and destroyed it vtterly, and all the soules that were therein.

And Josua returned, and all Israel wpyth hym to Dabir, and fought agaynst it. And when he had taken it, and the kyng therof, and all the townes that perteyned thereto, they smote them wpyth the edge of the swearde, and vtterly destroyed all the soules that were therein, neyther let he oughte remayne. Euen as he dyd to Hebron, so he dyd to Dabir and the kyng therof, as he had done also to Libna and her kyng.

Josua therfore smote all the hyll countreys, and the southe countreys, and the valleyes, and the hyll sydes, & al theyr kynges, and let nought remayne of them, but vtterly destroyed all that breathed, as the Lord God of Israel commaunded. And Josua smote them from Cadesbarne vnto Asah, and all the countrey of Gossan, enen vnto Gibeon. And those kynges and their lande dyd Josua take at one tyme: because the Lord God of Israel foughte for Israel. And Josua and all Israel returned vnto the hoste that was in Gilgal.

The. xi. Chapter.

The battayle of Josua wpyth dyuers kynges.

And it fortuned, that when Jabin kyng of Hazor had herd those thynges: he sent to Jobab kyng of Hadô, & to þe kyng of Simro, & to the kyng of Achsaph, & vnto þe kynges þe were by þe north in þe mountaynes, & playnes toward the south syde of Ceneroth, & in þe lowe countreys: & in the borders of Dor westwarde, & vnto the Cananites, both by east and west and vnto the Amorites, Hethites, Pherezites, & Jebusites in the mountaynes: & vnto þe Hivites þe were vnder Hermon in the lande of Mizpa: And they came out & all theyr hostes with them, a multitude of folke, euen as the lande that is on the see shore in a grete nombre with horses & charettes excedyng many. And al these kynges met togyther, and came and pytched togyther at the waters of Meron, for to fyghte agaynst Israel.

And þe Lord sayd vnto Josua: be not afrayde at the presence of the: for to morowe about this tyme wpyll I deliuer them all slayne before Israel: thou shalt hough theyr horses, and burne their charettes wpyth fyre. And so Josua came, and all the men of warre wpyth hym agaynst them by the waters of Merom, and sodenly fell vpon upon them. And the Lorde deliuered them into the hande of Israel: and they smote them, and chased them vnto greete Sidon, and vnto the whot waters, and vnto the valeye of Mizpa whych is Eastwarde: and smote them vntyll they had none remaining of the. And Josua did vnto the, as the Lorde bad him: he houghed their horses, and burnt theyr charrettes wth fyre.

And Josua at that tyme turned backe, & toke Hazor, & smote the kyng therof with y swearde. And Hazor before tyme was y head of al those kyngdomes. And they smote all the soules that were therein wth the edge of the swearde, vnterly destroyeng all: & nothyng that breathed, was let remainy. And he burnt Hazor wth fyre. And all the cityes of those kynges, and all the kynges of the dyd Josua take, & smote the wth the edge of the swearde, & vnterly destroyed the.

as Moses y seruant of the Lorde comaunded.

But Israel burnt none of the cytyes that God syl in their strenght, saue Hazor only that Josua burnt. And all the spoyle of the sayd cyties and the catel, the chyldren of Israel caught vnto them selues. But the men onely they smot wth the edge of the swearde vntyll they had destroyed the, neyther left they ought that had breath. As the Lorde comaunded Moses y seruant, so dyd Moses comaunde Josua, and euen so dyd Josua so that he mynyshed no word of all that the Lorde comaunded Moses.

And so Josua toke all the lande, the hylls and all the south countrey, and all the lande of Golan, and the lowe countrey, and the playne, & the mountayne of Israel, and the lowe countrey of the same, euen from the mounte of partynge, that goeth vp to Seir vnto the playne of Gad in the valeye of Libanon, vnder mount Hermon. And al the kynges of the same he toke, and smote them. And slewe them.

Josua made warre longe tyme wth those kynges: neyther was there any cytye that made peace wth the chyldren of Israel, saue those Hethites that enhabited Gibeon, and the: for all other they toke wth battayle, for it came of the Lorde, whych dyd harden theyr hertes that they shulde come agaynst Israel in battayle & that they shulde destroye them vnterly, & slewe them no merce, but to byngne them to nought: as the Lorde comaunded Moses.

And that same season came Josua, and destroyed the Canakites oute of the mountaynes: Namely out of Hebron, Dabir, Anab, and oute of al the mountaynes of Juda, and oute of al the mountaynes of Israel. And Josua destroyed them vnterly, wth their cytyes. There was not one Canakite left in the lande of the chyldren of Israel, onely in Alab, & Geth, and Alood, there remainyd of them.

And Josua toke y hole lande, accordyng to all y the Lorde sayde vnto Moses, & Josua gaue it for a possessyō vnto Israel: accordyng to theyr parties & trybes: & the lande rested from warre.

The. xxi. Chapter.

What kynges Josua and the chyldren of Israel sylled, whych were in nombre. xxi.

These are the kynges of the lande, whych the chyldren of Israel smote and possessed theyr lande, on the other syde Jordan Eastwarde from the ryuer Arnon, vnto mount Hermon, and all the playne eastwarde. * Herbon kyng of the Amozytes, that dwelt in Herbon, and ruled from Aroer, whiche is besyde the ryuer of Arnon, and from the myddle of the ryuer, and from halfe Gilead vnto the ryuer Jabbok, whych is in the bordre of the chyldren of Ammon. And the coaste of Og kyng of Basan which was of the remnaunte of the Gyautes, and dwelte at Astaroth, and Edrai, and reygned in mount Hermon, and in Salcab: and in all Basan, vnto the bordre of the Gselurites, & the Machabites, & halfe mounte Gilead, vnto the borders of Schon kyng of Herbon. Moses the seruant of the Lorde, & the chyldren of Israel smote them, & Moses the seruant of the Lorde, gaue theyr lande for a possessyō vnto the Rubenites, Gaddites, & halfe the trybe of Manasses.

These are the kynges of the countrey which Josua and the chyldren of Israel smote on thys syde Jordan, eastwarde, from the playne of Gad, whych is in the valeye of Libanon: euen vnto the partynge mounte that goethe vp to Seir. Whych lande Josua gaue vnto the trybes of Israel to possesse, to euery man his parte: in the vpper lande, and nether lande, in playnes and hyll sydes, in the wyldernesse, and southe countrey: the Hethytes, the Amozites, the Cananites, y Heresites, y Heuites, & y Jebusites. * The kyng of Jericho: was one. * The kyng of Hai which is besyde Bethel: one. * The kyng of Jerusalem: one. The kyng of Hebron: one. The kyng of Jarmuth: one. The kyng of Lachys: one. The kyng of Eglon: one. The kyng of Gazer: one. The kyng of Debir: one. The kyng of Seder: one. The kyng of Horma: one. The kyng of Arab: one. The kyng of Libna: one. The kyng of Adullam: one. The kyng of Makeda: one. The kyng of Bethel: one. The kyng of Chaphuab: one. The kyng of Hepher: one. The kyng of Aphek: one. The kyng of Lazon: one. The kyng of Madon: one. The kyng of Hazor: one. The kyng of Sunromeron: one. The kyng of Achsaph: one. The kyng of Charnach: one. The kyng of Megiddo: one. The kyng of Kades: one. The kyng of Joknean of Charnel: one. The kyng of Dor, in the countrey of Dor: one. The kyng of the nacyōs of Gilgal: one. The kyng of Thirza: one. Al y kynges together: thyrty and one.

The. xxi. Chapter.

Josua comaunded to deuyde the lande to the chyldren of Israel.

Josua was old, & stryke in yeres, & y Lorde sayd vnto hym thou art olde & stryke in yeres, & there remaineth yet exceeding much lande to be possessyd: This is y lande y yet remaineth: al the regions of the of the Philistynes: and all Geshuri: from Nilus which is on the outwarde parte of Egypte: vnto the borders of Aekron northwarde, whiche lande is counted vnto Cananie, euen ffor lordshippes of the Philistines, & Matbites, Adonites, Ascalonites, Gethites, Akaronites, & the Euytes. And from the south: all the lande of the Cananites, and the caue that is besyde the Sydonianes, euen vnto Apphek and to the borders of the Amozytes. And the lande of Gilytes, and al Libanon, towarde the sunne rysing from the playne of Gad vnder mounte Hermon, vntyl a mā come to Hemath: al þe inhabitoures of the hyl countrey from Libanon vnto þe whot waters: and al the Sidonianes, wyl I cast out from befoze the chyldren of Israel: only se that thou in any wyse deuide it by lot vnto þe Israelites, to enherite, as I haue commaunded the. Nowe therfoze deuide thys lande to enherite, vnto the nyne trybes and the halfe tribe of Manasses. For wyth the other halfe the Rubenites and the Gadites haue receyued theyr enheritaunce, * which Moles gaue the beyonde Jordan eastwarde: eue as Moles the seruaunt of þe Lord gaue them: from Aroer that lyeth on the bym of the ryuer Arnon, & from the cite that is in the myddest of the ryuer. And all the playn of Medeba vnto Dibon, and all the cytyes of Sehon kyng of the Amozytes, whiche ragged in Hesbon, euen vnto the border of the chyldren of Ammon: and Gilead, and the border of Geshuri and Machati, and all mounte Hermon, wyth all Balan vnto Salcah: eue al the kyngdome of Og in Balan, which reigned in Aitharoth and Edrai: whiche same remayned yet of the reste of the Gyautes. These dyd Moles smyte, and caste them out.

Ex. xxxv. f. ritauce,
Deut. 14. b.

Neuerthelesse, the chyldren of Israel expelled not the Geshurites and the Machathites: But þe Geshurites and the Machathites dwel amonge the Israelites euen vntyl this daye. Only vnto the trybe of Leui, he gaue none enheritaunce: * But the offrynge of the Lord God of Israel is theyr enheritaunce, as he sayde vnto them.

Ex. xlv. c.

Moles gaue vnto the trybe of the chyldre of Ruben enheritaunce, accordyng to theyr kynredes. And their coast was fro Aroer that lyeth on the bancke of the ryuer Arnon, and from the cite that is in the myddest of the ryuer, and all the playne whiche is by Medeba, Hesbon, with all theyr townes that lye in the playne: Dibon and the hyl places of Baal, and the house of Baalmeon: and Jabazah, and Kedemoth and Mephath Kiriatbaim, Shabamath, & zarath zabar in the mounte of the valleie, the house of Beoz, and the sprynges of the hylles: and Beth pheoz, and the sprynges of Bhaigab: and Bethiesimoth: and al the cytyes of the playne. And all the kyngdome of Sehon kyng of the Amozytes, which reigned in Hesbon, whiche Moles smote * wyth the Lordes of Madian, Eui, Rekem, zur and Hur and Reba, the which were dukes of Sehon, dwellinge in the countrey. And Balaam also the sonne of Beoz the soothsayer, dyd the chyldren of Israel slaye wyth the sworde, amonge other of the that were slayn. And the border of the chyldren of Ruben was Jordan wyth the countrey that lyeth thereon. Thys was the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Ruben after theyr kynredes, cytyes and vylages perterpyng the to.

And Moles gaue enheritaunce vnto the trybe of Gad, euen vnto the chyldren of Gad he gaue by theyr kynredes. And theyr coastes were Jazer: and all the cytyes of Gilead and halfe the lande of the chyldren of Ammon vnto Aroer that lyeth befoze Rabba. And from Hesbon vnto Ramoth, Hazpaph, and Betonim: and fro Mahanaim vnto the borders of Libbi. And in the valeie they had Betharam Bethnimra, Socoth, and Zaphon, the rest of þe kyngdome of Sehon kyng of Hesbon, vnto Jordan and the coastes that lye thereon euen vnto the edge of the see of Ceneroth, on þe other syde Jordan eastward. Thys is the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Gad, after theyr kynredes, theyr cytyes and vylages.

And Moles gaue enheritaunce vnto the halfe trybe of Manasses. And thys was the possession of the halfe trybe of Manasses by theyr kynredes. Theyr coaste was from Mahanaim, euen all Balan, and all the kyngdome of Og kyng of Balan, and all the townes of Jair whiche lye in Balan, euen thyscore cytyes, and halfe Gilead, Aitharoth, and Edrai, cytyes of the kyngdome of Og in Balan * whiche perterpyne vnto the chyldren of Machir the sonne of Manasses, euen the halfe porcion of the chyldre of Machir by theyr kynredes.

These are the thynges which Moles dyd distribute, in the felde of Moab on the other syde Jordan ouer agaynst Jericho eastwarde. * But vnto the trybe of Leui, Moles gaue none enheritaunce for the Lord God of Israel is theyr enheritaunce, * as he sayde vnto them.

¶ The. xliij. Chapter.

¶ And these are the countreys whiche the chyldren of Israel enherited in the lande of Canaan, * which Eleazer the preste, and Josua the sonne of Nun and the auncient heades of the trybes of the chyldren of Israel, distributed to them.

* By lotte they receyued theyr possessions, as the Lord commaunded, by the hande of Moles, to gve vnto the nyne trybes, and vnto the halfe trybe. For Moles had gve enheritaunce vnto two trybes and an halfe, on the other syde Jordan. But vnto the Leuites he gaue none enheritaunce amonge them. * For the chyldren of Joseph were two trybes. Manasses and Ephraim. And therfore they gaue no parte vnto the Leuites in the lande, saue cytyes to dwell in, with the suburges of the same, for theyr bestes and cattell. * As the Lord commaunded Moles: euen so the chyldren of Israel dyd whiche they deuied the land.

And the chyldren of Juda came vnto Josua in Gilgal.

in Gilgal. * And Caleb the sonne of Jephune the Kenesite sayde vnto hym: thou wottest what the Lord sayd vnto Moses the mā of God, about my matter & thyne in Cades Barne. * Fourtye yere olde was I when Moses the seruaunt of the Lord sent me from Cades barne to espy out the lande: And I brought hym word agayne enē as it was in myne herte. Neuerthelesse my brethren that went vp with me, dyscouraged the herte of the people. And I folowed the Lord God.

And Moses sware the same day: saying * the lande wheron thy fete haue trode, shal be thyne enherytaunce & thy chyldrens for euer, because thou hast folowed the Lord God. And beholde, the Lord hath kepte me alpye (as he sayd) * this fourtye & fyue yeres euen syns the Lord spake thys worde vnto Moses, whyle the chyldren of Israel wandred in the wyldernes. And nowe lo I am thys daye fourscore and fyue yere olde: and yet am as stronge at thys tyme, as I was when Moses sent me: loke howe strong I was then, so stronge am I nowe, whether to go to warre, or to come agayne.

Now therfore gyue me this mountaine wherof the Lord spake in that day, for thou hardest in that daie, howe the Enakims are there, and the cityes great and walled. Peraduenture the Lord wyl be wyth me, & I shal be able to dyscuss them out, as the Lord sayde. And Josua blessed him, and gaue vnto Caleb the sonne of Jephune, Hebron to enherit: And Hebron therfore became the enheritaunce of Caleb the sonne of Jephune the Kenesite, vnto this day: because he folowed the Lord God of Israel. And the name of * Hebron was called in old tyme, Kariat Arbe. For the same was a great man amonge the Enakims. And the lande ceased from warre.

The. xv. Chapter.

The lotte of the chyldren of Juda, and the names of the cyties and vyllages of the same.

This was the lotte of the trybe of the chyldren of Juda by thei kynredes. Namely, toward the border of Edom in the wyldernes of zin, southward, euen from the vtmost parte of the southe coaste.

* And thei south coaste was from the bynke of the salt see, fro a rocke that leaneth southward. And it wente out to the south syde towarde the goyng vp to Acrabim & went a long to zinna, and ascended vp on the south syde vnto Cades barne: and went along to Hebron, and went vp to Adar, and fet a copasse to Karca. Fro thence went it a longe to Azmon, and reached vnto the ryuer of Egypte and the ende of that coast was on the weste syde. And this is thei south coaste.

Thei east coaste is the salt see, euen vnto the edge of Jordan. And thei border in the north quarter was from the rocke of the see and from the edge of Jordan. And the same border went vp to Bethhagla, and went a long by the north syde of Betharabah, and vp from thence to the stone of Bohen the sonne of Rubē. And agayn, the same border went vp to Dabir from the valepe of Acoz, and so northwarde, turnynge towarde Gilgal, that lyeth befoze the goyng vp to Adonim, whych is of the southe syde of the ryuer. And the same border went vp to the waters of the fountayne of the Sunne, and ended at the well of Rogel. And then went vp to the valepe of the sonne of Hennon, euen vnto the south syde of Jebusi: the same is Jerusalem. And then went vp to the toppe of the hyll that lyeth befoze the valepe of Hennon westwarde, and by the edge of the valepe of the Gaiantes northwarde: And then it compasseth from the toppe of the hyll vnto the fountayne of the water of Nephtoa, & goth out at the cityes of mounte Ephron: and draweth to Baala, whych is Kiriathiarim, (that is a cytie of woodes,) and then it compasseth fro Balah westward vnto mounte Seir, and then goeth a longe vnto the syde of mount Jarim, which is Chesalon on the north syde. And cometh down to Bethfames, & goth to Chamnah, and goth out agayne vnto the syde of Akarō northward: And the draweth to Secron & goth a longe to mount Balah, and goeth out at Jabnel: & the endes of the coastes leane at the west see. And the west border was the great see, & the same coast was the coast of the chyldren of Juda rounde about in thei kynredes.

And vnto Caleb the sonne of Jephune byd Josua geue a parte amonge the chyldren of Juda, accordynge to the mouth of the Lord, euen * Kiriatharbe of the father of Enack, whych cytie is Hebron. And Caleb droue thence the thre sonnes of Enack, Sesai, and Ahimā, and Chalmā, whiche were, the sonnes of Enack. And he went vp thence, to the inhabitoures of Dabir. And the name of Dabir in the olde tyme was Kariat Sephar, (that is a cytie of letters.) And Caleb sayde: * he that smyteth Kariat Sepher, and taketh it: to hym wyl I geue Achah my daughter to wyfe. And Othniel, the sonne of Kenes, the brother of Caleb toke it. And he gaue hym Achah his daughter to wife: And as she wet in vnto him, she was moued of hi, to ask of her father a felde. And she a lyghted of her asse. And Caleb sayde vnto her, what ayleth the? Who answered: gyue me a blessing: for thou hast geuen me a south (and drye) lande: geue me also springes of water. And he gaue her springes of water, both aboue & beneth. This is the enherytaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Juda by thei kynredes.

And the vtmost cityes of the trybe of the chyldren of Juda, toward the coastes of Edom southwarde were: Rabzel, Eder, and Jagur: Rimah, Dimonah, and Adada: Kedis, Hazor, and Jephnan: Ziph, Telem & Baloth, Hazor, Hadathah, Kariat Hebron (whiche is Hazor) Emā, Sami, and Moladah: Hazargadah, Halmon and Bethpheleth: Halarual, Bersabe, and Bazothah: Baalah, Jim, and Azen: Eltholad, Cecul, & Horma: zikelag Medemenah and Bensenah: Labaoth, Helhim, Ain and Rimon: al these cityes are twentye and nyne with thei vyllages. And in the lowe cōtreys they had Esthaol, Zarcab & Asenah: zoneah, Engani, Thapuah & Enā: Jarimuth Adulā, Socoh, and Azkab: Saarem, Adithaim, Gederah, and Gederothaim: Fourtene cityes wyth thei vyllages.

zenan,

zenam, Hadazab, and Magdalgad: Deleam Mizpa, and Jektheel: Lachis, Bazcab, & Eglô: Cabon, Lahaman, & Cethlis Caderoth, Beth-dagon, Maamah and Wakebah: Syrtene cyties wyth theyr byllages.

In Lebna, Ether, & Alon: Jephthah, Asnah, and Rezi, Keilah, Kaphezib, & Marelab: nyne cyties wyth theyr byllages. Akron w her townes & byllages. From Akron and from the west, all that lyeth aboute Adod w theyr byllages. Adod wth her townes and byllages. Azab wth her townes and byllages, euen vnto the ryuer of Egypte and the greate see was theyr coaste.

And in the mountaynes, they had Samir Jathir, and Socob, Danah: and Kariath senathe, whych is Dabir: Anah, Esthemoth, and Anim, Gozen, Holon, and Giloh, a leuen cytyes wyth theyr byllages. Arab, Dumah, and Eleam: Jamin, Bethaphuah, and Appheah, Humatah, and Kariath arbe, whych is Hebron and zior: nyne cytyes wyth theyr byllages. Maon, Carmel, Siph, and Iutah: Iesrael, Iukadan, and Sanoth: Cain, Gabaah, and Chamnah: ten cytyes wyth theyr byllages. Halbul, Bethzur, & Gedoz: Maarath, Bethanoth, and Elthebô: Syrtene cyties wyth their byllages. Kariath Baal which is Kariath Jarim: (the cite of woodes) and Harabab: two cytyes wyth theyr byllages.

In the wylde nesse they had Betharabah, Meddin and Macacab: Riblan, the cite of salt, and Engaddi: Syrtene cytyes wyth theyr byllages. Neuertheles, the Jebusites that were the enhabiters of Ierusalê, could not the chyldre of Juda cast out. But the Jebusites dwell wyth the chyldren of Juda at Ierusalem vnto this daye.

The .xvi. Chapter.

The lotte of parte of Ephraim.

And the lotte of the chyldren of Joseph felle from Jordan by Jericho, vnto the water of Jericho Cassewarde, and to the wylde nesse that goeth vpp from Jericho thoro we out mounte Bethel: and goeth out from Bethel to Lus, and runneth a longe vnto the borders of Arcimataroth: and goeth downe agayne westwarde euen to the coaste of Japhletti, and vnto the coaste of Bethozon the nether, and to Galoz, and the endes of theyr coastes leaue at the west see. And so the chyldren of Joseph Manasses and Ephraim toke theyr enheritaunce.

And the border of the chyldren of Ephraim was by theyr kynred. Theyr border on the east syde, was: Ataroth, Adoz, euen vnto Bethhoz the vpper, and went out westwarde to Machmathab on the North syde, and returneth Eastwarde vnto Chaanath Silo, and pass it on the East syde vnto Ionoah, & went downe from Ionoah to Atharoth and Maarath, & came to Jericho, & went oute at Jordan. And theyr border went from Chaphuah westwarde vnto the ryuer kanah, & the endes were the west see. Thys is the enheritaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Ephraim by theyr kynredes. And the separate cytyes for the chyldren of Ephraim, were among the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Manasses: eue the cytyes with theyr byllages. And they drave not out the Cananites that dwell in Galoz: but the Cananites dwell among the Ephraimites vnto thys daye, and serue vnder tribute.

The .xvii. Chapter.

The lotte of porcyon of the halfe trybe of Manasses. The Cananites are become tributaries to the Israelites. Manasses and Ephraim requyre a greater porcyon of heritage.

Thys was the lotte of the trybe of Manasses, whych was the eldest sonne of Joseph. And Machir the eldest sonne of Manasses whych was the father of Gilead, who was a man of warre had Gilead and Basan. Thys was the posselcion of the rest of the chyldren of Manasses by theyr kynredes: Namely, of the chyldren of Abiezer: the chyldre of Helck the chyldren of Azriel: the chyldren of Sichem, the chyldren of Hepher: the chyldre of Semida: for these were the male chyldren of Manasses, the sonnes of Joseph by theyr kynredes. * But Zelaphead the sonne of Hepher, the sonne of Gilead: the sonne of Machir, the sonne of Manasses, had no sonnes but doughters whose names are these: Hehela, Noa, Hagla, Melcha & Thirza: whych came befoze Eleazar the preist and befoze Josua the sonne of Nun, and befoze the Lozdes saying * the Lozde commaunded Moses to geue vs an enheritaunce amonge our byethren. And therfore accordyng to the commaundement of the Lozde, he gaue the an enheritaunce among the byethren of theyr father. And there felle ten porcyons to Manasses, besyde the lande of Gilead and Basan, which is on the other syde Jordan, because the doughters of Manasses dyd enheret among his sonnes. And Manasses other sonnes, had the lande of Gilead.

And the coaste of Manasses was from Aser to Machmathab that lyeth befoze Sichem & went a longe on the ryght hande, euen vnto the enhabiters of Entaphuah, & the lande of Chaphuah beloged to Manasses, which Chaphuah is besyde the border of Manasses, & besyde the border of the chyldre of Ephraim. And the coast descended fro thece vnto the ryuer Canah southward eue to the ryuer of the cytyes of Ephraim, & betwene the cytyes of Manasses. The coast of Manasses went also on the north syde to the ryuer, and the endes of it go out at the see, so that the south pertayned to Ephraim, and the north to Manasses, and the see is his border. And they mette together in Aser northwarde, and in Isacar eastwarde. And Manasses had in Isacar and in Aser, Bethlean, and her townes: Jiblei, and byr townes: and the enhabitours of Doz, wyth the townes pertaynyng to the same: and the enhabitours of Endoz wyth the townes of the same: and the enhabitours of Chaanath wyth her townes: and the enhabitours of Gedoz wyth the townes of the same, euen thre cytreys. Yet the chyldren of Manasses could not ouercome those cytyes. But the Cananites presumed to dwell in the same lande. Neuertheles, as sone as the chyldren of Israel were waxed stronge, they put the Cananites vnder tribute, but expelled them not.

And the chyldre of Joseph spake vnto Josua sayinge:

sayinge: why hast thou gyuen me but one lotte and one porcyon to enherit, seing I am a great people, and for as moche as the Lorde hath blessed me hitherto: And Josua answered them: yf thou be moch people, then get the vp to the wod countrye, and prepare for thy selfe there in the lande of the Pheresites and of the gyauntes, yf mount Ephraim be to narrowe for the. And the chyldre of Joseph sayd: The hyl is not ynough for vs: and all the Cananites that dwell in the lowe countrye haue charettes of yron, & so haue they that enhabit Bethsean, and the townes of the same, and they also that dwell in the vallepe of Jezrael. And Josua sayde vnto the house of Joseph, Ephraim, and Manasses: ye be moche people, and haue great power, and shall not therfore haue one lot. Therfore the hyl shalbe yours and ye shal cut downe the wood that is in it: and the endes of it shalbe yours, yf ye cast out the Cananites which haue yron charettes, and are very stronge.

The. viii. Chapter.

Certaine are sent to deuysen the lande to the other seuen trybes. The lot of the chyldren of Ben Jamin.

And the whole congregacyon of the chyldren of Israel came togyther at Silo and set vp the tabernacle of wytnesse there, & the lande was in subiection befoze them. And there remayned amonge the chyldren of Israel seuen trybes, which had not yet receyued theyr inheritance. And Josua sayde vnto the chyldren of Israel: howe longe are ye so slacke to come & possesse the land which the Lorde God of your fathers hath gyuen you? Gyue out fro among you for euery trybe thre men, that I maye send them And that they maye ryle and walke thowowe þ lande, and distribute it accordynge to the enheritaunce thereof, and come agayne to me.

And let them deuysen it, vnto them into seuen partes. And Juda shall abyde in theyr coost on the south, and the house of Joseph shal stande in theyr coostes on þ north. Describte ye the lande therfore into seuen partes, and bypunge ye the description hither to me & I shal cast lottes for you here befoze the Lorde our God. * But þ Leuites haue no part among you, for the presthod of the Lord is their enheritaunce. * And Gad & Ruben & halfe þ tribe of Manasses haue receyued theyr enheritaunce beyonde Jordan eastwarde, which Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde gaue them.

And the men arose, and went theyr waye. And Josua charged them þ went to describe the land saying: departe, and go thowowe the lande, and describe it, and come agayne to me, that I may here cast lottes for you befoze the Lord in Silo. And þ men departed, & walked thowow þ lande, and describted it by cyties into seuen partes in a booke, and retourned to Josua into the hoost at Silo. And Josua caste lottes for them in Silo befoze the Lorde, and there Josua deuysed the lande vnto the chyldren of Israel, to eche theyr porcyon: And the lotte of the trybe of the chyldren of Ben Jamin came by accordynge to theyr kynredes. And the cooste of theyr lotte came wt wene the chyldren of Juda and the chyldren of Joseph. And theyr north coost was from Jordan, and went vp to the syde of Jericho on the northsyde, and went by thowowe the mountaynes westwarde, and they ended at the wyldernesse of Bethauen: and went fro thence: toward Lus, euen to the south syde of Lus (the same is Bethel) and descended agayne to Atrothadar, vnto the hyl that lyeth on the south syde of the nether Bethhoron. And þ cooste turneth thence and compasseth the corner of the see southward, euen from the hyl that lyeth befoze Bethhoron southwarde, & goeth out at Kiriathbaal which is Kiriath Jarim a citie of the chyldren of Juda, this is the West quarter: and the South cooste goth from the edge of Kiriath Jarim, and goeth out westwarde, and thence it turneth to the water well of Rephthoah, and cometh downe agayne to the edge of the hyl, that lyeth befoze the vallepe of the sonne of Hennon, euen in the valley of the gyauntes northwarde and descended into the vallepe of Hennon besyde Jebus southwarde, and goeth downe to the wel of Rogel, and compasseth from the North, and goeth forth to the well of the sonne, and departeth fro thence to the places of Geliloth, whiche are toward the goinge vp vnto Adomin: and goeth downe to the stone of Bohan the sonne of Ruben: and then goeth alonge toward the syde of the playne northwarde: and goeth downe into the feldeg: and goth alonge to the syde of Bethhaglah northwarde, and endureth at the poynt of the salt see north therefrom, euen at the south ende of Jordan. This is the south coost.

And Jordan kepeth in this coost on the eastsyde, and this is the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Ben Jamin by theyr coostes rounde aboute thowowoute the kynredes. These were the cyties of the trybes of the chyldren of Ben Jamin thowowoute theyr kynredes: Jericho, Bethhaglah, and the playne of Haziz: Betharabah, zammarim, & Bethel: Auim, Pharah, and Ophrah: Chepar, Ammona, Ophni and Gabai, & twelue cyties with theyr byllages. Gibeon, Ramah, & Beroth. Nazpab, Caphairah, & Mozah, Reken, Jarephel, and Charelah, zela, Eleph, and Jebus, whiche is Jerusalem, Gibeath, and Kiriath fourtene cyties with theyr byllages. This is the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Ben Jamin thowowout theyr kynredes.

The. xix. Chapter.

The lottes of partes of Zabulon, Issachar and Aser. Naphtali, Dan, and Josua.

And the seconde lot came out for the trybe of þ chyldre of Simeon by their kynredes. And theyr enheritaunce was in the middes of þ inheritaunce of þ chyldre of Juda. And they had in their enheritaunce, Bersabe, Sabe & Molo-dah, Hazorsual, Balah & Azem, Eltholad, Bethul & Horma, zikelag, Bethmarcaboath & Hasetluah, Bethlebaath, and Saruben. xiii. cities with theyr byllages. Aim, Remon, Ether, and Asan, foure cities with theyr byllages, and ther to all the byllages that were rounde about these cyties, euen vnto Balaath, Beoz, and Ramath southward.

southward. This is þe enheritaunce of þe trybe of the chyldren of Simeon thow out theyr kynredes. Out of þe lotte of the chyldre of Juda, came the enheritaunce of the chyldre of Simeon. For the parte of the chyldren of Juda was to muche for them: & therfore the chyldre of Simeon had theyr enheritaunce in the enheritaunce of them.

B And the thyrde lotte arose for the chyldre of zabulon thow out theyr kynredes. And the coastes of theyr enheritaunce came to Sarid, & went vp westward, and to Marialah, & reached to Dabath, and came thence to the ryuer that lyeth before Jokneuen: and turned from Sarid eastwarde toward the sonne rysynge vnto the border of Chisloth Chabor: and then goeth out to Dabereth, and goth vp to Japhia: and from thence goeth alonge eastwarde, to Gethah. Jepper, Jthah and Jazin, & goeth to Remo, Methoar, and Neoh. And compasseth it on the north syde to Nathan, & endeth in the valley of Jephthabel. And Jatath, Rabalol, Semron, Jedalah, and Bethleh: twelue cyties wth theyr vyllages: This is the enheritaunce of the chyldre of zabulon thow out theyr kynredes, and these are the cyties wth theyr vyllages.

And the fourth lot came out for þe chyldren of Isachar by theyr kynreds. And theyr coast was Israelah, Casuloth, and Sunen. Hapharaim, Sion, and Anaharath: Harabith Kysion, and Abez: Rameth, Euganim, Enbadah, & Bethphazez. And his coast reacheth to Chabor, and Sabazimah and Bethlames, & endeth at Jozdan: Syrtene cyties with theyr vyllages. This is the enheritaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Isachar by theyr kynredes. And these are the cyties wth theyr vyllages.

And the fyfte lotte came out for the trybe of the chyldre of Aser by theyr kynredes. And their coast was: Helcath, Hali, Beten, and Achsah: Alamelech, Amaad and Hiseal: & came to Carmel westwarde, and to Sihor, Labanath, and turned toward the Sune rysynge to Bethdagon, and cometh to zabulon and to the valeye of Jephthabel, toward the northsyde of Bethemek and Regel, and goeth out on the yfte syde of Cabul: and to Hebron, Rohob, Ramon, and Kanah, euen vnto great Sidon. And then the coast turneth to Ramah and to the stronge citie of zor, and turneth to Hozah, and endeth at the see, by the possession of Achzibah: Amah also & Aphek and Rohob: Twente and two cyties with theyr vyllages. This is the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Aser by theyr kynredes: These are the cyties wth theyr vyllages.

And the syxte lotte came out for the chyldre of Nephtali by theyr kynredes. And their coast was from Heleph and from Elom to zaananim Adami, Rekeb and Jabneel, euen to Lakum, & doth go out at Jozdan. And then the coast turneth westwarde to Alanoth Chabor, and then goeth out from thence to hukokah, and reacheth to zabulon on the southsyde, and goeth to Aser on the westsyde, and to Juda vpon Jozdan toward the Sune rysynge. And theyr stronge cyties are zidin, zer, Hamath, Racah & Cenereth, Adamah, Hermah and Hazor, Kedesh, Edrai, & Enbazor: Jeron, Magdelel, Heorn, Bethanah and Bethlames, nyntene cyties with theyr vyllages. This is the enheritaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Nephtali by theyr kynredes: these also are the cyties and theyr vyllages.

And the seuenth lotte came out for the trybe of the chyldren of Dan by theyr kynredes. And the cooste of theyr enheritaunce was: zaraah, Esthaol * Jrlames, Saelabin, Aialo, Jethlah, Eglon & Chenathah, and Akaron, Elthekeh, Gibetho & Baalath, Jethud, Banebarah & Gaththermon, Meiericon and Arcon, wth the border that lyeth before Japho. And the coostes of the chyldre of Dan wet out fro the. And the chyldre of Dan went vp to fyght agaynste Iesen, and toke it, and smote it with the edge of the swerde, and conquered it, and dwelt therein, and called it * Dan after the name of Dan theyr father.

This is the enheritaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Dan in their kynredes: these also are the cyties with theyr vyllages. When they had made an ende of deuylng þe land by her coostes the chyldre of Israel gaue an inheritaunce vnto Josua the son of Nun among them, accordynge to the worde of the Lorde they gaue hym the cite which he asked, eue * Chanah serah in mount Ephraim And he buylt the cytie & dwelt therein * These are the enheritaunces whiche Eleazar the preast, and Josua the sonne of Nun, and the auncient fathers of the tribes of the chyldren of Israel deuyled by lot in Siloh before the Lord in the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and so they made an ende of deuylng the countrey.

The .xx. Chapter

The cyties of refuge or Sanctuaries.

The Lorde also spake vnto Josua, sayynge: speake to the chyldren of Israel, and saye: * Appoynt out from among you cyties of refuge, whereof I spake vnto you by the hande of Moyses, that the fear that killeth any person vnwares and vnwytynge, maye flye thither. And those cyties shal be your refuge from the auenger of bloude. And he þe doth flye vnto one of those citie, shal stand at the entrynge of the gate of the cytie, and shall shewe his cause in þe eares of the elders of þe citie. And they shal take hym into the cytie vnto them, and geue hym a place, that he maye dwell amonge them.

And yf the auenger of bloude folowe after hym, they shal not deliuer the fear into his hand bycause he smote his frende ignorauntly, and hated hym not before tyme.

And he shal dwell in the sayde cytie vntill he stande before the congregacyon in iudgement, * and vntill the death of the hye preast þe shal be in those dayes: for then shal the fear retourne, and come vnto hym owne cytie, and vnto hym owne house, & vnto the cytie fro whence he fled. And they sanctified Kedesh in Galile in mounte Nephtali, and Sichemin mount Ephraim, and Kyzatharbe (wiche is in Hebron) in the mountayne of Juda. And on the other syde Jozdan ouer against Jericho eastward, they appointed

Bozoz in the wylderneſſe vpon the playne, oute of the trybe of Ruben: and Ramoth in Gilead, out of the trybe of Gad: and Golan in Baſan, out of the trybe of Manaſſes. Theſe were ſ cyties appoynted for al the chyldre of Iſrael, and for the ſtraunger that ſoiourned amonge them, that whoſoener kyled any perſon ignorauntly, the ſame myght ſlye thither, and ſhulde not dye by the hande of the auenger of blood, vntyll he ſtode before the congregacyon ^{or} (to declare his cauſe)

The. xxi. Chapter.

The cyties gauen to the Leuites, in nombre. cxiij.

Ad then came the principall fathers of ſ Leuites vnto Eleazar the preſt and vnto Joſua the ſon of Nun, & vnto the auſpexent fathers ſ were ouer the trybes of the chyldren of Iſrael & ſpake vnto them at Hebron in the land of Canaan, ſaying: * the Lorde commaunded by Moſes, to gyue vs cyties to dwell in, with ſ ſuburbes therof, for our cattell. And the chyldre of Iſrael gaue vnto the Leuites, oute of theyr inherytaunce at the byddyng of the Lorde theſe cyties ſollowynge wyth theyr ſuburbes.

And the lotte came out for ſ kynred of the Cahathites: and the chyldren of Aaron the preſte, whych were of the Leuites, had gauen them by lotte, out of the trybe of Iuda, out of the tribe of Simeon, & out of ſ tribe of Ben Jamin. xiii. cyties. And the reſt of the chyldren of Cahath had by lot, out of ſ kynredes of ſ trybe of Ephraim out of the trybe of Dan, & out of the halfe trybe of Manaſſes: ten cyties. And ſ chyldre of Gerſon had by lotte out of the kynredes of the trybe of Iaſachar, & out of the trybe of Aſer, out of the tribe of Nephtali, & out of the other halfe tribe of Manaſſes in Baſan: thytene cyties. And the chyldren of Merari by theyr kynredes, had oute of the trybe of Ruben, & out of the trybe of Gad and out of the trybe of Zabulon, twelue cyties. And the chyldren of Iſrael gaue by lotte vnto the Leuites theſe cyties wyth theyr ſuburbes, as the Lorde commaunded by Moſes.

And they gaue out of the tribe of the chyldren of Iuda, and out of the trybe of the chyldren of Simeon, theſe cyties by name whych the chyldren of Aaron being of the kynredes of the Cahathites, and of the chyldren of Leui, obteyned for theyr was the fyrſt lotte.

And they gaue them Hebron of ſ father of Enah (whiche is Hebron) in the hyll countrey of Iuda, with the ſuburbes of the ſame rounde aboute it. But the lande that pertayned to the citie, and the byllages therof, gaue they to * Caleb the ſonne of Jephune to be his poſſeſſyon.

mon with her ſuburbes: foure cyties. All theſe cyties of the chyldren of Aaron preſtes, were thytene cyties with theyr ſuburbes. And the kynredes of the chyldren of Cahath that were Leuites: that is to ſaye, the other chyldren of Cahath, had cyties gauen for theyr lotte, out of the trybe of Ephraim. For they gaue them the cytie that the ſlayer myght ſlye vnto: Sichem with her ſuburbes, in mount Ephraim: and Gazer wyth her ſuburbes: and Kibzaim with her ſuburbes: and Bethoron with her ſuburbes: foure cyties.

And out of the halfe trybe of Manaſſes, Thanaach with her ſuburbes: and Gathremon wyth her ſuburbes: two cyties. All the cyties for the other kynredes of the chyldren of Cahath, were ten with their ſuburbes.

And vnto the chyldren of Gerſon which were of ſ kynredes of the Leuites, they gaue oute of ſ other halfe tribe of Manaſſes, ſ cytie of refuge for the ſlayer: Golan in Baſan with her ſuburbes, and Beſſtherah wyth her ſuburbes: two cyties. And oute of the trybe of Iaſachar, Kyſpon wyth her ſuburbes: and Daberah with her ſuburbes, and Jarimoth wyth her ſuburbes: Engannim with her ſuburbes, foure cyties. And out of the trybe of Aſer, Miſael with her ſuburbes, Abdo with her ſuburbes, Balakath wyth her ſuburbes, and Roboh with her ſuburbes, foure cyties. And out of the trybe of Nephtali, the cytie for the ſlayer to ſlye vnto: Kedres in Galile with her ſuburbes: and Hamothdor wyth her ſuburbes: and Carthan with her ſuburbes: thre cyties.

All the cyties of the Gerſonites thowout their kynredes, were. xiii. cyties with theyr ſuburbes.

And vnto the other kynredes of the chyldren of Merari, the reſt of the Leuites, they gaue out of the trybe of Zabulon: Tecnam with her ſuburbes: and Carthah with her ſuburbes: Damna with her ſuburbes, and Nahalal with her ſuburbes: foure cyties. And out of the trybe of Ruben, Bozoz with her ſuburbes, and Jabelah with her ſuburbes: Kedmoth with her ſuburbes, and Maphaath with her ſuburbes: foure cyties.

And out of the trybe of Gad they gaue the cytie for the ſlayer to ſlye vnto: Ramoth in Gilead with her ſuburbes, and Mahanaim with her ſuburbes, Heſbon with her ſuburbes: and Iaſer with her ſuburbes, foure cyties in all, ſo that all the cyties of the chyldren of Merari thowout their kynredes (whych were the reſt of the kynredes of the Leuites) were by theyr lotte, twelue cyties. And all the cyties that the Leuites had amonge the poſſeſſyon of the chyldren of Iſrael were. xlviii. wyth theyr ſuburbes. And theſe cyties laye euery one ſenerallye, haupnge theyr ſuburbes rounde about them thowout all the ſayde cyties. And the Lorde gaue vnto Iſrael al the lande which he ſware to gyue vnto theyr fathers. And they conquered it, and dwelt therein. And the Lorde gaue them reſt rounde about accordynge to all that he ſware vnto theyr fathers:

thers: and there stode not a man of all theyr enemyes before them. The Lorde also deliuered al theyr enemyes into theyr handes. * There escaped nothyng of all the good thynges, whiche the Lorde had sayde vnto the house of Israel. But all came to passe.

The. xxi. Chapter.

Ruben, Gad, and the halfe trybe of Manasses are sent agayne to theyr possessions. They buyde an aulter for a memopall.

When Josua called vnto the Rubenites, the Gaddites, and to þ halfe trybe of Manasses, and sayd vnto them: * ye haue kept all that Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde commaunded you, & haue obeyed my voyce in al that I commaunded you, ye haue not left your brethren of a longe season vnto this daye, but haue kept the commaundement of the Lorde your God.

And now that the Lorde hath giuen rest vnto your brethren as he promysed them, therfore retorne ye and go to youre tentes, and vnto the land of your possession, which Moses þ seruaunt of the Lorde gaue you on the other syde Jordan.

But in anye wyse take diligent hede, and do the commaundement and lawe, whiche Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde charged you: * that ye loue the Lorde your God, and walke in al his wayes, and kepe his commaundementes, and cleane vnto hym, and serue hym with all youre hertes and all your soules. And so Josua blessed them and sent them awaye. And they went vnto theyr tentes.

Vnto the one halfe of the trybe of Manasses Moses gaue the possession in Balan: and vnto the other halfe therof gaue Josua amonge their brethren on this syde Jordan westwarde. And Josua sent them a waye also vnto theyr tentes, and blessed them, and sayde vnto them: retorne with moche ryches vnto your tentes, and wyth a greate multitude of cattell, with syluer and golde, with brasse and yron, and with moch rayment, and * denyde the spoyles of your enemyes, wyth your brethren.

Josa. viii. f.
I. ac. xxi. f.

And the chyldren of Ruben, the chyldren of Gad, and halfe the tribe of Manasses, returned and departed from the chyldren of Israel out of Silo (whiche is in the lande of Canaan) to go vnto the countrie of Gilead to the lande of theyr possession whych they had obteyned, accordyng to the word of the Lorde by the hande of Moses. And whē they came vnto the place of Geliloth besyde Jordan (that is in the lande of Canaan) there the chyldren of Ruben, the chyldren of Gad, and the halfe trybe of Manasses, buylte an aulter fast by Jordane, and that a great altare to se to. Which when the chyldren of Israel hearde of, they sayde: beholde, the chyldren of Ruben, the chyldren of Gad, and the halfe trybe of Manasses haue buylte an aulter in the forefront of þ lande of Canaan euen in Geliloth besyde Jordan on the syde of þ chyldren of Israel. And whē the chyldren of Israel hearde of it, the whole congregacyon of the chyldren of Israel gathered them togyther at Silo to make battell agaynst them. And the chyldren of Israel sent vnto the chyldren of Ruben and to the chyldren of Gad, and to the halfe tribe of Manasses into the land of Gilead, Rhinehes the sonne of Eleazar the preeste, and wyth hym ten lordes, of euery cheth house a lorde, thowout all the trybes of Israel, which were heedes of theyr fathers householde amonge the thousandes of Israel. And they wente vnto the chyldren of Ruben, and to the chyldren of Gad, and to the chyldren of the halfe trybe of Manasses, vnto the lande of Gilead, and they spake wyth them, sayinge.

Thus saye the hole congregacion of the Lorde: * What transgression is this that ye haue transgressed agaynst þ God of Israel, to turne away this daye from the Lorde, in that ye haue buylded you an aulter for to rebel this day agaynst the Lorde? Is the * wycked dede of Beor to lettle for vs, whereof we are not yet cleynd vnto this daye, and for the whyche there was in the congregacion of the people a plague of the Lorde? Ye also are touned awaye this daye from the Lorde. And seinge ye rebel todaye agaynst the Lorde, it wyll come to passe, that tomorowe he shalbe wroth wyth all the congregacyon of Israel. Notwithstandyng ye thynke, that the lande of your possession is vncleane, then come ouer vnto the lande of the possession of the Lorde wherein the Lordes Tabernacle dwelleth, and take possession amonge vs. But transgresse not agaynst the Lorde, nor prouoke vs to buylde you any other aulter, saue the aulter of the Lorde oure God. * Wyl not Acan the sonne of Zareth trespasse in the excommunicate thyng, & wrath fell on all the congregacyon of Israel, whiche notwithstandyng that he was but one man, yet he alone persshed not for his wyckednesse?

Then the chyldren of Ruben and the chyldren of Gad, and halfe the tribe of Manasses answered, and sayd vnto the heedes ouer the thousandes of Israel: The God of goddes, the Lorde God of Goddes, euenthe Lorde he knoweth, and also þal Israel knowe. Yf it be to rebell, or to transgresse agaynst the Lorde, thā thou Lorde saue vs not this daye. Or els yf we haue buylte vs an aulter to retorne fro solowpyng þ Lorde, or to offere thereon burnt offerynges or meate offerynges, or to offere peace offerynges thereon: let the Lorde requyre it, (and iudge). And yf we haue not rather done it of a carefulesse & of a sure occasion, sayinge: In tyme to come your chyldren myght saye vnto oures: what haue ye to doo wyth the Lorde God of Israel? the Lorde hath made Jordan a bordre betwene vs and you (ye chyldren of Ruben and of Gad) ye haue no part therfore in the Lorde: and so þal your chyldren make oure chyldren cease from fearyng the Lorde.

Therfore we (toke better aduysment and) sayde: We wyll make vs an aulter, not for burnt offerynges, nor for sacrifyce, but for a * wytnesse betwene vs & you, & oure generacions after vs, & we shoulde serue the Lorde, wyth our offerynges, sacrifyces and peace offerynges before hym: & that your chyldren shulde not saye to oures in tyme tyme to come: ye haue no parte in the Lorde.

Therefore sayde we, that ye thou shuld so saye to vs or to oure generacions in tyme to come, y we wolde saye agayne: Beholde the fassyon of the aulter of the Lorde, which our fathers made not for burntelacrifyces, but for a wptnesse betwene vs and you, God forbyd, that we shoulde rebell agaynst the Lorde, and turne thys dape from after hym, and buylde any other aulter for burntoffrynges, oblacyons, or sacrifyces, saue the aulter of the Lorde oure God, that is before hys tabernacle.

And when Phinehes the preeft, and the lordes of the congregacyon & heedes ouer the thousandes of Israel which were with hym, hearde these wordes that the chyldren of Ruben, and y chyldren of Gad and the chyldren of Manasses spake, they were wel content. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar the preeft sayde vnto the chyldren of Ruben and to the chyldre of Gad, and to the chyldren of Manasses, thys dape we perceyue, that the Lorde is amonge vs, bycause ye haue not done this trespasse agaynst the Lorde: Howe ye haue rydde the chyldren of Israel out of the hande of the Lorde.

And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar y preeft with the lordes retourned from the chyldren of Ruben, and from the chyldren of Gad out of the lande of Gilead, vnto the lande of Canaan, to y chyldren of Israel, and brought them this word agayne. And the saying pleased the chyldren of Israel, and they blessed God, & dyd not entende to go agaynst them in battel, and to destroy the lande whych the chyldren of Ruben and Gad dwelt in. And the chyldren of Ruben and the chyldren of Gad called the aulter: Our wptnes that the Lorde is God.

The. xxiii. Chapter.

Josua exhorteth the people, that they ioyne not them selues to the Scuryles.

And it came to passe a longe season after that the Lorde had gpyen rest vnto Israel from al theyr enemies rounde aboute, that Josua waxed olde, and was strycken in age. And Josua called for al Israel, and for theyr elders, theyr herdes, theyr iudges and offycers, & sayde vnto them: I am olde and strycken in age.

And ye haue sene all that the Lord your God hath done vnto all these nacpons before you, howe the Lorde your God hath fought for you. Beholde, I haue subdued vnto you these naciōs that remayne, to be an enheritaūce for your tribes: euen from Jordan, & (from the lande) of all the nacpons that I haue destroyed, euen vnto y great see westwarde. (And there remayne yet many nacpons.) And the Lorde your God shall expel them before you, and cast the from out of your syght, and ye shall conquere theyr lande, as the Lorde your God hath layd vnto you.

Go to therefore *as strongly as ye may, that ye take hede & do all that is wypten in y booke of the lawe of Moyses, & that ye bowe not asyde therefrom, to the ryght hande or to the lefte: and lest that when ye come amonge these nacpons, (euen among these that are left w you) ye make mencyon or sweare by the names of theyr goddes: & that ye neither serue them nor bowe your selues vnto them. But that ye stycke fast vnto the Lorde your God, as ye haue done vnto thys dape. So shall the Lorde caste oute before you greute nacpons and myghtye, as no man hath bene able to stande before you hitherto.

*One man of you shal chase a thousande: for y Lord your God he fyghteth for you, as he hath promysed you. Take good hede therefore vnto your selues, that ye loue the Lorde your God.

Else, yf ye go backe and cleaue vnto the rest of these naciōs that remayne with you, and shal make marpages wyth the, and go vnto them, and they to you: be ye sure, that the Lorde your God wlll nomoze caste oute all these nacpons from before you. *But they shal be snares and trappes vnto you, and scourges in youre sydes, and thornes in youre eyes, vntyll ye peryshe from of thys good lande, whych the Lord your God hath gpyen you.

And beholde, this day do I entre into y way of all the worlde, and ye knowe in all your herites and in all your soules, that *nothyng hath fayled of all the good thynge which the Lorde your God promysed you: But all are come to passe, and nothing hath fayled therof. Therefore as all good thynge are come vpon you, whiche the Lorde your God promysed you, so shall the Lorde byngne vpon you all euyl, vntyll he haue destroyed you fro of this good lande, which the Lorde your God hath gpyen you, when ye haue transgressed the appoyntment of y Lorde your God, whiche he comaunded you: & haue gone, & serued straunge goddes, and bowed your selues to them. Then shal the wrath of the Lord waxe whote vpon you, and ye shal peryshe quychlye from of the good land which he hath gpye you.

The. xxiiii. Chapter.

Josua exhorteth the people to the keeping of the lawe. He dyeth. The bones of Joseph are buryed. Eleazar dyeth.

And Josua gathered all the trybes of Israel to Sichem, and called for the elders of Israel, and for theyr herdes, iudges and offycers, & they presented them selues before God.

And Josua sayd vnto all the people: thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel: *your fathers dwelte on the other syde of the floude in olde tyme: euen Chareth y father of Abraham, and of Nachor, and serued straunge goddes.

And I toke your father Abraham from the other syde of the floude, and brought hym thowout al the lande of Canaan, and multiplied his seed, and *gaue hym Isahac.

And I gaue vnto Isahac, Jacob & Esau. And I gaue vnto Esau mounte Seir, to possesse it. But Jacob & his chyldre wet down into Egypt.

I sent Moyses also & Aaron. And I *plaged Egypte: & when I had so done amonge them, I brought you out, & I brought your fathers out of Egypt. And as they came vnto the see, the Egyptians folowed after your fathers with charrettes & horsemen vnto y red see. *And wpt they cryed and Jebusites, and I deliuered them into your cast them out of your syght: euen the two kynges of the Amozites: but not with poure owne

* Now therfore feare the Lorde, and serue him in perfectnesse and truthe: And put awaye the goddess, which your fathers serued on the other syde of the floude, and in Egypte, and serue y^e Lorde. And yf it seme euyl vnto you to serue the Lorde, then chose you thys dave whome ye wyl serue, whether the goddess whiche your fathers serued (that were on the other syde of the floude) epter the goddess of the Amozites, in whose lande ye dwell. As for me and my house, we wyl serue the Lorde.

The people answered and sayde: God forbyd, that we shoulde forsake the Lorde, & serue straunge goddess. For y^e Lorde our God, he it is y^e brought vs and our fathers out of the lande of Egypte,
and from the house of bandage, and whych dyd those greate myracles in our syght, & preserved vs in all the waye that we went, and among al the nacjons whiche we came thoro: And the Lorde dyd caste oute before vs all the nacjons, specyally the Amozites which dwelt in the land.
And therfore wyl we also serue the Lorde, for he is our God.

Jos. xlii. d

And Josua sayde vnto the people. Ye can not serue y^e Lorde: for he is an holpe God, & a gelous God, & cannot beare your iniquitie & synne. Yf ye forsake the Lorde & serue straunge goddess, * he wyl turne & do you euyl, & consume you, after that he hath done you good. And y^e people sayde vnto Josua: naye, but we wyl serue the Lorde.

And Josua sayd vnto the people: ye are wytnesses poure selues, that ye haue chosen you the Lorde, to serue him: and they sayd: we are wytnesses. Then put awaye (sayd he) the straunge goddess which are amonge you, and bowe your hettes vnto the Lorde God of Israel. The people sayde vnto Josua: the Lorde oure God wyl we serue, and his voyce wyl we obeye. And so Josua * made a couenaunte with the people the same dave, and set an ordynance and lawe before them in Sichem.

And Josua wrote these wordes in the booke of the lawe of God, and * toke a great stoune, and pytched it on ende in the sayde place, euen vnder an oke that was in the sanctuarie of the Lorde.
And Josua sayd vnto the people: beholde: * this stone shalbe a wytnesse vnto vs, for it hath herd all the wordes of the Lorde which he spake with vs. It shalbe therfore a wytnesse vnto you, lest ye denye (and dyssemble wth) your God. And so Josua let the people departe, euerye man vnto hys enheritaunce.

And after these thynges it came to passe, that Josua the sonne of Nun, the seruauit of y^e Lorde dyed, being an hundred and ten yeres olde. And they buried him in y^e countrey of his * enheritaunce euen in Chamnah Sareth, whiche is in mount Ephraim, on the northsyde of the hyll of Gaas.

And Israel serued the Lorde * all the dayes of Josua, and all the dayes of the elders that ouerlyued Josua, and which had knowen al y^e wokes of the Lorde that he had done for Israel. And the * bones of Ioseph, which the chyldren of Israel brought out of Egypt buried they in Sichem in a parcell of grounde whych Jacob bought of the sonnes of Hemor y^e father of Sichem, for an hundred peces of syluer, and it became the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Ioseph. And Eleazar the

B. iii. Bethanath

After the death of Josua, it came to passe, that the chyldren of Israel asked the Lorde saying: who shall go vp for vs agaynst the Cananites, and who shall fyrst fyght agaynst them? And the Lorde sayd: Juda shall go vp, * behold, I haue deliuered the land into his handes. And Juda sayd vnto Simeon his brother: come vp with me in my lot, & we maye fyght agaynst the Cananites: And I lyke wyle wyl go with the into thy lotte. And so Simeon went with him. And Juda went vp, and the Lorde deliuered the Cananytes and Hheresytes into theyr handes. And they slewe of them in Bezek ten thousande men. And they founde Adonibezek in Bezek. And they fought agaynst him, and slew the Cananytes, and Hheresytes. But Adonibezek fled, and they folowed after hym, & caught him, & cut of his thombes and his greate toes. And Adonibezek sayd: thre skore and ten kynges haue yung theyr thombes and greate toes cut of, gathered theyr meat vnder my table: * as I haue done, so God hath done to me agayne. And they brought hym to Jerusalem. and there he dyed.

The chyldren of Juda fought agaynst Jerusalem, and toke it * and smot it with the edge of the sweerde, and set the cylie on fyre. Afterwarde the chyldren of Juda went to fyght agaynst the Cananites, that dwell in the mountayne, & towarde the south, & in the lowe countreye. And Juda went agaynst the Cananites that dwelte in Hebron, whiche before tyme was called Kariath Arbe. And slewe Sesai, Ahiman & Thalmai. And from thence they went to the inhabitants of Dabir, whose name in old tyme was called Kariathsepher, (that is a cylie of letters.)

And Caleb sayde: * he that smyterh Kariathsepher, and taketh it, to hym wyl I gyue Asah my daughter to wyfe. And Orthoniel the sonne of Kenez Calebs yonger brother toke it, to whome he gaue Asah his daughter to wyfe, & as they Bethanath, but dwelt amongst the Cananites the inhabitants of the lande. Nevertheless the inhabitants of Bethlames and of Bethanath became tributaries unto them.

And the Amorites troubled the children of Dan in the mountayne, and suffered them not to come downe to the valleye. And the Amorites were content to dwell in mount Heres (which is by interpretation, a wynneshinge) in Hailon and in Sallabim. And the hande of Joseph prevailed, so that they became tributaries: and the cooste of the Amorites was from the goinge up to Acrabim, and from the rocke upwarde.

The ii. Chapter.

The angel rebuketh the people, because they had made peace with the Cananites. Idolaters are punished.

And the angel of the Lord came up from Gilgal to Bochim, & sayd: I made you to go out of Egypte: & have brought you unto the lande which I sware unto your fathers.

* And I sayd: I will not breake myne appoyntment that I made to you. And ye also shal make no covenant with the inhabitants of this land, but shal breake downe their alters. Nevertheless, ye have not hearkened unto my voyce, why have ye this done? Therefore, I have lyke wyle determined, that I will not cast the out before you: but they shal be thornes unto you, and their goddes shal be a snare unto you. And when the angel of the Lord spake these wordes unto all the children of Israel, the people cryed oute, and wepte: And called the name of the sayde place:

* Bochim, and offered sacrifices unto the Lord.

And when Josua had sent the people awaye, the children of Israel went every man into his inheritance to possesse the lande. * And the people served the Lord all the dayes of Josua, and all the dayes of the elders that outlived Josua, and had sene all the great workes of the Lord that he dyd for Israel. And Josua the sonne of Nun the servaunt of the Lord * dyed, when he was an hundred and ten yeres olde: whome they buryed in the coostes of his inheritance: even in Chamnath hares in mounte Ephraim on the northsyde of the hill Gaas. And even so all that generacion were put unto their fathers, and there arose an other generacion after them which neither knewe the Lord, nor yet the workes, whych he had done for Israel.

And then the children of Israel * dyd wickedly in the syght of the Lord, and served Baalim, and forsoke the Lord God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypt, and folowed straunge goddes, even of the goddes of the nacyons that were rounde about the, and bowed them selves unto them, and angered the Lord. They forsoke the Lord, and served Baal and Astaroth, and the wrath of the Lord waxed whote agaynst Israel, and he delivred them into the handes of their enemies: that spoyled them, and solde them into the handes of their enemies rounde aboute them, so that they had no power any longer to stande before their enemies. But whither soever they wente oute, the hande of the Lord was agaynst them with cruel lucke, even as the Lord prompted them, & as he sware unto them. And he punished them sore.

Nevertheless, the Lord raised up Judges, whiche delivred them out of the handes of their oppressors, & yet for all that they wolde not hearken unto their Judges: But rather wete a whooring after straunge goddes, and bowed them selves unto them, and turned quickly out of the waye which their fathers walked in, obeying the commandementes of the Lord: But they did not so.

And when the Lord rayled them by Judges, he was with the Judge, and delivred them out of the hande of their enemies all the dayes of the Judge: * for the Lord had compassion on their sorowpynes, whiche they had by the reason of them that oppressed them and vexed them: yet for all that * as lone as the Judge was deed, they turned, & dyd worse then their fathers, in followinge straunge goddes, and in servinge them, and ceased not from their owne iniquityes, nor from their malicious waye.

And the wrath of the Lord was moued agaynst Israel, and he sayde: because this people hath transgressed myne appoyntment which I commaunded their fathers, and have not hearkened unto my voyce, I will henceforth not cast oute before the one man of the nacyons, which Josua leste when he dyed, that throughe them I maye * proue Israel, whether they will kepe the waye of the Lord, and walke therein, as their fathers dyd or not. And so the Lord left those nacyons, and dyed them not oute immediatelye, neither delivred them into the hande of Josua.

The iii. Chapter.

Othniel delivureth Israel. Abud killeth kynge Eglon. Samgar killeth the philistines.

These are the nations which the Lord left, that he myght proue Israel by the: such as many of Israel as had not knowne all the warres of Canaan. Onely for the learninge of the generacion of the children of Israel: that he also myght teache them warre, in asmuch as they that were before them, knewe nothing thereof. Of those whom he left, there were syue lordes of the Philistines, and all the Cananites, and the Sodomites, and the Heuites & dwelt in mount Libanon: even from mount Baal Hermon unto Hemath. Those remayned to proue Israel by, & to wete, whether they wolde hearken unto the commandementes of the Lord, whych he commaunded their fathers by the hande of Moses.

And the children of Israel dwelt among the Cananites, Hethytes, Amorites, Pherezytes, Heuites, & Jebusites, & toke the daughters of the to be their wyues, & gave their owne daughters to their sonnes, & served their Goddes. And the children of Israel dyd wickedly in the syght of the Lord, & forgat the Lord their God, and served Baalim and Astaroth. Therefore the Lord was angrey with Israel, and delivred them into the handes of Chusan Rishathaim kynge of Mesopotamia.

Mesopotamia, and the chyldren of Israel serued Chusan Rishathaim. viii. yeres.

And when the chyldre of Israel cryed vnto y^e Lord, the Lord spured vp a sauer, to y^e chyldre of Israel, & saued them: one Orthoniel the sonne of Kenes, Calebs yonger brother. And y^e spirite of the Lord came vpon hym. And he iudged Israel & went out to war. And the Lord deliuered Chusan Rishathaim kynge of Mesopotamia into his hand, & his hand preuayled agaynst Chusan Rishathaim. And the lande had rest forty yeres, & Orthoniel the sonne of Kenes dyed. And the chyldren of Israel went to agayne, and commytted wickednes in the syght of y^e Lord. And the Lord strenghted Eglon the kynge of the Moabites, agaynst the chyldren of Israel, because they had commytted wyckednes before y^e Lord. And this Eglon gathered vnto the him chyldren of Ammon, and the Amalekites, and went and smote Israel, and conquered the cytie of paulmetrees. And so the chyldren of Israel serued Eglon the kynge of Moab byggyene yeres. But whē they cryed vnto the Lord, the Lord spured them vp a sauer. Abud the sonne of Sera the sonne of Gemini, a man that coude do nothyng handsonly wryth hys ryght hande.

And by hym y^e chyldren of Israel sent a present vnto Eglon y^e kynge of Moab: but Abud made hym a dagger wth two edges, of a cubyte length, and he dyd gyde it vnto his rapment vpon his right thygh, and caried the present vnto Eglon the kynge of Moab. And Eglon was a verie fatte man. And it fortunēd that whē he had presented the present, he sent the people that bare it awaye, but he hym selfe turned agayne (from the place of grauen ymages, that was by Gilgal) and sayde: I haue a secret errande vnto the, O kynge. Whiche sayde: kepe sylene. And all that stode before hym, went out from hym.

And Abud came vnto hym, & in a somer parler, whych he had, sat he hym selfe alone, & Abud sayde: * I haue a message vnto the from God: he arose oute of hys seate. And Abud put forth hys left hande, & toke the dagger fro his ryght thygh, and thrust it into hys bely, and the harte wēt in after the blade: And the fatte closed the harte, so that he myght not drawe the dagger out of his bely, but the dyrt came out. Abud gat hym oute at a posterne doze, and shut y^e dozes of the parlour about hym, and locked them.

When he was gone out, his seruauntes came, and when they saue that the dozes of the parlour were locked, they sayd: peraduenture he couereth his feete in hys somer chambze. And they tarped tyll they were ashamed, & beholde: setnge he opened not the dozes of the parlour, they toke a keye, and opened them. And beholde, they^e lord was fallen downe deed on the earth. And Abud escaped (whyle they tarped) & was gone beyonde, to the place of the grauen ymages, and escaped vnto Seirath.

And when he was come * he blew a trompet in mount Ephraim. And the chyldren of Israel went downe wryth him from the hyl, and he wēt before them. And he sayd vnto them: folow me:

for the Lorde hath delpyered youre enemyes the Moabites into your hand. And they descended after hym, and toke the passages of Jordan, towarde Moab, & suffred not a man to passe ouer. And they slew of the Moabites the same tyme, vpon a ten thousande men, which were all fatte and mē of war, and there scaped not a mā * So Moab was subdued that daye, vnder the bande of Israel: and the lande had rest lxxx. yeres.

After hym was Samgar y^e sonne of Anath, whiche slew of the Philistines. v. hundred men wryth an ore goode, and delpyered Israel also.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Deboza and Barak delpyer Israel. Silara is tyllēd of Iael.

And the chyldren of Israel began agayne to do wyckedly in the syght of the Lorde when Abud was deed. And the Lorde solde them into the bande of Jabin kynge of Canaan, that raygned in Hazor, whose captayne of warre was called Silara, whiche dwelte in Haroseth of the Gentiles. And the chyldren of Israel cryed vnto the Lorde: for he hadde nyne hundred charettes of yron, and twenty yeres he troubled the chyldren of Israel very sore.

And Deboza a propheteesse, the wyfe of Lapidoth iudged Israel the same time, and the same Deboza dwelte vnder a paulme tree, betwene Ramath and Bethel, in mount Ephraim.

And the chyldren of Israel came vp to her for iudgement. And she sent and called * Barak the sonne of Abinoam, oute of Kedesh Nephtalim, and sayd vnto hym: Hathe not the Lorde God of Israel commaunded the, to leade wryth sayre wordes, men to mount Thabor, and take wryth the ten thousande men, of the chyldren of Nephtalim and of the chyldre of Zabulon? And I wyl bypnyng vnto the to the ryuer Kison, Silara, the captayne of warre vnto Jabin, wryth hys charettes, and hys people, and wyl delpyer hym into thyne handes. And Barak sayd vnto her: yf thou wylt go wryth me, I wylt go: But yf thou wylt not come wryth me, I wyl not go: She sayde: I wyl surely go wryth the, but thys iourney that thou takest, shall not be for thyne honour, for the Lorde shall sell Silara into the bande of a woman. Deboza went wryth Barak to Kedesh. And Barak called Zabulon & Nephtalim to Kedesh, & led after hym ten thousande men: and Deboza went vp wryth hym.

But Haber y^e Kenite (whiche was of y^e chyldre of * Hobab y^e father in law of Moses) remoued from y^e other Kenites, and pitched his tent vntyl the playne of Zaanaim, whiche is by Kedesh.

And they Hewed Silara, that Barak y^e sonne of Abinoam was gone vp to mount Thabor. And Silara gathered togyther al his charettes euen. ix. hundred charettes of yron, and all the people that were wryth hym from of Haroseth of y^e Gentiles, vnto the ryuer of Kison: And Deboza sayd vnto Barak: vp, for this is y^e day in which y^e Lord hath delpyered Silara into thyne hand: Is not the Lorde gone oute before the? And so Barak went downe from mount Thabor, and ten thousande men after hym.

But the Lorde destroyed Silara and all hys charettes, charettes, and al his hooste with the edge of the swearde, befoze Barak: so that Sisara lighted downe of his charet, and fled away on his feete. But Barak folowed after the charettes & after the hoost, euen vnto Haroseth of Gittiles. And all the hoost of Sisara fell vpon the edge of the swearde, and there was not a man left. Howbeit, Sisara fled awaye on hys feet to the tente of Jael the wyfe of Haber the Kenyte: for there was peace betwene Jabin the kynge of Hazor, and the houtholde of Haber the Kenite.

And Jael wente oute to mete Sisara, and said vnto him: turne in my lord, turne into me, feare not. And when he had turned in vnto her into her tent, she covered hym with a mantell.

D And he sayde vnto her: gyue me a lytle water to drynke, for I am thyrstye. And she opened a bottle of mylke, and gaue hym drynke, and couered hym. And agayne, he sayd vnto her: stāde in the doze of the tent, and when any man doeth come and enqwyze of the, whether there be anye man here, thou shalt saye naye.

Then Jael Habers wyfe toke a nayle of the tent, & an hāmer in her hand, and went softly vnto hym, and smote the nayle into the temples of his heed, and fastened it into the ground, for he slombred soze, and was werpe. And so he dyed.

And beholde, as Barak folowed after Sisara, Jael came out to mete hym, and sayde vnto him: come, and I wil shewe the the man, whom thou sekest. And when he came into her tente: Beholde, Sisara laye deed, and the nayle was in hys temples. And so God brought Jabin the kynge of Canaan into subiection that daye befoze the chyldren of Israel. And the hande of the chyldren of Israel prospered, and preyed agaynst Jabin the kynge of Canaan, vntyl they had brought hym to nought.

The. v. Chapter.

The songe and thanksgyuyng of Deboza and Barak after the victorie.

A Hen Deboza and Barak the sonne of Abinoam sange the same day, sayng: Praise ye the Lorde, for the auengyng of Israel, & for the people that became lowlyng. Heare O ye kynges, hearken O ye prynces: I euen I, will synge vnto the Lorde. I will praise the Lorde God of Israel.

Lorde, * when thou wentest oute of Seir, when thou departest oute of the felde of Edom, the earth trembled, and the heauens rayned: the cloudes also dropped water. * The mountaynes melted befoze the Lorde, euen as dyd Synai, befoze the Lorde God of Israel.

In the dayes of * Samgar the sonne of Anath, in the dayes of: Jael the hye wayes wer vnoccupied: And the runners of the pathes walked thowowe by wayes.

The inhabytours of the townes were gone, they were gone in Israel, vntyl Deboza came vp, which came vp a mother in Israel.

They chose newe goddes, and then had they (the enemy) in y gates, though there were shylde and speare. There was not a shylde or speare sene amonge fourtye thousande of Israel.

My hert loueth the gouernours of Israel, and them that are wyllyng amonge the people. O praise ye the Lorde.

Speake ye that ryde on fayre asses, & that syt vppermost in iudgement, & walke by y wayes.

At the cryng of the archers amonge the drawers of water, there shal they speake of the ryghteousnesse of the Lorde, his ryghteousnesse in the vnfenced places of Israel: then shal the people of the Lorde go downe to the gates.

Up Deboza vp, get the vp, and synge a songe * Praise Barak, and leade the captiuitie captiue thou sonne of Abinoam.

Then shal they that remayne, haue dominion of the proudest of the people (of Jabin:) The Lorde shal for my sake haue dominion ouer the mightie. Out of * Ephraim was there a rote of them agaynst Amalek, and after the Ben Jamin amonge the people. Oute of Machir came rulers, and out of Zabulon they that gouerne the penne of the wyrtter.

And of Issachar, there were prynces w Deboza, Issachar also & Barak were sent on their feet in to the valleye, when in the departyng awaye of Ruben there were great men, and wyse of hert.

Why abodest thou amonge the shepfoldes, to heare y bleatinges of y flockes, & to separate thy selfe away wth great men & wyse of hert?

Gilead also obode beyonde Jordane: and why doth Dan remayne in Assyres?

And continued on the see thore, and tarped in hys decayed places.

But the people of Zabulon haue leoparde they lyues euen vnto the deathe, lyke as dyd Repphalim in the hye places of the felde.

The kynges came and fought, then foughte the kynges of Canaan in Chamnah, by the waters of Magiddo, and wanne no moneye.

They fought from heauen, euen the starres in theyr courtes fought agaynst Sisera.

The ryuer of Euphrat remoued them, that asscient ryuer, the ryuer Euphrat: My soule shal tread (hym) downe myghtely.

Then were the horse houses smytten a sondre by the meanes of the prausynges that they myghte men made.

Curse ye the cytie of Merog (sayd the aungell of the Lorde) curse the inhabytours thereof, because they came not to helpe the Lorde, to helpe the Lorde wth the myghtye.

Jael the wyfe of Haber the Kenyte shal be blessed aboue other women, blessed shal she be aboue other women in the tent.

* He asked water, and she gaue hym mylke, she brought forth butter in a lordly dyshe.

* She put her hande to y nayle, and her ryght hande to the smyttes hammer: wth the hammer smote she Sisera, & smote hys heed, wounded hym, and pearced hys temples.

He bowed hym downe at her feete, he fell downe: and laye styll: At her feet he bowed hym downe, & fell. And when he hand sonke downe, he laye styll desolate.

The mother of Sisera looked out at a window, & cryed thowowe the lattell: Why is his charet so longe so longe a commynge? Why tary the wheles of hys cartes?

All the wyse ladyes answered her, yea, & her owne wordes answered her selfe.

Surelye they haue founde, they deuyde the spoyles: euery man hath a damsell or two: Si-lera hath a praye of dyuers coloured garmetes euen a praye of rayment dyed wpth sondrye colours, and that are made of nedle worke: ray-ment of dyuers colours & of nedle worke which is mete for hym that is chefe in distributyng of the spoyles. So perswabe all thynne enemyes: O Lorde: but they that loue hym, let them be as the Sunne when he ryseth in hys myght.

And the lande had rest fortye yeres.

The. vi. Chapter.

Israel is oppressed of the Madianites: Gedeon is sent of God to be thyr deliuerer.

And the chyldrene of Israel * commytted wyckednes in the syght of the Lorde.

And the Lorde deliuered them into the hades of Madian seuen yeres. And the bande of Madian preyed agaynst Israel, and by-cause of the Madianites, the chyldren of Israel made them dennes in the mountaynes and ca-ues and strong holdes. And when Israel hadde sowen, the Madianites, the Amalechites, and they of y east countrey came vp together agaynst them: and pyched theyr tentes agaynst them, and destroyed the increase of the earth, euentyl thou come vnto Azah: and left no sustynance for Israel, neyther shepe, ore, or asse: for they went vp, they and theyr cattel, and came wpth theyr tentes as a multitude of greshoppers: so that both they and also theyr camels were without nombre. And they entered into the lande to destroye it. And so was Israel exceedingly impoverished in the syght of the Madianites, & cry-ed vnto the Lorde. And whē the chyldren of Israel cryed vnto the Lorde because of the Madianites, the Lorde sente vnto them a prophete, whych sayd vnto them: Thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: I fet you fro Egypt & brought you out of y house of bondage, and I ryd you out of the bande of the Egyptians, and oute of the bande of all that oppressed you and cast the oute before you, and gaue you theyr lande. And I sayd vnto you: I am y Lorde your God, & feare not the goddesses of the Amozites in whose lande you dwell. But you haue not obeyed my voyce.

And the angell of the Lorde came, and saue vnder an Oke whych was in Ephrah, that pertayned vnto Joas the father of the Eserites. And his sonne Gedeon pressed out wheate out of the eares in a presse, to hyde it from the Madian-ites: and the Angel of the Lorde appeared vnto hym, & sayd: the Lorde is with the, thou myghty man of warre. And Gedeon answered hym: Oh my lorde, yf the Lorde be wpth vs, whye is all this come vpon vs? yea, and where be al his myracles whych our fathers tolde vs of, & sayd Wyd not the Lorde bynge vs out of Egypte?
But now the Lorde hath forsaken vs, and de-liuered vs into the handes of the Madianites.
And the Lorde looked vpon hym, and sayd: Go

hence in thys thy myght, and thou shalt deliuer Israel out of the handes of the madianites:

Haue not I sent the? And he answered hym: Oh Lorde, wher wpth shal I saue Israel? Beholde, my kynred is poore in Manasses, & I am lytle in my fathers house. The Lorde sayd vnto hym I wyl be wpth the: and thou shalt smyte the Madianites, as they were but one man. And he answered hym: Oh, yf I haue founde grace in thy syght, then shewe me a signe, that it is thou that talkest wpth me. Departe not hence, vntyl I come agayne vnto the, & tyll I bynge myne offrynge, and haue set it before the.

And he sayd: I wyl tarpe vntyl thou come agayne. And Gedeon went in, and made ready a kynd, and swete cakes of an Ephah of flour, & putte it wpth the fleshe in a basket, and put the broth in a pot, and brought it out vnto hym vnder the Oke, and presented it. And the angel of God sayd vnto hym: take the fleshe & the swete cakes, and laye them vpon thys rocke, & poure out the broth. And he dyd so. Then the angell of the Lorde put forth the ende of the staffe that he helde in his hande, and touched the fleshe and the swete cakes. And there arose vp fire out of the rocke, and consumed the fleshe and the swete cakes. But the angell of the Lorde vanyshe out of his syght. And when Gedeon perceyued that it was an angell of the Lorde, he sayd: Alas, O Lorde God, & haue I therfore sene an angell of the Lorde face to face, that I shoulde dye? And the Lorde sayde vnto hym: peace be vnto the, feare not, thou shalt not dye. The Gedeon made an aultare there vnto the Lorde, and called it:

The Lorde of peace. And vnto thys daye it is yet in Ephrah, that pertayneth vnto y father of the Eserites. And it fortuneth that the same myght the Lorde sayd vnto hym: take a yonge bullocke out of thy fathers dyne, and another of. vii. yeres olde, and destroye the aultare of Baal that thy father hath, and cutte downe the groue that is by it, and make an aultare vnto the Lorde thy God vpon the top of thys rocke, in a conuenient place. And take the seconde bullocke, and offre burnt sacrifice vpon the wood of the groue, whych thou shalt cut downe. The Gedeon toke ten men of hys seruantes, and dyd as the Lorde bad hym. But because he durst not do it by daye for feare of hys fathers householde and of the men of the cytie, he dyd it by nyght.

And when the men of the cytie were aspectyng in the moynynge: Beholde, the aultare of Baal was broke, and the groue cut downe that was by it, and the seconde bullocke offered vpon the aultar that was made. And they sayde one to another: who hath done thys thyng? & when they enquired and asked, they sayd: Gedeon the sonne of Joas hath done thys thyng. The the men of the cytie sayde vnto Joas: bynge oute thy sonne, that he may dye, because he hath destroyed the aultare of Baal, and cutt downe the groue that was by it. And Joas sayd vnto all that stode by hym: Wyl ye pleade Baals cause?
or wyl ye be hys defenders? he that hath medled agaynst hym, let hym dye by the moynynge.

W. v. Yf he

It be a God let hym be auenged of hym that cast downe hys aulter. And from that day was Gedeon called Jerobaal, because his father had sayde: Let Baal be auenged of hym, that hath broken downe hys aulter.

G All the Madianites therfore and the Amalekites and they of the east, were gathered together, and went and pitched in the valey of Israel: but the spirit of the Lorde came vpon Gedeon. * And he blew a trumpet, & called: Abiezzer to folow him, & sent messengers thorowout al Manasses, & called the, which also dyd folow hym. And he sent messengers vnto Aser, Zabulon and Nephtalim, and they came to mete hym.

Rum. 1. a.
Jud. viii. a.

And Gedeon sayde vnto God: wylt thou saue Israel in my hande, as thou hast sayd? Behold I wil put a flece of wolle in þe threſhinge place. And yf the dewe come on the flece onelye, and it be drye vpon all the earth besyde, then shall I be sure, that thou wylt saue Israel by my hande, as thou saydest. And it came so to passe. For he rose vp early on the morow, and thrust the flece together, and wrong the dewe therout, & fylled a bowle of water: and Gedeon sayd agayne vnto God: be not angry wyth me, that I speake ones more. For I wyl proue ones agayne by the flece. Let it be drye only vpon the flece, and dewe vpon all þe grounde. And God dyd so that same nyght: For it was drye vpon the flece only and there was dewe on all the grounde.

De. viii. d

The. vii. Chapter.

Gedeon wyth. iij. hundred men ouercometh the madianites. Gied and zed are slayne.

I Then Jerobaal (otherwise called Gedeon) & all the people that were wyth him rose vp early, and pitched beside the wel of Harah, so that the hoste of þe Madianites were on þe north syde of þe Roche that boweth toward the valley. And the Lorde sayde vnto Gedeon: the people that are wyth þe are to many: for me to gve the Madianites into theyr handes, lest Israel make theyr vaunte agaynst me and saye: myne owne hande hath saued me. Howe therfore make a proclamation in the eares of þe people, & saye: * yf any mā drede or be aserde, let him retorne. And þe people arose earlye. And there departed and returned of the people whiche were at mounte Gilead twenty and two. And there abode ten thousande.

Deut. xx. b.
I. sagach. iii. g.

A And the Lorde sayde vnto Gedeon: the people are yet to many, bying them downe vnto þe water, and I wyl trye them vnto the there. And of whom I saye vnto the, this shall go wyth the, þe same shall go wyth the. And of whom soeuer I saye vnto the, this shall not go wyth the, þe same shall not go. So he brought downe þe people vnto the water, and the Lorde sayd vnto Gedeon: as many as lapped the water wyth theyr tonges as a dogge doth, they are put by the selues, and so do them that knelt downe vpon theyr knees to drynke. And the nombre of them that put theyr handes to theyr mouthes and lapped, were. iij. hundred men. But al the remanent of the people knelt downe vpon theyr knees to drynke water. And the Lorde sayd vnto Gedeon: By these the lapped shal I lapped water, wil I saue you & deliuer þe Madianites into thyne hande. And let al þe other people go euery mā vnto his place.

They therfore of the people toke vitayles and them, and theyr trompettes. And he sent all the reste of Israel, euery mā vnto hys tent, & comforted those thre hundred wyth hym. And þe host of Madian was beneth him in a valeye. And it fortuned that the same nyghte the Lorde sayd vnto hym: Arise, get the downe vnto the hoste: for I haue deliuered it into thyne hande. But yf thou feare to go downe, then go thou & þe Pharah thy ladde downe to the hoste, and thou shalt hearken what they saye, and so shal thyne handes be stronge, to go downe vnto the hoste.

Then went he downe and Pharah his ladde, euen harde vnto the men of armes that were in the host. And the Madianites, the Amalekites and all they of the East, lay along in the valey, lyke a multitude of grasshoppers, and theyr camelles were without nombre, euen as the sande by the see syde in multitude. And when Gedeon was come: Behold, there was a man that tolde a dreame vnto hys neyghbour, and sayde: Behold, I dreamed a dreame, & me thought that a lofe of barley breade, tumbled into the boote of Madian, and came vnto a tente, and smote it & it fell, and ouertourned it, that the tente laye alonge. And his felowe answered and sayde: this is nothyng elles saue the swerde of Gedeon the sone of Joas a man of Israel: for into his hande hath God deliuered Madian and all the hoste.

When Gedeon herde the tellyng of þe dreame, and the interpretation of the same, he was wrothpyed, and returned vnto the host of Israel: & said vp, for the Lorde hath deliuered into your hand the hoste of Madian. And he deuyned þe thre hundred men into thre companyes, and gaue euery mā a trumpet in his hand, w an empty pytcher, & lampes therin, & sayde vnto the: loke on me, & do like wyle, that whē I come to the syde of the hoste, euen as I do, so do you: When I blowe w a trumpet and all that are w me, blowe ye wyth trompettes also on euery syde of the hoste, & say here is the swerde of the Lorde & of Gedeon.

And so Gedeon and the thre hundred men that were wyth hym, came vnto the syde of the hoste in the begynnynge of the myddle watche, & rayled by the watche men. And they blew w theyr trompettes, and brake the pitchers that were in their handes. And al the thre companyes blew wyth trompettes & brake the pitchers, & held þe lampes in theyr left handes, & the trompettes in theyr right to blowe withal. And they cryed the swerde of the Lorde & of Gedeon. And they rode sylly, euery man in hys place rounde about the hoste: And they withyn the hoste ranne, and cryed and fled. And þe thre hundred blew wyth trompettes, & the Lorde set euery mānes swerde vpon his neyghbour, thorow out all the hoste. And the host fled to Bethsitah, to zererath, and to the edge of the playnes of Gesholab vnto Tabath. And the men of Israel beyng gathered together out of the trybe of Nephtalim, of Aser & of al Manasses folowed after þe Madianites. And

And Gedeon sente messengers vnto all mounte Ephraim, saying: come down agaynst the Madianites, and take befoze the waters vnto Bethbarath and to Iordan. Then all the men of Ephraim gathered togyther & toke the waters vnto Bethbarath, and to Iordā. And they toke two captaynes of the Madianites, Oreb, and zeb, and slewe Oreb vpon the rocke Oreb, and zeb at the presse zeb, and folowed after Madian. And brought the heades of Oreb and zeb to Gedeon on the other syde Iordan.

The viii. Chapter.

Ephraim maketh insurrection agaynst Gedeon, but is sone pacified.

And the men of Ephraim sayde vnto him: why hast thou serued vs thus, & thou calledst vs not, when thou wentest to fyght wyth the Madianites: and they chode wyth hym a good. (he had almoste done hym violence.) And he sayd vnto them: What dede haue I done lyke vnto yours: is not a cluster of Ephraim better, then the wyne haruest of Abiezer? God hath deliuered into your handes the lordes of Madia, Oreb & zeb. And what was I able to do lyke as you haue done? And the theyr spiritus abated from of hym, when he had sayde that. And Gedeon came to Iordan to passe ouer, he and the thre hundred men that were wyth him, very saynte, and yet folowed the chace. And he sayd vnto the me of Socoth: geue I pray you cakes of bread vnto the people that folow me: for they be sayntie, that I maye folowe after zebath, and zalmona kinges of Madian. And the lordes of Socoth, sayd: are the handes of zebath & zalmona now in thyne handes, that we shulde geue bread vnto thyne armye? Gedeon sayd, therfore when the Lord hath deliuered zebath and zalmona into myne hande, I wil teare the fleshe of you with the thornes of the wylbernes and wyth breeers. And he wente vnto the Phannuel, and spake vnto them lyke wyse. And the men of Phannuel answered him, as did the men of Socoth. And he sayde also vnto the men of Phannuel: when I come agayne in peace, I wil breake downe this towre. zebath & zalmona were in Carkar, and theyr hostes wyth them, vpon a. xv. thousand men, which were all that were lefte of all the hostes of the of the East: for there was slayne a hundred & twenty thousand me, that drew sweardes.

And Gedeon went thowowe the dwelt in tabernacles on the East syde of Robah & Jebahab, & smote the host: for the hoste dyd cast no perylls. And whan zebath, & zalmona fled, he folowed after them, & toke the two kynges of Madia, zebath and zalmona, & discomforted all the hoste.

And Gedeon the sonne of Joas returned fro battell, afoze the sunne was downe, and caught a ladde of the men of Socoth, & enquired of him. And he wrote of hym, the lordes and elders, of Socoth. lxxvii. men. And he came vnto the men of Socoth, and sayde: Beholde, here I haue zebath & zalmona, with whiche ye dyd caste me in the teeth, saying: are the handes of zebath and zalmona alreedy in thyne hande, that we shulde geue breade vnto thy sayntie men? And he toke the elders of the ctyte, and thornes of the wylbernesse and breeers, and made the men of Socoth to fele the. And he brake downe the towre of Phannuel, and slewe the men of the ctyte.

And then sayde he vnto zebath and zalmona, what maner of me were they whom ye slewe at Chabor? and they answered: the lykenesse of the and them is all one, euen after the falsypoon of the chyldren of a kyng. And he sayd: they were my brethren, euen my mothers chyldren. As truly as the Lord lyueth yf ye had saued theyr lyues, I wolde not slep you. And he sayde vnto Jether his eldest sonne: vp and slepe them: But the lad drewe not his swerde, for he feared, because he was pet pong. Then zebath & zalmona sayde: Ryse thou, and falle vpon vs: for as the man is, so is his strength. And Gedeon arose and slewe zebath and zalmona, and toke a wape the ornamente, that were on their camels neckes.

Then the men of Israel sayde vnto Gedeon: Repgne thou ouer vs, bothe thou, thy sonne & thy sonnes sone, for thou hast deliuered vs out of the hande of Madia. And Gedeon sayd vnto the: I wyll not raygne ouer you, nether shall my chyldre repgne ouer you, but the Lord shall repgne ouer you.

And agayne Gedeon sayd vnto them: I wold desyre a certayne request of you, eue if you wold geue me euery man the earynges of his praye. For they had golde earynges because they were Ismaelites: and they answered: We wyll gyue the. And they spred a mantel, and did cast therin euery man the earynges of his praye: and the weyght of the golden earynges that he required was a thousande & seuen hundred cycles of gold, besyde cheynes, pommanders and purple rayment that was on the kynges of Madian, & besyde the cheynes, that were about theyr camels neckes. And Gedeon made an Ephod therof, & put it in his ctyte Ephrah. And all Israel went a whoyring after it, in the same place, whych thinge became a ruyne vnto Gedeon and to his house. Thus was Madian brought low befoze the chyldre of Israel, so that they lyfte vp theyr heades nomore. And the countrey was in quietnes forty yeres in the dayes of Gedeon.

And Jerabaal the sonne of Joas went, & dwelt in his owne house. And Gedeon had lxx. sonnes of his body begotten, for he had many wyues. And his concubine that was in Sichem, bare him a sonne also, whose name he called Abimelech. And Gedeon the sonne of Joas dyed, in a good age, & was buryed in the sepulchre of Joas his father, euen in Ephrah, that perteyned vnto the father of the Ezrites.

But it fortunied, that as sone as Gedeon was dead, the chyldren of Israel turned a wape and wente a whoyring after Baalim, and made a couenaunt wyth Baal to be theyr God, and the chyldren of Israel thoughte not on the Lord theyr god, whych had deliuered them out of the handes of all theyr enemyes on euery syde. Repether the wed they mercy on the house of Jerabaal, other wyse called Gedeon, accordyng to all the goodnes whych he had shewed vnto Israel.

The

The. ix. Chapter.

Abimelech is made kynge.

A Abimelech the sonne Jerobaal wente to Sychem: vnto hys mothers brethren, & comuned wth them & with al his mothers fathers hired, sayig say I praye you, in the eares of all the enbaptoures of Sychem: whether is better for you, & all the sonnes of Jerobaal (whyche are lxx. personnes) reigne ouer you, eyther that one repgne ouer you? Remembre, that I am of your bone, and of your flesh. And hys mothers brethren spake of hym in the audience of the men of Sichem all these wordes, & they bertes were moued to folowe Abimelech. For they sayd, he is our brother. And they gaue him lxx. peces of silver out of y^e temple of Baal Berith, wherewith Abimelech byred wayne & lyght personys whych went with hym. And he went vnto his fathers house at Ephrah* and slewe all his brethren, the sonnes of Jerobaal: euen lxx. personys wth one stone. Notwithstanding, yet Joathā y^e yongest sonne of Jerobaal escaped, for he had hym selfe. And all y^e mē of Sichem gathered together, & al y^e house of Mello, & came & made Abimelech king in y^e playne, where y^e great stone was by Sichem.

ii. par. xxi. a

B And when they tolde it to Joatham, he went and stode in the toppe of mount Garizim, & lft vp hys voyce, and cryed, and sayde vnto them: Herken vnto me you men of Sichem, that god maye berken vnto you. * The trees went forth to anoynte a kynge ouer them, & sayde vnto the Olive tree: raygne thou ouer vs. But the olive tree sayde vnto the: shulde I leaue my fatnesse, whych both goddes and men prayse in me, & go to be promoted ouer y^e trees? And y^e trees sayde to the fygge tree: come thou and be kynge ouer vs. The fygge tree answered the: shoulde I forsake my swetnes, and my good frute, & go to be promoted ouer the trees? Then sayde the trees vnto the vyne: come thou and be kyng ouer vs. The vyne sayde vnto them: shulde I leaue my wyne wherby I cheare both goddes and men, & go to be promoted ouer the trees? Then sayd al the trees vnto y^e fyre bushe: come y^e and reigne ouer vs. And y^e fyre bushe said vnto the trees: yf it be true that ye wyll anoynt me kynge ouer you, then come, and put your trust vnder my shadowe. Yf no, the fyre come oute of the fyre bushe, and waste the Cedre trees of Libanon.

C Nowe therfore, yf ye do truly & vncorruptly to make Abimelech kyng: and yf ye haue deale well with Jerobaal and hys house, & haue done vnto hym accordyng to the deservynge of hys handes, iudge ye. For eue he (my father) fought for you, and aduentured hys lyfe, and rydde you out of the hand of Midian. And ye are rylen vp agaynst my fathers house thys daye, and haue slayne hys chyldren, euen lxx. personnes wth one stone, & haue made Abimelech y^e sonne of his mayde seruaunt, kinge ouer the men of Sychem because he is your brother: yf ye then haue deale truly & purely with Jerobaal & wth his house thys daye then reioyce ye with Abimelech, & let hym reioyce wth you. But yf you haue not dealt truly, then I praye God a fyre may come out of Abimelech, and consume the men of Sichem & the house of Mello. And that there may come a fyre frome amonge the men of Sichem, and oute of y^e house of Mello, and consume Abimelech. And Joatham ranne away, and fledde, and went to Beer and dwelte there, for feare of Abimelech hys brother. When Abimelech had raygned thre yere, God sent a spirite of hate betwene Abimelech, and the mē of Sichem. And the citezens of Sichem rayled vpo Abimelech, and wysshed that the wyckednes done to y^e lxx. sonnes of Jerobaal myght come on hym, & that God wolde lay the blood of them vnto Abimelech they brother whych slewe them, and vpon the other men of Sichem whych ayded him in y^e kyllyng of hys brethren. And the citzens of Sichem set mē to lay awayte for hym in the toppe of the mountaynes: whych men (whyche they used for hys commynge) robbed all that came a longe the waye by them. And it was tolde Abimelech.

And Gaal the sonne of Abed came wth hys brethren, and they gat them to Sichem. And the men of Sichem put their confidence in him. And they went out into y^e felde, & gathered in they grapes and trode them, and made mery: & went into the house of they goddes, and did eate and drinke, & cursed Abimelech. And Gaal the son of Abed sayd: what is Abimelech? and what is Sichem? that we shulde serue hym? Is he not y^e sonne of Jerobaal? & zebul is his officer? Serue such as come of * Demoz the father of Sichem, for what reason is it that we shulde serue hym? wolde God thys people were vnder my hande, thā wolde I take Abimelech oute of the waye. And he spake agaynst Abimelech: make thyne hoste greater: and go oute. And when zebul the ruler of the citie harde y^e wordes of Gaal y^e sonne of Abed, he was wrothe, & sent messengers vnto Abimelech priuely, sayng: Behold, Gaal y^e sonne of Abed and hys brethren be come to Sichem: and beholde, they set the citie agaynst the. Now therfore vp by night, thou & al the people that is with y^e, and lye in wayte in y^e felde. And ryse early in the mornynge as soone as the sonne is vp, and fall vpon the citie. And yf he and the people that is with hym, come out agaynst the, do to hym what thyne handes shal be able. And Abimelech rose vp, and all the people that were wth hym by nyght. And they layd a wayte agaynst Sichem in foure companies. And Gaal y^e sonne of Abed went oute, and stode in the entrynge of the gate of the ctyte. And Abimelech rose vp, & the folke y^e were wth him, from lypng a wayte. And when Gaal sawe the people, he sayde to zebul beholde ther come people downe from y^e top of the mountaynes. And zebul sayde vnto hym: the shadowe of y^e hylls seme men vnto y^e (y^e y^e creature art y^e distressed.) & Gaal answered agayn, and sayd: se, ther come folke downe by the myddel of the land, & an other company come a longe by the playne of the charmers. Then sayd zebul vnto hym: where is now thy mouth that sayde what felowe is Abimelech, that we shuld serue him? Is not this the people that y^e hast despised? Go out

Go out now & fight wth the. And Gaal went out before y^e citizins of Sichem, & fought wth Abimelech. And Abimelech chased him, y^e he fled before hym. (y^e he dyed hym into the citty) and manye were ouerthrowen & wounded, even vnto y^e entering of the gate. And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah.

And zebul thrust out Gaal and hys brethren y^e they shuld not dwell in Sichem. (y^e he suffered them not to tarry there.) And on the morow, it happened y^e the people wth out into y^e felde. And they told Abimelech. And he toke y^e people, & beuyded the into thre copanies & layd awayt in y^e felde & loked, & beholde, the people were come oute of the citty, and he ranne vpon them, and smote them.

And Abimelech, & the copanyes y^e were wyth hym, reached further, & itode in the enterpynge of the gate of the citty. And y^e two other copanyes, ranne vpon all the people that were in y^e felde & slue them. And when Abimelech had foughte agaynst the citty all that daye, he toke it, & slue the people that was therein, & destroyed the citie and sowd salt therowt. And when all the meⁿ of the towre of Sichem heard that, they entred into a strong hold of y^e house of they^r god Baal Berith. (where they made a bonde with hym: & therof dyd the place take the name, whiche place was exceedynge stronge.) And it was tolde Abimelech, that all the meⁿ of the tower of Sichem were gathered togyther, and Abimelech gat hym to mounte zelmo, both he and all the people that were with him, & toke axes wyth him & cut downe bowes of trees and toke the and bare them on his shulder, & sayd vnto the folke that were with hym: what ye haue sene me do, spede youre selues, and do lyke wyse as I haue done. And all the men y^e were among the people, cut down bowes, & folowed Abimelech, & put them into the holde, and let the holde a fyre by the: so that (wyth smoke and fyre) al y^e meⁿ of the tower of Sichem were slayne, vppon a thousande men and women.

Then went Abimelech to Thebez, and beseged it, & toke it. But there was a stronge towre wythin the citty, & thither ranne all the meⁿ and wom^{en} & all the chefe that were in the citty, and shut it to the, & got them vpon (by the bulwarkes) to y^e toppe of y^e towre. And Abimelech cam vnto y^e towre and foughte agaynst it, & went hard vnto the dore of the towre to set it on fyre. And a certayne woman cast a pece of a mylstone vpon hys heade, and all to brake hys brayne panne.

Then Abimelech called hastely vnto y^e young man that bare his harness, and sayd vnto hym: drawe thy swerde & slay me, that men say not of me: a woman slewe hym. And hys lad thrust hym thorow, and he dyed.

And when the men of Israel sawe that Abimelech was dead, they departed every maⁿ vnto hys owne house. And thus the wyckednesse of Abimelech whiche he dyde vnto hys father, in sleynge hys seuen y^e brethren and therto al the wyckednesse of the men of Sichem, dyde God bynne vpon their heades. And vpon them came the curse of Joathan the sonne of Abimelech.

The. x. Chapter.

Thola and Jai are Judges of Israel.

After Abimelech there arose, to defend Israel, one Thola (the sonne of Phuah) his uncles sone, a maⁿ of Isakar which dwelt in Samir in mounte Ephraim. And he iudged Israel. xxiij. yeare and dyed, and was buryed in Samir. And after hym arose Jai a Gileadite, and iudged Israel. xxiij. yeare. And he had thre type sonnes that rode on thre type Asse coltes, & they had thre cittyes, which are called the townes of Jai vnto this daye, & are the land of Gilead. And Jai dyed & was buryed in Ramon.

And the children of Israel brought wyckednesse yet agayne, in the sight of the Lorde, & serued Baalim & Ashtaroth, and the goddes of Siritia, the goddes of Sidon, & the goddes of Moab, the goddes of the chyldren of Ammon, & the goddes of the Philistynes, and forsoke the Lorde & serued not him. And the Lorde was wroth with Israel, & solde them into the handes of the Philistines, & into the handes of the children of Ammon: which fro that yere forth, yilde & oppressed the chyldren of Israel. xviii. yere, all that were on the other syde Jordan: in y^e lande of the Amorites whiche is in Gilead. Moreouer y^e chyldren of Ammon went ouer Jordan to fight agaynst Juda, Ben Jamin, & the house of Ephraim: so y^e Israel was sore rebayed. And the chyldren of Israel cryed vnto the Lorde, saying: we haue synned against the: for we haue forsaken our owne God, & haue serued Baalim. And the Lorde said vnto the chyldren of Israel: dyd not y^e Egypciens the Amorites, the chyldren of Ammon, the Philistines, the Sidonites, the Amalekites, and the Moabites oppresse you? And ye cryed to me, & I deliuered you out of they^r handes. And for all y^e ye haue forsaken me, & serued straunge goddes wherfore I wyl helpe you nomore. So and crye vnto the goddes whiche ye haue chosen, and let them saue you in the tyme of youre tribulacion. And y^e chyldren of Israel sayd vnto y^e Lorde: we haue sinned: do y^e vnto vs whatsoeuer please y^e, deliuer vs onely this day. And they put away y^e straunge goddes from them & serued the Lorde. And his soule had pitie on y^e miserie of Israel.

Then the chyldren of Ammon gathered together, and pitched in Gilead. And the chyldren of Israel gathered them togyther, and pitched in Mizpa. And the lordes of Gilead sayde eche to other: whosoever wyl begynne the battayl agaynst the chyldren of Ammon, the same shal be heade ouer all the inhabytors of Gilead.

The. xi. Chapter.

Jephthah deliuereth Israel from the Ammonites.

Another was one Jephthah a Gileadite, a stronge man, the sonne of an harlot: & Gilead begate Jephthah. And Gileads wyfe bare him sonnes, whiche when they were come to age thrust out Jephthah, and sayde vnto hym, thou shalt not inherite in our fathers house for y^e arte the sonne of a straunge woman. Then Jephthah fled from his brethren, and dwelt in y^e land of Tob. And there gathered y^e Idumeans (and the Ammonites) men to Jephthah, and went out with him. And it chaunced in processe of tyme that the chyldren of Ammon of Ammon made warre agaynst Israel. And when þ childre of Ammon fought thus agaynst Israel, þ elders of Gilead went to fet Jephthah out of the lande of Tobo (to helpe them) & sayd vnto him: come & be our captayn, þ we maye fight wyth the chyldren of Ammon. Jephthah answered þ elders of Gilead: dyd not ye hate me & expel me out of my fathers house: how happeneth it then, that you come vnto me nowe in tyme of your tribulacyō? And the elders of Gilead sayd vnto Jephthah: Therefore we turne agayne to the nowe, that thou mayest go with vs, & fyght agaynst the chyldren of Ammon and be our head ouer al the inhabytters of gilead. And Jephthah sayd vnto the elders of Gilead: Ye be byng me home agayne to fyght wyth the chyldre of Ammon, then yf the Lorde delpyer them before me, shall I be youre head? And the elders of Gilead sayd to Jephthah: þ Lorde be witnesse betwene vs yf we do not accordyng to thy wordes. The Jephthah wente wyth the elders of Gilead.

And the people made hym head and ruler ouer them. And Jephthah rehearsed all hys wordes before the Lorde in Mizpa.

And Jephthah sent messengers vnto the kyng of the chyldren of Ammon saying: what hast þ to do wyth me, þ thou arte come agaynst me, to fyght in my lande? The kyng of the chyldren of Ammon answered vnto þ messengers of Jephthah: Because Israel toke awaye my land, whē they came out of Egypt: euen from Arnon vnto Iabok, & vnto Iordā. Now therfore restore those lādes agayne w̄ sayre meanes. And Jephthah sent messengers agayne vnto þ kyng of þ chyldren of Ammon: & sayd vnto him: thus sayth

Deut. ii. b. Jephthah: * Israel toke not awaye the lande of Moab, nor the lande of the chyldren of Ammon. But when Israel came out of Egypt, & walked thoroꝝe the wyldernesse, euen vnto the read se

Num. xxi. c. they came to Cadēs * and sent messengers vnto the kyng of Edom, saying: let me (I pray þ) go thoroꝝe thy lande. But þ kyng of Edom wolde not agre thereto. And in like maner they sent vnto the kyng of Moab, but he wold not consent. And so Israel abode styl in Cadēs. And the they went a long thoroꝝe þ wyldernesse, & cōpassed the lande of Edom, & the land of Moab, & came alonge by the east syde of þ lande of Moab, and pitched on the other syde of Arnon, & wold not come within þ coost of Moab: * for Arnon was the vtmostt border of Moab. And then Israel

Deut. ii. c. b. * sent messengers vnto Sehon, kyng of þ Amoritē, & kyng of Hēbō, & sayd vnto him: Let vs passe thoroꝝe thy land vnto our owne coſtreȝ. But Sehon consented not to Israel, þ he shulde go thoroꝝe his coost: but gathered all his people together, & pitched in Jazā & fought wyth Israel. And þ Lorde God of Israel delpyered Sehon and all hys folke into the handes of Israel. And so Israel smote them & cōquered all þ land of the Amoritē, the inhabytters of the sayd coſtreȝ: And they cōquered all the coostes of the Amoritē, from Arnon vnto Iabok, & from the wyldernesse vnto Iordā. So now, sayng the Lorde God of Israel hath cast out þ Amoritē before þys people Israel, shuldest thou possesse the lād? Nay, but what people Camos thy god bypueſt out, þ lande possesse thou? Eue so what soeuer nacyō the Lorde our God expelleth, that lande oughte we to enioye.

* And art thou better then Balac the sonne of zepho, kyng of Moab: dyd he stryue w̄ Israel to fyght agaynst them, all þ whyle Israel dwelt in Hēbōn & her townes, in Aroer & her townes & in all the cytyes that be a longe by the coosts of Arnon, the hūdred peres: why dydest thou not recouer them in all that space? Wherefore, I haue not sinned agaynst þ. But thou doest me wronge to warre agaynst me. The Lorde therefore whychē is a Judge, be Judge thys daye betwene the chyldren of Israel, and the chyldre of Ammon. Howebeit, the kyng of the chyldren of Ammon, hearkened not vnto the wordes of Jephthah, whychē he sent hym.

Then the spere of the Lorde came vpon Jephthah. And he passed ouer to Gilead and to Gānasses, and came to Māzphah that lyeth in Gilead, and from thence vnto the chyldren of Ammon. And Jephthah bowed a vowe vnto þ Lorde, and sayde: * Yf thou shalt delpyer the chyldre of Ammon into my handes, then that thyng that cometh out of þ doores of my house agaynst me, when I com home in peace, from the chyldren of Ammon, shal be the Lordes, and I wyl offer it vp for a burnt offeryng: And so Jephthah went vnto the chyldren of Ammon to fyght wyth the. And the Lorde delpyered them into hys handes. And he smote the from Aroer tyll thou come to Menith, euen. xx. cyties: & so forth to the playne of the vynesardes, wyth an excedyng great slaughter. And thus þ chyldren of Ammon were brought vnder before the chyldren of Israel.

When Jephthah came to Māzphah vnto hys house, se hys doughter came out agaynst him, w̄ symberelles and daſces, whych was hys onely childe: so that he syde her, he had nether sonne, nor doughter. And when he sawe her, he rente hys clothes, and sayd: Alas my doughter, thou hast brought me low, and art one of them that trouble me. For I haue opened my mouth vnto the Lorde and cannot go backe. And he sayd vnto hym: my father yf thou haue opened thy mouth vnto the Lorde then do with me accordyng to it that proceded out of thy mouth, for as much as the Lorde hath auenged the * (as ſayen the bymō) of thyne enemyes the chyldren of Ammon. And she sayde vnto her father: do thys much for me: let me alone two monethes, þ I maye go downe to the mountaynes, and bewaile my virginitee I and my felowes. And he sayde go, and he sent her awaye two monethes. And so she went wyth her companyōs, and lamented her mayden hēd vpo the mountaynes. And after the end of two monethes she turned agayne vnto her father, whychē dyd wyth her accordyng to hys vowe whychē he had bowed, and she had knowen no man. And it grew to a custome in Israel. The doughters of Israel came ycare by ycare to lament the doughter of Jephthah the Gileadite, foure dayes in a yere.

The xii. Chapter.

The battayl of Jephthah agaynst Ephraim. After the death of Jephthah succeeded Elon. After Elon Abdon.

And the me of Ephraim gathered the selues together, & went northwarde and sayd vnto Jephthah: Wherefore weteft thou to fyght with p chylde of Ammon, & dydest not call vs to go with the? we wyl therfore burne thine house vpon the is tye: and Jephthah sayde vnto them: I and my people were at great stryfe with the chylzen of Ammon. And when I called you, ye deliuered me not out of theyr handes. And when I sawe that ye deliuered me not, I put my lyfe in my handes, & went vpon the chylzen of Ammon. And the Lorde deliuered the into my handes. Wherefore then are ye come vpon me nowe, to fight w me? Jephthah therfore gathered together al the men of Gilead, and fought with the Ephraimites. And the me of Gilead smote the Ephraimites because they sayde: Ye Gileadites are but rinea-gates of Ephraim amonge the Ephraimites & the Manassites. Moreover, the me of Gilead toke the passages of Jordā before p Ephraimites. And when those Ephraimites that were escaped, sayd: let vs go ouer, then the me of Gilead sayd vnto them: Art thou an Ephraimite? they sayde: nay. The sayd they vnto him: the saye: Schibboleth (whiche is by interpretation, an eare of corne.) And he sayd: Spbbolech: for he coule not so pronounce. And then they tooke hym, and slewe hym at the passages of Jordan. And ther wer ouerthrowē at that tyme of p Ephraimites xlii. M. And Jephthah iudged Israel. vi. yere & dyed & was buried in one of p cities of Gilead. After this mā iudged Israel one Abesan of Betlehe, and he had. xxx. sonnes & xxx. doughters, whō he sente oute, and toke. xxx. other in, for hys sonnes. And when Abesan had iudged Israel. vii. yere, he dyed, and was buried at Betlehem.

After hym, Elon a zabalonite iudged Israel ten yere, & Elon the zabalonite dyed, and was buried in Alalon, in the countre of zabalon.

After hym, Abdon the sonne of hellel a pharathonite iudged Israel. And he had xl. sonnes and thirtynewes, that rode on. lxx. asse coltes. And when Abdon the sonne of hellel the pharathonite had iudged Israel eyght yere he died and was buried in pharathon in the lande of Ephraim, in the mounte of the Amalekites.

The xiii. Chapter.

Israel being an idolater is oppressed of the Philistines. The birth of Samson. The sacrifice of Samson's father.

And p chylzen of Israel begā agayne to commyt wyckednes in the syghte of the Lorde. And the Lorde deliuered them into the handes of the Philistines. xl. yere. And there was a man in zaraah of the kynrede of Dan, named Manoah, whose wyfe was barre, and bare not. And the Angell of the Lorde appeared vnto the woman: and said vnto her: Beholde, thou art barre, and bearest not: But thou shalt conceaue, and beare a sonne. And now be ware * that thou drynke no wyne, nor stronge drynke, neyther eate anye vncleane thyng: for se, thou shalt conceaue & beare a sone. And ther may no raso come on hys hed. For p lad shalbe an * abstayner vnto God eue fro hys (infancie & fro his) byrth. And he shal begynne to deliuer Israel out of the hādes of p Philistines.

Then the wyfe came, and tolde her husbāde, sayinge: a man of God came vnto me, & p fallsh of him was lyke the fallshon of an angel of God excedyng fearful, but I asked hym not whence he was, neither tolde he me hys name, but sayde vnto me: * beholde, thou shalt be wythchylde & beare a sone, & nowe drynke no wyne nor strong drynke, neither eate any vncleane thyng: for p lad shal be an abstayner to God euen from hys (infancie & from his) byrth, to p dape of his death.

Then Manoah made intercession to the Lorde and sayde: I praye the my Lorde, let the man of God whycher thou sentest, come once more vnto vs, and teache vs what we shal do vnto the lad when he is borne. And God hearde the voyce of Manoah, and the Angell of God came agayne vnto the wyfe as she sat in the felde. But Manoah her husbāde was not wyth her. And the wyfe made hast and ranne, and shewed her husbāde and sayde vnto hym: Beholde, the man appeared vnto me that came vnto me to dape.

And Manoah arose and went after his wyfe, and came to the man, and sayde vnto hym, arte thou the man that spakest vnto my wyfe? And he sayd: I am. Manoah sayde: nowe when thy sayenge is come to passe: what shalbe the maner of the childe, and what shal he dor? And p Angel of the Lorde sayd vnto Manoah: thy wyfe must absteyne from al that I sayd vnto her, she maye eat of nothyng that cometh of the vyne tre, nor drynke wyne or stronge drynke, nor eate anye vncleane thyng: But muste obserue all that I had her. Manoah sayde vnto p angel of p Lorde we wyl kepe the stil, vntyl * we haue made redy a kynd, and haue set it before the. And the Angel of the Lorde sayde vnto Manoah: though thou make me abyde, * I wyl not eate of thy breade. And yf thou wylte offer a burnt offeringe, thou must offer it vnto the Lorde. For Manoah wylt not that it was an angell of the Lorde. And Manoah sayde agayne vnto the angell of the Lorde what is thy name, that whē thy saying is come to passe we maye do the some woorthyppe? And the angell of the Lorde sayde vnto hym: * why askest thou after my name, whycher is secreete.

And so Manoah toke a kynd wyth a meat offeringe and offred it vpon a rocke vnto the Lorde. And p Angell dyd wonderouslye. Manoah and his wyfe loking vpon. And when p flame came vp towarde heauen from the aultare, the angel of the Lorde ascended vp in the flame of the aultare. And Manoah and hys wyfe loked vpon it, and fell flat on theyr faces vnto p ground. But the angel of the Lorde dyd nomore appeare vnto Manoah and hys wyfe. And then Manoah knewe that it was an angell of the Lorde, and sayde vnto hys wyfe * we shall surely dye, because we haue sene God. But his wyfe sayd vnto him: Yf the Lorde wolde kyll vs, he wolde not haue receaued a burnt offeringe & a meat offeringe, of oure of our bādes, neyther wolde he hane shewed vs all these thynges, noz wolde now he haue told vs any such. And the wyfe bare a sonne, and called hys name Samson. And the lad grewe, and the Lorde blessed hym. And the sprete of the Lorde beganne to moue hym in the booste of Dan, betwene zaraah and Esthaol.

C The .xiii. Chapter.

The marriage of Samson, he kylleth a lyon, he poundeth a ryddle, he kylleth thyrtye, hys wyfe for taketh hym and taketh another.

A Samson went downe to Chanath, and saue a womā in Chanath of y^e doughters of the philistines, and he came vp and tolde his father and hys mother, & sayd: I haue sene a woman in Chammath of y^e doughters of y^e philistynes. And now geue me her to wyfe. Then his father and mother sayde vnto hym: * Is ther neuer a woman among the doughters of thy byethen, and amonge all my people, but that thou muste go, and take a wyfe of the vncircumcled Phyllystines? And Samson sayd vnto hys father: geue me this woman for she pleaseth me wel. But his father and mother wyfte not that it was the Lordes doyng, & y^e he sought an occasion agaynst y^e Philistines, for at y^e tyme y^e Philistines raigned ouer Israel.

B Then wēt Samson & his father & his mother down to Chammath, & came to the vineyardes of Chanath. And beholde, a yong^{er} (wood) lyon roared vpon hym. And the spret of y^e Lord came vpon hym. And he tare hym, as he wolde haue rent a kydder, and yet had nothyng in hys hand, neyther tolde hys father & mother what he had done. And he wēt downe, & talked wth the womā which semed well fauored in y^e syght of Sāson.

And wythin a shorte space after as he wente thither agayn to take her to wife, he turned out of the waye, to se y^e carkasse of y^e lio. And behold ther was a swarme of bees and honny in the carkasse of the lion. And he toke of the honny in hys handes, and wente eatyng, & came to hys father and mother, and gaue them also. And they dyd eate. But he tolde not them, that he had taken the honny out of the carkasse of the lyon.

And so hys father came vnto the woman and C Samson made ther a feast, for so vsed the yong men to do. And whē they (the citizens of that place) saue hym, they brought .xxx. companions to be wyth hym. And Samson sayd vnto the: I wyl now put forth a ryddle vnto you: And yf you can declare it me wythin .vii. dayes of the feast, and fynd it out, I wyl gyue you .xxx. shertes, & .xxx. chaunge of garmētes. But and yf you cannot declare it me, then shal ye geue me .xxx. shertes and .xxx. chaunge of garmētes. And they answered hym: put forth thy ryddle, that we may heare it. And he sayde vnto them: Out of the eater came meate: & out of the stronge came sweetness. And they coulde not in .iii. dayes expounde the ryddle. And when the seventh day was come they sayd vnto Sāsons wyfe: flater thyne husbāde, (and perswade hym) that he maye declare vs the ryddle, lest we burne y^e and thy fathers house wth fyre. Haue ye called vs hither, to make vs beggers? And Sāmons wyfe wept before hym (complained) and sayd: Surely thou hast me and louest me not: for thou hast put forth a ryddle: vnto the chyldren of my folke and hast not tolde it me. And he sayde vnto her: Behold I haue not tolde it my father, and my mother: shall I tell it the?

And Sāmons wyfe wepte before hym .vii. dayes, whyle the feast lasted. And the .vii. daye he tolde her, because she laye so sore vpon hym. And she tolde it the chyldren of her folke. And men of the cytie sayd vnto hym .vii. seuenth daye, before the sonne went downe. What is sweeter then honie, & what is stronger then a lyo? Then sayde he vnto them: Yf ye had not plowed wth my cause, ye had not foude out my ryddle. And the sprete of y^e Lord cam vpo him. And he went downe to Askalo, & slewe thyrtye men of them and spoyled them, & gaue chaunge of garmētes vnto them whych expounded the ryddle. And he was wroth, and went vp to hys fathers house. But Sāmons wyfe was gyuen to one of hys companions, that he had taken vnto hym.

C The .xv. Chapter.

Samson tyeeth syebrandes to the fore tayles. Wth the same bone of an asse he kylleth a thousande men. Out of a greute tothe in the same, God gaue hym wate.

B ut it chaunced wythin a whyle after: in the tyme of whete harueste, that Samson visyted hys wyfe with a lye sayenge: I wyl go into my wyfe into the chaumber: but her father woulde not suffer hym to go in. And her father sayde: I thought that thou haddeste hated her, and therfore gaue I her vnto one of thy companions. Is not her yonger sister fairer then she? Take her in stead of the other. Samson sayde vnto the: Now am I more blameles the the Philistines, & therfore wyl I do them dyspleasure.

And Samson went out, and caught thre hundred fores, & toke syebrandes, and fastened the taylor to taylor, & put a syebrande in the myddes betwene two tayles. And whan he had set the brandes of fyer, he sent the oute, (that they myght runne abrode, whych went immediatly) into y^e standyng corne of the Philistines, and burnt vp bothe the reped corne and also the standyng, with the byneyardes and olpues. Then y^e Philistines sayd who hath done thys? And it was tolde them y^e Samson the sonne in lawe of y^e Chamnite, because he had taken hys wyfe, and gyuen her to hys companion. And the Philistines came vp and burnt her and her father wyth fyre.

And Samson sayde vnto them: Though ye haue done thys, yet wyl I be auenged of you: then I wyl cease. And he smote them legges and thyrgh with a myghtye plage. And then he went and dwelte in the caue of the rocke Etam.

Then the Philistynes came vp, and pyttched in Iuda, & laye in (a place, that was afterwarde called) Lehy (that is a name bone, where they doke was fastened) And the men of Iuda sayde, whych are ye com vp vnto vs? They answered to hym: Sāson are we come vp, and to do to hym as he hath done to vs. Then thre thousande men of Iuda went downe to the caue of the rocke Etam, and sayd to Sāson: wottest y^e not y^e the Philistynes are rulers ouer vs? Wherfore then haste thou done thus vnto vs? He answered the, * as they dyd vnto me, so haue I done vnto them.

And they sayd vnto him agayne: we are come downe to bynde the, and deliuer the into the hand of the Philistines. And Samson sayd vnto the: swaie vnto me, * (I promise me) that ye shall not fall vpon me your selues. They answered hym saying: No, but we wyl bynde the & deliuer the vnto theyr handes. But we wil not kyl the. And they bounde hym with two newe cordes, and brought him from the rocke. And whē he came to Lehi, the Philistines shouted agāst him. And the spyrite of the Lord came vpo him, and the cordes that were vpon his armes, became as flaxe that was burnt wth fyre, for the handes loosed fro of his handes. And he founde a rotten sawebone of an asse, and put forth his hande, and caught it, and slue a thousande men therewith.

And Samson sayd: wth the sawe of an asse haue I made heapes of them: wth the sawe of an asse haue I slayne a thousande men. And whē he had left speaking: he cast away the sawebone out of his hande, and called the place: Ramath Lehi.

(That is by interpretation, the lftynge vp of the sawebone.) And he was soze a thyrst, and called on the Lord, and sayde: thou hast gyuen this great victorie, in the hande of thy seruānt. And now I must dye for thyrst, and fall into the handes of my vncircumcised. But God brake a great toth & was in the sawe, and there came water thereoute. And when he had dronke his spyrite came agayne, & he was refreshed, wherfore the name thereof is called vnto this daye, the well of the caller on, which came of the sawe. And he iudged Israel in the dayes of the Philistines twentye yeres.

The xvi. Chapter.

Samson lyfeth by the gates of Gaza. He was deceyved by Dalila. He putte downe the house vpon the Philistines, and dyed with them.

When went Samson to Azah, * & sawe there an harlot, and went in vnto her. And it was tolde the Azathites: saying: Samson is come hyther. And they went about, and layed wayte for hym there all nyght in the gate of the cite, and were styll all the nyght, sayinge: in the mornynge when it is day we shal kyl hym. And Samson toke his rest tyl midnyght, & arose at mydnyght, and toke the doores of the gates of the cite, & the two side postes and rent them of, wth the barre and al, and put them vpon his shoulers, and carped them vp to the toppe of an hyl that is befoze Hebron.

And after this it fortuneth, that by the ryuer of Sozek, he loued a woman called Dalila: vnto whome came the lordes of the Philistines, and sayd vnto her: persuaue hym, and se where in his great strength lyeth, and by what meane we maye ouercome hym, that we maye bynde hym, to bynge hym vnder: and euerie one of vs shal gyue the a leuen hundred syluerlynges.

And Dalila sayde to Samson: Oh tell me where thy great strength lyeth, and howe thou myghtest be bounde, and brought vnder. Samson answered vnto her: If they bynde me wth seuen greene wythes that were neuer dyled, I shal be weake as other men.

And thā the lordes of the Philistines brought her seuen wythes that were yet greene, and neuer dyled, and the bounde him therewith. Notwithstandyng the had men lyng in wayte wth her in the chaumbyre. And she sayde vnto hym: the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And immediatly he brake the wythes as a strynge of towne (that is thyned) breaketh, when it feeleth fyre. And so his strength was not knowne.

And Dalila sayde vnto Samson: Se, thou hast mocked me & tolde me lyes. Nowe therfore tel me wherw thou mightest be bound. He answered her: If they bynde me wth newe ropes & neuer were occupped, I shal be weake, and as another man. Dalila therfore toke newe ropes, & bound him therewith, & sayd vnto him: the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And there were lvers of wayte in the chambze, & he brake them from of his armes, as they had bene but a threde. And Dalila sayd to Samson: hyther to thou hast begiled me & tolde me lyes: yet tel me how thou myghtest be bounde. He sayde vnto her: If thou plat- teddest & vii. lockes of my heed wth an herre lace. And she fastened them wth a nape, and sayde vnto hym: the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And he awoke out of hys slepe, and plucked awaye the nape that was in the plattynge wth the herre lace. And she sayde vnto him agayne: how canst thou saye that thou louest me: when thyne herte is not wth me? Beholde, thou hast mocked me this thre tymes, and haste not tolde me wherw thy great strength lyeth.

And as she laye vpon hym wth her wordes continually vbering of him, his soule was encoraged euen vnto the death. And so he tolde her all his herte, and sayde vnto her: * there neuer came rasour vpon myne heed, for I haue bene an ab- stainer: (that is to saye, consecrate) vnto God, euen from my mothers wombe: therfore when I am shauen, my strength wyl go from me, & I shal ware weake, and be lyke all other men. And when Dalila sawe that he had tolde her all hys herte, she sente, and called for the lordes of the Philistines, sayinge: come vp yet this ones, for he hath shewed me all hys herte.

Thā the lordes of the Philistines came vp vnto her, & brought the money in theyr handes. And she made him slepe vpo her knees: (so to lay his heed) downe in her lap, and she sent for a man, and he dyd shauē of the seuen lockes of his heed, and began to vber him, & his strength was gone from him. And she sayd: the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And he awoke out of his slepe, and sayde: I wyl go out now as at other tymes, and make my selfe, and he wyl not see the Lord was departed from hym. But the Philistines toke hym, & put out hys eyes, and brought hym downe to Azath, and bound hym with two fetters of brasse. And he dyd grynde in the pryson house: howbeit the herre of his heed began to grow agayne after that he was shauen.

Then the lordes of the Philistines gathered the togyther for to offre a sollepne offryng vnto Dagon their God, and to reioyse: for they sayd:

our God hath deliuered Samson our enemy into our handes. And when the people saw him they praised they god for they sayde: our god hath deliuered into our handes our enemy and destroyer of our country, whiche slue manye of vs. And when they herdes were merue, it fortuned, that they sayde: sende for Samson, that he maye make vs laugh.

¶ And they fet Samson out of the prison house, and he played before them, and they set hym betwene the pylers. And Samson sayd vnto the ladde that led hym by the hande: set me that I may touche the pylers that the house standeth vpon, and that I maye leane to them. And the house was full of men and women. And there were al the lordes of the Philistines. And there were vpon the roofo a thre thousande men and women that behelde whyle Samson played.

And Samson called vpon the Lorde, & sayd: O Lorde God thynke vpon me, and strengthen me, at this tyme onely: O God that I maye be auenged of the Philistines for my eyes. And Samson caught the two middle pylers on which the house stode, and on whiche it was borne vpon the one in his right hand, & the other in his left, and sayde: my soule shall dye w the Philistines, and bowed them w all his myght. And the house fell vpon the lordes, & vpon all the people that were therein. And so the deed whych he slue at his death wer mo then they whiche he slue in his lyfe. And then his brethren & al the house of his father came downe and toke him vp, & brought him and buryed him betwene zarah and Estahol, in the burying place of Manoah his father. And he iudged Israel twentye yeres.

Of Micah, whose mother made hym an ydell of syluer.

¶ There was a man in mount Ephraim named Micah, and he sayd vnto his mother: the leue hundred siluerlinges that were taken fro the about which thou cursedst and spakest it in myne eares. Behold, the siluer is w me, I toke it away. And his mother sayd: blessed be thou my son in the Lorde. And whē he had restored the leuen hundred siluerlinges to his mother agayne, his mother said I vowed the siluer to the Lord of myne hand for my son, & thou shuldest make a grauen ymage and an ymage of metall. Nowe therfore I wyll gyue it to agayne. And whē he restored the monye vnto his mother, his mother toke two hundred siluerlinges, & gaue the to a goldsmith, whiche made therof a grauen ymage, and an ymage of metall, and it was in the house of Micah. And the man Micah hadde a temple of goddes, and made an Ephod and Theraphim: (that is to saye a garment for the prest, and ydols.) And fylled the hande of one of his sones which becam his prest. ¶ In those dayes there was no kynge in Israel, but eueri mā did what which was good in his own eyes.

And there was a ponge man oute of Bethlehem Juda, of the kynred of Juda: which ponge man was a Leuite, and sojourned there. And the man departed out of the cite of Bethlehe Juda, to goo dwell where he coulde fynde a conuenient place. And he came to mount Ephraim to the house of Micah as he iourneyed. And Micah sayd vnto hym: Whence comest thou? The Leuite answered hym: I am of Bethlehem Juda, and go to dwell where I may fynde a place, (and whence I maye cōpse it to be for my profitte.) And Micah sayde agayne vnto hym: dwell with me, and be vnto me a father and a prest. And I will gyue the ten siluerlinges by yere, two garmentes, and thy meate and drynke.

And the Leuite was content to dwell with the man, and was vnto him as one of his own sonnes. And Micah consecrated the hand of the Leuite, and the younge man became his prest, and was in the house of Micah. Then sayd Micah: now I am sure that the Lord wyll be good vnto me: seing I haue a Leuite to my prest.

¶ The. xviii. Chapter.

The children of Dan take the goddes and the prest of Micah away. They destroye Laish, and after buyld it agayne.

¶ In those dayes * there was no kynge in Israel. And in those dayes the trybe of Dan sought the anenheritaunce to dwell in: * for vnto the tyme there fel none inheritaunce vnto them amonge the trybe of Israel.

And the children of Dan sent of they kynred, & actiue mē in feates of warre out of their coostes, euē out of zarah & Estahol, to vne place & searche it out, & sayde vnto them: go & searche out a place. Which when they came to mount Ephraim euē to the house of Micah they lodged there. And whē they were in the house of Micah, they knew the voyce of the yonge man the Leuite: and whē they turned in thither, they sayd vnto him: who brought the hither: what makest thou in this place: and what hast thou here? And he answered the: thus & thus dealeth Micah w me, & hath hired me, and I am become his prest. And they sayde vnto hym agayne: Aske counsaile now of God, that we may knowe whether the waye whych we go shall be prosperous or no. And the prest sayde vnto them: go in peace, for the Lorde guydeth your waye which ye go.

¶ The fyue men departed and came to Laish and sawe the people that were therein, howe they dwelt carelesse, after the maner of the Sidons, still and without castynge of paryles, and no man made any trouble in the lande, or vsurped any dominio, but were far from the Sidons, & had no busynesse w other men. And they came vnto they brethren to zarah & Estahol. And they brethren sayde vnto them: what haue ye done? And they answered: Arple, that we maye go vpon agaynst the, * for we haue sene the lande, surely a very good one. And do ye sit still: be not slouthfull to depart. But come to conquere the land: (it shalbe no labour.) If ye wyll goo, ye shall come vnto a people that casteth no paryles, and it is a very large countrey: which God hath gyuen into your handes. It is also a place whiche doeth lacke nothyng that is in the worlde.

And there departed thence of the kynred of the Danites, euē out of zarah and Estahol, six hundred men appoynted with instrumentes of warre.

warre. And they went vp and pitched in Kariath Jarim which is in Iuda. Wherefore they call the place, the hoost of Dan vnto this dape: and it is on the backsyde of Kariath Jarim. And they went thence vnto mounte Ephraim, and came to the house of Micah. Thā answered the fyue men þ went to spyre out the coutrie of Laish and sayd vnto theþ brethren: wot ye not, that there is in these houses an Ephod, Theraphim, a grauen ymage and an ymage of metall? Now therfore consydre what ye haue to do.

D And they turned thitherwarde & came to the house of þ yonge man the Leuite, euen vnto the house of Micah, & saluted hym peaceably. And the. vi. hundred men gyrded w̄ weapons of war which were of the children of Dan, stode by the entrynge of the gate. And the fyue men þ went to spyre out the lande, went in thither and toke þ karued ymage and the Ephod, Theraphim, & the ymage of metall. And the preiste stode in the entrynge of the gate w̄ the fyue hundred men þ were armed vnto battayl, whyle the other wēt into Micahs house, and fet the karued ymage, the Ephod, Theraphim: and the ymage of metall. Then sayd þ preist vnto the: what do ye? They answered him: holde thy peace, laye thyne hand vpo thy mouth, and come w̄ vs to be our father and preist. Is it better for the to be a preist vnto the house of one man, than to be a preist vnto a trybe or kynred in Israel? And the preist was glad and toke the Ephod and Theraphim, and the grauen ymage, and wente with the people. And they turned & departed, & put the chyldren the catel and their other substance before them.

F And when they were a good waye from the house of Micah, the men þ were in the houses, & in Micahs house, made oute crye, & folowed after the chyldren of Dan, and called vnto them. And they turned theþ faces, & sayde vnto Micah: what ayleth the, that thou makest an outecrye? And he sayd ye haue taken away my goddes which I made, and also the preiste, and good poure wayes wyth them. And what haue I moze? howe then saye ye vnto me: what ayleth the? And the chyldren of Dan sayde vnto hym: let not thy voyce be hearde amonge vs, lest angrey felowes runne vpon the, and thou lese thy lyfe with the lyues of thyne household. And so the chyldren of Dan went theþ wayes.

G And whē Micah saw þ they wer to strong for hi, he turned, & wēt back vnto his house againe

And they toke the thynges whiche Micah had made, and the preist which he had, and came vnto Laish, euen vnto a people that were at rest and without mistrust, and smote them with the edge of the swearde, and burnt the ctyte wyth fyre. And there was no man to helpe, bycause Laish was farre from Sidon, and they had no meddlyng wyth any other man. And the ctyte stode in the valleye that lyeth by Betherod.

H And they buylt them there a ctyte, and dwelt therein. * And called it Dan after the name of Dan theþ father whiche was bozne vnto Israel. howbeit in verpe dede the name of the ctyte was Laish at the begynnynge.

And the children of Dan set them by the grauen ymage. And Jonathan the son of Gerson, the son of Manasses & hys sonnes were the preistes in þ trybe of Dan vntyll they were carped away out of þ lande captiue. And they set them by the karued ymage which Micah made, all þ whyle the house of God was in Silo.

The. xix. Chapter.

Of the Leuite, whose wyfe was vylapnously kylled in Sibeā.

I Chauced in those dayes, whē there was no kyng in Israel, þ a certayne Leuite solournyng on þ syde of mount Ephraim: toke to wyfe a concubine out of Bethlehē Iuda, & hys concubine played the whoze by hym, & went a waye from hym vnto her fathers house to Bethlehē Iuda, and there cōtynued four monethes. And her husbāde arose and went after her, to speake frendly vnto her, and to byng her home agayne, hauyng his ladde with hym: and a couple of asses. And he brought him vnto her fathers house, and when the father of the damsel sawe hym, he reioysed of his comynge. And his father in lawe the damselfs father kept hym: And the Leuite abode with him thre dayes, and so they dyd eate and drynke, and lodged there.

B The fourth daye when they arose early in the morning, the man stode vp, to departe. And the damselfs father sayd vnto his sonne in lawe: comfort thyne hert with a morsell of bredd, & then go your way. And they sat downe, & dyd eate & drynke bothe of them togpyther. And the damselfs father sayde vnto the man: Be contente I praye the, and tary al nyght, and let thyne herte be mery. And when the man stode readye to depart, his father in lawe compelled him to turne agayne, and tarye all nyght there. And he arose vp early the fifth daye to departe, and the damselfs father sayde: comfort thyne herte: and they tarped vntyll after mydday. And they dyd eate both of them togpyther.

C And when the man arose to depart w̄ his concubine and his lad, his father in lawe the damselfs father sayd vnto him: beholde, the daye goeth fast a waye and draweth towarde euen, tary al nyght: at þ leest waye tary this day here, þ thyne hert may be mery. And tomozow get you earlye vpon your waye, that thou mayest get the to thy tente. Neuerthelater, the man wolde not tary, but arose & departed, & came as far as Jebus (which is at Ierusalē) and his two asses laden, and his concubine and his lad with hym. And whē they were fast by Jebus the day was soze spent, and the yonge man sayde vnto his master: come I praye the, & let vs turne in, into thys ctyte of the Jebusites, and lodge all nyght there. His master answered hym: we wyl not tourne into a straunge ctyte that are not of the chyldren of Israel: we wyl go forth to Sibeā. And he sayde vnto hys lad: goo soze warde, and we shall come to one of these places, to lodge al nyght eyther in Sibeā, or in Rama. And they went soze warde vpon theþ waye, and the sun went downe vpo them, when they were fast by Gibea which belongeth to them of Ben Jamin. And they turned thitherward to go in & lodge all nyght in Gibea. And when he came, he late hym downe in a strete of the citie, for there was nomā that toke them to lodgyng. And beholde there came an old man from his worke, out of ſfelde at euen, which was also of mount Ephraim, and dwelte as a ſtraūger in Gibea. But the men of the place were the chyldren of Jemini.

¶ And when he had lyfte vphys eyes, he ſawe a wayfaryng man in ſ ſtrete of ſ cytie. And the olde man ſayd: whither goeſt thou? And whēce cameſt thou? he answered hym: we came from Bethlehē Juda, towarde the ſyde of mount Ephraim: fro thence am I, and I wente to Bethlehē Juda, & go now to the houſe of the Lord. And there is no mā that receyuethe me to houſe. We haue ſtraue & prouandze for our aſſes, and breed & wyne for me & thy handmayde, and for the lad that is w thy ſeruant: & we lack nothing.

¶ The olde man ſayde: peace be w the, all ſ thou lackeſt ſhalt thou fynde w me: onelye abyde not in the ſtrete al nyght, and ſo he bzought hym into his houſe, and gaue foddze vnto his aſſes. And they waſhed theyr feet, & dyd eate & drink. And as they were makynge theyr hertes merpe, beholde, the men of the citie which were wicked beſet the houſe rounde aboute, and thruſt at the doze, and ſpake to the man of the houſe, the olde man, ſaying: byng forth the man that came into thyne houſe that we maye knowe hym.

Et. xix. b

And *the man of the houſe, the olde mā went out, and ſayde vnto them: Oh naye my bzythē do not ſo wickedly, ſeing that this man is come into myne houſe: do not ſo vnmeate a thyng. Beholde, here is my doughter, a mayden, and this mans cōcubine, them wil I byng out now vnto you, and hūble them, and do w them what ſemeth you good: but to this man do not ſo abominable a thyng. But the mē wolde not herken to him. And the mā toke his cōcubine, and bzought her out vnto thē, which knewe her and abuſed her all ſ nyght, eue vnto ſ morning. And when the dape began to ſpyng, they let her go.

¶ And thā came the woman in the dawnyng of the dape, and fell downe at the doze of the mans houſe where her lord was tyll it was dape. And her lord aroſe vp in the moznyng, & opened the dozes of the houſe & wēt out to go his way. And beholde, the woman, euen his concubine laye a longe befoze the dooze of the houſe, and her handes ſtretched out vpon the threſholde. And he
 * (thyngyng her to haue bene aſlepe) ſayde vnto her: vp and let vs be going. But ſhe answered not. The

¶ The xx. Chapter

The battayle of the Iſraelites agaynſt the trybes of Ben Jamin, for the Leuites wyfe which was killed.

¶ Then al the chyldzen of Iſrael went out: and the congregacyon was gathered togyther as it hadde bene but one man, euen fro Dan to Beſeba, and vnto the lande of Gilead vnto the Lord in Miſpa, and there ſtode folke out of all quarters and of all the trybes of Iſrael in the congregacion of the people of God, iii. hundred thouſande footemen that drewe ſwerdes. And when the chyldzen of Ben Jamin herde that the chyldzen of Iſrael were gone by to Miſpa, and had ſayde: O ye chyldzen of Iſrael, tell vs howe this wyckedneſſe happened. And the Leuyte the womans huſbande ſayde: I came vnto Gibea that is in Beniamin w my cōcubine to lodge al nyght, and the mē of Gibea aroſe agaynſt me, & beſet the houſe round about vpon me by nyght, and thought to haue ſlayne me, & my concubine haue ſo forced ſhe is deed: And I toke my concubine, and cutte her in peces, and ſent her thorowout al ſ landes of the enheritaunce of Iſrael. For they haue cōmitted abhominaciō & ſolp in Iſrael. Behold, ye are al chyldē of Iſrael. Wondze this matter, & gyue your aduſe in the caſe.

And al the people aroſe as it had ben one mā, ſaying: there ſhal not a man of vs go to his tent neyther turne into his houſe. But this ſhalbe it ſ we wyl do to Gibea. We wyl go vp by lotte agaynſt it. And we wyl take ten men of the hundred thozowout all the trybes of Iſrael, and an hundred of the thouſande, and ſ. out of .x. ſ. to ſet byttayle for the people to make that they may go agaynſt Gibea Ben Jamin, bycauſe of all the abhominacion, that they haue wzought in Iſrael. And ſo all the men of Iſrael gathered togyther agaynſt the cytie, knyt togyther, as it had bene but one man. And the trybes of Iſrael ſent men thozowe all the trybe of Ben Jamin, ſaying: * what wickedneſſe is this that is happened amōg you? Now therfore delpyer vs the mē, thoſe chyldē of Belial which are in Gibea, ſ we may ſlay thē, & put a way euil from Iſrael.

¶ Neuerthe later, the chyldzen of Ben Jamin wolde not hearken vnto the voyce of theyr bzythē the chyldzen of Iſrael, but gathered thē ſelues togyther out of ſ cities vnto Gibea, to com out and ſpyght agaynſt the chyldzen of Iſrael. And the chyldzen of Ben Jamin were nombzed at that tyme out of the cities. xxvi. thouſand mē that drewe ſwerdes, beſyde the inhabitours of Gibea, which were nombzed ſeuē hundred choſt men. And amōge al theſe folke were ſeuē hundred lefte handed men, which euerpe one coulde ſpyng ſtones at an heer breadth, and not myſſe. And the chyldzen of Iſrael beſyde Ben Jamin, were nombzed foure hundred thouſande men that drewe ſwerdes, and were all men of warre.

And the chyldzen of Iſrael aroſe, & went by to Bethel, & aſked counſayl of God who ſhuld begyn the battayl agaynſt the chyldzen of Ben Jamin. And the Lord ſayd: Juda ſhall begyn. And the chyldē of Iſrael ſtode by early and beſieged Gibea.

Gibea. And the men of Israel went out to battle agaynst Ben Jamin. And the men of Israel put them selues in aray to fyghte agaynst them, besyde Gibea. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin came out of Gibea, and destroyed of the Israelites that daye. xxii. thousande men, and brought them to the earth.

And the folke of the chyldren of Israel plucked vp theyr hertes, and wet to agayn, & made battel in the same place where they dyd the first daye. And the chyldren of Israel went vp and wept before the Lorde vnto euen, and asked of the Lorde, sayinge: Shall we go agayne to battle agaynst the chyldren of Ben Jamin oure brethren? And the Lorde sayde: go vp agaynst them. And the chyldren of Israel came oute agaynst the chyldren of Ben Jamin the seconde daye. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin wet agaynst them out of Gibea the second day, and destroyed to the earth of the chyldren of Israel ones agayne. xviii. thousande men that drew sweordes euery man of them. Then the chyldren of Israel and all the people went vp, and came vnto Bethel, and wept and sat there before the Lord and fasted the same daye vnto euen, and offered burnt offrynges and peace offrynges before the Lorde. And the chyldren of Israel asked the Lorde: for there was the arke of the appoyntement of God in those dayes. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron waytyng vpon it at that tyme, sayde: Shall I get me vp to go out any more to battel agaynst the chyldren of Ben Jamin my brethren, or shall I cease?

The Lorde sayd: go, for to morowe I will deliuer them into your handes. And Israel set theyr arayes about Gibea. And the chyldren of Israel went vp agaynst the chyldren of Ben Jamin the thyrde tyme, and put them selues in aray agaynst Gibea, as they were before. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin came oute agaynst the people, and were drawen a way from the ctyte. And they began to smyte of the people deed (as they were before, by two hye wayes, of whiche one goth vp to Bethel & the other to Gibea thorow the felde) vpon a thyrde men of Israel. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin sayde: They are fallen before vs, as at the fyrst. But the chyldren of Israel sayde: let vs slye and plucke them away from the ctyte, vnto the hye wayes.

And all the men of Israel rose vp out of theyr place, & put the selues in aray at Baal Thamar. And likewise the lopers in wayte of Israel came forth out of theyr places, eue out of the medowes that were about Gibea, & came agaynst Gibea: ten thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and there was a sore battell. But the other wytt not that so greute euill was so nye them. And the Lorde plagued Ben Jamin before Israel, and the chyldren of Israel destroyed of the Ben Jaminites the same daye. xxv. thousande & an hundred men, & drew sweordes euery one of them. And when the chyldren of Ben Jamin sawe that they were put to the worst, the men of Israel gaue rounne to the Ben Jaminites, because they trusted to the lopers in wayte which they had layde besyde Gi-

bea. And the lopers in wayte hastened, and ranne vpon Gibea, & went and smote all the citie with the edge of the sword. And an appoyntment had the men of Israel fro the lopers in wayte, & they shulde make a great smoke ryse vpon out of the citie. And when the men of Israel fled in the battel: Ben Jamin began to smyte deed of the chyldren of Israel about a. xxx. personnes, and sayd the other are put to the worst before vs, as in the fyrst battel. But when there began to aryse out of the ctyte a pyller of smoke, the Ben Jaminites looked backe, and beholde, the wastynge of the hole ctyte began to ascende vnto heauen.

Whē the men of Israel also turned agayne, the men of Ben Jamin were abashed, for they sawe the euill appoched the. And therfore they turned theyr backs before the men of Israel, vnto the way that leadeth to the wilderness, but the me of war ouertoke the. And besyde that, they which came out of the citie destroyed them in the midle of the. And thus they copassid the Ben Jaminites about, & chased the to Menuba, & ouerran them to Gibea on the east syde: & there were slayne of Ben Jamin. xviii. thousand, which were all men of war. And they turned & fled to the wilderness warde, & vnto the rocke of Rimmon. And the other slue by the way of the rest of them. v. thousand men, & stycked vnto them, vntill they came to Gibeon, & slue two thousande men of them. So that all that were slayne that same day of Ben Jamin were. xxv. thousand men that drew sweordes, which were all men of war: onely. vi. hundred men turned & fled to the wilderness, vnto the rocke of Rimmon, & abode there foure monethes. And the me of Israel turned back agayne vnto the chyldren of Ben Jamin, & smote the with the edge of the swearde in the ctytes, both man and beast and all that came to hande, and set on fyre all the ctytes that they coulde come by.

The. xxi. Chapter.

The inhabitants of Gilead are bitterly destroyed.

And euery man of Israel swore in Mizpa, sayinge: there shall none of vs gyue his daughter vnto any of Ben Jamin to wife. And the people came to Bethel, and abode there tyll euen before God, and lyste vp theyr voyces, and wept sore, and sayd. O Lord God of Israel why is this chaunced in Israel, that there shuld be this daye one trybe lacking in Israel? And on the morowe the people rose vp by tyme, and made there an altare, and offered burnt offrynges and peace offrynges.

And the chyldren of Israel asked, who are they among all the tribes of Israel, that came not vnto the congregacion vnto the Lorde: for they had made a great oth concerning him that came not vnto the Lorde to Mizpa, sayinge: he shall surely dye. And the chyldren of Israel had pytie on Ben Jamin theyr brethren, & sayde: there is one trybe cut of fro Israel this daye: what shall we do vnto the remnant of them, that they may haue wyues? we haue sworne by the Lorde: that we wyl not gyue them of oure daughters to wyues. And they sayde: Is there any of the tribes of Israel that

that came not up to Mizpa to the Lorde: And behold, there came none of the inhabitants of Jabes Gilead unto the hooste and congregacion. For the people were viewed, and beholde, there were none of the inhabitants of Jabes Gilead there: And they set thither a multitude, euē xii. thousande men of the strongest of them, and commaunded them, sayinge: go and smyte the inhabitants of Jabes Gilead with the edge of the swerde, both women and chyldren. * And this is it that ye shal do, vtterly destroye all the males and all the women that haue lyen by men. And they founde among the inhabitants of Jabes Gilead foure hundred damels, virgins, & had knowen no man, by lyinge wyth any male. And they brought them vnto the hoost to Silo, whych is in the lande of Canaan.

2a. xlii.

And the hole congregacion set and spake with the chyldre of Ben Jamin & were in the rock of Hyminon, and called peaceably vnto them: and Ben Jamin came againe at that time, and they gaue them wyues whych they had saued alpyue of the womē of Jabes Gilead. But they sufficed them not. And the people had compassion on Ben Jamin, bycause that God had made a gappe in the trybes of Israel. And then the elders of the congregacion, sayd: what shal we do to the remnant of them, to get them wyues, seing all the wyues of Ben Jamin are destroyed? And they sayde: there muste be an enherytaunce for them that be escaped of Ben Jamin, that a trybe be not destroyed out of Israel, howebeit, we maye not gyue them wyues of oure daughters. For the chyldren of Israel had swozne, sayinge: cursed be he, that gyueth a wyfe to Ben Jamin.

Then they sayde: beholde, there is a feaste of the Lorde yerly in Silo, which is on the north syde of Bethel, and on the east syde of the waye that goeth from Bethel to Sichē, & south from Libanon. Therfore they commaunded the chyldren of Ben Jamin, sayinge: go & lye in wayte in the bynepardes. And when ye se the daughters of Silo come out to daunce in a rowe, then come ye out of the bynepardes, and catche you euery mā a wyfe of the daughters of Silo, and go into the land of Ben Jamin. And whē they fathers or brethren come vnto vs to cōplayne, we wyll saye vnto them: haue pytie on vs for they laked, bicause we reserued not to eche mā his wyfe in tyme of war. Neither haue ye gyuen vnto them, that ye shulde synne at this tyme.

And the chyldren of Ben Jamin dyd euen so: and toke them wyues accordynge to the nombre of them that daunced, whome they caught. And they went, and returned vnto they enheritaunce, & repaired the citties and dwelt in them.

Jud. xlii. b & xlii. a.

And the chyldren of Israel departed thence at that tyme, and went euery man to his trybe, & to his kynred, and went out from thence euery man to his enheritaunce. * In those dayes there was no kyng in Israel: but euery man dyd that which seemed ryght in his owne eyes.

The ende of the booke of Judges, called in the hebreue: Sophtim.

The booke of Ruth.

The fyrst Chapter.

Elimelech goeth wyth his wyfe and chyldren to the lande of Moab.

Fortuned that (in the dayes of a certayne Judge.) when the iudges iudged there fell a darch in the lande, and a certayne man of Bethlehem Juda wente for to sojourne in the countrie of Moab: he and his wyfe, and his two sonnes. The name of the man was Elimelech, and the name of his wyfe, Naomi: and the names of his two sonnes were, Mahlon, and Chilion, and they were Ephraimites, out of Bethlehem Juda. And when they came into the lande of Moab, they continued there. And Elimelech Naomies husbande dyed, and she remayned with her two sonnes which toke them wyues of the nacions of Moabites: the ones name was Orpha, and the others Ruth: And they dwelled there aboute a ten yere. And Mahlon & Chilion dyed also euen both of them, and the woman was left desolate of her two sonnes & of her husband: Then stode she vp with her daughters in lawe, and returned from the countrey of Moab: for she had herd say in the countrey of Moab, how that the Lorde had vsited his people, and gyuen them breed. Wherfore she departed oute of the place where she was, & her two daughters w her. And they went on they way to returne vnto the lande of Juda. And Naomi sayde vnto her two daughters in lawe: go & returne eche of you vnto your mothers house: & the Lord deale as kyndly w you as ye haue dealte w the deed: and wyth me. And the Lord gyue you, & you may fynde rest, eyther of you in the house of her husbande. And when she kyssed they, they lyft vp they voice, & wept, and sayde vnto her: we wyll go w the vnto thy folke. And Naomi sayde: tourne agayne my daughters: for what cause wil you go with me? Are there any mo chyldren in my wombe, to be your husbandes? Turne agayne my daughters & go: for I am to olde to haue an husbande. And yf I sayd: I haue hope, yf I take a mā also this night: yea & though I had alreadye borne sonnes, wolde ye tary after them, tyll they were of age? or wolde ye for them so longe refrayne fro takinge of husbandes? Not so my daughters: for it greueth me moche for your sakes that the hande of the Lorde is gone out agaynst me.

And they lyfte vp they voices, and wepte agayne, and Orpha kyssed her mother in lawe, but Ruth abode still by her. And Naomi sayde, thy syster in law is gone backe agayne vnto her people and vnto her goodes: retourne thou after her. And Ruth answered, entreate me not to leaue the, and to retourne from after the: for whither thou goest, I wyll go also, and where thou dwellest, there I wyll dwell: thy people shal be my people, and thy God my God. Where thou dyest there wyll I dye, and there wyll I be buried. The Lord do so & so to me, if ought but death death only departe the and me asondre.

When she sawe that she was stedfastly mynded to go with her, she left speakynge vnto her.
And so they wēt both vntyl they came to Bethlehem. And whē they were come to Bethlehem it was nopsed of them thoroꝝe all the citie, and the womē sayd: is not this Naomi? And she answered them: call me not Naomi: ^{that is to saye,} ^{beautyfull} but call me Mara, ^{that is to saye, bytter.} for the almyghty hath made me very bytter. I went out ful, & the Lord hath brought me home agayne emptye. Why then call ye me Naomi: seeing ^{the} Lord hath humbled me, & the almyghty hath brought me vnto aduersitie? And so Naomi with Ruth the Moabitesse her doughter in law returned out of ^{the} countrey of Moab, & came to Bethlehe in the begynnyng of barley haruest.

The. ii. Chapter.

Ruth gathereth corne in the felde of Booz.

And Naomis husbände had a kynsmā of strength and myght (whiche was of the kynred of Elimelech) named Booz. And Ruth the Moabitesse sayd vnto Naomi: let me go to the felde, and gather eares of corne ^{(suche} ^{as the reapers leaue)} after any man, in whose syght I fynnd grace. And she sayd vnto her: go my dough-
ter. And she went, and came to the felde, and gathered after the reapers, and her chaunce was, that the same feld perteyned vnto Booz, whych was of the kynred of Elimelech. And beholde, Booz came from Bethlehem, & sayde vnto the reapers: the Lorde be wyth you. And they answered hym: the Lorde blesse the. Then sayde Booz vnto his ponge man that stode by the reapers: Whose damsel is this? And the pongeman that stode by the reapers answered, & sayde: it is the Moabitish damsel, that came with Naomi out of the countrey of Moab, & she said vnto vs: Oh let me leaue and gather after the reapers the eares that remaine: and so she came, and hath continued euen from the moonyng vnto now, saue that she tarped a lytle in the house.

Then sayd Booz vnto Ruth: hearest thou my doughter? go to nonother feld to gather, neither go from hence: but abyde here by my maydens.
Let thynne eyes be on the feld ^{where} they maye reape, & go thou after ^{the} maydens. haue I not charged the ponge men, that they shall do the no hurte?
Moreouer when thou arte a thyrt, go vnto the vessels & drynke of ^{the} which the laddes haue drawen. Then she fel on her face, & bowed her self to the ground, and sayd vnto him: how is it ^{that} I haue founde grace in thynne eyes, and that thou shuldest knowe me, seeing I am an aliaunt?

And Booz answered and sayd vnto her: al is told & shewed me ^{that} thou hast done vnto thy mother in law syns ^{the} death of thynne husband, how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the lande where thou wast borne, & art come vnto a nacion which thou knewest not in tyme passed.
The Lorde quyte thy worke, and a ful rewarde be gyven the of the Lorde God of Israel: vnder whose wynges thou arte come to abyde. Then she sayde: let me fynde sauoure in thy syghte my lorde, thou that haste comforted me, and spoken hartely vnto thy mayde, which yet am not lyke vnto one of thy maydens. Booz sayde vnto her agayne: in tyme of refection come thou byther, and eate of the breed, and dyp thy sop in the vy-negre. And she satte downe by the reapers, & he reached her parched corne: of the whych she dyd eate, and was suffised, and lefte part. And when she was rylen vp to gather, Booz commaunded his pong men, saying: let her gather euen amōg the heapes, & forbyd her not. And leue her some of the sheues for the nones, and let it lye, that she may gather it vp, ^(without shame) and rebuke her not. And so she gathered in the felde, vntyl euē, and thre shyd that she had gathered, & it was in measure vpon an Ephā, ^(that is, thre bushels) of barly. And she toke it vp, and went into the citie and when her mother in lawe had sene what she had gathered, she plucked out also, and gaue to her that she hadde reserued, when she had eaten ynough. And her mother in lawe said vnto her: where haste thou gathered todaye? and where wroughtest thou: blessed be he, that knewe the.

And she shewed her mother in lawe how she had wrought with hym, and sayd: the mans name wyth whome I wrought todaye is Booz. And Naomi sayd vnto her doughter in lawe: blessed be he of the Lord, for he ceaseth not to do good to the lyving and to the deed. And Naomi sayd agayne vnto her: the man is nye vnto vs, & of our nexte kynne. And Ruth the Moabite sayd:
he sayde vnto me also. Thou shalt be wyth my pong men, vntyl they haue ended al my haruest.
And Naomi answered vnto Ruth her dough-ter in lawe: it is best my doughter ^{that} thou go out wyth hys maydens, that they fall not vpon the in anye other felde. And so she kepte her by the maydens of Booz, to gather, vnto the ende of barlye haruest: and of wheate haruest also: and dwelt wyth her mother in lawe.

The. iii. Chapter.

Ruth sleapeth at Booz feete, and is knowen his kynswoman.

When Naomi her mother in lawe sayde vnto her: my doughter, shal I not seeke rest for the, that thou mayest prosper?
And is not Booz our kynsmā, wyth whose maydens ^{thou} wast? beholde, he wponoweth barly tonyght in the threschyng flooze: washe thy selfe therfoze, and anoynte the, and put thy rayment vpon the, & get ^{thee} downe to ^{his} barne. But let not a mā knowe of the, vntyll he haue left eatyng and drynkynge. And whē he goeth to slepe, marke the place where he layeth hym downe, & then go and lyft vp the clothes, that are on hys fete, and lay the downe there, and so shal he tell the what thou shalt do. And she answered her: all that thou bydest me, I wyll do. And so she went downe vnto the barne, & dyd accordynge to all that her mother in lawe bade her.

And when Booz had eaten and dronken, and made him mery, & was gone in, to lye downe besyde ^{the} heape of corne, she came softly, & lyft vp ^{the} clothes of his fete, & layed her downe. And at midnight the man was afrayed & groped. And beholde, a woman laye at his feet. And he sayd:
what art thou? she answered: I am Ruth thynne handmayde

handmayde sprede thy wyng ouer thyne handmayde, for þu art the next of the kynne. He sayd: blessed be thou in the Lorde my daughter, for þu hast thewed more goodnes in the later ende, than at þe begynnynge, in as moche as thou folowedst not yong men, whether they were poore or riche.
And now my daughter feare not, I wyll do to þe al þu requyrest, for all þe cite of my people doth knowe, that þu art a womā of vertue. And it is true that I am of thy next kynne, howbeit there is one nyer than I. Carre this nyght. And when morning is come, if he wyl mary the, it is good, so let hym do. But and yf he wyl not haue the, as sure as the Lorde lyueth I wyl haue the:
lye still vntyll the morninge. And so she laye at hys fete vntyll the morninge. And she arose vp before one coulde knowe an other. And he sayd: let noman knowe, that there came any woman into the barne. And he sayd agayne: byngge the mantel that thou hast vpon the, and hold it vp.
And when she helde it vp, he mette in syre measures of barley, and layed it on her. And she gate her into the cite, & when she came into her mother in law, she sayd: how is it wth the my dought-ter? And she tolde her all that the man had done to her. And sayde also: these syre measures of barley gaue he me, & sayd: þu shalt not come empty vnto thy mother in lawe. Then sayd she: my doughter, syt still, vntyll I knowe how the matter wil chaunce. For the mā wyll not be in rest, vntyll he haue fynished þe thyng this same daye.

The. liii. Chapter.

Booz taketh Ruth to wyfe, of whom he begetteth Obed.

A Then went Booz vnto þe gate & sat him downe there, & behold the kynsman of which Booz spake, cam by. Vnto whō he sayde: come and syt downe here, and called hym by his name. And he turned in, & sat downe. And he toke .x. men of the elders of the ci-tie, and sayde: syt ye downe here. And they sate downe. And he sayd vnto the kynsman. Naomi that is come agayne out of the countrey of Moab * wyl sell a parcell of lande, which was oure brother Elimelechs. And I thought to do the to wyte, & byd the bye it before the enhabitours & elders of my people. Yf thou be disposed to redeme it, do: but and yf thou wylt not purchase it then tell me: that I maye knowe. For there is none to chalenge it, save thou, and I nexte the.
And the other answered, I wyl purchase it.

Leuit. xxv. b
Deut. xxxii. b

Then sayd Booz: what daye þu byest the felde of the hande of Naomi, þu muste take also Ruth the Moabite, the * wyfe of the deed, to steepe vpon the name of the deed vpon his enheritaunce. The kynsman answered: I can not purchase it, for martyng of myne owne enheritaunce: take þe my ryght to the, for I cā not purchase it. Now this was the maner of olde tyme in Israel concerning purchesse & chaūging, for to stablysh al thyng: þe a man must plucke of hys shoo, and geue it hys neighbour, & this was a sure witness in Israel.
Therefore the kynsman sayd to Booz: Bye it thou: & so dyne of his shoo. And Booz sayd vnto the elders & vnto al the people: ye are witnesses this day, þe I haue bought al þe was Elimelechs, & al that was Chilioz & Mahlons, of the hande of Naomi. And mozeouer, Ruth the Moabite the wyfe of Mahlon, haue I purchased to be my wyfe, to steepe vpon the name of the deed vpon his enheritaunce, and that this name be not put out from amonge hys brethren, and from the gate of hys place: ye are wytnesses thys daye.

And all the people that were in the gate, & the elders sayde: we are witnesses: the Lorde make the woman that is come into thyne house, lyke * Rabel and Lea, which twayne dyd buyld the house of Israel: do þu also valeauntly in Ephrata, and be famous in Bethlehem. Thy house be lyke the house of Pharez * whom Chamar bare vnto Iuda, euen of the seede whiche the Lorde shall geue the of thys ponge woman.

And so Booz toke Ruth, & she was his wyfe.
And when he went in vnto her, the Lorde gaue þe she conceived, & bare a sonne. And the womē sayd vnto Naomi: blessed be þe Lorde, the which hath not left the without a kynsman, to haue a name in Israel, and that shall byngge thy lyfe agayne, & cherish thyne old age. For thy dought-ter in lawe whych loueth the, hath borne vnto him: & she is better to the than seuen sonnes. And Naomi toke the chyld, and layed it in her lappe, & became nource vnto it. And her neyghbours gaue it a name, saying: there is a child borne to Naomi, & called it Obed: the same is the father of Isai, the father of Dauid. These are the generations of * Pharez: Pharez begat Hezro: Hezro begat Ram, Ram begat Aminadab, Ami-nadab begat Nahlon, Nahlon begat Salmon, Salmon begat Booz, Booz begat Obed, Obed begat Isai, Isai begat Dauid.

The ende of the booke of Ruth.

The fyrst booke of Samuel called the fyrst booke of the kynges.

The fyrste Chapter.

Elkana hath .ii. wyues, Hanna and Phenenna.

Ther was a mā of one of þe two Ramathes (of þe kynred of Jophim, of mount Ephraim) named * Elkana the sonne of Jeroham the sonne of Elibu, the son of Thobu, the son of suph, an Ephraimite: whiche had .ii.
wyues, the one called Hanna,
& the other Phenenna. And Phenenna had children, but Hanna had none. * And the sayd man went vp out of his cite every feastfull daye, to praye

praye & to offere vnto the Lord of hostes in Silo, where were the two sones of Eli (Hophni & Phinehes) the Lordes preistes. And it fell on a solempne daye, that Elkana offered, and gaue to Phinehes his wyfe and to all her sonnes and doughters porcions. But vnto Hanna he gaue a portion with a heuy chere, for he loued hana, & the lord had made her barren. And her enemy (Phinehes) vered her soze continuallye, to moue her, because the lord had made her barren. And so dyd she pear by pear as ofte as she wēt vp to the house of the Lord. And so chafed her, whyche wept & dyd not eat. The sayd Elkana her husband to her, hana why wepest thou? and why eatest thou not? & why is thine herte troubled? am not I better to the, the ten sonnes? So Hanna rose vp after they had eaten & dronke in Silo. And Eli the preiste sat vpon a stole by one of the syde postes of the temple of the Lord. And she was troubled in her mynde, & prayd vnto the Lord, & wept soze, & vowed a vowe, & sayd O Lord of hostes, yf thou wilt loke on the trouble of thy handmayd & remēbre me, & not forget thyne handmayd but gyue vnto thy handmayd a mā child: I wil gyue hym vnto the lord al the days of his lyfe & ther shall no raser come vpon hys head: and as she continued prayinge before the lord, it fortunēd y Eli marked her mouth for hana spake in her herte, & her lippes dyd but moue onely, but her voyce was not herd: and therfore Eli thought she had ben dronke, and Eli sayde vnto her: Howe longe wilt thou be dronken? put away from the, the wyne y thou hast. Hanna answered and sayd: not so my lord, I am a woman of a sorowful herte: I haue dronke neyther wyne nor strōg drynke, but haue xpowred out my soule before the Lord. Count not thyne handmayd to be lyke a doughter of Belial, for out of the aboundaunce of my heuines and greife haue I spoken lytherto.

Eli answered her agayne: and sayde, go in peace: the God of Israel graunt the thy petition that thou hast asked of hym. She said, let thine handmayd fynde grace in thy syght. And so the woman went her waye, and dyd eat, and loked no more so sad. And they rose vp early, & worshypped before the Lord, and then returned, & came to the house to Ramath. And when Elkana knewe Hanna his wyfe, the Lord remembred her, for in processe of tyme it came to passe that she conceived and bare a sonne, and called his name Samuel (saying) because I haue asked hym of the Lord. And Elkana and all hys house wente vp to offer vnto the Lord, the offerynge due for the feast, and also hys vowe: Nevertheless, Hanna wēt not vp but sayd vnto her husband: I wil tary vntyl the lad be weyned & then I wil byyng hym that he maye appeare before the lord, and there abyde for euer. Elkana her husbāde answered her: do what semeth the best: tary at home, vntyl thou hast weyned him and I beseeche the lord, to make good his saying. And so the woman abode, & gaue her sonne sucke vntyl she weyned hym. And whē she had weyned him she toke him w her, with .iii. bullockes and an Ephra of flour and a bottle of wyne, and brought hym vnto the house of the Lord in Silo, & the chyld was yet but tendre of age. And they slue a bullocke, & brought in the lad to Eli and she sayd: Oh my lord as truly as thy soule liueth my lord, I am the womā y stode before the here praying vnto the lord. For thys lad I prayed, and the Lord hath geuen me my desire which I asked of hym, & therfore I haue geuen him vnto the Lord, as long as he is mete for the Lord. And she worshypped the Lord there.

The ii. Chapter.

The songe of Hanna. The offence of the sonnes of Eli.

And Hanna prayed & sayd myne herte reioyleth in the Lord, & myne borne is exalted in the Lord. My mouth is wyde open ouer myne enemyes, for I reioyce in thy saluatiō. There is none so holy as the Lord, for wythout the, is nothyng. Neither is ther any of strength as is our god. Talke not to muche proude, lette olde thynges depart out of poure mouthes for the Lord is a God of knowledge, & hys purposes come to passe. The bo we wyth the myghty men are broken, & they that were weak, haue gyde them selues wyth strength. They that were full, haue byred oute them selues for brace, and they that were hongry, cease so to be, tyl the baren hath born seue: and she that had many chyldre, is wared feble. * The Lord killeth & maketh a lyue: bypnyeth downe to the graue & fetcheth vp agayne. The Lord maketh poze and maketh ryche: bringeth lowe, and heueth vp on hye. * He reyseth vp the poze out of the duste, and lyfteth vp the begger from the donghyll: to set them among prynces, and to enheret them with the seat of glory. For the pillers of the earth are the Lordes, & he hath set the rounde worlde vpon the. He wyl kepe the fete of hys saynctes, & the wyched shal kepe silence in darcknesse, and * in hys owne myghte shal no man be stronge. The Lordes aduersaryes shal be destroyed of hym, and out of heauē shal he thunder vpon euery one of them: The Lord shall iudge the endes of the worlde, and shall gyue myghte vnto hys kynge: and exalte the borne of hys anoynted. And Elkana went to Ramath to hys house, and the ladde dyd minister vnto the Lord before Eli the preist.

But the sones of Eli were chyldren of Belial and knewe not the Lord. And the preistes made a law for y people, y whensoener any man offered any offerynge, the preistes lad came, while the fleshe was a sechynge & a fleshoke with thre teeth in his handes and thrust it into the panne, kettle, caldren or pottle. And al y the fleshe hoke brought vp, that the preiste toke away. And so they dyd vnto all the Israelites, that came thither to Silo. Pea and therto, before they burnt the fatte, the preistes lad came and sayde to the man that offered: giue fleshe that I may dresse it for the preiste, for he wylle not haue sodden fleshe of the, but raw. And yf any man sayd vnto hym: let them burne the fat accordyng to the daye, and then take as muche as thyne herte desireth: The ladde wolde answer him, yea thou Shalt gyue it me now: and yf thou wylte not, I wyl take it with violence. And the synne of the ponge men was very greate befoze the Lorde. For men abhorred the offrynge of the Lorde.

But the chyld Samuel mynistred befoze the Lorde, gydded about with a linnen Ephod. Moreover, his mother made hym a lytle cote, and brought it to hym from yere to yere, when she came vp with her husbnde, to offre the offrynge in the solempne feastes: and Eli blessed Ekhana and his wife, and sayde: the Lorde gyue the seed of this woman, for the petycō that she asked of the Lorde. And they went vnto theiꝝ owne home. And the Lorde vplited Hanna, so that she conceived, and bare three sonnes, and two daughters. And the chyld Samuel grew befoze the Lorde.

Eli was very olde, and hearde all that his sonnes dyd vnto all Israel, and how they laye with the women that wayted at the doze of the tabernacle of witnessse, and he sayde vnto them: why do ye suche thynges? For of all these people, I heare euyl reportes of you. Oh, naye, my sonnes: for it is no good report that I heare howe that ye make the Lordes people to trespassse. If one mā synne agaynst an other, dayes mē may be iudges: * but if a man synne against the Lorde, who wyl be his dayisman? Not with standyng, they hearkened not vnto the voyce of theiꝝ father, by cause the Lorde wolde slaye them. The chyld Samuel profyted * & grewe and was in fauour both with the Lorde, and al so with men.

And there came a man of God vnto Eli, and sayd vnto hym: thus sayeth the Lorde: I yd not I appeare vnto the house of thy father whē they were in Egypte, subiecte vnto Pharaoes house? And I chose thy father out of all the trybes of Israel to be my pꝛepst, to offre vpo myne altare, and to burne incence, * & to weare an Ephod befoze me. And I gaue vnto the house of thy father all the burnt offrynges of the chyldren of Israel. Wherefoze tread you downe my sacrifice and myne offrynge, which I comaunded to be made in my tabernacle, and honourest the chyldren aboue me, to make your selues fat of the fyꝛst frutes of all the offrynges of Israel my people? Wherefoze, the Lorde God of Israel sayeth: I sayde, that thy house and the house of thy father shoulde walke befoze me for euer.

But now the Lorde sayth: that be farre from me: for them that worshyp me, I wyl worship, and they that despyse me, shall come to shame. Beholde, the dayes come, that I wyl cutte of thine arme, & the arme of thy fathers house that there shal not be an olde mā in thine house. And I shal se thine enemye in y Tabernacle (of the Lorde) & in al the wealth which (God) shal gyue Israel, and there shal not be an elder in thine house for euer. Neuerthelesse, I wyl not destroy all the males y com of the from myne altar. But to make thine eyes bade, & to make thine herte melte. And all they y be multiplyed in thine house: shall dye, yf they be men.

And this shalbe a sygne vnto y, that shal come vpo thy two sonnes Hophny and Phynhes: euen in one daye they shall dye both. And I will stee me vpo a faythful pꝛepst, that shal do accor dyng to my herte and mynd. * And I wyl buyde him a sure house. And he shal walke befoze myne anoynted for euer. And they that are left in thine house, shal come and crouch to him for a lytle pece of syluer & a cake of bread, & shal saye: put me (I praye y) in one offyce or other among y pꝛiestes. y I may eat a morsel of bread.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The Lorde calleth Samuel thye tymes.

And the chyld Samuel mynistred vnto the Lorde befoze Eli: and the worde of the Lorde was precious in those dayes, neyther was there anye open visyon. And it chaunced at that tyme, y Eli laye in his place, and his eyes beganne to waxe dymme that he coulde not se. And yer the lampe of God wente out, Samuel layd hym downe to slepe in y temple of the Lorde, wher the ark of God was. And the Lorde called Samuel, and he sayde, here I am, & he ran vnto Eli, and sayde: here am I, for thou calledst me. And he sayde: I called the not: go agayn and slepe. And he went and layd hym downe to slepe. And y Lorde called once agayne Samuel, and Samuel arose and went to Eli, & sayde: I am here: for thou didest call me. And he answered: I called y not my sonne. So againe & take thy rest: Samuel knewe not yet y Lorde neyther was the worde of the Lorde yet opened vnto hym. And the Lorde wente to and called Samuel the thyrde tyme. And he arose and went to Eli, and sayd: I am here for thou haste called me. And Eli perceaued that the Lorde had called the chyld. Therefoze Eli sayd vnto Samuel: go, and lye downe: & yf he cal the agayne, then saye: speake on Lorde, for thy seruaut heareth. So Samuel went, and layd hym downe in his place. And the Lorde came, and stode, and called as befoze Samuel Samuel. Samuel answered: speake on for thy seruaut heareth. And the Lorde sayde to Samuel: beholde, I wyl do a thyng in Israel, y both the eares of as many as heare it, shal tynge. In that daye I wyl rayse y agaynst Eli, all thynges which I haue spoken concernyng y house from the begynnyng to the endyng. I haue tolde hym * that I wyl iudge y house for euer. For the wyckednes which he knoweth. For whē the people cursed y sonnes for the same wyckednes, he hath not corrected them. And therfoze I haue sworne vnto the house of Eli, that the wyckednesse of Elies house, shal not be purged wth sacrifice nor offryng for euer. Samuel laye tyl the morninge, & opened y doores of y house of the Lorde.

And Samuel feared to shewe Eli the visyon. Then Eli called Samuel, & sayd: Samuel my sonne, And he answered: here I am. He sayde: what is it that the Lorde hath sayd vnto the? I praye the hyde it not from me. God do so, and lo to the, yf thou hyde any thyng from me, of all that he sayde vnto the. And Samuel tolde him euery whit, & hyd nothyng fro him. And he sayd it is y Lorde, let hym do what semeth hym best.

1. reg. xxi. b.

And Samuel grewe, and the Lord was with hym, & lefte none of hys wordes vnpersourmed. And all Israel from Dan to Beerfabe, wyfte that faythfull Samuel was made the Lordes prophete. And the Lord appeared agayne in Silo, for the Lord opened him selfe to Samuel in Silo, thowowe the worde of the Lord.

¶ The. iiii. Chapter.

And Samuel spake vnto all Israel. (And it fortuned that in those dayes the Philistynes came to gyther to fyght.) And Israel went out against the Philistines to battayle & pytched beside the helpe stone. And the Philistines pitched in Aphek. And put the selues i arraye against Israel. And whē they ioynded the battel Israel was put to the worse before the Philistines. And the Philistines stode i array along by the felde about a foure thousande men.

And when the people were come into the tentes, the elders of Israel said: wherfore hath the Lord caste vs downe this daye before the Philistines? let vs fetch the arke of the oppoyntment of the Lord oute of Silo vnto vs, that whē it cometh amonge vs, it maye saue vs, out of the hande of our enemy. And so the people sent to Silo, & fet from thens the arke of the appointmēt of the Lord of hostes, whych dwelleth betwene the cherubyns. And there were the two sonnes of Eli, Hophi and Phinehes with the arke of the appointmēt of God. And it fortuned, that when the arke of the appointmēt of the Lord came into the host, all Israel shouted a myghty howte, so that the earth range agayne.

And whan the Philistynes herde the noyse of the howte they said: what meaneth the sounde of this myghty howt in the host of the Ebzues? And they vnderstode, howe that the arke of the Lord was come into the host. And the Philistines were afrayd, and sayde, God is come into the host. And they sayde agayne: Wo vnto vs, for it was neuer so before this: Wo vnto vs who shall deliuer vs oute of the hande of these myghty Goddes? these are the Goddes that smote the Egyptians wth so many plagues in the wylernes. Be stronge and quyte your selues like men, O ye Philistines, that ye be not seruantes vnto the Ebzues, as they haue bene to you. Be of a manly corage therfore and fyght. And the Philistines fought, and Israel was put to the worse & fled euery man into his tent. And there was an exceeding great slaughter, for ther were ouerthrowen of Israel. xxx. thousande. And the arke of God was taken, & the two sonnes of Eli, Hophni, & Phinehes were dead. And there ran a man of Ben Iamyn oute of the aray, & came to Silo the same day with his clothes rent and earth vpon hys heade. And when he came, Eli late vpon a stole, & looked toward the waye for his hart feared for the arke of God. And when the man came into the cytie, & tolde it, all the citie cryed.

And when Eli herde the noyse of the crying he sayd: What meaneth this noyse of the rymour? And the man came in hastily, and told Eli. Eli was. xcviij. yere olde, & his syght fayled him so he coulde not se. And the man sayde vnto Eli: I am he that came oute of the aray, & fled this daye out of the host. And he sayd, what thyng is fortuned my sonne? The messenger answered and sayde: Israel is fled before the Philistynes, and there is a great slaughter chaunced among the people, and thy two sonnes, Hophni & Phinehes are dead, & the arke of god is taken. And it fortuned that whan he made mencyon of the arke of God, Eli fell fro of his stole backward vpon the thresholde of the gate, and hys necke brake, and he dyed, for he was an olde man and heyre, and iudged Israel fourtye yeres.

And his doughter in law Phinehes wyfe was wth chyld and nye the byrthe. And when she hearde the tydynges that the arke of God was taken, and that her father in law, and her husband were dead, she bowed her selfe, & traueled, for her paynes came vpon her. And about the tyme of her death, the women that stode about her sayde vnto her, feare not, for thou hast borne a sone: but she answered not, nor regarded it. And she named the child Achabod saying. The glorie is departed fro Israel: because the arke of God was taken, & because of her father in law & her husband. And she sayd agayne. The glorie is gone from Israel, for the arke of God is taken.

¶ Wagon the God of the Philistines is cast flat before the arke.

And the Philistines toke the arke of God and caried it fro the helpe stone vnto Asdod, agayne the Philistines toke the arke of God, & brought it into the house of Dagon, & set it by Dagon. And whē they of Asdod were vpon the next day in the mornynge, beholde Dagon laye vpon the earthe before the arke of the Lord. And they toke vpon Dagon, & set hym in hys place agayne. And when they were vpon the nexte mornynge, beholde Dagon lay vpon the grounde before the arke of the lord, and hys head, and hys two handes cut of vpon the thresholde, & only the shap of a fysh was lefte on hym. And therfore is it, that the prestes of Dagon (neither any man that cometh into Dagon's house) treade not on the thresholde of Dagon in Asdod, vnto this daye. But the hand of the lord was heuy vpon the of Asdod, and he destroyed them, and smote them with emerodes, both Asdod & in all the coastes therof. (The villages also & the felde in the myddes of the countree were ful, and there came vpon myce, and ther was a confusyon of greute death in the cytie.) And when the me of Asdod sawe that it was so they sayd: the arke of the god of Israel shal not abyde here with vs, for his hand is sore vpon vs and vpon Dagon our God. They sent therfore & gathered all the lordes of the Philistines vnto them, & sayde: what shal we do wth the arke of the God of Israel? They answered, let the arke of the God of Israel be carped about vnto Gath. And they carped the arke of the God of Israel aboute. And it fortuned that when they had carped it aboute, there was by the hande of the lord a myghty greute noyse in the cytie, & he smote the men of the cytie bothe small & great & they had secrete diseases. (And the Gethites toke counsell, & made the selues pyryng seates of chynnes.) Therfore they sente sent the arke of God to Akaron. And as soon as the arke of God came to Akaron, the Akaronites cryed out saying: they haue brought \bar{p} ark of \bar{p} God of Israel to vs to see vs & our people.

D And so they sent, and gathered together all the lordes of the Philistines and sayde: send awaye the arke of \bar{p} God of Israel, to go agayne to his owne place, that it sle vs not and our people. For there was great lamentacion ouer the dead thowwe out al the cypre, and the hande of God was exceeding sore there. And the men that dyed not, were smitten with the emerodes: and the cype of the cypre went vp to heauen.

The .vi. Chapter.

The kyne bynge home the arke w \bar{t} h the rewarde.

A The arke of the Lorde was in the countrey of the Philistines seuen monethes and the Philistines called for \bar{p} prestes & \bar{p} soothsayers, saying: what shall we do w \bar{t} h the arke of the Lorde? tell vs where with we shall sende it home agayne? They sayde. If you send the arke of the God of Israel home agayne, sende it not emptye: But rewarde it w \bar{t} h trespasse offering: & the ye shall be whole, and it shall be knowne to you, why his hande departeth not from you.

Then sayde they: And what shall be the trespasse offering, whiche we shall rewarde him w \bar{t} ? They answered: fyue golden arses and .v. golden myce, according to the nombre of the lordes of \bar{p} Philistines. For it is one maner of plage on you al, & on your lordes. Wherefore ye shall make ymages like to your arses, and ymages lyke to your myce \bar{p} corrupt \bar{p} land & ye shall geue glory vnto \bar{p} god of Israel: \bar{p} he may take his had frō of you, & frō of your goddes, & frō of your lande.

Exodi. x. c.

Wherefore do ye harden youre hertes as the Egyptians and Pharaō hardened theyr hertes? whych when he toke on agaynst the, * did they not let the people go, and they departed? Nowe therfore, make a newe carte, & take two melche kine: on whose neckes there hath come no yoke. And tye the kyne to the carte, and byng the calves home from them. And take the arke of the Lorde, & laye it vpon the carte, & put the iewels of golde (whych ye rewarde him with for a syn offering) in a cofre by the side therof, and sende it awaye, that it maye go. And if ye see that he go by the waye of hys owne coaste to Bethlames: then it is he that dyd vs thys great euill. If no, we shall knowe then, \bar{p} it is not hys hand that smote vs: but it was a chaunce that happened vs. And the men dyd euen so, and toke two kyne that gaue mylke, and tyed them to \bar{p} carte and kepte the calves at home, and they layd the arke of the Lorde vpon the carte and the cofre w \bar{t} h the myce of golde, & with the ymages of theyr arses. And \bar{p} kyne toke the streyght waye to Bethlames, & went on the streyght waye: & as they wēt, lowed, & turned nether to the right hāde ner to \bar{p} left. And \bar{p} lordes of \bar{p} Philistines went after the, vnto \bar{p} borders of Bethlames.

And they of Bethlames were reappng theyr wheate harvest in the valey. And they lyfte vp theyr eyes, & spied the arch. And reioysed when they saw it. And the carte came into the felde of one Jehosua a Bethlamine, and stode styll there. There was also a great stone. And they claue \bar{p} wood of \bar{p} carte & offered the kyne a burnt offering vnto the Lorde. And the Levites toke downe the arke of the Lorde and the cofre that was w \bar{t} h it, wherin \bar{p} iewels of golde were: and put them on the great stone. And the men of Bethlames sacrificed burnt sacrifice, and offered offerings that same daye vnto the Lorde. And when the fyue lordes of the Philistines had sene it, they returned to Akaron the same day. And these are the golden arses whiche the Philistines gaue to amende for a trespasse offering, to the Lorde: for Adon one: for Gaza one: for Ashalon one: for Gath one: & for Akaron one: And golden myce, accordyng to the nombre of all the cypres of \bar{p} Philistines, euen accordyng to the fyue lordes, both of walled townes & of townes vnwalled: euen vnto the great stone of lamentaciō, wherō they set downe the arke of \bar{p} Lorde: whiche stone remaineth vnto this daye in the felde of Jehosua the Bethlamine. And he plagued the men of Bethlames, because they had sene the arke of \bar{p} Lorde. And he slue amonge \bar{p} people fyfte thousande and thye scoze and ten men. And the other people lamented, because the Lorde had slayne \bar{p} people with so great a slaughter. Wherefore the men of Bethlames sayde: who is able to stande before the Lorde so holy a God: & to whom shall he go from vs? And they sent messengers to the inhabitants of Kariatih Jarim saying: The Philistines haue brought agayne \bar{p} arke of \bar{p} Lorde: come ye downe therfore, and set it vp to you.

The .vii. Chapter.

The arke is brought to Kariatih Jarim.

A And so \bar{p} mē of Kariatih Jarim came, and set vp the arke of \bar{p} Lorde: and \bar{p} brought it into the house of Aminadab in Gibeā, & sanctified Eleazar his sonne, to kepe the arke of \bar{p} Lorde: & while the arke abode in Kariatih Jarim the dayes multiplied, and there passed ouer .xx. yerres, & al the house of Israel lamented after the Lorde. And Samuel spake vnto al the house of Israel saying: if ye be come agayne vnto the Lorde w \bar{t} h all poure hertes, then * put awaye the straunge goddes and Ashtaroth frō among you: and prepare you hertes vnto the Lorde, & serue hym * only: for he shall ryd you out of the hande of the Philistines. Then the chyldren of Israel dyd put awaye Baalim and Ashtaroth, & serued the Lorde onely. And Samuel sayde: gather all Israel to Mizpa, and I wyl praye for you vnto the Lorde. And they gathered together to Mizpa, and dreyne water: and powred it out before the Lorde, & fasted the same daye & sayde there: we haue synned agaynst the Lorde. And Samuel iudged the chyldren of Israel in Mizpa. When the Philistines hearde \bar{p} the children of Israel were gathered together to Mizpa, the lordes of the Philistines went vp agaynst Israel. And when the chyldren of Israel hearde they were afrayed of the Philistines, & the chyldren of Israel sayde to Samuel: cease not to crye crpe vnto the Lord our God for vs that he may C saue vs out of the hād of the Philistines. * And Samuel toke a suckynge lambe, and offered it al togyther for a burnt offering vnto the Lord and cryed vnto the Lord for Israel, and the Lord heard hym. And as Samuel offered the burnt offering, the Philistines came to fyght a gaynst Israel. But the Lord thondred a great thondre that same daye amonge the Philistines, and scattered them, that they fell befoze Israel. And the men of Israel went out to Gilpa and pursued the Philistines, and folowed vpon them vntyl the place that is vnder Bethcar.

And then Samuel toke a stone and pitched it betwene Gilpa and the marke of the rocke, and called the name thereof, the * stone of helpe sayinge: Hytherto hath the Lord helped vs.
 D And so the Philistines were brought vnder, & they came nomore into the costes of Israel: and the hande of the Lord was agaynst the Philistines all the dayes of Samuel. Therto the cy-ties whiche the Philistines had taken from Israel, were restored agayne to Israel, euen from Acaron to Gath: with the coastes of the same, & Israel plucked them out of the handes of y Philistines. And there was peace betwene Israel and the Amorres. Samuel iudged Israel all the dayes of his lyfe, and went about yere by yere to Bethel, Gilgal and Gilpa, and iudged Israel in all those places, & came agayne to Rama: for there was his house, & ther he iudged Israel also, & there he buylt an altar vnto y Lord.

The viii. Chapter.

The people requyred a kynge.

When Samuel was old, he made his sons iudges ouer Israel. The name of his eldest sonne was Joel, and y name of the seconde Abia, and they were iudges in Beerseba. And hys sonnes walked not in his wayes: but turned asyde after lucre, and * toke rewardes, and peruerted the ryght. Then all the elders of Israel gathered them togyther, and came to Samuel vnto Rama, and sayd vnto hym: beholde thou art olde, and thy sonnes walke not in thy wayes.
 Nowe therfore * make vs a kynge to iudge vs as all other nacions haue. But the thynge displeased Samuel, when they sayde: gyue vs a kynge to iudge vs. And Samuel prayed vnto the Lord. And the Lord sayde vnto Samuel: heare the voyce of the people in al that they say vnto the. For they haue not cast the awaye, but me: that I shulde not raigne ouer them. And as they haue euer done (sins I brought the out of Egypt vnto this daye: and haue forsaken me, & serued other goddes) euen so do they vnto the.
 Nowe therfore hearken vnto theyr voyce: how beit, yet testifie vnto them and shewe the * the authoritie of the kynge that shall raygne ouer them. And Samuel tolde all the wordes of the Lord vnto the people that asked a kynge of him.
 & he sayd: this shalbe the auctoritie of the kynge that shall raygne ouer you: * he wpll take your sonnes and put them to his charettes and make his horsmen of them, to runne befoze his charret and wpll make hym of them, captaynes ouer thousandes and ouer fyfties, and wpll set them to eare his grounde, and to gather in his haruest, and to make instrumentes of warre, and apparel for his charettes. And he wil take your daughters and make them apoticaries, cookes and bakers. And he shall take the best of youre felde, * and of your vynesardes, and of youre olyue trees, and gyue them to his seruauntes.

 And he shall take the tenth of your seede, and of your vynesardes, and gyue it to his chambrlaines: and to his seruauntes. And he shal take the best of youre men seruauntes and maydeser-uantes and ponge men, and of your asses, and put them to his worke. And he shall take the tenth of your shepe, and ye shalbe his seruauntes. And ye shall crye out at that tyme vpo your kynge, which ye shall haue chosen you, and the Lord wpll not heare you at that daye.

Neuerthelesse, the people wold not heare the voyce of Samuel, but dyd saye: naye not so.
 But there shalbe a kynge ouer vs, that we may be lyke other nacions, and that our kynge maye iudge vs, and go out befoze vs, and fyght our battayles. * (for vs.) Therfore, when Samuel hearde al the wordes of the people, he rehearsed them in the eares of the Lord. And the Lord sayd to Samuel: hearken vnto theyr voyce, and make them a kynge: And Samuel sayde vnto the men of Israel: go every man vnto his cite.

The ix. Chapter.

Saul the sonne of Cis is chosen kynge.

There was a man of Be Jamin named * Cis the sonne of Abiel, the sonne of zeroz, the sonne of Bechorath, the sonne of Aphiah, the sonne of a man y was a Jeminite, a mā of strength and myght, and the same had a sonne called Saul, a goodly ponge man and a fayre:
 so that among the chyldren of Israel there was none goodlyer then he. For from the shoulders vppward, he was hyer than al the other people.
 And the asses of this Cis, Sauls father were lost: and Cis sayde to Saul his sonne: take one of the laddes with the, and goo vp, and seke the asses. And he went thozowe mounte Ephraim and thozowe the lande of Salisa, but they found them not. Then they went thozowe the land of Salis, and there they were not. Whē they went also thozowe the lande of Jemini, they founde them not: At the last when they were come to the lande of zuph, Saul sayd vnto his lad that was with him: come let vs retorne, lest my father leue caring for the asses, and take thought for vs. He sayde vnto hym: beholde, there is in this cytie a man of God, and he is a worshyp-full man: all that he sayeth commeth surelye to passe. Nowe then let vs go thither: peraduen-ture he shall shewe vs what waye we maye go.
 Then sayd Saul to his lad: yf we wil go, what shall we bypge the man? For our bread is all spent out of our vessels, and there is none other present to byng the man of god: what haue we?
 And the lad answered Saul agayne, & sayde:
 I haue found about me the fourth parte of a sicke

Before tyme in Israel whan a man wente to seke an answer of God, thus wyse he spake come & let vs go to the sear. For he that is now called a Propheete was in the olde tyme called a sear. Then sayde Saul to hys ladde: wel sayd of the: come, let vs go. And so they went vnto the cytye where the man of God was. And as they were goinge vp into the cytie, they mette with damels that came out to drawe water, and sayde vnto them: is there here a sear? And þ maydens answered them yea, ^{or (here is one)} Beholde, he is before you. Make haste now, for he came this daye to the cytie, for there is an offeringe of the people this daye in the hyll. When ye be come into þ cytye ye shal finde him streight waye per he come vp to the hyll to eate: for the people wyll not eate vntyl he come, because he doth blesse the offeringe. And then eate they that be bydden to the feast. Nowe therfore get you vp, for this daye shal ye fynde hym. And they wente vp into the cytie. And when they were come into the myddes of the cytie, beholde Samuel came out agaynst them, for to go vp to þ hyll. * But the Lorde had tolde Samuel in his eare (a daye before Saul came) sayinge: to morowe this tyme I wyll sende the a man out of the lande of Ben Jamin, hym shalte thou anoynte to be capitayne ouer my people Israel, that he maye saue my people out of the handes of the Philistines, for I haue looked vpo my people, and they crye is come vnto me. When Samuel therfore sawe Saul, the Lorde answered him: se this is the man whom I spake to the of, Thys same shal raygne ouer my people.

Then went Saul to Samuel in the myddle of the gate, and sayd: tell me I praye the where the sears house is. Samuel answered Saul and sayde: I am the sear, go vp before me vnto the hyll, for ye shal eate with me to daye. And to morowe I wyll let the go, and wyll tell the all that is in thine hert. And as for thyne asses that were lost thre dayes ago, care not for them, for they are founde. And mozeouer whose shal the beautifull thynges of Israel be? Belonge they not to the & to al thy fathers house? But Saul answered and sayd: am not I the sonne of a Jaminite of the smallest trybe of Israel? and my kynred is the leest of all the kynredes of þ trybe of Ben Jamin. Wherefore then speakest thou so to me? And Samuel toke Saul and his lad, & brought them into the parlour, and made them syt in the chiefe place amonge them that were bydden: which were vpon a thyrtye personnes. And Samuel sayd vnto the cooke, bring forth the portion which I gaue the, and of which I sayde vnto the, kepe it with the. And the cooke toke vp the shoulder, and that which was vpo it: and let it before Saul. And Samuel sayde: beholde, that which is left: put it before the & eate, for hit herto hath it ben kept for the of purpose: whē I called the people. And so Saul byd eate with Samuel that daye. And when they were come downe from the hyll into the cytie, Samuel comuned with Saul vpon the toppe of the house: and when they arose early a-bout the spyng of the daye Samuel called Saul vpon the toppe of the house, sayinge: vp, that I maye sende the awaye. And Saul: arose. And they went out at the doores, both he & Samuel. And when they wer come almooſte oute of the towne, Samuel sayde to Saul: byd the lad go before vs (& he went before) but stand thou by a whyle, that I may shew the what God sayth

The .x. Chapter.

Saul is anoynted kynge, and prophesyeth.

And the Samuel toke a vessel of oyle and poured it vpon his head and kissed hym, & sayde: hath not the Lorde annointed þ to be capitayne ouer his enheritaunce? (And thou shalt deliuer his people out of the handes of theyr enemyes which are rounde aboute them. And thys token shalt thou haue, that the Lorde hath annointed the to be kynge.) When thou arte departed from this day, thou shalt fynde two me by * Rabels sepulchre in the boorde of Ben Jamin, euē at zalezah. And they wyll saye vnto the: the asses which thou wentest to seke, are founde. And lo thy father hath left the care of the asses, and sorroweth for you, sayinge: What shall I do for my sonner? Then shalt thou go forth from thence and shalt come to the playne of Chabor. And there shalt mete the thre men goyng vp to God to Berhel: one carying thre kyddes: & an other caryinge thre loues of bread, and an other caryinge a bottell of wyne. And they wyll salute the and gyue the, the two loues of bread: which thou shalt receyue of theyr handes. After that shalt thou come to the hyll of God, where the Philistines kepe their watch. And whē þ art com thither to the cytie, thou shalt mete a company of prophetes cōpyng downe from the hyll wth a psalter, a tymbrell, a pype and an harpe before them, and they shal prophete. And the spyrte of the Lorde wyll come vpon the also, and thou shalt prophete with them, and shalt be turned into an other man. Therfore whē these signes are chaunced the, do what thou hast to doo, for God is with the. And thou shalt go before me to Gilgal: and I also wyll come downe vnto the to sacrifice burnt sacrifices, and to offer peace offeringes. * Tarye for me seuen dayes, tyl I come to the and shewe the what thou shalt do. And as sone as he had turned his shulder to go from Samuel, God gaue hym an other man of herte: and al those tokens came to passe that same daye. And when they came to the hyll, beholde, the company of prophetes met hym: and the spyrte

*the spryite of God came vpon hym also, and he prophecyed amonge the. And all that knew hym before, when they sawe that he prophecyed amonge the prophetes, they sayde eche to other: how is this? is happened vnto the son of Cis? *is Saul also amonge the prophetes? And one of the same place answered & sayd: who is their father? And therof came the prouerbe: what is Saul also amonge the prophetes? And whē he had made an ende of prophecyng, he came to p̄ hyl. And Sauls fathers brother sayd vnto him and to his lad: whyther wēt ye? he sayd: to seke the asses: and when we sawe that they were no where, we came to Samuel. And Sauls vncle sayde: tell me what Samuel sayde vnto you? Saul answered his vncle: he tolde vs playnely that the asses were found. But of the kyngdom wherof Samuel spake, tolde he hym not. And Samuel called p̄ people togyther vnto p̄ Lord to Gilga, and sayd vnto the chyldzen of Israel thus sayth p̄ Lord God of Israel: I brought Israel out of Egypt, and deliuered you out of the hande of the Egyptians, and out of the handes of all kyngdomes that troubled you. And ye haue this daye cast awaye youre God that helpeped you out of al your aduersities and tribulations. And ye haue sayde vnto hym: *make a kyng ouer vs. Now therfore stande ye before the Lorde by your tribes and your thousandes. And when Samuel had brought all the trybes of Israel, the trybe of Ben Jamin was caught: when he had brought the trybe of Ben Jamin by theyr kynredes, the kynred of Matri was caught: and at the last Saule the sonne of Cis was caught. And whē they sought him he could not be founde. Therfore they asked the Lorde further, yf that man shoulde come thither. And the Lorde answered: beholde, he hath hyddē him selfe amonge the stuffe. And they ranne and fet hym thence. And when he stode amonge p̄ people, he was hyper the any of the people, from the shoulders vwarde. And Samuel sayde to all the people: Se ye not him, whom p̄ Lord hath chosen: and howe there is none lyke him among all the people? And al the people shouted & said *God lende the kyngde lyte.

Then Samuel tolde the people *the duty of the kyngdome, and wrote it in a booke, & layed it vp before p̄ Lord, and let all the people a way every man to his house: And Saul also wente home to Gibea. And there folowed him strong mē, whose hertes God had touched. But p̄ chyldzen of Belial sayde: how shall he saue vs? * & they despised hym, and brought hym no presentes. And he helde his tonge.

The. xi. Chapter.

The people renueth the kyngdome of Saul.

Nahas the Ammonite cam vp, & besseged Jabes in Gilead. And all the men of Jabes sayde vnto Nahas: make a couenaunte with vs, and we wyll be thy seruautes. And Nahas the Ammonite answered them: In this wyll I make a couenaunt with you, yf I maye thruste out all your ryght eyes, and bypnyng that spame vpo al Israel. To whom the elders of Jabes sayd: gyue vs seven dayes respyte, that we maye sende messengers, vnto all the coostes of Israel. And then if there be noman to helpe vs: we wyll come out to the. Then came the messengers to gibea vnto Saul, and tolde this tydynge in the eares of the people. And al the people lyft vp theyr voyces and wept. And beholde, Saul came folowynge the cattel out of the felde, and Saul sayd: what aplyeth this people, that they wepe? And they told him the tydynge of the men of Jabes. And the spryite of God came vpon Saul, when he herd those tydynge and he was excedynge angrey, and toke a poke of oren, and hewed them in peces, and sent them thorowout all the coostes of Israel by the handes of messengers sayenge: whosoever cometh not forth after Saul, and after Samuel, so shall his oren be serued. And the feare of the Lorde felle on the people, & they came out as it had ben but one man. And when he *numbred them in Bezek, the chyldzen of Israel were thre hundred thousande men: and the men of Juda thyrtye thousande. And they sayd vnto the messengers that came, so saye vnto the men of Jabes in Gilead, to morowe by p̄ tyne the sonne be hote, ye shal haue helpe. And the messengers came and hewed the men of Jabes, which were glad. Therfore the men of Jabes sayde, to morowe we wyll come oute vnto you, and ye shal doo with vs all that pleaseth you. And on the morowe it fortuneth, that Saul putte the people in thre partes, and they came in vpon the doost in the mornyng watch, and slue the Ammonites vntyll the heate of the daye. And they that remayned, were scattered: so that two of them were not left togyther. And the people sayd vnto Samuel: what is he that darre say, shall Saul raygne ouer vs? bypnyng those men, that we maye slaye them.

And Saul sayde: there shal no man dye this daye, for to daye the Lorde hath saved Israel. Then said Samuel vnto the people: come that we may go to Gilgal, and renue the kyngdome there: And all the people went to Gilgal, and made Saul kyng there before the Lorde in Gilgal. And there they offered peace offrynges before the Lorde. And there Saul and all the men of Israel reioysed excedyngly.

The. xii. Chapter.

Samuel declareth hym selfe to be an innocent Judge.

Samuel sayd vnto al Israel: beholde I haue hearkened vnto your voyce in all that ye sayd vnto me, and haue made you a kyng. Now therfore, your kyngde walketh before you. And I am olde and graye headed, and behold my sonnes are with you, and I haue walked before you from my chyldhode, vnto this day. Behold here I am: beare record of me before the Lorde and before his annoynted. *Whose ore haue I taken? or whose asse haue I taken? whom haue I done wronge to? Whom haue I hurte? or of whose hande haue I receyued any bypbe, to blinde myne eyes therewith, & I wil restore it you agayne. They sayd thou hast done vs no wronge, nor hurt vs: neyther

Eccl. xlii. 1. Act. x. 9.

ther hast thou take ought of any mans hande. He sayde vnto them agayne: the Lorde is witnesse agaynst you, & his annoynted is witnesse this day, & ye haue foude nought in my handes. And they answered: he is witnesse. And samuel sayd vnto þe people: it is þe Lord that made Moyses & Aaron, & that brought your fathers oute of the lande of Egypt. Now therfore stand styll, that I maye reason with you before the Lorde accordyng to all þe ryghtousnesse of the Lorde, whyche he shewed both you and your fathers.

B * After that Jacob was come into Egypt, and your fathers cryed vnto the Lorde: & the Lord sent Moyses and Aaron which brought your fathers out of Egypt, & made them dwell in thys place. * And when they forgot the Lorde their God, he deliuered them into the hand of Sistracaptayne of the hoost of Pharaoh: and into the hande of the Philistines, and into the hande of the kynge of Moab, and they fought agaynst them. And they cryed vnto the Lorde, and sayd we haue synned, because we haue forsaken the Lord, and haue serued Baalim and Ashtaroth. Nowe therfore deliuer vs out of the handes of our enemyes, and we wyl serue the. And the Lord sent Jerobaal * Badan: Jephthab, and * Samuel, and deliuerd you out of þe handes of your enemyes on every syde and ye dwelled safe.

And for al that, whē you saw, that Nahasthe kynge of the chyldren of Ammon came agaynst you, ye sayde vnto me: * not so, but a kynge shal raygne ouer vs: whē yet þe Lord your God was your kynge. Now therfore beholde, the kynge whom ye haue chosen, and whom ye haue desired, lo, the Lorde hath set a kynge ouer you. If ye wyl feare the Lord and serue hym, and heare his voyce, and not disobey the worde of þe Lord: both ye and the kynge that raygneth ouer you, shall folowe the Lorde your God: If ye wyl not hearken vnto the voyce of the Lorde, but disobey the Lordes mouth, then shall the hande of the Lorde be vpon you, and on your fathers.

Now also stande and se this great thing which the Lord wyl do before your eyes: is it not now wheate haruest? I wyl cal vnto the Lord, and he shall sende thundre and rayne: that ye maye perceyue and se, how that your wickednesse is gret, which ye haue done in the sight of þe Lord in asking you a kynge. And so Samuel called vnto the Lorde, and the Lord sent thundre and rayne the same daye. And all the people feared the Lorde and Samuel exceedingly. And all the people sayde vnto Samuel: praye for thy seruantes vnto the Lorde thy God, that we dye not: for we haue sinned in asking vs a king besyde all the synnes that euer we dyd.

And Samuel sayde vnto the people: feare not. Ye haue in dede done al this wickednesse, yet be parte not from folowynge the Lorde. But serue hym euen with all your hertes. Neyther tounne ye after wayne thynges whyche are not able to prospeite you, for they are but vanitie. For the Lorde wyl not forsake his people, because of his great names sake: because it hath pleased þe Lorde to make you his people. Moreouer, God forbyd, that I shulde synne agaynst the Lorde, and cease prayinge for you, but to shewe you the good and ryght waye. Therfore feare you the Lorde, and serue him in the truthe, and with all your hertes, and cōspyre how great thynges he hath done for you. But and if ye do wickedly, then shall ye perishe, both ye and your kynge.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The Philistines are smitten of Saule and Jonathas, Saule being disobedient to Goddes commaundment is shewed of Samuel that he shal not reygne.

Saul had bene kynge one yere (when these thynges came to passe:) and he raygned. ii. yerres, ouer Israel. And Saul chose hym thre thousande men of Israel. Two thousande were with Saul in Michmas and mount Bethel, and a thousande with Jonathas in Gibeon Ben Jamin. And the rest of the people he sent every man to his owne house agayne. And Jonathas smote the hold of the Philistines, that was in þe hill: and it came to the Philistines eares. And Saul blew the tropet thorowout all the lande, saying: let the hebrues heare. And all Israel herde say, howe that Saul had destroyed an holde of þe Philistines, wherfore Israel stakke before þe Philistines. And þe people gathered togyther after Saul to Gilgal. The Philistines also gathered them selues togyther to fyght with Israel, thre thousande charretes and syxe thousande horsemen, and other people lyke the sand by þe sees side in multitude, and came vp, and pyched in Michmas eastwarde from Bethauen. And when the men of Israel sawe it, they were in a strayte, & feare came vpon the people, and they hyd them selues in caues, and in pryuy holes, and in rockes, and in hye places, and in pyttes. And some of þe hebrues went ouer Jordan to go vnto the land of Gad and Gilead. And Saul was yet in Gilgal, and all the people that folowed hym, were astonnyed. And he tarped seuen dayes, euen vnto þe tyme that Samuel had appoynted. But Samuel came not to Gilgal and þe people were therfore scattered from him. And Saul sayde: byngne a burnt sacrifice to me and peace offeringes. And he offred burnt sacrifice. And as soone as he had made an ende of offeryng the burnt sacrifice, beholde Samuel came. And Saul went agaynst hym, to blesse hym. And Samuel sayd: what hast thou done? Saul said: because I saw that the people scatred from me, and that thou camest not within the dayes appoynted, & that the Philistines gathered them selues togyther to Michmas, therfore sayde I: the Philistines shall come downe nowe vpon me to Gilgal, & I haue not made supplication vnto the Lorde. And when I had overcome my selfe, at the last I offred a burnt offryng. And Samuel said to Saul. Thou arte become a foole, thou hast not kept the commaundment of the Lorde thy God, whyche he commaunded the. For at this tyme wolde the Lorde haue stablished thy kyngdome vpon Israel for euer. But nowe thy kyngdome shall not continue. * The Lorde hath soughte hym a mā after his owne herte, & the Lorde hath commaunded hym to be captayne ouer his people.

(The remnant of the folke went vp after Saul, to mete the people whiche soughte agaynst them, as they were commynge from Gilgal to Gibeon in the hyl of Ben Jamin.)

And Saul nūbred þ people þ were founde with him, & they wer about a. vi. C. mē. And Saul & Jonathas his sone, & the people that wer founde with them had theyr abyding in the hyl of Be-Jamin. But þ philistines pitched in Michmas.
And there came out of þ host of the philistines thre cōpanyes to destroy: one company turned vnto the way that leadech to Dyphta vnto þ lād of Saul. And an other cōpany turned the waye to Bethoron. And the thyrde cōpanye turned to the way of þ coast þ is seene aboue the valey of zeboim towarde þ wyldernesse. There was no synth founde thowowe out all þ lande of Israel.
For þ philistines sayd: Lest hapely þ hebrues make the swerdes or speares. But al the Israelites went downe to the philistines, to amende euery man his share, his mattocke, his axe & his necessary tooles. And then the edges of the spares, mattockes, dongforkes, & axes were blunt & also the forkes were to be set in. And so i tyme of battayle there was neyther swerde nor spere founde in the handes of anye of the people that were with Saul and Jonathas. But w Saul and Jonathas his sonne was there some what found. And the wathe of the philistines came out, to go ouer vnto Michmas.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

Jonathas and his harnesbearer putte the philistines to flight. He taketh the boue.

And it fortunēd the same tyme, that Jonathas the sonne of Saul said vnto his pongman that bare hys harnesse: come and let vs go ouer to the philistines wathe, that are pōder on the other syde, and he tolde not his father. And Saul tarped in þ uttermost parte of Gibeon vnder Rimmon, which is in Bi-gion, and the people that were wyth hym were vpon. vi. c. men. And Abia the sone of Abitob, Jehabods brother, the son of phinehas, the sone of Eli, was the Lordes preist in Silo, & wate an Ephod. And the people wiste not that Jonathas was gone.

And in the myddes of the passage (by which Jonathas sought to go ouer to the philistines wathe) were there two sharpe rockes, euen one on the one syde, & the other on the other syde: the one called Bozez, and the other Sennē, the forefronte of the one leane northwarde towarde Michmas, & the other was southward towarde Gibeon: And Jonathas sayd to the pongman þ bare his harnesse, com, & let vs go ouer vnto the wathe of these vncircumcised, parauenture the Lorde wyl worke with vs: for it is no hardnesse vnto the Lorde, & to save eith in manye or in fewe. And his harnesbearer sayd vnto hym ho all that is in thyne herte: For where it plea-seth the. Beholde, I am with the as thyne hert lusteth. Then sayde Jonathas, beholde, we go ouer vnto those men, and shall shewe oure sel-ues vnto them, yf they saye on this wyle to vs, tarpe, vntyll we come to you, then we wyl stand styll in our place & not go vp to them. But yf they saye: come vp vnto vs: then we wyl go vp for* the Lorde hath deliuered them into our hades. And this shalbe a sygne vnto vs. And they bothe shewed them selues vnto the wathe of þ philistines. And þ philistines sayde: se the he-brues come out of the holes where they had hyd the selues in. And þ men of the watch answered Jonathas & his harnesbearer & sayd: com vp to vs, & we wyl shewe you a thing: And Jonathas sayde vnto his harnesbearer: come vp after me, for þ Lorde hath deliuered them into þ hande of Israel. And Jonathas clame vp vpon hilles and fete, & his harnesbearer after hym. And (so whē they had sente Jonathas face) they fel before Jonathas & hys harnesbearer slue them after hym. And þ fyrst slaughte which Jonathas & his harnesse-bearer made, was vpon a. xx. men, within þ compasse as it were about an half acre of lāde. And ther was a feare in þ host in þ feld, & among al people: insomuch þ they þ were gone out of þ watch to rob, were a trayed also: & the earth trembled for the feare þ was sente of God. And þ watch men of Saul in Gibeon Ben Jamin sawe. And beholde, þ people (of þ philistines) were scattered and were smytten as they went. Then sayd Saul vnto the people þ were w him: Search ye se, who is gone fro vs. And when they had num-bred, behold, Jonathas & his harnesbearer were not there. And Saul sayd vnto Abia: bringing his the arke of God. For þ arke of God was at that tyme w the chyldren of Israel. And it for-tuned þ while Saul talked vnto the preist, the nopsle þ was in þ host of þ philistines spied fac-ther a brode, & encreased (by litle and litle, and gat a more cleare sounde) And Saul sayd vnto the preist with drawe thyne hādes. And Saul ioynd hym selfe vnto all þ people þ were with hym, & they came to þ battayle. And beholde, & euery man swerde was agaynst his felowe, & there was a very great rumoz. Moreover þ hebrues þ were with the philistines before þ tyme, & were comwith them into all partys of the host, turned so be w the israelites þ were with Saul and Jonathas. And all þ men of Israel also which had hid them selues in mount Ephraim as loone as they hearde, how that the philistines were fled they folowed after them in the battayle. And so God holpe Israel that daye. And the battayl continued vnto Bethaven.

And whē the me of Israel were kept doing with hunger & dape, Saul charged þ people w an oth, sayinge: Cursed be þ man that eatech any foode tyl nyght, tyl I be auēged of myne ennempes. And so none of the people tasted anye sustenance. And al þ inhabitants of þ land came to a wood where hony lay vpon þ ground. And the people came into the wood: And behold, the hony dropped, and noman moued his hande to his mouth, for þ people feared the oth. But Jonathas herd not when his father charged þ people with the oth, wherefore he put forth the ende of the rod that was in his hande, and bypre it in an hony combe, and put his hande to his mouth and his

and his eyes receyued sight. The answered one of the people, & sayd: thy father adured the people, sayinge: Cursed be the man y eateth any sustenance this day, and the people were sayntye. Then sayd Jonathas my father hath troubled y land: se howe myne eyes haue receyued sight, bycause I tasted a lytle of this hony, how moch more then todaye yf the people had eaten of the spoyle of their enemies which they founde. And had ther not bene the a moch greater slaughter amonge the Philistines. And they layde on the Philistines that daye, from Michmas to Aialb. And the people were excedynge saynte.

E And y people gat them to y spoyle, and toke shepe, oxen, & calves, & slue them on the ground & the people dyd eate them * w the bloode. Then men tolde Saul, sayinge: Beholde, the people synne agaynst the Lord, in that they eate with y blood. And he sayd: ye haue trespassed. Roule a great stone vnto me thys day, & Saul sayd agayne: Go abrode among the people, & byd the byrnyng me euery man his ore, and euery man his shepe, and slaye them here, & synne not agaynst the Lord in eating w the blood. And the people byrnyed euery man his ore in his hand by night and slue them there. And Saul made an altare vnto the Lord. And y was the fyrst altare that he made vnto the Lord. And Saul sayd: let vs go downe after the Philistines by nyghte, and spoyle them vntyl it be day in the mornynge, & let vs not leaue one ma of them. And they sayd do whatsoeuer thou thyntest best. Then sayd y prest: let vs come hither vnto God. And Saul asked of God, shall I go downe after y Philistines? Wylte thou deliuer them into the handes of Israel? But he answered hym not at y tyme. And Saul sayd: let the people come hyther out of all quarters, and know and se by whom this synne is chaunced this daye: for as truly as the Lord deliuereth which saueth Israel, though it be in Jonathas my sonne, he shall dye the deathe. But there was no man amonge all the people, that answered hym.

I Then he sayde vnto all Israel: be ye on one syde, and I and Jonathas my sonne wyl be on y other sid. And y people said vnto Saul: what thou thyntest best, y do. Therfore Saul sayde vnto y Lord God of Israel: gyue a perfect lot.

E (The Lord God gyue thou the iudgement. Howe happeneth it, y knowe not. The seruant no answere to daye, As this synne be in me or in Jonathas my sonne, or in y people, or in y land, or in y people.) And Saul & Jonathas were caught, but the people escaped fre. And Saul sayd: cast lottes betwene me and Jonathas my son. And Jonathas was caught. Then Saul sayde to Jonathas: tell me what thou haste done. And Jonathas tolde hym, and sayde: I tasted a lytle honye wth the ende of the rodde that was in myne hande: and lo, I must dye.

Saul answered: * God do so and so to me, y shall dye by the deathe Jonathas. And y people said vnto Saul: shall Jonathas dye whiche hath so myghtely helped Israel? God forbyd. As truly as the Lord lyueth there shall not one beere of his beere fall to y ground, for he hath wrought w God this day. And so the people deliuered Jona thas, y he dyed not. And the Saul departed from folowynge the Philistines. And the Philistines went to theyr owne place. And to Saul helde y kyngdom ouer Israel, & fought agaynst al his enemies on euery syde, agaynst Moab: agaynst the chyldren of Ammon: agaynst Edom: agaynst the kynges of zoba, & agaynst the Philistines. And whether soeuer he turned hym self there he wan, and he gathered his host together and smote y Amalekites, and ryd Israel oute of the handes of them that spoyled them. The sons of Saul were Jonathas, Jesui, & Melchisua. And his two daughters were thus named: y elder was called Merob, & the yonger Michol. And the name of Sauls wyfe was Abinoa the doughter of Ahimaaz. And y name of his chiefe captaine was Abner the sunne of Ner, Sauls vncle. And Cis was Sauls father. And Ner the father of Abner was the son of Abiel. And there was soze warre agaynst y Philistines all the dayes of Saul. And whome soeuer Saule sawe to be a strong man, and mete for the war he toke hym vnto hym.

The. xv. Chapter.

Saul is commaunded to slep Amalek. He is disobedient to the voyce of God. Samuel mourneth for Saul.

S Samuel sayde vnto Saul: * the Lord sent me to annoynte the, to be kyng ouer his people Israel. Nowe therfore hearken thou vnto the voyce of the woordes of the Lord. Thus saythe the Lord of hostes. I remembre that whych Amalecke dyd to Israel, * howe they layed wayt for them in the waye, as they came oute of Egypte. Nowe therfore go, and smyte Amalek and destrope ye all that pertyneth vnto them, and se thou haue no compassion on them.

And Saul gathered the people together, & nūbzed them in Telaim, ii. hundred thousand fotemen, and ten thousand men of Iuda. And Saul came to a cytie of Amalek, & let watryn the valleie. And Saul sayde vnto the Kenites: go, & departe, & get you downe fro amonge the Amalekites, lest I destrope you with them: for ye shewed mercye to all the chyldren of Israel, whē they came out of Egypte. And so the Kenites departed from amonge the Amalekites.

And Saul smote the Amalekites fro Beulath as thou comest to Sur, y lyeth before Egypt. & toke Agag y kyng of the Amalekites alre vnterly destroyed all y people w the edge of the swearde. * But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the better shepe and the fat oxen, & the lambes and all that was good, & wolde not destrope them. But all that was foul & nought worth, that they destroyed vnterly. Then came the worde of the Lord vnto Samuel, sayinge: it * repente me that I haue made Saul kyng. For he is turned from me, and hath not performed my commaundementes. And Samuel was enellapayed, and cryed vnto the Lord al nyght. And when Samuel arose earlye to mete Saul in the

in the moynynge, it was tolde Samuel, þæt Saul was come to Carmel, and behold, he hath made hym there a place, and is turned, and departed, and gone downe to Gilgal.

D And Samuel came to Saul, and ^{red burnt sacrifice vnto þæt Lord of þæt spirit of the spoiles whiche he had brought from Amalek, & whē Samuel was come vnto Saul.} Saul sayd vnto him: Blessed be thou in þæt Lord I haue fulfilled þæt comaundment of the Lord. Samuel sayd: what meaneth then the bleating of the shepe in myne eares, and the noyse of the oxen whiche I heare? Saul answered: they haue brought them fro the Amalekites. For the people spared the best of the shepe and of the oxen to sacrifice them vnto the Lord thy God. And the remnaunt haue we destroyed utterly.

S Samuel sayd to Saul: let me tell the what the Lord hath sayde to me this nyght. And he sayd vnto hym: saye on. Samuel sayde: * when thou wast lytle in thynne owne syght, wast thou not made the heed of the trybes of Israel? And the Lord anoynted the kyng ouer Israel. And þæt Lord sent the on a iourneye, and sayd: Go, and utterly destroye those synners the Amalekites, and syght agaynst them, vntyl thou utterly destroye them. And wherfore hast thou not hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord, but haste turned to the praye, and hast done that whiche is wycked in the syght of the Lord.

E And Saul sayde vnto Samuel: yea, I haue hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord: and haue gone þæt way which the Lord sent me vnto, and haue brought Agag the kyng of Amalek, and haue utterly destroyed the Amalekites. But þæt people toke of the spoyle, shepe, oxen, and the best of the thynges whiche shoulde haue bene destroyed, to offre vnto the Lord thy God in Gilgal. And Samuel sayd: hath the Lord as great pleasure in burnt sacrifices & offrynges, as whē the voyce of þæt Lord is obeyed? Behold, to obey is better thā sacrifice, & to hearken is better then the fat of rammes. For rebellion is as the synne of witchcraft, and stubborneesse is as the wyckednesse of ydolatre. Bycause thou hast cast awaye the worde of the Lord, therfore hath the Lord cast awaye the also from beinge kyng.

F And Saul sayd vnto Samuel: I haue synned, for I haue gone further then the sayinge of the Lord and thy wordes, bycause I feared the people, and obeyed theyr voyce. Nowe therfore take awaye my synne, and turne agayne wyth me, that I maye worshippe the Lord. And Samuel sayd vnto Saul: I wyl not retorne with the: for thou hast caste awaye the worde of the Lord, and the Lord hath cast awaye the, that thou shalt not be kyng ouer Israel. And as Samuel turned hym selfe to go awaye, he caught the lappe of his cote, and it rent. And Samuel sayd vnto hym: the Lord hath rent the kyngdome of Israel from the this day, & hath gyuen it to a neyghbour of thynne, þæt is better thā thou. The strength of Israel wyl not begyle nor repent: for he is not a man that can repent.

G He sayde: I haue synned. But nowe honour me before þæt elders of my people, & before Israel and turne agayne w me, that I maye worshippe the Lord thy God. And so Samuel turned agayne, & folowed Saul. And Saul worshipped the Lord. Then sayde Samuel: Wyngye ye hyther to me Agag the kyng of the Amalekites. And Agag came vnto hym delicately. And Agag sayd: truly the bytter death commeth on. And Samuel sayd: * as thy swerde hath made womē childlesse, so shalt thy mother be childlesse aboute other womē. And Samuel bewed Agag in peces before þæt Lord in Gilgal. And thā * Samuel departed to Rama. And Saul wēt home to his house to Gibea Saul. And Samuel came nomore to se Saul vntyl þæt day of his death. Neuertheles Samuel mourned for Saul, & þæt lord repeted, þæt he had made Saul kyng ouer Israel.

¶ The xvi. Chapter.

¶ David is anoynted kyng. An euill spiritte commeth vpon Saul.

The Lord sayde vnto Samuel: Howe longe wylt þæt mourne for Saul, seinge I haue cast him awaye fro raygnynge ouer Israel: for thynne horne with oyle & come, & I may sende the to Isai the Bethlehemite, for I haue prouyded me a kyng among hys sones. And Samuel sayde: how cā I go: for yf Saul heare it, he wyl kyl me. The Lord answered: Take an heifer with the, & saye: I am come to offre to the Lord. And cal Isai to the offring, and I wyl shewe the what thou shalt do, & thou shalt annoynt vnto me, hym whome I name vnto the. And so Samuel dyd as the Lord badde hym, and came to Bethlehem, & the elders of the towne were astonyed at his coming, and sayde: * Comest thou peaceably? He answered: Yea, I am come to offre vnto the Lord. * Sanctifye your selues, & come with me to the offring. And he sanctified Isai and his sones, and bad them to the offryng. And when they were come, he looked on Eliab, and sayd: Surely the Lordes anoynted is before hym. But the Lord sayd vnto Samuel: loke not on his fastiō, or on þæt heygeth of his stature, bycause I haue refused hym. For God seeth not as mā seeth. For mā loketh on þæt ourwarde apperaunce: but God beholdeth the hert. Thā Isai called Abinadab, and made him come before Samuel. And he sayd: neither hath the Lord chosen this. Then Isai made Sāma come, and he sayde: neyther yet hath the Lord chosen him. Agayne Isai made seuen of hys sonnes to come before Samuel: and Samuel sayde vnto Isai: the Lord hath chosen none of these.

And Samuel sayd vnto Isai: are here all thy chyldren? He sayde: there is yet a lytle one be- hynde that kepeth the shepe. And Samuel sayd vnto Isai: sende and fet him, for we wyl not syt downe, tyll he be come hyther. And he sent, and brought hym in. And he was ruddye, & of an excellent beauty, * and wellfaoured in sight. And the Lord sayd: Arise, and anoynt him, for this is he. Therfore Samuel toke the horne wyth the oyntment, and annoynted hym in the myddes of his brethren. And the spiritte of the Lord came vpon David, from that daye forward. And Samuel rose vp, and went to Rama.

But the spirit of the Lord departed from Saul, and an evil spirit sent of the Lord vexed him. And Sauls seruantes sayd vnto him: Beholde, an euil spirit sent of God vexeth the, let our lord therfore commaund his seruantes (that are before the) to seke a mā, þ is a cōning player with an harpe: that when the euil spirit sent of God cometh vpon the, he maye playe with his hande, and thou shalt be eased. Saul sayd vnto his seruantes: prouide me a man then that can play wel, and bynge hym to me. Then answered one of his seruantes, and sayde: Beholde, I haue sene a sonne of Isai, a Bethlehemite, that can playe vpon instrumentes, and is an actiue felowe, and a man of war and prudent in doing of feates, & well made, and the Lord is w hym. Wherfore Saul sent messengers vnto Isai, and sayd: sende me Dauid thy sonne, whych is with the shepe. And Isai toke an asse ladē with breed and a flagon of wyne, and a kyd, and sent them by Dauid his son vnto Saul. And Dauid came to Saul, & stode before hym, & he loued him very well, & he was made his barnesbearer. And Saul set to Isai, saying: let Dauid remayne w me, for he hath found fauour in my sight. And so it fortuneth, þ when the euil spirit sent of God came vpon Saul, Dauid toke an harpe & played with his hand, & so Saul was refreshed, & dyd amend, and the euil spirit departed from him.

¶ Dauid ouercommeth great Goliath.

The Philistines gathered theyr hooste to battayl, and came togyther to Socoth whiche is in Iuda, and pytched betwene Socoth and Azecab, in the coost of Dammin. And Saul and the me of Israel came togyther, and pytched in the oke valley, and put them selues in aray to fight against the Philistines. And the Philistines stode on an hyll on the one syde, and Israel stode on an hyll on the other syde, and there was a valleie betwene them. And there came a man betwene them both out of the tetes of the Philistines, named Goliath * of Gath. vi. cubites & an hād bredeth lōg, & had an helmet of brasse vpon his heed, & a cote of mayle about him. And the weyght of his cote of mayle was v. (v.) sicles of brasse. And he had bootes of brasse vpon his legges, & a shield of brasse vpon his shoulders. And the shafte of his speare was lyke a weauers beame. And his speare heed weyed syre hundred sicles of yron. And one bearynge a shield went before hym.

Nota. xlii.

And he stode and cryed agaynst þ hoost of Israel, and sayd vnto them: Why are ye come out in aray to battayle? am not I a Philistine, and ye you seruantes to Saul? chose you a man from amonge you, and lette hym come downe to me. And yf he be hable to fyght with me, & to beate me: then wyl we be your seruantes. But if I can ouercome him & beate hym, then shall ye be our seruantes, and serue vs. And þ Philistine sayd I desye the hoost of Israel this daye, gyue me a man, that we may fight togyther. When Saul and all Israel hearde those wordes of the Philistine, they were discouraged, & greatly afrayed. Dauid was the son of an Ephrathite ^(of whom mention is made afore) of Bethlehem Iuda, named Isai, which had cyght sonnes. And was an olde man in the dayes of Saul, & came to age among me. And the thre eldest sonnes of Isai wet and followed Saul to þ battayle. And þ names of his thre sonnes þ wet to battayl were: Eliab the eldest & the next Abinadab, & the thirde Sama, & Dauid was þ leest. And the thre eldest went after Saul. Dauid also wet, & departed fro Saul to feede his fathers shepe at Bethlehem. And the Philistine came forth in the moynynge, and euenynge, and contynued fourtye dayes.

And Isai sayd vnto Dauid his sonne: take for thy brethren an Ephā of thys parched corne, & these ten loues, & bynng it to the hoost to thy brethren. And cary these. x. fresh cheeses vnto the capitayne, and loke howe thy brethren fare, and fet out theyr pledge. And Saul and they, and all the men of Israel were in the oke valley, fyghtynge with the Philistines. And Dauid rose vpon early in the moynynge, and left the shepe wyth a keeper, & toke and went as Isai had commaunded hym, and came within the compasse of the hoost. And the hooste went out in a raye, and shouted in the battel: for Israel and the Philistines had put them selues in aray, the one agaynst the other. And Dauid put downe the gere from hym and put them vnder the bandes of the keeper of the vessels, and ran into the host, and came, and saluted his brethren. And as he talked with the: Beholde, there stode a man in the myddes (Goliath by name, the Philistine of Gath) out of the aray of the Philistines, and spake of the name aboue reherled, þ Dauid herde it. And all the me of Israel, whē they sawe the mā, ran away fro hym, and were sore afrayed. And every man of Israel sayd: Sawe ye not this man come forth? euen to reuple Israel is he come. * And to hym that beate hym wyl the kyng gyue great rychesse, and wyl gyue hym his doughter thereto yea, and make his fathers house free in Israel.

And Dauid spake to the men that stode by, and sayd: What shalbe done to the mā that beate this Philistine, & taketh awaye the shame from Israel? And what is this vncircumcised Philistine, þ he shulde reuple the hoost of the byynge God? And þ people answered hym (after this maner) saying: thus shal it be done to þ mā that beate hym. And Eliab his eldest brother hearde when he spake vnto the men, and Eliab was angrey wyth Dauid, & sayde: Why camest þ downe hyther? and w whom hast þ left those few shepe in the wilderness? I know thy pride and the

and the malice of thynne hert, that thou art come downe to se the battayle. And Dauid sayd: And what haue I now done? is there not a worde? And he departed from hym into the pzelesence of an other, and spake of the same maner, and the people answered hym agayne as befoze.

And they þ herde the wordes whiche Dauid spake, rehearled the befoze Saul, which caused hym to be set. And Dauid sayd to Saul: Let go mans herte sayle him bycause of hym. Thy seruauunt wyl go, & fight with ponder Philistine. And Saul sayd to Dauid agayne: thou art not able to go agaynst ponder Philistine to fight w him. For þ arte bat a chylde, but he is a man of war, euen fro his youth. Dauid answered vnto Saul: Thy seruauunt kept his fathers shepe, and there came a *lyon & lykewyse a beere, & toke a shepe out of the flocke. And I wēt out after him and smote him, & toke it out of his mouth. And whē he arose agaynst me, I caught hym by the beerde, & smote hym, & slue hym. And so thy seruauunt slue the lyon, & the beere (also) hath thy seruauunt slayne. And truly this vncircūcised Philistine shalbe as one of them. (How wyl I go, and take awaye the rebuke of the people, for what is this vncircūcised Philistine?) seing he hath raypled on the hoost of þ lyupng God. And Dauid spake mozeouer: the Lord, þ delynered me out of the hande of the lyō & out of the hande of the beere, he shall delyuer me also out of the hande of the Philistine.

And Saul sayde vnto Dauid, go & the Lorde shall be with the. And Saul put his raymente vpo Dauid, and put an helmet of brasse vpo his heed, & put a coote of mayle vpon hym, and gyzded Dauid with his owne swerde vpon his rayment. And he assayed to go. And bycause he neuer proued it, Dauid sayd vnto Saul: I cannot go with these, for I haue not vsed my selfe ther to: And Dauid put them of hym, and toke hys staffe in his hande, & chose hym fyue smothe stones out of a byoke, & put them in a shepherdes bag which he had, & in a slynge poke: & his sling was in his hand, and he went to the Philistine.

And the Philistine came and dze nere against Dauid, and the man þ bare the shylde went befoze hym. And when the Philistine looked about and sawe Dauid, he disdayned hym, for he was but yonge, and well coloured, & goodlye to lōke vpon. And the Philistine sayd vnto Dauid: am I a dogge, that thou comest to me with a staffe? And the Philistine cursed Dauid in the name of his goddes. And the Philistine sayde to Dauid: come to me, & I wyl gyue thy flesh vnto the foules of the ayze, and to the bestes of the felde.

Then sayde Dauid to the Philistine: thou comest to me with a swerde, a speare, and a shylde: But I come to the in the name of the Lorde of hostes, the God of the hooste of Israel, whome thou hast raypled vpon. This day shall the Lord delyuer the into my hand, and I shall smyte the, and take thynne heed from the, and wyl gyue the carkasses of the host of the Philistines this daye vnto the foules of the ayze, & to the bestes of þ erth, þ al they which be in the world may know that there is a God in Israel. And all thys congregation shall knowe, that the Lorde saueþ not with swerde and speare. For the battayl is the Lordes, and he shal gyue you into our hādes

And whē the Philistine arose to come & draw nye vnto Dauid, Dauid hastid & ran into þ bat tayl eue against the Philistine. And Dauid put his hand in his bag, & toke out a stone, & slang it & smote the Philistine in his foreheed, þ the stone sonke into his foreheed *and he fell grouelynge to the earth. And so Dauid ouercam the Philistine w a slynge and a stone, & smote the Philistine, & slue him, euen when Dauid had no swerd in his hande. But Dauid ran, and stode vpo the Philistine, and toke his swerd and dze it out of his sheeth, & slue hym, and cut of his heed therw. And when the Philistines sawe, þ they: champion was deed, *they fled. And the men of Israel & Judas arose, & shouted, & folowed after the Philistines, vntyll they came to the valley, and vnto the gates of Akaron. And the Philistines fell downe wounded by the waye to Saaraim, euen vnto Gath & Akaron. And the children of Israel returned from chasynge after the Philistines, and spoyled they: tentes. And Dauid toke the heed of the Philistine, and brought it to Jerusalem. But he put his armour in his tēt.

When Saul saw Dauid go forth agaynst the Philistine, he sayd vnto * Abner the captayn of his hoost: Abner, whose sonne is this yong mā? Abner answered: as trulpe as thy soule lyueth, (O king) I cānot tel. And þ king said: Enquire þ whose sonne the yonglyng is. And when Dauid was returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner toke hym, and brought hym befoze Saul, with the heed of the Philistine in hys hande. And Saul sayd to hym: whose sonne art thou, thou yongeman? Dauid answered: I am the son of thy seruauunt Ilat the Bethlehemite.

The. xviii. Chapter.

The bonde betwene Dauid and Jonathas. Saul goeth about to slay Dauid.

And when he hadde made an ende of A speakynge vnto Saul, the soule of Jonathas was knyt w the soule of Dauid, and Jonathas loued hym, as his owne soule. And Saul toke hym that day, & wold let hym go nomoze home to his fathers house. And Jonathas made a couenaunt w Dauid, bycause he loued hym as hys owne soule. And Jonathas put of his owne cote that was vpon hym, & gaue it Dauid, & thereto his cloke, his swerde, his bowe, and his gyzle. And Dauid went out whither soeuer Saul set hym, and behaued hym selfe wysely. And Saul sette hym ouer hys men of warre, and he was accepted in the syght of all the people: and in the syght of Saules seruantes.

And it happened as they went, when Dauid was returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, that women came oute of all cyties of Israel, synngynge and daunspynge agaynst kyng Saul, and with tymbrels, with iope, and w instrumentes of muspke. And þ womē answered one an other in they: plape, & sayd: * Saul bath slayne his thousand, & Dauid his ten thousande.

D. iii. And

And Saul was exceeding wroth, and the saying displeased him: and he sayd: they haue ascribed vnto David. x. M. and to me but a thousande, & what can he more haue saue the kyngdom: Wherefore Saul looked aside on David from that day forthwarde. And it happened on the morowe, & the euyl spiritte sent of God came vpon Saul, & he prophesied in þe middes of the house. And David played w his hand like as at other tymes, & there was a tauling in Sauls hād. And Saul toke þe tauling, & sayd: I will naye David to þe wall w it. And David auoyded oute of his presence. ii. tymes. And Saul was afrayd of David because the Lord was w hym, & was departed from Saul. Therefore Saul put hym fro hym, and made him a captayne ouer a thousande, & he went out & in before the people. And David behaued hym self wysely in al his wayes, & the Lord was w hym. Wherefore when Saul sawe that he was so exceeding wysely, he was afrayed of hym. But all Israel & Iuda loued David, because he went out & in before the. And Saul sayd to David: Beholde my eldest daughter Merob, her I wyl gyue the to wyfe. Only play the mā w me & fight the Lordes battels. For Saul thought: myne hād shal not be vpo hym: but the hand of þe Philistines. And David answered Saul: what am I? & what is my lyfe, or the kinned of my father in Israel, þe I shuld be son in law to þe king? Howbeit when þe time was comy Merob Sauls daughter shulde haue bene gyuen to David, she was gyuen vnto Achis a Gethiote, to wyfe. Howbeit, Michol Sauls daughter loued David. And they shewed Saul: & the thing displeased hym not. And Saul sayd: I wyl gyue hym her þe may be a snare to him: & that þe hand of the Philistines may be agaynst him. Wherefore Saul sayd to David: thou shalt this day be my sonne in lawe in the other daughter. And Saul commaunded his seruantes to comen with David secretly, and to saye: Beholde, the kyng hath a fauour to the, and al his seruantes loue the, be nowe therefore the kynges sonne in lawe.

And Sauls seruantes spake these wordes in the eares of David. And David sayd: semeth it to you a light thing to be a kinges son in law? But I am a poore mā & of smal reputatiō. And the seruantes brought Saul worde agayne, saying: of this maner spake David. And Saul sayd: this wyse shal ye saye to David: the kyng careth for none other dowrye, but for an hundred foreskynnes of the Philistines to be auenged of þe kynges enemies. But Saul thought to make David fall into þe hādes of the Philistines. And when his seruantes tolde David these wordes it pleased David well, to be the kynges sonne in lawe. And of the dayes were expired, David arose with his men, and went and slue of the Philistines, two hundred men: and David brought theyr foreskynnes, and satisfied the kyng thereof, to be his son in law. * Wherefore Saul gaue hym Michol his daughter to wyfe. And Saul sawe and understode how that the Lord was w David, and that Michol hys daughter loued hym, and he was the more afrayed of David, &

Saul became alwaye Davids enemy. The lordes of the Philistines vled to go forth, and it fortuned, that when they went forth, David behaued hym self wyselyer then all the seruantes of Saul: so that his name was moche set by.

The xix. Chapter

Saul commaunded to slaye David. Michol hys wyfe sauerh hym.

Saul spake to Jonathas his sonne, and to al his seruantes, & they shulde kyll David. * But Jonathas Sauls sonne had a great fauour to David, and Jonathas tolde David, sayinge: Saul my father goeth aboute to slaye the. Nowe therefore, take hede vnto thy selfe vnto the morning, and abide in some secreete place, and hyde thy selfe. And I wyl go out and stande by my father in the felde where thou arte, and wyl comene wyth my father of the, and whatsoeuer I se, I wyl tel the.

And Jonathas spake good of David, vnto Saul his father, & sayd vnto him: let not þe king syn agaynst his seruāt David, for he hath not synned agaynst the, and his workes haue ben to the warde very good. For he dyd * put his lyfe in his hand, & slue the Philistine, and the Lord brought to passe a greete health for all Israel. Thou sawest it, and thou reioysedest: wherefore then wylt þe synne agaynst innocent blood? and slaye David without a cause? And Saul hearkened vnto the voyce of Jonathas, and swore: as trulpe as the Lord lyueth, he shall not dye. And Jonathas called David, and shewed hym all those wordes, and brought David to Saul. And he was in his presence as in tymes past.

And the warre began agayne, & David went out & fought w the Philistines, and slue them w a great slaughter, & they fled from him. And the euyl spirit sent of the Lord was vpon Saul as he sat in his house haupng a taulyn in his hand & David played with his hand. And Saul entred to naye David to the wall with the taulin. But he ryd hym selfe out of Sauls presence, as he smote the speare (with a bayne stroke) into the wall. And David fled, and was saued the same nyght. Saul also set messengers vnto Davids house, to watche hym, and to slaye hym in the morynge. And Michol Davids wyfe tolde him, saying: Vt thou saue not thy self this nyght, to morow thou wilt be slayne. And so * Michol let David downe thowowe a wyndowe: and he went and fled, and was saued. And when he toke an ymage and layed it in the bed, and put a pylowe stuffed with gootes heere, vnder the heed of it, and couered it wyth a clothe. And when Saul sent messengers to fetch David, he sayd: he is sycke. And Saul sente the messengers agayne to se David, sayinge: byynge hym some bed and all, that I maye slaye hym. And when the messengers were come in: beholde, there laye an ymage in the bed, with a pylowe of gootes heere vnder the heed of it. And Saul sayde vnto Michol: Why haste thou mocked me so, and sent away myne enemy, that he is escaped? Michol answered Saul: For he sayde vnto me: let me go, or els I wyl kyll the. And so David fled, and and escaped, and came to Samuel to Rama, and tolde hym all that Saul had done to hym. And he and Samuel went & dwelt in Raioth.

And one tolde Saul, sayinge: Beholde, David is at Raioth in Rama. And Saul set messengers to fet David. And whē they sawe a company of prophetes prophcinge, and Samuel standyng fast by them, & spyrte of God fel vpo the messengers of Saul, and they prophced to And when it was told Saul, he sent other messengers, and they prophesied lyke wyse. And Saul sent messengers yet agayne the third time and they prophced also. The went he him self to Rama, & came to a great wel that is in Sechu, & he asked and sayde: Where are Samuel & David? And one said: behold, they be at Raioth in Rama, and he went thither, even to Raioth in Rama, and the spirite of God came vpo him also, and he went prophcinge vntyl he came to Raioth in Rama. And he crypte of his clothes, and prophced before Samuel in lyke maner, and fell naked all that daye and all that nyght. And therof it is, that they say: is Saul also amonge the prophetes?

The. xx. Chapter.

David complayneth vnto Jonathas.

AND David fled frome Raioth whiche is in Rama, and came and sayd before Jonathas: What haue I done? Wherein am I faultye? What is the synne that I haue commytted before thy father, that he seketh my lyfe? he sayd vnto him. God forbyd, thou shalt not dye. Beholde my father wyl do nothinge either greate or small, but y he wyl shewe it me. And how shulde my father hyde this thinge frome me? he wil not do it. And David swaie agayne and sayde: thy father knoweth y I haue founde grace in thyne eyes, and therfore he sayth: Jonathas shal not knowe it, lest he be soz. And in verdede, even as trulpy as y Lord lyueth, and as trulpy as thy soule lyueth, there is but a step betwene me and death. Then sayd Jonathas vnto David: what soeuer thy soule desyareth, that I wyl do vnto the. And David sayde vnto Jonathas: Beholde, to morowe is the begynnyng of the moneth, & I shuld sit w the kyng at meat. But let me go, that I may hyde my selfe in the felde vnto the thyrde daye at euen. Yf thy father speake of me, then saye: David asked leaue of me, y he myght go to Bethlehe to his own cytie, for there is holden a yerely feast for al y kin red. And yf he saye: it is well done, then thy seruauant shal haue peace. But and yf he be angry thē be sure, y wyckednesse is vtterly concluded of him. And thē y shal shewe mercy vnto thy seruauant *for thou hast made w me thy seruauante a bonde in the Lord. Notwithstanding if there be in me any trespasse: then slaye me thy selfe, & byynge me not to thy father.

And Jonathas answered God kepe y frō the (neither is it possible to come to passe.) For yf I kne we y wyckednes were concluded of my father to come vpon y: thynkest y y I shuld not tel it y? Then said David to Jonathas: who shal tel me if thy father answer cruelly? And Jonathas sayd vn-

to David, come & let vs go out into the felde.

And they went out both of them into y felde.

And Jonathas sayd vnto David: y Lord God of Israel loke on it, when I haue groped my fathers mide, one time or other w in this. iii. daies y it stād wel w David. yf I thē sed not vnto the & shewe it the, y Lord do so & so vnto Jonathas. But if my father haue any plesure to do y euyl, I wil shew y also, & send y away y thou mayest go in peace. And y Lord be w the as he hath ben with my father. And thou shalt perfourme vnto me the mercye of the Lord, not onely whyle I lyue, but euen whē I am dead, and pluck not thy mercye awaye from my house for euer. No not when the lord hath destroyed the enemies of David, enery one from the face of the earth.

And so Jonathas made a bonde wyth the house of David, desyring that the Lord shuld seke it out by the handes of Davids enemyes. (yf it were broken.) And with other woordes, dyd Jonathas sweare vnto David, bycause he loued him. For he loued him as his owne soule.

Then sayd Jonathas to David: to morowe is y fyrst day of y moone. And thou shalt be misled, bycause the place where y wast wont to sit shal be emptye. Therfore this daye thre dayes, come downe in anye wyse vnto y place where y dyddest hyde thy selfe, when y busynesse was in hand: eue by y stone Esel. And I wil shote thre arrowes by y one syde thereof, as though I shot thē at a marke, & wyl sende a lad, & byd hym go seke y arrowes. And if I say vnto y lad: se the arrowes are on this syde y: bring them, then come thou: for it is peace & no hurt, as sure as y Lord lyueth. But & yf I saye vnto the lad: behold, y arrowes are beyonde the, then go (in peace) for y Lord hath sent the awaye. And as touchyng this which thou and I haue spoken: behold, y Lord be betwene the & me for euer. And so David byd hym selfe in the felde. And when y new moone was come, the kyng sat hym downe to eate meate. And the kyng sat hym downe after the olde maner, in his seate by the wall. And Jonathas arose, and Abner sat by Sauls syde, & Davids place was empty. Neuerthelesse, Saul sayde nothyng at all that daye. For he thought some thyng hath chaunced him, y he is not clene. But on the morowe which was the second day of the newe moone, it happened, that Davids place was emptye agayne. And Saul sayde vnto Jonathas his sonne: Wherefore cometh not y sonne of Isai to meate, neyther yesterdaye nor todaye? And Jonathas answered vnto Saul. David asked licēce of me to go to Bethlehe, for he sayd: let me go, I praye the, for our kynrede doth hold an offring i y citie, & my brother hath sent for me. And therfore I haue found fauour in thyne eyes: let me go, & se my brethren. This is the cause that he cometh not vnto the kynges table. Then was Saul angrye with Jonathas, and sayd vnto him: Thou wycked rebell, do not I knowe, that thou hast chosen the sone of Isai vnto thyne owne rebuke and vnto the rebuke & shame of thy mother? For as longe as the sonne of Isai lyueth vpon the earth, thou shalt not be stablished, nor yet thy kingdom, wherefore now

 I set him vnto me: for he is a childe of death.

And Jonathan answered vnto Saul his father, and sayde vnto hym: Wherefore shuld he dye? what hath he done? And Saul lyfte vp a spere to hit him, whereby Jonathan wyst well that it was vnto the death of his father to slaye Dauid: And so Jonathan arose from the table in a great angre, and dyd eate no meate at the seconde daye of the moneth, for he was sorowful for Dauid, because his father had done him shame.
 On the next morning Jonathan went out into the felde, at the tyme appoynted with Dauid, & a lytle lad with hym. And he sayd vnto his boy:
 runne, and seke out myne arrowes which I shot and as the boy ran he shot an arrowe beyond him.
 And when the lad was come to the place, why-ther Jonathan had shotte the arrowe, Jonathan cryed after the lad, and sayd: Is not the arrowe beyonde the? And Jonathan cryed after the lad agayne make speede, and stand not styl. And Jonathan lad gathered vp the arrowes, and came to his master. But the lad wyst nothing of the matter. Onelye Jonathan and Dauid wyst it.
 And Jonathan gaue his weapons vnto the lad that was with him, and sayd vnto him: go & carrye them to the towne. And as sone as the lad was gone, Dauid arose oute of a place that was to warde the south, and fell on his face to the ground and worshipped thre tymes. And they kyssed either other, and wept together so longe, tyl Da-uid exceeded in wepyng. And Jonathan sayde to Dauid: go in peace. And the thinges which we haue sworne both of vs in the name of the Lord saying: The Lord be betwene the & me, & betwene thy seed & myne, let the stand for euer. And he arose & departed. And Jonathan wet into the town.

The .xxi. Chapter.

Dauid flyeth into Gath to Achimelech the priest, and getteth of hym the shewbread to satisfie his hunger. Afterwarde he flyeth to kynge Achis, and there sayeth hym selfe mad.

When came Dauid to Gath, to Achimelech the priest. And Achimelech was astonied at the sodayne com-ming of Dauid, & sayd vnto hym: Why art thou alone, and no man with the? And Dauid sayd to Achimelech the priest the kynge hath commaunded me to do a certayne thyng, and hath sayd vnto me: let not a knowe whereabout I sende the, and what I haue commaunded the to do. And I haue appoynted my seruantes to suche & suche places. Nowe therfore yf I haue oughte vnder thyne hande & geue me fyue loues of bzed, or what cometh to hade.

And the priest answered Dauid, and sayde:
 there is no comen bzed vnder myne hande, but here is halowed bzed, yf the younge men haue kept them selues from vncleane thynges, especially women. Dauid answered the priest, and sayd vnto hym: of a truthe women hath ben loked vp from vs about thre dayes when I came out, and the vessels of the yonge men were holp howbeit this way is vnpure, & how moch moze nowe shal there be holynesse in this vessel? And so the priest gaue hym halowed bzed, for there was none other breade there, save the shewbread des I were taken from before the Lord, to put fresh bzed there, I day that it was take awaye.

And there was there the same day a certayne man of the seruantes of Saul abyding before the Lord, named Dorg an Edomite, the che-fest of Sauls herdemen.

And Dauid said vnto Achimelech: is not here vnder thyne hande eyther speare or swearde, for I haue neither brought my swerd nor my harnelle w me, because the kynges busynesse requy-red hast. And the priest said: the swerde of Goliath the Philistine whom thou sluest in the valleye, beholde, it is here wrapped in a cloth behynde the Ephod. Yf thou wilt take that, take it: for ther is none other saue that here. And Da-uid sayd: there is none to that, geue it me.

And Dauid arose and fled the same daye fro
 the presence of Saul, and went to Achis king of Geth. And the seruantes of Achis sayde of hym: is not this Dauid the kynge of the lande?
 dyd they not spunge vnto hym in daunces, sayinge: Saule hath slayne his thousande, and Dauid his ten thousande.

And Dauid put those wordes into his herte,
 and was sore afrayd of Achis the kyng of Geth.
 And he chaunged his speache before them, and sayned hym selfe mad in theyr handes, and scrabled on the doores of the gate, and let his spittle fall downe vpon his beard.

Then sayde Achis vnto his seruantes: Loye se that this man is besyde hym selfe, wherfore then haue ye brought hym to me? haue I ned of mad men, that ye haue brought thys fellowe to playe the madde man in my presence?
 Shall he come into my house?

The .xxii. Chapter.

Dorg betrayeth Dauid. Achimelech is accused of treason and slayne, and .lxxiii. prestes mo with him, because they receyued Dauid. Gath is destroyed of Saul: Abiathar fly-eth to Dauid.

Dauid therfore departed thence, and escaped, and came vnto the caue Adullam.
 When his brethren also and all his fathers house herde it, they went downe thither to hym: And ther gathered vnto hym al
 the me that were in cobzaunce & det, & troubled in theyr myndes, and he became a captayne ouer them.

And there were with him vpon a foure hundred men. And Dauid went thence to the lade of Moab: and sayd vnto the kynge of Moab: Let my father and my mother (I praye the) come forth vnto you, tyl I knowe what God wyll do for me. And he brought the before the kynge of Moab. And they dwelt with hym al the whyle that Dauid kept him selfe in hold.
 And the prophet Gad sayd vnto Dauid: abyde not in holde, but depart and go into the lande of Iuda. Then Dauid departed and came into the forest of Hareth. And Saul herde that Dauid was come abroad, and also the me that were w him. And Saul sat in Gibea vnder a tre in Rama, haupng his speare in his hande, and all his men stode about him. And Saul sayd vnto his seruantes that stode about hym: heare I pray you, ye sonnes of Beniamin: wyl the sonne of Isha-

David fleeth into the wyldernesse of ziph.

When they tolde David, saying: Behold, the Philistines fight agaynst Keilah, and spoyle the barnes. Then fore David asked the Lordes aduyce, sayinge, shall I go and smyte the Philistines? And the Lord answered vnto David: goo and smyte the Philistines, and saue Keilah. And Davids men that were with hym sayd vnto hym: se, we be afrayed here in Juda: howe moche more then yf we come to Keilah agaynst the hoost of the Philistines? Then David asked the Lord agayne.

And the Lord answered hym, and sayde: Arise, and go downe to Keilah, for I wyll deluyner the Philistines into thyne hande.

And so David and his men went to Keilah, & fought with the Philistines, and broute awaye theyr cattel, and smote the with a great slaughter. And so David saued the inhabitants of Keilah. And it chaunced whē Abiathar the sonne of Ahimelech fledde to David to Keilah, that he brought an Ephod with hym in his hande.

And it was told Saul that David was come to Keilah. And Saul sayde: God hath deluynered hym into myne hande. For he is shut in now, & he is come into a towne that hath gates & barres. And Saul called all the people togyther, to warre, for to goo downe to Keilah, and to besiege David and his men. And David hauyng knowledge that Saul ymagyned myschefe agaynst him, said to Abiathar the preist. *Bring the Ephod. Then sayd David: O Lord God of Israel, thy seruauant hath herd, that Saul is about to come agaynst Keilah to destroye the cytie for my sake: wyll the me of Keilah deluyner me into his hande? And wyl Saul come downe, as thy seruauant hath hearde saye? O Lord God of Israel, tel thy seruauant. And the Lord sayd: he wyll come downe. Then sayd David: wyll the men of Keilah deluyner me and the men, that are with me into the hande of Saul? and the Lord sayde: they wyll betraye you.

Then David and his men, which were vpon a syce hundred aroose, and departed out of Keilah and wente whither they coude. And it was tolde Saul, that David was fled from Keilah, and he let the iourneye alone. David abode in the wyldernes in stronge holdes, and remayned in a mountayne in the wyldernesse of ziph. And Saul sought him euery daye, but God deluynered hym not into his hand. And David sawe that Saul was come out to seke his lyfe. And David was in the wyldernesse of ziph in a thicket. And Jonathan make you all capitaynes ouer thousandes, and ouer hundredes: that ye haue also conspyred agaynst me, and there is none that telleth it me in myne eare: * And where as my sonne hath made a bond with the son of Isai, there is none of you that mourneth for me, or sheweth it in myne eare: beholde, my son hath spyred vp my seruaut to lye awayt agaynst me this same day.

Then answered Doeg the Edompte whiche also stode by the seruantes of Saul, and sayd: I sawe the sonne of Isai when he came to Nob, to Ahimelech the sonne of Ahitob, which asked counsaile of the Lord for hym, and gaue hym vytayles, and the swerde of Goliath the Philistine also. Then the kyng sent and called for Ahimelech the preist the sonne of Ahitob, and all his fathers house, that is to saye: the preistes that were in Nob.

And they came all to the kyng. And Saul sayde: heare now thou sonne of Ahitob. He answered: here I am my lord. And Saul sayd vnto him: why haue ye conspyred agaynst me, thou and the son of Isai: in that thou hast giuen him vytayles, & a swerde, and hast asked counsaile of God for hym, that he shulde aryse agaynst me, and lye awayte for me this day? Ahimelech answered the kyng, and sayd: who is so faythfull amonge al thy seruantes as David, and thereto the kynges sonne in lawe, & goeth at thy bidding, and is had in honour in thyne house: haue I this daye fyrst begon to aske counsaile at God for him? That he far fro me (if I had knowe it) let not the kyng put such a thyng vnto his seruauant, in all the house of my father. For thy seruauant knewe nothyng of all this, eyther lesse, or more. The kyng sayde: thou shalt surely dye Ahimelech, thou and all thy fathers house. And the kyng sayde vnto the fotemen that stode aboute hym: tourne, and slaye the preistes of the Lord, both bycause theyr hand is with David, and bycause they knewe when David fled, and shewed it not to me. But the seruantes of the kyng wolde not moue theyr handes to fall vpon the preistes of the Lord.

And the kyng sayde to Doeg: tourne thou, and fall vpon the preistes. And Doeg the Edompte tourned, and ranne vpon the preistes, and slue that same daye foure scoze and fyue personnes that dyd weare a linnen Ephod. And Nob the cytie of the preistes smote he with the edge of the swerde, bothe men and women, chyldren and suckylnges, oxen, asses, and shepe.

And one of the sonnes of Ahimelech the sonne of Ahitob (named Abiathar) escaped and fledde to David. And Abiathar shewed David, howe that Saul had slayne the Lordes preistes. And David sayd vnto Abiathar: I wyl it the same daye, when Doeg the Edompte was there, that he wolde tell Saul.

And I am cause of the death of all the soules of thy fathers house. I praye thou with me, and feare not. For yf any man seke my soule, he shall seke thyne also, with me thou shalt be in sauegarde.

nathas Sauls son arose & wēt to David into þe thicket, and cōforted his hande in God, & sayde vnto hym: feare not, for the hande of Saul my father shal not fynde the, and thou shalt be king ouer Israel, & I must be next vnto the. And that doth Saul my father knowe. * And they made a bonde both of them togyther before the Lord. And David tarped styl in the thicket, and Jonathas went to his house. Then came the ziphites to Saul to Gibea, sayinge: doth not David hyde hym selfe faste by vs in stronge holdes, in a thicket that is by the hyll of Hachila, on the ryghte syde of the wyldernesse? Nowe therfore kynge, thou mayest come downe accordyng to all the luste of thy soule: come downe, and oure part shalbe to deliuer him into the kynges hād. And Saul sayd: Blessed are ye in the Lord: for ye haue compassion on me. So, I pray you, and orde the matter wel, knowe and se his haunte, where his fote hath ben, and who hath sene him there, for it is tolde me þe he is very subtile, and worketh craftely. Se therfore, & knowe all the lurking places where he hydeth hym selfe, and come ye agayne to me w the certentie, & I wyll go w you. And if he be in the land, I wil searche hym out thowout al the thousandes of Iuda.

And they arose and went to ziph before Saul. But David and his mē were in the wyldernesse of Maon, in the playne that is on the ryght hād of Jeshimon. Saul also and his men wēt to seke and they tolde David. Wherefore he went vnto a rocke, and abode in the wyldernesse of Maon. And when Saul hearde that, he folowed after David in the wyldernesse of Maon. And Saul and his men went on the one syde of the mountayne, and David and his mē on the other syde. And David toke thought, how to get frō Saul. For Saul and his men compassed David and his men, rounde about, to take them. But there came a messiger to Saul, sayinge: haste the: and come: for the Philistines are come into the land. Wherefore Saul retourned from persecutynge David, and went agaynst the Philistines. And therfore is it, that they called the place: the rock of deuision. And David went thence, and dwelt in stronge holdes at Engaddi.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

David flyeth vnto Engaddi, and there hydeth hym in a caue. Saul cometh in thither to do his easement.

When Saul was come agayne from folowynge after the Philistines, it fortuned that there were which told him sayinge: beholde, David is in the wyldernesse of Engaddi. Then Saul toke thre thousande chosen men out of all Israel, and went to seke David and his mē in the beggyn of the rockes, where wylde gootes remayne.

And he came to the flockes of shepe in the way. And Saul went into a caue to couer his feete. And David and his men remayned in þe inward partes of the caue.

And the men of David sayd vnto him: se, the daye is come, of which the Lord sayd vnto the: Beholde, I wyll deliuer thyne enemyes into thyne hand, and thou shalt do to hym as it shall seme good in thy syght. Then David arose and cut of a lappe of Sauls garment pynlye. And immediatly Davids hert smote hym because he had cut of a lap of Sauls garment. And he sayde vnto his men: the Lord kepe me from doinge that thyng vnto my master the Lordes annoynted, to laye myne hande vpon him, seing he is the annoynted of the Lord. * (For as trulye as the Lord, lyueth, except the Lord smyte hym, or except his daye come, we shal be go not downe to warre and perishe: the Lord be mercifull vnto me, that I laye not myne hande vpon the Lordes annoynted.) And so David kept of his seruantes with these wordes, and suffered them not to arple agaynst Saul.

But Saul rose vp out of the caue, and went awaye: David also arose, and wente oute of the caue, and cryed after Saul, sayinge: My Lord kynge. And when Saul looked behynde hym, David stonped to the erth, and bowed hym selfe and said to Saul: wherefore gyuest thou an eare to mens wordes that saye: David seeketh euill agaynst the? Behold, this daye thyne eyes hath sene, how that the Lord hath deliuered the this day into myne hande in the caue. And some had me kyll the, but I had compassy on on the, and sayde: I wyll not laye myne handes on my master, for he is the Lordes annoynted. And moreover my father: beholde, and se yet the lappe of thy garment in my hande, in as moche as I kylled the not, when I cut of the lap of thy garment. Vnderstande therfore and se, that there is neyther euill nor wyckednesse in me, and þe I haue not synned agaynst the. And yet thou huntest after my soule to take it. The Lord be iudge betwene the and me, and the Lord auenge me of the. But myne hande be not vpon the. Accordyng as the olde prouerbe sayth: wyckednesse procede from the wycked. But myne hande be not vpon the. After whome is the kynge of Israel come oute? And whome doest thou more persecute? after a deed dogge, and after a kye? The Lord be Judge, and Judge betwene the and me, and se, and please my cause, and auenge me of thyne hande.

When David had made an ende of speakynge these wordes to Saul, Saul sayd: * is this thy voyce my sonne David? and Saul lyfte vphys voyce, and wepte, and sayde to David: thou art ryghtousler then I, for thou hast rewarded me with good, where as I haue rewarded the with euill. And thou hast shewed this day, how that thou hast dealt lounynge with me, for as moche as when the Lord had locked me in thyne handes, thou kylledst me not. For who shall fynde his enemy, and let hym depart into a good way? Wherefore the Lord rewardes the with good for that thou hast done vnto me this day. And now beholde, I wot well that thou shalt be kynge, and that the kyngdom of Israel shalbe stablished in thyne hande.

Swear now therfore vnto me by the Lord that thou shalt not destroye my seede after me, and that thou shalt not put my name out of my fathers house. And David sware vnto Saul: and Saul went home. But David and his men gat them vp vnto an holde.

The. xxi. Chapter.
Samuel dyeth. David flyeth into the wyld-derneſſe of Pharan.

And Samuel dyed, and all the Iſraelites gathered together, and lamented hym, and buried him in his owne houſe at Rama.
And David aroſe and gat hym to the wylderneſſe of Pharan. ther was a man in Maon whoſe poſſeſſiō was in Carmel, and the man was exceþyng myghty
e had thre thouſaþe ſhepe, e a thouſand gootes.
And he was ſherpyng his ſhepe in Carmel.

The name of the man was Nabal, and the name of his wyfe was Abigail, and ſhe was a woman of ſpynguler wyſedome, and beautiful.
But the man was churlyſh, and of grende conditions, and was of the kynred of Caleb. And David herd in the wilderneſſe þ Nabal did ſherpyſhepe. And David ſent oute ten pongemen and ſaid vnto them: Get you vp to Carmel and go to Nabal, and grete him in my name. And thus ſhal ye ſaye: peace be to the, peace be to thy houſe, and peace be vnto all that thou haſt. Be-holde, I haue herde ſaye, that thou haſt ſherers.
Now thy ſheperdes were with vs. <sup>(in the wyld-derneſſe)</sup> and we dyd them no ſpyte, neither was there ought ^(of the flocke) myſſyng vnto them al
the whyle they were in Carmel: aſke thy laddes and they wyl ſhewe þ. Wherefoze let theſe pong-men ſynde fauour in thyne eyes (foz we come in a good ſeaſon) and gyue I praye the, what ſo euer cometh to thyne hande vnto thy ſeruauntes, and to thy ſonne David.

And when Davids younge men came, they tolde Nabal al thoſe wordes in the name of Da-uid, e then helde they: peace. And Nabal anſwe-red Davids ſeruautes, e ſayd: what is David?
and what is the ſonne of Iſai? there is plentye of ſeruautes nowe a dayes, that breake away euery mā from his maſter. ſhal I then take my byred, my water e my fleſhe that I haue kyll-ed foz my ſherers, e gyue it vnto me whom I wot not whence they be? And ſo Davids ſeruautes turned they: way, and went agayne, and came and tolde hym all thoſe thynges. And David ſayd vnto his men: gyrd euey man his ſwerde about him. And they girded euey mā his ſwerd aboute hym: and David was gyrded with his ſwerde. And there folowed David vpo a foure hundred men, and two hundred abode by the ſtuffe. But one of the laddes tolde Abigail Nabals wyfe, ſayinge: Beholde, David ſent meſſengers vnto our maſter out of the wylderneſſe to ſalute hym, and he rayled on them. And yet þ men are very good vnto vs, and dyd vs no diſpleaſure, neyther myſſed we any thyng as longe as we were conuerſaunte with them, when we were in the feldeſ. They were a wall of defence vnto vs both by nyght and daye, all the whyle we were with them keepyng ſhepe: Nowe ther-foze take hede, and ſe what thou haſt to doo, foz there is an occaſion of euill gyuen agaynſt our maſter and al his houſholde, ſeing he is a ſonne of Belial vngacious to ſpeake to. Then Abigail made haſte, and toke two hundred lounes, e two bottels of wyne, and ſyue ſhepe redy dreſſed, and ſyue meaſures of parched cozne, and an hundred cluſters of reſpynges, and two hundred weight of ſygges, and laded them on aſſes, and ſayd vnto her pongemen: go ye befoze me. Be-holde, I come after you. But ſhe tolde her huſbande Nabal nothyng therof. And as ſhe rode on her aſſe, ſhe came pryncely downe the ſyde of the hyll, and beholde, David and his men came downe agaynſt her, and ſhe met them.

And David ſayde: in vayne haue I kepte all that this ſelowe hath in the wilderneſſe, ſo that nought was myſſed of all that perteyned vnto hym. And he hath quit me euyl foz good. So do God vnto the enemyes of David, if I leue of all that perteyneth to hym, by the dawninge of the daye, any thyng that pyſteth agaynſt the
wal. And when Abigail ſaw David, ſhe haſted and lyghted of her aſſe, and fel befoze David on her face, e bowed her ſelfe to the grounde, e fell at his fete, and ſayd: Let this vnhappye dede be counted myne, my lord, e let thyne hādmayde ſpeake in thyne audience, and heare the word of thyne handmayde. Let not my lord ^(the kyng) regarde this vntuſtytie man Nabal: foz as þys name is, ſo is he: Nabal is his name, and folpis with hym. But I thyne handmayde ſawe n of the pongemen of my lord whom thou ſenteſt.
Now therfoze my lord, as ſure as the Lord lyueth, e as thy ſoule lyueth, the Lord hath with-holden the from cōmyng to ſhede bloode, e withdraue thou thyne hand from bloodſhed. Nowe I praye God, that thyne enemyes e they that in-tende to do my lord euill, maye be as Nabal.
And now this is the bleſſyng which thyne hād-mayde hath brought vnto my lord, e let it be gyuen vnto the pongemen, that folowe my lord.
Forgyue the treſpaſſe of thyne handmayde, foz the Lord wyl make my lord a ſure houſe, bycauſe my lord fighteth the battayles of þ Lord and there coulde none euill be founde in the, in all the dayes. And yf any man ryle to perſecute the, and to ſeke thy ſoule, the ſoule of my lord ſhal be bounde as in the bondell of the lyuyng to the Lord thy God. And the ſoules of thyne ene-myes ſhal God caſt out, euē as out of the myde of a ſpyng. And when the Lord ſhal haue done to my lord al the good þ he hath promyſed the,
and ſhal haue made the ruler ouer Iſrael: then ſhal it be no decaye vnto the, nor diſcourage of herte vnto my lord, that thou haſt not ſhede bloode cauſeleſſe, nor auenged thy ſelfe.

But when the Lord ſhal haue dealt wel to my lord, then thyne oñ thyne handmayde.
And David ſaid to Abigail bleſſed be the Lord God of Iſrael, whych ſent the this daye to mete me. Bleſſed is thy ſayinge, and bleſſed arte thou, whiche haſt kept me this daye from commyng to ſhede bloode, and from auengyng my ſelfe with myne owne hande. For in very dede, as ſure as the Lord God of Iſrael lineth, which hath kept me backe from hurtynge the, excepte thou haſdeſt haſted and met me, thyneſt thou, there had ben left vnto Nabal by the dawninge of the

of the daie, a pyller agaynst the wall: And so Dauid receyued of her hand that which she had brought hym, and sayde to her: goo vp in peace to thyne house. Beholde, I haue herd thy voyce and haue accepted thy person.

E And Abigail came to Nabal: and beholde he helde a feast in his house, lyke the feast of a king and Nabals hert was mery wythin hym, for he was very dronken. Wherefore she tolde hym nothyng, neyther lesse nor more, vntyll the morowe daie. But in the mornynge whē the wyne was goone oute of Nabal, his wyfe tolde hym those wordes, and his herte dyed wythin hym, & he became as a stone. And vpon a ten dayes after, the Lorde smote Nabal, that he dyed. And when Dauid hearde, that Nabal was dead, he sayd: Blessed be the Lorde that hath iudged the cause of my rebuke of the hande of Nabal, and hath kept his seruauit from euill, and hath recompensed the wickednes of Nabal, vpon his owne heed. And Dauid sente to comune wyth Abigail: to thynkēt to take her to his wyfe. And when the seruantes of Dauid were come to Abigail to Carmel they spake vnto her saying: Dauid sent vs to the, to take y^e to his wife. And she arose, & bowed her selfe on her face to the earth, and sayd: beholde, let thy hand mayde be a seruauit, to wash y^e feet of the seruantes of my lord. And Abigail hasted, and arose, and gat her vpon an asse, wyth fyue damasels of hers, that went at her feet, and she went after the messengers of Dauid, and became his wife. Dauid also toke Abinoā of Jezrael, and they were both his wyues. But Saul gaue Michol his daughter Dauids wyfe, to Phalti the sonne of Laïs, whiche was of Gallim.

ll. reg. xxvi. d

The ziphites came vnto Saul to Gibeā, saying: * Doth not Dauid hyde hym selfe in y^e hil of Achila which is before Jeshimon? Saul arose, and wente downe to the wyldernesse of ziph, hauyng thre thousande chosē men of Israel wyth hym for to seke Dauid, in the wyldernesse of ziph. And Saul pitched in the hyl of Achila which lyeth before Jeshimon by the wayes syde: But Dauid dwelt in the wildernesse. And he sawe that Saul came after him into the wil- dernesse. Dauid therfore sent out spyes, and vnderstode, that Saul was come in very dede.

And Dauid arose & came to the place where Saul had pytched, and Dauid beheld the place where Saul laye, and Abner the sonne of Ner which was his chiefe captayne. Saul lay wythin, and the people & the host round about hym. The answered Dauid, and spake to Ahimelech the Hethite, and to Abisai the sonne of Zaruia & brother to Joab, sayinge: Who wyll go downe with me to Saul to the host? And Abisai sayde I wyll go downe with the.

B And so Dauid and Abisai came downe to y^e people by nyght. And beholde, Saul laye slepyng wyth his host, and his speare sticke in the ground at his heed. But Abner and the people lay rounde about hym. Then said Abisai to Dauid, God hath deliuered thyne enemye into thyne hande this daie. Nowe therfore, let me smite hym ones with my speare to the erth, and I wyll not smyte hym the seconde tyme. And Dauid sayde to Abisai, destroye hym not. For who can laye his hande on the Lordes annointed, and be gyltlesse? And Dauid sayde further more: as sure as the lorde lyueth: y^e Lorde shall smyte hym or bys daie shall come to dye: or he shall descende into battayle, and there perishe.

The Lorde kepe me from laying myne hand vpon y^e Lordes annointed. But take thou nowe the speare that is at his head, & the cruse of water, & let vs go. And so Dauid toke the speare & the cruse of water from Sauls heed, & they gat them awaye, and noman sawe it, or marked it, or awaked. For they were al a slepe, bycause y^e Lorde had sent a dead slepe vpon them. Then Dauid went ouer into the other syde, and stode on the toppe of an hyl a far of (a great space being betwene them) and Dauid cried to the people, and to Abner the sonne of Ner, saying: hearest thou not Abner? Abner answered and said: What arte thou that cryest to the kynge? And Dauid sayd to Abner: art not thou a mā? & who is lyke the in Israel? Wherefore then haste thou not kept thy lord the kynge? For there came one of the folke in to destroy the kynge thy lord. It is not good that y^e hast done. As truly as y^e lord lyueth, * ye are worthy to dye, bycause ye haue not kepte youre master the Lordes annointed. And now se where the kynges speare is, & the cruse of water that was at his head.

And Saul knewe Dauids voyce, and sayde: * is this thy voyce my sonne Dauid? & Dauid sayd: it is my voyce, my lord, O kynge. And he sayd: wherfore doth my lord thus persecute his seruauit? for what haue I done? or what euyl is in myne hande? Nowe therfore let my lord the kynge heare the wordes of his seruauit. If the Lorde haue styred the vp agaynst me, let him smel the sauour of a sacrifice. But and yf they be the children of men, cursed be they before the Lorde. For they haue cast me out this daie fro abydynge in the enheritaunce of the Lord, saying: hence: and go serue other goddes. Nowe therfore let not my bloode fall to the earth before y^e face of the Lord. For the king of Israel is come out to hunt a flye, as when one doth hunt a partryge in the mountaynes. Then sayde Saul: I haue synned: come agayne my sonne Dauid, for I wyll do the nomore harme, bycause my soule was precious in thyne eyes this daie. Behold, I haue played the foole, & haue erred exceedingly. And Dauid answered, and sayde: Beholde the kynges speare, let one of y^e yongmen come ouer and fet it. The Lorde rewarde euery man accordyng to hys ryghteousnesse and sayd: for the Lorde deliuered the in to my handes this daie, but I wolde not laye myne hande vpon y^e Lordes annointed. And beholde, lyke as thy lyfe was moche set by thys daie in myne eyes: so be my lyfe set by in the eyes of the Lord, that he deliuer me lyner me oute of all tribulation. Then Saul sayde to David: Blessed art thou my sonne David for thou shalt be a doer, and preuayle.

And so David went his way, and Saul turned to his place agayne.

The. xxvii. Chapter.

David flyeth to Achis kyng of Geth.

And David sayd in his hert: I shall perperch one daye or other, by the hande of Saul. Therfore is there nothyng better for me then to flye and saue my selfe, in the land of the Philistines, and Saul shall cease, and seke me nomore in all the coastes of Israel, and so shall I escape oute of his hande.

And David arose, and he and the syre hundred men that were with hym went vnto Achis the sonne of Maach, kyng of Geth. And David dwelt with Achis at Geth, both he and his men euery man with his household, and David with his two wyues: Abinoam the Jezrahelite, and Abigail Nabals wyfe of Carmel.

And it was told Saul that David was fled to Geth, and he sought nomore for hym. And David sayd vnto Achis: If I haue now found grace in thyne eyes, let them gyue me a place in some towne in the feldest, & I may dwell there. For why shoulde thy seruauent dwel in the heed cylie of the kyngdome with the? Then Achis gaue him zikleg that same day, for which cause zikleg perteyneth vnto the kynges of Iuda vnto this day. And the tyme that David dwelt in the countrey of the Philistines, was four moonyethes and certayne dayes. And David and his men went vp, and ranne vpon the Gethurites, & Gerzites and the Amalekites: For those nations were from the begynning the inhabitours of the land, as men go to Sur, vnto the layd of Egypt. And David smote the land, and left neither man nor woman alpyue, and droue awaye the shepe, the oxen, the asses, camels, and clothes, and returned & came to Achis. And Achis sayd where haue ye bene a rounge this daye? And David answered: Towarde the south of Iuda, and towarde the south of the Jerachmelites, & towarde the southe of the Kenites. And David saued neither mā nor woman alpyue, nor suffered them to come to Geth, for feare (sayeth he) lest they shulde tel on vs, saying: so dyd David and so wyl be his maner al the while he dwelleth in the countrey of the Philistines: And Achis beleued David, saying: he abhoyreth his people of Israel, & therfore he shalbe my seruauent for euer.

The. xxviii. Chapter.

The Philistines moue warre agaynst Saul which sekerth after an enchaunter.

And it chaunced in those dayes, & the Philistines gathered theyr hoost together to war, to fyght with Israel. And Achis sayd to David: Be sure, thou shalt go out with me to the battayle, thou and the men that are with the. And David said to Achis: then thou shalt knowe what thy seruauent can do. And Achis sayde agayne to David: Then I wyl make the keeper of my bed for euer. * Samuel was then dead, and all Israel had lamented hym, and buried hym in Rama his owne cylie. * And Saul had put the womē that had spyrites of prophecy, & the sothsayers out of the lande. And the Philistines gathered together, and came, and pitched in Sumē: And Saul gathered al Israel togyther, and they pitched in Gilboa: And when Saul sawe the hoste of the Philistines, he was afrayed, and his hert was sore astonyed. And when Saul asked counsaile of the Lord, the Lord answered hym not, neither by dreames nor by Urim, nor yet by prophetes. Then sayd Saul vnto his seruantes: seke me a woman that hath a spyrite of prophecy, that I may go to her, & aske of her. And his seruantes sayd to hym: Behold, there is a woman that hath a spyrite of prophecy at Endor.

And Saul chaunged hym selfe, and put on other rayment, and then went he and two women with him, and they came to the womā by night. And he sayd: prophecy vnto me by the spyrite, and byngge me hym by whom I shall name vnto the. And the womā sayd vnto hym: Behold, thou knowest what Saul hath doone, howe he hath destroyed the women that had prophecyng spyrites, & the sozcerers out of the lande. Wherfore then sekest thou an occasion agaynst my soule, that he may kil me? And Saul sware to her by the Lord, saying: As surely as I lord lyueth, there shal no harme chaunce the for this thyng. Then sayd the womā: whome shal I fet vp vnto the? he answered: Byngge me vp Samuel. Whē the womā sawe Samuel, she cryed with a loude voyce, and spake to Saul: saying why hast thou disceyued me? for thou art Saul. And the kyng sayde vnto her: be not afrayed. What seest thou? The womā sayd vnto Saul: I se goddes ascendynge vp out of the earth. he sayde vnto her agayne: what fashion is he of? She answered, there cometh vp an olde man w a mantel vpon hym. And Saul perceyued that it was Samuel, & he stouped with his face to the ground, and bowed hym selfe. And Samuel sayd to Saul: why hast thou disquyeted me, to make me be brought vp? Saul answered: I am sore encombred. For the Philistines make war agaynst me, & God is departed from me, and answereth me nomore, neyther by prophetes neyther by dreames. And therfore I haue called the, that thou mayest tell me what I shal do. Then sayd Samuel: Wherfore doest thou aske of me, whyle the Lord is gone fro the, and is become thyn enemy? Trulye the Lord hath done for hym selfe, euen as he spake by my hande. * For the Lord hath rent the kyngdome out of thine hande, & gyuen it thy neyghboure David. By cause thou obeydest not the voyce of the Lord, nor executedst his fearce wrath vpon the Amalekites, therfore hath the Lord done thys vnto the this daye. And mozeouer the Lord wyl deliuer Israel wyth the into the handes of the Philistines. * Tomorowe shalt thou and thy sonnes be with me, and the Lord shal gyue the hoosts of Israel into the handes of the Philistines. Then Saul fell strepyght wape flat on the earth as longe as he was, and was sore adread bycause bycause of the woordes of Samuel:

And there was no strengthe in hym, for he had eaten no bread al the dape and the nyght be fore. And the woman came vnto Saul, & sawe that he was sore troubled, and sayde vnto hym: Se thyne handmayde hath obeyed thy voyce, and * haue put my soule in myne hande, & haue berkened vnto thy woordes which thou saydest vnto me: Nowe therfore hearken thou also vnto the voyce of thyne handmayd, and let me set a morsell of bread befoze the, that thou mayest eate and get the strengthe, and then goo on thy iournepe. He refused and sayde: I wyl not eate. But hys seruantes and the woman togyther compelled hym, and he hearkened vnto theyr voyce. And so he arose from the earth, and sate hym on a bedde. The woman had a fat calfe in the house, and she halsted, and kylled it, & tooke floure and kneded it, and dyd bake swete cakes thereof, and brought them befoze Saul and befoze his seruantes. And when they had eaten, they stode vp, and went awaye the same nyght

David goeth with kynge Achis to fyght agaynst Saul.

he Philistynes were gathered togyther wth all theyr armyes vnto Aphec: And the Itraclites pytched in Ain, whiche is in Jezrahel. And the lordes of the Philistynes went forth with the hundzeds and thousandes. But David and his men came behinde with Achis. Then sayde the lordes of the Philistynes: what are yonder Hebrues? Achis layd vnto the lordes of the Philistynes: Is not this David the seruante of Saul the kynge of Israel, whiche hath ben with me these dayes or yeres? I haue founde no fault in hym, syns he fled vnto me vnto this dape. And the lordes of the Philistynes were wroth with hym, and sayde vnto hym.

Make this felowe retorne, that he maye go agayne to his place whiche thou hast appoynted hym, and let hym not go downe with vs to battayle, lest in the battayle he be an aduersarye to vs. For wherwith coude he better obtayne the fauoure of his master, then with the heades of these men? Is not this David, to whome they sange in daunces: * Saul slue his thousand, and David his ten thousande? Then Achis called David, and sayd vnto hym: As sure as I Lozde lyueth, thou hast ben honest & good in my sight, when thou wentest oute and in with me, in the boost, neyther haue I found euill with the syns thou camest to me vnto this dape, neuer theles the lordes of the Philistynes fauoure the not. Wherfore nowe retourne, and go in peace, that thou displease not the lordes of the Philistynes. And David sayd vnto Achis: And what haue I done? what hast thou founde in thy seruant as long as I haue bene with the vnto this day that I maye not go fyght agaynst the enemies of my lozde the kynge?

Achis answered, and sayd to David: I know that thou art good, and art in my syght, as an Angell of God. Notwithstandyng, the lordes of the Philistynes haue sayd: Let hym not go with vs to battayle. Wherfore nowe, ryle vp earlye in the moornyng wth thy masters seruantes that are come to the: and wylt thou be up earlye (as sone as ye haue lyght) departe. And so David and his men rose up earlye to departe in the moornyng, and to retourne into the lande of the Philistynes. And the Philistynes wente vnto Jezrahel.

The. xix. Chapter.

David returnyng from kynge Achis, fyndeth zikleg burnt.

It when David and hys men were come to zikleg the thyrde dape, the Amalechites had rushed in vpon the south, and vpon zikleg, and had smytten zikleg, and burnt it wth fyre, and had taken the women (that were therein) prisoners, both small and great: but slue not a man, saue carped them with them, and wente they wayes. So David and his men came to the cite: and beholde, it was burnt wth fyre, and theyr wyues, theyr sonnes and theyr daughters were carped awaye. Then David and the people that was with hym, lyfte vp theyr voyces and wept, vntyll they could wepe no more. And Davids two wyues were taken prisoners also: Ahinoah the Jezrahelite, & Abigail the wyfe of Nabal y Carmelite. And David was in a shewe de combzaunce: for the people enteded to stone hym, bycause the hertes of al the people were vexed for theyr sonnes & theyr daughters.

But David toke a good courage to hym in the Lozde his God, and * sayd to Abiathar the preste Ahimelechies sonne: I praye the byngme the Eubod. And Abiathar broughte the Eubod to David. And David asked counsaile at the Lozde, sayinge: Shall I folowe after this companie? and shall I ouer take them? And he answered hym: folowe, for thou shalt ouertake them, and recouer the praye.

So David and the syxe hundred men that were wth hym, wente, and came to the ryuer Besor, where a parte of them abode. But David and foure hundred men folowid: For two hundred abode behynde, beyng to weye logo ouer the ryuer Besor. And they founde an Egyptian in the felde, and broughte hym to David, * and gaue hym breade to eate, and water to drynke, and gaue hym a fewe spygges, and two clusters of reysynges. And when he had eaten his spyrite came agayne to hym: for he had eat no bread, nor dronke anye water in thre dayes, and thre nyghtes. And David sayd vnto hym: To whom belongest thou? & whence art thou? he sayde: I am a yonge man of Egypte, and seruant to an Amalechite and my master le. I me behynde, bycause it is thre dayes agene that I fell synke: we came arouynge vpon the south of Chyretus, and agaynst Iuda, and towarde the south of Caleb. And we burnt zikleg wth fyre. And David sayde to hym: canst thou byng me to this companie? And he sayde: I sweare vnto me by me by God, that thou wylt neyther kyl me, nor deliuer me into the handes of my master, and I wyl bringe the to the companie. And when he had brought him thither, beholde, they lay scattered abrode vpon the earth, eatynge and drynkyng, & dauncynge, bycause of the plenteous & great praye they had carped away out of the land of the Philistines, and out of the land of Iuda.

And David layed vpon them from the euen, vntill the twylyght on the morowe: so y there escaped not a man of them, save foure hundred ponge men, whiche rode awaye vpon camels, and fledde. And David recouered all that the Amalekites had carped awaye, and David rescued his two wyues: so that there was no person of them lackynge, small or greete, sonne or doughter, or of the spoyle of al that they had taken awaye: David recouered them all agayne. And David toke all the shepe, and the oxen, and they draue them befoze his cattel, and said: this is Davids praye. And David came to the two hundred men that were to werpe for to followe David, whome they had made also to abyde at the ryuer Besor. And they came to meete David, and the people that were wyth hym. And when David came to the people, he saluted the. Then answered al the wicked and the vnthyfites (of the men that wente wyth David,) and sayde: bycause they went not wyth vs, therefore wyl we gyue them none of the praye, that we haue recouered. But let every man take his wife and hys chyldren: Those let them carpe awaye and be walkynge.

Then sayde David: ye shall not doo so (my brethren) wyth that whych the Lorde hath gyuen vs, and hath preserved vs, and deliuered the companie that came agaynst vs, into oure handes. For who shoulde hearken vnto you in this matter? But as hys parte is that goeth downe and fyghteth, so shall hys parte be that tarpyth by y stuffe, that it may be parted alke. And so from that day for ward was that made a statute and a lawe in Israel, vntill this daye. When David therfore came to zikleg, he sente (of the praye) vnto the elders of Iuda, and to his frendes, sayinge: se there is a blessing for you, of the spoyle of the enemies of the Lord he sent to them of Bethel: to them of South Ramoth: to the of Jathir: to them of Aroer: to the of Sephamoth, to them of Esthema, to them of Rachel, to them of the ctye of Terabmeel, to them of the ctyes of the Reuytes: to the of Bortma, to them of Borsan, to them of Athach, to them that are in Hebron, and in al places where David and hys men were wont to haunte.

The xxxi. Chapter.

Saul kylled hym selfe, and his chyldren are slayne in the battayle.

he Philistines fought agaynst Israel, and the men of Israel fled awaye from the Philistines, and fell downe wounded in mount Gilboa. And the Philistines pleased soze vpon Saul and his sonne, and slue Jonathan, and Abinadab and Melchisua Saules sonnes. And when the battayl wet soze agaynst Saul, the archers with bowes founde him, and he was soze afrayed of the archers. Then sayde Saul vnto his harnesbearer: * drawe out thy sword, and thrust me thorow therewith, lest the vncircumcised come and thrust me thorow and make a mockynge stocke of me. But his harnesbearer wolde not, for he was soze afrayed. And Saul toke a sword and fel vpon it. And when his harnesbearer sawe that Saul was deed, he fel lyke wyse vpon his swerde, and dyed with hym.

And so Saul dyed, and his thre sonnes, and hys harnesbearer, and all hys men, that same daye togyther.

And when the men of Israel that were on the other syde of the valleie, and they of the other syde Jordan herde that the men of Israel were put to flight, and that Saul and his sonnes were deed, they left the ctyes, and ranne awaye: and the Philistines came and dwelte in them. * On the morowe when the Philistines were come, to spoyle them that were slayne, they founde Saul and his thre sonnes lying in mount Gilboa. And they cut of his heed, and strypped hym out of his harnesse, and sent into the lande of the Philistines on every syde, that they shoulde publish it in the temple of theyr ydols, and amonge the people, and they layed vp his harnesse in the house of Ashtaroth, but they hanged vp hys bode on the wall of Bethsan. * When the inhabitours of Jabes in Gilead hearde thereof, what the Philistines hadde done to Saul, they arose (as many as were stronge men) and wet at night and toke the bode of Saul, and the bodes of his sonnes, from the wall of Bethsan, and came to Jabes, and burnt them there, and toke theyr bones & buried the under a tree at Jabes, and fasted seuen dayes.

The fyrst Chapter.

The lamentation of David for Saul and Jonathas.

leg. xix. f.

After the deth of Saul, whē David was returned frō the slaughter of þe Amalekites & had ben two dayes in zikleg. Behold, ther came a mā the thyrde day out of þe wood frō Saul, wryth hys clothes rent, & earth vpon his heed.

And whē he came to David, he fell to the earth, and did obey sauer. David said vnto him: whēce comest thou? he sayd vnto hym: Out of the host of Israel I am escaped. And David sayd vnto hym: And what is chaunced? tell me. He sayde: the people is fled from the battayle, and manye of the people are ouerthrowen, and deed, and Saul and Jonathas his sonne are deed also.

And David sayde vnto the ponge man, that tolde hym these tydynges: howe knowest thou that Saul and Jonathas hys sonne be deed?

The ponge man þe told hym answerd: I came by chaunce to mount Gilboa. And behold, Saul leaned vpon his speare. For the charrettes and cōpanyes of horsmen folowed harde after him: And whē he looked backe he sawe me, and called me. And I answered: here am I. And he said vnto me: what art thou? I answered him: I am an Amalekite. He sayde vnto me agayne: Stande vpon me, and slaye me. For angurys he is come vpon me, thoughde my lyfe be yet all in me. And so I rode vpon hym, and slewe hym, for I was sure that he coulde not lyue, after that he had fallen. And I toke the crowne that was vpon hys heed, and the bracelets that was on his arme and haue brought them hither vnto my lord.

ii. reg. xix. f. v. xiii. f.

Then David toke holde on his clothes, & rent them and so dyd al the men that were with hym. And they mourned and wepte, and fasted vntyll euen, for Saul and Jonathas his sonne, and for the people of the Lord, and for the house of Israel, bycause they were ouerthrowen with the swerde.

And David sayde vnto the ponge man that brought him these tydynges. Whēce arte thou? And he answered: I am the sonne of an aleant an Amalekite. And David said vnto him: howe is it that thou wast not afrayed, to laye thynne hande on the Lordes anoynted, to destroy him?

And David called one of his ponge men, & sayd: Go to, and runne vpon hym. And he smote hym that he dyed. Then sayd David vnto hym: thy bloode be vpon thynne owne heed. * For thynne owne mouth hath testified agaynst the, saying: I haue slayne the Lordes anoynted.

And David mourned with this lamentation ouer Saul and ouer Jonathas his sonne, & bad teache the children of Israel the vse of the dore. And beholde, it is wrytten in the booke of the ryghteous. (And he sayd: Confyde, O Israel, whē thou be deed and wounded vpon the hye hylls.) O noble Israel the wounded are slayne vpon the hylls: O, howe are the myghtye ouerthrowen? * Tell it not in Gath, nor publyshe it in the stretes of Akalon: lest the daughters of the Philistines reioyse, and lest the daughters of the vncircumcised triumph. Ye mountaynes of Gilboa, vpon you beneyther de we noz rayne, noz vpon the fel des of offrynges. For there the byld of þe myghtie is cast downe: the shilde of Saul, as though he had not ben anoynted with oyle. * The bowe of Jonathas and the swerde of Saul turned neuer backe agayne emptye, from the blood of the slayne, and frō þe fat of the myghtye warriors.

Saul and Jonathas were louelye and pleasant in theyr lyues, and in theyr deathtes they were not deuyded. They were swifter then Eagles, and stronger then Lyons: ye daughters of Israel wepe ouer Saul, whych he clothed you in purple, with pleasures, and hanged vnto you of golde vpon your apparel. howe were þe myghty slayne in battayle? Jonathas is deed on the hye hylls. Who is me for the (my brother Jonathas) verye kynde hast thou ben vnto me. Thy loue to me was wondrefull, passyng the loue of women. (As a mother loued her onely chyld, euen so I loue the.) O howe are the myghtye ouerthrowen, and the weapons of warre destroyed?

The ii. Chapter

David is anoynted in Hebron. The battayle at the seruantes of David and Achish.

After this it fortuneth, that David asked counsaile at the Lord, saying: Shall I go vnto any of the cyties of Iudar? And the Lord sayde vnto hym: goo. And David sayde agayne: Whither shall I go? He answered: vnto Hebron. And so David went thither with his two wyues, Abinoam the Iessababean, and Abigail Gabaons wyfe the Carmelitan. And the men that were with hym, dyd David carry vnto also, euery man with hys household. And they dwelte in the towne of Hebron. And the men of Iuda came, and there they anoynted David kyng ouer the house of Iuda. And they tolde David, saying: It is the men of Iabesin Gilead that buried Saul. And David sent messengers vnto the men of Iabesin Gilead, and sayde vnto them: blessed are ye vnto the Lord, that ye haue shewed suche kyndnesse vnto your lord Saul, and haue buried hym. And now the Lord shewe mercy and truthe vnto you. And I wyll do you also suche kyndnesse as ye haue done in this thyng: Therfore now let your your handes be stronge, and playe ye the men: For your master Saul is deed. And they that are of the house of Juda haue anointed me kyng ouer them. But Abner the sonne of Ner was captaine of Saules host toke Ithobal the son of Saul, and brought hym to Mahanaim, and made hym kyng ouer Gilead, and ouer the Assurites, and ouer Issrahel, Ephraim, Beniamin, and ouer all Israel. And Ithobal Saules sonne was fourty yere olde when he began to raygne ouer Israel, and reigned two yere. But the house of Juda folowed Dauid. * And the tyme which Dauid raygned in Hebron ouer the house of Juda was seuen yere and syxe monethes. And Abner the sonne of Ner, and the seruantes of Ithobal the sonne of Saul went out of Mahanaim, to Gibeon. And Joab the sonne of Zaria, and the seruantes of Dauid went out, and met them by the poole of Gibeon. And they late downe, the one on the one syde of the poole, and the other on the other syde. And Abner sayde to Joab: let the yonge men arple, and playe before vs. And Joab sayd: Let them arple. Then there arose and wente ouer, twelue of Beniamin by nombre, which pertayned to Ithobal the sonne of Saul, and twelue of the seruantes of Dauid. And euery one caught his felowe (that cam agaynst him) by the heed, and thrust his swerde in his syde, and so they fell downe togyther. Wherefore the place was called: The felde of the myghtye. And it is in Gibeon. And there began an excedyng cruel battayle that same daye. For Abner and the men of Israel fell before the seruantes of Dauid.

And there were thre sonnes of Zaria there: Joab, Abisai, and Asahel. And Asahel was as lyght on foote as a wynde roo, and Asahel folowed after Abner, and * tourned neyther to the ryght hande nor to the lefte, from Abner: Then Abner looked behynde hym, and sayde: arte thou Asahel? he answered: yea, that I am. Abner sayde: turne the eyther to the ryght hande or to the lefte, and cathe one of the yonge men, & take the his weapons. But Asahel wolde not depart from hym. And Abner sayde agayne to Asahel: departe fro me. Wherefore shulde I smyte the to the grounde, and not be hable to holde vp my face to Joab thy brother? Howebeit, when he wolde in nowyle departe, Abner with the hyn-dre ende of the speare smote hym vnder * the horte rybbes: that the speare came out behynde hym: that he fell downe in the same place, and dyed there. And as manye as came to the place where Asahel fell downe and dyed, stode still. Joab also and Abisai folowed Abner. And the sunne went downe, whan they wer come to the hyl Anna that lyeth before Giah, by the waye that goeth thowowe the wyldernes of Gibeon. And the chyldren of Beniamin gathered them selues togyther on an heape, to Abner, and stode on the toppe of an hyl. Then Abner called to Joab, and sayde: shal the swerde deuoure styl for euer? Knowest thou not, that it wyl be bytter-nesse in the latter ende: howe longe shall it be, or thou bydde the people retorne from folowynge they brethren? And Joab sayde: as trulpe as God lyueth, yf thou haddest not spoken in the morning, the people had ben departed euery one from persecutynge his brother. And so * Joab ^{ii. reg. xix.} blew a trompet, and all the people stode still, & pursued after Israel nomore, neyther fought they any more. And Abner and his men walked all that nyght thowowe the playne: and went ouer Jordan, and past thowowe al Bethoron tyll they came to Mahanaim.

And Joab returned from persecutynge Abner. And when he had gathered all the people togyther, there lacked of Dauids seruantes, nyntene men, and Asahel. But the seruantes of Dauid had slayn of Beniamin, and of Abners men, thre hundred and threescore men. And they toke vp Asahel, and buryed him in the sepulchre of his father in Bethlehem. And Joab and his men went all nyght, vntyl the dawning of the daye, and came to Hebron.

The. iii. Chapter.

Abner cometh to Dauid, and bringeth hym his wyfe Michol. Joab killeth Abner.

There was longe warre betwene the house of Saul and the house of Dauid. But Dauid waxed stronger and stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker and weaker. * And vnto Dauid ^{ii. para. iiii.} were * (syr) chyldren borne in Hebron: his eldest sonne also was Ammon, of Abinoam the Jezrahelite: the seconde Cheleab of Abigail the wyfe of Nabal the Carmelite: the thyrde Absalom, the sonne of Maachab the doughter of Thalmay, the kyng of Gessur: the fourth Adonia the sonne of Hagith, the fyfth, Sephatia the sonne of Abital: the syxth, Iethream, by Eglia Dauids wyfe. These were borne to Dauid in Hebron. And it fortuneth, that whyle there was warre betwene the house of Saul and the house of Dauid, Abner helde vp the house of Saul. And Saul had a concubine named Risha, the doughter of Ahia. And Ithobal sayd to Abner: Wherefore hast thou gone into my fathers concubine? Then was Abner verpe wroth for the wordes of Ithobal, & sayd: Am I not a * dogges heed, ^{i. reg. xviii.} which agaynst Juda do the we merce this day vnto the house of Saul thy father, and to his brethren and frendes, and haue not deliuered the into the hande of Dauid? and thou fyndest a fault in me this daye for this womā? * So and ^{ii. reg. i.} so do God to Abner. For as the Lorde bathe swoyne to Dauid, so wyl I be on his syde, to bringe the kyngdome from the house of Saul, that the throne of Dauid maye be stablyshed ouer Israel, and ouer Juda, euen from Dan to Bersaba. And he coulde gyue Abner neuer a worde to answere, because he feared hym.

And Abner sent messengers to Dauid secretly, sayinge: Whose is the lande? Make a bonde with me, and beholde, myne hande is with the, to bringe all Israel vnto the. He sayde: It is good, that I make a bonde with the. But one thyng I requyre of the, that thou se not my face except thou fyrt bringe Michol Saules doughter when thou comest to se me.

And

W And David sent messengers to Ishboeth Saul's sonne, saying: *delyuer me my wyfe Michol which I maryed with an hundred foreskynnes of the Philistines. And Ishboeth sent, and toke her from her husbände * Baishiel the sonne of Laish. And her husbände wente wyth her, and came wepyng behynde her, tyl they came to Babilon. Then sayd Abner vnto hym: go and retorne. And he returned. And Abner had comunicacyon with the elders of Israel, sayinge: ye sought for David in tymes past, that he myght be your kynge. Nowe then do it: for the Lorde hath sayde of David: By the hande of my seruauant David I wyll saue my people Israel out of the handes of the Philistines, and oute of the hande of all theyr enemyes. And Abner spake in the eares of Ben Jamin, and went to tell in the eares of David in Hebron, all that Israel was content with, and the whole house of Ben Jamin. And so Abner came to David to Hebron, hauynge twenty men wyth hym, and David made hym and the men that were wyth hym a feast. And Abner sayd vnto David: I wyll by, and go gather al Israel vnto my lord & kynge, that they maye make an appoyntement wyth the: and that thou mayeste commaunde all, as thyne herte delyreth. And when David had let Abner departe, he went in peace.

E And beholde, the seruantes of David and Joab came fro chasing the robbers, & brought a great pray wth them. But Abner was not w David in Hebron: for he had sent hym away to departe in peace. When Joab and all the hooft that was with him were come, men tolde Joab saying: Abner the sonne of Ner came to y kynge, and he hath sent hym awaye, that he is gone in peace. Then Joab came to the kynge, and sayde: what hast thou done? Beholde, Abner came vnto the, & why hast thou sent hym awaye, that he shulde escape quyte? Thou knowest Abner the sonne of Ner, for he came to disceyue the, and to knowe thy outgoing & ingoinge, and to knowe al y thou doest. And when Joab was come oute fro David, he let messengers after Abner, which brought him agayne from y well of Siria vnknowynge to David. And when Abner was come agayne to Hebron, Joab toke him asyde in the gate * to speake with hym secretlye, & smote hym vnder the throte rybbes, y he dyed: for the bloode of Asahel his brother. And when afterwarde it came to Davids eare, he sayde: I & my kyngdom are gyltlesse before the Lord for ever, cōcerning the bloode of Abner the sonne of Ner. Let the bloode remayne on y heed of Joab, & on all his fathers house, y the house of Joab be neuer without one or other y hath runnyng issues or lepre, and y leaneth on a staffe, and y doth fall on y swerde, & lacketh breed. And the cause why Joab and Abisai slue Abner, was, that Abner had * slayne theyr brother Asahel at Gibeon in battayle: And David sayde to Joab, and to all the people that were with hym. * Rent poure clothes, and put on sackecloth, and mourne before Abner. And kynge David hym selfe followed the corse. And when they buryed Abner in Hebron, the kynge lyft vp his voyce, and wepte besyde the sepulchre of Abner, and so dyd all the people. And the kynge lamented ouer Abner, and sayd: dyed Abner as a foole dyeth: thy handes were not bounde, nor thy fete brought into cheynes: but as a mā falleth before wycked children, so doest thou fall. And all they that were of the people wept yet more ouer hym.

And when all the people came to eate meate w David whyle it was yet day, David swaie, sayig: So and so do God to me, yf I tast bread, or ought els tyl the sunne be downe. And the people wyfte it, and it pleased them. And whatsoener the kynge dyd, it pleased al the people. For all the people and all Israel vnderstoode, that daye, how that it was not the kinges dede that Abner the sonne of Ner was slayne. And the kynge sayd vnto his seruantes: knowe ye not, how that there is a lorde and a greates man falle this day in Israel? And I am this day tender & anoynted kynge. And these men the sonnes of zarnia be to hard for me. The Lorde rewarde the doer of euyl accordynge to his wyckednesse.

The. iiii. Chapter

Baanah and Rechab slay Ishboeth the sonne of Saul.

When Sauls sonne hearde that Abner was deed in Hebron, bys handes were feble, and all the Israelytes were afrayed, and Sauls sonne had two men that were capitaynes ouer the souldyers: the one called Baanah, and the other Rechab, the sonnes of Rimmon a Berothite of the chyldren of Ben Jamin: for Beroth was reckened to Ben Jamin. And these Berothites fled to Githai, and sojourned there, vntyll the same tyme. * And Jonathas Sauls sonne had a sonne that was lame on bys fete. And he was fyue yere olde when the tydynge came of Saul and Jonathas out of Israel. And his nurse toke hym vp, and fledde awaye. And as she made haste to fflye, the chyld fell, and began to halt, and his name was Gypsihoeth. And the sonnes of Rimmon the Berothite, Rechab and Baanah went, and came in the heate of the daye to the house of Ishboeth, which slept on a bed at noone. * (And the woman that was the keeper of the doore, and clenched the wheate, was asleape.) And they came into the myddes of the house as though they wolde haue fetched wheate, and Rechab and Baanah bys brother smote hym vnder the throte rybbes, and fled. For when they came into the house, he slepte on his bed in his resting chamber, and they smote him, and slue him, and beheaded hym, and toke his heed, and gate them awaye thorowe the playne al y nyght. And they brought the heed of Ishboeth vnto David, to Hebron, and sayde to the kynge: Beholde, there is the heed of Ishboeth Sauls sonne, thyne enemye whych sought after thy lyfe. And the Lord hath auenged my lord the kynge thys daye, of Saul and of his seed.

And David answered Rechab and Baanah y his brother, the sonnes of Rimmon the Berothite, and sayde vnto them: * as surelye as the Lorde lyneith: which hath delyuered my soule out of al aduersities.

aduersities: when one *tolde me, and sayd that Saul was deed, thynkynge to haue broughte good tpynges, I caught hym and slue hym in sikleg: which thought that I wolde haue gyue hym a rewarde for hys tpynges bypnyngge. How moch more whē wycked men haue slayne a ryghtous person, in hys owne house, and vpon his bedde. Shall I not requyre hys bloode of your hande, and take you from the earth? And Dauid commaunded his younge men, and they slue them, and cut of theyr handes and fete, and hanged them vpon ouer the poole in Hebron. But they toke the heed of Abner, and buried it in the sepulchre of Abner in Hebron.

The. v. Chapter.

Dauid is yet agayne anoynted kyng: and taketh the arke from Syon.

Then came all the trybes of Israel * to Dauid vnto Hebron, and sayde: Beholde, we are of thy bone & of thy flesh. And in tyme past whē Saul was our kyng, thou leddest Israel in and oute. And the Lorde hath sayde to the: thou shalt fede my people Israel, and thou shalt be a captayne ouer Israel. And so al the elders of Israel came to the *kyng to Hebron. And kyng Dauid made a cōuenant with them in Hebron before the Lord. And they anoynted Dauid kyng ouer Israel. Dauid was thyrtyre olde when he began to raygne, and he raygned fourtyre pere: In Hebron he raygned ouer Iuda seuen pere, and syxe monethes. And in Ierusalem he raygned thyrtyre and thre yeres ouer all Israel and Iuda.

The kyng also and his men wente to Ierusalem vnto the Jebusites, the inhabitours of y^e lande. Which spake vnto Dauid, sayng: except thou take a waye the blynde and the lame, thou shalt not come in hyther. For they sayde: Thou arte not hable to come in hyther. Neuerthelesse, Dauid toke the stronge hold of Syon. The same is the cytie of Dauid. And Dauid sayd the same day: whosoouer smiteth the Jebusites, and getteth vp to the gutters of the houses and smiteth the lame & blynde y^e hate Dauids soule. * Wherefore, they sayd: the blynde and the lame shal not come into the house. And so Dauid dwelt in the towre, & called it y^e cytie of Dauid, & buylt round about it fro Willo in ward. And Dauid prospered & grewe, & the Lorde God of hostes was wth hym. And Hiram kyng of Tyre sent messēgers to Dauid, & cedartrees, and carpēters, and masons for walles: and they buylt Dauid an house. And Dauid perceyued, that the Lorde had stablished hym kyng ouer Israel, and that he had exalted his kygdom for his people Israels sake. And Dauid toke hym mo concubynes and wyues oute of Ierusalem, after he was come from Hebron, and mo sones and daughters were yet borne to Dauid. * And these be the names of the sones that were borne vnto hym in Ierusalem: Sammua, Sobab, Nathan, and Salomō, Iibbar also, and Elisua, Nepheg, and Iaphia, Elisama, Eliada, and Eliaphalet.

But when y^e Philistines herde that they had anoynted Dauid kyng ouer Israel, they came all vnto seke Dauid. And as soone as Dauid hearde of it, he gate hym to an holde. And when the Philistines came, they layed them alonge in the valley of Raphaim. * And Dauid asked counsaile of the Lorde, sayng: Shall I goo vp to the Philistines: wylt thou delyuer them into myne handes? And the Lorde aunswered vnto Dauid: go vp, for I wyl doubtlesse delyuer the Philistines into thyne handes. And Dauid came to the playne of Berazim, and smote them there, and sayde: the Lorde hath deuyded myne enemyes a sondre before me, as waters be deuyded a sondre. And therfore the name of the place was called: The playne of Berazim. And there they left theyr ymages, & Dauid and hys men toke them vp. And the Philistines cam yet agayne, and layed them selues in the valley of Raphaim. And when Dauid asked at y^e Lorde, * (Shall I go vp agaynst the Philistines: and wylt thou delyuer them into myne handes?) he aunswered: Thou shalt not go vp, but compasse them on the backsyde, and come vpon them ouer agaynst the peretrees. And when thou hearest the noyse of a thyngge going in the toppe of the peretrees, then remoue. For then shall the Lorde go out before the, to smyte the hooft of the Philistines. And Dauid dyd as the Lorde had commaunded hym, and smote the Philistines from Gibeā, vntyll thou come to Gaser.

The. vi. Chapter.

The arke is brought forth of the house of Abinadab. Uza is stryken, and dyeth. Dauid daunceth before it, and is therfore despyled of his wyfe Michol.

Agayne, Dauid gathered togyther all the chosē men of Israel, euen thyrtyre thousande, & arose and went with al the folke that were with him of the men of Iuda to fet away from thence the arke of God, whose name is called the name of the Lorde of hostes, that dwelleth vpon it betwene the cherubims. And they put the arke of God vpon a newe cart, and brought it out * of the house of Abinadab that was at Gibeā. And Uza and Ahio the sonnes of Abinadab draue the new cart. And whē they brought it out of the house of Abinadab y^e was at Gibeā with the arke of God: Ahio went before the arke, and Dauid and all the house of Israel played before the Lord in sondry instrumentes made of Cedre wood, wyth harpes, of psalteryes, tymbrels, fydes, and cymbals.

And when they came to Nachon the threshyng floore, Uza put his hande to the arke of God, & helde it, for the oxen stumbled. And the Lorde was wroth with Uza, and God smote hym in the same place for his fault, and there he dyed before the arke of God: And Dauid was displeased, bycause the Lorde had smytten Uza. And the name of y^e place was called Perez. The rentyng of Uza vntyll this daye. And Dauid was then afrayed of the Lorde, and sayde: how shall the arke of the Lorde come to me? And so Dauid wolde not bypnyge the arke of the Lorde vnto hym into the cytie of Dauid. But Dauid carryed it into the house of Obeth Edom, a Gethypte. And the arke of the Lorde continued in the house of * Obeth Edom the Gethypte, thre monethes.

monethes, and the Lorde blessed Obeth Edom, and all his household. And one tolde kynge David how y^e the Lorde had blessed Obeth Edom & all that pertayned vnto hym, bycause of y^e arke of God, and David went and brought the arke of God from the house of Obeth Edom, into the cytye of David wth gladnesse. ^{And there were in David seven sortes of dauncers, and calves for sacrifice} And when they that bare the arke of the Lorde had gone syre spaces, he offered an oxe, and a fat shepe. And David ^(played on harpe stringes, and) daunced befoze the Lorde wth all hys myght, and was geyded with a lynnyn Ephod. So David and all the house of Israel, brought the arke ^(of the couenaunt) of the Lorde wth shoutynge, and trompet blowynge.

And it fortuneth, that as the arke of the Lorde came into the cytye of David, Michol Sauls daughter looked thowowe a window, and sawe kynge David spyng, and daunce befoze the Lorde, and she despyled hym in her herte. And when they brought in the arke of the Lorde they set it in his place, even in the myddes of y^e tabernacle y^e David had pitched for it. And David offered burnt offrynges & peace offrynges befoze y^e Lorde. And as soone as David had made an end of offrynges burnt offrynges & peace offrynges he blessed the people in the name of y^e Lorde of hostes, and gaue amonge al the folke, eue amonge the hole multitude of Israel, as well to the women as men, to euery one a cake of breed, and a pece of fleshe, and a flacket of drynke. And so al the people departed euery one to his house.

Then David returned to blesse his household, and Michol the daughter of Saul came oute to mete David, and sayde: O howe glorious was the kynge of Israel this daye, which was vncouered todaye, in the eyes of the maydens of hys seruantes, as yf it had bene a lyght brayned fellowe vncouered? And David sayde vnto Michol: I thought to daunce befoze the Lorde, which chose me rather then thy father, and al hys kyn, and comaunded me to be ruler ouer all the people of the Lorde, euen ouer Israel. And therfore wyl I play befoze y^e Lorde. And wyl yet be more vyle then so, and wyl be lowe in myne owne syght, and of the very same maydeseruantes, which thou hast spoken of, shall I be had in honour. Therfore Michol the daughter of Saul had no chylde, vnto the daye of her death.

The. vii. Chapter.

David wolde buylde God an house, but is forbyden of God.

It fortuneth, that as the kynge sate in his house (after y^e the Lorde had gyuen hym rest rounde about fro all his enemyes) he sayd vnto Nathan y^e prophet: behold, I dwel now in an house of Cedar trees: but y^e arke of God dwelleth within y^e curtayne. And Nathan sayd vnto the kynge: go, and do all that is in thyn herte, for the Lorde is wth the.

And it fortuneth the same nyghte, that the worde of the Lorde came vnto Nathan, saying: go, and tell my seruant David, thus sayeth the Lorde: shalt thou buylde me an house to dwell in?

For I haue not dwelt in any house syns y^e tyme that I brought y^e chyldre of Israel out of Egypt vnto this daye: but haue walked in a tent & tabernacle. In all the places wherin I haue walked wth all the chyldren of Israel, spake I one worde wth anye of the trybes of Israel (syns I commaunded the iudges to fede my people Israel) sayinge: why buylde ye not me an house of Cedar trees? Howe therfore so saye vnto my seruant David: thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes. * I toke the from the shepecote (as thou wast folowynge shepe) that thou myghtest be ruler ouer my people Israel. And I was wth the in al that thou wentest to, & haue destroyed all thyn enemyes oute of thy syght, and haue made the a greate name, lyke vnto the name of the greate men that are in the earth. And therfore I wyl appoynte a place for my people Israel, and wyl plant it, that they maye dwell in a place of theyr owne, and moue nomore, neyther shall wycked people trouble them anye more as they dyd at the begynnyng: syns the tyme that I set iudges ouer my people of Israel. And I wyl gyue the rest from all thyn enemyes. And the Lorde tellet the, y^e he wyl make y^e an house.

And when thy dayes be fulfilled, thou shalt slepe wth thy fathers, and I wyl sette vp thy seed after the, which shall procede out of thy body, and wyl stablysh hys kynngdome. * He shall buylde an house for my name, and I wyl stablysh the seate of his kynngdome for euer: & I wyl be his father, and he shall be my sonne: * yf he synne I wyl chasten hym wth suche a rodde as men be chastened wth, and wth suche plagis as the chyldren of men be plagued wth. But my mercy shall not departe awaye from him, as I toke it fro Saul, whom I put downe befoze the. And thyn house and thy kynngdome shall endure wth out ende after the, * and thy seate shall be stablished for euer. Accordynge to all these wordes, and accordynge to all this vpsion, dyd Nathan speake vnto David. Then wente David in, and set hym downe befoze the Lorde, and sayd: what am I, O lorde God? and what is my house: that thou shouldest haue brought me this far forth. And this was yet a small thyng in thy syght, O Lorde God, but thou hast spoken also of my seruantes house for a greate whyle to come: For this is the vse of man, O Lorde God. And what can David saye more vnto the: for thou, Lorde God knowest thy seruant. Euen for thy wordes sake, and accordynge to thyn owne hart hast thou done all these great thynges, to make them knowen vnto thy seruant.

Wherfore thou art greate, O Lorde God: for there is none lyke the: * neither is there any god saue thou, accordynge to all that we haue heard wth our eares. * And what one people in y^e erth is like thy people Israel? whose God went & deliuered them, y^e they myght be his people, and y^e demyght make hym a name, & to shewe great & terrible thynges in y^e erth, for thy people: which thou redemest to the out of Egypt: euen the people wth theyr goddes. For thou hast ordeyned thy people Israel to be thy people for euer.

And thou Lord arte become they? God. And now (Lord God) the worde that thou hast spoken concernynge thy seruaunte and hys house, make it good for ever, and do as thou hast sayd. For so shall thy name be magnified for ever of men that shall say: the Lord of hostes is the God of Israel: and the house of thy seruaunte shall be stablished before the. For thou O Lord of hostes God of Israel, haste tolde in the eare of thy seruaunte, sayinge: I will buyde the an house.

And therfore hath thy seruaunte founde in hys hert, to pray this prayer vnto the. * Therfore now Lord God, thou art God, & thy wordes must be true, that thou hast tolde this goodnesse vnto thy seruaunt. And now go to & blesse the house of thy seruaunt, that it maye continue for ever before the, for thou Lord God hast spoken it: and wth thy blessing shall the house of thy seruaunt be blessed for ever.

The. viii. Chapter

David ouercometh the Philistines.

After this it fortuneth, & David smote the Philistines, & subdued them, & toke the bydle of bondage out of y^e hande of the Philistines. * And he smote y^e Moabites, & measured th^e wth a lyne, & cast them downe to the ground. Eu^e wth two lynes measured he them wh^o he slue, and y^e length of one lyne saued he alpye. And so became the Moabites Davids seruauntes, and payed tribute. David smote also Hadadezer the sonne of Rehob kyng of zoba as he went to recover his bordze at the ryuer Pherath. And David toke a thousande and. vii. C. horsemen of his hoost, and twenty thousand fotemen, & cut of y^e hofe of all his charethozles, reseruyng only one hundred charettes. And when the Syrians of Damasco came to succour Hadadezer kyng of zoba, David slue of the Sirians two and twenty thousande men, and put souldyers in Siria Damascou. And the Sirians became seruauntes to David, payinge trybute. And thus the Lord saued David, in all that he went vnto. And David toke the shylde of golde that belongeth to the seruauntes of Hadadezer, & brought them to Jerusalem. And out of Beta, and Berothai (cittyes of Hadadezer) dyd David bring exceeding moche brasle: * (whereof Salomon made all the brasen vessel in the temple, and the brasen lauatorye, and the pylers and the altare.)

* When Choi kyng of Hamath herde howe David had smitten all the hoost of Hadadezer, he sent Jozam his sonne vnto kyng David, to entreat hym for peace, and to blesse hym bycause he had fought agaynst Hadadezer, and beaten him (for Choi had great war with Hadadezer) which (Jozam) brought with him vessels of siluer, vessels of golde, & vessels of brasle. Whych brasle kyng David dyd dedicate vnto the Lord wth the syluer and golde that he had consecrated of all nactons, whych he subdued: of Siria, of the Moabites, and of the children of Ammō, of the Philistines, and of Hamalecke, and of the spoule of Hadadezer sonne of Rehob, kyng of zoba. And David gat hym a name after that he returned, and had smitten of the Sirians in the vallepe of Salt, eyghtene thousand men. * And he put keepers in Edom: euen thozowout all Edom put he souldiers, and all they of Edom became Davids seruauntes. And the Lord keppe David whatsoeuer he toke in hande. And David raygned ouer all Israel, and executed ryght and iustyce vnto all his people. And * Joab the sonne of zaruia was ouer the hoost, and Jeholaphat the sonne of Abilud was recorder. And Sadoch the sonne of Abitob, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar wer the prestes, and Sarai was the scrbye. And Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada was ouer the Crethites and the Phelethites and Davids sonnes were chiefe rulers.

The. ix. Chapter.

David restoreth all the felde of Saul, to Giphthi bofeth the sonne of Jonathan.

And David sayde: is there yet anye man left of the house of Saul? For I wyl the we hym mercy for Jonathan sake. And ther was of the houholde of Saul, a seruaunte whose name was ziba, & when they had called hym vnto David, y^e kyng sayd vnto him: art thou ziba? he sayd: Thy seruaunt is he. And the kyng said: remayneth there yet anye man of the house of Saul, whome I may shewe the mercede of God vnto? ziba answered the kyng: * Jonathan hath yet a sonne which is lame of his fete. The kyng sayde vnto hym: where is he? ziba sayd vnto the kyng: behold, he is in the house of Machir the sonne of Amiel of Lodeber. Then kyng David sent, and fet hym out of the house of Machir the sonne of Amiel out of Lodeber. Now when Giphthi bofeth the sonne of Jonathan, the sonne of Saul was come vnto David, he fell on hys face, and dyd reuerence. And the kyng sayde: Giphthi bofeth? he answered. Beholde thy seruaunt. David sayde vnto hym: feare not, for I wyl surely shewe the kyndnesse, for Jonathan thy fathers sake, and wyl restore the all the felde of Saul thy father, and thou shalt eat bred on myne owne table contynually. And he bowed hym selfe, and sayde: What is thy seruaunt that thou shouldest vouchesafe to looke vpon suche a deed dogge as I am?

Then the kyng called vnto ziba Sauls pong man, and sayde vnto hym: I haue gyuen vnto thy masters sonne, all that pertayned to Saul, and to all his house. Se therfore that thou and thy sonnes and thy seruauntes tyl the land, and bringe in, that thy masters sonne maye haue foode to eate. But Giphthi bofeth thy masters sonne & all eate bred alwaye vpon my table.

The. iii. For 36

For Ziba had fyfene sonnes, and twentye seruauntes. Then sayd Ziba vnto the kyng: Accor dyng to all þy my lord the kyng hath comanded his seruaunt, so shal thy seruaunt do. Well (sayd the kyng) Wiphiboseth shall eate vpon my table, as one of the kynges sonnes. Wiphiboseth had a sonne that was yonge named Micha and all that dwelled in the house of Ziba wer seruauntes vnto Wiphiboseth. And Wiphiboseth dwelte in Jerusalem, for he dyd eate euer at the kynges table: and was lame on both his feete.

The .x. Chapter.

The messengers of David are by laynously entreated of the kyng of Moab.

A Happened after thys, þy the kyng of the chyldren of Ammon dyed, and Hanō his sonne reigned in his stede. Then sayd David: I wil shew kindnesse vnto Hanō þy sone of Nabas, as his father shewed kindnesse vnto me. And David sent to comfort him by the hande of his seruauntes ouer (the deatly of) his father. And Davids seruauntes came into þy land of the chyldren of Ammon, and the lordes of the chyldren of Ammon sayde vnto Hanon theyr lord: thynkest þy that David doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comfortours to the? Hath not David rather sent his seruauntes vnto the, to searche the cypre, and to spye it out, and to querth owe it?

Wherfore Hanon toke Davids seruauntes, and shaned of the halfe of euery mannes beerde, and cut of theyr garmentes in the myddle, euen harde to the buttockes of them, and sente them a waye. When they tolde it vnto David, he sent to mete them (for they were men excedyngly ashamed) and the kyng sayde: tarpe at Jericho, vntyll your beerdes be growen, & then returne. And when the chyldren of Ammon sawe, that they stanke in the spght of David, they sent and byred the Syrians of the house of Rehob, and the Syrians of Zoba twenty thousand fotemē, and of kyng Maacha a thousande men, and of Istob twelve thousand men. And when David hearde of it, he sent Joab & al the hoost of strong men. And the chyldren of Ammon came out, and waged battayle at the entryng in of the gate, and the Syrians of Zoba, of Rehob, Istob, & Maacah were by them selues in the felde.

When Joab sawe that the fronte of the battayle was agaynst hym, before & after, he chose of all the fresh yonge men of Israel, and put the in aray agaynst the Syrians. And the rest of þy people he deliuered into the hande of Abisai his brother, þy he myght put them in aray agaynst the chyldren of Ammon. And he sayd: yf the Syrians be stronger then I, thou shalt helpe me. But yf the chyldren of Ammon be to strong for the, I will come and succoure the. Therefore quyte the lyke a man, and let vs stand styffe for our people, and for the cypries of oure God. And the Lord do that whiche is good in his owne eyes. And Joab proceeded forth, and the people that was with hym to fyght with the Syrians. But they fled before hym. And whē the chyldre of Ammon sawe that þy Syrians were fled, then fled they also before Abisai, and entred into the cypre. And so Joab returned fro the chyldre of Ammon, and came to Jerusalem. And when þy Syrians sawe that they were put to the worse before Israel, they gathered them togyther. And Hadarezer sent, and brought out the Syrians that were beyonde the ryuer. And they came with theyr armye, and Zobah þy capayne of the hoost of Hadarezer, went before them.

And when it was shewed David, he gathered all Israel togyther, and passed ouer Jordan and came to Helam: And the Syrians set themselves in aray agaynst David, and fought with him: & the Syrians fled before Israel. And David destroyed seue hundred charettes of the Syrians, & fourtye thousande horsemen, and smore Zobah the capayne of theyr hoost, whiche also dyed there. And when al the kynges (that were seruauntes to Hadarezer, sawe þy they were put to the worse before Israel, they made peace with them, and serued them. And so the Syrians feared to helpe the chyldren of Ammon any more.

The .xi. Chapter.

The aduoutye of David with Bethsabe the wyfe of Urias.

Ad it came to passe, that (after the year 3 was expyred) in the tyme whē kynges ble to go forth to battayle, David sent Joab and his seruauntes with hym, & all Israel, which destroyed the chyldren of Ammon, and besigged Raba. But David tarped styll at Jerusalem. And it chaunced in an euenynge, that David arose oute of his bed, and walked vpon the rooffe of the kynges palace, and from the rooffe, he sawe a woman * washyng her selfe: and the woman was very beaultyfull to loke vpon. And he sente to enquire what woman it shoulde be, sayinge: is it not Bethsabe the daughter of Eliam, and wyfe to Urias the Hethite? And David sent messengers, & fet her. And she cam in vnto him: & he laye with her. And (immediatly) she was purifyed from her vncleannes, and returned vnto her house. And þy woman conceyued, and she told David, & sayd: I am with chyld. And David sent to Joab (sayinge:) sende me Urias the Hethite. And Joab set Urias to David. And whē Urias was come vnto him, David demaunded of him how Joab dyd, and how the people fared, and how the men of warre prospered. And David sayde to Urias: goo downe to thyne house, and wash thy fete. And Urias departed oute of the kynges palace, and there folowed him a seruyce fro þy kynges table. But Urias slept at the doore of doze of the kynges palace: with all the seruauntes of his lord, and wēt not downe to his house.

C Which when they had tolde Dauid (sayinge: Azias went not downe into his house) Dauid sayd vnto Azias: Camest thou not fro thy iourney: why dydest thou not go downe then vnto thyne house? Azias answered Dauid: The arke & Israel and Iuda dwel in paulions: & my lord Joab and the seruauntes of my lord lye vpon the flat earth, and shall I then go into myne house, to eate and drynk, and lye with my wyfe? * By thy lyfe, and by the lyfe of thy soule, I wyll not do this thyng. And Dauid sayde vnto Azias: * tarpe here this nyght also, and tomozowe I wyll let the departe. And so Azias abode in Jerusalem that daye, and the morowe. And when Dauid had called hym, he dyd eate and drynke before hym, & he made hym dronke. And at euen he went out to lye on his couch with the seruantes of his lord, but wēt not downe to his house. On the morowe Dauid wrote a letter to Joab, and sent it by the hande of Azias. And he wrote thus in the letter, sayinge: put Azias in the forefront of the sharper battayle, and come ye backe from hym, that he may be smyten, and dye. So when Joab besieged the cite, he assigned Azias vnto a place, where he wyfte, that stronge men were. And the men of the cite came oute, and fought with Joab. And there were certayn ouerthrowen of the people, and of the seruauntes of Dauid: and Azias the hetbite dyed also.

D Then Joab sente, and tolde Dauid all the thynges concerning the warre, and charged the messenger, sayinge: when thou haste made an ende oftellyng the matters of this warre vnto the kyng, yf he begynne to fume, and say vnto the: wherfore approached ye so nye vnto the cite, when ye dyd fyght? wylt ye not that they wold hurle and hote from the wall? Who smote Ahimelch sonne of Jereboam? * Dyd not a woman cast a pece of a mylstone vpon hym fro of the wall, and he dyed in Thebes? Why wente thou nye the wall? Then saye thou: thy seruaunt Azias the hetbite is deed also.

So the messenger went, & came and he wed Dauid all that Joab had sent hym for: and the messenger sayd vnto Dauid: the men preyayled agaynst vs, & came out vnto vs into the felde, & we * (with violence) stakke vnto them, euen vnto the entring of the gate. And the shoters shot fro the walles vpon thy seruauntes, and some of thy kynges seruauntes be deed. And thy seruaunt Azias the hetbite is deed also. And Dauid sayde vnto the messengers: thus shalt thou say vnto Joab: let not the thing trouble the. For * (the chaunce of warre is dryers, and) the sword deuoureth one as wel as an other: make thy battayle moze stronge, agaynst the cite to ouerthrowe it, and se that thou courage Joab. And when the wyfe of Azias herde that her husbände was deed, she mourned for hym. And when the mournynge was past, Dauid sent & fet her to his house, and she became his wyfe, and bare him a sonne. But this thing that Dauid dyd, displeased the Lorde.

C The. xii. Chapter.

C Dauid is reprovēd for the slaughter of Azias.
The chyldre conceived in aduourte, dyeth.
After it is Salomon borne.

A And the Lorde sent Nathan vnto Dauid. A And he came vnto hym, and tolde hym: there were two men in one cite, the one ryche and the other poore: the ryche man had exceeding many shepe and oxen. But the poore had nothyng, save one lytle shepe whiche he hadde bought, and nozished vp. And it grew up with hym and with his chyldren also, and dyd eat of his owne meate, and dranke of his owne cuppe and slept in his bosome, and was vnto hym as his doughter. And there came a straunger vnto the ryche man. And he coude not fynde in his herte to take of his owne shepe, and of his owne oxen to dresse for the straunger that was come vnto hym. But toke the poore mans shepe, and dressed it for the man that was come to hym. And Dauid was excedyng wroth with the man and sayde to Nathan: as surely as the Lorde lyueth, the man that hath done this thyng * is the chyldre of death. He shall restore the lambe & fourfold, bycause he dyd this thinge, and had no pittie. And Nathan sayde to Dauid: thou arte the man. Thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: * I annoynted the kyng ouer Israel, and ryde the out of the hand of Saul, I gaue the thy masters house, and thy masters wyues into thy bosom, and gaue the the house of Israel, and of Iuda, and myght (yf that had bene to lytle) haue gyuen the so moche moze. Wherfore then haste thou despyled the comaundement of the Lorde, to do wickednesse in his syght: thou hast kylled Azias the hetbite with the swerde, and hast taken his wyfe to thy wyfe, and haste slayne hym with the swerde of the chyldren of Ammon.

Now therfore the swerde shall neuer departe fro thyne house, bycause thou hast despyled me, and taken the wyfe of Azias the hetbite to be thy wyfe. Wherfore thus sayth the Lorde: beholde, I wyll spyre vp euyl agaynst the, euen out of thyne owne house, & wyll * take thy wyues before thyne eyes, & gyue the vnto thy neighbour, & he shall lye with thy wyues in the sight of the sunne. For thou dydest it secretly. But I wyll do this thing before all Israel, & in the open sunne lyght.

And Dauid sayd vnto Nathan: * I haue synned agaynst the Lorde. And Nathan sayd vnto Dauid: the Lorde also hath put away thy syn, thou shalt not dye. Howbeit, bycause in doinge this dede, thou hast gyuen the enemies of the Lorde a cause to rayle, the chyldre that is borne vnto the shall surely dye. And Nathan departed vnto his house. And the Lorde stroke the chyldre that Azias wyfe bare vnto Dauid, and it sychened soze. Dauid therfore besought God for the chyldre, and fasted and went in, and laye all nyght vpon the earth. And the elders of his house arose, and went to hym, to take him vp from the earth. But he wold not, neyther dyd he eate meate with them.

And it happened the seuen daye, that the chyld dyed. And the seruauntes of Dauid durst not tell hym that the chyldre was deed. For they sayde: behold, whyle the chyldre was yet alpye, we spake vnto hym, and he wolde not hearken vnto oure voyce. Howe wyll he then vere hym selfe yf we tell hym that the chylde is deed? And David seeing his seruantes whysperpynge, perceyued that the chylde was deed. And David sayd vnto his seruantes: is the chylde deed? They sayde: yea. And David arose from the earth, and washed and annoynted hym selfe, and chaunged his apparel, and came into the house of the Lorde, and worshypped, and afterwarde came to his owne house, and bad that they shoulde set brede before hym, and he dyd eate. Then sayd his seruantes vnto hym, what thyng is this, that thou haste done? Thou dydest fast and wepe for þy chylde, whyle it was alpye, and as soone as it was deed thou dydest ryle vp, and eate meate. He sayde: whyle the chylde was yet alpye, I fasted, and wept: for this I thought, who can tell whether God wyll haue mercye on me, that the chylde maye lyue. * But nowe seinge he is deed, wherefore shoulde I fast? Can I bypunge hym agayne any more? I shall go to hym, rather then he shal come agayne to me. And David comforted Bethsabe his wyfe, and wente in vnto her, and laye with her, & she bare a sonne, and called his name * Salomon, and the Lorde loued hym. And he sent by the hande of Nathan the prophete, and called his name * Jedidia, of þy Lordes behalfe.

G Joab fought agaynst Raba the cytye of the chylde of Ammon, and toke the cytye of the kyngdome. And Joab sent messengers to David sayinge: I haue made assaut at Raba, and haue taken the cytye with waters. Now therfore gather the rest of the people togyther, and besiege þy cytie, that thou mayest take it, lest I take it, & call it after my name. And David gathered all the people togyther, and went agaynst Raba, and besieged it, and gate it. * And he toke theyr kynges crowne from of his heed, whych wayed an hundred weyght of golde, and in it were precious stones. And it was set on Davids heed: & he brought out the spoyles of the cytye in exceeding great aboundaunce. And he caried out þy people that was therein, and put them vpon sawes, & vpon yron harowes, and vpon axes of yron, and thrust them into the tyle kylne. Thus dyd he wth all þy cities of the children of Ammon. And so David & all the people returned vnto Jerusalem.

The. xiii. Chapter.

Ammon Davids sonne defyleth his syster Thamar.
Absalom therfore kyllerh Ammon.

After this, chaunced, þy Absalom the son of David had a fayre syster, named Thamar; whos Ammon the ion of David loued: and he was so sore vexed þy he fell sycke for the loue of his sister Thamar: for she was a virgin, and he thought it harde for hym to haue his purpose of her. But Ammon had a frende called Jonadab, þy son of Simeah Davids brother: and Jonadab was a very wyse man. And he sayd vnto hym: how cometh it, that thou being þy kynges sonne art thus consumed every day? Wylt thou not tel me? Ammon answered hym: I loue Thamar my brother Absaloms syster. Jonadab sayd vnto hym: laye the downe on thy bedde, and make thy selfe sycke. And when thy father is come to se the, saye vnto hym: Oh, let my syster Thamar come, and gyue me meate, & dresse it in my syght, that I may se it, and eate it of her hande.

And so Ammon laye downe, and made hym selfe sycke. And when the kyng was come to se hym, Ammon sayde vnto hym: Oh lette Thamar my syster come, and make me a couple of frytters in my syght, that I maye eate of her hande. Then David sent home to Thamar, sayinge: go now to thy brother Ammons house, and dresse hym meate. So Thamar went to her brother Ammons house, and he was layed downe. And she toke flour, and made paffe, and dresed frytters in his syght, and dyd bake them, & toke a platter, and poured them out before hym: but he wolde not eate. And Ammon sayde: haue out al men from me. And they went al out from him. And Ammon sayde vnto Thamar: bypunge the meate into the chabze, that I maye eate of thyne hande. And Thamar toke the frytters, whiche she had made, and brought them into the chabze to Ammon her brother: And when she hadde set them before hym to eate, he toke her, & sayde vnto her: come lye with me my syster. And she answered hym: naye my brother, doo not force me, for there hath no suche thyng be done in Israel: do not thou this abhominacyon. For whither shal I be able to go wth my name. And thou shalt be as one of þy soles in Israel. I speake vnto the kyng, and he shal not denye me vnto the.

Howbeit, he wolde not hearken vnto her voyce but toke her, and * forced her, and lay wth her. And then Ammon hated her exceedingly: so that the hate wherewith he hated her, was greater then the loue, with whiche he before loued her. And Ammon sayde vnto her: vp, and gette thee hence. She answered hym: thou hast no cause. This euyl that thou puttest me away, is greater then the other, that thou dydest vnto me. Neuerthelesse, he wolde not heare her, but called his boye that serued hym, and sayde: put away this woman from me, and bolte the doore after her. And she had a kytte of dyuers colours vpon her: for with such were the kynges daughters (that were virgins) appareled. Thā his seruante brought her out, & locked the doore after her. And Thamar toke, & put ashes on her heed and rente her gape kytte that was on her, and layed her hand on her heed, & so went, and as she went, cryed. And Absalom her brother sayd vnto her: hath Ammon thy brother bene wth the? Now yet he styll my syster: he is thy brother. Let not this thyng greue thyne herte. And so Thamar remayned desolate in her brother Absaloms house. But when kyng David herde of al these thynges, he was very wroth. * (And he wolde not vere the spyrite of Ammon bys soune, for he loued hym, bycause he was his synnaboyne.) And Absalom sayde vnto his brother Ammon, neyther good nor badde. Howbeit: Absalom hated Ammon, bycause he had forced his syster Thamar.

And it happened after two yere, that Absalom had * shepersheers in þy playne of Bazor besyde the trybe of Ephraim, & bad al the kynges sonnes nes, and came to the kyng & sayde: beholde, thy seruauit hath thepetherers, let the kyng & his seruantes come to thy seruauit: The kyng answered Absalom: naye my sonne. We wyll not go all, nor be chargeable vnto the. And Absalom laye fore vpon hym: howbeit, he wolde not go, but blessed hym. Then sayde Absalom: If thou wylt not come, then let my brother Amnon go with vs. And the kyng answered hym: What nedeth it, that he goo with the? But Absalom made such instance, that he let Amnon and all the kynges chyliden go with hym.

Now had Absalom comaunded his yongme saying: marke when Ammons herte is mery & wyne, & when I byd you smyte Amnon, then kyl him: and feare not, haue not I bydden you? beholde therfore, & play the men. And the yong men of Absalom dyd vnto Amnon, euen as Absalom had comaunded. And all the kynges sonnes arose, and eury man gat hym vp vpon his mule, & fled: And it fortunyd, & while they were yet in þ way, tydynges came to Dauid, saying Absalom hath slayne all the kynges sonnes, & there is none left alpye. The Dauid arose, and tare his garmetes, & laye alonge on the earthe, and all his seruantes stode by & they clothes rent. And Jonadab the son of Simeach Dauids brother answered and sayde: let not my lord suppose þ they haue slayne all the yonge men the kynges sonnes, saue Amnon onely is dead. For þ hath ben determined in Absaloms mynde, syns he forced his sister Thamar. Now therfore let not my lord the kyng take the thyng so greuoulye, to thyne that all the kynges sonnes are dead, saue Amnon onely is dead.

But Absalom fled. And the yonge man that kept the watche lyfte vp his eyes, & looked. And beholde, there came moche people by a waye, alonge by the hynder part on an hyllesyde. And Jonadab sayd vnto the kyng: beholde, þ kynges sonnes come. As thy seruauit sayde, so it is. And as soone as he had left speake, beholde, the kynges sonnes came, and lyft vp they voices, and wept. The kyng also and all his seruantes wept exceedingly. But Absalom escaped & wet to Thalmat the sonne of Amthur kyng of Gesur. And Dauid mourned for his son eury day. And so Absalom escaped and went to Gesur, & was there thre yeres. And kyng Dauid desyred to go forth vnto Absalom: For where as Amnon was dead, he was comforted ouer hym.

The. xliii. Chapter.

Of the woman of Thekoa, Absalom is called agayne.

The sonne of zaruia perceyued, þ the kynges herte was toward Absalom, and he sent to Thekoa, and sette thence a wyfe woman, and sayd vnto her: saye thy selfe to be a mourner, and put on mournynge apparell. And annoynt not thy self with oyle. But be as a woman that had longe tyme mourned for some deed body. And come to the kyng, and speake of thy manner vnto hym. And so Joab taught her what she shoulde saye.

And when the woman of Thekoa had fallen on her face to the grounde, and done obeysance, she sayde vnto the kyng: helpe me, O kyng.

The kyng sayde vnto her: what ayleth the? She answered: I am a wyddowe, and my husband is dead. And thy handmayde had two sonnes, and they two foughte togyther in the felde (where was noman to go betwene them) but the one smote the other, and slue hym. And beholde, the hole kynred is rylen agaynst thyne handmayde, and they sayde: *delyuer vs hym that smote his brother: that we maye kyl hym, for the soule of his brother whome he slue. We wyll destroye the heyre also. And so they shall quench my sparkle whiche is left, that he shall styre vp (to my husbände) neither name nor issue vpon the earth. And the kyng sayde vnto þ woman: go home to thyne house, I wyll grue a charge for the. And the womā of Thekoa sayd vnto the kyng: My lord, O kyng, this trespassse be on me, and on my fathers house, and the kyng and his seate be gylelesse. And the kyng sayde: If any man saye ought vnto the: bynge hym to me, and he shall hurt the nomore. Then sayde she: Let the kyng remembre þys to the Lord God, that the auenger of the bloode gather not on heapes togyther to destroye, and that they slay not my sonne. And he answered: as sure as the Lord lyueth, * there shall not on heape of thy sonne fall to the earth.

The woman sayde: let thyne handmayde speake one worde moze with my Lord the kyng. And he sayd: saye on. The woman sayd: wherefore then haste thou determined such a thyng agaynst the people of God: For the kyng doth speake this thyng as one which is fauoure, that he shoulde not fet home agayne þys banished. For we must nedes dye, and perpe as water spilt on the grounde, whiche cannot be gathered vp agayne. Neyther doth God spare any soule. Let the kyng therfore fynde the meanes, that his banished be not vterly expelled from him. Now therfore am I come, to speake of this thing vnto the kyng my lord. For they that be of þ people wyll feare me. And the handmayd sayde: Now wyl I speake vnto the kyng, peraventure the kyng wyl perfourme the request of þ handmayde. And the kyng, whal heare þ handmayde, to delyuer her out of the hande of þ man that wolde haue destroyed me, and all my son out of þ inheritaunce of God. And thyne handmayde sayde: the worde of my Lord the kyng shall nowe be comfortable. For my lord the kyng is as an angel of God in hearynge of good and bad: therfore the Lorde thy God be wth the.

E. v. and bad:

Then the kynge answered, and sayde vnto the woman: hyde not fro me (I praye the) the thyng that I shall aske the: And the woman sayde: let my lorde the kynge now saye on. And the kynge sayde: Is not the hande of Joab with the in al this matter? The woman answered, & sayde: as sure as thy soul lyueth my lord kynge there is els noman (on the ryght hande nor on y^e left) but as my lorde the kynge hath spoken, thy seruaunt Joab he badde me, and he put all these wordes in the mouth of thyne handmayde. For to the intent that I shoulde alter my communicacion, hath thy seruaunt Joab done this thing. And my lorde is wylle euen as an Angel of God to vnderstande all thynges that are in the erth. And the kynge sayde vnto Joab: beholde: I am content to do this thyng. So and fet home the chylde Absalom agayne. And Joab fell to the grounde on his face, and bowed hym selfe, and blessed the kynge. And Joab sayd: now thy seruaunt knoweth, that I haue found grace in thy syght (my lorde, O kynge) in that the kynge hath fulfilled the request of his seruaunt. And so Joab arose, and went to Gesur, and broughte Absalom to Jerusalem. And the kynge sayde: let him turne to his owne house, and not se my face. And so Absalom returned to his owne house, and sawe not the kynges face.

But in all Israel there was not so goodly a man as Absalom, for he was verpe beautifull in somoch that from the sole of his foote to the toppe of his head, there was no blemish in hym. And whē he shaued his head (for at euery yeres ende he shaued it, bycause the heere was heuy on hym, and must neades shauē it) the heere of his head wayed two hundred cycles after the kynges wyght. And this Absalom had thre sones boyn hym, and one daughter named Thamar: whiche was a fayre woman to lōke vpon. So Absalom dwelt two yere in Jerusalem, & sawe not the kynges face. Therfore Absalom set for Joab, to haue sente hym to the kynge. But he wolde not come to hym. And when he set agayn he wolde not come, Therfore he sayd vnto his seruautes: beholde, Joab hath a parcel of lāde fast by my place, & hath barly therein. Go, & set it on fyre. And Absaloms seruautes set it on fyre.

Then Joab arose, and came to Absalom vnto his house, and sayde vnto hym: Wherefore haue thy seruautes burnt my felde with fyre? And Absalom answered Joab: beholde, I sente for the, & thou ynged the to come, bycause I wolde haue sent the to the kynge, for to saye: wherfore am I come from Gesur? It had bene better for me to haue ben there still. Nowe therfore wold I se the kynges face. And yf there be anye trespassinge in me, kill thou me. And so Joab came to the kynge, and tolde hym: whiche when he had sent for Absalom, he came to the kynge, and fell to the grounde on his face before hym. And the kynge kyssed Absalom.

The .xv. Chapter.

¶ Absalom maketh insurrection agaynst his father. David is fayne to fflye for feare of hym.

After this it fortuneth, that Absalom gat hym charets & horses, and fflye men to runne before hym. And he arose vpon early in the mornynge, and stode in the place of the entrynge in of the gate. And euery man that had any matter, and came to the kynge for iudgement, hym dyd Absalom call vnto hym, and sayd: of what cite art thou? He answered: thy seruaunt is of one of the tribes of Israel. And Absalom sayd vnto hym: le thy matter is good and ryghteous, but there is no man deputed of the kynge to heare the. Absalom sayd mozeouer: Oh that I wer made iudge in the lande, that euery man which hath any ple and matter in the lawe, myght come to me, and that I myght do hym iustice? And when any man came nye to hym, and dyd hym obeylaunce, he put forth his hand and toke hym to hym, and kyssed hym. And on this maner dyd Absalom to all Israel, that came to the kynge for iudgement: and he stole the hertes of the mē of Israel. And after fourtye yeres it fortuneth, that Absalom sayd vnto the kynge: let me go nowe to Hebron, and paye my vowe which I haue bowed vnto the Lorde, for thy seruaunt vowed a vow (when I was in Gesur, in the lande of Siria) sayinge: Yf the Lorde shall brynge me agayne from Jerusalem, I wyll serue the Lorde. And the kynge sayd vnto hym: go in peace. And so he arose, and went to Hebron.

But Absalom sent spyes thowout all the tribes of Israel, sayinge: as soone as ye heare the voyce of the trumpet blowe, ye shall saye: Absalom raygneth kynge in Hebron. And wyth Absalom went two hundred men out of Jerusalem, that were called. And they wente with pure hertes, not knowynge of any thyng. And Absalom sent also for Abithophel the Gilonite Dauids counsailer, that he shoulde come out of his cytie Gilō, whyle he offered sacrifices. And there was wrought stronge treason. For the people wente, and encreased wyth Absalom in multitude. And there came a messenger to Dauid, and sayd: the hertes of the men of Israel are turned after Absalom. And Dauid sayde vnto all his seruautes that were with hym at Jerusalem: vp, that we maye be gone, for we shal not els escape from Absalom. Make spede, to departe, lest he come sodaynly & catche vs, & bringe some mischefe vpon vs, & smyte the cytie with y^e edge of the sword. And y^e kynges seruautes said vnto him: beholde, thy seruautes are redy to do what soener my lorde the kynge shall appoynt.

And the kynge and all his household, departed on fote, and left behynde hym * ten concubines to kepe the house: And so the kynge and all the people went out on fote, & tarped in a place that was a farre of. And all his seruautes went aboute hym. And all the Gethites and all the Ishethites and al the Gethites (euen syre hundred men which were come on fote from Geth) went before the kynge. The sayd the kynge to * Ithai the Gethite: wherfore comest comest thou with vs? Returne & abyde with the kyng, for thou art a straunger, and arte removed from thyne owne place. Thou cameste but yesterdape, and shoulde I disquyte the to-dape to go with vs? I wyll go whither I can. Therfore retourne thou, and carpe agayne thy brethren. Mercye and truthe. (that the Lorde shewe vnto the.) And Jthai answered the kyng, & sayd: as truly as God liueth, and as my lord the king lyueth, in what place my lord the kyng shalbe whether in death or lyfe, euen there also wil thy seruant be. And Dauid the kyng sayde to Jthai: come then, and goo forwarde. And Jthai the Gethite went forth, and all his men, and all the chyldren that were wyth hym. And all the countrey wepte with a loude voyce, and so dyd all the people that went forth. The kyng also hym selfe passed ouer the brooke Kydron. And all the people went towarde the waye that leadeth to the wilderness. And Sadok and al the Leuytes were with hym, and bare the arke of the appoyntemente of God. And there they set downe the arke of God: And Abiathar wet vp vntyll the people were all come ouer, out of the cytie. And the kyng sayde vnto Sadok: Carie the arke of God agayne into the citie. Vt I shal fynde fauoure in the eyes of the Lorde, he wyll bring me agayne, and shewe me both it and the tabernacle therof. But & if the Lorde thus saye I haue no lust vnto the, beholde, here am I: let hym do with me, what semeth good in his eyes.

The kyng sayd also vnto Sadok the prest: Art not thou a lea? Returne into the cytie in peace: and take your two sonnes with you, Abi maaz thy sonne, and Jonathas the sonne of Abiathar. Beholde, I wyl tarpe in the felde of wilderness, vntyll there come some worde fro you to be tolde me. Sadok therfore and Abiathar carped the arke of God agayne to Jerusalem, and they tarped there. And Dauid wente vpon mount Oliuete, and wept as he wet, and had his head couered, and went barefoote. And all the people that was with hym had euery mā his heade couered, and as they wente vp, they wept also. And one tolde Dauid, sayinge: Abithophel is one of them that haue conspyred with Abalom. And Dauid sayd: O Lorde turne the counsaile of Abithophel into foolysnesse.

When Dauid was come to the toppe of the mount he worshypped God: and behold, Husai the Arachite came agaynst hym wyth his coote torne, and harynge earth vpon his head. Vnto whome Dauid sayde: pf thou go with me, thou shalt be a burthe vnto me. But pf thou retourne to the citie, and saye vnto Abalom: I wyll be thy seruante, O kyng: (as I haue this longe ben thy fathers seruante, so am I now thy seruante) thou mayest for my sake destroye the counsaile of Abithophel. And thou hast there with the Sadok and Abiathar the prestes, vnto whom thou shalt shewe all that thou canst heare out of the kynges house. And behold, they haue there with them their two sonnes. Abimaaz Sadoks sonne, and Jonathas Abiathars son: by them also shal ye sende me al that ye can heare

And so * Husai Dauids frende gat hym to the cytie. And Abalom also entred into Jerusalem. ii. reg. xxi. b.

The. xvi. Chapter.

Ziba byngng presentes to Dauid, doth falsely accuse Hiphiboseth. Semei curseth Dauid, and hurleth stones at hym. Abalom by counsaile of Abithophel, leueth with his fathers concubynes.

And when Dauid was a litle past the toppe of the hyll: beholde, ziba the seruant of Hiphiboseth came to mete hym, with a couple of asses saddled, and vpon them two hundrede lounes, and one hundrede bonches of reysynges, and an hundred clusters of dyed fygges, and a bottell of wyne. And the kyng sayd vnto ziba: what meaneest thou with these? And ziba sayd: They be asses for the kynges house: to ryde on, and breade and frute for the yonge men to eate, and wyne, that suche as be faynt in the wilderness may drynke. And the kyng sayde: where is thy masters sonne? ziba answered vnto the kyng: beholde, he tarieth styl at Jerusalem. For he sayd: this dape shall the house of Israel restore me the kyngdome of my father: then sayd the kyng to ziba: beholde, thyne are all that pertayned vnto * Hiphiboseth. And ziba sayde: I do homage to the: I beseeche the, that I maye fynde grace in thy syght my lord, O kyng.

And when kyng Dauid came to Bahurim beholde, then came out a man of the kynred of the house of Saul, named * Semei the sonne of Gera. and he came out cursyng. And he cast stones at Dauid, and at all the seruantes of king Dauid. And all the people also, and all the men of warre were on his ryghte hande, and on his lefte. And thus sayde * Semei when he cursed: come forth, come forth thou bloodshedder: and thou man of Belial. The Lorde hath brought vpon the all the bloode of the house of Saul, in whose steade thou hast raygned, and the Lorde hath delpyuered the kyngdome into the hande of Abalom thy sonne. And behold, thou art come to thy myschefe, bycause thou arte a bloodshedder. ii. reg. xix. a.

Then sayde Abysai the sonne of zaruia vnto the kyng: why doeth this dead dogge curse my lord the kyng? let me go now and take of the head of hym. And the kyng sayd: what haue I to do with you, ye sonnes of zaruia: let him curse? for the Lorde hath bydden hym curse Dauid. Who darre then saye: wherfore hast thou done so? And Dauid sayd to Abisai, and to all his seruantes beholde, my sonne which came of myne owne bodye, seeketh my lyfe. How muche more then maye this sonne of Jemini doo it? Suffre hym to curse, * for the Lorde hath bydden hym: happely the Lorde wyll loke on my weppynge eyes and wretchednesse, and do me good for this cursyng this dape. And as Dauid and his men went by the waye, Semei went alonge on the hylls syde ouer agaynst hym, and cursed as he went, and threw stones at hym, and cast dust. And the kyng and al that were with him came wepye, and refreshed them selues there. ii. reg. xix. b.

And Abalom and all the people of the me of Israel came to Jerusalem, and Abithophel was with hym.

At Bahurim,

with hym. And as soone as Hushai the Archite Dauids frēd was come vnto Absalom, he sayd vnto hym: God saue the kyng, God saue the kyng. And Absalom sayd agayn to Hushai: is this the kyndenesse thou owest to thy frende? Why wētest thou not with hym? Hushai answered vnto Absalom: naye not so: but whom the Lord & this people and all the men of Israel chose, hys wyl I be, and with hym wyl I dwel. Moreover, vnto whōshal I do seruyce, but euen to his sonne? And as I was seruaunt before w thy father, euen so shall I be with the. The spake Absalom to Ahithophel: gūe counsel what is best for vs to do. And Ahithophel said vnto Absalom get the in vnto thy fathers concubines, which he hath left to kepe y house. And all Israel shal heare, that thou arte cast out of thy father: then shal the handes of al that are with the be strōg. And so they pytched Absalom a tente vpon the toppe of the house. And he went in vnto hys fathers concubynes in the syght of all Israel.

And the counsayl of Ahithophel which he counsayled in those dayes, was as a man had asked counsayle of God: euen so was all the counsayle of Ahithophel, both with Dauid and w Absalom

The. xviij. Chapter.

Ahithophel feinge hys counsayle bysalowed of Hushai, and forsaken, hangeth hym selfe.

Ahithophel sayde to Absalom: let me chose out nowe twelue M. men. And I wyl vp & folow after Dauid this night, & I wyl come vpon him whyle he is wepyng & weke hāded, and wyl feare hym, and all the people y are with him shal flye. And so I wyl smyte the king only, & wyl bring againe al the people vnto the, euen as easely as yf I wolde bring any other thyng. And when I haue slayne the man whom thou sekest, al the people shal haue reste. And the sayinge pleased Absalom wel, and all the elders of Israel. The sayd Absalom: cal also Hushai the Archite, and let vs heare hys counsayle. When Hushai was come to Absalom, Absalom spake vnto hym, saying: Ahithophel hath gūen such counsayl: shal we do after his saying, or no? tell thou.

Hushai answered vnto Absalom, the counsayle that Ahithophel hath gūen, is not good at this tyme: For (sayde Hushai) thou knowest thy father, and his men, how that they be strong. And they be chafed in theyr myndes, and are euen as a beare robbed of her whelpes in the feld. Thy father is a man also practysed in the warre, and maketh no carpyng with the people. Beholde, he lurketh now in some caue, or in some other, (stronge) place. And though some of his men be ouerthrowen at the fyrste bynnte: yet they that heare it wyl saye: The people that folowe Absalom be put to the worse. And the best men thou hast whose hertes are as the hertes of lyōs, shal spyneke thereat. For all Israel knoweth, that thy father is a myghty man, and they whych be with hym, are all men of warre.

Therefore my counsayle is, that all Israel be gathered vnto the, frō Dan to Beerseba (which are as the sande of the sea in numbze) and that thou go to battayle in thyne owne person. For so shall we come vpon him in one place or other, where we shal fynde hym, and we wyl vpo him euen as thicke as the dewe falleth on y ground. And of all the men that are with hym, we shall not leaue hym one. Moreover, yf he be gotten in to a towne, then shal al the men of Israel bring ropes to that cytie, & we wyl drawe it into the ryuer, vntyll there be not one st one found there. And Absalom & all the men of Israel sayd: the counsayle of Hushai the Archite is better, then the counsayl of Ahithophel. For it was euen y Lordes determinaciō to destroye the good counsayle of Ahithophel: y the Lord myght bring euell vpon Absalom. The sayd Hushai vnto Dauid & Abiathar the prestes: of this and y manner byd Ahithophel and the elders of Israel counsayle Absalom. And thus & thus haue I counsayled. Now therfore send quychly, and we we Dauid, saying: tary not al nyght in the felde of y wyldernes, but get the ouer, least the kyng be deuoured and all the people that are with hym. Now Jonathas and Ahimaaz abode by y well of Rogel: (for they myght not be sene to come into the cytie.) And a wenche wente, and tolde them. And they wēt and shewed kyng Dauid.

Nevertheless, a lad sawe them, and tolde it to Absalom. But they went both of them away quychly, and came to a mans house in Babui, whiche had a well in his yarde, into the wyche they went downe. And a womā toke and spred a couerlet ouer the welles mouth, and strawed furmentye corne thereon. And the thyng was not elpyed. And whē Absaloms seruantes came to the wyche to the house, they sayde: Where is Ahimaaz & Jonathas? The woman answered them: they be gone ouer the lytle brooke of water. And when they had sought them, and could not fynde them, they returned to Jerusalem. And as soone as they were departed, the other came out of the well, and went and told kyng Dauid, and sayde vnto hym. vp, and get you quychly ouer the water, for suche counsel hath Ahithophel gūen agaynst you: Then Dauid arose, and all the people that were with hym, & they were comē ouer Jordan by that it was dāye: so that there lacked not one of them, that was not come ouer Jordan. And when Ahithophel sawe, that his counsayl was not folowed, he sadled his asse, and arose, and gat him home to his owne house, and to his owne cytie, & put his household in ordze, and hanged hym selfe, & dyed, & was buryed in y sepulture of his father.

Then Dauid came to Mahanaim. And Absalom passed ouer Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with hym. And Absalom made Amasa captayne of the host in the stede of Joab, whiche Amasa was a mannes sonne named Jethra an Israelite, that went into Abigail the daughter of Nahas, syster to Zeruba, Joabs mother. So Israel and Absalom pytched in the land of Gilead. And when Dauid was come to Mahanaim, Sobai the sonne of Nahas out of y Araba the cytie of the chyldze of Ammon, and Achit the sonne of Ammiel out of Lodeber, and Berzelai & Gileadite out of Rogli broughte beddes, balens, erthe vessels, wheat and barley floure, and parched corne, beanes, ryce, otmele hony, butter, shepe, and chese of kyne, for dauid and all the people that were with hym, to eate for they sayde: the people is hungry, weep and theyr sye in the wyldernesse.

The xviii. Chapter.

Abalom is overcome in battayle. He hangeth by the heere in an oke. He is kylled and put in a pyche. Dauid is so sorrowful for the deathe of Abalom, & he wepeth.

AND Dauid nombred the people that were with him, and set captaynes of thousandes & of hundreds ouer them. And Dauid sent forth the thyrde part of the people vnder the hande of Joab, and another part vnder the hande of Abisai the sonne of Neria Joabs brother, and the other thyrde parte vnder the hand of Ittai the Gethite. And the kyng sayd vnto the people: I wyl go with you also. And the people answered. Thou shalt not go for the: for yf we slye, oure aduersaries wyl not care for vs: neyther shall they regarde vs though halfe of vs were slayne: but thou art worth ten thousande of vs: wherfore it is better, that thou succoure vs out of the cytie. And the kyng sayde vnto them: What semeth you best, that I wyl do.

AND the kyng stode by the gate syde, and all the people came out by hundredes and by thousandes, and the kyng commaunded Joab and Abisai, and Ittai, sayinge: entreate the yonge man Abalom gently for my sake. And all the people herde that the kyng gaue all the captaynes charge concernyng Abalom. And so the people went oute in the felde agaynst Israel, and the battayle was in the wood of Ephraim: where the people of Israel were put to the worse before the seruauntes of Dauid, and there was a great slaughter that day, euen of twenty thousande men. For the felde was foughte there in dyuers places, all abrode vpon the earth. And the wood deuoured mo people that day the dyd the swerde. And Abalom came before the seruauntes of Dauid, rydying vpon a mule, whiche caried hym vnder the thicke bowes of a greete oke. And his hed was caught of the oke, and he was lyfte vp betwene heauen and earthe: and the mule that was vnder hym went his waye. And one that sawe it tolde Joab, sayinge: Beholde, I sawe Abalom hange in an Oke, and Joab sayde vnto the man that tolde hym: Yf thou dydest se hym, why dydest not thou ther smyte hym to the ground, and I wold haue gyuen the ten speles of syluer, and a gyrdle.

The man sayd vnto Joab: though thou woldest lape a thousande speles of syluer in myne hande, yet wolde I not stretch out myne hand agaynst the kynges sonne. For we herde with our eares, when the kyng charged the, and Abisai, and Ittai, sayinge: Beware, that none touchethe yonge man Abalom. More ouer, yf I had done it, I shoulde haue done agaynst myne owne lyfe: for there is no matter hyd fro the kyng: yea, and thou thy selfe woldest haue bene agaynst me. Then sayd Joab: I maye not stande thus tarpinge with the.

And he toke thre speares in his hande, and thrust them thorow Abalom, whyle he was yet alpye on the body of y tree. And ten seruauntes that bare Joabs weapons, tourned smote Abalom, and slue hym. And when Joab blewe the tropet, the people returned from folowynge Israel. For Joab spared the people. And they toke Abalom, and cast him into a great pye in the wood, and layed a mighty great hepe of stones vpo hym. And all Israel fled to theyr tentes. And this Abalom yet in his lyfe tyme toke couerage: & reared vp a pyller, whiche is in kynges dale. For he sayde: I haue no son. And therefore, to kepe my name in remembraunce do I it. And he called the pyller after his owne name. And it is called vnto this daye: Abaloms pyller.

Then sayde Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadock: let me runne now, and beare the kyng tidinges howe that the Lorde hath iudged hym quyte of the hande of his enemyes. And Joab sayd vnto hym: thou art no man to beare good tydynge to day: thou shalt beare tydynge an other tyme but to daye thou shalt beare none: bycause the kynges sone is deed. Then sayd Joab to Chusi: Go, and tell the kyng, what thou hast sene.

And Chusi bowed hym selfe vnto Joab, and ranne. Then said Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadock agayne to Joab: come what come wyl, let me also runne after Chusi. And Joab sayd: Wherfore wylt thou runne my sonne? seing that for y tydynge thou shalt haue no reward: wel (sayd he) come what wyl, let me runne. He sayde vnto him: runne. Then Ahimaaz ranne by the plaine waye, and came before Chusi.

And Dauid sat betwene the two gates. And the watchman wente vp to the rooffe ouer the gate vnto the wall, and lyfte vp his eyes, and sawe, and beholde, there came a man runnyng alone. And the watchman cryed, and tolde the kyng. And the kyng said: yf he be aloune, there is good tydynge in his mouth. And he came, & dyewe nye. And the watchman sawe another man runnyng, and he called vnto the portter, and sayde: beholde, there cometh another man runnyng alone. And the kyng sayd: he is also a tydynge bringer. And the watchman sayd me thynketh the runnyng of the foremost is like the runnyng of Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadock. The kyng sayd: he is a good man, and cometh with good tydynge. And Ahimaaz called, and sayd vnto the kyng: good tydynge, and he fel downe flat to the earth vpon his face before the kyng, and saide: blessed be the Lorde thy God, which hath shut vp the men that lyfte vp theyr handes agaynst my lord the kyng. And the kyng sayde: Is the yonge man Abalom safe? Ahimaaz answered: when Joab sent (Chusi) the kynges seruaunte, and me thy seruaunte, I sawe moche ado: But I wot not what it was. And the kyng sayd vnto hym: turne, and stand here. And he turned, and stode still.

And beholde, Chusi came also, and sayde: Good tydynge my lord the kyng, for y Lorde hath quyte hath quyte the this daye out of the hande of all them that rose agaynst the. And the kyng sayd vnto Chusi: Is the yonge man Absalom safe? Chusi answered: The enemyes of my lord the kyng, and all that ryle agaynst the to doo the hurte, be as that yonge man is. And the kyng was moued, and went vnto a chambze ouer the gate, and wept. And as he went, thus he sayde: O my sonne Absalom, my sonne, my sonne Absalom, wolde God I had dyed for the: O Absalom my sonne, my sonne.

The .xix. Chapter.

David is restored to his kyngdome and brought agayne to Ierusalem.

And it was tolde Joab: Beholde, the kyng mourneth and wepeth for Absalom. And the vycroze of that daye was turned into mourning vnto all the people. For the people hearde saye that day howe the kyng sorowed for his sone. And the people stalle awaye that daye from goinge into the citty, as people confounded to stalle awaye when they fye in battayle. But the kyng hyd his face, and cryed wth a loude voyce. O my sonne Absalom, O Absalom my sonne, my sonne.

B And Joab came into the house to the kyng and said: thou hast shamed this day the faces of all thy seruantes, which this daye haue saued thy lyfe, & the lyues of thy sones & of thy daughters, & the lyues of thy wyues, & of thy concubines, in þ thou lonest thyne enemies, & hatest thy frendes. For thou hast declared this day, þ thou regardest nether thy lordes nor seruantes. And this daye I perceyue, þ yf Absalom had liued, & all we had dyed this daye, þ had pleased the wel. Now therfore vp, & come out, and speake kindly vnto thy seruantes: For I sweare by þ lord, excepte thou come out, there wyll not sarpe one man wth þ this night. And that wyll be worse vnto the, then all the euyl þ fell on the from thy youth vnto this houre. Then the kyng arose, & sat downe in the gate. And they tolde vnto all the people, saying: Beholde, the kyng doth syle in the gate. And all the people came before the kyng. But Israel fled every man to his tent.

C And it fortuneth, that all the people were at stryfe thowdout all the trybes of Israel, saying: the kyng saued vs out of the hand of oure enemyes, he deliuered vs out of the hand of the Philistines, and now he is fled out of the lande for Absalom. But Absalom whom we anoynted ouer vs is dead in battayle. Therfore why are ye so styll, þ ye bypunge not the kyng agayne? And kyng David sent to Sadok & Abiathar þ prestes, saying. Speake vnto the elders of Iuda and saye: why are ye behynd to bypung the kyng agayne to his house, seing that suche tydynges is come from all Israel vnto the kyng, euen to his house? (For the kyng had sayde: Thus shall ye saye vnto the people of Iuda.) Ye are my brethren, my bones and my flesh: wherfore then are ye the last þ bypunge the kyng home agayne? And say ye to Amasa: art thou not of my bone & of my fleshe? God do so & so to me, yf thou be not captayn of the hooste to me for euer in the roume of Joab.

And he bowed þ bertes of al þ men of Iuda, eue as the bert of one man: so þ they sent this worde to þ kyng: Returne thou w all thy seruantes. So the kyng returned, & came to Iordan. And Iuda came to Gilgal, for to go downe to mete the kyng, & to couey hym ouer Iordan. And Simei the sonne of Gera, þ son of Jemini, which was of Baburim, hasted and came wth þ men of Iuda to mete kyng David, and there were a thousand men of Ben Iamin w him, and ziba the seruant of þ house of Saul, and his .xv. sones and twentye seruantes wth hym. And they went quychly ouer Iordan before þ kyng. And there went ouer a bote that carped ouer þ kynges houholde, and they dyd hym pleasure.

And Simei the sonne of Gera, fell before the kyng (as he was come ouer Iordan) and sayde vnto hym: let not my lord impute wyckednes vnto me, nor remembre the thynges that the seruant dyd wyckedly when my lord the kyng departed out of Ierusalem, that the king shuld take it to hert. For thy seruant doeth knowe: how that I haue done amysse. And therfore beholde, I am the fyrst this daye of al the house of Ioseph, that am come to go downe, to mete my lord the kyng. But Abisai the sone of zerua answered, and sayde: shall not Simei dye for this, bycause he cursed the Lordes aunoynted? And David sayd: what matter is betwene you and me, ye sonnes of zerua? For this daye ye be aduersaries vnto me. Shal there any mandye this daye in Israel? Doo not I knowe, that I am this daye kyng ouer Israel? And therfore the kyng sayd vnto Simei: thou shalte not dye and the kyng swore vnto hym.

And Miphibose the sonne of Saul came also to mete the kyng, and had neyther washed his feet, nor shauen his beard, nor washed his clothes from the tyme the kyng departed, vntill he came agayne in peace. And it fortuneth, þ when he was come to Ierusalem, and met þ kyng the kyng sayd vnto him: wherfore wentest thou wth me Miphibose? he answered: my lord, O kyng, my seruant discepued me. For thy seruant sayd: I wolde haue myne asse saddled to ryde thereon, for to go to the king, bycause thy seruant is lame. And ziba hath falsly reported of thy seruant vnto my lord the kyng. And my lord the kyng is as an angel of God do therfore what semeth good in thyne eyes. For all my fathers house were but dead men before my lord þ kyng, and yet dyddest thou put thy seruant among them þ did eat at thyne owne table. What ryght therfore haue I yet, to crye any moze vnto the kyng. And the kyng sayde vnto him: why speakest thou yet in thyne owne cause? (It is determyned, that) I haue sayd: thou & ziba deuyde the landes betwene you. And Miphibose sayd vnto the kyng: yea, let him take all: for so moche as my lord the kyng is come agayne in peace vnto his owne house.

And Bersai the Giliadite came downe fro Roglim, and wente ouer Iordan to the kyng, to couey him ouer Iordā. Bersai was a very aged man, euen fourescore yere olde, & provided the

the kyng of sustenance, whyle he laye at Bethanaim: for he was a man of verpe greute substance. And the kyng sayd vnto Berselai: come thou with me, and I wyll leade the with me in Jerusalem. And * Berselai sayd vnto the kyng: I am thus olde, and howe am I able to go vp with the kyng vnto Jerusalem? I am this day fourescore yere olde: and can I decerne betwene good or euill? Hath thy seruante any taste in that he eateth or drynke? Can he heare any more the voyce of syngyngemen and women? wherfore then shulde thy seruante be yet a burthen vnto my lord the kyng? Thy seruante wyll go a lytle waye ouer Jordan with þy kyng and why wyll the kyng recompence it me with suche a rewarde? Let thy seruante turne backe agayne, that I maye dye in myne owne cite, and (be buried) in the graue of my father and of my mother. Beholde, here is thy seruante Chimeam, let hym go with my lord the kyng, and do to hym what shall please the.

And the kyng answered: Chimeam shal go with me. And I wyll do to hym that thou shalt be content with. And whatsoener thou shalt requyre of me, that same wyl I do for the. And all the people went ouer Jordan. And when þy kyng was come ouer Jordan, he kissed Berselai, and blessed hym, and he went back agayne vnto his owne place. And then þy kyng went to Gilgal, and Chimeam went with hym, and so dyd all the people of Juda, and brought ouer the kyng, and there were but halfe the men of Israel.

And beholde, all the men of Israel came to þy kyng, and said vnto him: why haue our brethren þy men of Juda stolen the away, & haue brought the kyng & his household, and all Dauids men with hym ouer Jordan? And all the men of Juda answered þy men of Israel the kyng is nere of kyn to vs: wherfore be ye angry for þy mater? thinke ye we eate of the kynges cost, or þy we take vs any gyftes? And þy men of Israel answered the men of Juda, & sayde: we haue ten partes in the kyng, & haue therto more ryght to Dauid then ye. Why the dyd ye despise vs, that our aduysers shuld not be fyrst had, in restoring our kyng a gayne? And the wordes of þy men of Juda were fearer then the wordes of the men of Israel.

The .xx. Chapter.

Seba the sonne of Bichri rayseth Israel agaynst Dauid Joab kylleth Amasa traytously: the head of Seba is deliuered to Joab; Dauids reseruers are nombred.

When there came thither a certayne man of Belial (named Seba the sonne of Bichri, a man of Gemini) he blew a tre-pet, & sayde: we haue no part in Dauid, neither haue we inheritaunce in the sonne of Isai, let the men of Israel depart vnto theyr tentes. And so every man of Israel went from Dauid & folowed Seba the sonne of Bichri. But the men of Iuda clane fast vnto theyr kyng, from Jordan to Jerusalem. And Dauid came to his house to Jerusalem, & toke the ten women his concubines, & he had left behinde hym to kepe the house, and put them in warde, and fedde them: but laye no more with them. And so they were enclosed vnto the day of their death, luyng in wydowed.

Then sayde the kyng to Amasa: cal me the men of Iuda togyther agaynst the thyrde daye and be thou here also. And so Amasa wnt to gather the men of Iuda togyther: but taryed longer the tyme which he had appoynted hym. And Dauid sayd to Abisai: now shal Seba the sonne of Bichri do vs more harme, the dyd Abisalom. Take thou therfore thy lordes seruantes and folowe after hym, lest he get hym walled cities, and escape vs. And there went out after hym Joabs men, and the Gethites & the Gethites, and all the myghtyest men. And they departed out of Jerusalem, to folowe after Seba the sonne of Bichri. And whyle they were at the great stone in Gibeon, Amasa went before the. And Joabs garmente (that he had about hym) was gyrded vnto hym, and he had gyrded theron a knyfe, which was gyrded fast to his loynes in such a shewe, that (as he went) it fel som tymes out. And Joab said to Amasa: art thou in helth my brother? And Joab toke Amasa by the chin with the ryght hand to kysse hym. But Amasa toke no hede to the knyfe that was in Joabs hande, for therwith he smote hym in the herte rybbes, and shed out his bowels to the ground, and thrust at hym no more and he dyed.

And Joab & Abisai his brother folowed after Seba þy son of Bichri: & one of Joabs men stode by him, & sayd: he þy beareth any fauour to Joab or good wyll to Dauid, let hym go after Joab. And Amasa laye wallowed in bloode in þy myddes of þy way. And there was a mā which when he sawe * þy all the people stode styll, he rowled Amasa out of þy way into the feld, & cast a cloth vnder hym, because he sawe that every one þy cam stode styll by hym. And alsoone as he was tumbled oute of the waye, all the people went after Joab, to folowe after Seba the sonne of Bichri.

And he went thowowe all the tribes of Israel vnto Abel, and Bethmaacha and al the places of Barim. And they gathered togyther, & went after hym. And they came, and belleged hym in Abel, and Bethmaacha. And they caste vp a banke agaynst the cite that stode in the valley. All þy people that was with Joab, thrust at the wal to ouerthrowe it. The cryed a wyse woman out of þy cite: heare, heare, byd Joab come hither þy I may speake to hym. When Joab was come vnto her, þy woman said vnto him. Art not thou Joab? And he answered, I am. And she sayde to hym: heare the wordes of thyne handmayde. And he answered: I do heare: & she sayd agayn: They spake in the olde tyme, saying: men must aske aske (peace fyrst, how moche rather shulde they so do to) Abel: for so haue they continued (hither to:) I am one of them, that are peaceable and fapthfull in Israel: and thou goest about to destroy a cytie and a mother in Israel. Why wilt thou denoure the enheritaunce of the Lorde?

And Joab answered, and sayd: God forbid, God forbid it me, that I shulde eyther deuoure or destroye. The matter is not so: but a man of mount Ephraim (Seba the sonne of Bichri by name) hath lyft vp his hand agaynst the kyng, euē agaynst Dauid. Delyuer vs him onely, & I wyl depart from the cytie. And a woman sayd vnto Joab: Beholde, his heed shal be thowen to the ouer the wall. And then the woman wente vnto all the people wher wysdome. And they smote of the heed of Seba the son of Bichri, and cast it out to Joab. * And he blew a troper, and they scattered fro the cytie, euery mā to his tent. And Joab returned to Ierusalem vnto the kyng.

1. Sam. ii. 9.

Joab was ouer all the hooft of Israel. And Banai the son of Jehoiada was ouer the Gethites and Beletites. And Aduram was ouer the tribute. And Jehosaphat the sonne of Abiud was recorder. Seua was scribe. And Sadock and Abiathar were the preistes. And Itra the Jazite was Dauids preest.

The. xxi. Chapter.

The deare yeres. The vengeance of the synnes of Saul lyghthe on his. vii. sonnes, which are hanged. Four great battayles which Dauid had agaynst the Philistines.

When there fell an hungre in the dayes of Dauid, the yeres toggyther. And Dauid enquired of the Lorde. And the Lorde answered: it is for Saul, and for house of bloud, because he slue the Gibeonites. And the kyng called the Gibeonites, and sayde vnto the: Now (the Gibeonites were not of the chylde of Israel, but a remnant of the Amozites, and the chylde of Israel swore vnto them: And Saul sought to slay the: for a zeale that he had to the chylde of Israel & of Juda.) Wherefore Dauid sayd vnto them: what shal I do for you, & wherewith shal I make the attonement ye maye blesse the enheritaunce of the Lorde?

1. Sam. xxi. 9.

1. Sam. xxi. 9.

The Gibeonites answered him: We wyl haue no syluer nor golde, of Saule nor of his house: neyther is it oure mynde that thou shouldest kill any mā in Israel. He sayd: what saye then? I shal do for you. They answered the kyng the man that consumed vs & ymagined to byng vs to nought, him wyl we destroy, that nought of him continue in any of the costes of Israel. Let seven men of his sonnes be delyuered vnto vs, and we wyl hange them vp vnto the Lorde, in Gibeon of Saule, whom the Lorde dyd chose. And the kyng sayde: I wyl gyue them you.

But the kyng had compassion on Miphibosheth the sonne of Jonathas the sonne of Saul, because of the Lordes othe, that was betwene them: euē betwene Dauid and Jonathas the sonne of Saul. But he toke the two sonnes of Rizpa the daughter of Aia (whom she bare vnto Saul) euē Armoni and Miphibosheth, and the fyue sonnes of Michol (the daughter of Saul) whom she bare to Adriel the sonne of Bersilai, the Gheolathite. And he delyuered them vnto the handes of the Gibeonites, whiche hanged them in the hyll befoze the Lorde. And they fell all euē toggyther, and were slayne in the dayes of haruest: euē in the fyrst dayes, and in the begynnyng of barlye haruest.

And Rizpa the daughter of Aia toke sackcloth & hanged it vp for them vpon the rocke, euē fro the begynnyng of haruest, vntyl rayne dropped vpon the out of heauen, & suffered neyther by dayes of the ayre to fal on them by day, nor by night of the felde by nyght. And it was tolde Dauid, what Rizpa the daughter of Aia the concubine of Saul had done, & Dauid wēt & toke the bones of Saul & of Jonathas his sonne from the men of Jabes in Gilead (which had stollen them from the strete of Bethsan wher the Philistines had hanged them when the Philistines had slayne Saul in Gilboa.

And he broughte thence the boones of Saul and the bones of Jonathas his sonne, and they toke vp the boones of them that were hanged. And the bones of Saul and Jonathas his sonne buried they in the countrey of Ben Jamin in Zelai, in the sepulchre of Cis his father. And when they had perfourmed all that the kyng commaunded, God was then at one with the lande.

It fortuneth, that the Philistines had yet war agayne with Israel. And Dauid went downe, and his seruantes wyth hym, and foughte agaynst the Philistines. And Dauid waxed fayne, and Iesay of Rob one of the sonnes of the gauntes (the yron of whose speare wayed the byrded spyles, and he beinge gyrded with a newe swerde) thought to haue slayne Dauid. * But Abisai the sonne of Zaruia succoured hym, and smote the Philistine, and kyled hym. Then the seruantes of Dauid swore vnto hym saying: Thou shalt go no moze out with vs to battayl that thou quenche not the lyght of Israel. And yet after this, there was a battayle w the Philistines at Rob, and then Sibbechai the Gheolathite slue Saph, whych was one of the sonnes of the Gpauntes.

And there was yet an other battayl in Geth with the Philistines, wher Elhanan the sonne of Jaere Orgim, a Bethlehemitte slue one Goliath a Gethite: the staffe of whose speare was as greates as a weauers cloth beame.

And there was yet an other battayl in Geth wher was a mā of a great stature, and had on euery hand. vi. fingers, & on euery fote. vi. toes, xlii. in all. And was bozne also of the kynged of the gpauntes of Geth. And when he despyed Israel, Jonathas the sonne of Simea the brother of Dauid slue him. These foure gpauntes were bozne in Geth, and fel into the hande of Dauid and into the handes of his seruantes.

The. xxii. Chapter.

The songe of Dauid for his delyuerance from his enemyes. And Dauid spake the wordes of this song vnto the Lorde, what tyme the Lorde had delyuered him out of the hand of all his enemyes, and out of the hande of Saul.

And he sayde: the Lorde is my rocke and my castell.

castel and my delynerer. God is my strength, in hym wyl I trust: he is my hynde, and the horne of my saluaciō, my worshyp and my refuge: my sayour, thou shalt saue me from wronge.

¶ I wyl cal on the Lorde which is prayse wor- thy, and so shal I be saued from myne enemyes. For the corruptions of death closed me aboute: the floudes of Belial put me in feare. The sorowes of hell compassed me aboute: the snares of death ouertoke me. In my tribulation wyl I call vpon the Lorde, and crye to my God. And he shall heare my voyce out of hys temple, and my crye shall enter into his eares. The earth trembled and quaked: the foundacions of heauen moved and shoke, when he was angry.

¶ Smoke went vp in his wrath, & consumyng fyre out of his mouth, coles were kyndled ther- of. And he bowed heauē, & came downe, & there was darkenesse vnder his fete. And he sat vpon Cherub & dyd flye, he was sene carped vpon the wynges of the wynde. He made darknesse a ta- bernacle rounde about hym, w waters gathered togyther in thicke cloudes. Thowow þ byrght- nesse of his presence were the fyre coles kyndled

God thundred from heauen, & he that is moost hye, doeth put out his voyce. He shot arrowes, & scatered them: he hurled lightning, & ouertow them. The flowynges of the see appeared, & the foundacions of the worlde were sene, by þ reason of the rebukynge of the Lorde, & thowow the bla- styng of the breath of hys nostrelles. He shall sende fro heauen, & fet me, he shall plucke me out of many waters. He shal delyuer me from my myghtye aduersarye, & from myne enemyes, for they are to stronge for me. When they had ouer taken me, in the daye of my calamitie the Lord stayed me vp. For he brought me out into rōuth he delyuered me, bycause he had a loue vnto me.

¶ The Lorde wyl rewarde me accordyng to my ryghtousnesse: accordyng to the purenes of my hādes wil he recōpence me. For I hane kept the wayes of the Lord, & done no wyckednes agaynst my God. For all hys lawes are in my spght, and his statutes wyl I put away fro me. In hys spght also haue I bene vndefyled, & hane kept me from myne iniquitie.

And the Lorde dyd to me agayne, accordyng to my ryghtousnesse, euen after my purenesse in hys eye spght. Wylth the godlye thou shalt be godly, and with the mā that is vncorrupt, thou shalt be vncorrupt. With the pure thou shalt be pure, and with the frowarde thou shalt be frow- warde. And the poore people that are in aduer- sitie, thou shalt helpe. And on the proude shalt thou caste thynne eyes. Thou arte my lycht, O Lorde: the Lorde shall lycht my darkenesse.

For wylth thynne helpe I wyl runne thowowe an hoost of men, and in my God wyl I spyngne ouer a wall. God is vncorrupte in his waye: the worde of the Lorde is tryed in the fyre: he is the defender of all them that trust in hym.

For who is a God saue the Lorde? and who is myghtye, saue our God? God strengtheth me w power, and ryddeth the waye in battayle cleare before me. He maketh his fete lyke pertes fete, and setteth me fast vpon my holde.

* He teacheth my handes to spght, that euen a bowe of stele is to weake for myne armes.

pl. xliii. a.

Thou hast gyuen me the hynde of thy salua- cion, and with thy lounyng mekenesse thou doest multiplie me. Thou shalt make me space to walke in, & my legges shall not fayle me. I wyl followe vpon myne enemyes & destroye them, & turne not agayne vntyl I haue consumed them. I wyl waste them and smyte them, that they shall not be able to aryse: yea, they shall fall vnder my feete.

Thou hast gydded me aboute wylth myght to battayle, and them that arose agaynst me, hast thou subdued vnder me.

And thou madest myne enemyes, (and them that hated me) to turne theyr backs to me that I myght destroye them. They loke for helpe, but there is none to saue them: yea, euen vnto the Lorde do they crye, but he heareth them not.

I wyl beate them as small as the dust of the earth: I wyl stampe them as the dyrt of þ strete and wyl spreade them abrode.

Thou shalt delyuer me from the dissensyon of my people, thou shalt kepe me to be an heed ouer nacyns: the people whych I knewe not, shall serue me.

Strauinge chyldren dissemble wylth me. At the hearynge of the eare they obeye me.

Strauinge chyldren wyl shynke away, and they shal be smytten wylth feare in theyr pryue chambie. God is almyghty, & blessed be my maker: magnified be God, my moost stronge saluaciō. It is God that auengeth me, & byngeth downe the people vnder me. He deliuereth me from myne enemyes, thou also shalt lyft me vp on hye from them that ryse agaynst me, thou shalt delyuer me from the wycked men.

And therfore I wyl prayse the (O Lorde) amonge þ nacyns, & wyl synge vnto thy name. Which he weth great saluacion for his kyng, & dealeth mercifully wylth hys annoynted: euen wylth David, and with his seede for euermore.

The. xliii. Chapter.

The last communicacion of David, and the description of the myghtye men to hym belongynge.

¶ These be the last sayynges of David, Da- uid the son of Isai sayde: And the man (which was made, the anoynted of the God of Jacob, & the noble Psalmist of Israel) sayd: the spyrite of the Lord spake by me & his worde was in my tonge. The God of Is- rael spake of me, euen the moost myghtye of Is- rael, sayde: he that beareth rule ouer men, ought to rule iustlye in the feare of God. And as the moornyng lycht when the Sunne is vp, a mo- nyng in whiche are no cloudes to let the byrght- nesse, & as the grasse of the earth is by the vertue of the rayn. Shal not my house be so wylth God? * For he hath made with me an euerlastyng co- uenant, parfyt & sure in all popntes: and thys is truly all my health and all my desyre, that it growe but not as grasse. But þ vngodly mā of Belial shall be as a thorne cleane plucked vp, & whych whych can not be taken wyth handes: But the man that shall touche them, must haue pzon, or a longe helue. * Or elles muste they be burnt wth fyre in the same place.

These be the names of the myghtye men whō David had: one that sate in the seate of wysdom beinge cheffest amonge thre: pleasaunte was he and strong: he slue egypt hundred at one tyme. After hym was Eliazar the sonne of Dodi, the sonne of Ahoi, one of the thre worthyes, wyth David, whiche despyed the Philistines that were there gathered togpyther to battayle, when the men of Israel were gone vp. He arose and layed on the Philistines vntyl hys hand was wery, & claue vnto the swerd. And the Lord gaue great victoꝝ the same day. And the people (whiche had fled) returned and went after him to runne to the spoule. After hym was Samma the son of Age the Hararite: and the Philistines gathered togpyther besyde a towne. (Where was a parcell of lande full of ryce) and the people fledde from the Philistines. But he stode in the myddes of the grounde, and defended it, and slue the Philistines. And the Lord gaue great victoꝝ.

l. para. xii. b.

* These thre (whiche were of the thyrty chefe captaynes) went downe to David in þ haruest tyme vnto the caue of Adullam, and the host of the Philistines abode in the valeye of gyauntes. And David was then in an holde. And the soundours of the Philistines were in Bethlehem. And David longed, and sayde: Oh, that I had of the water that is in the welle, by the gate of Bethlehem for to drynke. And the thre myghty brake thozowe the hoste of the Philistines, and fet water out of the well of Bethlehe that was by the gate, and toke & brought it to David. He uerthelesse he wold not drynke therof, but offred it vnto the Lord, and sayd: the Lord forþyd I shulde do so. Is not thys the blood of the men that went in leopardy of theꝝ lyues: and therfore he wolde not drynke it. And these thynges dyd these thre myghty men. * Abisai the brother of Joab, þ sonne of Saruiab, was chefe amonge the thre, & he lyfte vp hys speare agaynst the hundred, and slue them, & had the name amonge the thre. For he was nobler man then the thre, and was theꝝ captayne. Howbeit he attayned not vnto (the first) thre.

ii. reg. xxi. b.

And Banaiabu the son of Jehoiaada (the sōne of a myghtye man (valiaūt in actes) of Rabzeel slue two strōge lyōs, euē lyōs of Moab. He wēt downe also, & slue a lyō in a pyt in tyme of snow. And he slue an Egyptian a goodly bygge man, whiche had a speare in his hande. But he wente downe to him with a staffe, & plucked the speare out of the Egyptians hande, & slue hym with hys owne speare. These thynges dyd Banaiabu the sonne of Jehoiaada, & had þ name amōg the thre worthyes. He was honourable amonge thyrty, but he attayned not to the (first) thre. And David made hym of his counsell. Ababel þ brother of Joab also was one of the thyrty. The. xxi. Chapter.

David causeth the people to be nombred, and therefore is Israel plagued with pestilence, so that in thre dayes there dyed. lxx. thousande.

And agayne, the Lord was wroth agaynst Israel, & he moued David agaynst them, in that he sayd: * go & nombꝝ Israel & Juda. For the kyng said to Joab þ captayne of his host go þ abrode now, throwout all the tribes of Israel, euen from Dan to Beerseba, and nombꝝ the people, that I may knowe the nombꝝ of them. And Joab sayd vnto the kyng: I beseeche the Lord thy God, to make thy people as many mo as they be: pea, and an hundred tymes so many mo, and that the eyes of my lord þ kyng maye se them. And what is the cause that my lord the kyng hath a lust to this thyng? For withstandyng the kynges worde pꝛeupled agaynst Joab & agaynst þ captaynes of the host.

And Joab & the captaynes of the host went out from the pꝛesence of the kyng, to nombꝝ the people of Israel. And they passed ouer Jordan, and pytched in Arzer on the ryght syde of the ryte that lyeth in the middes of the valeye of Gad ouer agaynst Jazer. And then they came to Gilead, & to the netherlande, where was a new habitation, & from thence they came to Dan Jaan about to Sidon, & came to the stronge holde of Tyre & to al the cyties of the Heuites & of þ Cananites, & then went out of the South of Juda, euen to Beerseba. And so, when they had ben abrode thozowout all the lande, they returned to Ierusalē agayne, after the ende of nyne monethes & twentye dayes. And Joab deliuered vp the nombꝝ & sūme of the people vnto the kyng. And there were in Israel egypt hundred thousand men of myght that drewe swerdes. And the me of Juda were fyue hundred thousande men.

And Davids herte smote hym, after that he had nombꝝed the people. And David sayd vnto the Lord: I haue synned exceedingly in that I haue done. And now Lord take awaye the trespasse of thy seruaunt, for I haue done very foolishly. And when David was vp in a moornyng the word of the Lord came vnto þ prophet Gad Davids sear, saying: go, and saye vnto David, thus sayeth the Lord: I offre the thre thynges, chole the whiche of them I shall do vnto the.

So Gad came to David, and he wed hym, & sayde sayd vnto hym: Wylte thou haue seven yeaeres hynge to come in thy lande, or wylte thou fye iii. monethes before thyne enemyes, they folowynge the, or that there be thre dayes pestilence in thy lande? Nowe therfore aduyle the, and se, what aunswere I shall gyue to hym that sente me: and Dauid said vnto Gad: I am in extreme trouble. *We wyl fall nowe into the hande of the Lord, for moche is his mercy, and let me not fall into the hande of man.

And so the Lord sent a pestilence in Israel, from the morning vnto the tyme appoynted. And there dyed of the people fro Dan to Beerseba seuenthy thousande men. And when the angell stretched out his hande vpon Jerusalem to destroy it, the Lord had compassion to do that cruel, and sayde to the angell that destroyed the people: it is nowe sufficient: holde thyne hande. And the angell of the Lord was by the threshynge place of Arefna the Jebusyte. And Dauid spake vnto the Lord (when he sawe the angell that smote the people) and sayde: lo, it is I that haue synned, and I that haue done wyckedlye. But these shepe, what haue they done? let thine hande (I praye the) be agaynst me and agaynst my fathers house.

And Gad came the same daye to Dauid, and sayd vnto hym: go vp, and reare an aultare vnto the Lord in the threshynge floore of Arefna the Jebusyte. And Dauid (accozdyng to the sayinge of Gad) went vp, as the Lord commaunded. And Arefna lokyd, and sawe the kyng and his seruantes commynge towarde hym. And Arefna went oute: and bowed hym selfe before the kyng flat on his face vpon the grounde, and Arefna sayde: wherfore is my lord the kyng come to his seruante? Dauid answered: to bye the threshynge floore of the, and to make an aultare vnto the Lord, that the plage maye cease from the people.

And Arefna sayde vnto Dauid: let my lord the kyng take & offre what semeth hym good in his eyes. Beholde, here be oxen for burnt sacrifice, and sheades, and the other instrumentes of the oxen for wood. All these thynges dyd Arefna gyue vnto the kyng, and sayd mozeouer vnto the kyng: the Lord thy God accept the. And the kyng sayd vnto Arefna: not so, but I wyl bye it of the at a pryce, and wyl not offre sacrifice vnto the Lord my God of that which doeth cost me nothyng. And so Dauid boughte the threshynge floore, and the oxen for fyfte pyles of syluer. And Dauid buyt there an aultare vnto the Lord, and offered burnt sacrifices and peaceofferynges. And so the Lord was intreated for the lande. And the plage ceased from Israel.

The ende of the seconde boke of Samuel: other wyse called the seconde boke of the kynges.

The thynde boke of the kynges after the rekenyng of the Latinistes, which thynde boke and the fourth also, is but one with the hebrues.

The fyrst Chapter.

The yonge virgin Abisag kept Dauid in his extreme age. Adonia occupieth the realme vnto the tyme that Salomon is anoynted kyng, and so Adonia getteth hym awaye.

And kyng Dauid was olde & stryken in yeres, so that whē they couered hym wyth clothes, he caughte no heate: wherfore his seruantes sayd vnto him: let there be sought for my lord the kyng a yonge mayden, to stande before the kyng, and to cheryshe hym. And let her lye in thy bosome, that my lord the kyng maye get heate. And so they sought for a fayre damelell thowout all the coastes of Israel, and founde one Abisag a sunamite, and brought her to the kyng. And the damelell was excedyng fayre, and cheryshed the kyng, and mynistred to him. But the kyng knewe her not.

And Adonia the sonne of Hagith exalted him selfe, sayinge: I wyl be kyng. And he gat hym charettes & horsemen, & fyfte men to runne before hym. And his father wolde not displease hym at any tyme, nor sayd so moche to hym, as: why doest thou so? And he was a goodly man, & his mother bare hym next after Abisalom. And he toke counsaile of Joab the son of Zeruia, and at Abiathar the prest. And they helped Adonia. But Sadoc the prest, Banatihu the son of Jeboiada, Nathan the prophete, Semel, and Rei, and al the men of myght which were wyth Dauid, fauoured not Adonia. And Adonia sacrificed shepe and oxen, and fat cattel, by the stone of zoheloth, which is fast by the well of Rogel, & called all his brethren the kynges sonnes, and the men of Juda the kynges seruantes. But Nathan the prophete, and Banatihu, and the other myghtye men, and Salomon his brother he called not.

Wherfore Nathan spake vnto Bethsabe the mother of Salomō, sayng: hast thou not herde howe þ Adonia þ sonne of Hagith doth raigne? and Dauid our lord knoweth it not? Now therfore come, & I wyl gyue the counsel, how to saue thyne thyne owne lyfe, and the lyfe of thy sonne Salomon. So and get the in vnto kyng David, and saye vnto hym: dydest not thou (my lord, O kyng) sweare vnto thy handmayde, saying: Salomon thy sonne shall raygne after me, & he shall sit vpon my seate, why then Adonia kyng? Behold, whyle y yet talkest there w the kyng I wyl come in after the, & cōfyrme thy wordes.

C And Bethsabe went in vnto the kyng into the chambze. And the kyng was very olde, and Abisag the Sunamite ministred vnto the king. And Bethsabe stouped & made obeysaunce vnto the kyng. And the kyng sayd: what is the matter? She answered him: my lord, thou swarest by the Lorde thy God vnto thyne handmayde: Salomon thy sonne shall raygne after me, and he shall sit vpon my seate. And beholde, now is Adonia kyng, and my lord the kyng woteth not of it. And he hath offred oxen, fat catel, and many shepe, and hath called al the somes of the kyng, & Abiathar y preist, & Joab the captayne of the hoost. But Salomon thy seruauant hath he not bydden. And now my Lorde (O kyng) the eyes of all Israel wayte on the, that thou shuldest tell them, who ought to sit on the seate of my lord the kyng after hym. For els when my lord the kyng shal slepe with his fathers, I and my sonne Salomon shal be synners.

D And whyle he yet talked with the kyng, Nathan the prophete came also. And they told the kyng, saying: beholde, here cometh Nathan the prophete. And when he was come in to the kyng he made obeysaunce befoze the kyng vpon his face on the grounde, & Nathan sayd: My lord (O kyng) hast thou sayde: Adonia shall raygne after me, & shal sit vpon my seate: for he is gone downe this daye, & hath slayne many oxen, and fat shepe, & hath called all the kynges sonnes, & the captaynes of the hoost, & Abiathar the preist. And beholde, they eate & drynke befoze him, and saye: God saue kyng Adonia. But me thy seruauant, and Sadok the preiste, and Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, and thy seruauant Salomon hath he not called. Is this thyng done of my lord the kyng, and thou hast not shewed it vnto thy seruauant, who shulde sit on the seate of my lord the kyng after hym?

E Then kyng David answered, and sayd: call me Bethsabe. And she came into the kynges presence, and stode befoze hym. And the kyng sware, sayinge: As trulpe as the Lorde lyueth (that hath ryd my soule out of al aduersitie) euē as I sware vnto the by the Lord God of Israel sayinge: Salomon thy sonne shall raygne after me, & he shal sit vpon my seate for me, so wyl I do this day. Then Bethsabe bowed on her face to the earth, and dyd reuerence vnto the kyng, & sayd: I praye God that my lord kyng David maye lyue ever. And kyng David sayd: call me Sadocke the preist, & Nathan the prophete, and Banaiahu y sonne of Jehoiada: And they came befoze y kyng. The kyng also sayd vnto them: take w you the seruantes of your lord, & set Salomon my sonne vpon myne owne mule, & cary hym downe to Gihon. And let Sadock y preist & Nathan the prophete annoynte hym there kyng ouer Israel. And blowe ye wyth trompettes, & saye: God saue kyng Salomon. And thā come vp after him, y he may come & sit vpon my seate. For he shal be kyng in my stede. And I wyl commaunde hym to be captayne ouer Israel & Iuda. And Banaiahu y sonne of Jehoiada answered the kyng, & sayd: Amen. I praye God y the Lorde God of my lord the kyng saye so to. And as God hath ben w my lord the king, euē so be he w Salomon also, & make his seate greater, then y seate of my lord kyng David hath ben.

And so Sadok the preist, and Nathan the prophete, and Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, and the Crethites and Phelthites wēt downe, and sette Salomon vpon kyng Davids mule, and brought him to Gihon. And Sadocke the preist toke an horn of oyle oute of the tabernacle, and annoynted Salomon. And all they of the people blew trompettes, and sayde: God saue kyng Salomon. And al the people came vp after him, ppyng wyth pypes and reioysyng greatly, so that the earth rang with the sounde of them.

And Adonia and al the gesses that he had called vnto hym, herd it, euē as they had made an ende of eatyng. And when Joab herd the sounde of the trumpet, he sayde: how happeneth it that there is suche a noyse in the cytie? And as he yet spake, behold, Jonathas the sonne of Abiathar y preist came. And Adonia sayd vnto him: come in, for thou arte a valpant man, and byngest good tydings. And Jonathas answered, & said to Adonia: Verely our lord kyng David hath made Salomon kyng. And the kyng hath sent with hym Sadok the preist, & Nathan the prophete, and Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, and the Crethites, and the Phelthites, & they haue set him vpon the kynges mule. And Sadok the preist, and Nathan the prophete, haue annoynted him kyng in Gihon. And they came vp agayne and reioysed, that the cytie dyd sounde agayne. And that is the noyse that ye haue hearde. And Salomon spyteth on the seate of the kyngdom. And mozeouer, the kynges seruantes came to blesse our lord kyng David, saying: thy God make the name of Salomon moze honorable thā thy seate. And the kyng bowed him selfe vpon the bed. And thus sayd the kyng: Blessed be the Lorde God of Israel: whiche hath made one to sitte on my seate this daye, myne eye seing it.

And all the gesses that were wyth Adonia were afraied, and rose vp, and went every man his waye. And Adonia fearyng the presence of Salomon, arose, and went, (into the tabernacle of the Lorde) and caught hold on the hornes of the altare. And one tolde Salomon, saying: Behold, Adonia doth feare kyng Salomon: for he hath caught holde on the hornes of the altare, saying: let kyng Salomon sweare vnto me this daye, that he wyl not slaye his seruante wyth the swerde.

And Salomon sayde, yf he wyl be a chyld of vertue, there shal not an heere of him fall to the earth. But yf wickednesse be found in him, he shal dye. And so kyng Salomon sent, and they brought brought hym from the altare. And he came and dyd obeysaunce vnto kyng Salomon. And Salomon sayd vnto hym: get the to thyne house.

The. ii. Chapter.

David dyeth. Adonia requyrezeth to haue Abisag to his concubine, and therfore Salomon commaundeth to slay hym. Abiathar is put from his priesthode. Semai and Joab are slayne.

The dayes of David drew ney that he shulde dye, and he charged Salomon hym sonne, sayinge: I go the waye of al the worlde, * be thou stronge therfore, and shewe thy selfe a man. Kepe thou the watche of the Lorde thy God, that thou walke in his wayes, and kepe his statutes, and his preceptes, his iudgementes, and his testimonyes, euen as it is wyrtten in the lawe of Moyses: that thou mayest prospere in all that thou doest, and in euery thyng that thou medlest wythall.

That the Lorde also maye make good hys worde whiche he spake vnto me, sayinge: yf thy chyldren take hede to theyr waye, & they walke before me in truthe, wyth all theyr hertes, and wyth all theyr soules, * then shalte thou not be wythout a man on the seate of Israel.

* Moreover, thou wotest how Joab the sone of Zaruia serued me, & what he dyd to that two captaynes of the hostes of Israel: vnto Abner the sonne of Ner, & vnto Amasa the sonne of Jether: whō he slue, & shed bloode in tyme of peace, (euen as it had ben in warre) and put the blood of warre vpon hys gyrdle that was about hys loynes, and in hys shoes that were on hys feete. Deale wyth hym therfore accordynge to thy wyledome, & bynne not his hooze heed downe to the graue in peace. * but shewe kyndnesse vnto the sonnes of Bersai the Gileadite, & they maye eate at thy table. For they came to me whē I fled from Absalom thy brother.

* And beholde, thou haste wyth the Semai the sonne of Gera, the sonne of Gemini, of Basurim, which cursed me wyth an horryble curse in the daye when I went to Mahanaim. But he came to mete me at Iordane, and I sware to hym by the Lorde, sayinge: I wyll not slaye the with the swerde: but thou shalte not count hym as vngyltpe. For thou art a man of wyledome, and knowest what thou oughtest to doo vnto hym. Hys hooze heed shalte thou bynne to the graue wyth blood.

And so * David slepte wyth his fathers, and was buryed in the cytie of David. And y dayes which David raygned vpon Israel, were fouertye yeres: seuen yeres raygned he in Hebron, and thirtie & thre yeres raygned he in Ierusalem.

* Then sat Salomon vpon the seate of David his father, and hys kyngdome was stablyshed myghtelye. And Adonia y sone of Hagith came to Bethsabe the mother of Salomon. And she sayd: * Comest thou peaceably? And he said peaceably. He sayd, moreover: I haue some what to saye vnto the. She sayd: saye on. And he sayd: y knowest that the kyngdome was myne, & that all Israel set their faces on me, & I shuld raygn, howbeit, the kyngdome is turned away, and gyuen to my brother: for it is apoynted him of the Lorde, & now I aske a petition of the: denye me not. And she sayde vnto hym: Saye on. And he sayde: Speake, I praye the, vnto Salomon the kyng, for he wyl not saye the naye, that he gyue me Abisag y Sunamite to wyfe. And Bethsabe sayd: wel, I wyl speake for the vnto y kyng.

Bethsabe therfore went vnto kyng Salomon, to speake vnto hym for Adonia. And the kyng rose to mete her, & bowed hym selfe vnto her, and sat hym downe on hys seate. And there was a seate set for the kynges mother, & she sat on hys ryght syde. Then she sayd: I desyre a lytle petition of the, I praye the saye me not naye. And the kyng sayd vnto her: Aske on my mother, for I wyl not saye the naye. She sayde: let Abisag the Sunamite be gyuen to Adonia thy brother to wyfe. And kyng Salomon answered and sayd vnto hys mother: why doest thou aske Abisag y Sunamite for Adonia? aske for him the kyngdome also: for he is myne elder brother, and hath for him Abiathar the prest, and Joab the sonne of Zaruia. Then kyng Salomon sware by the Lorde, sayinge: God do so, and so to me, yf Adonia hath not spoken thys worde agaynst hys owne lyfe. Now therfore as trulpe as the Lorde lyueth, whiche hath ordeyned me, and set me on the seate of David my father, and made me an house, as he promysed, Adonia shal dye thys daye. And kyng Salomon sent by the hande of Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, and he smote hym that he dyed.

And vnto Abiathar the prest sayd the kyng: get the to Anathoth vnto thyne owne felde: for thou arte worthy of deathe: but I wyll not at this tyme kyll the, because thou barest the arke of the Lorde God before David my father, and because thou hast suffred wyth my father in all his afflictions. And so Salomon put awaye Abiathar from beinge prest vnto the Lorde, that he myght fulfyll the wordes of the Lord whych he spake ouer the house of Eli in Silo. Then tydnynges came also to Joab: for Joab had turned after Adonia though he turned not after Absalom. And Joab fled vnto the tabernacle of the Lorde and caught holde on the hornes of the altare. And it was tolde kyng Salomon, how y Joab fled vnto y tabernacle of the Lord, & stode by the altare. Thā Salomō sent Banaiahu the sone of Jehoiada, sayinge: go, & fall vpon hym.

And Banaiahu came to the Tabernacle of the Lorde, and sayd vnto hym: Thus sayth the kyng: come out. And he sayde: naye, but I wyl dye euen here. And Banaiahu brought the king worde agayne, sayinge: thus sayde Joab, and thus he answered me.

And the kyng sayd. Doe euen as he hath sayd smyte hym, and burye hym, that thou mayest take awaye the blood whiche Joab shed causelesse, from me, and from the house of my father. And the Lorde shal bynne his blood vpon hys owne heed, for he smote two men ryghtous & better thā he, & slue them with the swerde, my father David not knowyng therof: euen Abner the sonne of Ner, captayn of y host of Israel, & Amasa the sonne of Jether captayne of the host of Juda. Theyr blood shall therfore retorne vpon the heed of Joab, and on the heed of hys seede for euer. But vpon Dauid, and vpon hys seed, & vpon his house, & vpon his seate shall there be peace for euer of the Lorde. So Banaiabu the sonne of Jehoiada went vp, & smote hym, & slue him, & buryed hym in his owne house in the wilderness. And the kyng put Banaiabu the sonne of Jehoiada in his rounne ouer the hooste, & put Sadok the prest in the roume of Abiathar.

And the kyng sente, and called Semei, and sayd vnto him: buylde the an house in Ierusalem, and dwell there: and se that thou goo not forth thence anye whyther. For be thou sure, that the daye that thou goest oute, and passest ouer the ryuer of Cedron, thou shalt dye that daye, & thy blood shall be vpon thyne owne heed. And Semei sayd vnto the kyng. Thys is a good thyngge as my lord the kyng hath sayd: so wyll his seruauant do. And Semei dwelt in Ierusalem many a daye. And it chaunced after thre yeres, that two of the seruantes of Semei ranne awaye vnto Achis, sonne of Maacha kyng of Geth. And they tolde Semei, saying: beholde, thy seruantes be in Geth. And Semei stode vp, and sabled hys asse, and gat hym to Geth to Achis, to seke his seruantes, and returned, & brought hys seruantes agayne from Geth.

¶ And it was tolde Salomon, howe that Semei had gone fro Ierusalem to Geth, and was come agayne. And the kyng sent & called Semei, and sayd vnto hym. Dyd I not charge the by the Lorde wyth an othe, and testifed vnto the, saying: be sure, that whensoever thou goest out, & walkest abrode any whyther, thou shalt dye the death? And thou saydest vnto me: it is good tydynges that I haue herd. Why thā hast thou not kept the oth of the Lorde and the commaundement that I charged the wythall?

ii. reg. xvi. b

The kyng sayd mozeouer to Semei: * Thou remembrest al the wickednesse which thyne herte knoweth, that thou dydest to Dauid my father. The Lorde also shall bypunge thy wyckednesse vpon thyne owne heed: and kyngge Salomon shall be blessed, and the seate of Dauid stablyshed before the Lorde for euer. So the kyngge commaunded Banaiabu the sonne of Jehoiada: which went out & smote him that he dyed. And the kyng dome was stablyshed in the hāde of Salomon.

The. iii. Chapter

¶ Salomon taketh Pharaos daughter to wyfe. The Lord appeareth to hym, and giveth hym wysdom. The playng of the two harlottes, who shulde owe the lyfynge chyld, and Salomons sentence therein.

¶ Salomon made affinitie with Pharaos kyngge of Egypte, and toke Pharaos daughter, and brought her into the cytye of Dauid, vntyll he had made an ende of buyldynge hys owne house, & the house of the Lorde, & the wall of Ierusalem rounde about. Only the people sacrificed in altares made on hylls, because ther was no house buylt vnto the name of the Lorde, vntyll those dayes. And Salomon loued the Lorde, & walked in the ordinaunces of Dauid his father, saue only that he sacrificed and offred incense vpon altares in hylls

* And the kyng went to Gibeon to offere there, for it was a speciall offeryng place. And a thousande burnt offrynges dyd Salomon offere vpon that altare: & in Gibeon the Lorde appeared to Salomon in a dreame by nyght. And God said aske what thou wylt, that I maye geue it the. And Salomon sayde: thou hast shewed vnto thy seruaut Dauid my father great mercede, whiche walked before the in trueth, in ryghteousnes, & in playnesse of hert wyth the. And thou hast kept for him this greates mercede, that thou hast gyven hym a sonne, to syt on hys seate: as it is come to passe thys daye. * And now, O Lorde my God, it is thou that hast made thy seruauant kyng in stede of Dauid my father. * And I am but yong and wote not howe to go out & in. And thy seruante is in the myddest of thy people, whiche thou hast chosen. And verely the people are so many that they can not be told nor nombred for multitude. * Geue therfore vnto thy seruaut an vnderstandynge herte, to iudge the people, that I maye decerne betwene good and bad. For who is able to iudge this, thy so myghty a people?

And this pleased the Lorde well, that Salomon had desired thys thyngge. And God sayde vnto hym: because thou hast asked this thyngge, & hast not asked longe lyfe, neyther hast asked riches, nor the soule of thyne enemies, but hast asked vnderstandynge & discretion in iudgement.

Beholde, I haue done accordynge to thy petition. For I haue gyven the a wyfe & an vnderstandynge herte, so that there was none lyke the before the, neither after the shall any aryle lyke vnto the. And I haue also geue the, that whiche thou hast not asked, euen ryches and honoure, so that there shall be no kyngge lyke vnto the al thy dayes. And if thou wilt walke in my wayes, to kepe myne ordinaunces and my commaundementes, * as thy father Dauid dyd walke, I wyll lengthen thy dayes. When Salomon awoke, behold it was a dreame. * And he came to Ierusalem, and stode before the arke of the testament of the Lorde, & offred burnt offrynges & peace offrynges, and made a feast to all his seruantes.

* Then came there two women, that were harlottes, vnto the kyngge, and stode before him. And the one woman sayd: Oh my lord: I & thys woman dwell in one house. And I was deliuered of a chyld with her in the house. And the thyrde day after that I was deliuered, she was deliuered also: and we were togyther, and no straunger with vs in the house, saue we two.

And this wyfes chyld dyed in the nyght, for she smothered it. And she rose at mydnyght, & toke my sonne from my syde, whyle thyne hand mayde slepte, & layed it in her bosome, and put her deed chyld in my bosome. And whē I rose vnto geue my chyld sucke, beholde, it was deed. But whē I had looked vpon it in the mornynge, beholde, it was not my sonne, which I dyd beare.

The other woman sayde: it is not so: but my sonne lyueth, and thy son is deed. And she sayde agayne: No, but thy sonne is deed, and myne is alijue. And thus they pleated before the kyngge. Then sayde the kyngge: the one sayeth, this that that is a lye is my sonne, and the deed is thynne. And the other sayth, naye: but thy sonne is deed, and the lyeinge chylde is myne. And the kyng sayd: bypunge me a swearde. And they brought out a sweerde before the kyng. And the kyng sayd: Deuyde the lyeinge chylde in two, and geue the one halfe to the one, and the other to þ other.

Then spake the woman whose the lyeinge chylde was, vnto the kyng, for her bowels perned vpon her sonne, and sayde: I beseeche the my lord, geue her the lyeinge chylde, & in no wyse slay it. But the other sayd: let it be neither myne nor thynne, but deuyde it. Then the kyng answered and sayd: *geue her the lyeinge chylde, and slay it not, for he is the mother thereof. And all they of Israel herd of the iudgement, which the kyng hadde iudged, and feared the kyng: for they sawe that the wysdome of God was in hym to do iustyce. ¶

¶ The. iiii. Chapter.

The princes and rulers vnder Salomon. The purueraunce for his vyttyples. The nombze of his hoyses, and of his parables.

And kyng Salomon was kyng ouer all Israel. And these were hys lordes. Azariah the sonne of Sadocke the preist, Elihozepe & Abiah the sonnes of Sila, scribes. Jehosaphath the sonne of Ahilud, the recorder. Banaiah the son of Jehoiada was ouer the hoost. Sadocke and Abiathar were the preistes. And Azariah the sonne of Nathan was ouer the offycers. And zabud the sonne of Nathan was a preist, the kynges companion. And Abisar steward of housholde. And * Adoniram the sonne of Abda was ouer the trespites.

And Salomon had twelue offycers ouer all Israel, which prouyded vyttyples for the kyng and hys housholde: eche man hys moneth in a yere, made prouision for necessarye thynges. And these are they: names: the sonne of Hur in moût Ephraim: the sonne of Dekar in Makaz, and in Saalbim and Bethlames, Elon & Bethhanan: the sonne of Hefed in Aruboth, to whom perteyned Socho and al the land of Hephher: the sonne of Abinadab in al þ region of Dor, which had Tappeth the doughter of Salomō to wyfe Baane the son of Ahilud was ouer Chaanach, and Magiddo, and ouer all Bethshan, whiche is by zarthana beneth Israel, fro Bethshan, to the playne of Meholah, euen vnto the place that is ouer agaynst Tchernea: the sonne of Gaber had Ramoth Gilead, and hys were the townes of Jair, the sonne of Manasse, which are in Gilead, and vnder him was the region of Argob which is in Basan thre score greete cyties with walles and barres of brasse.

¶ Ahinadab the sonne of Hiddo had Mahenaim. Ahimaaz was in Nephtalim, and he toke Basmath the doughter of Salomon to wyfe. Baanah the sonne of Husai was in Aser and in Aloth. Jehosaphat the sonne of Paruah was in Iachar. Semei the sonne of Ela was in Benjamin. Gaber the sonne of Ury was in the countrey of Gilead, the lande of Sehon kyng of the Amozites, and of Og kyng of Basan, & was offycer alone in the land. And Juda and Israel were many, euen as the sande of the see in nombze eatyng, drynkynge, and makynge merve. * And Salomon raygned ouer al kyngdomes, fro the rpuer vnto the lande of the Philistines: eue vnto the bordze of Egypte, and they brought presentes, & serued Salomō al the dayes of his life.

And Salomons breed for one daye was. xxx. quarters of manchet flour, and thre score quarters of meale: ten stalled oxen, and. xx. out of the pastures, and an hundred shepe, besyde pertes, buckes, and wylde gootes, and capons. For he ruled in all the region on the other syde Euphrates, from Thiphsah to * Asa, ouer al the kynges on the other syde the rpuer. And he had peace w all his seruantes on euery syde. And Juda and Israel dwelt wythoute feare, euery man vnder hys vyne and vnder his figge tree, from Dan, to Berseba, al the dayes of Salomon.

And Salomon had * xl. M. stallies of hoyses for charettes, and. xii. M. hoysmen. And the offycers prouyded vitayle for kyng Salomon, & for all þ came oute of any place to kyng Salomōs table, euery man his moneth, so that there lacked nothyng. Barly also & strawe for the hoyses & mules, brought they vnto the place where the offycers were, euery man in his offyce.

* And God gaue Salomon wysdome and vnderstandynge excedynge moche, and a large herte, euen as the lande that is on the see shore: and Salomons wysdome excelled the wysdome of all the chyliden of the Eastre countrey, and all the wysdome of Egypte. For he was wyser then all men: pea, then Ethan the Ezrahite, and Heman, Chalcol, and Darda the sonnes of Mahol. And his name was spokē of thorow out al naciōs on euery side. And Salomō spake thre thousand prouerbes. And his songes were a thousande and fyue. And he spake of trees, eue from the Cedar tree that groweth in Libanon, vnto the Plope that spryngeth oute of the wall. He spake also of beastes, of foules, of wormes, & of fisches. And there came of al naciōs to heare the wysdome of Salomon, & from al kynges of the earth, which had herde of hys wysdome.

^{1. Sa. xxi. a} sente to Hiram, sayinge: thou knowest * howe that Dauid my father could not buyld an house vnto the name of the Lord his God, for þ warres which were about him on euery syde, vntyll the Lorde put them vnder the soles of hys feete. But now the Lord my God hath gyue me rest on euery syde, so that there is neither aduersary, noz any euill plage. And beholde, * I am determined to buyld an house vnto the name of the Lorde my God, as the Lorde spake vnto Dauid my father, sayinge: thy sonne whome I wyl set vpon thy seat for the, he shal buyld an house vnto thy name. Now therfore comaunde thou that they hewe me Cedar trees out of Libanon. And my seruantes shal be with thyne, & vnto the wil I gyue the hyre for thy seruantes, accordyng to al such thynges as thou shalt appoynt, for thou knowest that there are not among vs, that can skyll to hewe tymbre, lyke vnto the Sidones.

^{1. Reg. vii. b} When Hiram herde the wordes of Salomon he reioyced greatly, and sayd: Blessed be þ Lord this daye, which hath gyue vnto Dauid a wyse sonne ouer this myghty people. And Hiram set to Salomon, sayinge: I haue consydered the thynges which thou sentest to me for, and wyl accomplishe al thy desyre, concernyng tymbre of cedar trees and fyre. My seruantes shal byynge the from Libanon to the see. And I wyl conuey the by thyp vnto the place that thou shalt thewe me and wyl cause them to be discharged there, and thou shalt receyue them. And thou shalt do me a pleasure agayne, yf thou minister fode for myne house. And so Hiram gaue Salomon cedar trees and fyre ttreys accordyng to al his desyre. And Salomon gaue Hiram twenty thousand quarters of wheate for foode to hys housholde, and twentye buttes of pure oyle. Thus moche gaue Salomon to Hiram yere by yere.

And the Lorde gaue Salomon wysdome as he promised him. And there was peace betwene Hiram and Salomon, and they two were confederat togyther. And kyng Salomon rayled a summe out of all Israel. And the summe was thyrty thousand men, whom he sent to Libanon ten thousand a moneth by course, so that when they had bene one moneth in Libanon, they abode two monethes at home.

^{iii. re. liij. a.} And * Adoniram was ouer the samme. And Salomon had threscore and ten thousande that bare burthens, and fourescore thousand masons in the mountaynes, besydes the lordes, whome Salomon appoynted to ouerse the worke, euen thre hundred, whiche ruled the people (and them) that wrought in the worke. And the kyng comaunded the to byynge great stones free stones, and hewed stones for the foundation of the house. And Salomons masons, & the masons of Hiram ded hewe the with the workemen of the corners. And so they prepared both tymber and stones for the buyldyng of the house.

The vi. Chapter.

Howe and when the temple was buylded.

And it came to passe that in the foure hundred & foure score yere (after the chyldren of Israel were come oute of the lande of Egypte) and * in the fourth yere of the raygne of Salomon vpon Israel, and in the moneth ziffe, whiche is the seconde moneth * he beganne to buyld the house of the Lorde. And the house which Salomon buylt for the Lorde, was thre score cubytes longe, and twenty cubytes brode, and thyrty cubytes hye. And * he made a porche before the bodye of the temple, which was twety cubytes longe after the bredth of the house, and ten cubytes brode, euen in the forefront of the house. And in the house he made wyndowes, brode without, and narrowe wpythin.

And in the wall of the house, he made chambers rounde aboute, (euen in the walles of the house) rounde about the temple and the quere, & made spydes rounde about. The nethermost chamber was fyue cubytes brode, and the thyrde was seuen cubytes brode. For without in the wall of the house he layed beames rounde aboute, that the beames of the chambers shulde not be fastened in the walles of the house. And the house was buylt of stone, made perfyte al redy before it was brought thither, so that there was neither hammer noz axe, eyther any toole of yron herde in the house, whyle it was in buyldyng.

The doze of the myddle chamber was in the ryght syde of the house: & me went vp with wyndyng steyres into the myddle chamber, & oute of the myddle into the thyrde. And so he buylt the house & finished it, & rouft it with beames of Cedar tymbre. And thā he buylt chambers to all the temple of fyue cubytes heygth, and they were ioyned to the house, with beames of Cedar.

And the worde of the Lorde came to Salomon sayinge: concernyng the house which thou arte in buyldyng, yf thou wylt walke in myne ordynances, & execute my lawes, & kepe al my commaundementes, to walke in them: then wyl I make good vnto the my promise * which I promysed Dauid thy father. * And I wyl dwell amonge the chyldren of Israel, & wyl not forsake my people Israel. Salomon therfore buylt the house, & finished it, & spyled the walles of þ house within with bordes of cedar tree: euen from the pauement of the house vnto þ roofo dyd he spyle the walles of it within with cedar tree, & boorded the flooze of þ house with planks of fyre.

And he spyled twenty cubytes in the spydes of the quere of the temple, both flooze & walles, with bordes of Cedar, & dresled it within in the secret place of the temple, euen in the moost holy. And the fyrst house, that is to say: the body of the temple without was forty cubytes long. And the Cedar of the house wpythin, was kerued wpyth knoppes, & grauen with floures, and al was cedar tymbre: so þ no stone was sene. And þ quere that was within the temple, he prepared to set there the arke of the appoyntment of the Lord. And the quere before, was twenty cubytes longe, and twenty cubytes in bredth, and twety cubytes in heygth. And he spyled it with pure golde, and boorded the altare wpyth Cedar.

And Salomon also spyled þ house within with pure gold. And he made golden barres runne alonge þ quere, which he had couered with golde. And

And the whole house, he ouerlayde wyth golde, vntill he hadde ended it. And the aultare that was in the quyre he ouerlayde wyth golde also

And within the quyre he made two * Cherubims of olpue tree, ten cubytes hie. fyue cubytes longe was a wyng of the other Cherub: so that from the vttermooste parte of one wyng vn to the vttermooste parte of the other, were ten cubytes. And the other Cherub was ten cubytes hie also: so that bothe the Cherubs were of one measure and one syde: For the hygth of the one Cherub was ten cubytes, and so was it of the other. And he put the Cherubs within the inner house: * And the Cherubs stretched oute theyr wynges, so that the one wyng of the one touched the one wal, and the one wyng of the other touched the other wall. And the other two wynges of them touched one an other in the myddes of the house. And he ouer layde the cherubs w golde.

And in all the walles of the house rounde aboute, he made fygures of carued & fyled worke as namely, pictures of Cherubs & palme trees, and grauen floures, both within in the quyre and without in the temple. And the floore of the house he couered with golde, both within in the quyre, and also without in the temple. And in the entringe of the quyre he made two dozes of olpue tree: And bothe the vpper and two syde postes were fyue square. The two dozes also were of olpue tree, and he graued them with grauyng of Cherubs and paulme trees: and grauen floures and couered them with golde, and layde thynne plates of golde vpon the Cherubs and paulme trees. And in like maner did he in the doze of the temple, sayng that the postes were of olpue tree foure square. The two dozes were of fyre tree, and epyther doze with two foldyng leues, he graued thereon Cherubs, paulme trees and floures and couered them with golde, which was layed thynne vpon the carued worke.

And he buylt the pinner court with thre rowes of hewed stone, and one rowe of Cedar wodde.

In the fourth yere was the foundacion of the house of the Lorde layde: euen in the moneth zif. And in the leauenth yere, in the moneth Bull, (which is the eyght moneth) was the house full finished thowout all the partes thereof, accordyng to all the fassion of it, and so was he seuen yere in buyldynge it.

The. vii. Chapter.

The buyldynge of the house of Salomon. The house of Pharaoes daughter. The fourme of the pylers of brasse, of the brasse see et.

In Salomon was buyldynge his owne house thytene yere, and finished it all. And he buylte the house in the wood of Libanon, an hundred cubytes longe, and fyfte cubytes bode, and thytte cubytes hie. And (it stode) vpon foure rowes of Cedar pylers, and cedar beemes (were layed) vpon the pylers. And the rooffe was Cedar aboue vpon the beames that laye on the pylers, euen. xlv. beames in fyftene rowes. And there were wyndowes in thre rowes, and the wyndowes were one agaynst an other thre fold. And the doozes with the syde postes, and the vpper poste, were foure square, & had wyndowes one agaynst an other thre folde.

And he made a porche by the pylers (the bare vpon the house) fyfte cubytes longe, and. xxx. cubytes bode, and the porche was befoze those, & the other pylers. For there was a thicke tre set befoze them. Then he made a porche to syt and iudge in, fyled with Cedar thowout all the pamentes. And his owne house (that he kept residence in: and that was in an other court without the porche) was made of the same woozke. And then Salomon made an house for Pharaoes daughter * (whome he had taken to wyfe) iii. reg. iii. a lyke vnto the fassion of the porche.

And all these were of the best stones, he wed B after a measure, and sawed with sawes, within and without, from the foundation vnto the beames (that lay aboue, after the measure) and end so on the outsyde toward the great court. And the foundation was layed vpon ryche stones. and that very great stooness, wherof some were ten cubytes, and some eyght cubytes. And a boue were good stones, squared after a certayn rule, and couered with Cedar. And the greates court round about was with thre rowes of hewed stones, and one rowe of Cedar planks, after the maner of the inner court of the house of the Lord, & of the porche of the temple. * And kyng Salomon sente, and set one Hiram out of Tyre, a wyddowes sonne of the trybe of Nephtalim. his father beyng a man of Tyre which Hiram was a craftesman in brasse * ful of wysdom, vnderstandyng and cunnyng: to worke all maner of woozke in brasse. And he came to kyng Salomon, and wrought all his worke. For he cast ii. para. ii. a two pylers of brasse of. xviii. cubytes hie a peere, and a stryng of twelue cubytes dyd compass epyther of them aboute. And he made two head pees of molten brasse (after the fassion of a crowne) to set on the toppes of the pylers. The heygth of the one head pece contayned fyue cubytes, and the heygth of the other head pece contayned fyue cubytes also: he made also net worke & garlandes of chaine worke vpon the head pees that were on the toppe of the pylers euen seuen (rowes) vpon the one head pece, and sent on the other. And so he made the pylers, and two rowes rounde about, in the one wythen worke to couer the hed pees that were vpon the pomgranates. And thus dyd he also for the other hed pece. And the hed pees that were on the toppes, of the pylers couered he aboue, with a curyous worke of roses toward the palace by the space of foure cubytes. Lyke wyse vnder the head pees in those two pylers beneth, ouer agaynst the myddes, and befoze the net worke: And vpon the seconde head pece were there two hundred pomgranates in two rowes rounde about. And he set vpon the pylers in the porche of the temple. And when he had set vpon the eyght pylle, he called the name therof. * Jachin: & when he had set vpon the left pylle, he called the name therof. * Boaz. Jer. lii. c. i. pa. xlv. b. liq. vi. xlv. c And in the toppe of the pylers was a worke of roses, and so was the workemanshippe of the pylers fynlyshed.

f. b. And

And he made a molten lauatoz, ten cubytes wyde from bym to bym, rounde in compase, & fyue cubytes hie. And a strynge of thyrty cubytes dyd compasse it aboute, and vnder the bym of it there were knoppes round about, ten in one cubite: and they compassed the lauatoz rounde aboute. And the knoppes were caste wyth it, in two rowes, when it was caste. And it stode on twelue oxen: of whiche thre looked towarde the north thre towarde the weste, thre towarde the south and thre towarde the east, and the lauatoz stode vpon them, and all they hynderpartes were inwarde. It was an hande breadeth thicke, and the bym wrought lyke the bym of a cup wyth flowres of lylles. And it conteyned two thousande Battes.

And he made ten sokettes of brasle, foure cubites long, and foure cubites broade a pece, and thre cubites hie. And the worke of the sokettes was on this maner: They had sydes, and the sydes were betwene the ledges. And on the sydes that were betwene the ledges, were lyons, oxen and Cherubs. And lyke wyse vpon the ledges were aboue: and beneth lyons and oxen, were certayne addicions made of thynne worke. And vnder euery soket were foure brasle wheles, and bozdes of brasle. And in the foure corners thereof, were vnderletters (vnder the lauatoz) caste eche ouer agaynst his felowe.

And the stalke of the lauatoz was in the myddle of it, (where it is sene on the out syde) one cubyte hie, and a cubyte and an halfe rounde, and in the heygth of it were grauen workes whose sydes were made foure square, and not rounde. And vnder the sides were foure wheles, and the axeltrees ioynd faste to the bottome. And the heygth of euery whele was a cubite and an halfe. And the workmanship of the wheles was lyke the worke of a charet whele. And the axeltrees, the nauelles, spokes and shaftes were all molte. And there were foure vnderletters in foure corners of one soket: and the vnderletters were of the very bottome selfe.

And in the heygth of the bottome was there a rounde compasse of halfe a cubite hie: and in that heygth of the bottome, there proceeded bothe ledges and sydes out of the same. For in the bozdes of the ledges and on the sides he had grauen pictures of Cherubins, lyons and palmetrees, one by another round about. Thus made he the ten sokettes after thys maner: And they had al one fashyon of castyng: one measure, and one syde. Cha made he te lauers of brasle, one lauer contaynyng fourty Bates: and one lauer was foure cubites, and vpon euery one of the ten sokettes, he put one lauer. And he put fyue of those sokettes on the right side of the house, and other fyue on the left. And he set the lauatoz on the right syde of the house eastwarde & towarde the south.

And Hiram made pottes, Houelles and basens, and so finished all the worke that he made kyng Salomon for the house of the Lord: that is to saye, two pylers and two rounde headpieces that were to be set on the toppes of the two pylers, and foure hundrede pomegranates for the two net workes, (euen two rowes of pomegranates in one net worke) to couer the two headpieces that were to set on the toppes of the pylers: And the ten sokettes, and ten lauers on the sokettes. The lauatoz, and twelue oxen vnder it, & pottes, Houelles and basens. And all these vesselles which Hiram made to kyng Salomon for the house of the Lord, were of byght brasle. In the playne of Jordan dyd the kyng cast the euen in the thicke claye betwene Socob & Zartba. And Salomon made all the vesselles vntwaped because they were so exceedyng many, neyther founde they out the weygth of the brasle.

And so Salomon made all the vesselles that perteyned vnto the house of the Lord: the golden aultare, and the golden table whereon the shewbread was: And fyue candelstickes, for the ryght syde, and fyue for the left, before the quyre of pure golde: with flowres, lampes, & snuffers of golde: and boules, flat peces, basens, spones and masours of pure golde: & bindges made he of gold both for the dozes of the quyre (the place most holy) and for the dozes of the temple also.

And so was ended all the worke that kyng Salomon made for the house of the Lord. And Salomon brought in the thynge which Dauid his father had dedicated: eue the splier, gold and vesselles, and layed them vp amonge the treasures of the house of the Lord.

The viii. Chapter.

The arke is borne into the temple. A cloude fylleth the temple. The temple is blessed.

Then Salomon gathered together the elders of Israel, all the heddes of the trybes, (and them that were captaynes among the fathers of the chyldren of Israel) vnto him in Jerusalem & they myght byng vpon the arke of the appoyntment of the Lord out of the cyte of Dauid, which is Sion. And all the men of Israel assembled vnto kyng Salomon to the feast that falleth in the moneth Ethanim, which is the seuenth moneth. And all the elders of Israel were come and the prestes toke vp the arke. They bare the arke of the Lord into the tabernacle of wytnesse, and all the holy vesselles that were in the tabernacle: those dyd the prestes and Leuytes bere. And kyng Salomon and all the congregacion of Israel that were assembled vnto hym (and went with hym before the arke) dyd offre shepe and oxen, that coude not be tolde nor numbred for multitude.

And so the prestes brought the arke of the appoyntment of the Lord vnto his place: euen in the quyre of the temple and place moste holy. vnder the wynges of the Cherubs. For the Cherubs stretched out they wynges ouer the place of the arke, and couered both it and also the stauies therof a hie vpon it. And they drew out the stauies, that the endes of the myght appeare out of the holy place within the quire, but they were not sene without. And ther they haue bene vnto this daye, and there was nothyng in the arke, save the two tables of stone which Moyses put there at Horeb, in the which (tables) the Lord made an appoyntment w the chyldren of Israel, whiche he brought them out of the lande of Egypte.

And it fortuneth that when the prestes were come out of the holy place, the cloude fylled the house of the Lorde, that the prestes coulde not stande and minister, because of the cloude for the glory of the Lorde had fylled y^e house of y^e Lorde. Then spake Salomon: the Lorde said that he wolde dwel in the darcke cloude. I haue buylte the an house to dwel in, an habitation for the to abyde in for ever. And y^e kyng turned his face, & blessed al the congregacion of Israel, & all the congregacion of Israel stode still, and he sayde.

Blessed be the Lorde God of Israel, whych spake wyth hys mouth vnto Dauid my father, & hath wyth hys hande fulfilled it, sayeng: Hence the daye that I broughte my people Israel out of Egypte, I chose no cytie of al the trybes of Israel, to buylde an house that my name myght be therein: But I haue chosen Dauid to be ruler ouer my people of Israel.

And it was in the herte of Dauid my father to buylde an house for y^e name of the Lord God of Israel. And the Lorde sayde vnto Dauid my father: Where as it was in thyn herte to buylde an house vnto my name, thou dydest wel, that thou wast so mynded. Neuertheless thou shalt not buylde the house, but thy sonne y^e shall come out of thy loynes, he shall buylde the house vnto my name. And the Lorde hath made good hys worde that he spake. And I am rylen vp in the rowme of Dauid my father, and spt on the seat of Israel, as the Lorde promysed, & haue buylte an house for the name of the Lorde God of Israel. And I haue prepared therein a place for the Arke, where in is the couenaunt of the Lord whych he made wth our fathers, whē he brought them out of the lande of Egypt. Salomō stode before the altare of the Lorde in the syght of all the congregacion of Israel, and stretched oute hys handes toward heauen, and sayd: * Lorde God of Israel, there is no God lyke the in heuē aboue, or in the earth beneth, thou that kepest couenaunt & mercy for thy seruauntes that walke before the wyth all they^e herte: thou that hast kepte wyth thy seruānt Dauid my father, that thou promysedst hym. Thou spakest also wyth thy mouth and hast fulfilled it with thyne hāde as it is come to passe thys daye. Therefore nowe Lord God of Israel, kepe with thy seruānt Dauid my father, that thou promysedst hym, sayenge: * Thou shalt not be wythout a mā in my syght to sytte on the seate of Israel: so that thy chyldren take heed to they^e waye, y^e they walke before me, as thou hast walked in my syght. And nowe (O God) of Israel, let thy worde be verified, whych thou spakest vnto thy seruānt Dauid my father.

Will God in dede dwell on the earth? Beholde: the heauens, and heauens of all heauens are not able to contayne the: And howe should the thys house do it that I haue buylded? Haue thou therefore respecte vnto the prayer of thy seruānt, & to his supplicacion (O Lord my God) to heare the voyce and prayer before the, thys daye: that thyne eyes maye open toward thys house, nyght and daye, euen toward this place (of whych thou hast sayde, * My name shall be there.) That thou mayest herken vnto y^e prayer whych thy seruānt prayeth in this place: And regarde thou the supplicacion of thy seruānt and of thy people Israel when they pray in this place: And heare thou in heauen thy dwelling place, and when thou hearest, haue mercy. * If any man trespasse agaynst his neyghbour, and there go an oth be wthne them, and the one compell the other, and come swearyng before thyne altare in this house, the herken thou in heuen & worke & iudge thy seruāntes, that y^e condemne the vngodly to byng hys waye vpon his head and iustifye the ryghteous to gyue hym accordyng to hys ryghteousnesse. * When thy people Israel be put to the worse before the enemy, because they haue synned agaynst the, and afterward turne agayne to the, and knowledge vnto thy name, and praye and make supplicacion vnto the in thys house: then heare thou in heauē to be mercyfull vnto the synne of thy people Israel and byng them agayne vnto the lande, whych thou gauest vnto they^e fathers.

* If heauē be shut vp, and there be no rayne because they haue synned agaynst y^e: yet yf they praye in this place, & knowlege vnto thy name and turne from they^e synne, thou owe thy scourgyng of them: then heare thou in heauen, and be mercyfull (vnto the synnes) of thy seruāntes and of thy people Israel, y^e thou shewe them a good waye to walke in & gyue rayne vpon the lāde y^e thou hast geuen to thy people to enherite.

If there be in the lande dearth, or pestilence, or drought, or blasting, or grethopper, or caterpyller, or yf they^e enemye belege them in the lāde of they^e cyties, or what so euer plage or sykenes chaunce: then what prayers and supplicacion so euer be made of any man of al thy people Israel, whych shall knowlege euery man y^e plage of hys owne herte, and stretch forth hys handes toward this house. Heare thou then in heuē, euen in thy dwelling place, and be mercyfull, and worke, & geue euery man accordyng to his wayes, (euen as y^e that only knowest his hert, for y^e only knowest the hertes of all the chyldren of men:) that they maye feare the as longe as they lyue in y^e lande. Whych thou gauest vnto our fathers. And lyke wyle, yf a straunger that is not of thy people Israel, come oute of a farre countrey for thy names sake, for they shall heare of thy great name, and of thy myghty hande and of thy stretched out arme, and shall come and pray in thys house. Therefore heare thou, in heauen thy dwelling place, and do all that y^e straunger callth to the for: that all nations of the earth may know thy name and feare the, as do thy people Israel: and that they maye knowe that thy name is called vpon in thys house that I haue buylte.

If thy people go out to batayl agaynst they^e enemye, whither so euer thou shalt sende them, and shall praye vnto the (O Lorde) toward the waye of the cytie whych thou hast chosen, & toward the house y^e I haue buylt for thy name (heare thou in heauen they^e prayer and supplicacion

 I. Job. i. b. ¶ If they synne agaynst the* (for ther is no man that synneth not) and thou be angrie wyth the and deliuer them into the hande of theyr enemyes, so that they carpe them awaye prysoners vnto the lande of theyr enemyes, eyther farre or neare, yet if they tourne agayne vnto theyr hertes in the lande (to the whych they be carped awaye captiue,) and retorne and praye vnto the in the lande of theyr enemyes, sayeng: we haue synned, we haue done wyckedly, and haue commytted vngodlynes, and so turne agayne vnto the wyth all theyr herte, and all theyr soule, in the lande of theyr enemyes (whyche led them awaye captiue) and praye vnto the, towarde the waye of theyr lande, which thou gauest vnto theyr fathers, & towarde the cytie whiche thou hast chosen, and towarde the house whych I haue buylt for thy name: the heare thou theyr* prayer and supplication in heauen thy dwelling place, and iudge theyr cause: and be merciful vnto thy people that haue synned agaynst the, and vnto all theyr iniquities (whereby they haue done wyckedly agaynst the) & get thou them the fauour of those whych led them awaye captiue, & they may haue compassion on them. For they be thy people, & thy inheritaunce, whych thou broughtest out of Egypt, euen from the myddest of the fornace of pzon. And let thyne eyes be open vnto the prayer of thy seruaunt, and vnto the prayer of thy people Israel* to herken vnto them, in al that they call for vnto the. For thou dydest separate them from among all nations, of the earth, (to be thyne owne inheritaunce) as thou saydest by the hande of Moses thy seruaunt, when he broughtest our fathers* out of Egypte O Lorde God.

II. Job. i. b. ¶ And when Salomon had made an ende of prayenge al thys prayer and supplicacion vnto the Lorde, he arose from before the altare of the Lorde, and from knelyng on hys knees, & from stretchyng of hys handes vp to heauen, & stode and blessed all the congregation of Israel wyth a loude voyce, sayenge: Blessed be the Lorde the hath gyuen reste vnto hys people Israel, accordyng to all that he promysed: * there hath not fayled one worde of al the good promysse whych he promysed by the hande of Moses his seruaunt. The Lorde our God be wth vs, as he was wyth oure fathers, and forsake vs not, neyther leaue vs, but that he make bowe our hertes vnto him that we make walke in all his wayes, and kepe hys commaundementes, hys statutes, and hys lawes, whych he commaunded our fathers. And these my wordes whyche I haue prayed before the Lorde, be nye vnto the Lorde our God daye & nyght that he defende the cause of hys seruaunt & the cause of hys people Israel (what thyng so euer chaunce at any time) that al nacions of the earth make knowe that the Lorde is God, and none but he. Let your herte therfore be perfect wyth the Lorde our God, that ye walke in hys statutes, & kepe hys commaundementes, as thys daye.

II. pa. bii. a. ¶ And the kyng and all Israel wyth hym, offered offerynges before the Lorde. * And Salomon offered a sacrifice of peace offerynges vnto

the Lorde, and he offered vnto the Lorde. xxiij. thousande oxen, and an hundred & twenty thousande shepe: And so the kyng and all the chyldren of Israel dedicated the house of the Lorde. The same day dyd the kyng halowe the myddle of the courte, that was before the house of the Lorde: for there he offered burnt offerynges, meat offerynges, and the fat of the peace offerynges. he cause the brasen altare that was before the Lorde was to lytle to receyue burnt offerynges, meat offerynges, and the fat of the peace offerynges.

And Salomon helde that same tyme an hye feast and all Israel wyth hym, a very great congregation, euen fro the entryng in of hemath vnto the ryuer of Egypte, before the Lorde our God, * seuen dayes and seuen dayes, euen. xiiij. dayes. And the. viii. day he sent the people away. And they blessed the kyng and wente vnto theyr tentes ioyous and with glad hert, because of al the goodnesse that the Lorde had done for Dauid hys seruaunt, and for Israel hys people.

The ix. Chapter.

The Lorde appeareth the seconde tyme to Salomon. Salomon geueth towines to Syria. The Cananites become tributaries. He sedeth shippes for gold. He buyldeth many cyties.

¶ And when Salomon had synplyshed the buyldyng of the house of the Lorde, and the kynges palace, and all that he had in hys mynd, and was appoynted to make: the Lorde appeared vnto hym agayne as he appeared vnto hym at Gibeon. And the Lorde sayde vnto hym: I haue herde thy prayer and thy intercession, that thou hast made before me. For I haue halowed this house (whyche thou hast buylt,) to putte my name there for euer, and myne eyes, and myne herte, shall be there perpetuallye. And if thou wilt walke before me (as Dauid thy father walked, in purenes of herte, and in ryghteousnesse) to do al that I haue commaunded the, and wilt kepe my statutes, and my lawes, then will I stablyshe the seate of thy kyngdome vpon Israel for euer, as I promysed to Dauid thy father sayenge: * Thou shalt not be wythoute a man vpon the seate of Israel.

But and if ye and your chyldre turne away from me, and wyl not kepe my commaundementes and my statutes (whyche I haue set before you) but go and serue other goddes, & worshyp them: then wyl I wrede Israel oute of the lande which I haue giue the: And this house which I haue halowed* for my name, wyl I cast out of my sight, and Israel shall be a prouerbe & a fable amonge all nacions. And this house shall be taken away: so that every one that passeth by it, shall be astonied, and shall say: and they shall saye: * why hath the Lorde done thus vnto this lande and to this house? And they shall answer because they forsoke the Lorde theyr God, which brought theyr fathers out of the lande of Egypt and haue taken holde vpon other goddes, and haue worshypped them, and serued them: therefore hath the Lorde brought vpon them al this euil. * And it fortuneth, that at the ende of xiiij. type yeres, Salomon synplyshed the buyldyng of the two houses, that is to wete, the house of the Lorde

Lozde and the kynges palace. And Hiram the kyng of Tyre, broughte Salomon tymber of Cedar, and fyre trees, golde, and what so ever he desyred: And Salomon againe gaue Hiram .xx. ctyes in the lande of Galile. And Hiram came out from Tyre to se the ctyes whych Salomon had geuen him, and they pleased him not. And he sayd: what ctyes are these whiche thou hast gyuen me, my brother? & he called the the lande of Cabul vnto thys daye. And Hiram sent the kyng. vi. score hundred weyght of golde. And thys is the summe, whych kyng Salomō rapled for a tpybute when he buylded the house of the Lozde, and hys owne house, and Millo, and the walle of Ierusalem, and Hazort, and Megeddo, and Gazar.

For Pharao kyng of Egypt went vp, and toke Gazar, and burnt it wth fyre & slue the Cananites that dwelte in the ctye, and gaue it for a presente vnto hys doughter, Salomons wyfe. And Salomō buylt Gazer and Beth Horon & nether: and Baalath and Thamar in the wyldernesse and in the lande: & all the treasure ctyes that Salomon had, ^{and were vnto walled,} and ctyes for hys charrettes, and ctyes for hys hoysen, and all that Salomon desyred and wolde buylde in Ierusalem, in Libanon and in all the land of his dominion.

And all the people that were left of Amorytes, Hethites, Pherezites, Heuites and Jebusites, whych were not of the chyldren of Israel: they chyldren that were left after them in the lande, whome the chyldren of Israel also were not able to destroye. Those dydde Salomon compell to bynge tpybute vnto thys daye.

But of the chyldren of Israel dydde Salomon make no bondmē. But they were mē of warre hys mynisters, hys lordes, hys captaynes, & rulers of hys charrettes & his hoysen. And these were the lordes, that were set ouer Salomons worke: euen fyue hundred were they and syfty, & they ruled the people that wrought the worke.

And Pharaos doughter came out of the cite of Dauid vnto the house whych Salomon had buylt for her. And then dyd he also buylde Millo. And thysle a pere dyd Salomō offere burnt offerings and peace offerings vpon the altare whych he buylt vnto the Lozde: And he burnt incense vpon the altare that was before y^e Lozde and so he fynished the house.

And kyng Salomon made a nauy of Shyppes in Abid Gaber which is beside Cloth, & the bypucke of the red see, in the lade of Edom. And Hiram sent by Shypp also of his seruantes, that were Shyppmen, and had knowledge of the sea, wth the seruantes of Salomon. And they came to Ophir and fet from thence one & twetic score hundred weyght of golde, and brought it to kyng Salomon.

The .x. Chapter.

The quene of Saba cometh to heare the wysedome of Salomon, whose toy also is here described.

And the quene of Saba hearyng y^e fame of Salomon (concernynge the name of the Lozde) came to pzone him with hard questions. And she came to Ierusalem wth a very great trayne: wth Camels y^e bare swete odoures, and golde excedynge much, and pprecious stones. And she came to Salomō, & communed wth hym of all that was in her herte. And Salomon declared vnto her all her questions, so that there was not one thyng she had from the kyng, whych he expounded not vnto her.

And the quene of Saba consydered al Salomons wysedome, and y^e house that he had buylded, and the meate of hys stable, and the sytting of hys seruantes, the ordre of hys mynisters, & theyr apparel, hys drynke & his burnt sacrifices that he offred in y^e house of the Lozde, & she was astonied. And she sayd vnto y^e kyng. It was a true worde that I herde in myne owne lande of thy saynges: & of thy wysdome. howbeit I beleued it not tyl I cam, & sawe it with myne eyes. And beholde the one halfe was not tolde me: for thy wysdome & prosperitie excedeth the fame whych I herde of the. happy are thy men: & happy are these thy seruantes, whych stande euer before the, & heare thy wysdome. Blessed be the Lozde the God, which loued y^e, to set y^e on y^e seat of Israel, because y^e Lozde loued Israel for euer & made the kyng, to do equitie & ryghteousnes.

And she gaue the kyng fyre score hundredth weyght of golde, & of swete odoures excedynge much, and pprecious stones. There came nomore suche aboundaunce of swete odoures, as y^e quene of Saba gaue to kyng Salomon. The nauye also of the Shyppes of Hiram (that caryed gold from Ophir) brought likewise great plenty of Almuge tree and pprecious stones. And y^e kyng made of the Almuge trees, pillers for the house of the Lozde and for the kynges palace, & made harpes & psalteries for syngers. There came no more suche Almuge trees, nor were anye more sene vnto this daye. And kyng Salomō gaue vnto the Quene of Saba accordynge to all her desyre what soeuer she asked: besydes that he gaue her of a free wyll wth hys owne hande. And so she retourned vnto her owne countrey: both she, and her seruantes.

The weyght of golde that came to Salomō in one yere, was fyre hundred thre score & fyre talentes of gold, besydes that he had of chapmē and of marchauntes & of boticaries, & of all the kynges of Arabye, & of the lordes of the countrey. And kyng Salomon made two hundred bucklers of beaten golde, fyre hundredde sycles of golde went to a bouckeler. And he made thre hundred shylles of beaten golde, thre pounde of golde wente to one shylde, & the kyng put them in the house of the wood of Lybanon.

And the kyng made a great seate of puerp and couered it wth the beste golde. And y^e seate had fyre steppes. And the toppe of the seate, was rounde behynde, & there were pomels on eyther syde on the place of the seate, & two Lyons stode besyde the pomelles. And there stode .xii. Lions on the steppes. vi. on a syde. There was none lyke (worke) sene in any kyngdome. And all kyng Salomons drynkyng vessels were of golde, and lykerwise al the vessels of the house of the of the wood of Libanō were of pure golde. And as for syluer, it was nothyng worth in þe dayes of Salomon. For the kynges nauye of shippes wente on the sea vnto Charlis wyth the nauy of Hiram shippes: euen ones in thre yere wēt the nauy to Charlis, and brought golde and syluer Elephantes teth, apes and pecoakes. * And so kyng Salomon exceded all the kynges of the earth both in ryches and in wysedome. And all the world resorted to Salomō, to heare his wysedom, which God had put in his hert. And brought hym euery man hys presente, vessels of syluer, and vessels of golde, rayment, harnesse, and swete odoures, and hores and mules, yere by yere. And Salomon gathered togyther charrettes and horesmen: and he hadde a thousande and foure hundred charrettes, and .xii. thousande horesmen, whome he bestowed in the charret courses, and with the kyng at Jerusalem.

* And the kyng made syluer in Jerusalem as plenteous as stones, and Cedar as plenteous as the wild fygge trees that growe abundantly in the felde. The bypnyng of hores also out of Egypte: and the collectiō of the warres: dyd the kynges marchauntes take agayne, & solde the stuffe for a pryce. A charret came out of Egypte for .vi. hundred cycles of syluer. that is, one hore for an hundred and fyfthe. And euen so for all the kynges of the Hethites and for the kynges of Siria, dyd they bypnyge them out thow they handes.

The .xi. Chapter.

Salomon hath seuen hundred Quenes and thre hundred concubynes, whiche bypnyge hym to Idolatrye, hys aduersaries rebell agaynst hym. He dyeth.

At kyng Salomō loued many outelandysh women: and the daughter of Pharaō: and women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, zidomites and Hethites. Where as yet (concernyng these nations) the Lorde sayde vnto the chyldren of Israel: * come not ye at them, nor let them come at you. Elles wyll they turne your hertes after theyr goddes. Neuertheles, Salomon claue vnto them in loue. * And he had seuen hundred Quenes, and thre hundred concubynes, & hys wyues turned away his herte. For it came to passe, when Salomon was olde, hys wyues turned hys herte after other gods: and his herte was not perfecte wyth the Lorde hys God, as was the herte of Dauid hys father: for Salomon folowed Astaroth the God of the zidons, and Wilcon the abhominacion of the Ammonites. And Salomon wrought wyckednes in the syght of the Lorde, and folowed not the Lorde perfittly, as dyd Dauid hys father. For the dyd Salomon buyde an hye place for Chamos the abhominacion of Moab, in the hille that is before Jerusalem, and vnto Moloch the abhominacion of the chyldren of Ammon. And lyke wyse dyd he for al his outlandysh wyues which burnt cense and offered vnto theyr goddes. And the Lorde was angry wyth Salomon, because hys herte was turned fro the Lorde God of Israel: whiche had appeared vnto him in wyse and gaue hym a charge (concernyng thes thynge) that he shulde not folowe other goddes. But he kepte not that, whiche the Lorde commaunded hym: wherfore the Lorde sayd vnto Salomon for as much as this is done of the, and thou hast not kept myne appoyntment, and my statutes (whiche I commaunded the) I wyll rent þing dome from the, and wyll gyue it to thy seruant. Notwithstandyng in thy dayes, I wyll not do it, because of Dauid thy father but wyll take it from the hande of thy sone. Howbeit I wyll not take awaye all the kyngdome: But wyll giue one trybe to thy sone, because of Dauid my seruant, & because of Jerusalem which I haue chosē.

And the Lorde stirred vp an aduersary vnto Salomon: euen one Hadad an Edomite, of the kynges seide, whiche was in Edom. For when Dauid was in Edom, and Joab the captayne of þe hoost was gone vp to bury them that were slayne, he smote all the men chyldren in Edom. For .vi. monethes dyd Joab remayne there and all Israel, tyll he had destroyed all the men chyldren of Edom. And this Hadad fled and certain other Edomites of hys seruantes wyth hym, to come into Egypte: Hadad beyng yet a lytle chyld. And they arose out of Hadia, and came to Paran, and toke men with them out of Paran, and came to Egypte vnto Pharaō kyng of Egypte, whiche gaue hym an house, and appoynted hym bytayles, and gaue hym lande.

And Hadad gat greute fauoure in the syght of Pharaō, so that he gaue hym to wyfe the sister of hys owne wyfe, euen the sister of Thapenes the quene. And the sister of Thapenes, bare hym Genubath hys sonne, whom Thapenes nourished in Pharaos house. And Genubath was at Pharaos household amonge the sonnes of Pharaō. And when Hadad herde in Egypte, that Dauid was layd to slepe with hys fathers and that Joab the captayne of þe hoost was dead also, he sayd to Pharaō: let me depart, & I may go to myne owne countrey. Pharaō sayd vnto hym: what hast thou lacked here wyth me, that thou woldest thus go to thyne owne countrey? He answered, nothyng: howbeit let me go. And God stirred him vp another aduersary, one Rezon the sonne of Eliada, whiche fled fro hys lorde Hadadezer kyng of zoba. And he gathered men vnto hym, and became captayne ouer the company, when Dauid slue them. And they went to Damasco, and dwelte there, & raygned in Damasco. Therfore was he an aduersary to Israel all the dayes of Salomon. And this was the myschefe, in that Hadad dyd abhorre Israel, and raygned ouer Siria.

And Jeroboam the sone of Nebat an Ephraimite of zareda (whose mother was called zeruah, whiche was a wyddowe, and he Salomons seruant) lyfte vp hys hande agaynst þe kyng. But this was the cause, that he lyfte vp hys hande agaynst the kyng: Salomō buyt Melol, and mended the broken places of the cytie of Dauid hys father. And this fellow Jeroboam was a man of warre. And Salomon sawe the ponge man that he was able to do the worke, he made him ruler ouer al þe charges of the house of Joseph.

Joseph. And it chaunced at that ceason, that Jeroboam wente out of Ierusalem, and the prophet Ahias the Silonite met hym by the waye, ha-nyng a newe mantell on hym, & they two were alone in the felde. Ahias caught the newe man tell that was on him, and rent it in twelue peces and sayd to Jeroboam: take the ten peces. For thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: behold, I wyl rent the kyngdome out of the handes of Salomon, and wyl gyue ten trybes to the * and he shall haue one, for my seruaunte Dauid's sake & for Ierusalem the cytie whych I haue chosen out of all the trybes of Israel: because they haue forsake me, and haue worshipped vnto Astaroth the God of the zydons, and Chamoth the God of the Moabites, and Milcom the God of the chyliden of Ammon & haue not walked in my wayes (to fulfill my pleasure, my statutes and my lawes) as dyd Dauid my father.

I wyl not take the whole kyngdome out of hys hande: but I wyl make hym chiefe all hys lyfe longe, for Dauid my seruautes sake, whō
I chose: because he kepte my commaundemen-tes and my statutes. * But I wyl take þ kyngdome out of hys sonnes hande, and wyl gyue it vnto the, euen ten trybes of it, & vnto hys sonne wyl I gyue one trybe that Dauid my seruaunt maye haue a lyght alwaye before me in Ierusalem, the cytie whych I haue chose me, to put my name there. And I wyl take the, and thou shalt raygne accordyng to al that thy soule desyret, & thalt be kinge ouer Israel. And yf thou her-ken vnto all that I comaunde the, & wylt walke
in my wayes and do that is ryght in my syght, that thou kepe my statutes & my comaundemen-tes (as Dauid my seruaunt dyd) then wyl I be wyth the, and buyde the a sure house that shall continue, as I buyt for my seruaunt Dauid, & wyl gyue Israel vnto the. And I wyl for thy offence (whych Salomon hath comytted) bere
the sede of Dauid, but not for euer.

Salomon sought therfore to kyl Jeroboam, and Jeroboam arose, and fled into Egypte vnto Sisak kyng of Egypte, and continued there in Egypte vntill the death of Salomon. The rest of the wordes that cocerne Salomon, and all that he dyd, and hys wysdome: are they not wyrtten in the boke of the wordes of Salomon?

The tyme that Salomon raygned in Ierusalem vpon all Israel, was fourtye yere. And Salomon slepte & he layd hym wyth his fathers & was buryed in the cytie of Dauid his father &
Rehoboam hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

The. xii. Chapter.

The kyngdome is deuyded, Rehoboam raygneth ouer two trybes, and Jeroboam ouer ten, Aduram is stoned, Jeroboam maketh golden calves.

And Rehoboam went to Sichem: for al Israel were come to Sichem, to make hym kyng. And Jeroboam sonne of Na-bat (whych was yet in Egypte) herde of it * for he fledde to Egypte from the ptesence of kyng Salomon, and dwelt in Egypte. So they sent and called him: and Jeroboam and al the cōgre-gation of Israel came, and spake vnto Rehoboam, saying: thy father made our yoke greuous nowe therfore, make thou the greuous seruyce of thy father and hys soze yoke whych he put vpon vs, lyghter, and we wyl serue the. And he sayde vnto them: departe yet for the space of thre dayes, and then come agayne to me. And the people departed.

And kyng Rehoboam toke counsell with the olde men that stode before Salomon hys father, whyle he yet lyued, and sayd: what counsell gyue ye, that I maye haue matter to answer thys people? And they sayd vnto hym: Yf thou be a seruaunte vnto thys people thys daye, and folowe theyr mynides and aunswere them, and speak kynde wordes to them: they wyl be thy seruautes for euer. But he forsoke the counsell that the olde men had gyuen hym, and called vnto hys counsayl yonge men, that were growen vp wyth hym, and wayted on hym.

And he sayd vnto them: what counsell gyue ye, that we maye answer thys people: for they haue comuned wyth me, sayeng: make þ yoke whych thy father dyd put vpon vs, lyghter.

And the yonge men that were growen vp wyth hym, spake vnto hym sayenge. Thus shalt thou speak vnto thys people (that haue sayde vnto the: thy father made our yoke heuie, but make thou it vs lyghter.) Euen thus shalt thou saye vnto them: My lytle synger shall be wayghter then my father was in the loynes. And nowe where as my father dyd lade you and put a greuous yoke vpon you, I wyl make it heuier.

My father also corrected you wyth scourges, but I wyl chastyce you wyth scorpions. And so Jeroboam and all the people, came to Rehoboam the thyrde daye, as the kyng had appointed, sayeng: come to me agayne the thyrde day.
And the kyng answered the people chortly, & and lefte the olde mens counsell (that they gaue hym) and spake to them after the counsell of the yonge men, sayeng. My father made your yoke greuous, and I wyl make it greuouser. My father also chastysed you wyth whypes, but I wyl chastyse you wyth scorpions. And þ kyng herkened not vnto the people: for it was the ordinaunce of God, that he myght perfourme his sayenge, whych the Lorde spake by Ahia þ Silonite vnto Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat.

And so when al Israel saw that the kyng regarded them not, the people answered the kinge with these wordes, sayenge: * what porciō haue we in Dauid? we haue no enheritaunce in þ sone of Isai. * To your tentes, O Israel, nowe se to thyne owne house Dauid. And so Israel departed vnto theyr tentes. Howbeit ouer the chyldre of Israel whych dwelt in the cytie of Iuda, dyd Rehoboam raygne styll. The kyng Rehoboam sent Aduram receyuer of the trybute. And all they of Israel stoned hym to death. But kyng Rehoboam made spede to get him vp to hys cha-ret, & to fflye to Ierusalem. And they of Israel rebelled agaynst þ house of Dauid, vnto this day And whē al Israel hearde that Jeroboam was come agayne, they sent & called him vnto þ multitude, & made him kyng ouer al Israel: & there was no tribe þ folowed the house of Dauid, but

¶ And the worde of God came vnto Semaia the man of God, sayenge: speake vnto Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon kyng of Juda, and vnto all the house of Juda & Ben Jamin, and to the remnant of the people, sayeng: Thus sayeth the Lorde. Ye shall not go vp, noz yet fyghte agaynst your betherne the chyldren of Israel, retorne euery man to his house, for this thyng is my doyng. They hearkened therfore to the worde of the Lorde & returned to depart, accordyng to þ worde of the Lorde. Then Jeroboam buylt Sichem in mount Ephraim, & dwelt therein. And went from thence, * and buylt Peniel.

And Jeroboam thought in hys herte: nowe shall the kyngdome retorne to the house of Dauid. For yf thys people go vp & do sacrifice in þ house of the Lorde at Jerusalem the shall the herte of thys people turne agayne vnto the Lorde. And he set the one in Bethel, and the other let he in Dan. And thys thyng turned to synne, for the people went (because of the one) as farre as Dan. And he made an howse of hyl aultares, * and made prestes of the lowest of the people, whych were not of the sonnes of Levi. And Jeroboam made a feaste þ xv. daye of the eyght moneth, lyke vnto þ feast that is in Juda, & offered on the aultare. And so dyd he in Bethel, to offre vnto the calves þ he had made. And he put in Bethel the prestes of the hyl aultares, whych he had made. And he offered burnt offrynges vpon the aultare, whych he had made in Bethel, the xv. daye of the eyght moneth: euen in the moneth whych he had ymagined of hys owne herte: and made a solempne feast vnto the chyldren of Israel, and offered vpon the aultare, and burnt incense.

*Num. iii. a.
iii. re. xvii. g*

¶ The. xiii. Chapter.
Jeroboam doyng sacrifice vnto the calves, is reprehended of the prophete. Hys hande dyeth vp, whyle he putterth it out agaynst the prophete. The prophete is kyled, & buried.

¶ And beholde, there came a mā of God out of Juda (by the word of the Lorde) vnto Bethel, & Jeroboam stode by the aultare to put incense. And he cryed agaynst the aultare in the worde of the Lorde & sayd. O aultare aultare, thus sayeth the Lorde: Beholde, a chyld shall be bozne vnto the house of Dauid, (Josia by name) & vpon the shall he offer the prestes of the hyl aultares that burnt incense vpon the, and mennes bones shall be brente vpon the. And he gaue a token the same tyme, sayenge: Thys is the token, that the Lorde hath spokē it. Behold the aultare shall rente, and the ashes that are vpon it, shall fall out.

And when the kyng herd the sayenge of the man of God (whych had cryed agaynst the aultare in Bethel) he stretched out hys hande from the aultare, sayenge: holde hym. And hys hande whych he put forth agaynst hym, dyed vp, and he coulde not put it in agayn to hym: the aultare also claued asunder, & the ashes fell oute from the aultare, accordyng to the token whych the man of God had gyuen by the worde of the Lorde. And the kyng answered, & sayd vnto the man of God. * O praye vnto the Lorde thy God, & make intercession for me, that my hand may be restored me agayne. And the man of God besought the Lorde, and the kynges hande was restored agayne, and became as it was afore.

And the kyng sayde vnto the man of God, come home with me, that thou mayst dyne, and I wyl gyue the a rewarde. And the man of god sayd vnto the kyng: yf thou woldest gyue me halfe thyne house, I wyl not go in with the, neyther wyl I eate breade or drynke water in this place. For so was it charged me, thow the worde of the Lorde, sayenge: eate no breade nor drynke water, noz turne agayne by þ same way that thou camest. And so he went another way & returned not by the waye that he came to Bethel. And there dwelt an olde prophete in Bethel and his sonnes came, and tolde hym all the wykes, that the man of God had done that daye in Bethel, and the wordes whych he had spoken vnto the king tolde they theyr father also. And theyr father sayd vnto them: what waye wente he? And hys sonnes shewed hym what waye the man of God wente, whych came from Juda. And he sayd vnto hys sonnes: saddle me the asse. Whych when they had saddled, he gat hym vpon thereon, and wente after the man of God, and founde hym sittyng vnder a tre. And he sayde vnto hym: arte thou the man of God that camest from Juda? And he sayde: I am.

He sayd vnto hym: come home with me, and eate breade. He answered: I maye not retorne wth the, to go in wth the, neyther wyl I eate breade or drynke water wth the in thys place. For it was sayd to me in the worde of the Lorde Thou shalt eate no breade, noz drynke water there, noz turne agayne to go by the waye that thou camest. He sayd vnto him: I am a prophete also as well as thou, & an angell spake vnto me in the name of the Lorde, sayeng: bypge hym agayne wth the into thyne owne house, þ he maye eate breade & drynke water. And he lyed vnto hym. And so he wente agayne wth hym, & dyd eate breade in hys house and dranke water.

And it fortunēd, þ as they sat at the table, þ worde of the Lorde came vnto the prophete, that brought him agayne. And he cryed vnto þ man of God þ came from Juda, sayeng: thus sayeth the Lorde: because thou hast disobeyed þ mowthe of the Lorde, & hast not kepte the comaundment which the Lorde thy God comaunded the: but camest backe agayne, & hast eaten breade & dronke water in the place (concernyng the whych the Lorde Lord dyd say vnto the. Thou shalt eat no breed nor drinke anye water) thy carkasse shall not come vnto the sepulchre of thy fathers.

And so it came to passe, & when he had eaten breed and dronke, the prophete whiche brought hym agayne, saddled hym an asse. And when he was gone, * a lyon met hym by the waye, & slue him, and his carkasse was cast in the waye, and the asse stode thereby, and the lyon stode by the coorse also. And men & passed by, sawe the carkasse cast in the way, and the lyon standing ther by: and they came & tolde it in the towne where the olde prophete dwelt. And when the prophete that brought hym backe agayne from the way hearde therof, he sayde: it is the man of God. He was disobedient vnto & worde of the Lord, and therfore the Lord hath deliuered hym vnto the lyon, whiche hath rent him and slayne hym, according to the worde of & Lord, which he spake vnto hym. And he spake to his sonnes, sayinge: saddle me an asse: and so they dyd. And he went and founde his body cast in the waye, and the asse and the lyon stode by the coorse. And the lyon had not eaten the carkasse nor hurt the asse. And the prophete toke vp the body of the man of God and layed it vpon the asse, and brought it agayne and the olde prophete came to the ctyte, to lament, and bury hym. And he layed hys bodye in his owne graue, and they lamented ouer him: (Alas, my brother.)

And when he had buried hym, he spake to his sonnes, sayinge: When I am deed, se that ye bury me in the sepulchre wherein the man of God is buried: lape my bones besydes hys bones.

* For the saying which he cryed at the worde of the Lord agaynst the aultar in Bethel (and agaynst all the houses of hylaulters which are in the ctyte of Samarie) shall come to passe.

Howbeit, for all that, Jeroboam conuerted not from his wycked waye: but turned backe, & made of the lowest of the people, preistres of the hylaulters. And whoso pleased hym, he fylled his hande, and became preist of the hylaulters. And this thyng turned to syn vnto the house of Jeroboam, euen to destroye hym, and to bypunge hym to nought from the face of the earth.

The. xlii. Chapter.

Jeroboams wyfe asketh counsaile of Abia the prophete. Jeroboam dyeth. Siseak kynge of Egypt robbeth the house of the Lord. Jeroboam dyeth, and Abiam succeedeth hym.

At that tyme Abia the sonne of Jeroboam fell sycke. And Jeroboam sayd vnto hys wyfe: vp (I praye the) and disguise thy selfe, & thou be not knowen to be & wyfe of Jeroboam, & get the to Silo. For there is Abia & prophete which tolde me * & I shuld be king ouer this people. And take w the ten lounes & craknels, & a cruse of hony, and go to hym, & he maye tell the what shal become of the chyld. And Jeroboams wyfe dyd so: and arose, and wente to Silo, and came to the house of Abia. But Abia could not se, for his eyes were wahren dymme for age.

And the Lord sayd vnto Abia: Behold, the wyfe of Jeroboam cometh to aske a thyng of the Lord for her son, for he is sycke. But thus shalte thou saye vnto her: And when she came in, she seyned her selfe to be an other woman. But whē Abia herde the sounde of her feet as she came in at the doze, he sayde: come in thou wyfe of Jeroboam, why seynest thou thy selfe to be an other? I am sent to the to shewe the heuye thynges.

So tel Jeroboam, thus sayth the Lord God of Israel: (It repēterh me) forasmoch as * Jeroboam altered the fro amonge the people, and made the prince ouer my people Israel: I dyd rēte the kyng dom away fro the house of Dauid, & gaue it the: Neuerthelesse, thou hast not bene as my seruaut Dauid, whiche kept my comaundementes, and folowed me with all his herte, to do that whych is right in myne eyes: but hast done euill aboue all that were befoze the, for thou hast gone and made the other goddes, and molten ymages, to prouoke me, and hast cast me behynde thy back: therfore beholde, I wyll bypunge euill vpon the house of Jeroboam, and wyl roote out from Jeroboam, euen hym that * pylleth agaynst the wall, and hym that is in prision and forsaken in Israel, and wyl take awaye the remnaunte of the house of Jeroboam, as a man taketh awaye donge, tyll he hath caryed out all.

* Whosoever of Jeroboams house) dye in the towne, hym shall the dogges eate: and he & dyeth in the felde shal the foules of the ayze eat: for the Lord hath sayde it. Up therfore, and gette the to thyne house. Behold, whē thy sote entreteth into the ctyte the chyld shal dye. And all they of Israel shal mourne for hym, and bury hym: for he only of Jeroboam shal come to the sepulchre, bycause in hym there is founde goodnesse toward the Lord God of Israel: in the house of Jeroboam. Moreover, the Lord shal styre hym vp a kyng ouer Israel which shal destroy the house of Jeroboam in that daye. But what is it now? For the Lord shal smyte Israel, as when a reed is shaken in the water, and he shal wede Israel oute of this good lande, whych he gaue to they fathers) and shal scattre them beyond the ryuer, bycause they haue made them groues, and angred the Lord. And he shal gve Israel vp, bycause of the synnes of Jeroboam, which dyd synne, and made Israel to synne.

And Jeroboams wyfe arose, and departed, and came to Thirzah, and when she came to the thresholde of the doze, the chyld was deed. And all Israel buried hym, and lamented hym, according to the word of the Lord which he spake by the hand of his seruaut Abia the prophete. And the rest of & wordes that cōcerne Jeroboam, howe howe he warred, and how he raygned. Behold, they are wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. And the dayes whiche Jeroboam raygned were. xxi. yere. And when he was layed allepe with his fathers, Nadab his sonne raygned in his stede.

Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon raygned in Juda, and Rehoboam was. xli. yere old whē he begā to raygne, and raygned. xvi. yere in Jerusalem (the cytie which the Lord dyd chose out of al the tribes of Israel, to put his name there) his mothers name was Naama an Ammonite. And Juda wrought wickednesse in the syght of the Lorde: and angred hym in mothinges then they fathers dyd in they synnes which they sinned. For they also made them pylalters, ymagēs, and groues on euery hye hyl, & vnder euery thypke tree. And there was a stues of male chyldren in the lande, and they dyd accordyng to all the abhominaciōs of the nations which the Lord cast out befoze the chylzen of Israel. And it for tuned, & in the fyfte yere of kyng Rehoboam: Sisak kyng of Egypt came vpagaynst Jerusalem, & toke away the treasures of the house of the Lorde, and the treasures of the kynges house, & spoyled all that was to be had. And he toke away the shylde of golde * which Salomō had made. In whose stede kyng Rehoboam made brāsen shylde, and commytted them vnto the handes of the keepyng of the captaynes of the garde, which wayted at the doze of the kynges house. And when the kyng went into the house of the Lorde: they of the garde bare them, and brought them agayne into the garde chambze.

The rest of the wordes that concerne Rehoboam, and all that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And there was warre betwene Rehoboam and Jeroboam all they dayes. And Rehoboam slepte with his fathers, and was buryed by syde his fathers in the cytie of Dauid. His mothers name was Naama an Ammonite. And Abiam hys sonne raygned in his stede.

The. xv. Chapter

Wicked Abiam raygneth ouer Juda, and ryghtous Asa succedeth in his roume. The battayle betwene Asa and Baasa. Jehosaphat succedeth Asa. Nadab succedeth Jeroboam. Baasa killeth Nadab.

In the. xvii. yere of kyng * Jeroboam the son of Nabat, raygned Abiam ouer Juda. Thre yere raygned he in Jerusalem, & his mothers name was Maacha the doughter of Abisalom. And he walked in all the synnes of his father, which he had done befoze him: and his hert was not perfect vnto the Lord his God * as the herte of Dauid his father. Neuertheles, for Dauids sake dyd the Lorde his God gyue hym a lyght in Jerusalem, that he set vp his sonne after hym, and to stablysh Jerusalem, bycause Dauid dyd that which was ryght in the syght of the Lorde, and turned from nothyng that he commaunded hym, all the dayes of his lyfe, * saue only in the matter of Asas the Bethite. And there was warre betwene Rehoboam and Jeroboam as long as they lyued. The rest of the wordes that cōcerne Abiam, and all that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And there was war betwene Abiam, and Jeroboam. And Abiam slepte with his fathers, and they buryed hym in the cytie of Dauid. And Asa his sonne raygned in his stede.

* In the. xx. yere of Jeroboam kyng of Israel raygned Asa ouer Juda. xli. yere raygned he in Jerusalem, and his mothers name was Maacha, the doughter of Abisalom. And Asa dyd & seemed ryght in the eyes of the Lord, as dyd Dauid his father. * And he toke awaye the whorkepers oute of the lande, and put awaye all the abhominable ydols that his father had made. And he put downe * Maacha his mother from bearyng rule, bycause she had made ymages in groues. And Asa destroyed her ymages, and burnt them by the brooke Cedron. But the pylalters were not put downe. Neuertheles, Asa herte was perfecte with the Lorde all his dayes. He brought in the holy vessels of hys father (and & he had dedicate) vnto the house of the Lorde: golde and syluer, and iewels. And there was warre betwene Asa and Baasa, kyng of Israel all they dayes.

* And Baasa kyng of Israel wente vpagaynst Juda, and buylt Rama, so & he wolde let none go out or in, to Asa kyng of Juda. Then Asa toke all the golde and syluer & was left in the treasures of the house of the Lord, & the treasures of the kynges house, & deliuered them into the handes of his seruautes, and Asa sent them to Benhadad the sonne of Tabrimon the sonne of Hezion kyng of Siria (that dwelte at Damasco) sayng: there is a bonde betwene the and me, betwene my father and thy father. And behold, I haue sente vnto the a present of syluer, and gold, & thou come & breake the bonde & thou hast w Baasa kyng of Israel, & he may departe from me. So Benhadad berkened vnto kyng Asa, & set the captaynes of the hostes (which he had) agaynst the cyties of Israel, and smote Hion, & Dan, & Abel, Beth, Maacha, & al the regyon of Ceneroth, with all the lande of Naphtali. And when Baasa herde therof, he left buyldyng of Rama, and dwelt in Tiberia. Then kyng Asa made a proclamacion thowout al Juda, that none shulde be excused. And so they toke the stones of Ramah, and the ryuer (where with Baasa had buylded) & kyng Asa buylt with the the pyl of Ben Jamin and Mizpa. The remnant of all the wordes & cōcerne Asa, and all his myght and all that he dyd, & the cyties whiche he buylded, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the chronycles of the kynges of Juda? Neuertheles, in his old age he was diseased in his fete. And Asa slepte with his fathers, and was buryed by syde his fathers in the cytie of Dauid hys father. And * Jehosaphat his son raygned in his stede. And Nadab the sonne of Jeroboam beganne to raygne vpon Israel the seconde yere of Asa kyng of Juda, and raygned vpon Israel two yere. And he dyd euyl in the syght of the Lorde, walking in the waye of his father, and in his synne wherwith he made Israel sin. And Baasa the son of Abia of Abia (which was of þ house of Iſachar, conſpyred agaynſte hym, and Baſa ſmote hym at Gibbethon which is a cytie of þ Philiftines, for Nadab and all Iſrael layed ſiege at Gibbethon. Euen in the thyrde yere of Aſa kyng of Iuda, dyd Baſa ſlaye hym, and raygned in his ſtede. * And it fortuneth, that when he was kyng, he ſmote all the houſe of Jeroboam, and lefte hym nought that breathed, vntyll he hadde put hym cleane out, accordyng to the ſaying of the Lord which he ſpake by his ſeruaunt Abia the ſelonnite: becauſe of the ſynnes of Jeroboam where-with he ſynned, and made Iſrael ſyn, whē he w his prouocaciō angred þ Lord God of Iſrael.

The reſt of the wordes that concerne Nadab and all that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iſrael? And there was warre betwene Aſa and Baſa kyng of Iſrael, all theyr dayes.

So in the thyrde yere of Aſa kyng of Iuda, began Baſa the ſonne of Abia to raygne ouer all Iſrael in Chirza. xxiii. yere. And he dydde that whiche is euyl in the ſyght of the Lord, walkyng in the waye of Jeroboam, and in his ſynne, which made Iſrael to ſynne.

¶ The. xvi. Chapter.

Jehu propheth agaynſt Baſa, to whom Ela ſuccedeth. Zimri killeth his maſter Ela, and deſtroyeth þ houſe of Baſa. Ahab ſuccedeth Amri, and taketh to wyfe wyched Jezabel.

When the worde of the Lord came to Jehu the ſonne of Hanani agaynſt Baſa, ſayinge: for ſomche as I exalted the oute of the duſte, and made the captayne ouer my people Iſrael, and thou haſt walked in the way of Jeroboam, and haſt made my people Iſrael to ſynne, to angre me with theyr ſynnes: Beholde, I wyll rote out the poſteritie of Baſa, and the poſteritie of his houſe, & wyll make his houſe lyke the houſe of Jeroboam the ſonne of Nabat. * That man of Baſa whiche dyeth in the cytye, hym ſhall the dogges eate: and that man of hym which dyeth in the feldeſ, ſhall the foules of the ayre eate.

The reſt of the wordes that concerne Baſa and what he dydde, and his power, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iſrael? And ſo Baſa ſlept with his fathers, and was buryed in Chirza. And Ela his ſonne raygned in his ſtede. And by the hande of the prophet Jehu the ſonne of Hanani, came the worde of the Lord agaynſt Baſa, and agaynſt his houſe, and agaynſt all the wyckedneſſe that he dyd in the ſight of the Lord (in angrynge hym wyth the worke of his owne handes) that he ſhoulde be lyke the houſe of Jeroboam, and becauſe he kyled hym: (That is to ſay: Jehu the ſonne of Hanani the prophete.)

The. xxvi. yere of Aſa kyng of Iuda began Ela the ſonne of Baſa to raygne ouer Iſrael in Chirza, two yere. And his ſeruaunte zimri, whiche was captayne of halfe his charettes conſpyred agaynſte hym, as he was in Chirza dynking: and was dzonke in the houſe of Arza ſuarde of his houſe in Chirza. And zimri came and ſmote hym, and kyled hym in þ xxvi. yere of Aſa kyng of Iuda, and raygned in his ſtede. And it fortuneth that when he was kyng, * and ſate on his ſeate, he ſlue all the houſe of Baſa, not leauing thereof one to pyſſe agaynſt a wal. Yea, he ſlue his kynſfolkes and frendes alſo. And thus dyd zimri deſtroye all the houſe of Baſa, accordyng to the worde of the Lord whiche he ſpake agaynſt Baſa by the hande of Jehu the prophet, for al the ſynnes of Baſa, and ſynnes of Ela his ſonne, whiche they ſynned and made Iſrael to ſynne, and angred the Lord God of Iſrael with theyr vanyties. The reſt of the wordes that concerne Ela, and all he dyd: are they not wyrtten in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Iſrael?

In the. xxvii. yere of Aſa kyng of Iuda dyd zimri raygne. vii. dayes in Chirza, and the people was then in the hoſt beſiegyng Gebbethon a cytie of the Philiftines. And the people of the hoſte hearde one ſaye: zimri hath conſpyred, and ſlayne the kyng: wderfore all they of Iſrael made Amri (the captayne of the hoſte) kyng ouer Iſrael that ſame daye, euen in the hoſte. And Amri departed by from Gibbethon, and all Iſrael with hym, and they beſieged Chirza. And when zimri ſawe, that þ cytye muſt nedes be taken, he went into the palace of the kynges houſe, and burnt him ſelfe and the kynges houſe with fyre, and ſo dyed for his ſynnes whiche he ſynned, in doing that which is euyl in the ſyght of the Lord, and in walkyng in the waye of Jeroboam and his ſynnes which he dyd, and in that he made Iſrael to ſynne.

The reſt of the wordes that concerne zimri, and the treaſon that he wrought, are they not wyrtten in þ boke of the Chronicles of þ kynges of Iſrael? Then were the people of Iſrael deuyded into two partes, for halfe þ people folowed Chibni the ſonne of Ginath makynng him king and the other halfe folowed Amri. But the people that folowed Amri preuayled agaynſte the people that folowed Chibni the ſonne of Ginath. And ſo Chibni dyed, and Amri raygned.

In the. xxxi. yere of Aſa kyng of Iuda began Amri to raygn ouer Iſrael twelue yere. Syxe yere raygned he in Chirza. He bought the hyll Schomron of one Sceomar for two talētes of ſyluer, and buylt in the hyll, and called the name of the citie which he buylt after þ name of Sche mar, which had ben owner of the hyll Schomron. But Amri wrought that whiche was euyl in the eyes of the Lord, and dyd worſe then all that were before hym. For he walked in all the way of Jeroboam the ſonne of Nabat, and in his ſynnes that made Iſrael ſynne: to angre þ Lord God of Iſrael with theyr vanyties. The reſt of the wordes that concerne Amri, and all that he dyd, and his ſtrengthe that he ſhewed: are they not wyrtten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iſrael? And ſo Amri ſlepte wyth his fathers, and was buryed in Schomron, and Ahab his ſonne raygned in his ſtede.

In the. xxxviii. yere of Aſa kyng of Iuda began Ahab the ſon of Amri to raygne ouer Iſrael, & the ſame Ahab the ſonne of Amri raygned ouer Iſrael

Israel in Samaria. xxi. yere. And Ahab the sonne of Amri dyd euyl in the syght of the Lord aboue all that were before hym. For it semed vnto him but a lyght thing to walke in the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat. He toke Jezabel also the doughter of Ethbaal kyng of the Sidonites to wyfe, and * wente and serued Baal, and worshypped hym. And he reared vp an altier of Baal in the temple of Baal, which he had buylded in Scomron. And Ahab made groues, and proceeded further in angryng the Lord God of Israel, then all the kynges of Israel that were before hym.

In his dayes dyd Hiel of Bethel buylde Jericho. And it * cost hym Abiram his eldest sonne when he layed the foundacion, and hys pongest sonne Segub, when he set vp the gates, accordyng vnto the worde of the Lord * whiche he spake by Josua the sonne of Nun.

The. xvii. Chapter.

Elia is nourished and fed of rauens, and after is sent to zaphath (otherwyse called Sarepta) to a woman whole chyld he rapsed to lyfe.

And Elia the Thersbite (which was of the enhabitours of Gilead) sayde vnto Ahab: * as truly as the Lord God of Israel liueth, before whom I stand * there shal be neither dewe nor rayne these yeres, but accordig to my word.

And the worde of the Lord came vnto hym saying: get the hence, & turne the eastward, and hyde thy selfe in the brooke Cherith, & is it that lyeth before Iordā: Thou shalt drynke of & ryuer: & I haue comaunded the rauens to fede the there. And so he wēt, & dyd accordyng vnto the worde of the Lord. For he went, and dwelt by the broke Cherith & is before Iordan. And & rauens brought him bred & flesh in the mornyng, and lykewise bred and flesh in the euenyng, and he dranke of the brooke. And it chauced after a while, & the brooke dreyed vp, bycause there fell no rayne vpon the earth. & And & worde of the Lord came vnto hym, saying: * vp, and get the to zaphath, which is in Sidō, and dwell there. Beholde, I haue comaunded a wyddowe there, to sustayne the. So he arose: & wēt to zaphath. And whē he came to & gate of the cytie the wyddowe was there gatheryng styckes. And he called to her, and sayd: * fet me I praye the, a lytle water in a vessell, & I maye drynke. And as she was going to fet it, he cryed after her, and said: brynge me I praye the, a morsell of bred also in thyne hande. She sayde: As truly as the Lord thy God lyueth, I haue no bred readye but enē an handefull of mele in a barell, and a lytle oyle in a cruse. And beholde, I am gatheryng two styckes for to go in, and dresse it for me and my sonne, that we maye eate, and dye.

And Elia sayd vnto her: feare not, come and do as thou hast sayde, but make me thereof a lytle cake fyyste of all: and brynge it vnto me, and afterwarde make for the, and thy sonne. For thus sayeth the Lord God of Israel: the mele in the barell shal not be wasted: neyther shal the oyle in the cruse be deminished, vntyl the Lord haue sent rayne vpon the earth. And she went, and dyd as Elia sayde. And she and her sonne dyd eate a good space, and the mele wasted not out of the barell, neyther was the oyle spent out of the cruse, accordyng to the word of the Lord, which he spake by the hande of Elia. &

And after these thynges it happened, that the sonne of the wyfe of the house fell sycke. And his sycknesse was so sore, & there was no bryth left in hym. And she sayd vnto Elia: what haue I to do with the, O thou man of God? art thou come vnto me to call my synne agayne to remembrance, and to slaye my sonne? He sayde vnto her: gyue me thy sonne, and he toke hym out of her lappe, and carped hym vp into a loft, wher he abode, and layed hym vp in his owne bedde, and called vnto the Lord, and sayd: O Lord my God, haste thou punysshed also this wyddowe (with whom I dwell as a straunger) and haste slayne her son? And he stretched hym selfe vnto the chyld thre tymes, & called vnto the Lord, & sayde: O Lord my God: let this chyldes soule come into him agayne. And the Lord herde the voyce of Elia, and & soule of the chyld came in to hym agayne, and he reuyued. And Elia toke the boye, and brought him downe out of the chā bre into the house, and deliuered hym vnto his mother, and Elia sayd: beholde, thy son lyueth. And the womā sayd vnto Elia: now I knowe that thou art a man of God, and that the word of the Lord in thy mouth is true. &

The. xviii. Chapter.

Elia is sent to Ahab. Obadia (otherwyse called Abdia) hydeh an hundred prophetes. Elia kylleth al Baals prophetes, and afterwarde obtayneth rayne.

After procelle of manye dayes, the worde of the Lord came to Elia, in the thyrde yere, sayinge: go the we thy selfe vnto Ahab, and I * wyl sende rayne vpon the earth. And Elia went to the we hym selfe vnto Ahab, and there was a great famishment in Scomron. And Ahab called Obadia, whiche was the gouernoure of his house: & Obadia feared God greatlye: For when Jezabel destroyed the prophetes of the Lord, he toke an hundred prophetes, and hyd them, fyfthe men in one caue, and fyfthe in an other, and prouyded bred and water for them. And Ahab sayde vnto Obadia: go into the lande, vnto all the fountaynes of water and vnto all the brookes, yf happelye we maye fynde grasse to saue the horses and the mules, & that we destroye not some of the beastes. And so they deuyded the lande betwene the to walke thowwe it. Ahab went one waye by hym selfe, and Obadia went an other waye by hym selfe. And it

B And it chaunced, that as Obadiah was in the waye, Elia met him. And Obadiah knewe him: and fell on his face, and sayde: arte not thou my lord? Elia: And he answered hym: I am he. Go and tel thy lord: beholde, Elia is here. He sayde: what haue I spyned, that thou woldest deliuer thy seruante into the hand of Ahab, to slaye me? As truly as the Lord thy God liueth, there is no nation or kyngdom, whiche my lord hath not set to seke the. And when they sayd: he is not there, he toke an oth of the kyngdom and nation, whiche he founde the not. And now thou sayest: go and tell thy lord, that Elia is here. And as soone as I am gone from the, the spyrite of the Lord shall carry the into some place that I doo not knowe, and so when I come, and tell Ahab, and he can not fynde the, he shall slaye me. But I thy seruante feare the Lord from my youth vp. Was it not tolde my lord, what I byd when Jezabel slue the Prophetes of the Lord, how I byd an hundred men of the Lordes Prophetes, fyfthe men in one caue, and fyfthe in an other, and prouyded them of breede and water? And now thou sayest: go thou now and shewe thy lord, beholde Elia is here, that he maye slaye me?

C And Elia sayde: as truly as the Lord of hostes lyueth, before whome I stande, I wyll shewe my selfe vnto hym this daye. So Obadiah went to mete Ahab, and tolde hym. And Ahab went to mete Elia. And it fortuneth, that when Ahab sawe Elia, he sayde vnto hym: arte thou he that troubleth Israel? He answered: it is not I that haue troubled Israel, but thou, and thy fathers house, in that ye haue forsaken the comaundementes of the Lord, & thou hast folowed Baal. Nowe therfore sende, and gather to me all Israel vnto mount Carmel, & the prophetes of Baal: foure hundred and fyfthe, and the prophetes of the groues foure hundred, whiche eate of Jezabels table. So Ahab sente vnto all the chyldren of Israel: and gathered the prophetes toggyther vnto mount Carmel.

D And Elia came vnto al the people, and sayd: howe longe halte ye betwene two opinions? If the Lord be God, folowe hym: but if Baal be he, then go after hym. And the people answered hym not a worde. Then sayd Elia vnto the people agayne: I onely remayne a Prophete of the Lord: But Baals prophetes are foure hundred and fyfthe. Let them therfore gyue vs two oxen, and let them chole the one, and cut hym in peces, and laye hym on wood, and put no fyre vnder, and I wyll dresse the other ore, and laye hym on wood, and wyll put no fyre vnder. And call ye on the name of your god, and I wyll call on the name of the Lord: and then the God that answereth by fyre, let hym be God.

E * And all the people answered, and sayd: it is well spoken. And Elia sayd vnto the prophetes of Baal: chole you an ore, and dresse hym fyre, (for ye are many) and call on the name of your goddes, but put no fyre vnder. And they toke the one ore that he did gyue them, and they dresed it, * and called on the name of Baal, from morninge to noone: saying: O Baal heare vs.

But there was no voyce, nor one to answer. And they lepte vpon the alter that they had made. And at noone it fortuneth, that Elia mocked them, and sayd: crye loude, for he is a god: peradventure he is talking or occupied (in folowing of his enemyes) or is in his iourneye, or haply he slepeth, and must be awaked with your crye. And they cryed loude, and cutte them selues as theyr maner was, with knyues and luncers, tyll the blood folowed on them. And it chaunced, that when myddaye was passed, they prophced, vntill the tyme of the euenynge sacrifice. But there was neyther voyce nor one to answer, nor any that regarded them.

And Elia sayd vnto all the folke: come to me. And all the people came to hym. * And he repared the aultare of the Lord that was broken. * And Elia toke xii. stoones, accordynge to the nombze of the xii. trybes of the sones of Jacob, (vnto whom the worde of the Lord came, saying: * Israel shall be thy name. And with the stonnes he made an aultar in the name of the Lord. And he made a ditcheround about the alter, as bzyde as two fozowes of the corne felde. And he put fyre wood in order, and hewed the ore in peces, and layed hym on the wood, & sayd: fyll foure barels with water, and poure it on the burnt sacrifice, and on the wood. And he sayd: do so agayne. And they dyd so the second tyme. And he said agayne: doo it the thyrde tyme. And they dyd it yet the thyrde tyme. And the water ranne round about the aultare: & he fylled the pyt with water also.

And it fortuneth, when the tyme came (wherin the burnt sacrifice of the euenynge vled to be offered) Elia the prophet came, & sayd: Lord God of Abraham, Israhel & of Israel, it shall be knowen this daye, that thou arte the God of Israel, and that I am thy seruante, and that I haue done al these thynges at thy comaundement. Heare me (O Lord) heare me, & this people maye knowe that thou art the Lord God, and that thou hast turned the people hert agayne now at the last. * And the fyre of the Lord fell, and consumed the burnt sacrifice, the wood, the stoones and the dust, and lycked vp the water that was in the pytte. And when all the people sawe it, they fell on theyr faces, and sayde: The Lord, he is God: the Lord he is God. And Elia sayd vnto them: Take the prophetes of Baal, & let not one of them escape. And they toke them, and Elia brought them to the brooke kishon, and slue them there. And Elia sayde vnto Ahab: Get the vp, and eate & drynke, for there is a sounde of myche rayne. And so Ahab wente vp, to eate and to drynke, and Elia wente vp to the toppe of Carmel. And belayed hym selfe flatte vpon the earthe, and put his face betwene his knees, and sayd to his seruante go vp (I praye the) and loke towarde the way of the see. And he went vp and looked, and sayd: there is nothyng. And he sayd: go agayne seuen tymes. And it fortuneth, that at the seuenth tyme, he sayde: beholde, there aryleth a lytle cloude of the see lyke a mannes hande. He sayde: Go, and saye vnto Ahab: Make faste thy charette, and get the downe, that the rayne stoppe not.

G.iii. And

And it came to passe, that in the meane whyle, that heauen was blacke with cloudes & wynde and ther was a great rayne. And Ahab gat vp and came to Jezrael. And the hand of the Lord was on Elia, and he gyrded vp his lopnes, and ranne befoze Ahab tyll he came to Jezrael.

The xix. Chapter.

Elia fleing from Jezabel, is nourished of the angell of God: and is commaunded to annoynt Azael, Jehu, and Eliseus, whome the Hebrews call Elisa.

And Ahab tolde Jezabel, all þe Elia had done, and how he had slayne al the prophetes with the swearde.

Then Jezabel sent a messenger vn to Elia, sayinge: *so and so let the goddes do to me, yf I make not thy soule lyke one of theys by tomorowe this tyme. When he sawe that, he arose, and wet for his lyfe, and came to Beerseba in Iuda, and left his seruaunt there. But he hym selfe went a dayes iournepe into the wildernesse, and came and sate downe vnder a Juniper tree, and despyed for his soule, that he might dye, and sayd: *it is now ynough (O Lorde) take my soule, for I am not better, then my fathers.

And as he laye and slept vnder the Juniper-tree, beholde, an angell touched hym, and sayde vnto hym: vp, and eate. And when he looked aboute hym, beholde, there was a lofe of bzyed bread, & a vessel of water at his heed. And he did eate and dzyinke, and layed hym downe agayne to slepe. And the Angell of the Lorde came agayne the seconde tyme, and touched hym, and sayd: vp and eate, for thou hast yet a great iournepe. And he arose, and did eate and dzyinke, and walked in the strength of that meate & fourtye dayes and fourtye nyghtes, even vnto Horeb the mount of God. When he came thither in to a caue, he lodged therein all nyght.

And beholde, the worde of the Lorde came to hym, & sayd vnto hym: what doest þe here Elia? And he answered. I haue ben gelous for þe Lord God of hostes sake. For the chyldren of Israel haue forlaken thy couenaunte, & broken downe thyne alters, & slayne thy prophetes with the swearde, & I only am lefte, & they seke my lyfe to take it away. And he sayd: come out, and stande vpon þe mount befoze the Lord. And beholde, the Lord went by a myghty strong wynde yf ret the mountaynes, & brake þe rockes befoze the Lorde. But þe Lord was not in þe wynde. And after the winde came an earthquake. But the Lord was not in the earthquake. And after the earthquake came fyre: but the Lord was not in the fyre. And after þe fyre came a small styl voyce. And when Elia herd it, he couered his face w his mantel, & wet out, & stode in þe entryng in of the caue. And beholde, there came a voyce vnto hym, & sayde: what doest thou here Elia? And he answered: I haue bene gelous for the Lorde God of hostes sake, because the chyldren of Israel haue forlaken thy couenaunt, cast downe thyne alters and slayne thy prophetes w the swearde, & I only am lefte. And they seke my life to take it away. And the Lord sayd vnto hym: go & turne thy way to the wyldernesse vnto Damascus, & thou mayest annoynt *hazael kyng ouer Siria. And Jehu the sonne of Nimshi shalt thou annoynt kyng ouer Israel. And Elisa þe son of Saphat of Abieholoth shalt þe annoynt to be prophete in thy roune. And it shall come to passe, yf whoso escape þe swerd of hazael, him shall Jehu slaye: yf any man escape þe swerde of Jehu hym shall Elisa put to death. And therto *I haue left me vnto in Israel, of which neuer man bowed his knees vnto Baal, nor kylled hym with his mouth.

So he departed thence, & founde Elisa the son of Saphat plowynge, & hauynge twelue poke of oren befoze him, and he w the twelue. And Elia wet by him, and cast his mantel vpon hym. And he left þe oren, & ran after Elia, & sayd: *let me praye the, kysse my father & my mother, & then I wyll folowe the. He sayd vnto him: go backe agayne, for what is it yf I haue done to the? And when he went backe agayne from hym, he toke a couple of oren, & slue them, and dzed the flesch w the instrumentes of the oren, and gane vnto the people, and they dyd eate. And then he arose and went after Elia, and mynistred vnto hym.

The xx. Chapter

The fyrst and seconde tyme that Samaria was besieged of Benhadad kyng of Siria.

And Benhadad the kyng of Siria gathered all the host together, hauynge xxii. kynges with him, and hoxles, & chareys: and went vp, and besieged Samaria, & warred agaynst it. And he sent messengers to Ahab kyng of Israel, into the cite, and sayd vnto hym: thus sayeth Benhadad: Thy syluer and thy golde is myne, and the fayrest of thy wyues, and of thy chyldren be myne. And the kyng of Israel answered, and sayd: My lord kyng accordyng to thy sayinge, I am thyne, and all that I haue.

And when the messengers came agayne, they sayd: thus sayeth Benhadad: For as moche as I haue sent vnto the, sayinge: thou shalt deliuer me thy syluer and thy golde, and thy wyues and thy chyldren: I wyll therfore sende my seruantes vnto the tomorow this tyme: and they shall seache thyne house, and the houses of thy seruantes. And whatsoeuer is pleasaunt in thyne eyes, they shall take it in theyr handes, and bryng it awaye. Then the kyng of Israel sent for all the elders of the lande, & sayd: take hede I praye you, and se how this felow goeth about mischefe. For he sent vnto me for my wyues, for my chyldren, for my syluer and for my golde: and I denyed hym not. And all the elders and all the people sayde, herken not vnto hym, nor consent.

Wherfore he sayde vnto the messengers of Benhadad: tel my lord the kyng, all that thou dyddest send for to thy seruant at þe fyrst tyme that I wil do, but this thing I may not do. And the messengers departed and brought answer agayne. And Benhadad set vnto hym agayne, and sayde: thus and thus do the goddes to me, yf the dust of Samaria be ynough for al þe people that folowe me, to take euery man an handfull. And the kyng of Israel answered, and sayde: tell hym: Let not him that putterh on his barnesse boost him selfe, as he that putterh it off. And it

And it fortuneth, that when Benhadad hearde, that tydings as he was with the kynges dnyng within the pavillions, he sayd vnto his seruantes: put on your harnesse, and they set them selues in aray agaynst the ctyte.

And beholde, there came a prophete vnto Ahab kyng of Israel, saying: thus sayth the Lord hast thou sene all this greates multitude? Behold, I wyl deliuer it into thyne hand this day and thou shalt knowe, that I am the Lord.

And Ahab sayd: by whom? He sayd: thus sayth the Lord: euen by the seruantes of the gouernours of the Syres. He sayd agayne: Who shall orde the battayle? and he answered: thou. Thā he nombred the seruantes of the gouernours of the Syres, and they were two hundred, & xxii. And after them also he nombred all the people, all the chyldren of Israel euen seven thousande. And they wente oute at noone: but Benhadad dyd dnyke tyll he was dzyken in the pauplyngs, bothe he and the kynges: euen. xxiii. kynges, that holpe hym. And the seruantes of the gouernours of the Syres went out fyrst.

And Benhadad set out, and they shewed him, saying: there are men come oute of Samaria. He sayde: Whether they be come oute for peace, take them alieue: or whether they be come out to fyght, take them yet alieue. And so those yonge men of the gouernours of Syres came out of the ctyte, & the host after them, and they slue euery one his enemye that came in his way. And the Syrians fled, and they of Israel folowed after the. And Benhadad the kyng of Siria escaped on an horse with his horsemen. And the kyng of Israel went out, and smote the horses & charettes, and wā a great slaughter slue he the Syrians.

And there came a Prophet to the kyng of Israel, and sayde vnto hym: goo forth, and playe the man, be wise and take hede what thou dost: for when the yeare is gone aboute, the kyng of Siria wyl come by agaynst the. And the seruantes of the kyng of Siria sayde vnto hym: The goddesses of the hylls are they: goddesses, and therfore they had the better of vs: but let vs fyghte agaynst the in the playne, and for what ye wyl, we shall haue the better of them. And this doo: take the kynges away, euery man oute of his place, and put dukes in they: roumes. And doo thou nombre the an host, lyke the host that thou hast lost suche horses and such charettes, and we wyl fyght agaynst the in the playne, and thou shalt see vs get the better of them. And he hearkened vnto they: voyce, and dyd euen so.

And it fortuneth, that after the yere was gone about, Benhadad nombred the Syrians, & went vnto Aphek to fyght agaynst Israel. And the chyldren of Israel were nombred, and wā they: hole nombre went they agaynst the, and the chyldren of Israel pitched before them, lyke two lytle flockes of kyddes: but the Syrians fylled the countrey: And there came amā of God, and sayde vnto the kyng of Israel: thus sayeth the Lord: Bycause the Syrians haue sayde: The Lord is but God of the hylls, & not God of the valleyes: therfore wyl I deliuer all this great multitude into thyne hande, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord. And they pitched one ouer against the other seven dayes, & it came to passe that in the seventh daye the battayle was ioyned. And the chyldren of Israel slue of the Syrians an hundred thousande footemen in one daye. But the rest fled to Aphek into the ctyte. And there fel a wail vpon. xxvii. thousand of the men that were lefte. And Benhadad fled, and came into the ctyte, from chambze to chambze.

And his seruantes sayd vnto hym: Behold, we haue herd say: that the kynges of the house of Israel are merciful kynges. We wyl therfore put sackcloth about our loynes and ropes about our neckes, & go out to the kyng of Israel: yf happily he wyl saue thy lyfe. And so they gyrded sackcloth about they: loynes, and put ropes aboute they: hedes, & came to the kyng of Israel, & sayd: Thy seruant Benhadad sayth: I praye the let me lyue. He sayde: is he yet alieue? he is my brother. And they toke that word for good lucke, & hastily caught it out of his mouth, and sayd: peace thy brother Benhadad. He sayd: go, byng him byther. And Benhadad came out vnto hym, & he caused hym to come by vnto the charet. And he sayd vnto him: the ctytes which my father toke fro thy father I wyl restore agayne. And thou shalt make stretches for me in Damasco, as my father dyd in Samaria. And I wyl make an appoyntment with the, & sende the away. And so he made an appoyntment wā hym, & sent him away.

And there was a certayne man of the chyldren of the prophetes, which sayd vnto his neyghbour in the worde of the Lord: smyte me I pray the. And the mā wold not smyte him. Thā sayd he vnto him: bycause thou hast not hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord, behold, as soone as thou art departed fro me a lyon shall slaye the. And it came to passe, & as soone as he was departed fro hym, a lyon found him & slue him. Then he found another man, & said: smite me I pray the. And the mā smote him, so that in smyting he wounded hym. So the prophet went forth, & wayted for the kyng by the way, & put him selfe out of knowledge wā the shew which he layed vpon his face. And when the kyng came by, he cryed vnto the kyng, & sayd: thy seruant went out in the myddes of the battayle: & beholde, there went away a man, who an other man brought vnto me, and sayd: kepe this man. And if he be missed or lost, thy lyfe shall goe for his: or els thou shalt paye a talent of syluer. And as the seruant had here & there to do, he was gone. And the kyng of Israel sayd vnto him: euen so shall thy iudgement be, as thou hast defyned it thy selfe.

And he hastened, and toke the ashes awaye fro his face: and the kyng of Israel knew him that he was of the prophetes: And he sayd vnto him thus sayth the Lord: bycause thou hast let go a man that is in my curse, thy lyfe shall goe for his lyfe: and thy people for his people. And the kyng of Israel wente to his house, waywarde and in displeasure, and came to Samaria.

After

i reg. viii. b.

After these thynges it chaunced, & Naboth the Jezrabelite had a vine yarde in Jezrabel, harde by the palace of Ahab kyng of Samaria. And Ahab spake vnto Naboth, saying: *Gyue me thy vyneyarde, that I maye make me a garden of herbes thereof, bycause it lyeth so nye myne house: and I wyl gyue the for it a better vyneyarde then it is: or rather yf it please the, I wyl gyue the, the worth of it in moneye. And Naboth sayd to Ahab: the Lorde forbyd that fro me, that I shulde gyue the enheritaunce of my father vnto the.

And Ahab came into his house heuy and euill apayed, bycause of the worde whiche Naboth the Jezrabelite had spoken vnto hym, for he had sayd: I wyl not gyue the the enheritaunce of my fathers. And he layed him downe vpon his bed, and turned awaye his face ^{to the wall} & wolde eate no breede. And Jezabel his wyfe cam to hym and sayd vnto him. why is thy spyrite so waywarde, that thou eatest no breede? And he sayde vnto her: For I spake vnto Naboth the Jezrabelite, and sayd vnto hym: Gyue me thy vyneyarde for moneye, or els yf it please the, I wyl gyue the an other vyneyarde for it. And he answered: I wyl not gyue the my vyneyarde.

E And Jezabel his wyfe sayd vnto hym: Dost thou thus gouerne the kingdome of Israel? vp, & eat breede, and let thyne hert at rest, I wyl gyue the the vyneyarde of Naboth the Jezrabelite. And so she wrote a letter in Ahabys name, and sealed it with his seale, and sent the letter vnto the elders, and to the nobles that were in his cite dwellynge with Naboth. And she wrote in the letter, saying: Proclayme a fast, and let Naboth on hye amonge the people, and set two vnthyftes before hym, to beare ^(false) wytnesse agaynst hym, sayinge: thou dydest blasphemie God and the kyng. And then carpe hym oute, and stone hym to death.

D And the men of hys cite, that is to saye: whych dwelte in hys cite, dyd as Jezabel had sent vnto them: as it was wyrtten in the letter, whiche she had sent vnto them. They proclaymed fastynge, and set Naboth amonge the chefe of the people, and there came in two men (the chyldren of Belial) and sat before him. And the two vnthyftes personnes wytnessed agaynst Naboth in the presence of the people, sayinge: Naboth dyd blasphemie God and the kyng.

Actu. viii. g

*And they carped hym out of the cite, and stoned hym with stones, that he dyed. And thā they sente to Jezabel, sayinge: Naboth is stoned to death. And it fortunied, when Jezabel herd that Naboth was stoned to death, she sayd to Ahab: vp, and take possession of the vyneyarde of Naboth the Jezrabelite, whych he denyed to gyue the for moneye, for Naboth is not alyue, but deed. And when Ahab herde that Naboth was deed, he stode vp to go downe to the vyneyarde of Naboth the Jezrabelite, & to take possession of it.

E And the worde of the Lorde came vnto Elia the Thelbite, sayinge: vp, and goo downe to mete Ahab kyng of Israel, whych is in Samaria. For lo, he is gone downe to the vyneyarde of Naboth: to take possession of it. And therefore shalt thou saye vnto hym: thus sayth the Lorde: hast thou kyled, and gotten possession? And thou shalt speake vnto hym, saying: thus sayth the Lorde: *in the place where dogges lyched the bloode of Naboth, shall dogges lyche euen thy bloode also. And Ahab sayde to Elia: haste thou founde me, O thou myne enemye? He answered: I haue founde the: for thou art euen sold to worke wickednesse in the syght of the Lorde. Beholde, I wyl byynge euill vpon the, & wyl make cleane ryddaunce of thy posterite, and wyl *destrope from Ahab, euen him y maketh water agaynst the wall, and hym that is hnt vp, and leste behynde in Israel, and wyl make thyne house lyke the house of Jeroboam the son of Nabat: and lyke the house of Baasa the son of Aha, for the prouocacyon wherewith thou hast prouoked, and made Israel to synne.

And of Jezabel spake the Lorde, sayinge: *dogges shall eate Jezabel, in the possession of Jezrabel. *And he that dyeth from Ahab in the towne, hym shall dogges eate: and he that dyeth in the felde, hym shall the foules of the ayre eat. But there was none lyke Ahab, whych dyd euen sell hym selfe, to worke wyckednesse in the syght of the Lorde: and that bycause that Jezabel hys wyfe prycked hym for ward. He dyd excedynge abhominably, in folowynge foule ydols, accordynge to all thynges as dyd the Ammorites, whome the Lorde cast out before the chyldren of Israel.

And it fortunied, that when Ahab herd those wordes, *he rent his clothes, and put sackcloth about his fleshe, and fasted, and laye in sackcloth and went barefote. And the worde of the Lorde came to Elia the Thelbite, sayinge: seest thou howe Ahab humbleth hym selfe before me? bycause he submytteth hym selfe before me, I wyl not byynge that euill in hys dayes: but in hys sonnes dayes, wyl I byynge euill vpon hys house. And they contynued thre yere wythoute warre betwene Syria and Israel.

The xxii. Chapter.

Four hundred false prophetes doo counsaile Ahab and Jehozaphat to warre agaynst Ramoth. Onely Micha propheceth the truthe, for whiche he is smytten, and put in prison. Of Ahazias: other wyse called Scholias.

And *in the thyrde yere dyd Jehozaphat the kyng of Iuda, come downe to the kyng of Israel. And the kyng of Israel sayde vnto hys seruauntes: knowe ye not that Ramoth in Gilead is ours? and we syt styll, and take it not out of the hande of the kyng of Syria. And he sayde vnto Jehozaphat: wylt thou come with me to battayle agaynst Ramoth in Gilead? And Jehozaphat sayde vnto the kyng of Israel: *I wyl be as thou arte, and my people shall be as thyne, and my horses as thyne.

And Jehozaphat sayde vnto the kyng of Israel: *alke counsaile, I praye the, at the worde of the Lorde todaye. And then the kyng of Israel rael gathered the prophetes togyther vpon * a four hundred men, and sayd vnto them: Shall I go agaynst Ramoth in Gilead to battayle, or shall I let it alone? And they sayd go vp: for the Lorde shall deliuer it into the handes of the kyng. And Jehosaphat sayde, is there here neuer a prophet of the Lorde more, þe we myght enquire of hym? And the kyng of Israel sayd vnto Jehosaphat: there is yet one man (Micah) sonne of Jimla) by whom we maye aske counsaile of the Lorde. But I hate him, for he doth not prophete good vnto me, but euyl. And Jehosaphat sayd: let not the kyng say so. Then the kyng of Israel called a chambrelayne, and sayd let Micah the sonne of Jimla hyther at ones.

And the kyng of Israel and Jehosaphat the kyng of Iuda set either in his seate, and they apparell on them: in a voyde place besyde þe entryng in of the gate of Samaria, and all þe prophetes propheted befoze them. And zedekia þe sonne of Canaana made hornes of yron, & sayd: thus sayeth the Lorde: with these hornes shalt thou push the Syrians, vntyll thou haue made an ende of them. And all the prophetes propheted euen so: sayenge: Go vp to Ramoth in Gilead, and prosper, for the Lorde shall deliuer it into the kynges hande.

And the messenger that was gone to cal Micah, spake vnto hym, saying: beholde, the wordes of the prophetes speake good vnto the king with one mouth: let the word therfore (I praye the) be lyke the woorde of euery one of them, to speake that which is good. And Micah sayde: as truly as the Lorde liueth, whatsoeuer þe Lorde sayeth vnto me, that wyl I speake. And so he came to the kyng: and the kyng sayd vnto hym Micah, ought we to go agaynst Ramoth in Gilead to battayle: or to be still? He answered vnto hym: * go, and prosper, the Lorde shall deliuer it into the hande of the kyng. And þe king sayde vnto hym: So and so many tymes do I charge the, that thou tell me nothyng, but that which is true in the name of the lorde. He sayd. I sawe all them of Israel scattred vpon the hilles, as shepe that haue not a shepheard. And the Lorde sayd: these haue no master, let euery man returne vnto his house in peace. And the kyng of Israel sayd vnto Jehosaphat: dyd I not tell the, that he wolde prophete no good vnto me, but euyl? And he sayd agayne: heare thou therfore the woorde of the Lorde. I sawe the Lorde sit on his seate, and all the hoost of heauen stode about him on his ryght hand & on his left. And þe Lorde said: * Who shall perswade Ahab that he maye go and fall at Ramoth in Gilead? And one sayde on this maner: and an other on that. And there came forth a certayne spryte, & stode befoze þe Lorde, and sayd: I wyl perswade hym. And the Lorde sayd vnto hym wherewith?

And he sayd: I wyl go out, and be a false spiryt in the mouth of al his prophetes. He sayde: thou shalt perswade him, and preuaile, go forth then, and doo euen so. Nowe therfore beholde * the Lorde hath putte a lyenge spryte in the mouth of al these thy prophetes, and the Lorde bath spoken euyl towarde the.

But zedekia the sonne of Canaana went to and smote Micah on the cheke, and sayd: when went the spryte of the Lorde fro me, to speake vnto the? And Micah said: behold, þe shalt se in þe day, when thou shalt go from chambze to chambze to hyde the. And the kyng of Israel laide: Take Micah and cary him vnto Imon the gouernour of the citie, and vnto Joab the kynges sonne, and say, thus sayth the kyng: Put this felowe in þe prison house, and fede him with hynde of affliction, and with water of trouble, vntyll I returne in peace. And Micah sayd: yf thou returne in peace, the Lorde hath not spoken by me. And he sayd: hearken ye people euery one of you.

And so the kyng of Israel and Jehosaphat the kyng of Iuda went vp to Ramoth in Gilead: and the king of Israel sayd to Jehosaphat chaunge the when thou goest to warre: and put on thyne apparel. And the kyng of Israel chaunged hym selfe, and went to battayle. But the kyng of Syria commaunded the. xxxii. capitaynes (that had rule ouer his charrettes) sayinge. fyght neyther with small nor greute, saue onely agaynst the kyng of Israel. And when the capitaynes of the charrettes sawe Jehosaphat they sayd: surely it is the kyng of Israel, & they turned to fyght agaynst hym. And Jehosaphat cryed. And so it came to passe, that when the capitaynes of the charrettes sawe that he was not the king of Israel, they turned backe from him:

And a certaine man dwe a bowe ignorantly and (by chaunce) smote the kyng of Israel betwene the rybbes and his harnesse. Wherefore he sayde vnto the dyuer of his charrettes: turne thy hande, & cary me out of the hooft, for I am hurt. And the battayle encreased þe daye and the king stode still in his charet agaynst the Syrians, & dyed at euen. And the blood ran out of the wounde into the myddeste of the charret. And there went a proclamation thowout the hooft, about the going downe of the sunne, saying: euery man to his cytie, & to his owne countrey. And so the kyng of Israel dyed: and they came to Samaria, and buried hym there. And one washed the charet in the pole of Samaria * and the dogges lycked by his bloode (and harlottes washed by the pooles syde) accordynge vnto the woorde of the Lorde whych he spake.

The rest of the wordes that concerne Ahab and all that he dyd, and the puorpe house which he made, and al the cities þe buylded, are they not writte in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And so Ahab slepte with his father: and Ahaziah his son reigned in his stede.

* Jehosaphat þe son of Aza began to raygne vpon Iuda in the fourth yere of Ahab kyng of Israel: and Jehosaphat was. xxxv. yere olde, whē he began to raygne, and reigned. xxv. yere in Ierusalem. His mothers name was Azuba the daughter of Shibi. And he walked in all the wayes of Aza his father, and bowed not therefrom: but dyd that which was right in the eyes of the Lorde. Neuerthelesse, the hylalters were not taken out of the waye: for the people offered and burnt incence yet in the hylaulters. And Jehosaphat made peace with the kyng of Israel.

G. b. and

G * The rest of the wordes that concerne Jehosaphat, and the myght that he vfed, and how he warred: are thei not wrytten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda: And the remanent of the stues of the males, which remayned in the dayes of his father, he put cleane out of the lande. There was the no kyng in Edom. And Jehosaphat made .x. shippes in the sea, to come thowowe Charlis to Ophir for golde, but they went not, for the shippes brake at Ozion Gaber. Then sayd Ahazia the sonne of Ahab vnto Jehosaphat: let my seruantes go with thy seruantes in the shippes. But Jehosaphat wolde not. And Jehosaphat dyd slepe w his fathers, & was buried w his father in the cite of Dauid his father. And Jehoia his son reigned in his stede.

Ahazia the sonne of Ahab began to raygne ouer Israel in Samaria, the seuententh yere of Jehosaphat kyng of Juda, and raygned two yeres ouer Israel. But he dyd euill in the syght of the Lorde, and walked in the waye of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the waye of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, which made Israel to syn. For he serued Baal, and worshypped hym: and prouoked the Lorde God of Israel vnto wrath, according vnto all that his father had done.

The fyrst Chapter.

C The captaynes ouer fyfte wyth theyr souldiers are burnte w fyre from heauen, by the prayer of Elia. Ahazia is reprobued of Elia, & dyeth: and Jehoiam hys brother succedeth hym.

A And Moab dyd wyckedly agaynst Israel after the deth of Ahab: and Ahazia fel thowowe a lattesse wyndowe of his vpper chambze that he had in Samaria: and whyle he was in his syknesse, he sent messengers, & sayde vnto the go, & enquire of Belzebub the god of Ekrom, whether I shal recouer of this my diseale. But the angel of the Lord spake to Elia the Thelbite: Arise, & go vp agaynst the messengers of the kyng of Samaria, and sape vnto the: Is there not a God in Israel, that ye goo to aske counsaille at Belzebub the god of Ekrom? Wherefore, thus sayth the Lord: thou shalt not come downe fro the bedde on which thou art gone vp, but shalt dye the death. And Elia departed.

And when the messengers touned backe agayne vnto him he sayd vnto them: why are ye now come? They answered hym: there came a man vp agaynst vs, and sayd vnto vs: go, and turne agayne vnto the kyng that sent you, and sape vnto hym: Thus sayth the Lorde: Is there not a God in Israel, that thou sedest to enquire of Belzebub the god of Ekrom? Wherefore thou shalt not come downe fro the bed on which thou arte gone vp, but shalt dye the death. And he sayd vnto them: what maner of man was that which came vp in your way, and told you these wordes? And they answered hym: it was an heere man, * and gyde w a gyde of letter about his loynes. And he sayd: it is Elia the Thelbite.

C The king sent vnto him a captayne ouer fyfte (with his fyfte men) and beholde, he sat on the toppe of an hyll. And he spake vnto hym: Thou man of God, the kyng hath sayde: come downe. Elia answered, and sayd to the captayne ouer the fyfte: yf I be a man of God, fyre come downe from heauen, and consume the and thy fyfte. * And there came fyre of God, and consumed hym and his fyfte: And the kyng went agayne, and sent an other captayne ouer fyfte, with his fyfte. And he answered, and sayd vnto him: O man of God, thus hath the kyng said make haste, and come downe: Elia answered and sayd vnto them: Yf I be a man of God fyre come downe fro heauen, and consume the and thy fyfte. And there came fyre of God downe from heauen, and consumed hym and hys fyfte.

And the kyng wente agayne, and sent the thyrde captayne ouer fyfte wyth his fyfte m. And the thyrde captayne ouer fyfte wet vp and came, and fell on his knees befoze Elia, and besought hym, and sayd vnto hym: O ma of God let my lyfe and the lyfe of the fyfte, thy seruantes be precious in thy sight. Behold, there came fyre downe from heauen, and burnt vp the two fore captaynes ouer fyfte wyth theyr fyftes. therfore let my life now be precious in thy sight. And an angel of the Lorde sayd vnto Elia: goo downe w him, & be not afrayd of him. And he arose, and went downe with him vnto the kyng.

And he said vnto hym: thus sayth the Lorde: for as moche, as thou hast sente messengers to aske counsaille at Belzebub the god of Ekrom, as though there hadde bene no God in Israel, whose word thou mightest seke after: therfore thou shalt not come downe of the bed on which thou art gone vp, but shalt dye the death. And so he dyed accordyng to the worde of the Lord which Elia had spoken. And Jehoiam (his brother) began to raygne in his stede, in the seconde yere of Jehoiam the sonne of Jehosaphat kyng of Juda, because he had no sonne. The reste of the wordes that concerne Ahazia, what thynges that he dyd, are they not wrytten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel?

C The ii. Chapter.

C Elia deuydeth the waters wyth hys mantell. He is taken vp into heauen. The bytter and benenous waters are dealed. The chyldien that mocke Elia (otherwyse called gylsa) are rente in peces.

And

And it chaunced, that when the *Lorde wolde take vp Elia in to heuē by a whyyle wind: Elia went with Elisa from Gilgal, & Elia sayd to Elisa: tary here,
I pray þe, for the lord hath sent me to Bethel. Elisa sayd vnto hym: *as surely as the Lorde lyueth, and as thy soule lyueth: I wyl not leaue the. And they came downe to Bethel, and the chyldren of the Prophetes that were at Bethel, came out to Elisa, & sayd vnto hym: knowest thou not, howe that þe Lorde wyl take a waye thy master fro thyne head this daye?
he sayde: I knowe it also: holde ye your peace.

And Elia sayd vnto hym, Elisa, tarye here,
I praye the, for the Lorde hath sent me to Jericho. he said: as surely as þe Lorde lyueth, and as thy soule lyueth I wyl not leue the, and so they came to Jericho. And the chyldren of the prophetes that were at Jericho came to Elisa, & sayde vnto hym: knowest thou not, that the Lorde wil
take a waye thy master fro thyne head this daye?
he answered: I knowe it also: holde ye youre peace. And Elia sayde vnto hym, tarye I praye the here, for the Lorde hath sent me to Jordan.
he sayde: as surely as the Lorde lyueth, and as thy soule lyueth, I wil not leaue the. And so they two went togyther. And fyfte men of the son-nes of the prophetes came & stode on the other syde afaire of, and they two stode by Jordan.

And Elia toke his mantell, and wrapt it to-gyther, and smote the waters, and they were deuyded, parte the one waye, and parte the other:
so that they two wente ouer thozowe the drye lande. And it fortunied, that as sone as they were ouer, Elia said vnto Elisa: aske what I shal do for the. yer I be taken awaye from the. And Elisa sayde: I pray the, let thy spyrite be double vpon me. And he sayd: thou hast asked an harde thyng. Neuerthelesse, yf thou se me when I am taken awaye from the thou shalt haue it so: yf thou do not, it shal not be. And it fortunied, that as they went walkyng and talkyng, beholde there appeared a charet of fyre, and hoxses of fyre: & departed them both a sondre. * And Elia went vp thozowe the whyyle wynde into heauē.
And Elisa sawe, & cryed: O my father, O my father, the charette of Israel, and the hoxsemen therof, and he sawe him nomore: and he toke his owne clothes, and rent them in two peces.

he toke vp also the mantell of Elia that fell from hym, and wense backe agayne, and stode by Jordans syde, and toke the mantell of Elia

(that fell fro hym,) and smote the waters, and they departed not a sondre. * he sayd: where is þe Lorde God of Elia, and he hym selfe? And whē he had smitten the waters, they parted this waye and that waye: and Elisa went ouer. And when the chyldren of the prophetes whiche were at Jericho sawe hym from a farre, they sayde: the spy-rite of Elia doth rest on Elisa, and they came to mete hym, and fell to the grounde before hym, and sayde vnto hym: Se, there be with thy ser-uautes fyfte stronge men, let them goo, and seke thy master: happely the spyrite of the Lorde hath taken hym vp, & cast hym vpon some moutayne, or into some valey. And he sayd: ye shal sende none. And when they lay vpo him tylt he was a shamed, he said, sende. They set therfore fyfte men, whiche sought hym thre dayes, but found him not. And when they came agayne to hym, which taryed at Jericho, he sayd vnto the vyd not I saye vnto you, that ye shulde not go?

And the men of the cytie sayde vnto Elisa, D beholde: Syr, the dwelling of this cytie is pleasaunte, as thou thy selfe seest: But the water is noughte, and the grounde barren. he sayde Byngeme a newe cruse: and put salte therin.
And they brought it to hym. And he went vnto the springe of the waters, and cast the salte in thether, and sayd: thus sayth the Lorde: I haue healed this water, there shal not come hereforth eyther dearth, or barrenesse. So the waters were healed vntyll this daye, accordyng to the sayinge of Eliseus whych he spake.

And he went vp from thence vnto Bethel.
And as he was goyng vp the waye, there came lytle chyldren out of the cytie, and mocked him, and sayd vnto hym: Go vp thou balde head, go vp thou bald head. And he turned backe, and loked on them, and cursed them in the name of the Lorde. And ther came two shebears out of that wood, and tare. xlii. chyldren of them. And he went from thence to mounte Carmel, and from thence he turned agayne to Samaria.

The. iii. Chapter.

The kynges of Israel, Iuda and Edom lacke water, whych they obtayne through the prayer of Eliseus.
The kyng of Moab trygeth agaynst Israel.

Theozam the sonne of Ahab, began to raygne vpon Israel in Samaria, the xviii. yere of Jehosaphat kyng of Juda, and raygned twelue yeres. And he wrought euell in the sight of the Lorde, but not lyke his father & lyke his mother: for he put awaye the ymages of Baal that his father had made. Neuerthelesse, he cleued vnto the synnes of Jeroboam, the sonne of Nabat (whych made Israel to synne) and departed not therefrom.

And Mesa kyng of Moab was a Lorde of shepe, and rendred vnto the kyng of Israel an hundred thousand lambes, and an hundred thousande rammes with the woll. But when Ahab was dead, it fortunied, that the kyng of Moab rebelled agaynst the kyng of Israel, and kyng Jehozam went oute of Samaria the same season, and nombred all Israel, and went, and set to Jehosaphat the kyng of Iuda, sayinge: the kyng of

kyng of Moab hath offended agaynst me, wilt thou come with me agaynst Moab to battayle? He answered: I wyll come vp, for as I am, so art thou: and as my people be so are thy people and thy horses as myne. And he sayde: What wape shall we goo vp? And he answered, The wape thowowe the wyldernesle of Edom.

And so the kyng of Israel toke hys iourney and the kyng of Iuda, and the kyng of Edom. And when they had compassed the wape seven dayes, they had no water for the hooſte, and for the cattell that folowed them. And the kyng of Israel sayde: Alas, the Lorde hath called these thre kynges togyther, to deliuer them ouer into the hande of Moab. But Jehosaphat sayde: is there not here a prophete of the Lorde, that we maye enquire of the Lorde by hym? And one of the kynges of Israel's seruauntes answered, and sayde: here is Elisa the sonne of Saphat, whiche powred water on the bandes of Elia. And Jehosaphat sayd: Is not the worde of the Lorde with hym? And so the kynges of Israel, and Jehosaphat, and the kyng of Edom went downe to hym.

And Elisa sayde vnto the kynges of Israel: what haue I to do with the? Set the to the prophetes of thy father and to the prophetes of thy mother. And the kyng of Israel sayd vnto him: Oh, naye. For the Lorde hath called these thre kynges togyther to deliuer them into the hand of Moab. And Elisa sayde: as sure as the Lorde of hostes lyueth (in whose syght I stande) and it were not, that I regarde the presence of Jehosaphat the kyng of Iuda, I wolde not loke towarde the, nor yet se the.

But nowe byynge me a mynstrel. And when the mynstrell played, the hande of the Lorde cam vpon hym. And he sayde: thus sayth the Lorde: Make this playne grounde full of dyches. For thus sayth the Lorde: ye shall se neyther wynde nor rayne, and yet the broke shal be fylled wth water, that ye maye drynke: both ye and poure bestes, and your cattell. And this is yet but a small thyng in the syghte of the Lorde, for as moche as he wyll geue ouer the Moabites also into your handes. And ye shall impte euerye stronge towne and euery goodly cytie, and shal fell euery pleasaunt tree, and stoppe euery well of water, and marre euery good plot of ground wth stoones. And in the moornyng when the meat offryng was offred, it fortuneth that there came water by the way from Edom: and the countrey was fylled wth water.

And when all the Moabites herde that the kynges were come vp to fyght agaynst them, they gathered all togyther, from the yongeste that was able to putte on harnesse, and so vpwarde, and stode in the border of the lande.

And they were vpearly in the moornyng and the sunne shone vpon the water, that the Moabites sawe the water as farre of, as red as blood and they sayde: this is the bloode of slaughter: the kynges are slayne, and one hath smyten another: now therefore Moab get the to the spoyle. And when they came to the hooſt of Israel, the Israelites stode vp, and smote the moabites, so that they fledde before them, but they folowed vpon them, and smote Moab. And they ouerthrewe the cyties: and on euery good parcel of lande cast euery man his stone, and felled it, and they stopte all the welles of water, and felled all the good trees. Onely in the cytie of byzke left they the stones therof: howbeit they went about it with synges, and smote it.

And when the kyng of Moab sawe that the battayle was sore agaynst hym, he toke wth hym seven hundred men that dree the swearde to haue goodie thowowe, euen vnto the kyng of Edom: but they could not. And then he toke hys eldeste sonne (that shoulde haue raygned in his stede) and offred hym for a burnt offryng vpon the wall. And there was greate indignacion agaynst Israel, and they departed from him, and returned to theyr owne lande.

The .iiii. Chapter.

God gyueth a certayne poore woman oyle and floure, by which she is called Elisa. (whome the recte calleth Eliza) a breyner of God a chyld for hys hostelle: whiche dyeth, and is after rayled to lyfe. He maketh there the portage: and multiplyeth the loues.

And there cryed a certayne woman of y wyues of the prophetes vnto Elisa, saying: thy seruante my husbnde is dead, and thou knowest, that thy seruant dyd feare the lorde.

And y credit our is come to set my twosones to be his bondemen. Elisa sayd vnto her: tel me what I shall do for the: what hast thou in thyne house? She sayd: thyne handmayd hath nothing at al in the house, saue a ppycher of oyle. He said vnto her: go, and bozowe vessell for the of them that are withoute, euen of all thy neyghbours, empyre vessels: and that not a fewe. And when thou arte come in, thou shalt shut the doze after the and after thy sonnes, and poure out into all those vessels, and set asyde that which is full.

And so the woman went from hym, and shut the doze after her, and after her sonnes. And they brought to her, and she poured out. And it came to passe, y when the vessels were full, she sayde vnto her son: bying me yet a vessel. And he sayd vnto her: I haue no mo. And y oyle ceased. The she came and told the man of God. And he sayd go, & sell the oyle, & paye them y thou art in det vnto, but lyue thou and thy chyldre of y rest. y

And it fel on a daye, that Elisa came to Sunem, where was a great woman that toke hym in for to eate breed. And so it came to passe, that fro that tyme forth (as oft as he cam that way) he turned in thither to eate breed. And she sayd vnto her husbnde: Beholde, I perceyue, that this is an holpe man of God that cometh so oft by our place. Let vs make him a chambze (I pray the) with walles, and let vs set hym there a bed and a table and a stole, and a candlestyk: that he may turne in thither when he cometh to vs.

And it fortuneth on a day, y he came thither and turned into the chambze, & laye therein, and sayd to Gebezi his seruant: call this Sunamite. And when he called her, she presented her selfe before hym.

foze him. And agayne he sayd vnto him: tel her Beholde, thou hast ben carefull for vs, and hast made all this prouisiō. What shall we now do for the: woldest thou be spoken for to the kyng or to the captayne of the host? She answered: I dwell amonge myne owne people. And he sayd again: what is to be done for her? Gehazi answered: Merely she hath no chylde, & her husbände is olde. And he sayd: call her. And whā he had called her, she stode in y^e doze. And he sayd * by such a tyme, and as soone as the frute can lyue, thou shalt embrace a sonne. And she sayd: Oh naye, my lord, thou man of God, do not lye vnto thy handmayde. And the wyfe conceived, and bare a sonne that same season that Elisens had sayd vnto her, as soone as the frute coulde haue lyfe.

And when the chylde was growen, it fell on a daye, that he went out to his father, and to the reapers. And he sayd to his father: my head, my heed. And he sayd to a lad: Cary hym to his mother. And when he had caryed him and brought him to his mother, he sat on her knees tyll none and then dyed. And she went vp, and layed him on the bed of the man of God, and shut the doze aboute hym, and went out, and called vnto her husbände, and said: sende with me (I praye the) one of the yonge men and one of the asses. For I wyll runne to the man of God, and come agayne. And he sayde: wherfoze wylt thou go to him, seinge that to day is neyther newe moone nor Sabboth daye? She answered: for health. The she sadled an asse, and sayd to her seruauant leade away y^e asse, and make her not go slowly. (bycause I ryde vpon her) but when I byd the.

And so she went, and came vnto the man of God to mount Carmel. And it fortuneth, that when the man of God saw her farre of, he sayd to Gehazi his seruauant: Beholde, ponder is the Sunamite. Runne therfoze to mete her, & saye vnto her: Is all wel with the and with thy husbände, & with the lad? And she answered: All is well. And when she came to the man of God vp to the hyll, she caught hym by the fete. But Gehazi went to her, to thrust her awaye. And the man of God sayd: let her aloone, for her soule is vexed within her, and the Lorde hath hyd it frome, and hath not tolde it me. Then she sayd: did I desyre a sonne of my lord, dyd I not requyre the, that thou shouldest not disceyue me?

Then he sayd to Gehazi: * gyde vpy thy loynes, and take my staffe in thyne hande, and go thy waye. * Yf thou mete any man salute hym not. And yf any salute the, answere hym not a gayne. And lay my staffe vpo y^e face of the childe. And the mother of y^e chylde sayd, * as sure as the Lorde lyueth, & as thy soule lyueth, I wyll not leaue the. And he arose, & folowed her. Gehazi went before them, & layed the staffe vpo y^e face of the childe. But there was neyther voyce nor any feling: wherfoze he wēt agayn to mete him and tolde hym, saying: y^e chylde is not awaked.

And when Elisa was come into the house, beholde, the chylde was dead, and layed vpon his bed. He went in therfoze, and shut the dooze to the lad and hym, and prayed vnto the Lorde

* And went vp, and laye vpon the lad, and put his mouth on his mouth, and his eyes vpon his eyes, and hys handes vpon his hādes, and whē he so laye vpon the chylde, the flesch of the childe waxed warme. And he went agayne, & walked ones vp and downe in the house, and then wēt vp and layed hym selfe vpon hym agayne. And then the chylde gasped seuen tymes, and opened his eyes. And he called Gehazi, and sayde: Call for this Sunamite. So he called her, whiche when she was come in vnto hym, he sayde vnto her: * Take thy sonne. Therfoze she wente in, and fell at hys feete, and bowed her selfe to the ground, and toke vp her sonne, and went out. And Elisa came agayne to Gilgal, and there was a dearth in the lande, and the chyldezen of the prophetes dwelt with hym. And he sayde vnto his seruante: Set a greate pottle on the fyze, and make pottage for the childezen of the prophetes and one went oute into the felde, to gather herbes, and founde * (as it were) a wylde vyne, and gathered therof wylde Coloquintidas hys lay full, and came and thred them into the pottle of pottage: for they knewe it not. So they poured oute for the men to eate. And it fortuneth, that whē they tasted of the pottage, they cryed oute, and sayd: O thou man of God, there is death in the pot: and they coulde not eate therof. But he sayde: byynge me. And he cast it into the pot, and sayde: I yll for the people, that they maye eate, and there was nomore harme in the pottle.

There came a man from Baal Halise, and brought the man of God bread of the fyrst frutes, even twety loues of barley, and newe corne, which was yet in his bagges, and sayde: Gyue vnto the people, that they maye eate. And hys mynister answered: why shall I set this before an hundred men? he sayd agayne: gyue it vnto the people y^e they maye eate. For thus sayeth the Lorde, * they shal eate, and there shal be left ouer. And so he dyd set it before them, & they did eate, and left ouer: accordyng to the word of y^e Lorde.

The. v. Chapter.

Naaman the Syrian is healed of hys leprosie. Gehazi is stricken with leprosie, because he toke money, and rayment of Naaman.

Naaman captayne of the hooſte of the kyng of Siria, was a greate man, and honourable in the syght of his master: bycause that by him the Lorde had gyuen healthe vnto Siria. he also was a myghty mā and experte in warre, but he was a lepre. And the Sirians had gone oute by companyes, and had brought out of the countrey of Israel a lytle mayde, and she was with Naamans wyfe. And she said vnto her lady: I wolde to God my lord were wylth the prophete that is in Samaria: for he wold deliuer him of his leprosie. And he went in, and tolde his lord, saying: thus and thus sayde the mayde that is of the lande of Israel. And the kyng of Siria sayde: Come, and entre in, and I wyl sende a letter vnto the kyng of Israel: And he came, and toke with hym ten talentes of syluer, and syre thousande peces of golde, and ten chaunge of raymentes: & broughte the the letter to the kyng of Israel containyng this tenour: Nowe whē this letter is come vnto the beholde, I haue therewith sent Naaman my seruānt to the, that thou mayest ryd him of his leprosy. And it fortunēd, that when the kyng of Israel had red the letter, he rēt his clothes, and sayd: *am I God, that shoulde slaye and make alpye? For he doeth sende to me, that I shoulde deliuer a man from his leprosy: Wherfore consydre (I praye you) and se how he seeketh a quarrell agaynst me. Which when Elisa the man of God had hearde howe that the kyng of Israel had rent his clothes, he sent vnto the kyng sayinge: wherfore hast thou rente thy clothes? Let hym come nowe to me, and he shall knowe, that there is a Prophete in Israel.

And so Naaman came with his hoxses, and with hys charettes, and stode at the doze of the house of Elisa. And Elisa sent a messēger vnto him, saying: go & wash the in Iordā. vii. tymes and thy flesh shal come agayne to the, and thou shalt be censed. But Naaman was wroth and went awaye, & sayd: Beholde, I thought w my selfe: he wolde surely come out, & stand, & call on the name of y Lord his God, and put hys hande on the place, that he myght heale the leprosy. Are not Abana & parphar, ryuers of Damasco better then all the waters of Israel? Vt I wash me also in them, shall I not be censed? And so he turned hym, and departed wyth displeasure. And his seruantes came, and communed with hym, and sayde: Father yf the Prophet had bid den the do some great thyng, oughtest thou not to haue done it? How: moche rather then, when he sayth to the: wash, and be cleane? Then went he downe, and washed hym s. lke scuen tymes in Iordan, accordyng to the saying of the man of God: and his fleshe chaunged, lyke vnto the fleshe of a lytle chyld, *and he was cleansed.

iii. re. xlii. a

And he turned agayne to the man of God, he and all his cōpany, and stode before him & sayd Beholde, I know now y there is no God in all the worlde, but in Israel. * Now therfore take a blessing of thy seruānt. But he sayde: *as surely as the Lorde lyueth (before whom I stand) I wyl receyue none. And when the other woulde haue cōstrayned hym to receyue it, he wold not. And Naaman sayd: * (euen as thou wylt: but I beseech the.) Shal there not be gyuen to thy seruānt as moche of this earthe as two mules may beare? For thy seruānt wyl henceforth offere neyther burnt sacrifice nor offryng vnto any other god saue vnto y Lorde. But herein, the Lorde be merciful vnto thy seruānt, y when my master goeth into the house of Rymmon, and doeth worshyppe there, and leaneth on myne hand, and I also worshyp in the house of Rymmon. (When I do worshyp, I saye:) in the house of Rymmon the Lorde be mercifull vnto thy seruānt by cause of this thinge. Vnto whom he sayd: go in peace. And whē he was departed from hym as it were a forlonge of grounde, Gehazi the seruānt of Elisa the man of God sayd: beholde, my master hath spared Naaman thys Syrian, y he wolde not receyue of hys hande those thynges, that he offred. As surely as the Lorde liueth, I shal run after hym, and take somewhat of hym. And so Gehazi folowed Naaman. And when Naaman sawe hym runnyng after hym, he light downe from the charette to mete hym, and sayde: * is all well? He answered: All is wel. Beholde, my master hath sent me, saying: Se, there be come to me, euen nowe frome mounte Ephraim two younge men of the chyldrene of the Prophetes: gyue them I praye the, one talent of syluer, and two chaunge of garmentes. And Naama sayd with a good wyll. Take two talentes: & he compelled hym to bynde two talētes of siluer in two bagges, w two chaunge of garmentes, & layed them vpo two of his seruantes, to beare them before hym. And when he came in to a secreete place, he toke the fro the y had, & bestowed it in the house, & the mē were let go: & they departed.

But he went in, and stode before his master. And Elisa sayd vnto hym: whence comest thou Gehazi? He sayd: thy seruānt went no whither. But he said vnto him: wēt not myne hert w the when the man tourned agayne from hys charette to mete the? Is it nowe a tyme to receyue moneye, to receyue garmentes, olyue trees, vineyardes, sheepe and oxen, men seruantes, and mayde seruantes? The leprosy therfore of Naaman shall cleaue vnto the, and thy seed for euer. * And he went out from hys presence alle yte as snowe.

The. vi. Chapter.

Eliseus maketh yron to swymme about the water. The Sirians besyge Israel, so that two women agree together to eate theyr owne chyldren.

The children of the prophetes said vnto Elisa: Beholde, y place where we dwel wth the is to lytle for vs. We wil therefore goe vnto Iordā, & take thēce euery man a beme, & buylde vs a place to dwell in. And he answered: go. And one said: be cōtent (I pray the) & com w thy seruantes. And he answered: I wil come, and so he wēt w them. And whē they came to Iordā they cut downe wood. But it fortunēd, that as one was felling downe of a tree, the axe head fell into the water. And he cryed and sayd: alas master, it was lent me. And the man of God said: where fel it? And he shewed hym the place. And he cut downe a stycke, and cast it in thither, and immediatly the yron dyd swym. Therfore sayde he: take it vp. And he stretched out his hand, & toke it vp.

But y kyng of Siria warred agaynst Israel, and toke cōsail w his seruantes, and sayd: In ydore secreete place shal be my remayning. And the man of God sent vnto the kyng of Israel, sayinge: Beware that thou go not ouer to such a place, for there the Sirians are lurking. Therfore the kyng of Israel sent to the place which y man of God told him, and warned hym of, and sauēd hym selfe from it, not ones, nor twyse.

And the hert of the kyng of Siria was troubled for this thing, & he called for his seruantes and sayd vnto them: wyl ye not shew me which of our men (betrayeth me) to the kyng of Israel? And one of his seruantes sayde: none my Lorde y kyng, but Elisa y prophet that is in Israel telleth telleth the kyng of Israel: yea, euen the woꝛdes þe thou spakest in thy prey chabze. He sayde go, and espye where he is, þe I may send and fet him. And one told him, sayng: beholde, he is in dotham. Therfore sente he thither hores, and charettes, and a myghty hooste. And they came by nyght, and compassed the ctytie about.

And whē þe seruaunt of the mā of God arose by early to go out, beholde, there was an hoost rounde about the towne with hores & charettes. And his seruaunt sayde vnto hym: Alas master what shall we do? He answered: * feare not, for they þe with vs are mo the they þe with the. And Elisa prayed, and sayd: Lord (I beseech the) open his eyes, þe maye se. And the Lord opened the eyes of the pongeman. And beholde the moitayne was ful of hores & charettes of fyre round about Elisa. And whē they came downe to hym, Elisa prayed vnto the Lord, and sayde: Smyte this people I praye the, with * byndnesse. And he smote them with byndnesse, accordyng to the desyre of Elisa. And Elisa sayd vnto them: this is not the way, neyther is this the towne: folowe me, and I wyl bynge you to the mā whō ye seke. But he led them to Samaria.

And it fortuned, that when they were come to Samaria, Elisa sayd: Lord, open theyr eyes that they maye se. And the Lord opened theyr eyes, and they sawe. And beholde, they were in the myddest of Samaria. And the kyng of Israel sayd vnto Elisa whē he sawe them: My fa- ther, shall I smyte them? And he answered: thou shalt not smyte the: But smyte them that thou hast taken with thyne owne swerde, and wpyth thyne owne bowe. But rather set byed and wa- ter before them, that they maye eat and drynke and go to their master. And he prepared a great refection for them. And when they had eat and dronken, he sent them awaye: and they went to theyr mayster. And so the souldyers of Syria came nomore into the lande of Israel.

After this it chaunced, that Benhadad king of Siria gathered all his hoost, and went vp, & besyged Samaria. But there was a greate derth in Samaria: and behold, they besyged it vntyll an asses head (was solde) for foure scoꝛe syluer pence, and the fourth parte of a cab of do- nes dunge, for fyue syles. And as the kyng of Israel was goyng vpon the wall, there cryed a woman vnto him, sayng: helpe, my Lord. And he sayde: yf the Lord do not succour the, wherwith can I helpe the: with the barne or w- the bynepresse? And the kyng sayde vnto her: what wilt thou? She answered: yonder womā sayd vnto me: byng thy son, that we maye eat hym to day, and we wyl eate myne to morowe.

* And so we dressed my sonne, and dyd eat hym. And I sayd to her this other day: byng thy son that we maye eat him, and she hath byd her son. And it came to passe, that when the kyng herde the woꝛdes of the woman, he rent his clothes, & went vp on the wall. And the people looked, and beholde, he had sakcloth vnder, vpon his fleshe. Then he sayde: * God do so and so to me, yf the head of Elisa the sone of Saphat shall stand on hym this daye. But Elisa sat in the house, and the elders sat by hym, and the kyng sent a man before hym: But yf the messenger came to him he sayd to the elders: haue ye not sene how that the sone of this mā murtherer hath sent to take away myne head: be circumspect when the mes- senger cometh, and shut the doze, and hold hym at the doze: is not the sound of his masters fecte behynde hym? Whyle he yet talked with them: beholde, the messenger came downe vnto hym, and sayd: beholde, this euill is of the Lord, and what more shall I loke for of the Lord?

The vii. Chapter.

Elisa prophesyeth plenteousnesse of vntayle and other thin- ges to Samaria. The Syrians runne away, and haue no man folowynge them. The lord that woulde not beleue the woꝛde of Elisa is troden to death.

When Elisa sayd: heare ye the woꝛde of the Lord: thus sayth þe Lord: * to mo- rowe this tyme shall a busshel of fyne floure be sold for a sicke, & two bus- shels of barley for a sicke in þe gate of Samaria. The a certayne lord (on whose hande the king leaned) answered þe mā of God, & sayde: beholde, yf þe Lord wold make windowes in heuē might this sayng come to passe? He sayd: behold, thou shalt se it w thyne eyes, but shalt not eat therof.

And there were foure leperouse men at the entrynge in of the gate. And they sayde one to an- other: why fyt we here vntyll we dye? Yf we say we wyl entre into the cite: beholde, the derth is in the ctytie, & we shall dye therin. And yf we styll here, we dye also. Howe therfore come, & let vs fall vpon the hooste of the Syrians: Yf they saue our lyues we shall lyue: Yf they kyll vs, the are we deed. And so they arose in the nyght, to go to the hoost of the Syrians. And when they were come to the vtmostte parte of the hooste of Siria, beholde, there was noman there.

For the Lord had made the hooste of the Si- rians: to heare a noyse of charettes, and a noyse of hores, & the noyse of a great host. In somoch that they sayd one to an other: lo, þe kyng of Is- rael hath byed agaynst vs þe kynges of the he- thites, & the kynges of the Egyptians to come v- pon vs. Wherfore they arose, & fled in the nyght and left theyr tetes, theyr hores & theyr asses, & the fiede which they had pyched, eue as it was and fled for theyr lyues. And whē these lepers came to the edge of the hooste, they went into a tent, and dyd eate and drynke, and carped thes- syluer and golde, and raymente, and went and byd it, came agayne, and entered into an other tent, and carped thence also, and went & byd it.

Then sayd one to an other: We do not well this day, forasmoch as it is a day to byng good tydings, & we holde our peace. Yf we tary tyll the day light, som mischefe wyl come vpon vs. Howe therfore come, that we may go, and tel þe kynges howholde. And so they came, and called vnto the poztter of the ctytie, and tolde them, say- inge: we came to the pauplyngs of the Syrians: and se, there was noman there, neither voyce of man, but hores and asses tyed: and the tentes were euen as they were wont to be.

And so the man called vnto the poztters, and they

they told the kynges house within. And þe king arole in the night, and sayd vnto his seruantes: I wyll shewe you now, what the Sirians haue done vnto vs. They knowe þe we be hungrye, & therfore are they gone oute of the pavillions, to hyde them selues in the felde, sayinge: whe they come out of the cylie, we shal catche the alque, & get into the citie. And one of his seruantes answered, and sayde: Let men take (I praye you) fyue of the horses that remaine, and are left in the multitude. Beholde, they are euen as all the multitude of Israel that are left in the cyle: be holde (I saye) they are euen as the multitude of the Israelites that are consumed, and we wyll sende, and se. They toke therfore the horses of two charettes, and the kyng sent after the hoste of the Sirians, sayinge: goo, and se. And they went after them euen vnto Jorda, and loe, all þe waye was full of clothes and vessels which the Syrians had cast from them in theyr hast.

D And the messengers returned, and told þe king. And the people wente out & spoyled the tetes of the Sirians. And so it came to passe, þe a bushell of fyne floure was solde for a sicke, and two bushells of barley for a sicke: according to þe word of the Lorde. And the kinge appoynted þe Lord (on whose hand he lened) to be at þe gate. And þe people trode vpon him in the gate, & he dyed: according to the worde of the man of God, which he sayd: when the kyng came downe to hym. And so came the thing to passe, þe the ma of God had spoken to the kyng, sayinge: two bushells of barley for a sicke: and a bushell of fyne floure for another. ¶ And to morowe this tyme in the gate of Samaria. Where vnto that lord answered þe man of God, and sayde: Pea, and yf the Lorde made wyndowes in heauen, myghte it come to passe? And he sayde, Beholde, thou shalt se it with thine eyes, and shalt not eate therof. And euen so chaunced it vnto hym: for the people trode vpon him in the gate: and he dyed.

The viii. Chapter.

Elisa prophesyeth vnto the Sunamite the deaith of seven yere. After the deaith of Benhadad raygneth Azael in Siria. Jeho-zabam the sonne of Jeholaphat raygneth in Iuda. Edom fallerh from Iuda. Whoziah succedeth Jeho-zabam.

iii. re. iiii. a.

Ihen spake * Elisa vnto the woman, (whose sonne he had restored to lyfe agayne) sayinge: vp, & go, thou, & thine house, & sojourne wheresoeuer þe canst, for the Lorde hath called for a derth, and þe same shall come vpon the lande seven yeres. And the woman arole, and dyd after the sayenge of the man of God, and wet both she and her household and sojourned in the lande of the Philistines seven yere. And at the seven yeres ende, it fortun-
D ned, that the woman came agayne out of þe land of the Philistines, and went out to cal vpon the kyng for her house & for her lande. And the king talked with Gebezi the seruaut of þe ma of God sayinge: tel me (I praye þe) al the great deades, that Elisa hath done. He tolde the king, how he had restored a dead man to lyfe agayne: but in þe meane tyme the woman (whose chyld he had rayled vp agayne) cryed to þe kyng for her house and for her lande. And Gebezi sayde: My lord

O kyng, this is the woman, and this is her sonne whom Elisa rayled vp agayne. And when the kyng asked the woman, she told him. And so the kyng deliuered her a chamberlaine sayinge: restore thou vnto her, all that are here: and all the frutes of the felde spys the daye that she left the lande, vntyll this tyme.

And * Elisa came to Damasco, and Ben-hadad the kyng of Siria was sycke. And one told hym, sayinge: The ma of God is com hithe. And the kyng sayd vnto Azael: * take a presēt in thine hande, and go mete the man of God, & thou mayest aske the Lorde by hym, whether I shal recouer of this disease. And so Hazael went to mete him, and toke the presēt with hym, and of euery good thinge of Damasco, eue as moche as fourtye camelles coulde beare, and came and presented hym selfe before hym, and sayd: Thy sonne Benhadad kyng of Syria hath sent me to the, sayinge: shall I recouer of this disease?

And Elisa sayde to hym: goo, and saye vnto hym: thou shalt recouer, howbeit, the Lorde hath shewed me, that he shall surelye dye. And he looked asyde, and was ashamed, and the man of God wepte. And Azael sayde: why wepest my lord? he answered: for I knowe the euyl thynges that thou shalt do vnto the chyldren of Israel: for theyr stronge cyties, shalt thou set on fyre, and theyr yonge men shalt thou slaye with the swerde, and shalt halte oute the byaynes of theyr suckynge chyldren, and all to teare theyr women with chyldre.

But Hazael sayd what is thy seruaut a dog that I shoulde do this great thyng? And Elisa answered: y Lorde hath shewed me, þe thou shalt be kyng of Siria. And so he departed fro Elisa and came to hys master, whyche sayd to hym: What sayde Elisa to the? he answered, he tolde me that thou shouldest recouer. And on the morowe it fortuneth, that he tooke a thycke clothe, and dypte it in water, and sprede it on his face, and he dyed: and Hazael raygned in his stede.

The fyfth yere of Jeho-zabam the sonne of Ahab kyng of Israel, Jeho-zabam the son of Jeholaphat kyng of Iuda began to raygne. xxxii. yere olde was he, when he beganne to raygne: and he raygned cyght yere in Ierusalem. And he walked in the wayes of the kynges of Israel, as they þe were of the house of Ahab, for the daughter of Ahab was hys wyfe, and he dyd euyl in the syghie of the Lorde. And the Lorde woulde not destroe Iuda: and that bycause of Dauid his seruaut * as he promised him to gpye him alway a light amonge hys chyldren.

* In those dayes Edom dyd wyckedly when he was vnder þe hand of Iuda. For they made the a kyng of their owne. So Jeho-zabam the son of Ahab went to raygne, he & al his charettes wyth hym. And he arole by nyght, and smote the Edomites whyche chasped him in with the captaynes of his charettes, and the people fled into theyr tentes. But Edom rebelled, so that he wolde not be vnder the hand of Iuda vnto this daye. And then Lobnabbe gan to be disobedient euen that same tyme.

The rest

The rest of the wordes that concerne Joram & all that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in þe boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And Joram rested with his fathers, and was buryed he lyde his fathers in the cytie of David. And Ahaziah his sonne raygned in his stede. In the xii. yere of Jorā the son of Ahab kyng of Israel dyd Ahaziah the son of Jehoram kyng of Juda begyn to raigne. Two & twety yere old was Ahaziah when he began to raigne, and he raygned one yere in Jerusalem, & his mothers name Athaliah the daughter of Omri kyng of Israel. But he walked in the wape of the house of Ahab, and dyd evyl in the syght of the Lord, euē as dyd the house of Ahab. For he was the sonne in lawe of the house of Ahab.

And he went with Joram the sonne of Ahab to war agaynst Hazael kyng of Siria in Ra-moth Gilead, & the Sirians wounded Jorā. And *king Jorā went backe agayne to be healed in Jezrael of þe woundes which þe Sirians had gyue him at Ramoth whē he fought agaynst Hazael kyng of Siria. And Ahaziah the son of Jehorā kyng of Juda went downe to se Joram the son of Ahab in Jezrael, bycause he was spcke there.

The ix. Chapter.

Jehu is made kyng of Israel, and killeth Jehoram the kyng thereof, and Ahaziah, otherwyse called Mochozias & the kyng of Juda also, & causeth Jezabel to be cast downe out of a window, & the dogges ate her.

And Elisa the prophet called one of þe children of the Prophetes, and sayd vnto him: *gyde vp thy lopnes and take this boxe of oyle in thy hande, & get the to Ramoth in Gilead. And whē þe comest thither, loke where is Jehu þe son of Jehosaphat, the sone of Nimsi, & go to hym, & make hym arysle vp from amonge his brethren, and cary hym to a secrete chābre. Then take the boxe of oyle, and poure it on his heed, and saye: thus sayeth the Lord: I haue annoynted the to be kyng ouer Israel. And then open the doze, & flye wythout any taryng. And so the seruaunt of the prophet gat hym to Ramoth Gilead, and when he came in, beholde, the captaynes of the hoste were syttinge togyther. And he sayde: I haue an errande to the, O captayne. And Jehu sayde: vnto which of all vs? he sayde: to the, O captayne. And he arose, and wēt into the house.

And he poured the oyle on his heed, and sayd vnto hym: thus sayth the Lord God of Israel: *I haue anoynted the to be kyng ouer the people of the Lord, euē ouer Israel. Thou shalt smite the house of Ahab thy master, that I may avenge þe blood of my seruantes the prophetes, and the blood of all the seruantes of the Lord of the hande of Jezabel, for the whoole house of Ahab shall be destroyed: and *I wyl destroy fro Ahab, euē hym þe maketh water agaynst the wall, and hym that is prysoned and forsaken in Israel: and I wyl make the house of Ahab lyke the house of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, & lyke the house of Baasa the sone of Abia. And as for Jezabel, *the dogges shall ate her in the felde of Jezabel, and there shall be none to burye her. And he opened the doze, and fled.

Jehu came out to the seruantes of his lord and one sayde vnto hym: is all well? Wherefore came this mad felow to the? And he sayde vnto them: ye know what maner of mā it is, & what his comunicacyon is. They sayde vnto hym agayne: it is not so, tell vs; he sayde: thus & thus spake he to me, saying: Thus sayeth the Lord: I haue annoynted the to be kyng ouer Israel. Then they besyde the horologe basted, & toke euery man his garment, and put it vnder hym, and blew with trompettes, sayinge: Jehu is kyng. And so Jehu the sonne of Jehosaphat the sonne of Nimsi conspyred agaynst Joram. Joram kept Ramoth Gilead, he and all Israel bycause of Hazael kyng of Siria: and *kyng Joram returned to be healed in Jezrael of the woundes which the Sirians had gyuen hym, whē he fought with Hazael kyng of Siria.

And Jehu sayd: yf it be your myndes, then let a noman departe & escape out of the cytie, to go & tel in Jezrael. So Jehu gate vp into a charet, & went to Jezabel where Joram laye, and Ahaziah kyng of Juda was come downe thither to se Joram. And the watchman that stode in the towre in Jezrael, spyed the compaigne of Jehu as he came, and sayde: I se a compaigne. And Jehorā sayd: take a horseman and sende to mete them, þe he may aske whether it be peace. And so there wēt one on horsebacke to mete him, & sayd thus sayth the kyng: is it peace? and Jehu sayd: what hast thou to do w peace? turne the behinde me. And the watchman tolde, saying: the messenger came to them, but he cometh not agayne.

Then he sent oute an other on horsebacke, which came to them and sayd: thus saith þe kyng is it peace? Jehu answered: what hast thou to do with peace? turne the behinde me. And þe watchman tolde, saying: he came to them also and cometh not agayne, & the dyspyng is lyke the dyspyng of Jehu the son of Nimsi: for he dyspueth þe charet as he were mad. And Jehorā sayd: make ready, and the charet was made ready. And Jehoram kyng of Israel & Ahaziah kyng of Juda wēt out eyther of them in his charet agaynst Jehu, & met him in the forelonge of Naboth the Jezraelite. And it fortunied, that whē Jehoram sawe Jehu: he sayd: is it peace Jehu? he answered: What peace shulde there be, so longe as the whordomes of thy mother Jezabel, & her witchcraftes are so greates? And Jehoram turned his handes, and fled, and sayd to Ahaziah: there is falschid, O Ahaziah. And Jehu toke a bowe in his handes, and smote Jehorā betwene the armes, and the arrowe went thorow his hert. And he fel downe flat in his charet. Then sayd Jehu to Sydkar a captayne: take hym, and cast hym in the plot of grounde of Naboth the Jezraelite. For I remember that when I and thou rode togyther in a charet after Ahab his father, þe Lord laped his heuy burthen vpon hym. I haue sene yesterdave the blood of Naboth, & the blood of his sones, sayd the Lord: and I wyl quyte it the in this grounde, sayth the Lord: Now therfore take hym & cast him in the plot of the ground, accordinge to the worde of the Lord. But when Ahaziah

Abaziah the kyng of Iuda saw this, he fled by the way of the garden house. And Jehu folowed after hym, and sayd: Smyte hym also in the charet: (and they smote hym) in his charet at the going vnto Gur by Jibleam, and he fled to Hagiddo and there dyed. And his seruauntes carped hym in a charet to Jerusalem, and buryed hym there in his sepulchre wth his fathers in the cytie of Dauid: And in the .xi. yere of Joram s^{on} of Ahab, begā Abaziah to raigne ouer Iuda. And whē Jehu was come to Jezrael, Jezabel herde of it, and starched her face, & tyed her heed, and looked out at a wyndowe. And as Jehu entred at the gate, she sayde: had zinri peace which slewe his master: And he lyft vp his eyes to the wyndow and sayde: who is of my syde, who? And there looked out to hym two or thre chambrelaynes, & he sayd: throwe her downe. So they threw her downe, & her blood dashed towarde the wall, & toward the horses, & he trode her vnder fote.

And when he was come in, he dyd eat & drynk and sayd: go & visyte I praye you yonder cursed creature, & bury her: * for she is a kynges doughter. And so whē they cam to bury her, they found no more of her then the skull & the feet: & the palmes of her handes. Wherefore they came agayn and tolde hym. And he sayd: this is the word of the Lord, which he spake by the hand of his seruaunt Elia the Thelbite, sayinge: * in the felde of Jezrael shal the dogges eate the fleshe of Jezabel. And so the carkas of Jezabel was euē as dunge vpon the earth in the felde of Jezrael: so that no man myght saye: This was Jezabel.

The .x. Chapter

Jehu causeth the .lxx. sonnes of Ahab to be slayne, & after that, ch. of his brethren. He synneth a meane also to kill all the prestes of Baal. After his death, his tounne raggueth in his stede.

fol. viii. g

Ahab had .lxx. sonnes in Samaria. And Jehu wrot letters, and sent to Samaria vnto the rulers of Jezrael, to the elders, and to them that brought vp Ahabs childre, saying: Now when this letter cometh to you, ye that haue with you your masters sonnes, ye haue wth you bothe charottes and horses, a stronge cytye haue ye also, and harnesse, loke whiche of youre masters sonnes is best & mooste mete, & set hym on his fathers seate, and fyght for poure lordes house. But they were excedyngly afrayed, and sayd: se, two kynges were not able to stande before hym, how shall we then be able to stande? And he that was gouernour of Ahabs house, & he that ruled the cytie the elders also, and the tutors sent to Jehu, saying: we ar thy seruauntes and wyl do all that thou shalt byd vs: we wyl make no man kyng: therfore do thou what semeth good in thyne eyes. Chā he wrote another letter to them, saying: yf ye be myne, & wyl hearken vnto my voyce, then take the heedes of the men that are your masters sonnes, and come to me to Jezrael by tomozowe this tyme. And the kynges sonnes were .lxx. persons, and they were with the great men of the cytie, which brought them vp, and whē the letter came to them: they toke the kynges childre, & slewe them, euē .lxx.

persones, and layed they^r heedes in baskettes, & sent them vnto hym to Jezrael: And there came a messenger and tolde hym, sayinge: they haue brought the heedes of the kynges sōnes. And he sayd: let them lay them on two heapes in the entreynge in of the gate, vntyll the moynyng.

And when it was day he went out, and stode & sayd to al the folke: ye be ryghteous. Beholde I conspired agaynst my master, & slue hym. But who slue al thesē? Learne hēre that there shal fal vnto the earth nothyng of the word of the Lord whych he spake concernyng the house of Ahab. For y^e Lord hath brought to passe the thynges y^e he spake by the hande of his seruaunt * Elia. And so Jehu slue al y^e remayned of the house of Ahab in Jezrael, & al that were great with hym, & his kynskolkes & prestes, so y^e he let nothing of hym remayne. And he arose, & departed & cam to Samaria. And when Jehu was in the waye to the house where y^e shepherdes dyd there they^r shepe, he met wth the brethren of Abaziah kyng of Iuda, & sayd: what are ye? They answered: the brethren of Abaziah are we: & go downe to saluē the childre of y^e kyng & the quene. And he sayd: take them alpye. Whome when they had taken them alpye, they slewe them at the well whych was besyde the house where y^e shepe are shopen, euē .xlii. men, neyther left he any of them.

And when he was departed thence, he met wth Jehonadab the son of * Rechab coming agaynst him. And he blessed hym, & sayd to hym: is thyne hert ryght, as my herte is true with thyne? And Jehonadab answered: ye y^e it is: (if it be, sayth he) then gyue me thyne hande. And when he had gyuen hym his hande, he toke him vp to him in the charet, & sayde, comewith me, & se the zeale that I haue for the Lorde: & so they made him ryde in his charet. And whē he cam to Samaria, he slue al that remayned vnto Ahab in Samaria, tyll he had wypte him out, accordyng to y^e saying of the Lord which he spake to Elia. And Jehu gathered al the people togther, & sayd vnto them: * Ahab serued Baal a lytle, but Jehu shal serue hym more. Now therfore cal vnto me al the prophetes of Baal, all suche as serue hym, & all his prestes, & let none be lackyng. For I haue a great sacrifice to do to Baal, & therfore whosoener is myssed, he shal not lyue. But Jehu dyd it for a subtiltie, to thintent y^e he myght destroy the seruauntes of Baal. And Jehu sayd: proclaime an holy conuocation for Baal, & Jehu sent vnto al Israel. And al the seruauntes of Baal came, that there was not a man left behind that came not. And they cam into y^e house of Baal, & the house of Baal was full from one ende to an other.

And he sayd vnto hym that was the keeper of the vestrye: bynge forth garmentes for all the seruauntes of Baal. And he brought them out garmentes. And when Jehu wente with Jehonadab the son of Rechab into the house of Baal he sayde vnto the seruauntes of Baal: searche, & loke, that there be here with you, none of the seruauntes of the Lorde, but the seruauntes of Baal onely. And when they wente in to offere sacrifice and burnt offerynge, Jehu appoynted cryers lxxx. men without, and sayde: If any of the men who I haue brought vnder your handes, escape he that letteth go, shall dye for hym.

¶ And it fortuned, y^e as soone as he had made an ende of offering the burnt sacrifice, Jehu sayde to the men of warre, and to the captaynes: go in and slepe the, let none come out. And they smote them with the edge of the swerde. And the men of war and the captaynes cast them out, & wet vnto the cite of the temple of Baal, & set the ymages out of the temple of Baal, & burnt them. And they brake y^e ymage of Baal, & brake y^e house of Baal, & made a draft house of it vnto this daye. And so Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel. But fro the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat which made Israel to synne, Jehu departed not neither fro folowynge of them, ^(neither forsoke he)

the golde calves that were in Bethel and in Dan. And the Lord sayde vnto Jehu: because thou hast doner y^eght well in byngynge to passe the thinge that is right in myne eyes, and hast done vnto the house of Ahab accordynge to all thynges that are in myne hert, therfore shall thy children vnto the fourth generacion syt on the seate of Israel. But Jehu cared not for this, to walk in the lawe of the Lord God of Israel with all his herte, for he departed not from the synnes of Jeroboam, which made Israel to synne.

In those dayes the Lord began to cut Israel thoste: * and Hazael smote the in all the coastes of Israel, fro Jordan eastwarde, euen all y^e land of Gilead, the Gadites, y^e Rubenites, and the y^e were of Manasses, from Aroer vnto the ryuer Arnon: euen Gilead and Basan. The rest of the wordes that concerne Jehu, and all that he dyd, and all his power, are they not wyrtten in the booke of Chronicles of y^e kynges of Israel? And Jehu slepte wyth his fathers, and they buried hym in Samaria, and Jehoahaz his sonne raygned in his stede. And the tyme that Jehu raygned vpon Israel in Samaria is. xxviii. yeres.

¶ The. xi. Chapter.

¶ Athalia putteth to death all the kynges sonnes, excepte Joaz the sonne of Jehoahaz, whiche is hydden and after her death is made kyng.

¶ Ad Athalia y^e mother of Ahaziah whē she saw y^e her son was deed she aroose, and destroyed all the kynges seed. But Jehosaba the daughter of king Joaz, & sister to Ahaziah toke Joaz y^e son of Ahaziah, & scale hym fro among y^e kynges sonnes y^e were slayne, & his nurse wth hym, out of a sleppynge chābre, and hys hym from Athalia y^e he was not slayne. And he was wth her hyd in the house of the Lord syx yere. And Athalia dyd raygne ouer the lande.

And the. vii. yere Jehoiada sent and fet the rulers ouer the hundredes, wth the captaynes & the of the garde, & toke the to hym into the house of the Lord, & made a bonde wth them, & toke an oth of them in the house of y^e Lord, & shewed them y^e kynges sonne. And he commaunded them, saying this is it y^e ye must doo: one thyrde parte of you, whose dutye is to come on the Sabbath daye, shall kepe the watche of y^e kynges house: And an other thyrde parte shall kepe the gate of Sur: & an other thyrde parte shall kepe the gate whiche is behynde them of the garde: and so shall ye kepe the watch of the house of Messah, and two partes of you, that is all that go oute on the Sabbath daye shall kepe the watche of the house of the Lord aboute the kyng, and ye shall compass the kyng round about, and enery man shall haue his weapon in his hande, and who soeuer cometh within the ranges, let hym be slayne. And se y^e ye be with the kyng, as he goeth out and in.

And the captaynes ouer the hundredes dyd accordynge to all thynges y^e * Jehoiada the preeft commaunded, & they toke enery man his me that were to come in on the Sabbath daye wth them y^e should go out on y^e Sabbath, and came to Jehoiada the preeft. And to the captaynes ouer hundredes dyd the preeft gyue kynges Dauides speares and shylde that were in the temple. And they of the garde stode, and enery man had his weapon in his hande rounde aboute the kyng, from the ryght corner of the temple to the lefte, alonge by the alter and the temple. And he brought out the kynges sonne, and put the crowne vpon him and deliuered hym * the wytnesse, and made hym kyng, and annointed hym. And they clapt they^e handes, and sayde: God saue the kyng.

* And when Athalia herde the noyse of the rīninge of the people, she came to y^e people into the temple of the Lord. And whē she looked, beholde, the kyng stode by a pyller, as the maner was, & the syngers & the tropetters by the kyng, and all the people of the lande reioysed, and blew wth trumpettes. And Athalia rent her clothes, and cryed treasō, treason. But Jehoiada y^e preeft commaunded the captaynes of the hundredes that had the rule of y^e host, and sayd vnto the: haue her out wth out y^e temple, y^e she may be within the ranges, and yf any folow her, kyll him with the swerde: for y^e preeft had sayd: she may not be slayne in y^e house of the Lord. And they layed hādes on her tyl she came into the way, by the which the horses wet into the kynges palace, & there was the slayne.

* And Jehoiada made a bonde betwene the Lord & the kyng, and the people, y^e they shoulde be the Lordes people: & also betwene the kyng and the people. And all y^e people of the land wēt into the house of Baal, and destroyed it, his hylalters also, & his ymages brake they downe laste, and slue Matthan y^e preeft of Baal before the alters. And the preeft set a watch ouer the house of the Lord: and toke the rulers ouer hundredes, the captaynes, & them of the garde, and all the people of the land. And they brought y^e kyng fro the house of the Lord: & came by the waye of the gate.

the gate of them of the garde to the kynges palace. And he sat hym downe on the seat of þe kynges. And al the people of the lande reioysed, and the cytie was in quiet. And they slue Athalia wth the swearde besyde the kynges palace. Seuen yere olde was Jehoas whē he began to raygne.

The. xii. Chapter.

Jehoas maketh prouisioun for the repayyng of the temple, he is kylled by two of his seruantes: and Amaziabu raygneth in his stede.

And he began to raygne in þe seventh yere of Jehu. xi. yere raygned he in Jerusalem, & his mothers name was Zebiah of Beerseba. And he dyd that whiche was good in the syght of þe Lord, as longe as Jehoiaada the prest entourmed him. But the hylaulters were not taken awaye, for the people offred & burnt incense yet vpon þe hylaulters. And Jehoas sayd to the prestes: all the siluer of dedicate thinges that be brought to the house of the Lord in curraunt money, that is to say: the money that every man is set at, & al the moneye þe every man with a wyllynge herte gyueth & byngeth into the house of the Lorde: let the prestes take it to them, every man of þys aquayntaunce: to repayre the broken places of the house: where soeuer anye decaye is found. And so it came to passe, that vnto þe. xlii. yere of kynges Jehoas, the prestes had meded no thyng, that was decayed in the temple. Then kyng Jehoas called for Jehoiaada the bythop, & the prestes, & sayde vnto them: why repayre ye not the broken places of the temple? Now therfore: se that ye receyue nomore money of your aquayntaunce, excepte ye deliuer it to repayre the temple wythal. And the prestes consented to receyue nomore money of the people: except to repayre the decayed places of the temple.

iii. re. xlii. a

But Jehoiaada the prest, toke a chest & boored an hole in the lye of it, & set it besyde the aultare, on þe right syde, as every man cometh into þe temple of the Lord. And the prestes þe kept the vessels, put therein al the money þe was brought into the house of the Lord. And it fortuned þe whē they sawe there was moche money in the chest, & the kynges scribe & the hye prest came vp, and tolde the money þe was founde in the house of the Lorde, & put it into a bagge. And they gaue the money sealed into þe handes of them þe executed the worke, and þe had the ouersyght of the house of the Lord: & they brought it out to the carpenters & buylders (þe wrought vpon þe house of the Lord) & to masons & hewers of stone. And they brought tymber & freestone, to repayre the decay in the house of the Lorde, & to all þe wente out to mende þe temple: howbeit there was not made for the house of þe Lorde, bowls of siluer: instruments of musyke, basons, troyettes, or any vessels of golde, or vessels of syluer, of the moneye that was brought into the house of the Lorde. But they gaue that to the workemen, and repayed there wyth the house of the Lorde. Moreouer, they rekened not wyth the men, into whose handes they deliuered that moneye to be bestowed on workmen: for they dyd theyr busynes saythfully. Howbeit trespasse money and synne money was not brought into the house of the Lord for it was the prestes.

Then came Hazael kyng of Syria vp, and fought agaynst Geth and toke it, & Hazael set his face to goo vp to Jerusalem. And Jehoas kyng of Juda toke al the hallowed thynges þe Jeholaphat, Jehoazam, & Hoziabu his fathers kynges of Juda, had dedicate, and that he hym selfe had dedicated, and all the golde that was founde in the treasures of the house of the Lord: & in the kynges house, & sent it to Hazael kyng of Syria, and so he departed from Jerusalem.

The remnaunt of the wordes þe concernen Jehoas & all that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda: And his owne seruantes arose & wrought treason, & slue Jehoas in the house of Hillo, whē he came downe to Hilla. Jozaber the sonne of Seameath: & Jehoabad the son of Somer his seruantes smote hym, & he dyed. And they buried hym wyth his fathers in the cytye of Dauid. And Amaziabu his sonne raygned in his stede.

The. xiii. Chapter.

Jehoas the sonne of Jehu: is deliuered into the handes of the Syrians, and dyeth. Joas his son raygneth in his stede. Elisa dyeth.

In the. xlii. yere of Joas the sonne of Jehoahaz kyng of Juda, Jehoahaz the sonne of Jehu began to raygne ouer Israel in Samaria. xlii. yere. And he wrought þe which was euill in the sight of þe Lord, & folowed þe synnes of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, which made Israel to synne, & departed not therfrom. And the Lord was angry wyth Israel, & deliuered them into þe hande of Hazael kyng of Siria, and into þe hande of Benhadad the sonne of Hazael all theyr dayes. And Jehoahaz besought þe Lorde, & the Lorde hearde hym. For he consydered the trouble of Israel, wherewith the kynges of Siria troubled them. And the Lord gaue Israel a deliuerer, so that they went out fers vnder the subiection of þe Syrians. And þe children of Israel dwelt in theyr tentes as befoze tyme. Neuertheles they departed not from the synnes of the house of Jeroboam which made Israel synne, but walked in them.

And there remayned a groue of syluals in Samaria. Neither dyd he leaue of the people to Jehoahaz, but spfye horsemen, ten charettes, & ten thousand fotemen, & for the kynges of Siria destroyed them, & made them lyke theyrselfe dust. The rest of the wordes that concernen Jehoahaz and all that he dyd, and his power, are they not wyrtten in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Israel: And Jehoahaz slept wyth his fathers, & they buried him in Samaria, and Joas his sonne raygned in his stede. In the. xlii. yere of Joas kyng of Juda, began Jehoas the sonne of Jehoahaz to raygne ouer Israel in Samaria syxtene yere, and dyd that whiche is euill in the syght of the Lorde, and departed not from al the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, (that made Israel synne) for he walked therein.

The remnaunt of the wordes þe concernen Joas & all that he dyd, & his power wherewith he foughtt agaynst Amaziabu kyng of Juda: are they not wyrtten in þe chronicle boke of the kynges of ges of Israel: And Joas slept with his fathers, & Jeroboam late vpon his seate. And Joas was buried in Samaria among þe kynges of Israel.

When Elisa was fallen syncke of hys syncknesse (wherof he dyed) Joas the kyng of Israel came downe vnto hym, and wepte befoze hym, and sayd: * O my father, my father: the charret of Israel, & the horsenman of the same. Elisa said vnto hym: take bowe and arrowes. And he toke vnto hym bowe & arrowes. And he sayde to the kyng of Israel: put thynne hand vpon þe bow, & he put his hande vpon it. And Elisa put his handes vpon the kynges handes, and sayde: open a wyndowe eastwarde: & when he had opened it, Elisa sayd: shote, and he shot. And he sayd: the arrowe of helth of the Lord, & the arrowe of helth agaynste Siria: for thou shalt synpte Siria in Apphek, tyll thou haue made an ende of them.

And he sayde: take the arrowes: and he toke them. And he sayde vnto the kyng of Israel: synpte the ground: and he smote thysle, and ceased. And the mā of God was angry w him, and sayd: thou shuldest haue synptre spue oꝝ syre tymes: * (or seven tymes) & then thou haddest synptten Siria, tyll þe haddest made an ende of the: where nowe þe shalt synpte Siria, but thysle. And also Elisa dyed, & they buried hym, & the souldyers of the Moabytes came into the lande the same yere. And it chaunced as some of them were burying a man, & spied the souldiers, they cast the man into the sepulchre of Elisa. And when the man was rolled downe, and touched the bodye of Elisa: * he reuyned and stode vpon his fete.

But Hazael vered Israel, all the dayes of Jehoahaz. And the Lord had mercy on them, & pyried them, and had respect vnto them because of his appoyntment made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: and wold not destrope them, neither cast he them fro him as yet. So Hazael the kyng of Siria dyed: & Benhadad his son raygned in his stede. And Jehoas the sonne of Jehoahaz went agayne: & toke out of the hande of Benhadad the sone of Hazael, the cities whych he had taken away out of the hāde of Jehoahaz his father in war for thre tymes dyd Joas beat hym, & restozed the cyties vnto Israel agayne.

The. xliii. Chapter.

Amaziah the kyng of Iuda putteyth to death the man quellers of his father: and after synpteth Edom. Joas dyeth, and Jeroboam his sonne succeedeth in his roume, and after hym raygneth zachariah. Amaziah is kyllid in Lachis, and Azaria raygneth in his stede.

In the seconde yere of Joas: son of Jehoahaz kyng of Israel raygned Amaziah the son of Joas kyng of Iuda: * he was xxv. yere old whē he began to raigne, & raygned. xxi. yere in Jerusalem, & his mothers name was Jehodan: of Jerusalem. And he dyd that which is good in the syght of the Lord, yet not lyke David his father, but dyd accordynge to all thynges as Joas his father dyd. Nepther were the hylaulters taken awaye. For as yet the people dyd sacrifice and burnt incense on the hylaulters. And alsoone as the kyngdome was settelled in his hande: * it came to passe þe slue his seruants whych had killed þe kyng his father

But the chyldren of those murderers he slue not, accordynge vnto it that is wyrtten in the boke of the lawe of Moses: wherein the Lord comāunded, sayinge: * let not the fathers dye for the chyldren, nor lette the chyldren be slayne for the father. But let euerye man be put to death for his owne synne. He slue of Edom in the salte valleie * ten thousande, and toke the castell on the rocke in the same battel, and called the name of it Joktheel vnto this daye.

Then Amaziah sent messengers to Jehoas the sonne of Jehoahaz, sonne of Jehu kyng of Israel, sayinge: come, let vs se eche other. And Jehoas the kyng of Israel sente to Amaziah kyng of Iuda, sayinge: * dyd not a thysle that is in Libanon, sende to a cedre tree that is in Libanon, sayinge: gyue thy doughter to my sonne to wyfe: And the wylde beaste that was in Libanon, went and trode downe the thysle. Thou hast synptten Edom, thynne herte hath made the proude: Enioye this gloire: and tarpe at home. Why doest thou prycke to myschefe, that thou shuldest be ouerthrowen, and Iuda wyth the?

But Amaziah wolde notheare. And Jehoas kyng of Israel went vp: and he and Amaziah kyng of Iuda sawe eche other at Bethzames whiche is in Iuda. And Iuda was put to þe worse before Israel, and they fled euery man to theyr tentes. And Jehoas kyng of Israel toke Amaziah kyng of Iuda, the sonne of Jehoas the sonne of Ahaziah: at Bethzames, and cam to Jerusalem, & brake downe the wall of Jerusalem fro the gate of Ephraim to the corner gate, foure hundred cubytes. And he toke all the golde and syluer, & all the vessels that were founde in the house of the Lord, and in the treasures of the kynges house, and the chyldren toke he to be hys wardes: and returned to Samaria agayne.

The rest of factes of Jehoas whiche he dyd and hys power, & howe he fought with Amaziah kyng of Iuda, are they not wyrtten in the Chronicle boke of the kynges of Israel: And Jehoas slept with his fathers, and was buried at Samaria, amonge the kynges of Israel: and Jeroboam hys sonne raygned in his stede.

Amaziah the sonne of Joas kyng of Iuda, luyed after the death of Jehoas sonne of Jehoahaz kyng of Israel fyftene yere. And the remnant of the wordes þe concerne Amaziah, are they not wyrtten in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Iuda: But they conspyred treason agaynst him in Jerusalem, & when he fled to Lachis, they sent after him to Lachis: and slue hym there. And they brought hym on horses, & he was buried at Jerusalem with his fathers, in the cytie of David. * And al þe people of Iuda toke Azaria, whiche was. xvi. yere olde, & made hym kyng for his father Amaziah. He buylte * Elath, & brought it agayn to Iuda, after that the kyng was layed to rest with his fathers.

In the. xv. yere of Amaziah the sonne of Joas kyng of Iuda, was Jeroboam the sone of Joas made kyng ouer Israel in Samaria, & raygned. xlii. yere: & wrought þe which was euyl in the syght of the Lord. Anyther turned he away from from al the synnes of Jeroboā the sonne of Nabat, whiche made Israel to synne. He restored þe coast of Israel from the entreynge of hemath, vn to the see of the wilderness, accordyng to þe word of the Lorde God of Israel, whiche he spake by the hande of his seruaunte * Jonas the sonne of Amithai the prophete: whiche was of Geth hepher. For the Lorde sawe howe that the affliction of Israel was exceding bytter, in somoche that the prysoned and the forsaken were at an ende. And ther was none to helpe Israel. * And the Lorde sayde not, that he wolde put oute the name of Israel from vnder heauē, but he helped them by þe hande of Jeroboā the sonne of Joas.

The rest of the wordes that concerne Jeroboam, and all that he dyd: & his strength whiche he executed in the warres: and how he restored Damasco, and hemath to Iuda in Israel: are they not wrytten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And Jeroboam slepte wth his fathers, euē with the kynges of Israel: and zacharia his sonne raygned in his stede.

The. xv. Chapter

Of Azaria the kyng of Iuda becommeth a leper. Of Jothan, Shallum, Menahem, Pekahia, Eliab, Jotham, and Ahaz.

In the. xxvii. yere of Jeroboam kyng of Israel began Azaria, son of Amazia kyng of Iuda to raigne. Sixtene yere olde was he when he was made kyng: and he raygned two and fiftie yere in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Iecholiahu of Ierusalem. And he dyd that whiche was ryght in the syght of the Lorde: accordyng to all thynges as dyd hys father Amaziahu: save that the hylaulters were not put away: for the people offered, and burned incense styll on the hylaulters. And the Lorde smote the kyng: and he was a leper vnto the daye of hys death, * and dwelte in a seuerall house at lybertye, & Jothan the kynges sonne gouerned the palace, & iudged the people of the land. The rest of the wordes þe cōcerne Azaria & al þe dyd: are they not wrytten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda? And so Azaria slepte with hys fathers & they buryed hym wth his fathers in the cypre of Dauid, & Jothā his sonne raygned in his stede.

In the. xxxviii. yere of Azaria kyng of Iuda dyd zacharia the sonne of Jeroboam raigne vpon Israel in Samaria syxe monethes: and wrought þe whyche was euyl in the syght of the Lorde, as dyd his fathers: & turned not away fro the synnes of Jeroboā the sonne of Nabat, whiche made Israel to synne. And Shallū the sonne of Iabes cōspyrred agaynst hym, and smote him in the syght of the people, & kylled hym & raygned in his stede. The rest of the wordes that concerne zacharia, beholde, they are wrytten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. These be also the wordes of the Lorde, whiche he spake vnto Jehu, saying: thy sonnes shal syt on the seate of Israel in the fourth generacion after the. And it came so to passe.

Shallum the sonne of Iabes began to raygn in the. xxxix. yere of Azaria kyng of Iuda: and he raygned a moneth in Samaria. For Menahem the sonne of Gadi went vp from Thirza, & came to Samaria, & smote Shallum the sonne of Iabes in Samaria, & slue him, and raygned in hys stede. The rest of the wordes þe cōcerne Shallum, & the treason whiche he conspyred, beholde, they are wrytten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. The same yere Menahem destroyed Tiphlah, & al þe were therein, & the costes therof from Tharsaby. And because they opened not to hym) he smote it & rapt vp all theyr women wth chyldre. The. xxxix. yere of Azaria kyng of Iuda began Menahē þe sonne of Gadi to raygne vpon Israel ten yere in Samaria. And he dyd euyl in the sight of the Lorde, & turned not away al his dayes fro the synne of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, whiche made Israel to synne. And Phul the kyng of Assiria came vpon the lande. And Menahē gaue Phul a. M. talentes of syluer, þe hys hande myght be with him, & stablyth the kyngdome in his hāde. And Menahem made a proclamacion for þe money in Israel, þe al men of substance shuld gyue þe kyng of Assiria fiftie sylvers of syluer a pece. And so þe kyng of Assiria turned backe agayne, & tarped not there in the lande. The rest of the wordes that cōcerne Menahem, and al that he dyd: are they not wrytten in the boke of þe Chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And Menahem slepte wth his fathers, & Pekahia his sonne dyd in his stede succede hym in the kyngdome.

In the. l. yere of Azaria kyng of Iuda, began Pekahia the son of Menahē to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria two yere, & dyd that whiche was euyl in the syght of the Lorde: & left not of fro the synnes of Jeroboā þe sonne of Nabat, whiche made Israel synne. But Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu: whiche was a captayne of his, cōspyrred agaynst hym, & smote him in Samaria: euē in the place of þe kynges house wth Argob & Aria: & with hym were fiftie men of Gileadites: & he kylled hym, and raygned in his roume. The rest of the wordes þe cōcerne Pekahia, & al þe dyd, beholde, they are wrytten in þe boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel.

In the. lli. yere of Azaria kyng of Iuda, began Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu, to raygn ouer Israel in Samaria. xx. yere, & dyd euyl in the syght of the Lorde: & turned not away from the synnes of Jeroboā the sonne of Nabat, that made Israel synne. In þe dayes of Pekah kyng of Israel, came Tiglath Pelsar kyng of Assiria, & toke Iion, Abel, Bethmaacha, Janoah, Kedesh, Hazor, Gilead, Galile, & all the lande of Nephtali, & caried them away to Assiria. And Hosea the sonne of Ela cōspired treason agaynst Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu: & smote hym, & slue hym: & raygned in his stede in the twentieth yere of Jotham the sonne of Aziahu. The rest of the wordes that concerne Pekah and al that he dyd: beholde they are wrytten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel.

The seconde yere of Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu kyng of Israel, began Jothā the son of Aziahu kyng of Iuda to raygne. Fyue and twente yere olde was he when he beganne to raygne.

raygne: and he raygned syrtene yere in Ierusalem. his mothers name was Jerusa the daughter of Zadock. And he dyd that whiche is ryght in the syght of the Lorde: euen accordyng to all as dyd his father Asa, so dyd he. But þe hyllalters were not put away: for the people offered and burnt incense still in the hyllalters: he buylt the hygher doore of the house of the Lorde. The rest of the wordes that concerne Iotham, & al that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the chronicles of þe kynges of Iuda? In those dayes the Lorde began to sende vnto Iuda Rezin the kyng of Siria, and Pekah the sonne of Remaliabu. And Iotham slepte wth his fathers, and was buryed wth his fathers in the citty of Dauid his father, and Ahas his sonne raygned in his stede.

The. xvi. Chapter.

Ahas kyng of Iuda consecrateth his sonne in fyre, and hath many battayles agaynst the kyng of Israel. In the stede of Ahas raygneth Bezekia his sonne.

The. xvi. yere of Pekah the sonne of Remaliabu kyng of Israel, * Ahas the sonne of Iotham kyng of Iuda, began to raygne. Twenty yere olde was he, whē he was made kyng, & raygned syrtene yere in Ierusalem, & dyd not that which was ryght in the eyes of þe Lorde his God: lyke Dauid his father. But walked in the waye of the kynges of Israel, yea, & made * his sonne to go thorow the fyre, after the abominacions of the heethen, whome the Lorde cast oute before the chyldre of Israel. And he offered & burnt incense in þe hyllalters & on the hylls, and vnder every thyrte tree. * Then Rezin kyng of Siria and Pekah son of Remaliabu kyng of Israel came vp to Ierusalem to fyght. And they fought agaynst Ahas, but coude not ouercome hym. At the same tyme Rezin kyng of Siria broughte Elath agayne to Siria, and rydde the Jewes thence. And the Sirians * came to Elath, and dwell therein vnto this dape.

So Ahas sent messengers to Thiglah Beleser kyng of Assiria, sayinge: I am thy seruaut and thy sonne, come vp, & deliuer me out of the bande of the kyng of Siria, and out of the bande of the kyng of Israel whiche ryle vp agaynst me. And Ahas toke the syluer & the golde that was founde in the house of the Lorde, & in þe treasures of þe kynges house, & sent a rewarde vnto the kyng of Assiria. * And the kyng of Assiria consented vnto hym. For þe kyng of Assiria went vp agaynst Damasco. And whē he had take it: he carped the people away to kyz, & slue Rezin.

And kyng Ahas wente vnto Damascoto mete Thiglah Beleser kyng of Assiria. And when kyng Ahas sawe an aulter that was at Damasco, he sent to Azia the preest the paterne of the aultere, and the fashyon of it, and all the workemanshpy therof. And Azia þe preest made an aulter in al poyntes lyke to þe paterne which kyng Ahas had sent from Damasco. Euen so dyd Azia the preest make it: agaynst king Ahas came from Damasco. And so when the kyng was come from Damasco, he sawe the alter. & the kyng went to it, and offered thereon. And he burnt his burnt offryng, and his meate offryng, and poured his drynke offryng, & spynkled the blood of his peace offrynges besydes the aulter that was by þe bzaen aulter whiche was before the Lorde, and set it without the temple betwene the aulter and the temple of the Lorde: and put it on the north syde of the aulter.

And kyng Ahas commaunded Azia the preest and sayd: vpon the great aulter set on fyre in the mornynge the burnt offryng, and in þe euen the meate offryng, and the kynges burnt sacrifice & his meate offryng, wth the burnt offryng of all the people of the lande, and theyr meate offryng, & theyr drynke offrynges: and poure thereby all the blood of the sacrifice offrynges. But þe bzaen aulter wyl I come and se. And Azia þe preest dyd accordyng to al thynges as kyng Ahas commaunded hym. * And kyng Ahas brake the sydes of the bottomes, and toke the lauer from of them, and toke downe the lauatory from þe bzaen oxen that were vnder it: and put it vpo a pavement of stones. And the weyle for þe Sabbath (that they had made in the house) and the kynges entree withoute tourned he to the house of the Lorde, for feare of the kyng of Assiria.

The rest of the wordes þe concerne Ahas, what he dyd: are they not wyrtten in the booke of the chronicles of the kynges of Iuda? And Ahas slepte wth his fathers: and was buryed wth his fathers in the citty of Dauid: and Bezekia his sonne raygned in his stede.

The. xvii. Chapter.

Hosea kyng of Israel is taken. And he and all his realme brought to the Assrians.

The. xii. yere of Ahas kyng of Iuda beganne Hosea the sonne of Ela, to raygne in Samaria, vpon Israel. ix. yere, and dyd that which was euill in the syght of the Lorde, but not as the kynges of Israel, that were before hym. And Salmanasar kyng of Assiria came vp agaynst hym, and Hosea became his seruaut, & gaue hym presentes. And the kyng of Assiria founde treason in Hosea: for he had sent messengers to So kyng of Egypt, & brought no present vnto þe kyng of Assiria, from yere to yere: & therfore the kyng of Assiria toke hym: and put hym in prysoun.

* And then the kyng of Assiria came by thowout all the lande, and gat vp agaynst Samaria, and besieged it thre yere. In the nynt yere of Hosea, the * kyng of Assiria, toke Samaria, & carped Israel awaye vnto Assiria, and put the in Gala, in Habor by þe ryuer of Goza: & in the C And the Lord testified in Israel, and in Juda by al the prophetes, and by al the sears, saying: * Turne fro your wycked wayes, and kepe my comaundementes and my statutes: accordynge to all ϕ lawe which I comaunded your fathers, and which I sente to you by my seruauntes the prophetes. Not withstandynge, they wolde not heare, * but rather hardened theyr neckes, lyke to the stubburnes of theyr fathers, that dyd not beleue in the Lord theyr God. For they refused his statutes and his appoyntment that he made with theyr fathers, and ϕ witness (wherwith he wytnessed vnto them) and they folowed vanitie, and became vayne, and went after ϕ hepythen that were rounde about them: concernynge whome, the Lord had charged them, that they shulde not do lyke them. But they left the comaundementes of the Lord theyr God, & made them ymages of metall, * euen two calues, and made groves, and worshypped all the hoste of heauen: and serued Baal. * And they sacrificed theyr sonnes and theyr daughters in fyre, & vled wytecheecraft and enchauntementes, * euen sellynge them selues: to worke wyckednesse in the syght of the Lord, and to angre hym.

And the Lord was excedynge wroth wpyth Israel: & put them out of his syght, * that there was left but the trybe of Juda only. Neuerthelesse, Juda also kepte not the comaundementes of the Lord theyr God, but walked in ϕ ceremonies of Israel, which they made. And the Lord cast by all the seed of Israel, and vexed the, and deliuered the into the handes of spoylers, vntyl he had cast the out of his syght. For Israel denyed them selues from ϕ house of Dauid, & made them a kyng, euen Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat. And Jeroboam * droue Israel awaye (that they shulde not folowe the Lord) and made the syn a great syn: for ϕ chyldren of Israel walked in al the synnes of Jeroboam which he dyd, and departed not therefro, vntyl ϕ Lord put Israel away out of his syght, as he had sayde by all his seruauntes the prophetes.

C And so was Israel carped away out of theyr owne lande, to Assyria, euen vnto this daye.

And the kyng of Assyria brought men from Babylon, fro Cutha, fro Aua, from Hanath, & from Sepharuaim, and put the in the cyties of Samaria in stede of the chyldren of Israel. And they possessed Samaria, & dwelte in the cyties therof. And it fortunied, yat ϕ beginning of their dwelling there they feared not the Lord. And the Lord sent Lyons amonge the, whych slue the. Wherefoze, men sayde to the kyng of Assyria. The nations which thou hast translated, & put in the cyties of Samaria, knowe not the lawe of ϕ god of ϕ land, therfoze he hath sent Lyons vpy the, & behold, they slepe the, bycause they knowe not ϕ maner of worshyppynge of ϕ god of ϕ land.

Then the kyng of Assyria comaunded, saying: carpe thither one or twayne of the preestes whiche ye brought thence, and let them go & dwel there and teache them the falschyon, howe to serue the god of the countrie. And than one of the preestes which they had carped thence came & dwelte in Bethel, and taught them how they shulde feare the Lord. Howebeit, euery nacion made them goddes of theyr owne, and put them in the houses of the hylalters which the Samaritans had made, euery nacion in theyr cyties, wherin they dwelt. The men of Babylon made Soroth Benoth: and the men of Cuth made Nergal: & the me of Hamath made Asima. The Auites made Ribbaz, and Tharthak. And the Sapharnites burnt theyr chyldren in fyre for Adramelech, & Anamelech the Goddes of Sepharuaim. And so they feared the Lord, and made them preestes of the hylalters, whiche sacrificed for them in the houses of the hylalters. And so they feared the Lord, and serued theyr owne goddes after the maner of the people whom they caried thither.

And vnto this day they do after the olde maner: & neyther feare God, neyther do after theyr ordinaunces and customes, & after the lawe and comaundement which the Lord comaunded the chyldren of Jacob * whom he called Israel. And the Lord made an appoyntment with them, and charged the, saying: * feare none other goddes, nor bowe your selues to them, nor serue the, nor sacrifice to the: but feare ϕ Lord which brought you out of the lande of Egypte with greaue power, and a stretched out arme: hym feare, and to hym bow, and to hym do sacrifice. The statutes ordynaunces, lawe, and comaundement whych he wrote for you, se that ye be diligent to do for euermore: and feare not any other goddes. And the appoyntment that I haue made with you, se ye forget not, & feare none other goddes: but the Lord your God ye shall feare, & he shall deliuer you out of the handes of al your enemyes. Howebeit, they dyd not herke, but dyd after their old custome. And so these nations feared the Lord, and serued theyr ymages also: lyke as dyd their chyldren, and theyr chyldrens chyldren. Euen as dyd theyr fathers: so do they vnto this daye.

The. xxi. Chapter.

Czekia kyng of Juda putteth downe the brasen serpent, and destroyeth the ydolles. Salimanaser byngeth Israel to the Assyrians. The blasphemie of Sennacherib, or Sancherib.

In the

and in the treasures of the kynges house. At the same season did hezekia rent of the doores of the temple of the Lorde, and the pylers (whyche the sayd hezekia kyng of Iuda had couered o-ner) and gaue them to the kyng of Assyria.

And the kyng of Assyria sent Tharthan & Rablaris, and Rablake from Lachis to kyng hezekia wpyth a great host, agaynst Jerusalem. And they went vp, and cam to Jerusalem, and gat them vp, and stode by the condyte of the vpper poole, whych is in the waye of the fullers felde. And when they had called to the kyng, there came out to them, * Eliakim the sonne of Elia whyche was stewart of household, and Sobna the scribe, and Joah the sone of Asaph the recorder. And Rablake sayd vnto the: Tell ye hezekia I praye you: thus sayeth the great kyng, euen the great kyng of Assyria: What confidence is thys that thou haste? Doest thou speake such a lpyght worde in dede? By counsell and power I wyl be ready to make warre. On whom then doest thou trust, that thou rebellest agaynst me? Doest thou trust to y staffe of this broken reede Egypte, on whych yf a man leane, it wyl goo into hys hande, and pearce it. Euen so is Pharaon kyng of Egypt vnto al that trust on hym. * Yf ye saye vnto me: we truste in the Lord our God: Is not that he whose pylaltars and hys other alters, hezekia hath put downe, and hath sayd to Iuda and Jerusalem: ye shall worshyp before this altare here in Jerusalem?

Nowe therfore, delyuer y wardes to my lord the kyng of Assyria, that ye rebell not, & I wyl delyuer y two thousande hozes yf thou be able to set ryders vpon them: Althp thynkest thou scozne at the presence of one of the lest dukers of my maysters seruauntes, and trustest to Egypt for charettes and hozsemen? Moreover, am I nowe come wpythout the byddynge of the Lorde to thys place, to destrope it: the Lorde sayde to me: go vp to thys land, and destrope it. And he liakim the sonne of hekia and Sobna, and Joah sayd vnto Rablake: speake (I praye the) to thy seruauntes in the Syrtians language, for we vnderstade it: and talke not wpyth vs in the Jewes tongue, in the eares of thys people y are on the wal. And Rablake said vnto them: hath my master sent me to thy mayster and to the, to speake these wordes? Hath he not sente me because of the men whyche syt on the wall, y they maye eat the y owne donge, and drynke the y owne pyffe wpyth you?

And so Rablake stode, & cryed wpyth a loude voyce in the Jewes language, & spake, sayeng: heare the sayeng of the great kyng of Assyria. Thus sayeth the kyng: let not hezekia beggyle you, for he shall not be able to delyuer you oute of my hande: neyther let hezekia make you to trust in the Lorde, sayenge: the Lorde shall sure ly delyuer vs: & this cite shal not be gynn ouer into the hnde of the kyng of Assyria. Herke not vnto hezekia, for thus sayth y kyng of Assyria.

Deale kyndly wpyth me, and come out to me. And the eate euery man of hys owne vyne, & of hys owne spygge cree, and drynke euery man of the

In the thyrde yere of Hosea, sonne of Ela kyng of Israel, it came to passe, that hezekia the sonne of Abaz kyng of Iuda raygned. * Twenty and fyue yere olde was he when he began to raygne, and raygned. xxix. yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name also was Abi the doughter of zacharia, & he dyd that whych is ryght in the syghte of the Lorde, accordynge to all as dyd Dauid hys father. * He put awaye the pylalters, and brake the ymages, and cut downe the groues, and all to brake the * brasen serpent that Moles hadde made. For vnto those dayes the children of Israel did burne sacrifice to it, & he called it Nehustan. He trusted in the Lorde God of Israel: so that after hym was none lyke hym amonge all the kynges of Iuda, nether wer there any such before hym. For he claued to the Lorde and departed not from hym, but kepte hys commaundementes, whych the Lorde commaunded Moles. And the Lorde was wpyth hym: so that he prospered in all thynges, whych he toke in hnde. And he rebelled agaynst the kyng of Assyria, and serued hym not. He smote the Philistines euen vnto Aza, and the coastes therof, both castels where they kept watches: & strong cyties.

* And in the fourth yere of kyng hezekia: (whyche was the seuenth yere of Hosea sonne of Ela kyng of Israel) it fortuneth, that Salmanazar kyng of Assyria, cam vp agaynst Samaria, and belieged it. And after thre yeres, they toke it: euen in the syxte yere of hezekia: that is to saye, the nynthe yere of Hosea kyng of Israel. And Samaria was wonne. And the kyng of Assyria dyd carpe awaye Israel vnto Assyria, and put them in halah and in haboz, by the ryuer of Golan, and in the cyties of the Medes: bycause they wolde not herken vnto y voyce of the Lorde theyr God: but transgressed his appoyntment, and al that Moles y seruaunt of the Lorde commaunded, and wolde neyther heare them nor do them.

* Therfore, in the. xliii. yere of kyng hezekia dyd Sennacherib kyng of Assyria come vp agaynst all the strong cyties of Iuda, and toke them. And hezekia kyng of Iuda, sente to the kyng of Assyria to Lachis, sayenge: I haue of sende: departe from me and all that thou puttest on me, that wyl I beare. And the kyng of Assyria appoynted vnto hezekia kyng of Iuda thre hundred talentes of spluer, and thyrty talentes of golde. * And hezekia gaue him al the spluer that was founde in the house of y Lorde, the water of hys owne well tyll I come, and fet you to as good a lande as yours is: a lande of corne and wyne, a lande of breade and vynepar des, a lande of oyle, of olyue trees, and of honye that yemape lyne and not dye. And herken not vnto Hezekia, for he begyleth you, sayenge the Lorde shall delpue vs. * Hath euery one of the goddes of the nacions delpued hys hande out of the kyngde of Assyria: Where is the God of Hamath: and Arphad: and where is the God of Sepharuaim: Hena and Iua: dyd they delpue Samaria out of mine hande: and what God is it amonge all the goddes of the nacions, y hat delpued hys lande out of myne hande: Shall the Lorde delpue Jerusalem out of myne had?

But they that were of the people helde they peace, & answered not hym a worde, for y kyng had commaunded, sayenge: answere hym not. Then Eliakim which was stuarde of household and Sobnah the scribe, & Joah the sonne of Asaph the recorder, came to Hezekia wpth they clothes rent & told him the wordes of Rabshake.

The xix. Chapter.

The angell of the Lorde kylleth an hundred and foure score and fyue thousande men of the Assyrians Semachetib is kylled of hys owne sonnes.

So it came to passe, that when kyng Hezekia hearde it, he rente hys clothes & put on sacke: and came into y house of the Lorde: & sent Eliakim which was the stuarde of household, and Sobnah the scribe, and the elders of the preistes clothed in sacke, to Asaph the Prophete the sonne of Amoz.

clay. xxviii

And they sayde vnto hym, thus sayeth Hezekia: thys daye is a daye of tribulation and of rebuke, and blasphemye. For the chyldren are come to the byrth, and ther is no strengthe to be delpued. Peradventure, the Lord thy God wyl heare al the wordes of Rabshake, whom y kyng of Assyria hys master hath sent, to rayle on the lyupnge God, and to rebuke hym with wordes whych the Lorde thy God hath herde. And lyft thou vp thy prayer for the renaunte y are lefte: So the seruantes of kyng Hezekia came to Asaph. And Asaph sayd vnto them: So shal ye saye to your master: Thus sayeth the Lorde: be not afraid of the wordes whych thou hast herde, whych the ponge men of the kyngde of Assyria haue rayled on me: Beholde, I wyl put hym in another mynde, & he shal heare thy dynges, & so re turne to hys owne lande: * And I wyl bypunge to passe, that he shall fall vpon the swerde: & euen in hys owne lande.

And Rabshake wente backe agayne, and founde the kyngde of Assyria fygthynge against Libna: for he had herde how y he was departed from Lachis. And when he heardemen saye of Chirbaka kyng of the blacke Mozes: Behold he is come out to fyght against the, he departed & sent messengers vnto Hezekia sayenge: Thus speake to Hezekia kyng of Iuda, sayenge: let not thy God disceiue the in whom thou trustest, sayenge Jerusalem shall not be delpued into the hande of the kyngde of Assyria. Beholde, thou haste herde what the kynges of Assyria haue done to all landes, howe they haue vterlye destroyed them. And shalt thou (alone) escape? haue the goddes of the hepythen deliuered them whych myne auccessors haue destroyed: As Gozan, and Haran, Rezeph, and the chyldren of Eden whych were in Bitblasar: where is y kyng of Hamath, and the kyng of Arphad, y kyng of the cytie of Sepharuaim, and of Hena & Iua.

So Hezekia receyued the letter of the hande of the messengers, & redde it: And Hezekia went vp into the house of the Lorde, & layed it abrode before the Lorde. And Hezekia prayd before the Lorde, and sayd: O Lord God of Israel: whych dwellest betwene the Cherubs, thou arte God alone ouer all the kyngdomes of the earth: thou haste made heauen and earth. Lord bowe downe thyne eare, and heare. Open Lorde thyne eyes (I beseech the) and se: & heare the wordes of Sennacherib whych hath sent thys man to rayle on the lyupnge God: Of a truth Lorde, the kynges of Assyria haue destroyed nacions and theyr landes, and haue set fyre on theyr goddes. For they were no goddes, but the worke of the handes of man, euen of wood & stone. And they destroyed them. Nowe therfore, O Lorde oure God, I beseeche the, saue thou vs out of hys hande, that al the kyngdomes of the earth maye knowe, that thou onely arte the Lorde God. And Asaph the sonne of Amoz sente to Hezekia sayenge: thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: that whych thou haste prayed me, concernynge Sennacherib kyng of Assyria: I haue heard it. This is therfore the worde that the Lorde hath sayde of hym: The virgyne euen the doughter of Syon, hath despyled the: and laughed the to scorn: (O thou kyng of Assyria) the doughter of Jerusalem hath shaken her head at the. * Whome haste thou rayled on, and whome hast thou blasphemed: Agaynst whome hast thou exalted thy voyce, and lyfted vp thyne eyes so hye: Euen agaynst the holy of Israel. By the hande of the messengers thou hast rayled on the Lorde, and sayd: with the multitude of my charrettes I am come vp to the toppes of the mountaynes, euen alonge by the sydes of Lybanon, and wyl cutte downe the hye Cedar trees, and the lussy firre trees therof: and I wyl go into the lodgyng of hys nest: & into the wood of hys playne: I haue dygged, and dronke strange waters: and with the steppe of my goynge wyl I drye all the water pooles that are besyged.

Hast thou not herde, howe I haue ordeyned suche a thyng a great whyle ago, and haue prepared it from the begynnynge? And shall I not nowe bypunge it forth, that it may destroye, and to bypunge stronge cities vnto waste heapes of stones: and the inhabitours of the shalbe of lytel power, and saynt herted, and confounded, and shalbe lyke y grasse of y felde, or grene herbe or as the hey of the toppes of y houses: or as the corne that is vntyppe, & smytten wpth blasfymyng I knowe thy dwellynge, thy commynge out, & thy goynge in, (and thy ware) and thy surpagaing me. And bycause thou ragest agaynst me and thinkest thy selfe so blessed: this is come vnto myne eares, and I wyl put myne hoke in thy thy nostrylles, & my bpt in thy lyppeg, and wyl byng þ backe agayne þ same way thou camest And thys shalbe a spgne vnto the (O Hezekia) þe shal eate thys peare of such thynges as growe of them selues: and the nexte peare, such as come vp of those þ dyd growe of theyr owne accorde. And the thynde peare some þe & reape:

plant vyneyardes, and eate the frutes therof.

And it that is escaped and lefte of the doughter of Iuda, shal yet agayne take rootyng downe warde, and beare frute vpwarde. For out of Jerusalem shal go a remnaunt: and a nombze that shal escape out of mount Syon: the zeile of the Lord of hostes shal byng thys thyng to passe

Wherfore, thus sayth the Lord concerning the kyng of Assyria: he shal not come to thys citty, nor shote an arrow into it, nor come before it wth wynde, nor caste banke agaynst it: but shal go backe agayne the waye he came: & shal not come into this citty, sayeth the Lord: for I wylle defende thys citty to saue it, for myne owne sake: and for Dauid my seruautes sake.

And so it cam to passe, þ the selfe same nyght the aungell of the Lord went out and smote in the host of the Assyrians an hundred foure score and fyue thousande. And when the remnaunte were vprearly in the moornyng: they sawe, they were all deade coozles. * And so Sennacherib kyng of Assyria auoyded and departed, & went agayne: and dwelte at Ninue. And it fortuneth that as he was in a temple woithpyppynge his owne sonnes smote hym wth the sword. And they escaped into the lande of Armenia, and Asarhaddon hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

The. xx. Chapter.

Hezekia is sycke, and receyuech the spgne of hys healethe.
He receyuech rewardes of Benodach, and is reprehended of Ilay, because he shewed hym the treasure. He dyeth, and Manasse hys sonne raygneth in hys steade.

About that tyme * was Hezekia syck vnto death. And the prophete Ilay þ sonne of Amoz came to hym, & sayd vnto hym Thus sayeth the Lord: put thy household in an ordze, for thou shalt dye, and not lyue. And Hezekia tourned hys face to the walle, and prayed to the Lord, sayenge: I beseeche the nowe, O Lord, remembre howe I haue walked before the in truth and wyth a perfyte herte, and haue done that whych is good in thy syghte: and Hezekia wepte sore.

And it fortuneth, that afore Ilay was gone out into the myddle of the court, þ worde of the Lord came to hym, sayeng: turne agayne, and tell Hezekia the capteyne of my people: Thus sayeth the Lord God of Dauid thy father: I haue herde thy prayer, and sene thy teares. And beholde, I wylle heale the so that on the thynde dape, thou shalt go vp into the house of þ Lord And I wylle adde vnto thy dayes yet fyftene yeare, and wylle deliuer the and this cite out of the hande of the kyng of Assyria, and wylle defende thys citty for myne owne sake, & for Da-uid my seruautes sake, And Ilay sayd: Take a lompe of fygges. And they toke it and layed it on the soze, and he recovered.

And Hezekia sayd vnto Ilay: what shalbe the signe that the Lord wyl heale me, and that I shal go vp into the house of the Lord þ thynd dape? Ilay answered: this spgne shalt thou haue of the Lord, that the Lord wyl do that he hath spoken. * Shall the shadowe goe forwarde ten degrees, or go backe agayne ten degrees? Hezekia answered: it is a light thyng for þ shadowe to go downe ten degrees. * (urther is that my desyre) but yf the shadowe goe backwarde ten degrees, it is no lyght thyng. And Ilay the prophet called vnto the Lord, * and he broughte the wadowe ten degrees backwarde by whych it had gone downe in the dyall of Ahas.

* The same season Berodach Baladam the sonne of Baladam kyng of Babylon, sent letters and a present to Hezekia, for he had hearde howe that Hezekia was sycke. And Hezekia was glad of them, and shewed them al hys treasure house, syluer, golde, odours, precious oymement, all the house of hys armour, and al that was foude in hys treasures: there was nothing in hys house, and in al hys realme, that Hezekia shewed them not.

And Ilay the prophet came vnto kyng Hezekia, and sayd vnto hym: What sayd these me and from whence came they to the? And Hezekia sayde: they be come from a farre countrey, euē from Babylon. And he sayd agayne: what haue they sene in thyne house? Hezekia answered, all the thynges that are in my house haue they sene there is nothyng among my treasures, that I haue not shewed them: And Ilay sayd vnto Hezekia: heare the worde of the Lord: Beholde, the dayes come, that al that is in thy house, and what soeuer thy fathers haue layed vp in store vnto this dape, * shalbe carryed into Babylon, and nothyng shalbe left sayeth the Lord: And of thy sonnes (that shal procede out of the, and whych thou shalt beget) shal they take a wyfe, and they shal be chamberlaynes in the palace of the kyng of Babylon. And Hezekia sayd vnto Ilay, welcome be the worde of the Lord which thou hast spoken. And he sayd: shal there not be peace and trueth in my dayes?

The remnaunt of the wordes that concerne Hezekia, and all hys power, and howe he made a poole and a condyte, and brought water into the citty: are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda? * And Hezekia slept wyth his fathers: and Manasse hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

by altars for Baal, and made groues (as dyd Ahab kyng of Israel,) and worshipped al the host of heauen and serued them. And he buylte altars in the house of the Lorde, of whyche the Lorde sayd: * In Jerusalem wyll I put my name. And he buylte altars for all the hoste of heauen, euen in twoo courtes of the house of the Lorde. * And he offered hys sonnes in fyre, and gaue hede vnto wytchcraft and sozcerpe, and maintayned workers with spyrites and tellers of fortunes: and brought much wyckednesse in the syght of the Lorde to angre hym.

W And he put an ymage of a groue (that he had made) euen in the temple, of whyche the Lorde had sayd to Dauid and to Salomon hys sonne, * in this house, and in Jerusalem: (whyche I haue chosen out of all trybes of Israel) wil I put my name for ever. Neyther wyll I make the fete of Israel moue any moze out of the lande, whyche I gaue theyr fathers: so that they wyll obserue and do all that I haue commaunded them: and accordynge to al the lawe that my seruaut Moyses commaunded them. But they herkened not, and Manasse led them out of y way, to do moze wyckedly then dyd the bejthen people, whome the Lorde destroyed befoze y children of Israel.

E And the Lorde spake by hys seruantes the prophetes, sayenge: bycause Manasse kyng of Iuda hath done such abominations, and hath wydought moze wyckedly then all that the Amorytes (which were befoze him) dyd: y hath made Iuda synne also wyth hys Idolles. Therfoze, thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel. * Behold I wyll byynge suche euell vpon Jerusalem and Iuda, that whoso heareth of it, both hys eares shall tynge. And I wyll stretch ouer Jerusalem, the squaringe lyne of Samaria: and the plomet of y house of Ahab. And I wyll wype out Jerusalem, as a man wyppeth a dyke, & whē he hath wypped it, tourneth it vpside downe. And I wil leaue the remnaunte of myne enheritaunce, and deliuer them into the hande of theyr enemies, & they shalbe robbed and spoled of all theyr aduerlaryes, euen because they haue done euyl in my syghte, and haue angred me, syns the tyme theyr fathers came out of Egypt vntil this day.

W And Manasse shed innocent bloude exceeding much, tyll he replenished Jerusalem from corner to corner, besyde hys synne where wyth he made Iuda to synne, and to do euyl in the syght of the Lorde.

The reste of the wordes that concerne Manasse, and all that he dyd, and hys synne that he synned: are they not wyrtten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda? And Manasse slept with his fathers, and was buryed in hys owne house, euen in the garden of Aisa: and Amon hys sonne raygned in hys stede.

* Amon was. xxiij. yere olde, whē he began to raygne, and he raygned two yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name also was Mesulemeth the doughter of Harum of Jotba. And he dyd euyl in the syght of the Lorde (as hys father Manasse dyd) and walked in all the waye that hys father walked in: and serued the Idolles y hys father serued: and worshipped them. And he forsoke the Lorde god of hys fathers: and walked not in the waye of the Lorde.

I And the seruantes of Amon conspyred agaynst hym, & slue the kyng in his owne house. And the people of the lāde slue al them that had conspyred agaynst kyng Amon, and the people made Josia hys sonne kyng, in hys stede. The reste of the wordes that concerne Amon, what thynges he dyd: are they not wyrtten in y booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda? And they buryed hym in hys sepulchre, in y garde of Aisa: and Josia his sonne raygned in hys stede.

¶ The. xxii. Chapter.

¶ After Josia hearde of the boke of the lawe that was founde in the temple, he sendeth to Huldah the prophete esse for counsell.

J Josia was * xviij. yere olde when he began to raygne, and he raygned. xxiij. yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name also was Jedida y doughter of Adata of Bozath. He dyd that whyche is ryght in the syght of the Lorde, and walked in al the wayes of Dauid hys father: and bowed neyther to the ryght hande, oz to the left.

* And it came to passe, that in the. xviii. yere of the raygne of kyng Josia, the king sent Saphan the sonne of Azalia the sonne of Mesulam the scribe to the house of the Lorde, sayeng: * go vp to Helkia the hye prest: that he may summe the syluer whych is brought into y house of the Lorde, whych the keepers of the porche haue gathered of the people, and let them deliuer it into the hande of them that do the worke, and that haue the ouer syghte of the house of the Lorde, and let them gyue it to them that woork in the house of the Lorde: (to repayre the decayed places of the temple) euen vnto carpenters and masons, and workers vpon the walles: and for to buye tymber, and fre stone to repayre the temple. Howbeit, let no rekenynge be made wyth them of the money that is deliuered into theyr hande for theyr vse is to deale faythfully.

* And Helkia the hye prest sayde vnto Saphan the scribe: I haue founde the boke of the lawe of the house of the Lorde, and Helkia gaue the boke to Saphan, and he red in it. And Saphan the scribe came to the kyng, and brought hym worde agayne, & sayd: thy seruantes haue bestowed the money (that was founde in y temple:) and haue deliuered it vnto the that do the worke, and that haue y ouer syghte of the house of the Lorde. And Saphan y scribe shewed the kyng, sayenge: Helkia the prest hath deliuered me a boke. And Saphan red in it befoze y kyng.

And it fortuned, y when the kyng had herd the wordes of the boke of the lawe, he rent hys clothes. And the kyng commaunded Helkia the prest, and Ahikam the sonne of Saphan, & Achbor the sone of Michaia, and Saphan y scribe and Asahia a seruaut of the kynges, sayenge: * go ye and enquire of the Lorde for me, and for the people, and for all Iuda, concernyn y wordes of thys boke that is founde. For greate is y wrath of the Lorde that is kyndled agaynst vs, because our fathers haue not herkened vnto the worde wordes of thys boke, to do accordynge vnto all that whych is wyrtten therein for vs.

D So Helkia the hie preist and Abikam, Ach-boz & Saphan, and Ahabia went vnto Hulda a prophetesse the wyfe of Sulman, the sonne of Chikna, the sonne of Harhan keeper of the ward-rope: whych prophetesse dwelt in Jerusalem in the house of the doctryne, and they communed wth her. And she answered them: thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: Tell the man I sente you to me, thus sayth the Lorde: behold, I wyl brynge euell vpon thys place, and on the inhabiters thereof: (euell al the wordes of the boke whych the kyng of Iuda hath red) bycause they haue forsake me, & haue burnt incence vnto other god-des, to anger me wth all the woorkes of theyr handes. My wrath also shalbe kindled against thys place, and shal not be quenched.

But to the kyng of Iuda (which sent you to aske counsell of the Lorde) so shall ye say: thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel, as touchynge the wordes whych ye haue hearde: Bpcause thynne herte did melt: & because thou hast humbled thy selfe before me the lord, whē thou herdest what I spake agaynst thys place, & agaynst the inhabi-tters of the same (howe they shuld be destroyed & accursed:) and hast rent thy clothes, and wept before me: of that also haue I herde, sayeth the Lorde: Beholde, therefore I wyl receyue the vnto thy fathers, and I wyl be put into thy graue
in peace, and thynne eyes shal not se all the euell, whych I wyl brynge vpon thys place. And they brought the kyng worde agayne.

The. xliii. Chapter.

Jolia readeth Deuteronomy before the people. He putted downe the ydolles, after he had kyled the prestes thereof. He kepeth Passouer. He was kyled in Magedo, and his sonne Jehoaz raygneth in his steade. After he was taken, his sonne Jehoahym was made kynge.

And then the kyng sent, and there gathered vnto hym al the elders of Iuda & of Jerusalem. And the kyng went vp into the house of the Lorde, with al the men of Iuda and al the inhabitours of Jerusalem, with the prestes and prophetes, and al the people both smal & great.
And he red in the eares of them: all the wordes of the booke of the couenant: whych was found in the house of the Lorde. And the kyng stode by a pyller, & made a couenaunt before the Lorde, the they shulde walke after the Lorde, and kepe his comandementes, his wytnesses, & his statutes, wth all they herte, and al their soul, and make good the wordes of the sayd appoyntment I were wyrtten in the forsayd boke. And all the people consented to the appoyntment.

And the kyng commaunded Helkia the hie preist and the inferiour hie prestes, and the keepers of the ornamentes, to brynge out of the temple of the Lorde, all the vesselles that were made for Baal, for the groues, and for all the hooste of heauen. And he burnt them withoute Jerusalem in the felde of Cedron, & carped the ashes of them into Bethel. And he put downe the ministers of Baal, whō the kynges of Iuda had for-wed to burne incence in the pylaulters & cyties of Iuda, that were rounde about Jerusalem: & also them I burnt incence vnto Baal, to the stone to the moone, to the planettes, & to all the hoost of heauen. And he brought out the groue fro the temple of the Lorde without Jerusalem vnto the broke Cedron, & burnt it there at the broke Cedron, & stampit it to powder, and cast the dust therof vpon the graues of the chyldren of the people. And he brake downe the celles of the males stues that were by the house of the Lorde, where the women woue hangynges for the groue.

And he brought all the prestes out of the cy-ties of Iuda, and despyled the pylaulters where the prestes had burnt incense: euen from Geba to Beerseba: and destroyed the aulters of the gates, that were in the enterynge in of the gate of Josua the gouernoure of the cytie whych were (as a man goeth in) on the lefte hande of the gate of the cytie. Neuer thelesse the prestes of the bil-aulters came not vp to the aulter of the Lorde in Jerusalem, saue only they dyd eat of the swete bread amonge they brethren.

And he despyled: Etopheph: whych is in the valley of the chyldre of Minnom: bycause no man shulde offere his sonne or his doughter in fyre to Molech: he put downe the horses of the kynges of Iuda had gyven to the sonne at the enterynge in of the house of the Lorde, by the chābre of Ra-thanmelech, the chambrelayne whych was ruler of the suburges, & burnt the charretes of the sunne wth fyre. And the aulters that were on the toppe of the parloure of Ahaz (whych the ky-nges of Iuda had made) and the aulters whych Manasse had made in the two courtes of the house of the Lorde did the kyng breake downe & ranne thence: & cast the dust of the in the broke of Cedron

And the pylaulters that were before Jerusalem on the ryght hande of the mount Olivete, (whych Salomon the kyng of Israel hadde buiilded for Ashtaroth the Idoll of the zions, and for Chamos the Idoll of the Moabytes, & for Milchom the abominable Idoll of the children of Ammon) those the kyng despyled: and brake the ymages, and cut downe the groues & fylled they places wth the bones of men.

Mozeouer the aulter that was at Bethel, the pylaulter made by Jeroboam, the son of Na-bat (whych made Israel synne) both the aulter & also the pyll, he brake downe and burnt the pyll aulter and stampit it to powder, and burnt the groue. And as Jolia turned hym selfe, he spied the graues, that were in the mounte, and sent & fet the bones out of the graues, and burnt them vpon the aultare to polute it, accordynge to the woorde of the Lorde that the man of God proclaymed: whych tolde the same wordes.

Then he sayde what graue stone is yonder that I se: And the men of the cytie tolde hym, it is the sepulchre of the man of God, whych came from Iuda, and tolde the selfe same thynges that thou hast done to the aulter of Bethel. And he sayd let hym be: se that no man moue his bones And so his bones were saued with the bones of a prophete that came out of Samaria.

And all the houses of the pylaulters in the cyties

cities of Samaria which the kynges of Israel had made to angre (the Lorde) withall: those Josia put out of the way, & dyd to them accordyng to all the actes he had done in Bethel. And he sacrificed all the prestes of the hylaulters he were there, even vpon the alters, and burnt mens bones vpon them, and returned to Jerusalem.

E And the kyng commaunded all the people, sayinge: * kepe the feaste of passeouer vnto the Lorde your God, as it is written in the booke of this couenaunte. * There was no passeouer holden lyke that from the dayes of the Judges that iudged Israel, and in all the dayes of the kynges of Israel, and of the kynges of Iuda. In the .xxviii. yere of kyng Josia was this passeouer holden to the Lorde in Jerusalem.

And ther to workers with spyrites and soothsayers, ymages, ydols, & all the abhominacions that were espyed in the lande of Iuda and Jerusalem, those dyd Josia put out of the way, to perfourme the wordes of the lawe whiche were written in the booke of Helkia the prest founde in the house of the Lorde: lyke vnto hym was there no kyng before hym, that turned to the Lorde with all his hert, with all his soule, and al his might accordyng to all the lawe of Moyses, neyther after hym arose there any suche as he.

Not withstandyng, the Lorde tourned not fro his fearcenesse of his great wrath (wher with he was angry agaynst Iuda) because of al the prouocacions that Manasse had prouoked him withall. And the Lorde sayd: * I wyl put Iuda also out of my syght, as I haue done a waye Israel: and wylle caste of this cytie Jerusalem: whiche I haue chosen, and the house of which I sayde: my name shalbe there.

I The rest of the wordes that concerne Josia, and all that he dyd: are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda?

* In his dayes Pharaos Necho kyng of Egypt went vp agaynst the kyng of Assyria to the ryuer Euphrates. And king Josia went agaynst hym, and was slayne of hym at Magiddo, wher he had sene him. And his seruantes caried him deed from Magiddo, and brought hym to Jerusalem, and buryed hym in his owne sepulchre. And the people of the lande, toke Jehoahaz, the sonne of Josia, and annointed hym, & made hym kyng in his fathers stede.

E Jehoahaz was .xxiii. yere olde wher he began to raygne, and raygned thre monethes in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Hamiel the daughter of Jeremia of Libna. And he did euill in the syght of the Lorde, accordyng to al thinges as his fathers had doone. And Pharaos Necho put hym in bondes at Ribla in the lande of Hamath, he shulde not raygne in Jerusalem, and put the land to a tribute of an hundred talentes of syluer, and a talent of gold. And Pharaos Necho made Eliakim the sonne of Josia kyng in the roume of Josia his father: and turned his name to Jehoakim, and toke Jehoahaz away, which when he came to Egypt, dyed there.

And Jehoakim gaue the syluer and the gold to Pharaos, and taxed the lande, to gyue the mo ney accordyng to the request of Pharaos: requyryng of euery man (accordyng to theyr abylite) syluer and golde: even of the people of the lande to gyue vnto Pharaos Necho. Jehoakim was .xxv. yere olde wher he began to raygne, & he raygned .xi. yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name also was Zebuda the daughter of Bedaia of Rama. And he dyd that whiche was euill in the syght of the Lorde, accordyng to all thynges, as his fathers had done.

The .xxiii. Chapter.

E Jehoakim dyeth. Jerusalem is besieged of the Babylyonians. Jehoakim yeldeth hym selfe to the kyng of Babylyon. And in his roume came Mathaniah which was called Zedekiah.

In his dayes came Nabuchodonosor, kyng of Babylyon vp, and Jehoakim became his seruant thre yere, and then turned, and rebelled agaynst him. And the Lorde sent vpon hym men of warre from amonge the Caldees from amonge the Assyrians out of the Moabites, and from the chyldren of Ammon. and sente them agaynst Iuda, to destroye it, accordyng to the sayeng of the Lorde which he spake by his seruantes the prophetes. Onely at the byddynge of the Lorde happened it so to Iuda, to put them out of hys syght, for the synnes of Manasse, accordyng to all that he dyd, and for the innocent blood that he shed, and fylled Jerusalem with innocent blood: and the Lorde wolde not be reconcyled.

The rest of the wordes that concerne Jehoakim and all that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in the booke of Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda? And so Jehoakim slepte with hys fathers: and Jehoachin his sonne raigned in his stede. And the kyng of Egypt came nomore oute of hys lande: for the kyng of Babylyon had taken fro the ryuer of Egypt, vnto the ryuer Euphrates, all that pertayned to the kyng of Egypt. Jehoachin was eyghtene yere olde, and raygned in Jerusalem thre monethes. Hys mothers name also was Nechusta, the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem. And he did that whiche was euill in the syght of the Lorde, accordyng to all as his father had done. * In the tyme came the seruantes of Nabuchodonosor kyng of Babylyon vp agaynst Jerusalem, and the cite was besieged. And Nabuchodonosor kyng of Babylyon came agaynst the cite, and his seruantes dyd besiege it. * And Jehoachin the kyng of Iuda came out to the kyng of Babylyon, he and his mother, his seruantes, his lordes, and his chambrelaynes. And the kyng of Babylyon toke hym in the eyght yere of his raygne.

* And he caried out thence all the treasures of the house of the Lorde, and the treasure of the kynges house: and brake all the vessels of golde whiche Salomon kyng of Israel had made in the temple of the Lorde, as the Lorde had sayd. And he caried awaye all Jerusalem, and al the lordes, and all the stronge men of warre, even ten thousande into captiuitie: and all craftsmen and keepers, none remaynyng save the poore common people of the lande.

And

* And he carped a waye Jehoachim to Babylon, and the kynges mother, and the kynges wyues, hys chāberlaynes, and them that were myghtye in the lande: those carped he a waye in to captiue from Ierusalem to Babylon. And all the actiue men of warre, euen. vii. thousand and crafts mē & porters a. M. all p were strong and apt for war, dyd p kyng of Babylon bringe to Babylon captiue. * And the kyng of Babylon made Marbanta hys fathers brother, king in his steade: & chaunged his name to zedekia.

* zedekia was. xxi. yere olde when he began to raygne, and he raygned eleuen yere in Ierusalem. hys mothers name also was hamitall the daughter of Jeremia of Libna. And he dyd euell in the syght of the Lorde, accordyng to all as Jehoachim had done. For p wrath of p Lord was moued agaynst Ierusalem and Iuda vntyll he cast them out of his syghte. And zedekia rebelled agaynst the kyng of Babylon.

The. xxv. Chapter.

Ierusalem is beleged of Nabuchodonosor, otherwyse called Nabuchadnezer, and it & the temple are both burnt. The sonnes of zedekia are slayne before hys eyes, and after are hys owne eyes put out. Iuda is broughte to Babylon, & after is Jehoachim exalted.

And it fortuneth, * that in the nynthe yere of hys raygne, the tenth daye of the tenth moneth: Nabuchadnezer kyng of Babylon came, he and all his hoste agaynst Ierusalem & pyched agayn it: and made engyns agaynst it on euery syde. And the cytpe was beleged vnto the elcuenth yere of kyng zedekia. * And the nynthe daye of the moneth, there was so greate hunger in the cytpe: that there was no bread for the people of the lande.

And the Citpe was broken vp: and all the men of armes fledde by nyght, by a waye thowme a gate, whiche is betwene two walles by the kynges gardeyne: the Chaldees spenge aboute the Citpe.

And the kyng wente the waye towarde the playne. And the souldyers of the Chaldees followed after the kyng, and toke hym in the playne of Jericho, and all his armye were scattered a waye from hym, & (and left hym.) So they toke the kyng, and brought hym to Nabuchadnezer the kyng of Babylon to Rybla, where they reasoned wth hym. And they slewe the sonnes of zedekia before hys eyes: and he put oute the eyes of zedekia, & fettered hym wth two chaynes and carped hym to Babylon.

And the. vii. daye of the. v. moneth whiche is the. xix. yere of kyng Nabuchadnezer kyng of Babylon, came Nabusaradan a seruaunt of the kyng of Babylon, and chefe captayne of p men of warre, vnto Ierusalem: and burnt the house of the Lorde, and the kynges house and all the houses of Ierusalem, and all greate houses burnt he with fyre. And all the souldyers of the Chaldees that were wth the chefe captayne of the men of warre broke downe the walles of Ierusalem round about. But the rest of the people that were left in the city, & them that were fled to the kyng of Babylon, w the remnaunt of the comon people, dyd Nabusaradan the chefe captayne of the men of warre carpe a way: but the captayne of souldyers left of the poore of the lande to dwelle the vyues, and to tply the lande.

* And the pylers of brasie that were in the house of the Lorde, and the sockets, and the brasen lauatorye p was in the house of the Lord did the Chaldees breake, and caried all the brasie of them to Babylon. And the portes, shouels, dyel syng knyues, spones, & al the vessels of p brasie that they mynstred in, toke they awaye. And p fyre pannes, & basens, & suche thynges as were of golde, and of syluer, them toke the chefe Captayne a waye: euen two pylers, one lauatory, & the sockets whiche Salomon had made for the house of p Lorde. The brasie of all these vessels was without wayghte. The heygth of the one piler was. xviii. cubytes, and the head thereon was brasie, and the cubytes hys & vpon p head was there a wrethe worke and pomegranates rounde about all the brasie. And of the same fasshyon was the second piler, w a wrethe worke

And the chefe captayne of the men of warre, toke Saraia the chefe prest, & zephoniah the best prest saue one, and the thre keepers of the holy thynges. And out of the citie he toke a chāberlayne, that had the ouersyghte of the men of warre, and. v. men of them that were euer in the kynges presence, whiche were founde in p citie: and hym that was scribe to the captayne of the host, whiche brought out the people of the land to warre, and thre scoze men of the people of the lande, that were founde in the citie. And Nabusaradan the chefe captayne of the men of warre toke these, & brought them to the kyng of Babylon to Rybla. And p kyng of Babylon smote them, & slue them at Rybla in p hand of Hanath. And so Iuda was caried away out of their land

Howbeit, there remayned people in p lande of Iuda, whome Nabuchadnezer kyng of Babylon left, and made Gedalia the sonne of Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan ruler ouer them. And all the captains of the souldyers and other men harde, that the kyng of Babylon had made Gedalia gouerner: & there cam to Gedalia at Hazphaz: Ismael the sonne of Netanias, Johanna the sonne of Kareas, Saraia the sonne of Chanhumeth the Netophatite, And Jazania the sonne of Maachati, and they men. And Gedalia swore to them, and to the men whome they had wth them, and sayde vnto them: feare not ye because ye are the seruauntes of the Chaldees, dwell in the lande, and serue the kyng of Babylon, and ye shall be well.

But it chaunced in the seuenth moneth, that Ismael the sonne of Netanias the sonne of Eliama, of the kynges bloode, came, and ten men wth hym, and smote Gedalia, that he died: and so dyd he the Jewes, and p Chaldees that were wth hym at Mizpa.

And all the people both small and greate, & the captaynes of warre arose, & came to Egypt for they were afrayde of p Chaldees. Notwithstandyng yet in the seuen and thyrtye yere after Jehoachim king of Iuda was carped away the the seven and twenty daye of the twelvethe moneth, Euilmerodach king of Babilon, the same yere that he beganne to raygne, dyd lyft vp the heade of Jehoachim kynge of Juda oute of the pryson: and spake kyndly to hym, and sette hym seate aboute the seate of the kinges that were wpth hym in Babilon: and chaunged his pryson garmetes. And he dyd euer eat bread before hym, all y dayes of his lyfe. His porcyon was a contynual porcyon that was assigned hym of y kyng euer y daye a certayn as long as he lyued.

The genealogie of Ruben and Gad, and of the halfe trybe of Manasse.

Ruben the eldest sone of Israel: for as moche as he was the eldest, * and had despyled his fathers bed by his byrthryght was gyuen vnto the sonnes of Joseph the sonne of Israel. Howbeit, the genealogie is not reckened after his byrthryght. For Juda, he preynted aboue his brethren, and of this trybe came the chefe, and the byrthryght was gyue to Joseph. The sones thā of Ruben the eldest sonne of Israel were Henoch Phalu, Hezon and Charmi. The sones of Joel Samaiab his sonne, Sog his sonne, and Sembi his sonne, Micah his sonne, Reaia his sonne, and Baal his sonne, Beera his son: whom Chiglath Pilneser kynge of Assiria carped awaye: for he was a greate lord amonge the Rubenites. And when his brethren in theyr kynredes, reckened the genealogie of theyr generacions: Jiel and zachariab were the chefe.

B And Baal the sonne of Azan, the son of Sem the sonne of Joel dwelte in Aroer: and so for the vnto Bebo and Baalmeon. And eastwarde, he inhabited vnto pentrynge in of the wylernes from the ryuer Euphrates, for they had moche cattell in the lande of Gilead.

And in the dayes of Saul they warred with the Hagarites, whiche were ouerthrowen into theyr hande. And they dwelt in theyr tentes thowout all the east lande of Gilgal.

And the chyldre of Gad dwelte ouer agaynst them in the lande of Basan: euen vnto Salcha. And in Basan Joel was the chefest, and Sapham the nexte, then Janai and Saphat. And theyr brethren of the householde of theyr fathers were Michael, Mesusa, Seba, Jozai, Jachaz, Eber, seuen. These are the chyldren of Abihail: the son of Huri, the sone of Jeroab, the son of Gilead, the sonne of Michael, the sonne of Jelisai, the sonne of Jahdo, the sonne of Buz. Abi (the sonne of Abdiel) the sonne of Guni, was a captayne of the householde of theyr fathers. And they dwelt in Gilead in Basan, and in her townes, and in all the Suburbes of Saron, and in theyr borders.

E All these were reckened by kynredes in the dayes of Jotham kynge of Juda, & in the dayes of Jeroboam kynge of Israel. And they fought with the Hagarites, with Jetur, Nephtis and Rodab. And they were helped of the Lord agaynst them, and the Hagarites were delpuered into theyr hande, and so were all that were wyth them. For they cryed to God in the battayle, and he hearde them, bycause they put theyr trust in hym.

And they toke of theyr cattel, and of theyr camels fyfty thousand and two hundred, and fyfty thousande shepe, and two thousande asses, and of the soules of men an hundred thousande, and there fell many wounded, bycause swarre was of God. And they dwelt in theyr steddes vntill the tyme that they were carped awaye.

And the chyldren of the halfe trybe of Manasse dwelt in the lade from Basan vnto Baal Hermon, and Semir, & vnto mounte Hermon: for they were growen to a great multitude. And these were the heedes of the householdes of theyr fathers: Ephraim and Jesi, Eliel and Aziel, Jeremia and Hodania, and Jobdiel, strong men and valeaunt famous men, and heedes of the householdes of theyr fathers.

And they transgressed agaynst the God of theyr fathers, and wente awhorpyng after the goddesses of the people of the lande, whome God destroyed befoze them: and God spured vp the spryte of Phul kynge of Assiria. And the spryte of Chiglath Pilneser kynge of Assiria, and carped them awaye: euen the Rubenites, the Gadites, and the halfe tribe of Manasse, & brought them vnto Halab Habor, Hara: and to the riuer Golan, vnto this daye.

The. x. Chapter.

The battayle of Saul agaynst the Philistines, in which he dyeth and his sonnes also.

And the Philistines fought against Israel. * And the me of Israel fled before the Philistines, and were ouerthrowen & wounded in mounte Gilboa. And the Philistines folowed, and were scarce after Saul & his sonnes, and the Philistines smote Jehonathan, & Abinadab, and Malchisua the sonnes of Saul: And the battayle was loze agaynst Saul, and the archers founde hym, and he was wounded of shoters. Then sayd Saul to his weaponbearer  drawe thy swerde, and thrust me thorow therewith, that these vncircumcised come not and do me shame, but his weaponbearer wolde not, for he feared exceedingly. So Saul caught a swerd & fel vpon it. And when his harnesbearer sawe that Saul was deed, he fell on a swerde also, & dyed.

C And thus Saul and his thre sonnes, and all they of his house dyed togyther. And when all the men of Israel that were in the valleie, sawe how they fled, & that Saul and his sonnes were deed, they forsoke theyr ctyes, and ran awaye, and the Philistines came, and dwelt in them.

 And it fortuneth, that on the morowe when the Philistines came (to strypte the deed bodies) they found Saul and his sonnes ouerthrowen in mounte Gilboa. And when they had strypte hym, they toke his heed and his harnesse, & sent them into the lande of the Philistines round aboute to shewe them vnto theyr ydols, & to the people. And they put his harnesse in the house of their God, & set vpon his heed in the temple of Dago. And when all they of Jabes in Gilead hearde all that the Philistines had done to Saul, they arose (al the strongest of them) and fet a waye of body of Saul, and the bodies of his sonnes, and brought the to Jabes, and buryed the bones of the vnder an oke in Jabes: & fasted seuen dayes.

So Saul dyed for his trespassse, that he trespassed agaynst the Lorde, in that he kepte not the worde of the Lorde, and in that he soughte, and asked counsayl of a woman that wrought with a spyrite, and asked not of the Lorde. And therfore he shue hym, and turned the kyngdome vnto Dauid the sonne of Isai.

The. xi. Chapter.

After the death of Saul is Dauid anoynted in Hebzon. The Jebusites rebell agaynst Dauid, from whiche he taketh the towne of Syon. His men are nombred.

In all Israel gathered them selues to Dauid vnto Hebzon, * saying: behold we be thy bones and thy fleshe. And moreover, in tyme past, euen when Saul was kyng & leddest Israel out & in: And thy Lorde thy God sayde vnto the: thou shalt fede my people Israel, and thou shalt be captayne ouer my people Israel. Therfore came all the elders of Israel to the kyng to Hebzon, and Dauid made a couenaunt with them in Hebzon before the Lorde. And they anoynted Dauid kyng ouer Israel, * accordyng to the worde of Lorde by the hande of Samuel.

And Dauid and all Israel wente to Jerusalem, which is Jebus: where as were the Jebusites, the inhabitours of the lande. And the inhabitours of Jebus sayde to Dauid: thou comest not here. Neuerthelesse, Dauid wanne the castell of Syon, which is called the ctye of Dauid. And * Dauid sayde: whosoener smyteth the Jebusites fyre, shall be the principall captayne, and a lord. So Joab the sonne of Zaria went fyre vpon, and was made chiefe captayne. And Dauid dwelte in the castell of Syon, and therfore they called it the citie of Dauid. And he buylt the ctye on euerye syde, euen from Millo roundabout. And Joab repayred the rest of the ctye. And Dauid prospered, and wared greate. And the Lorde of hostes was with hym.

 These are the principal men of power who Dauid had, and y claue to hym in his kyngdom with all Israel, to make hym kyng: accordyng to the worde of the Lord vnto Israel. And this is the nombre of the myghty men whome Dauid had: Josheam the sonne of Achmoni, & chiefe amonge theyr: he lyfte vpon his speare agaynst thre hundred, and wounded them at one tyme.

After him was Eleazar his vncles son an Abiathite, which was one of the thre myghtyest. He was with Dauid at Balaamin, & there the Philistines were gathered togyther to battayle. And there was there a parcel of ground ful of barly, & y people fled before the Philistines. And they (y iii. aforesayd) kept forth into the myddes of the felde, and saued it from burnynge, and shue the Philistines. And y Lord gaue a great victorie.

And the thre of the thre chiefe captaynes went to a rocke to Dauid, into the caue Adullam. And the hoste of the Philistines abode in the valleie of Rephaim. And when Dauid was in the holde, the Philistines watche was at Beth lehem the same tyme. And David longed, and sayde: * Oh, that one wolde gyue me drynke of the water of the wel that is at the gate of Beth lehem. And the thre bryake thowowe the hoost of the Philistines, and dreyne water oute of the well that was by the gate of Bethlehem, and toke it and brought it to David. Neuerthelesse, David wolde not drynke of it, but rather offered it to the Lord, and sayde: my God forbyd it me, that I shoulde do this thyng. Shall I drynke the blood of these men, that haue put theyr lyues in iopardye? (For wyth the iopardye of theyr lyues they brought it.) Therefore he wolde not drynke it, and this dyd these thre myghtyest.

¶ And Abisai the brother of Joab, he also was capayne amonge thre: for he lyft vp his speare agaynst. iii. C. and wounded them, & had a name among y^e thre. Yea, among thre he was more honourable than y^e two, for he was theyr capayne.

¶ Howbeit he attayned not vnto the ^{the} thre.

Banaia the sonne of Jehoiada (the sonne of a very strong man) dyd greater actes then Cabzeel: for he slue two lyons of Moab, and wente downe, and slue a lyon in a pyt in tyme of snow. And he slue an Egyptian, whose stature was euen fyue cubytes longe, and in the Egyptians hande was a speare lyke a weavers beame. And the other went downe to hym with a waster, & plucked the speare out of the Egyptians hande, and slue hym with his owne speare. Such thynges dyd Banaia the sonne of Jehoiada, and had the name amonge the thre myghtyest, and was honourable amonge theyr type, but attayned not vnto the fyrste thre. And David made hym of hys counsaile.

¶ The other men of armes were these: Asahel the brother of Joab, Elhanan his vnckles sonne of Bethlehem. Sammoth the Harodite: Helez the Belonite: Ira the sonnes of Jekes the Chekoite: Abieser the Anathothite: Sibacai y^e Husathite: Iai the Ahoite: Maharai the Bethophaitite: Heled the son of Baana the Bethophaitite, Ithai the son of Ribai of Gibeon that pertayneth to y^e chyldre of Ben Jamin. Benaia the Pirathonite: Hurai of the ryuers of Gaas: Ahiel the Arbatite: Azmaneth the Baharumite: Elhaba the Saalbonite. The sonnes of Hazem the Gezonite: Jehonathan the sonne of Sage an Harite: Abiam the son of Sacar the Haraitite: Eliphal the sonne of Uz: Hephher the Mecherathite: Abia the Belonite: Hezro the Carmelite.

¶ Naar the sonne of Ezrai: Joel the brother of Nathan: Mibhar the sonne of Hari: zelegam the Ammonite: Nabarai a Gerathite, the bearer of the harnesse of Joab, the sonne of zeruia: Ira the Jitherite: and Gared a Gethite, Uzai the Hithite: and Zabab the sonne of Abilai, Abina the sonne of Siza a Rubenite, a capayne of the Rubenites, and theyr type wyth hym. Hanan the sonne of Maacha, and Josaphat a Githanite: Uzai an Ashterathite, Sama and Jehiel the sonnes of Hothan an Arochite: Jediel the son of zimri, and Joha his brother an Hathizite: Eliel a Mahanite: Jeribai and Josai the sonnes of Elnaam, and Jithma a Moabite. Eliel and Obed, and Jesiel a Mesobaitte.

The. xii. Chapter.

What they were that went with David when he fled from Saul.

These are they that came to David to zikleg, whyle he yet kepte hym selfe close, bycause of Saul the son of Cis: and they were very stronge helpers in battayl: They were weaponed wyth bowes, and coulde hurle stones wth the ryght hande and with the lefte: and shotte arrows out of a bowe, and were of Sauls brethren, euen of Ben Jamin. The chiefeest were Abieser and Joas the sonnes of Simaa a Gibeonite: and Jeziel and Pelet the sonnes of Asmaneth: Beracha and Jehu of Anathoth. And Jemaia a Gilbeonite a myghty man amonge theyr type, and more then the thyrtie. Jeremiah, Jehaziel, Johanan and Josabad of Gedoz, Elusai, Jerimoth, Bealia, Semaria, and Sephtia the Haraphites, Elcana, Jelia, Azrael, Joazer, Iosebeam, Hakozim, Joela and zebadiab, the sonnes of Jeroam of Gedud.

And of the Gadites there separated them selues, some vnto David into the holde of the wyl dernelle, men of myght, and men apt for warre and that coulde handle shylde and speare, whose faces were lyke the faces of lyons, & they were as swyfte as the roes in the mountaynes: Ezer the fyrst, Obadia the second, and Eliab y^e third: Asmana the fourthe, Jeremia the fyfth, Athai the syxth, Eliel the seuenth, Johanan the eyght, Elisabeth the nynt, Jeremia the tenth, Macbeani the eleuenth. These were the sonnes of Gad, & were capaynes ouer the men of war, the small pursued an hundred, and the greata thousande. These are they that went ouer Jordan in the first moneth when he had fylled ouer all his bankes. And they rut to flyght all them of the valley, both towarde the east and weste.

And there came of the chyldre of Ben Jamin, E and Juda to the holde vnto David. And David went out to mete them, and answered and sayd vnto them: Vse ye be come peaceably vnto me, to helpe me, myne hert shalbe knyght vnto you. But and yf you come to betray me to myne aduersaries (seing there is no wickednesse in myne handes) the God of our fathers loke thereon, and rebuke it. And the spyrite came vpon Amasai, whyche was the chiefe amonge theyr type, and he sayd: thyne are we David, and on thy syde then sonne of Iai. * Peace, peace be vnto the, and peace be vnto thyne helpers, for thy God is thy helpe. Then David receyued them, and made them heedes of companyes of the men of warre.

And there fell some of Manasse to David, when he came wth the Philistines agaynst Saul to battayle, * but they helped them not. For the lordes of the Philistines toke aduysment, and sent hym a waye agayne, saying: he wyll fall to his master Saul to the iopardy of our heedes. As he went to zikleg, there fell to hym of Manasse: Adna, Josadab, Jediel, Michael, Josabad, Eliu and zithai, heedes of the thousandes that that were of Manasse. And they holpe Dauid agaynst the roners. For they were all myghtye men of warre, and captaynes in the hooste. For at that tyme there came one or other to Dauid, daye by daye to helpe him: vntyl it was a great hoost, lyke the hooste of God.

And this is the numbze of the chiefe captaynes that were prepared to battayl, and came to Dauid to Hebron to tourne the kingdome of Saul to hym, accordynge to the worde of the Lorde.

The chyldzen of Iuda that bare shylde and speare were syxe thousande and epyght hundred readye prepared to the warre. Of the chyldzen of Simeon men of myght to warre, seuen thousande and one hundred. Of the chyldzen of Leui foure thousande and syxe hundred. And Jehoiada was the chiefe of them of Aaron: and wyth hym thre thousande and seuen hundred. And Zadok a yonge man stronge and valpant, and of hys fathers housholde. xxii. capitaynes. And of the chyldzen of Ben Jamin the brythze of Saul thre thousande. And a great parte of them (dyd vnto that tyme) folowe the house of Saul.

And the chyldzen of Ephraim: xx. thousande and epyght hundred myghtye men of warre, and famous men in the housholde of theyr fathers.

And of the halfe trybe of Manasse. xviij. thousande, which were appoynted by name to come and make Dauid kyng. And of the chyldzen of Zachar whiche were men that had vnderstandynge in the ryght tyme, to knowe ^(how to commaunde) what Israel ought to do. The heedes of them were two hundred, and all theyr brythzen were at theyr wyll. And of Zabulon that went out to battayle, and proceded forth to the war: wyth all maner instrumentes of warre, fytte thousande that were prepared to the war wyth out any doublenesse of herte. And of Nephtali a thousande captaynes, and with them wth shylde and speare. xxxvii. thousande. And of Dan prepared to battayle. xxviii. thousande and syxe hundred. And of Aser that went out to y^r warre and kept the fore fronte of the battayle, fourtye thousande. And of the other syde of Jordan of the Rubenytes and Gaddytes, and of the halfe trybe of Manasse wyth all maner of instrumentes of war, a hundred and twentye thousande.

All these were men of warre, keppynge the forefront of y^r battayle wth perfect herte, & came to Hebron to make Dauid king ouer al Israel. And all y^r rest of Israel was of one accorde, to make Dauid kyng. And there they were wth Dauid. iij. dayes eating & drynkynge, for theyr brythze had prepared for the. Moreover they y^r were nye the vntyl Isaac, zabulon and Nephtali brought bread on asses, camels, mules, & oxen and meat, floure, spygges, reysynges, wyne and oyle, ore & shepe abundantly. For ther was ioy in Israel.

The. xlii. Chapter.

The arke is brought agayne from Ierich to Ierusalem. Uza (otherwyse called Osa) dyeth.

And Dauid counsayled with the captaynes of thousandes and hundredes, and with all the lordes, and sayd vnto all the congregation of Israel: If it seme you good, and to be of y^r Lorde oure God we wyll take and sende vnto our brythzen, that are left in all the lande of Israel: and with them also, to the pze stes and Leuytes whych are in theyr cyties and suburbs, to gather them toggyther vnto vs. And we wyll bypnye agayne the arke of the Lorde to vs, for we regarded it not in the dayes of Saul. And all the congregacion was content that he shoulde do so, for the thing semed good in the eyes of all the people.

So Dauid gathered all Israel to gyther fro Shioz in Egypt, vnto the entrynge of Hemach, to bypnye the arke of the Lorde from Epyriath Iearim. And Dauid went vp and all Israel to an hye place towardes Epyriath Iearim, that was in Iuda, to fet thence the arke of the Lorde God that dwelleth betwene the cherubes wher his name is called on. And they carped the arke of God in a newe carte out of the house of Abinadab. And Uza and his brother gupded y^r cart. And Dauid and all Israel played before y^r arke of God wth all theyr myght, wyth syngynge and harpes, psalteryes, and tymbrels and trumpettes. And when they came vnto the thresyngge floore of Chidon, Uza put forth his had to hold the arke, for the oxen ^(being a lytle wyld) stabled. And the Lorde was wroth wyth Uza, & smote hym, bycause he put his hande to the arke. And there he dyed before God. And Dauid was out of quete, bycause the Lorde had rent a rente in Uza, and he called the name of that place the retyngge of Uza vnto this daye. And Dauid was afrayed of God that daye, sayynge: howe shal I bypnye the arke of God home to me? And so Dauid brought not the arke home to hym to the cytye of Dauid: but carped it into the house of Obed Edom a Gethite. And the arke of God remained wyth Obed Edom, euen in hys house thre monethes. And the Lorde blessed the house of Obed Edom, and all that he had.

The. xliii. Chapter.

Uziam sendeth wood and workmen to Dauid, whych hath two victories of the Philistynes.

Uziam the kyng of Tyze sent messengers to Dauid, and tymbre of Cedre trees, with malons and carpenters to buyde hym an house. And Dauid percepued that the Lorde had confyrmmed hym kyng vpon Israel, and that his kyngdom was lift vp on hye, bycause of his people Israel. And Dauid toke yet mo wyues at Ierusalem, and begat mo sonnes and doughters. These are the names of his chyldzen whych were borne vnto him at Ierusalem: Samua, Sobab, Natha, and Salomon: Jibbar, Elisua & Eliphalet, Noga, Repheg & Iaphia, Elisama, Belitaba, and Eliphalet. And when the Philistynes heard that Dauid was annoynted kyng vpon Israel: all the Philistynes went vnto seeke Dauid. And Dauid herde of it, and went out agaynst them. And the Philistynes came in, and prauenced thero we the valey of Rephaim. And Dauid asked counsaile at God, sayynge: shall I go agaynst the Philistynes, and wylt thou delpue them in to myne hande? And the Lorde sayd vnto hym: I. y. go y^r go vp, for I wyl delyuer them into thynne hand And so they came vp to Baal Perazim and Dauid smote them there. And Dauid sayde: God hath deuyded myne enemyes wth myne hande as a man woulde deuyde water. And therfore they called the name of that place: Baal Perazim. And when they had left theyr goddes there Dauid gaue a commaundement, and they were burned wth fyre.

D And the Philistines came togyther agayne, & rushed into the valleye. And Dauid asked agayne at God. And God sayd to hym: go not vp after them, but turne away fro them, that thou mayest come vpon them ouer agaynst the peretrees. And when thou hearest a sounde, goo in the toppes of the peretrees, then go oute to bat taye: for God is gone forth before the, to smite the hoost of the Philistines. Dauid therfore dyd as God commaunded hym: and they smote the hoost of the Philistines from Gibeon to Gazer. And the fame of Dauid went out into al landes and the Lorde made all nacions feare hym.

The xv. Chapter.

The Leuytes bynge the arke agayne. Dauid daunce synge before it, is despyled of hys wyfe Michol.

And Dauid made him houses in Jerusaleme, & prepared a place for the arke of God, & pytched for it a tent. Then Dauid sayd: the arke of god ought not to be caried, but of the Leuytes. For them hath the Lorde chosen, to beare the arke of the Lorde, and to mynstre vnto hym for euer. And Dauid gathered all Israel togyther to Jerusalem to fetch the arke of the Lorde vnto hys place whiche he had ordeyned for it.

And Dauid broughte togyther the chyldren of Aaron and the Leuytes. Of the sonnes of Cahath was Uziel the chyefe, and of hys brethren there were an hundred and twenty. Of the chyldren of Merari, Asaia the chyefe, and of hys brethren two hundred and twenty. Of the sonnes of Gerson, Joel the chyefe: and of hys brethren an hundred and thyrtye. Of the chyldren of Elisaphan, Semata the chyefe: and of hys brethren two hundred. Of the sonnes of Hebron, Eliel the chyefe, and of hys brethren. lxxx. Of the sonnes of Uziel: Aminadab the chyefe: and of hys brethren an hundred and twelue.

B And Dauid called Zadock and Abiathar the prestes and the Leuytes, Uziel, Asaia, Joel, Semia, Eliel, and Aminadab: and sayde vnto the pe that are the principal fathers of the Leuytes, that ye be holpe with youre brethren, that ye maye byng in the arke of the Lorde God of Israel, vnto the place that I haue prepared for it. For bycause ye were not there at the fyrst, the Lorde our God made a rente amonge vs, for that we sought hym not, as the fashion ought to be. So the prestes & the Leuytes sanctified them selues to set the arke of the Lorde God of Israel. And the chyldren of the Leuytes bare the arke of God vpon their shoulers wth stauys theron, as Moses commaunded: accordyng to the worde of the Lorde.

C And Dauid spake to the chefe heades of the Leuytes: that they shoulde appoynt certayne of theyr brethren to synge wth instrumentes of musycke, psalteries, harpes and cymbales: that they myght make a sounde, and to synge on byrth wth ioyfulnesse: And the Leuytes appoynted Heman the sonne of Joel: and (of his brethren) Asaph the sonne of Berachia: and of the sonnes of Merari and of theyr brethren: Ethan the sonne of Chusaiahu. And wth them theyr brethren of the seconde degree: zachariahu, Ben Jaazel, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Anni, Eliab, Benaiahu, Maasias, Mathathiahu, Eliphalehu, Mikniah, Obed, Edom, and Jael porters. So Heman, Asaph and Ethan the syngers made a sounde wth cymbales of brasse: And zachariahu, Aziel, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Anni, Eliab, Maasias, & Benaiahu played wth psalteries on an Alamoth. Mathathiahu, Eliphalehu, Mikniah, Obed Edom, Jehiel and Azaziah, played vpon harpes an eyght aboue wth courage. And Chenaniahu the chefe of the Leuytes, was master of the song, for he taughte other to synge, bycause he was a man of vnderstandynge.

Berechias and Elkana kepte the doore of the arke. And Decaniahu Jeholaphat, Methanael, Amasai, zachariahu, Banaiahu, and Eliezer, the prestes dyd blowe wth trompettes before the arke of God. And Obed Edom and Jehia, were the keepers of the doore of the arke.

* And Dauid and the elders of Israel and the captaynes ouer thousandes, went to fet the arke of the appoyntment of the Lorde oute of the house of Obed Edom wth gladnesse. And whē god helped the Leuytes that bare the arke of the appoyntment of the Lorde, they offered seuen oxen and seuen rammes. And Dauid had on hym a linnen garment, lyke as had also all the Leuytes that bare the arke, and so had the syngers & Chenania the ruler of the song wth the syngers. And Dauid had vpon hym an Ephod of lynn. And all they of Israel broughte the arke of the Lordes couenaunt wth shoutyng and blowing of the shawme and trompettes makyng a noyse wth cymbales, psalteries and harpes.

And as the arke of the appoyntment of the Lorde came into the cytie of Dauid, Michol the daughter of Saul lokyng oute at a wyndowe sawe kynge Dauid dauncyng and playeng, & she despyled hym in her herte.

The xvi. Chapter.

Dauid ordeyneth Asaph and hys brethren to mynstre before the Lorde. He hym selfe prayseth the Lorde God of Israel.

So they brought in the arke of God, & set it in the myddes of the tent, that Dauid pytched for it, and they offered burnt sacrifices and peace offerynges before God. And when Dauid hadde made an ende of offryng the burnt offerynges and peace offerynges, he blessed the people in the name of the Lorde. And he dealt to all Israel (both mā and woman) a craknel of bread, & a good pyece of fleshe, and a flacket of wyne.

And he appoynted certayn of the Leuytes to mynstre before the Lorde, and to repeate and to thanke and prayse the Lorde God of Israel.

And

David

And Asaph was the chefe, and nexte to hym Zacharia, Jehiel, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Marbathia, Eliab, Benai, * Obed Edom, and Jehiel wyth psalteries and harpes. But Asaph made a sonde wyth cymbales. Banasahu and Jahaziel preestes, blew wyth trompettes continuallye before the arke of the couenaunt of God.

And that same tyme David dyd appoynt che fy to thanke y Lord by Asaph and his brethren. * O gyue thanks vnto the Lord, call vpon his name, make his actes knowne among y people. Synge vnto hym, and playe vnto hym: talke of all his wondrefull dedes. Retopse in his holy name: let the hartes of them that seke the Lord be glad. Seke the Lord and his strength: seke his presence alwaye.

Remembre his maruayles whyche he dyd, and his wonders, and the iudgementes of his mouth. The seed of Israel are his seruantes the chyldren of Jacob are his chosen. He is the lord our God, in all landes are his iudgementes. Thynke on his appoyntment for euer: (and on the worde which he commaunded to a thousande generacions) whyche he made with Abraham, and of his oth to Isaac: which he set before Jacob for a decree, and to Israel for an euerlasting couenaunt, saying: to the wyll I gyue the lande of Chanaan, to be the porcyon of youre enherytaunce. When ye were fewe, and small in nombe, and sojourners therein. And they walked from nation to nation, and from one kyngdom to an other people. He suffered nomā to do them wronge: but rebuked euen kynges for theyr sake. Touch not myne annoynted, and do my prophetes no harme.

* Synge vnto the Lord all the earth, and shewe from daye to daye his saluation.

Tell of his glorie amonge the hepythen: his wondrefull dedes amonge all nations.

For great is y Lord, and worthy to be praised exceedingly, he is to be feared aboue al gods.

For all the goddes of the people are of no vale. But the Lord made heauen.

Prayle and honour are in his presence, strength, and gladnesse are in his place.

Ascribe vnto the Lord ye hundrethys of people: Ascribe to the Lord, glorie and dominion.

Ascribe vnto the Lord the glorie due vnto his name: bringe sacrifices and come before hym, and worshippe the Lord wyth holy honour.

Let all the earthe feare hym, although the compass of the earthe so be stablished that it can not be moued: let the heauens retopse, and lette the earth be glad, and let men tel among the nations, that the Lord is kyng.

Let the see thande, and the fulnesse thereof: let the felde retopse and all that is therein.

Then shal the trees of the wood retopse at the presence of the Lord, because he cometh to iudge the earth: O gyue thanks vnto y Lord for he is good, for his mercie endureth for euer: and save ye: saue vs (O God) of oure saluacion, gather vs togyther, & deliuer vs from amonge the hepythen, y we may giue thanks to thy holy name, & triumph in the prayse of the. Blessed be the Lord God of Israel for euer and euer: and let all people saye: Amen: and prayse the Lord.

And so he left there before the arke of the Lordes couenaunt Asaph & his brethren, to minister before the arke continually, in suche thynges as were to be done daye by daye: (and that) by theyr courses. And Obed Edom & his brethren threescore and eght: and Obed Edom the sonne of Jeduthun, and Hosa, were appoynted to be porters. And Zadok the preest and his brethren the preestes, were before the Tabernacle of the Lord, in the hye place that was at Gibeon, to offere burnt offrynges vnto the Lord, vpon the burnt offring alter perpetually, in the morning and euening: accordyng vnto all that which is wyrtten in the lawe of the Lord, which he commaunded Israel. And with them were Heman, and Jeduthun, & other that were chosen (whose names were expessed) to gyue thanks to the Lord, that his mercie laste euer. And wyth them dyd Heman and Jeduthun singe with the trompettes and cymbales, makyng a swete melody with instrumentes of musyke and goodlye songes. And the sonnes of Jeduthun were porters. And all the people departed euery man to his house: & David returned to blesse his house.

The xvii. Chapter.

David is forbidden to buye an house vnto the Lord. Hise is prompted vnder the figure of Salomon.

And it fortuneth, that when David dwelt in his house, he sayd to Nathan the prophete: lo, I dwell in an house of Cedar tre but y arke of the Lordes couenaunt remaineth vnder curtaynes: And Nathan sayde to David: do all that is in thynne hert for God is wyth the.

And y same tyme it fortuneth, that the word of God came to Nathan, sayinge: Go, and tell David my seruant, thus sayeth the Lord: thou shalt not buyde me an house to dwel in. For I haue dwelt in no house, syns y day y brought oute the chyldren of Israel vnto this daye: but haue gone from tent to tent, and from one habitation to an other. And wher soeuer I haue walked wyth all Israel, spake I euer one worde to any of the iudges of Israel (whom I commaunded to fede my people) saying: why haue ye not buylt me an house of Cedar tre? Now therfore thus shalt thou saye vnto my seruant David: thus sayeth the Lord of hostes: I toke the oure of the pastures when thou wentest after shepe, that thou that thou shouldest be capitayne ouer my people Israel. And I haue bene wyth the wythther soe uer thou haste walked, and haue wedded out all thyne enemyes out of thy syght, and haue made the a name, lyke the name ^{*(of one)} of the greatest men that are in the earth. And I haue ordeyned a place for my people Israel, & made it fast, so that now they maye dwel in theyr place, and moue nomore: Neyther shal the chyldren of wickhednesse were them any moze, as at the begynnyng. And syng the tyme that I commaunded iudges to be ouer my people Israel: I haue subdued al thyne enemyes, and I told the, that the Lorde woulde buylde the an house.

C This also shal come to passe: when thy dayes be expyred, that thou must go vnto thy fathers: I wyl rayse vp thy seed after the, whych shalbe of thy sonnes, and wyl prepare for hym the kynngdome: he shal buylde me an house, and I wyl stablish his seate for euer: I wyl be hys father and he shalbe my sonne: and I wyl not take my mercy awaye from hym, as I toke it from hym that was before the. But I wyl let him in mine house, and in my kynngdome for euer, and his seate shalbe sure for euermoze.

According to all these wordes, & accordyng to al this visio, did Nathā tel king David. And David the kynge came and sat before the Lord and sayd: what am I (O Lord God) and what is myne householde, that thou hast promoted me thus farre? And yet this semed lytle in thyne eyes, O God, But thou hast also spoken of thy seruautes house, for a great while to come: and hast looked vpon me as vpon a man of hye degree. (O Lord God.) What shall David desyre moze of the for the honour of thy seruaunt? O Lorde for thy seruautes sake, Ieue accordyng to thyne owne herte, hast thou done all this magnificēce to the we all great thinges, Lorde, there is none lyke the: neyther is there any god saue thou: accordyng to all that we haue herde with oure eares. Moreover, what nacion on the earth is lyke thy people Israel, to whom God hath vouchsafed to come and redeme the to be hys owne people, and to make thy name of an excellencie and terribleness, with castyng out nations from before thy people, whome thou hast deliuered out of Egypt.

D Thy people Israel dyddest thou make thyne owne people for euer, and thou becamest theyr God. Therefore now Lorde, let the thyng that thou hast spoken concernyng thy seruaunt and his house, be true for euer, that thou do as thou haste sayde: let it come to passe, that thy name maye be magnified for euer, that it may be said the Lorde of hostes is God of Israel) euen the God of Israel) and the house of David thy seruaunt endureth stable before the. For thou (O my God) hast told thy seruaunt, that thou wilt buylde hym an house. And therefore thy seruaunt hath founde in his hert to pray before the. And now Lorde thou art God, and haste promysed this goodnesse vnto thy seruaunt. Nowe therefore, let it be thy pleasure, to blesse the house of thy seruante, that it maye contynue before the for euer. For whom thou blessest (O Lorde) the same is blessed for euer.

C. The. xviii. Chapter.

The battayle of David agaynst the Philistines.

After this it fortuneth, that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them, and toke Geth, and the towne that *longed thereto, out of the hand of the Philistines. And he smote Moab, and the Moabites became Davids seruautes, and payed hym trybute. And David smote Hadarezer kynge of zoba vnto Hanath, as he went to stablish his dominion by the ryuer Euphrates. And David toke from hym a thousand charettes, and seuen thousand horsemen, and twenty thousande footemen: and lamed al the charethorses, and reserued of them and hundred charettes. And when the Syrians of Damasco came to helpe Hadarezer kynge of zoba: David slue of the Syrians. xxi. thousand and David subdued Siria Damasco. And the Syrians became Davids seruautes: & brought hym trybute. And the Lorde preserued David in all that he went to:

And David toke the chyldes of golde that were on the seruautes of Hadarezer, & brought them to Ierusalem. And from Gebath, and from Chun (citties of Hadarezer) brought David exceedinge moche brasle. Wher wyth Salomon made the brasen lauatoze: *the pylers and the vessels of brasle.

And when Cou kynge of Hemath bred bad David had beaten al the strength of Hadarezer kynge of zoba, he sente Haduran hys sonne to kynge David, to make peace wyth hym, and to blesse hym, bycause he had fought agaynst Hadarezer, and beaten hym (for Cou had warre wyth Hadarezer) and David brought al maner iewels of golde, syluer and brasle wyth hym. And kynge David dedicated them vnto the Lord, with the syluer and golde that he brought from all nations: from Edom, from Moab, from the chyldren of Ammon, from the Philistines, and from Amalecke. And Abisai the sonne of zeruah slue of the Edomites in the salte halleye. xviii. thousande, and put souldyers in Edom, and all the Edomites became Davids seruautes. Thus the Lorde kept David in all that he toke in hande.

And David raygned ouer Israel, and executed iudgemente and ryghteousnesse amonge all his people. And Joab the sonne of zeruah was ouer the host. And Jehosaphat the sonne of Achilud recorder: and Zadock the sonne of Abitob, and Abimelech the sonne of Abiathar were the preestes, and Sausa was scribe, and Banaihu the sonne of Jehoiada was ouer the Cherethites and Phelthites, and the eldest sonnes of David were next vnto the kynge.

C. The. xix. Chapter.

Hamon kynge of the sonnes of Ammon doth great iniuries to the seruautes of David.

After this it chaunced, that *Nabas the kynge of the chyldren of Ammon dyed, & hys sonne raygned in his steede. And David sayde

David sayde: I wylle the we kyndnesse vnto Hanon the son of Nabal: because his father delt kyndlye wyth me. And David sente messengers to comforte hym ouer the death of hys father.

And the seruantes of David came into the lande of the chyldren of Ammon to Hanon, to comforte hym. But the lordes of the chyldren of Ammon sayde to Hanon: thynkest thou that David doth honour thy father in thy sight, that he hath sent comforters vnto the? Are not his seruantes come to search, to loke & spye out y land?

Wherfore Hanon toke Davids seruantes (and polded them) and haued them, & cut of theyr cootes harde by theyr buttockes, and sent them away. And there wente certayne and tolde David: howe the men were serued. And the kynge sent to mete them (for the men were excedyngely ashamed) and the kynge sayd: tarp at Jericho vntyl your beardes be grownen: & then returne.

And when the chyldren of Ammon sawe that they stanke in the syghte of David, Hanon and the chyldren of Ammon sent a thousande talentes of siluer, to hyre them charettes and hoxme out of Mesopotamia and oute of Siria, Maacha, and oute of zoba. And they hyred. xxii. thousande charettes, and the kynge of Maacha and his people, which came and pitched before Meoba. And the chyldren of Ammon gathered the selues togyther fro theyr cyties, and came to batayl. And when David herde of it, he sent Joab and all the hoost of stronge men. And the chyldren of Ammon came out, and put them selues in aray to battayle before y gate of the cite. And the kynge that were come, kept them by them selues backe in the felde.

When Joab also sawe that the fronte of the battayle was agaynst him before and behynde he chose out al the chosen men of Israel, and put them in aray agaynst the Sirians. And y rest of the people he deliuered vnto the hand of Abisai hys brother, & they put them selues in aray agaynst the chyldren of Ammon. And he sayde: If the Sirians be to stronge for me, thou shalt succour me: and if the chyldren of Ammon preuaile agaynst the, I wylle helpe the: Plucke vp thyne hert, and let vs play the men: for our peoples sake and for the cyties of our God, and the Lorde shall do that wythch is good in hys owne syght. So Joab and the people that were with hym: dreyne before the Sirians vnto the battayle, and they fledde before hym. And whē the chyldren of Ammon sawe that the Sirians were fled, they ranne awaye lykewyse before Abisai hys brother, and gate them into the cite. And Joab came to Jerusalem.

And when the Sirians sawe that they were put to the worse before Israel, they sent messengers and fet out the Sirians that were beyond the ryuer, and Soppach the captayne of y hooste of Hadarezer wente before them. And it was tolde David: and he gathered all Israel, & went togyther ouer Jordan, and came & set vpon them. And when David had put hym selfe in aray agaynst the Sirians, they fought wyth hym. But the Sirians fled before Israel. And Da-uid destroyed of y Sirians seue thousand charettes, and. xl. thousande footemen, & kylled Soppach the captayne of the hooste. And when the seruantes of Hadarezer, sawe that they were put to y worse before them of Israel: they made peace with David, and became his seruantes. Neether wolde the Sirians helpe the chyldren of Ammon any moze.

The. xx. Chapter.

The thre moost vycerious battayles of David.

And it came to passe y after the yere was expired (* about y tyme that kynge go out a warrefare:) Joab carped out the army of the hoost, & * destroyed the country of the chyldren of Ammon, and came and beleged Rabba and destroyed it: But David tarped at Jerusalem whyle Joab smote Rabba and destroyed it. * And David toke the crowne of theyr kynge, from of his heed, & founde that it had y weyght of a talent of golde, and there were precious stones in it: and it was ordeyned for Davids head. And he broughte also excedyngely moche spole out of the cytie. And he brought out the people that were in it: & tormented them wyth sawes, and harowes of yron, and wyth other sharpe instrumentes, and so dealt David wyth all the cyties of the chyldren of Ammon. And David and all the people came agayne to Jerusalem. * After this it fortuned, that there arose warre at Gazer wyth the Philistines. At wyche tyme Sobak the Gushathite slue Shippai, that was of y chyldre of * Rephaim & they were subdued.

And there was battayle agayne wyth the Philistines: and Elhanan the sonne of Jaie slue Lahemi, the brother of Goliath the Gethyite, whose speare was lyke a weauers beame. And there chauced yet agayne warre at Geth, wher as was a mā of a great stature, wyth. xliii. fingers and toes. vi. on euery hand and. vi. on euery foote: and was the sonne of Raphah. But when he defyed Israel, Jehonathan the sonne of Simea Davids brother slue hym. These were bozne vnto Raphah at Geth, & were ouerthrowen in the hande of David: and in the hande of hys seruantes.

The. xxi. Chapter.

David caused the people to be nombred, and there dye. lxx. thousande men of the pestilence.

And Sathan stode vp agaynst Israel & prouoked David to nombre Israel. And David said to Joab: & to the rulers of y people: go ye and nombre Israel fro Beerseba to Dan, and bring it to me y I may know the nombre of them. And Joab answered: the Lord make his people an hundred tymes so many as they be. But my lord, wher are they not all my lordes seruantes? wher doth my lord requyre this thyng? wher wylle my lord be a cause of trespassse to Israel?

Neuerthelesse, the kynge was perswaded agaynst Joab. And Joab departed and walked thowowe out all them of Israel, and came to Jerusalem agayne, & gaue the nombre of y count of y people vnto David. And all they of Israel were were a thousande, and an hundredde thousande men that drewe swearde: and Juda was. cccc. lxx. thousande men that drewe swerde. But the Levites and Ben Jamin counted he not among them. For the kynges worde was abhominable to Joab. And the Lord was displeased with this thyng: and smote Israel. And David sayd vnto God: I haue synned excedynglye in doing this thyng. And now (I beseeche the) do awaye the wyckednesse of thy seruante, for I haue done very foolyschly.

B And the Lord spake vnto Gad Dauids sear, sayeng: go and tell David, sayenge: Thus sayeth the Lord: I gyue the, the choyle of thre thynges: chole the one of them, that I maye do vnto the. And Gad came to David, and said vnto him. Thus sayth the Lord: Chole the eyther thre yeaeres famyshment, or thre monethes to be destroyed befoze thyne aduersaries, and the swearde of thyne enemyes maye ouertake the, or els the swearde of the Lord and pestilence in the lande thre dayes: and the aungel of the Lord destroying thowout all the coastes of Israel. And now aduyle thy selfe, what woorde I shal byngne agayne to hym that sente me. And David sayd vnto Gad: I am in an exceding strait. Let me nowe falle into the hande of the Lord, for passynge great are hys mercies, but let me not fall into the hande of men.

C So the Lord sent pestilence vpon Israel and there were ouerthrowe of Israel. lxx. thousand men. And God sent the aungell into Jerusalem to destroy in it. And as he was about to destroy the Lord behelde, and had compassion on þe cypyl and sayd to the aungel þe destroyed: it is ynough let now thy hande cease. And the aungell of the Lord stode by the threschyng floore of Ornan the Jebusite. And David lyft vp his eyes, and sawe the angell of the Lord stand betwene the earth and heauen, haupnge a drawen swearde in hys hande, stretched out towarde Jerusalem. Then David and the elders of Israel, whyche were clothed in sacke, fel vpon theyr faces. And David sayd vnto God: Is it not I that comaunded the people to be nombred? It is I that haue synned and done cypyl in dede, & what haue these shepe done? Let thyne hande (O my God) be on me and my fathers house, but not on thy people that they shoulde be punysched.

And the angell of the Lord comaunded Gad to sape to David, that David shoulde go vp, and set vp an alter vnto the Lord in the threschyng floore of Ornan the Jebusite. And David went vp accordyng to the sayng of Gad, whiche he spake in the name of the Lord. And Ornan turned about, and sawe the aungel, & his foure sonnes were with hym, and byd them selues: But Ornan was threschyng wheate. And as David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and sawe David and went out of the threschyng floore, & bowed hym selfe to David with his face to the ground.

D And David sayd to Ornan: gyue me þe place of the threschyng floore, that I maye buylde an aultare therein vnto the Lord. Thou shalt gyue it me for as moche moneye as it is worth, that the plague may cease from the people. And Ornan sayd vnto David: take it to the, and let my lord the kyng do that which semeth good, in his eyes: lo, I gyue the oxen also for burnt sacrifices, and the threschyng sledes for wood, and wheate for meat offryng: I gyue it all. And kyng David sayd to Ornan, not so: but I wyl bye it for as moche money as it is worth. For I wyl not take that which is thyne for the Lord: nor offre burnt offrynges without cost.

And so David gaue to Ornan for that place sicles of golde. vi. hundred by wayght. And David buylte there an aultare vnto the Lord, and offred burnt offrynges and peace offrynges, and called vpon the Lord, and he berde him fro heauen in fyre vpon the aultare of burnt offrynges. And when the Lord had spoken to the aungel, he put vp his swearde agayne into the sheathe of it. At that tyme when David sawe that þe Lord had hearde hym in the threschyng floore of Ornan the Jebusite, he vled to offre there: For the Tabernacle of the Lord whyche Moses made in the wyldernes, and the aultare of burnt offrynges were at that season in the hyll at Gibeon. And David coude not go befoze it to aske counsaile at God, for he was afrayed of the sweard of the Aungell of the Lord.

The. xii. Chapter.

David wylleth hys sonne Salomon to buylde the temple of the Lord, whyche thyng he hym selfe was forbydden to do.

A And David sayde: this is the house of the Lord god, and this is the aultar for the burnt offrynges of Israel: And David comaunded to gather together the straungers that were in the lade of Israel, and he set masons to hewe free stone for the buyldyng of the house of God. And David prepared plenty of yron for nayles, and dozes of the gates, & to sope with al and aboundaunce of brasle without wayght and cedre trees without nombze. For the zidonians and they of Tyre broughte moche Cedar wood to David. And David sayd: Salomon my sonne is younge and tender, and the house that is to be buylte for the Lord, must excede in greatnesse that it maye be spoken of, & prayled in all lades. I wyl therfore make ordinaunce for it. And so David prepared many thynges befoze his deeth.

And he called Salomon his sonne, and charged hym to buylde an house for the Lord God of Israel. And David sayde to Salomon: my sonne, I thoughte (as it was in myne herte) to buylde an house vnto the name of the Lord my God. But þe worde of the Lord came to me sayng: thou hast shed moch bloode, and hast made great battayles: thou shalt therfore not buylde an house vnto my name: for þe hast shed moch bloode vpon the earth in my syght. Beholde, a sonne is bozne to the, and he shal be a man of rest: for I wyl gyue hym rest from all hys enemyes rounde about. For his name is Salomon: and I wyl send rest & peace vpo Israel in hys dayes. He shal buylde an house for my name, and he shal be my sonne, and I wyl be his father, and wyl prepare the seate of his kyngdome vpon Israel for ever. Nowe therfore my sonne, the Loide be with the, and prosper the, and þ shalt buiþde the house to the name of the Loide, thy God: as he hath sayd of the. And the Loide shal gyue the wysdome & vnderstandynge, and shal gyue the commaundementes for Israel, that ye may kepe the lawe of the Loide thy God. For then thou shalt prosper: euen when thou takest bede, and fulfyllest the statutes & lawes whych þ Lord charged Moyses with for Israel. Bluck þ thynne herte therfore, and be stronge, dreade not, nor be discouraged. Beholde, in myne ad-uersitie haue I also prepared for the house of the Loide, an hundred thousande talentes of golde & a thousande thousande talentes of syluer, & as for brasse and yron it can not be numbred, for it is verpe moche. And I haue prepared tymbre & stone, & thou mayst prouyde more therto. More ouer, thou hast workmen with the ynough, and malons, and carpenters to woork in stone and tymbre, and many men that be actiue for euery wozke. And of golde, syluer, brasse, and yron, there is no nombze. Up therfore, and be doinge, and the Loide shal be wyth the.

And Dauid commaunded al the lordes of Israel to helpe Salomon his sone sapenge: Is not the Loide your God with you? & hath he not gyuen you rest on euery side? for he hath gyuen the inhabitours of þ land into my hand, and the lād is subdued before the Loide and before þys people. Nowe therfore let your hertes and soules to like the Lord your God. Up, & buiþde ye þ temple of the Lord God to byng the arke of the couenaunt of the Loide and þ holy vessels of God into the house so buyt for the name of the lord.

The. xxiii. Chapter.

Dauid beyng olde, ordeyned Salomon kynge.
He caugeth the Leuytes to be nombred, and as-signeth them to theyr offces.

When Dauid was olde and fulle of dayes, * he made Salomon þys sonne kynge ouer Israel. And then he gathered togyther all the lordes of Israel w the prestes and þ Leuites. And the Leuites wer nombred from the age of. xxx. yere and aboue, & the nombze and summe of them was. xxx. & viii thousand me. Of whych. xxi. thousande were set to further the wozke of the house of þ Loide.
And fyre thousande were offycers and iudges.
Foure thousande were porters, and foure thousande prayled the Loide wyth such instrumetes as was made to praple wythall.

And so Dauid put an ordze amonge them de-uyngge them in partes. Of the chyldzen of Le-ui, Gerson, Cahath, & Merari: Of the Gersonites was Laada & Semei. The sonnes of Laada the chefe was Jehiel, zethan & Joel thye. The so-nes of Semei: Selomith, haziel & Harā, thye.
These were the aunciet fathers of Laada. And the sonnes of Semei were Jathath, zina, Jous, & Beria: these foure were the sonnes of Semei.
And Jathath was the chefe, zina þ seconde. But Jous and Beria had not many sonnes, therfore they were in one rekenynge accordynge to theyr fathers householde, reked for one aunciet houshold. The sonnes of Cahath, Amra, Jazar, hebron & Aziel foure. * The sonnes of Amran: Naron & Moyses. And Aaro was seperated to haue the rule of þ holy thynges in þ place moost holy be and his sonnes for euer, & to burne incence before the Lord, and to minister vnto hym, and to blesse in his name for euer. Moyses also the man of God, and his chldzen, were named with the trybe of Leui. The sonnes of Moyses, Gerson, & Eliezer. Of the sonnes of Gerson: Sebul was the chefe. The sonnes of Eliezer Rehabia þ chefe.

And Eliezer had none other sonnes: But þ son-nes of Rehabia were very many. The sonnes of Jazar, Salomith the chefe: The sonnes of hebron: Jeriabū the fyrst, Amaria the seconde, Jahaziel the thyrde, and Jecaniām the fourth.

The sonnes of Aziel: Micha the fyrste, & Jesia the seconde. The sonnes of Merari: Mahli & Musli. The sonnes of Mahli, Eleazar and Cis.
And Eleazar dyed, & had no sonnes, but doughters, & theyr bzyethen the sonnes of Cis toke the.
The sonnes of Musli: Mahli, Eder & Jerimoth, thye. These are the chyldze of Leui after þ house-holde of theyr fathers, eue the aunciet of the fathers accordynge to theyr offces, and after the nombze & summe of the names of them that dyd the wozke in the seruyce of þ house of the Loide from the age of twenty yeres and aboue. And Dauid sayd: the Loide God of Israel hath gyuen rest vnto his people, that they may dwell in Jerusalem for euer. That the Leuites also shulde nowe nomore beare the tabernacle & all the vessels for the seruyce thereof: for accordynge to the last wordes of Dauid: the Leuites were nombred from twenty yere, & aboue, & theyr offce was vnder the handes of the sonnes of Aaro, for the seruyce of þ house of the Loide, in the courtes & celles, & in þ purifyng of al holy thynges, and in the wozke of þ seruyce of þ house of God. In the shewe bread, in the fyne floure, in the meat offeryng, in the wafers of swete brrad, in þ fryng panne, in þ grydyng, & in all maner of measures and cyse, & to stande euerye daye in the morn-ynge, to thanke and praple the Lord, & so lyke wylc at euen. And to offre al burnt sacrifices vnto the Loide, in the Sabbothes, in þ newe moo-nes, and on the feastfull dayes by nombze and custome continually (as they were commaunded) before the Loide. And that they shoulde wayte on the tabernacle of wytnesse, and on the holpe place, and on the sonnes of Aaron theyr bzyethen in the seruyce of the house of the Loide.

The. xxiiii. Chapter.

Dauid assigneth offces vnto the sonnes of Aaron.

These are the deuisions of the sonnes of Aaron. The sonnes of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, & Jthamar. * Nadab also & Abihu, dyed before their father, and had no childzen: But Eleazar and Jthamar executed the prestes offce. And Dauid ordred them on this maner: zadoch of the sonnes of Eleazar, and Ahimelek of the sonnes of Jthamar were accordynge to theyr offces in theyr ministration. And there were mo aunciet me tofide amonge the sonnes of Eleazar, then the sonnes of Jthamar. And thus were they ordred togy-ther

ther: Amonge the sonnes of Eleazar there wer fytene rulers, accordynge to the houtholde of theyr fathers, and eyght amonge the sonnes of Jthamar, accordynge to the houtholde of theyr fathers. And thus were they put in orde by lot the one sorte from the other, and so were there rulers in the Sanctuary and lordes before God as wel of the sonnes of Jthamar as of the sonnes of Eleazar. And Semei the sonne of Nathaneel the scribe, of the kynred of y Leuites wrote them before the kynge & the lordes, and before zadocke the prest, and Ahimeleche the sonne of Abiathar, & before the auncient fathers, before y prestes and y Leuites, one principal houthold beyng reserved for Eleazar & one for Jthamar.

25 And the fyrst lot fel to Jehoiarib, and the seconde to Jedaia. The thyrde to Harim, and the fourth to Sebozim. The fyfth to Melchia, and the syxte to Miamin. The seventh to Hakos, and the eyght to Abia. The nynt to Jesua, and the tenth to Secanias. The eleuenth to Eliasyb, and the twelvethe to Jakim. The thyrteent to Hupa, and y fourtenth to Jesebeab. The fyftenth to Bilga, & the syxtenth to Immer. The seuenteth to Hezir, and the eyghteth to Hapzez.
The nyntetenth to Bathabias, and the twentieth to Jeshkel. The xxi. to Jachin, and the xxii. to Gamul. The xxiii. to Deliab, and the xxiiii. to Maasiab.

These are y ordynances of them in theyr offices, whē they cam into y house of y Lord accor-dyng to theyr maner vnder Aaron theyr father as the Lord God of Israel had comaunded hym.

C The rest of the sonnes of Leui are these: of the sonnes of Amram, Subael, of the sonnes of Subael, Jehediab. Of the sonnes of Rehabia: the first Jesia. Of the Jezaharites, Selomoth. Of the sonnes of Selomoth, Jebath. His sonnes Jeriab, the fyrst, Amariab y seconde. Jahaziel the thyrde, and Jekameam the fourth. Of the sonnes of Misael, Micha. Of the sonnes of Mi-cha, Samir. The brother of Micha was Jilia.
Of the sonnes also of Jilia, zechariab. The so-nes of Merari were Mahli and Musi. The son-nes of Jabaiah, Beno. The sonnes of Merari by Jabaiah, Beno, Sobē, zacur and Jbzi.
Of Jhebel came Eleazar, and he had no sonnes.
Of his: the sonnes of his, Jerabemeel. The so-nes of Musi: Mahli, Eder and Jerimoth.

These are the chyldren of the Leuytes after the houtholde of theyr fathers. And these cast lottes next to theyr brethren the sonnes of Aaron, in the presence of David the kynge, of zadocke and Ahimelech & the auncient fathers, prestes, and Leuites: euen the principall fathers before theyr yonger brethren: (the lot made equali dy-tribution amonge them all)

The xxv. Chapter.

The syngers are appoynted, with theyr places and lottes.

A And so David and the captaynes of the hoost appoynted out to do seruice: the sonnes of Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun when they dyd pro-phete, with harpes, psalterpes, & cymbales. And there was a multitude of the mē that were appoynted to the seruice and myn-

Nathanias, and Aserela that wayted on Asaph which propheted by the kynge.

Of Jeduthun: the sonnes of Jeduthun, Gedlahu, zeri, Jesaiab, Alabiab, and Bathabiab, syre: vnder the handes of theyr father Je-duthun, which propheted with an harpe, for th gyue thakes and prayes vnto y Lord. Of Heman: the sonnes of Heman: Bukiab, Nathaniab, Uziel, zebuel, Jerimoth, hanania, Hanani, Eliatha, Gedalti, Romathi, Ezer, Joshekasa, Malothi, Hothir & Mahazioth. All these were the sonnes of Heman which was the kynges lear in the wordes of God to lift vp y borne of the regall dignitie. And God gaue to Heman xiii. sonnes, and thre daughters. All these also were at the hand of theyr father syngyng in the house of the Lord with cymbales, psalteries & harpes, when Asaph, Jeduthun and Heman excuted the seruice in the house of God at the kynges bande. And the multitude of the with theyr brethren that were instruct in the songes of the Lord, euen all that were conynge, were two hundred foure scoze and eyght. And they caste lottes amōg them selues how they shuld wayte as wel for the smal as for the great, for the scho-ler as well as for the scholemayster.

And the fyrst lotte in Asaph, fell to Joseph,
The seconde to Gedeliab (wyth his brethren, and sonnes) which men were twelue. The thrid fell to zacur with his sonnes and brethren, beyng twelue personnes. The fourth to Jzri with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes.

The fyfth to Nathanias with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The syxth to Buki-ab with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The seuenth to Jesarela with hys sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes.

The eyght to Jesaiab with his sonnes & brethren, twelue personnes. The nynt to Nathaniab with his sonnes & brethren, twelue pers.
The tēth to Semei wyth his sonnes and brethren his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The xx.

to Eliabath with hys sonnes and brethren xii. personnes. The xxi. to Hothir with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The xxii. to Gi-dalti with his sonnes and brethren twelue personnes. The xxiii. to Mahazioth with hys son-nes and brethren twelue personnes. The xxiiii. to Romanthi Azer, wyth his sonnes and brethren twelue personnes.

The

The. xxi. Chapter

The porters of the temple are ordeyned, every man to the gate which he shulde kepe.

These are the deuisions of the porters. Among the Cozethites: Melelemlahu the sonne of Roze of the chyldren of Asaph. And the sonnes of Melelemlahu were these: zachariahu the eldest, Jedithel the seconde, zebadia the thyrde, and Jathniel the fourth, Elam the fyfth, Jehohanan the syxt, and Eleonai the seuenth. The sonnes of Obed Edom: Semeia the eldest, Jehosabad the second, Joab the thyrde, Sacar the fourth, and Bethanael the fyfth, Amiel the syxt, Elachar the seuenth, Beulthai the eyght, for God blessed hym.

And to Semeia his son were sonnes bozne, that ruled in the house of theyr father, for they were me of might. The sonnes of Semeia, Othni, Rephael, Obed and Elzabad, and hys brethren were strong me. Elihu, and Samabiah. All these were of the chyldren of Obed Edom, they & theyr chyldren and theyr brethren actpue men of strength to do seruyce, euen .lxiiij. of Obed Edom. And Melchiah had sonnes and brethren actpue men. xlviii. The sonnes of Hosa of the chyldren of Merari: Simri the chiefe, & though he was not the eldest, yet his father set hym in the chiefe place: Melchiah the seconde: Tebaliabu the thyrde, and zachariahu the fourth: al the sonnes and the brethren of Hosa were. xliiij.

Amonge these was deuyned the offyce of the portership that they shulde be auncient men, to wapte with theyr brethren, when they ministred in the house of the Lord. And they cast lottes betwene the great & smal after the household of their fathers, for euery gate. And the lot on the east syde fel vpon Salemetahu. And for zachariahu his son (which was a wise counsailer) they cast lottes, and his lot came out towarde the north.

And Obed Edoms lot fell to the south. And for his sonnes fell to the houses of Asuphim. For Suphim and Hosa towarde the west, with the gate that standeth towarde the hyer waye: one wathe being ouer agaynst an other.

In the east were syre Leuites: & towarde the north iiii. a day, towarde the south iiii. a daye, and toward Asuphim, two & two. In Pharbar toward the west, two at the going vp, and two in Pharbar. These are the deuisions of the porters amonge the sonnes of Cozeh, and amonge the sonnes of Merari. And of the Leuytes, Abiah had the ouersight of the treasure of the house of God, and of the treasure of the dedicate thynges.

As concernyng the sonnes of Laadan whiche were the chyldren of the Gersonites. Of Laadan, came auncient fathers: eue of Laadan there came Gersuni & Jehieli: The sonnes of Jehieli: zetha and Joel his brother, which were ouer the treasures of the house of the Lord. Of the Amramites also & Izabartes, hebronites & Dzielites was Sabuel the sonne of Gerson, the sonne of Moses, a ruler ouer the treasures. And of his brethren the sonnes of Eliezer was Rahabiah, whose son was Asatihu, whose son was Joza, whose sonne was zichi, whose sonne was Selomith, which Selomith and his brethren were ouer all the treasures of the dedicate thynges which Dauid the kynge, and the auncient fathers the captaynes ouer thousandes & hundredes, and the captaynes of the hoost had dedycated of the spoyle wonne in battayles: they dyd dedicate them to mayntayne the house of the Lorde: and all that Samuel the sear, and Saul the son of Cis and Abner the sonne of Ner, and Joab the sonne of zaruia had dedicated, and whosoever had dedicate anye thyng, it was vnder the bande of Selomith, and of his brethren.

Of the Izabartes was Chenanaihu and his sonnes, appoynted to the busynesse withoutforth ouer Israel, for they were officers and iudges. And of the hebronites, Asabiahu and hys brethren men of actpuitie, a thousande, and seuen hundred were offpcers amonge them of Israel beyonde Jordan westwarde, in al busynesse belonging to God, and seruyce of the kynge. Amonge the hebronites was Jedia the chiefe, euen a prince amonge the hebronites & fathers of hys kynred. And in the .xl. yere of the kyngdome of Dauid they were sought for. And there were founde amonge them, men of actiuitie at Jazer in Gilead. And his brethren were men of actiuitie, euen two thousande and seuen hundred auncient fathers, whom kyng Dauid made rulers ouer the Rubenytes, Gaduytes, and ouer the halfe tribe of Manasse, for euery matter pertaining to God, and for the kynges busynesse.

The. xxii. Chapter.

Of the princes and rulers that ministred vnto the kynge.

The chyldren of Israel after the nombre of them, the auncient heedes & captaynes of thousandes and hundredes, & their officers that serued the kynge by dyuers courses, whiche came in & wet out, moneth by moneth throught out al the monethes of the yere. And in euery course were. xliiij. thousande. Ouer the fyrste course for the first moneth was Saloboah the son of zadiel. And in his course were. xliiij. thousande. And the chiefe of al the captaynes of the hoost for the fyrst moneth was of the chyldren of Pharez. Ouer the course of the second moneth was Dodai, an Aboste, & in his course was Mikioth a ruler (his helper) And in the course were. xliiij. thousande. The chiefe captayne of the thyrde hoost for the thyrde moneth, was Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada the hye preest: & hys course were. xliiij. thousand: this was that Banaiahu which was mooste myghty amonge. xxx. and aboue. xxx. And in his parte was Amizadab his sonne.

The fourth captayne for the fourth moneth was Asael the brother of Joab, and zabadia his son after hym. And hys course were. xliiij. thousand. The fyfth captayne for the fyfth moneth, was Sambut the Jezrabite: and in hys course were. xliiij. thousande. The syxt captayne for the syxt moneth was Ira the sonne of Ichesa the cheknyte: and in hys course were. xliiij. thousande. The seuenth captayne for the seuenth moneth was Helez the Pelonite, of the chyldren of Ephraim: and in his course were. xliiij. thousand.

The eyght captayne for the eyght moneth was Sibechia an husathyte of the kynred of zarbi: and in his course were. xliii. thousande. The ix captayne for the nyynth moneth was Abiezer an Anorothite of the sonnes of Jemini: and in his course were. xliii. thousande. The tenth captayne for the tenth moneth, was Hahari, the Retophathite of the zarabites: and in his course were twenty and foure thousand. The eleueth for the eleuenth moneth was Banaia the Pira thonyte of the chyldzen of Ephraim: and in his course were. xliii. thousand. The twelueh captayne for the twelueh moneth was Heldai the Retophathite, with Othoniel: & in his course were. xliii. thousande. And the rulers ouer the trybes of Israel were these. Amonge the Rubenites was Eliezer the sonne of zichi. Amonge the Simeonites also was Saphathiahu & lone of Maacha. Amonge the Leuytes: Hasabia the sonne of Remuel. Amonge the Haromytes: zadok. Amonge them of Juda: Elibu of the brethren of Dauid. Among them of Issachar: Omri the sonne of Michael. Amonge them of zabulon: Jesmaiahu the son of Obadiahu. Amonge them of Nephtali: Jerimoth the sonne of Azriel. Amonge the chyldzen of Ephraim: Hosea the sonne of Azariahu. In the halfe tribe also of Manasse: Joel the sonne of Phediabu. Of the halfe trybe of Manasse in Gilead, Jido the lone of zachariahu. Amonge them of Ben Jamin: Jaasiel the son of Abner. Amonge them of Dan: Azarel the sonne of Jeroham. These are the lordes of the trybes of Israel.

lps. xxi. 8

But Dauid toke not the nombze of them vnder. xx. yere: bycause the Lord sayd he wolde encrease Israel lyke vnto the starres of the skye. And * Joab the sonne of zarua beg an to nombze: but he finished it not, bycause y there fell wrath for it agaynst Israel, neyther was the nombze put into the Chronicles of kynge Dauid.

Ouer the kynges treasures was Azmaueth the lone of Adiel. And ouer the treasures of the felde in the cyties & villages & castels was Jehonathan the sonne of Aziahu. And ouer the workemen in the felde that tilled the grounde was Ezer the sonne of Chelub. And the ouersyght of the vyneyardes had Semei the Ramathite. Ouer the encrease also of the vyneyardes and ouer the wyne sellers, was Sabdi the Haimphunyte: and ouer the olyuetrees and mulberpe trees that were in the valleyes, was Baal Hanan the Gederpate. And ouer the treasure of oyle was Joas: Ouer the oxen that fedde in Sharon, was Setari the Saronyte. And ouer the oxen that were in the valleyes, was Saphat the lone of Adlai. Ouer the camels, Obil the Ismaelite. And ouer the asses, was Johadiahu the Meronothpate. Ouer the shepe, was Jazis the Hagerpate. All these were the rulers of the substance of kyng Dauid. And Jehonathan Dauids vncle a man of counsaile and of vnderstanding, was a scribe, and Jehiel the lone of Hachmoni was with the kynges sonnes (enstructyng them.) And Abitophel was of the kynges counsaile. And Husai the Archpate was the kynges com-panyon. And next to Abitophel was Jehoiada the sonne of Banaiahu and Abiathar. And captayne of the kynges warre was Joab.

The. xxviii. Chapter.

Bycause Dauid was forbydden to buyde the temple, he exhorteth Salomon and the people to perfourme it.

And Dauid gathered togyther all the lordes of Israel: the lordes of the trybes, & lordes of the companyes that mynistred to the kynge by course, the captaynes ouer thousandes and ouer hundzedes, and the lordes that had the ouersyght ouer all the substance, and possessyon of Dauid, his sonnes, with the chamberlaynes: al the myghty and valyaunt, and all actyemen vnto Jerusalem. And kynge Dauid stode vp vpon dysfete, and sayde.

Hearemy brethren and my people: * I had in my herte to buyde an house of rest for the arke of the couenaunte of the Lord, and for the foorstole of our God, and had made redy for y buydyng. But God sayd vnto me: * thou shalt not buyde an house for my name, bycause thou hast ben a man of warre, and hast shed blood. * Howeuer, the Lord God of Israel * chose me before all the house of my father, to be kynge ouer Israel for euer, for in Juda wolde he chose a captayne, and of the housholde of Juda is the house of my father, and amonge the sonnes of my father he had a luste to me to make me kynge ouer all Israel. And of all my sonnes (for the Lord hath gyue me many sonnes) he hath chosen Salomon my sonne to syt vpon the seate of y kyngdome of the Lord in Israel. And he sayde vnto me: * Salomon, thy sonne, he shal buyde me an house & courtes I haue chosen hym to be my son, and I wil be his father. I wyl stablisy his kyngdome for euer: Yf he wil be stronge to do my commaundementes & my lawes, as it goeth this day. Now therfore in the syght of all Israel the congregation of the Lord, & in the audyence of our God: kepe and seke for all the comaundementes of y Lord your God, that ye may enioy a good lande, and leaue enherytaunce for your chyldzen after you for euer. And thou Salomon my son, knowe thou the God of thy father, & serue hym wyth a pure herte, and with a swete courage. * For the Lord searcheth al hertes, and vnderstandeth all the ymaginacyons of thoughtes. And yf thou seke hym, he wyl be founde of the. But yf thou forsake hym, he wyl cast the off for euer. Take hede now, for the Lord hath chosen the, to buyde hym an house of a sanctuary: Be stronge therfore, and playe the man.

And Dauid gaue Salomon his sonne the paterne of y porche (of the temple also) and of the houses that loged therto, of the store houses, upper chambers, inner parlours, & of the house of y mercyseate: and the example of all that he had in his mynde, for the courtes of the house of the Lord, and for all the celles rounde about, for the treasures of the house of God, & for the treasures of the dedycate thynges, & for the deuylions of the preestes and Leuites that waited by course, and for al the workemanship that shoulde serue for the house of the Lord, and for al the vessels that shoulde shulde serue in the house of the Lorde. For gold and for the wayght of golde, for all vesselles of sondrye ministracions: for all maner of vesselles of syluer in wayght, and for all vesselles whatsoeuer purpose they serued vnto. The wayght of golde for the candle styckes, and the golde for þe lampes, wth the wayght for euery candle stycke, & for the lampes thereof. And for the candle styckes of syluer by wayght, both for þe candle styck and also for her lampes, accordyng to the diuersitie of the vse of euery candle stycke. And by wayght (he gaue) golde for the tables of shewbread, euen for euery table: and lyke wyle syluer for the tables of syluer. And golde for fleshokes cuppes, and dyskyng pottes. And pure gold in wayght for basen: eue for euery basen. And like wyle syluer by wayght for euery basen of syluer. And for the alter of incense pure gold by wayght. And golde for the paterne of the charet of þe cherubs that stretched out theyr wynges, and covered the arke of the couenaunte of the Lorde. All (sayde he) was gyuen by wyrtynge of the hande of the Lorde, which made me vnderstande al the workemanship of the paterne.

And David sayde to Salomon his sonne: be stronge, and do manlye, feare not, nor be saynte herted: for the Lord God, euen my God, is with the, and he shal not fayle the nor forsake the, vntyll thou hast finished all the worke that must serue for the house of the Lorde. Beholde, the priestes and Levites are deuyded in companies for all maner of seruyce that pertayneth to the house of God: they are wyth the for all maner of workemanship, and so are all that excel in wisdom for any maner of seruyce. Thou hast also lordes and all the people for euery thyng that thou hast nede of.

The xxix. Chapter.

The offering of David and of the princes for the buyldyng of the temple. David dyeth: and Salomon his sonne ragnerh in his rebe.

And David the kyng sayde vnto all the congregacion: * God hath specially chosen Salomō my son which is yet yong & tendre, and the worke is greute: for the house shal not be for man, but for the Lorde God. Moreover, I haue prepared with al my might for the house of God, golde for vesselles of golde, syluer for them of syluer, brasse for thynges of brasse, yron for thynges of yron, and wood for thynges of wood and onix stones: and stones to be set, glystryng stones and of diuers colour, and al maner of precious stones, and marble stones in great aboundaunce. And bycause I haue lust to the house of my God: I haue of myne owne propre good, golde and syluer whych I haue leuerally gyuen to the house of my God, besyde all that I haue prepared for the holy house, euen thre thousand talentes of golde of Ophir, and seuen thousand talentes of tryed syluer to overlape the walles of the house wythall, the golde for thynges of golde, syluer for them of syluer, and for all maner of worke by the handes of artifcers. And whosoever is wyllyng may this day consecrate his hande vnto the Lorde.

And so the auncient fathers & the lordes of the trybes of Israel, the captaynes of thousandes & hundredes, with the lordes that were rynges ouer the kynges worke, were wyllyng, and gaue for the seruyce of the house of God, syue thousande talentes of golde, and ten thousand peces of golde, and ten thousande talentes of syluer, and xviij. thousande talentes of brasse, and one hundred thousande talentes of yron. And they with whome precious stones were founde, gaue them to the treasure of the house of the Lord, by the hande of Jehiel the Gersonypte.

And the people reioysed when they were so wyllyng to gyue theyr goodes, and with a perfect herte they offered vnto the Lorde. And David the kyng reioysed with great gladnesse. And David blessed the Lorde before all the congregacion, and sayd: Blessed be thou Lord God of Israel our father for euer & for euer. Thyne (O Lorde) is greatnesse and power, glorie, victory and prayse: for all that is in heauen and in earth is thine, and thine is the kyngedome (O Lorde) and thou excellest aboue all, euen as the heed of all. And rycheesse and honour come of the and thou raygneest ouer all, and in thine hande is power and strength, and in thine hande it is to make great, and to gyue strength vnto all.

And nowe our God, we thanke the, & prayse thy glorious name. But who am I, and what is my people, that we shulde enforce oure selues to gyue these thynges so wyllynglye? But all thynges come of the: and of that which we receyued at thine hande, we haue gyuen the. * For we be but strangers before the, and sojourners, as were all our forefathers. Dure dayes on the earth also are but as a * shadowe, and there is none abydyng. O Lorde our God, al this stuffe that we haue prepared to buyld the an house for thine holy name, cometh of thine hande, and is al thine. (I wote also my God) þ thou tryest the hertes, and hast pleasure in vnfaynednesse. And in the vnfaynednesse of myne herte, I haue wyllynglye offered all these thynges. And nowe haue I sene thy people which are founde here, to offre vnto the wyllynglye and wyth gladnesse. O Lord God of Abraham, Isaac and of Israel our fathers kepe this for euer as the begynning of the thoughtes of the herte of thy people, and prepare theyr hertes vnto the. And gyue vnto Salomon my sonne a perfecte herte to kepe thy commaundementes, thy testimonyes, and thy statutes, and to doo all, and to buyld the house for the whych I haue made prouysion.

And David sayde to all the congregacion: Nowe bless the Lord your God. And al þe congregacion blessed the Lord God of theyr fathers, & bowed downe their heedes, and worshipped the Lorde and the kyng. And they offered offerings vnto the Lorde. And on the morowe after the sayde daye, they offered burnt offerings vnto the Lorde, euen a thousande yonge oxen, a thousande rammes, and a thousande sheepe, with theyr dysynke offerings. Many sacrifices offered they for all Israel, & dyd eate and dysynke before the Lorde the same daye with greute gladnesse.

And they made Salomon the sonne of Dauid kyng the seconde tyme, & anointed hym prince before the Lorde, and Zadoc to be the hie priest. * And Salomon sate on the seate of the Lorde, and was kyng in stede of Dauid his father, and prospered: & all they of Israel obeyed hym. And all the lordes & men of power, and all the sonnes of kyng Dauid submitted them selues: and were under kyng Salomon. * And the Lorde magnified Salomon in dignitie, in the syght of al the of Israel, & gaue hym so glorious a kyngdome, as no kyng had before hym in Israel.

S And so Dauid the sonne of Isay raygned ouer all Israel. And þ space that he raygned ouer Israel was. xl. yere: seue yere raygned he in Hebrō, and. xxxiii. yere raygned he in Ierusalem: & he dyed in a good age: full of dayes, riches and honour. And Salomō his son raygned in his stede. The actes of Dauid the kyng fyrst and last: beholde, they are wrytten in the boke of Samuel þ sear, & in the boke of Nathan þ prophet, & in the boke of Gad the sear, with al his kyngdom & power, and tymes that went ouer him, & ouer al Israel and ouer all the kyngdomes of the earth.

And Salomon the son of Dauid waxed strong in his kyngdome: & the * Lord his God was wth hym, and magnified him in the dignitie. And Salomon spake vnto all Israel, to þ captaines ouer thousandes, to þ captaines ouer hundredes, to þ iudges, & to euery officer in al Israel, and to the auncient fathers. And so Salomō, & all the congregacion with him: went to the hie place that was at Gibeon: for there was the tabernacle of þ witness of God: which Moyses the seruaut of the Lorde made in þ wyldernes. But the arke of God: had Dauid brought fro Kyriath Jearim, into þ place whiche Dauid had prepared therfore. For he had pytched a tent for it at Ierusalem. Moreover, the brasen altar: that Bezaleel the sonne of Uri, the sonne of Hur had made, was there before þ tabernacle of þ Lorde. And Salomon & the congregacion went to visite it. And Salomō gat vp there before þ Lorde to þ brasen altar that was before þ tabernacle of witness, & * offered a thousand burnt sacrifices vpon it. And the same nyght dyd God appeare vnto Salomon, & sayd vnto hym: aske what I shall geue the. And Salomon sayd vnto God: thou hast shewed great mercye vnto Dauid my father, and * hast made me to raygne in his stede. * Now therfore, O Lorde God, let thy promise whych thou madest vnto Dauid my father, be true. For thou hast made me kyng ouer a people which is lyke the dust of the earth in multitude: wherfore geue me now wysdom & knowledge, that I maye be able to go in and out before this people: for who els (worthely) can iudge this people that be so great? * And God sayde to Salomon: because this was in thyne herte, & because thou hast not asked treasure, riches, & honour, and þ lyues of thyne enemyes, neyther yet longe lyfe: but hast asked wysdome & knowledge for thy selfe to iudge my people, ouer which I haue made þ kyng: wysdom & knowledge is graunted vnto the, and I wyll geue the treasure & riches and gloze: so that amonge the kynges that haue ben before the or after þ, none was or shal be like the. And so Salomon came from the hylaulter (that was at Gibeon) to Ierusalem, from the tabernacle of witness, & raygned ouer Israel: * And Salomon gathered the charets & horses: and he had a thousand & foure hundred charets, and xii. M. horses, whom he bestowed in the charetries, & with the kyng at Ierusalem. And the kyng made syluer and golde at Ierusalem, as plenteous as stones: and cedre trees made he as plente as the mulberye trees that growe in the valeys: & the horses which Salomon had, were brought hym out of Egypt by the kynges marchantes that were togyther, whych bringe of one companie, toke them out at a pryce. They came also and brought out of Egypte a chariot for syxe hundred peces of syluer: euen an horse for an hundred and fyfthe. And so brought they horses for all the kynges of the Hethytes, and for the kynges of Syria by theyr owne hande.

The. ii. Chapter

Salomon sendeth to Hiram the kyng of Tyre for wood and workemen.

And Salomō determined to build an house for þ name of the Lorde, and an house for his kyngdom: and Salomō told out thre score & ten thousand men to beare burthens, & foure score thousand men to hewe stones in the mountayne: and thre thousand and syxe hundred to ouerle them. * And Salomon sent to Hiram the kyng of Tyre, saying: As thou dyddest deale with Dauid my father, & * dyddest sende hym cedre wood to buylde hym an house to dwel in, euen so deale with me. For I am about to buyld an house for the name of the Lorde my God, to offre vnto hym holy thynges, and to burne sweete incense, and to set the wyndred before him continually: to offre offer burnt sacrifices for the mourning and enennyng: on the Sabbath dayes, in the fyrst day of euery newe moone, and in the solempne feastes of the Lorde our God: for it is an ordinaunce to be continually kepte of Israel. And the house whych I buyde shalbe greate, for great is oure God aboue al goddes. But who is able to build hym an house: when that heauen, and heauen aboue all heauens is not able to receyue hym?

What am I that I shuld buyde hym an house?
But euen to burne sacrifice befoze hym, shal thys buydyng be: sende me now therfoze a con-nyng man that can worke in golde & syluer, in brasse and yron, in purple, cremosyn and pelowe sylke, & that can skyl to graue wth the connyng mē that are with me in Iuda and Ierusalem, whom Dauid my father dyd prepare. Sende me also cedre trees, byne trees & almuge trees oute of Libanon. For I wot þ^t thy seruantes can skyll to hewetymbe in Libanon. And beholde, my men shalbe wth thynne, that they maye prepare me tymbe ynough. For the house whych I am determined to buyde shalbe wonderful greate.
And beholde, for the vse of thy seruantes scatters and the heuers of tymbe I haue gyuen .xx.
thousande quarters of beaten wheate, and .xx.
thousande quarters of barley, and .xx. thousande bates of wyne, & .xx. thousand bates of oyle. And Hiram kynge of Tyre answered in wyrtynge whych he sent to Salomon: Because the Lorde hath loued his people, therfoze he hath made the kynge ouer them. And Hiram said mozeouer: blessed be the Lorde God of Israel which made heauen and earth, and that hath gyuen Dauid the kynge a wyfe sonne, & one that hath discretion, prudence and vnderstandyng to buyld an house for the Lorde, & a palace for hym selfe. And now I haue sent a wyse man, and a man of vnderstandyng (whome my father Hiram dyd vse) * the son of a woman of the daughters of Dan, & hys father was a man of Tyre, & he can skyl to worke in golde and syluer, in brasse and yron, in stone, and tymbe, in purple and pelowe sylke, in fyne whyte and cremosyn: and can graue sondry maner of grauynges, and fynde oute dyuers maner of subyle worke that shal be sette befoze hym, with thy connyng men, and with the connyng men of my lorde Dauid thy father. Nowe ther-foze the wheat and barley, oyle and wyne, which my lorde hath spoken of, let hym sende vnto his seruantes. And we wyll cut wood in Libanon as moche as thou shalt nede, and wyll brynge it to the in thyppes by the see to Japho, fro wher thou mayest cary them to Ierusalem. And Salomon nombred all the straungers that were in þ^e lande of Israel, after the nombze of them whom his father Dauid had nombred. And they were founde an hundred and lxxx. thousande, and syxe hundred. And he sette lxx. thousande of them to beare burthens, and lxxx. thousand to hewe stones in the mountayne: and thre thousande and syxe hundred officers to set the people a worke.

¶ The .iii. Chapter.

The temple of the Lorde and of the porche are buylded, with other thynges therto belongyng.

And Salomon began to buyld þ^e house of the Lorde at Ierusalem, in mount Mozia * where (the Lorde) appeared vnto Dauid hys father, euen in the place þ^e Dauid prepared in the thesbyng floore of Oman the Jebusyte. And he * begā to buyld in the seconde daye of the seconde moneth, & the fourth yere of hys raygne. And these are the paternes wherby Salomon was instruct to buyld the house of God. The length was threscore cubytes after the olde measure, and the bredth .xx. cubytes. The porch, þ^e was in bredth as large as the temple, had .xx. cubytes: & the heygth was an hundred and .xx. cubytes. And he ouerlaid it on the inner syde with pure golde.

And the greater house he syled with fyre tree which he ouerlaid with the best gold, and graued therto palmetrees & chapnes. And he ouerlaid the house wth precyous stone beautifuly. And the golde was golde of Barnaim. The house (I saye) the beames, poostes, walles, and doores therof ouerlaid he with golde, & made granen worke vpon the walles.

And he made the house mooste holpe, whose length was .xx. cubytes lyke the breadth of the house, and the bredth therof was also .xx. cubytes. And he ouerlaid it with good golde, eue wth syxe hundred talentes. And the weygth of the naples of golde was fyfthe sycles. And he ouerlaid the vpper chambzes with golde.

* And in the house mooste holpe he made two Cherubins of ymage worke lyke chyldren, and ouerlaid them wth golde. And the winges of the Cherubs were .xx. cubytes longe. The one wyng was .v. cubytes reachyng to þ^e wall of the house, & the other wyng was lyke wyse fyue cubytes, reachyng to the wyng of the other Cherub. And euen so the one wing of the other Cherub was .v. cubytes, reachyng to the wal of the house, & the other wyng was .v. cubytes also, & reached to the wyng of the other Cherub. So that the winges of the sayd Cherubs were stretched out .xx. cubytes, and they stode on their feet and looked in wardes. And he made a foze hangyng of pelowe sylke, purple, cremosyn, and fynewhyte, and caused the p^{re}ctures of Cherubbes to be bydded thereon. And he made befoze the house two pylers of .xxxv. cubytes hie. And the heed that was aboue on the top of euery one of them was .v. cubytes, and he made chapnes of wretzen worke for the quere, & put them on the heedes of the pylers, & made an hundred pomegranates, and put them on the chapnes. And he reared vp the pylers befoze the temple: one on the right hand, and the other on the left, and called the ryght Jachin, and the left Boaz.

¶ The .iiii. Chapter.

The altar of brasse, the lampes, the vessels to wash wth, the candlestyes, &c.

And he made an altar of brasse .xx. cubytes longe, and .xx. cubytes bryde, and ten cubytes hie. * And he cast a brassen lampatoze of ten cubytes from bym to bym, rounde in compasse, and fyue cubytes hie: and a lyne of thyrtye cubytes dyd compasse it rounde aboute.

And vnder it was the fasson of oxen which dyd compasse it rounde about: with ten cubites dyd they compass the lauatory rounde about, & there were two rowes of ore which were cast of lyke molten worke. And it stode also vpon twelve ore, thre looked towarde the north, thre towarde the west, thre towarde the south, & thre towarde the east and the lauatory was set vpon them, & all theyr backs were towarde the lauatory. And the thickest of it was an hand brede, and the bym lyke the bym of a cup, with floures of lyces. And it receyued, and helde thre thousande bates.

iii. reg. vii. c.

* And he made ten lauers, and put fyue on the ryght hande, and fyue on the lefte, to washe and cense in them suche thynges as they offred for a burnt offrig. But the great lauatory was for the prestes to wash in. And he made ten candlestyches of golde (accorpyng to the paterne which was gyven of them) and put them in the temple fyue on the right hand, and fyue on the left. And he made also ten tables, and put them in the temple: fyue on the ryght syde, and fyue on the lefte. And he made an hundred basens of golde. And he made the court of the prestes, and the greates court and doores to it: and overlaid the doores of them with brasse. And he set the greates lauatory on the right side of the east ende ouer agaynst the south. And Hiram made pottes, shouels and basens, and finished the worke that he was appoynted to make for kynge Salomon in the house of God. The two pylers, the couerynges of two heedes on the toppes of the pylers, and the two wrethes to couer the two scalpes of heedes that were on the toppes of the pylers: and foure hundred pomegranates on the two wrethes, two rowes of pomegranates on one wreth to couer the two toppes of heedes, that were on the pylers. And he made two botomes: and lauers made he vpon the botomes: the great lauatory, and twelve ore vnder it. Pottes also and shouels, fleshpokes, and all these vessels dyd Hiram (his father) make to kynge Salomon for the house of the Lorde of bright brasse. In the playne of Jordan dyd the kynge caste them, euen in the claye grounde that is betwene Socoth and Zaredatha. And Salomon made all these vessels in great aboundance, for the wayght of brasse coulde not be reckened.

D And Salomon made all these vessels that were for the house of God: the golden altar also and the tables to set shewbrydes vpon. Moreover, the candlestyches, with theyr lampes (to burne after the maner before the quere) and that of precious golde: and the shoules and the lampes, and the incense makers made he of golde, and that perfect golde, and the dressing kynnes, basens, spones, and censers of pure gold. And he made the doore of the temple, and the inner doores woth in the place moost holie, and the inner doores of the temple were gylted. And so was all the worke that Salomon made for the house of the Lorde finished.

The v Chapter.

The arke is brought into the temple, which is fylled with the glorie of the Lorde.

And so all the worke that Salomon made in the house of the Lorde was finished, and Salomon brought in all the thynges that Dauid his father had dedicated with the silver and golde, and all the iewels, and put them amonge the treasures of the house of God.

Then Salomon gathered the elders of Israel together, and all the heedes of the tribes & ancient fathers of the chyldre of Israel vnto Jerusalem to bring the arke of the couenant of the Lorde out of the cytie of Dauid, which is zion. Wherefore all the men of Israel resorted vnto the king in the feast, euen in the vii. moneth. And all the elders of Israel cam, & the Leuites toke vpon the arke & the tabernacle of wytnesse, and all the holy vessels which were in the tabernacle, and they bare them. And kynge Salomon and all the congregation of Israel which were assembled vnto hym before the arke, offered shepe & oxen, so many, that they coulde not be tolde nor nombred for multitude.

And the prestes brought the arke of the appoyntment of the Lorde vnto his place, euen into the quere of the temple, within the place moost holie, and set it vnder the wynges of the Cherubs that the Cherubs stretched out theyr wynges ouer the place of the arke, and the Cherubs couered bothe the arke and her barres aboue on hye. And the barres of the arke were so long, that the heedes of the barres were sene without the arke in the quere, but not without. And there the arke remayned vnto this daye. But there was nothing in the arke save the two tables which Moses put therein at Horeb, when the Lorde made a couenant with the chyldre of Israel, after they were come out of Egypte. And it fortuned, that when the prestes were come out of the holy place (the Sanctuarie was fylled woth smoke) for all the prestes that were present were sanctified and dyd not then waite by course, that both the Leuites and the syngers vnder Asaph, Heman and Jeduthun were appoynted to sonndre offces, with theyr chyldren and brethren, and were arrayed in fyne whyte, hauinge cymbales, psalteries and harpes, and stode at the east ende of the altar, and by them an hundred & twenty prestes blowyng woth trumpettes. And the trumpet blowers, and the syngers so agreed, that it seemed but one voyce, in prayse and thankyng the Lorde. And when they lyft vpon theyr voyce with trumpettes, cymbales, and other instruments of musycke: and when they praysed the Lorde, (and sayd) how that he is good, and his mercy lasteth euer: the house of God was fylled woth a cloude, so that the prestes could not endure to minstre by the reason of the cloude. For the miste of the Lorde had fylled the house of God.

The vi. Chapter.

The wordes of Salomon to the people, and the prayer that he made vnto God.

When Salomon sayd: * the Lorde hath spoken, howe that he wyll dwell in the cloude. And I haue buylt an habitation for the, and a place for thy dwelling.

for ever. And the kyng turned his face, & blessed the hole congregacion of Israel, & al the congregacion of Israel stode. And he sayde: blessed be þe Lord God of Israel, whych hath w his handes fulfilled it; þe spake w his mouth to my father David, saying: sines the day that I brought my people out of the land of Egypt, I chose no cite among al the trybes of Israel to buyld an house in, that my name myght be there, neyther chose I anye man to be a ruler ouer my people Israel: I saynge þe I haue chosen Ierusalem, & my name myght be there, & haue chosen David to be ouer my people Israel. * And whē it was in þe hert of David my father to buyld an house for þe name of the Lord God of Israel, the Lord sayd to David my father: for asmoche as it was in thy hert to buyld an house for my name: þe dydest well that thou so thoughtest in thy hert. Notwithsta dyng, thou shalt not buyld þe house, but thy son whiche is proceded oute of thy loynes, he shall buyld an house for my name. The Lord therfore hath made good his saying that he hath spoken: & I am risen vp in the roume of David my father, & am set on the seate of Israel, as þe Lord promysed, and haue buylt an house for the name of the Lord God of Israel. And in it haue I put the arke wherin is þe couenaunt of þe Lord, that he made w the chyldre of Israel. And the kyng stode before the aultar of the Lord, in þe presence of all the congregacion of Israel, and stretched out his handes. For now Salomon had made a brasen pulpyt of fyue cubites longe, and fyue cubytes broude, & thre of heyghe, & had set it in the myddes of the great court, and vpon it he stode, and kneled downe vpon his knees before all the congregacion of Israel, and stretched oute his handes toward heauē, and sayd: * O Lord God of Israel, there is no god lyke the in heauen and earth, whiche kepest couenaunt, and shewest mercy vnto thy seruantes, that walke before the with all theyr hertes. Thou whiche haste kepte with thy seruant David my father, the thinges that thou promysedest him, thou saydest it with thy mouth, and haste fulfilled it with thy handes, as it is to se this daye.

And now Lord God of Israel, kepe with thy seruant David my father, þe thinges that thou promysedest hym, * sayinge: thou shalt be in my syght not be without a man that shall sit vpon the seate of Israel: so that thy chyldre take hede to theyr wayes, to walke in my lawe, as thou hast walked before me. And now Lord God of Israel, let thy saying be true whiche thou spakest vnto thy seruant David. And wyl God in verye dede dwell wyth men on earth? Beholde, * heauen, and heauen aboue all heauens do not contayne the: how moche lesse the house whiche I haue buylded: Let it be thy pleasure therfore to turne to the prayer of thy seruant, and to his supplicacion (O Lord my God) to hearken vnto the voyce & prayer whych thy seruant prayeth before the, and let thine eyes be open toward this house daye & nyght ouer this place, wherin thou hast sayd: that thou woldest put thy name, to hearken vnto the prayer whiche thy seruant prayeth in this place: hearken vnto the prayers of thy seruant, and of thy people Israel whiche they praye in this place: heare thou (I saye) oute of thy dwelling place, euen out of heauen, heare and be mercyfull. * If a man synne agaynst his neygbboure, and take not an othe agaynst hym, and make hym to sweare, and they bothe come before thine aultare in this house, then heare thou from heauen, and worke, and iudge thy seruantes, that thou rewarde the vngodly and recompence hym his waye vpon his heed, and iustifye the ryghtous, and gyue hym accordyng to his ryghtousnesse.

And if thy people Israel be put to the worse before the enemye, because they haue synned agaynst the. Yet if they turne & gyue thanks vnto thy name, & make intercession & praye before the in this house, then heare thou from heauen, & be mercyfull vnto the synne of thy people Israel and brynge them agayne vnto the lande whiche thou gauest to them and to theyr fathers.

* When heauen is shutte vp, and there be no rayne, because they haue sinned agaynst the: yet if they praye in this place, & confesse thy name, & repente for theyr synne, for the whiche thou chastenest them, then heare thou in heauen, and be mercyfull vnto the synne of thy seruantes, and of thy people Israel, and gude thou them into the good waye to walke in, & sende rayne vpon thy lande, whiche thou hast gyuen vnto thy people for an enherytaunce.

And if there be derth in the lande of pestilence, corruption, or blastynge of corne, grethoppers, or caterpyllers, or that theyr enemyes besiege them in the cyties of theyr lande, or whatsoeuer plague or synnesse it be. Then what supplications & prayers soeuer shall be made of any man, and of al thy people Israel whiche shall know euery man his owne soze, and his owne grefe, & shall stretch out their handes toward this house, thou shalt heare fro heauen, euen from thy dwelling place, and shalt be mercyfull, and gyue euery man accordyng vnto all his wayes, euen as þe dost know euery mannes herte: for thou onely knowest the hertes of the chyldren of me: that they may feare the, & walke in thy wayes as long as they lyue in the lande whych thou gauest vnto theyr fathers.

* Moreover, the straunger whiche is not of thy people Israel, if he come from a farr lande for thy great names sake, & thy mighty hand, & thy stretched out arme. If they come (I saye) & pray in this house: thou shalt heare from heauen, euen from thy dwelling place, & shalt do accordyng to all that the straunger calleth to the for: that all people of the earthe maye knowe thy name, and feare the as doeth thy people Israel, & that they may know, how that in this house whych I haue buylt, thy name is called vpon.

If thy people go out to warre agaynst theyr enemyes, by the way that thou shalt send them, and they praye to the, in the way towards this cytie whiche thou hast chosen, euen toward the house whiche I haue buylt for thy name: then heare thou from heauen theyr supplicacion and prayer

G prayer, and helpe them in theyr ryght.
 * Pf they syn agaynst the: * as there is no mā but he both sinne, and thou be angry with them and deliuer them ouer befoze their enemies, and they take them and lede them away vnto a land farre oʒ nere, yet pf they repent in theyr herte in the lande where they be in captiuitie, and turne and pray vnto the in the lande of theyr captiuitie, saying: we haue synned, we haue done euill and wyckedly: and turne agayne to the with al theyr herte, and all theyr soule, in the lande of theyr captiuitie, where they kepe them in bondage, and so praye towarde theyr lande whych thou gauest vnto theyr fathers, euen towarde the cytie whych thou hast chosen, & towarde the house whych I haue buylte for thy name. Then heare thou from heauen, euen fro thy dwellyng place theyr supplicacion and theyr prayer, and iudge theyr cause, and be merciful vnto thy people which haue synned agaynst the.

Nowe my God, let thyne eyes be open, & thyne eares attente vnto the prayer that is made in this place. Nowe vp, * O Lord God into thy resting place, thou and the arke of thy strength O Lord God, let thy preestes be clothed with health: and let thy sayntes reioyse in goodnes: O Lord God turne not away the face of thyne annoynted. Remēbʒe the mercyes whiche thou hast promysed to Dauid thy seruauant.

The vii. Chapter

The fyre consumeth the sacrifice. The Lord appeared to Salomon the seconde tyme.

And * When Salomon had made an ende of praying, & there came downe fyre from heauen, and consumed the burnt offrynges and the sacrifices. And the house was fylled wth the gloze of the Lord, and the preestes coulde not go into the house of the Lord, bycause the gloze of the Lord had fylled the Lordes house. And when al the children of Israel saw how the fire and the gloze of the Lord came downe vpon the house, they fell downe flat vpon theyr faces to the earth, vpon the pauement, and worshipped and cōfessed vnto the Lord, that he is gracious, and that his mercy lasteth euer.

And the kynge and al the people offred sacrifices befoze the Lord. And kynge Salomon offred a sacrifice of .xxii. thousande oxen, and an hundred and twentye thousande shepe. And so the kynge and all the people dedicated the house of God. And the preestes wayted on theyr offrynges, and the Leuites had the instrumētes of musyke of the Lord, whych kynge Dauid had made to confesse vnto the Lord, that his mercy lasteth euer: playinge a psalme of Dauid wth theyr hande. And the preestes blew with trompettes befoze them: and all they of Israel stode.

Moreouer Salomon halowed the myddle of the courte that was befoze the Lord, for there he offred burnt offrynges, and the fat of the peace offrynges, bycause the brasen aulter whych Salomon had made, was not able to receiue burnt offrynges, and the meate offrynges, and the fat.

So at the same tyme Salomon kept * a feast of seven dayes, and all they of Israel with them an exceeding great congregacion, euen from the enteryng in of Hamath: vnto the ryuer of Egypt. And in the egypte daye they made a gathering: for they kept the dedicacion of the aulter seven dayes, and the feast seven dayes. And the .xxiii. daye of the seventh moneth he let the people departe into theyr tentes glad and mery in herte: for the goodnesse that the Lord had thewed to Dauid & to Salomon, and to Israel his people.

* And Salomon finished the house of the Lord, and the kynges house, & al that came in his bert to make in the house of the Lord, & in his owne house, went prosperously forewarde.

And the Lord appeared to Salomon by nyght and sayd to hym: I haue herde thy petition, and * haue chosen this place for my selfe, to be an house of sacrifice. Pf I shut vp heauen that there be no rayne: oʒ if I cōmaunde the locustes to deuoure the lande: oʒ if I sende pestilence amonge my people: and pf they that are of my people, among whom my name is called vpo, do humble them selues, and make intercession, and seke my presence, and turne from theyr wycked wayes: then wyl I heare from heauen, and be mercifull to theyr synne, and wyl heale theyr lande.

And from henceforth myne eyes shal be open vnto the prayer that is made in this place. And therfore nowe * I haue chosen and sanctified this house, that my name be there for euer: and myne eyes and myne herte shal be there perpetually.

And pf thou wylt walke befoze me, as Dauid thy father walked, to do al that I haue comaunded the, and shalt obserue my statutes and my lawes, then wyl I stablysh the seate of thy kyngdome, accordyng as I made the couenaunt with Dauid thy father, saying: * thou shalt not be without a man to be ruler in Israel. But and pf thou turne away, and forsake my statutes and cōmaundmentes whych I haue set befoze you, and shalt go and serue other goddes, & worshipp them: then wyl I plucke them vp by the rootes, out of my lande whych I haue gyuen them, and this house whych I haue sanctified for my name wyl I cast out of my syght, and wyl make it to be a prouerbe and a iest amonge all nacions.

And euery one that passeth by shal be astonied at this house whiche belonged to the mooste hye God, and shall saye: * why hath the Lord deli on this fashion with this lande, and with this house? And they shall aunswere: bycause they forsoke the Lord God of theyr father, whych brought them oute of the lande of Egypte, and caught holde on other goddes, and worshipped them, and serued them: euen therfore hath he brought all this euill vpon them.

The viii. Chapter.

The cyties that Salomon buylde after that the house of God was finished.

And * it fortuneth, that after .xx. yere wold Salomon hadde buylte the house of the Lord, and his owne house: he buylte the cyties that Hiram gaue hym, & put of the children of Israel in the. And Salomon went to Hamath math zoba, & strenghted it. And he buylt Chad-mo: in þe wyldernesse, and repayred al þe store cities which were in Hamath. And he built Beth bozon the vpper, & Bethbozon the nether, strong cities, haupnge walles, gates and barres. And Baalah, and all the store cities that Salomon had, and all the charet cities, And the cities of the horsemen, & euery pleasaunt place that Salomon had lust to buylde in Jerusalem, & Libanon, & thowout al the lande of his dominion.

B And all the people that were leste of the Hebreites, Amorytes, Pheresites, Heuites, and Jebusites, whyche were not of the chyldren of Israel: but were the chyldren of them whych were leste after them in the lande, and were not consumed of the chyldren of Israel, them dyd Salomon make to paye trybute vntyll thys daye.

But of the chyldren of Israel dyd Salomon make no bondmen for his worke: but they wer me of warre, and rulers, and great lordes wyth hym, and captaynes ouer his charettes & horsemen. And kyng Salomons offycers that ouer-sawe, and ruled the people, were two hundred and fiftye. And Salomon brought þe doughter of Pharaon oute of the cite of Dauid, into the house that he had buylded for her. For he sayde:
my wyfe shall not dwelle in the house of Dauid kyng of Israel, for it is holy: because that the Arke of the Lorde is come vnto it.

C Then Salomon offred burnt offerynges vnto the Lorde, on the aultare of the Lorde, which he had buylt before the porche, doyng euerpe thyng in his due tyme, and offeryng accordyng to the commaundement of Moyses, in the Sabbothes, newe Moones, and solempne feastes,
* the tymes in the yere, that is to saye: in the feast of swete bread, in the feast of weekes, and in the feaste of Tabernacles.

And Salomon set the sortes of prestes to theyr offyces, as Dauid his father had ordered them, and the Leuytes in theyr watches, for to praye & minyster before the prestes day by day and the porters by course, at euery gate.

* For so had Dauid the man of God comaun-
ded. And they ompted not the comaundement of the kyng vnto the prestes and the Leuytes, concernyng any maner of thyng, and concernyng the treasures. For Salomon made pro-uisyon for the charges, from the fyrste day that the foundacyon of the house of the Lorde was layde, tyl it was fynished, that the house of the Lorde was perfyte. Then went kyng Salomon to Ezion Gaber, and to Elath to the * (red) see syde in the lande of Edom. And Hiram sent hym by the handes of his seruautes, thyppes, and seruautes þe had knowlege of the see: & they came to the seruautes of Salomon to Ophir, and carped thence four hundred and fiftye talentes of golde, & brought it to kyng Salomon.

¶ The ix. Chapter.

The communicatyon of Salomon wyth the queene of Saba and the gyftes that she gaue the other. The deathe of Salomon, after whom succeedeth Achoboam.

A And when the queene of Saba hearde of the fame of Salomon, she came to proue hym in harde questyons at Jerusalem, with a verpe great company, with camels that bare spypes and plente of golde, and precious stones. And when she was come to Salomon, she communed wyth hym of all that she had in her herte. And Salomon soyled her all her questyons, and there was not one worde hyd frome Salomon, whyche he tolde her not.

B And when the Quene of Saba had sene the wysedome of Salomon, and the hon: that he had buylt, & the meate of hys table, the sittyng of his seruautes, and the standyng of hys way-ters, theyr apparell, hys buttelers, theyr apparel, his goynge vp, by the whyche he went into the house of the Lorde, there was no more spete in her. And she sayde to the kyng: the sayng which I heard in myne owne lande, of thyne actes, and of thy wysedome, is true. I beleued not the wordes of them, vntyll I came, & myne eyes had sene it. And behold the one halfe of thy wysedome was not tolde me: for thou excedeest the fame that I herde. Happy are thy men, and happye are these thy seruautes whiche stande before þe alway, and heare thy wysdom. Blessed be the Lorde thy God, which had lust to the, to set the kyng on his seate, that thou myghtest be kyng, ordeined by the Lorde thy God. Because thy God loueth Israel, and hath delpye to make them contynue euer: therfore made he the kyng ouer them: to do ryght and equyte.

C And she gaue the kyng an hundred and .xx. talentes of golde, & of spypes excadynge great aboundaunce and precious stones, neyther was there any more such spype, as the Quene of Saba gaue kyng Salomon. And the seruautes of Hyram, & the seruautes of Salomon which brought gold fro Ophir, brought also Almuge wood and precious stones. And the kyng made of the Almuge wood, steyres in the house of the Lorde, and in the kynges palace, and harpes and psalteryes for syngers. And there was no such wood sene before in the land of Iuda. And kyng Salomon gaue to the Quene of Saba euerpe pleasaunte thyng þe asked, but not so muche as she brought vnto the kyng. And so she turned & went away to her owne lade w her seruautes.

D The weyght of golde that came to Salomon in one yere, was syxe hundred. lxvi. talentes of golde, besydes that which chapmen & marchaun-tes brought: and all the kynges of Arabia & rulers of that countre, brought golde and syluer to Salomon. And kyng Salomon made two hundred bucklers of beaten gold, and syxe hundred syngles of beaten gold were spent vpon one bucler, and thre hundred thyldes made he of beaten golde, and one thyld cost thre hundred peces of golde, and the kyng put them in the house that was in the forest of Libanon.

And the kyng made a great seate of Iuor & ouerlayde it with pure golde. And there were syxe steypes to the seate, with a fote stole of golde fastened to the seate: and pommels on eche syde of the sittyng place, and two lyons standyng by the pommells. And .xii. lyons stode on þe one syde and on the other vpon the syxe steypes, so þe there was no such work made in any kyngdom

¶ And

E And all the dynkynge vessels of kyng Salomon were of golde, and all the vessels of the house that was in the forest of Libanon were of precious golde: for syluer was counted nothing worth, in the dayes of Salomon. For the kyn- ges shyppes went to Tharsis with the seruaun- tes of Hyram: every three yere ones came the shyppes to Tharsis, and brought golde, syluer, Iuoy, and apes, and peockes.

¶ And kyng Salomon passed all the kyn- ges of the earthe in rycheesse and wysdome. And all the kynges of the earthe sought the ptesence of Salomon, to heare hys wysdome that God had put in his hert. And they brought euery mā hys ptesent, vessels of syluer, & vessels of golde, rayment, harness, spyes, horses, and mules, & what so euer myght be gotten yere by yere.

¶ And Salomon had four thousand stables for horses, and charettes, and twelue thousand horsemen, whome he bestowed in the charret cy- tyes, and some were with the kyng at Jerusa- lem. And he raygned ouer all the kynges that were from Euphrates vnto the lande of Philistynes: and to the border of Egypte.

¶ And the kyng made syluer in Jerusalem, as plenteous as stones. And Cedar trees as ple- teous as the moulberpe trees that growe in the valleyes. And they brought vnto Salomō hor- ses out of Egypte, and out of all landes.

¶ The rest of the actes of kyng Salomon fyrst and last, are they not wyrtten in the say- ynges of Nathan the prophete, and in the prophe- cy of Ahiah the Silonite, and in the visions of Iddo the leaer of visyons agaynst Jeroboam & sonne of Nabat. And Salomon raygned in Je- rusalem vpon all Israel fourty yeres. And Salo- mon slepte with his fathers, & they buried hym in the cite of Dauid his father: and Rehoboam his sonne raygned in his steade.

The x. Chapter.

The fooly benesse of Iachoboam, and the deuision of hys realme.

And Rehoboam wente to Sichem: for to Sichem were al Is- raell come togyther, to make hym kyng. And when Jerobo- am the sonne of Nabat (which was fled into Egypte from the ptesence of Salomon the kyng) hearde it, he re- toured out of Egypt. And they sent and called hym. And so Jeroboam and all they of Israel, came and comuned wth Rehoboam, sayenge: Thy father layd a greuous poke vpon vs. now therfore remyt thou somwhat of þ greuous ser- uyce of thy father, and of his heuy pocke that he put vpon vs: and we wyl serue the. And he said to them: come agayne vnto me after thre dayes. And the people departed.

¶ And kyng Rehoboam counsailed wth the elders that had stande before Salomon hys fa- ther, while he yet lyued, and he sayde: What counsaile gyue ye me, to answer thys people a- gayne? And they tolde hym, sayeng: Vt thou be- kynde to thys people, and shewe thy self lowly to them, and speake lounge woordes to them: they wyl be thy seruauntes for euer. But he left the counsaile whiche the elders gaue hym, and toke counsaile wth the ponge men that were growen vp wth him, and that stode in his ptesence. And he sayd vnto them: what aduise geue ye, that we maye answer this people, whiche haue comuned w me, saying: abate somwhat of the pocke whiche thy father dyd put vpon vs.

And the ponge men that were growen vp wth hym, spake vnto hym, sayeng: Thus shalt thou answer the people that spake to the, sayenge: Thy father made oure pocke heuy: but make þ it somwhat lighter for vs. Thus shalt thou say vnto them, my lytle synger shall be heuyer then my fathers loynes. * For where my father put a heuy pocke vpon you, I wyl put moze to your pocke. my father chastysed you wth whippes, but I wyl chastyce you wth scorpions.

And so Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the thyrde day, as the kyng bad, sayeng: come agayne to me the thyrde daye. And the kyng answered them cruelly: & kyng Rehoboam lefte the counsell of the aged men, & answered them after the aduise of the pong men sayenge: My father made your pocke greuous, and I wyl adde therto: my father chastised you wth whippes, but I wyl chastice you wth scorpions. And so the kyng herkened not vnto the people, but the occasion came of God that þ Lorde myght make good his sayeng, * whiche he spake, by the bande of Ahia the Silonite to Jeroboam & sonne of Nabat. And when al they of Israel sawe þ the kyng wolde not agre vnto them: the people answered the kyng, sayenge, what part haue we w Dauid, or enheritaunce w the sonne of Isai: let euery mā of Israel go to his tent. * And now Dauid, se to thynne owne house. And so all Israel gat them to theyr tentes, so þ Rehoboam raygned ouer no mo of þ children of Israel, the dwelt in þ cities of Iuda. The kyng Rehoboam also sent Hadurā þ was ruler ouer the trybute, & the chyldren of Israel stoned hym wth stones þ he dyed. But kyng Rehoboam made speede to get hym vnto hys charet, to fflye to Jerusalem. And they of Israel rebelled a- gaynst the house of Dauid vnto thys daye.

The xi. Chapter.

Rehoboam is forbydden to fgyht agaynst Jeroboam. he hath xliii. wyues, and li. concubynes, and by them xliii. sonnes, and li. daughters.

And when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, * he gathered of þ house of Iuda and Ben Jamin, nine score. chosmen of warre to fgyht a- gaynst Israel, and to bypunge the kyngdome a- gayne to Rehoboam. And the woorde of the Lord came to Semeiahu the man of God, say- eng: speake vnto Rehoboam, the sonne of Sa- lomon kyng of Iuda, & to all them of Israel þ are in Iuda, and Ben Jamin, and saye: thus say- eth the Lorde. Ye shall not go vp nor fgyhte a- gaynst your brethren: retorne euery man to his house for this thing is done of me. And they o- beyed the wordes of the Lord, and returned fro goynge agaynst Jeroboam.

And Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem, & build- stronge cities in Iuda he builded vp Bethel, and and Etam, and Theko: Bethzur, Socho, and Abullam: Gath, and Marela: and Ziph Aburahim, Lachis and Aserba: zorea, Aialon and Hebron, which is in Juda and Ben Jamin, strong cities. And he repayzed the stronge holdes and put captaynes i them, and store of vptayle, and wyne, and oyle. And in all cittyes he put shylde and speares, and made them creadyng strong haungye Juda and Ben Jamin on hys syde.

And the prestes & the Leuites that were in al Israel, resorted vnto hym out of all theyr coastes. For the Leuites left theyr suburges & theyr possessiō, and came to Juda and Ierusalem: * for Jeroboam & his sonnes had cast them out from minystryng vnto the Lorde. * And he ordeyned hym prestes for the hylalters, for sheldes and for the calnes whiche he had made. And after the Leuites there went of al the trybes of Israel, suche as submytted theyr hertes to seke the Lorde God of Israel, and came to Ierusalem to offer vnto the Lorde God of theyr fathers. And for they strenghted sh kyngdome of Juda, & made Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon myghtye, the yere long, for the yere they walked in sh waye of Dauid and Salomon.

And Rehoboam tooke hym Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth the sonne of Dauid to wyfe, & Abihail the daughter of Eliab the sone of Isai, which bare hym chyldren Jeus. Samaria, and Zaba. And after her he toke * Maaka sh daughter of Absalom whiche bare hym Abia, Attai, Ziza, and Selomith. And Rehoboam loved Maacah the daughter of Absalom aboue all hys wyues and concubines, for he toke eyghtene wyues, and thre score concubynes, and begate xlviii. sones, and thre score daughters. And Rehoboam made Abiah the sonne of Maacah the chiefe ruler among his bzethzen, and to haue the ouersyght of the kyngdome. And he playde wyllyng, and scatered all hys chyldren thorowout al the countreyes of Juda and Ben Jamin vnto euery stronge citty. And he gaue them aboundaunce of vitayle, and obtayned many wyues.

The. xii. Chapter.

Shelac kynge of Egypte robbeth the temple of the Lorde. Rehoboam dyeth, and Abia hys sonne succeideth hym.

And it came to passe, sh when Rehoboam had stablished the kyngdome and became myghtye, he forsoke the lawe of the lorde, and all Israel wyllyng hym. * And it fortuned sh in the fyfth yere of kyng Rehoboam, Shelac the kyng of Egypte came vpon agaynst Ierusalem, because they had transgressed agaynst sh Lorde. xii. C. charrettes, & lx. M. horsemen. And the people were wylthout nombre, sh came wylth hym out of Egypte Lubim, Suckim, & the blacke mores. And they toke sh strong cities in Juda, & came to Ierusalem.

Then came Semeia the prophete to Rehoboam & to the lordes of Juda, that were gathered together within Ierusalem for Shelac, and said vnto them: thus sayeth the Lorde, ye haue left me, and therfore haue I also left you in the handes of Shelac. Wher vpon the lordes of Israel, & the kyng humbled them selues, and sayde: the Lorde is ryghteous. And when the Lorde sawe that they submytted them selues, the word of sh Lorde came to Semeia, sayeng: They submit them selues, therfore I wyl not destroye them. But I wylle delpyer them some what, and my wrath shall not burne vpon Ierusalem by the hand of Shelac. Neuertheles, they shall be his seruantes, to knowe what dyfference is betwene my seruyce, and the seruyce of the kyngedomes of the worlde. And so Shelac kyng of Egypte came to Ierusalem, and toke awaye the treasures of the house of the Lorde, and the treasures of the kynges house: he toke euen all. And he carped awaye the shylde of golde, * which Salomon made. In steade of whych, kyng Rehoboam made shylde of brasse, and comytted them to the handes of the captaynes: whych had the quersyght of the fote men, and that kept the entraunce of sh kynges house. And it came to passe that when the kyng entred into the house of the Lorde the garde came and fet them and brought them agayne vnto the garde chāber. And when he humbled hym selfe, the wrath of sh Lorde turned from hym, that he wolde not destroye al together. And in Juda all was well.

And so kyng Rehoboam waxed myghtye, & raygned in Ierusalem. And Rehoboam was. xli. yere olde, when he began to raygne, & raygned xlviii. yeres in Ierusalem, the citty whych the Lorde had chosen out of al the trybes of Israel to put his name there. And hys mothers name was Maama an Ammonites. * And he dyd euell because he prepared not hys hert to seke sh Lorde.

The actes also of Rehoboam, fyrst and laste, are they not wyrtte in the sayenges of Semeia the prophete, and of Iddo the sear, whych noted the genealogye and there was warre alway betwene Rehoboam and Jeroboam. And Rehoboam slepte with hys fathers, and was buryed in the citty of Dauid, and Abia his sonne raygned in hys steade.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The victory of Abia agaynst Jeroboam.

In the. xlviii. yere of kyng Jeroboam * began Abia to raygne ouer Juda and he raygned thre yere in Ierusalem. His mothers name also was Michasabai the daughter of Uriel of Gibeon. And there was warre betwene Abia & Jeroboam. And Abia made prouision for the warre, hauing valeaunt & experie men of warre eue. liii. C. M. chosen me. And Jeroboam set him self in aray to fyght agaynst hym w. viii. C. M.

pyete men whych were stronge & men of armes.

And Abia stode vp vpon zemeraim an hyll, whiche is in mount Ephraim, & sayde: heare me thou Jeroboam & al Israel. Do not you knowe howe that the Lord God of Israel gaue þing dome ouer them of Israel, to Dauid for euer, euen to hym and to hys sonnes wpyth a salted covenannt? And Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat þe seruaunt of Salomon the sonne of Dauid is risen vp, and hath rebelled agaynst his Lord. And there gathered to him leude men the chyldren of Belial, & preuayled agaynst Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon, wher Rehoboam was ponge and tender herted, & coude not stande before them.

And nowe ye saye, þe ye be able to preuayle agaynst the kyngdome of the Lord, whych is in the handes of þe sonnes of Dauid, & ye be a great multitude, & haue the golden calues* whiche Jeroboam made you for goddes. * And haue ye not caste out the prestes of the Lord the sonnes of Aaron, and the Leuites, and haue made you prestes after the maner of the nacyns of other landes: so þe whosoever cometh & consecrateth hys hand with a ponge ore & vii. rams, þe same may be a preste of them that are no goddes.

But we belonge vnto þe Lord our god whome we haue not forsaken, & the prestes are þe sonnes of Aaron whych minystr vnto the Lord, and the Leuites wayt vpon thei office. They burne vnto the Lord euery moynyng and euenyng burnt sacrificys & swete incence, þe we we breadye set they in order vpon a pure table: & prepare the candlestycke of golde w the lampes of the same to burne euer at euen. And truely we kepe the watche of the lord our God: but ye haue forsaken hym. And behold, God hym selfe is our cap tapne, and hys prestes blowe wpyth the * trompettes, and crye alarum agaynst you. O ye chyldren of Israel, fyght not agaynst the Lord god of your fathers, for it wyl not prosper w you.

But for all that, Jeroboam conueyed me preuely aboute, to come behynde them: and so they were before Juda, and the lyers in wayte were behynde them. And when they of Juda looked aboute, beholde the battayle was before and behynde, and they cryed vnto the Lord, and þe prestes blew wpyth the trompettes, and the men of Juda gaue a shoute. And as the men of Juda shouted, it came to passe, that God smote Jeroboam and Israel before Abia & Juda. And the chyldren of Israel fled before Juda, and God deliuered them into thei hande. And Abia & hys people slue a greate slaughter of them: there fell downe wounded of Israel. v. C. M. chosen men. And so the chyldren of Israel were brought vnder at that tyme: & the chyldren of Juda preuayled: because they leaned vnto the lord God of thei fathers. And Abia folowed after Jeroboam, and toke cities from hym, Bethel, with the townes belogging therto, Jersana w the townes that loged therto, & Ephraim w her townes. And Jeroboam recovered no strenght agayn in þe dayes of Abia. And the lord plagued hym, & he dyed.

But Abia waxed myghtie, & married. xlii. wyues, & begat. xlii. sonnes & xvi. daughters.

The rest of the actes of Abia, his customs & sayenges ar wypte in þe story of þe prophet Iddu. The. xliii. Chapter.

Col Asa kynge of Iuda.

Asa slepte with hys fathers, and they buried hym in the cite of Dauid: and * Asa hys sonne raygned in hys stede: In whose dayes the lande was in quyetnesse ten yere.

And * Asa dyd that was good and ryght in the eyes of the Lord his God: for he toke away strange alters & the hylalters, & brake downe the ymages, and cut downe the groues, and commaunded Iuda to seke the Lord God of thei fathers, and to do accordyng to the lawe & commaundement: And he put away out of al cityes of Iuda the hylalters and the ymages, and the kyngdom was quiet before hym. And he buylt stronge Cities in Iuda: bycause the lande was in rest, and he had no warre in those yeres. For the Lord had gyuen hym reste.

Therefore he sayd to Iuda: let vs buyld these Cities and make aboute them walles, towres, gates, and barres, for the lande is yet in rest before vs, because we haue sought the Lord our God: we haue sought hym, and he hath geue vs rest on euery syde: and so they buylt and it prospered wpyth them. And Asa had an army of me that bare shyldes and speares oute of Iuda thre hundred thousande: and out of Ben Jamin that bare shyldes and dyne bowes, two hundred and foure scoze thousand, al these were valiaunt men.

And there came out agaynst them Zerah, the blacke Mozyan * with an hoste of ten hundred thousand and thre hundred charettes, and came as farre as Mareca. And Asa went oute before hym, and they iorned the battayle in the valley of Zephata belyde Mareca. And Asa cryed vnto the Lord hys God, and sayde Lord: * it is no harde thyng wpyth the to helpe eyther many, or them that haue no power: helpe vs therefore, O Lord our God, for we trust to þe, & in thy name we go agaynst this multitude. Thou arte the Lord our God, and no man shall preuayle agaynst the. So the Lord smote þe blacke mozes before Asa and Juda, and the blacke mozes fled. And Asa and the people that was wpyth hym folowed after them vnto Gerer. And the blacke mozes hoste was ouerthrowen, that there was none of them left, but were destroyed before þe Lord and before his hoste. And they carped awaye a myghty greate praye. And they smote all the cityes rounde about Gerer. For the feare of the Lord came vpon them. And they spoyled all the cityes, and there was excedyng muche spoyle in them, they smote also the tentes of cattell, and carped awaye plenty of shepe and camels, and returned to Jerusalem.

is wyth you, wyle ye be wyth hym, and when ye seke hym, he wyll be founde of you, & agayne when ye forsake hym, he also wyll forsake you, And truly for a longe season in Israel no man sought the true God, no man regarded the prest that taught them, no man cared for the lawe. And whē any man in his trouble dyd turne vnto the Lorde God of Israel, and sought hym, he was found of them. And in that tyme ther was no peace to hym, that dyd go out & in: but great sedicion was there amonge all the inhabytters of the earth. And nacion was destroyed of nacyon, and cite of cite: for God dyd moue all aduersite amonge them. Blame ye therfore y men and let not your handes slacke, for your worke shall be rewarded.

And when Asa heard those wordes, and the prophesye of Azaria: the sonne of Obed the pphete, he toke courage, and put awaye the abhominable ydols oute of all the lande of Iuda and Beniamin, & out of the cityes which he wanne in mount Ephraim, and renued the Altare of the Lorde, that was before the porche of y Lord. And he gathered al Iuda & Beniamin, and the straungers wyth them oute of Ephraim. Manasse and Simcon. For there fell many to hym out of Israel, when they saw that the Lorde his God was with hym. So they assembled to Jerusalem the xij. moneth, the fyfteenth yere of the raygne of Asa. And they offred vnto y Lord y same tyme of y spoyle which they had brought vii. hundred oxen, and vii. thousande shepe.

And they made a couenaunt to seke y Lorde God of they fathers, wyth all they herte, and all they soule. And who so euer wolde not seke the Lorde God of Israel, shulde dye for it: whe ther he were small or great, man or womā. And they swore vnto the Lorde wyth a loude voyce shoutyng and blowyng wyth trompettes and shawmes. And all they in Iuda reioyced at the othe, for they had sworn vnto the Lorde wyth all they herte, and soughte hym wyth all they lust, and he was founde of them. And the Lorde gaue them rest rounde about on euery syde.

And kyng Asa put Maacha his mother out of auctoryte, because she had made an abhominable ydoll: (of y: rapus) in a groue: & Asa brake downe her ydoll, & stamped it, & burnte it at the broke Cedron. But all the hyllalters were not taken awaye out of Israel: thoughte the hert of Asa was perfyte all his dayes. And he brought into the house of God the thynges that his father had dedycate, & that he hym selfe had dedycate: euen syluer, and golde, and Jewelles. And there was no more warre vnto the xxxv. yere of the raygne of Asa.

The xvi. Chapter.

Asa for feare of Baasa kyng of Israel, maketh a couenaunt wyth Benhadad kyng of Syria.

In the xxxvi. yere of y raygne of Asa came y Baasa kyng of Israel vpon agaynst Iuda, & buylt Rama to then tent y he wolde let none passe oute or in: (sate) to Asa kyng of Iuda. And Asa fer out golde and syluer, oute of the treasures of the house of y Lord, & of the kynges house & sent to Benhadad kyng of Syria y dwelt at Darmesec, & sayde: There is a confederacion betwene me & the, betwene my father & thyne. Beholde, I haue sent the syluer & gold, that y wyle come & breake thine appoyntment wyth Baasa kyng of Israel y he maye departe fro me. And Benhadad graunted vnto kyng Asa, & sent to the captaynes of his army to the cities of Israel. And they smote Iion, Don, & Abelmāin, and the strong cities of Nephtaly. And whē Baasa heard this, he lefte buyldyng of Rama, and let his worke cease. And then Asa y kyng toke all Iuda, & carped awaye the stones & tymber of Rama wher wyth Baasa was a buylding and he buylt therwyth Gēba and Mizpa.

At that same tyme Hanani the sear came to Asa kyng of Iuda: & sayd vnto hym: because y hast trusted in the kyng of Syria, & not rather put thy trust in the Lorde thy God, therfore is y hoste of the kyng of Syria escaped out of thine hāde. * Had not the blacke Moyses, & Lubim an excedyng greate hoste wyth many charettes and horsemen: And yet because y trustedest in the Lorde, he deliuered them into thyne hande. For the eyes of the Lorde beholde all y earth to strenght them y are of perfyte herte toward him * Herin thou hast done foolishlye, & therfore shouldest thou shalt haue warre. And Asa was wroth wyth y sear, & put hym into a prysō house for he was dyspleased w hym, because of this thyng. And Asa destroyed certayn of y people the same ceason. And behold, these dedes of Asa first and last, are wyrtten in the boke of the kynges of Iuda and Israel. And Asa in the xxxix. yere of his raygne fell sycke in his fete, and that dyscase contynued verye longe. And in his sickenesse, he soughte not the Lorde, but phisycons. And Asa slept wyth his fathers, and died in y xli. yere of his raygne. And they buried him in his owne sepulchre, whiche he had made for hym selfe in the Citie of Dauid, and layde hym in the bed which he had fylled wyth dyuerse kindes of spyes & swete odoures, made by y crafte of the potecaryes. And they burnte verp moche spye aboute hym.

The xvii. Chapter.

Jehosaphat causeth the feare of the Lorde to be renued amonge the people.

And Jehosaphat his sone raygned in his stad, and preuailed agaynst Israel. And he put souldiers in al y strēg cities of Iuda, and set rulers in the lande of Iuda & in y cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had wonne. And y Lord was wyth Jehosaphat, because he walked in the olde wayes of his father Dauid, and sought not Baalim. But sought y Lorde God of his father, and walked in his comaundmentes, and not after the doinges of Israel. And the Lorde stablyshed the kyngdome in his hande, & all they that were in Iuda, brought hym presentes, so that he had aboundaunce of rychesse and honoure. And he lyft vp his hert vnto y wayes of the Lorde, & he put downe yet more of the hyllalters

B alters and grones oute of Juda. In the thyrde yere of his raygne he sent to his lordes, euen to Benhail, Obadia, zacharia, Bethanel, and to Michaahu, that they shoulde teache in the cityes of Juda, and wpth them he sent Leuites: euen Semetahu, Bethaniabu, zabadiabu, Alabel, Semiramoth, Jehonathan, Adoniabu, Tobiahu, & Tubadonia, and wpth them Elisamah and Jehoza prestes. And they taught in Juda, and had the booke of plawe of God with them, and went about thowout al the cityes of Juda, and taught the people.

C And the feare of the Lorde fell vpon all the kyngdomes of the landes þ were rounde aboute Juda, & they fought not agaynst Jeholaphat, & some of þ Philistines brought Jeholaphat gyftes & tribute syluer. And thereto the Arabians brought hym catel: euen. vii. M. & vii. C. rams & vii. M. & vii. C. hegores. And so Jeholaphat prospered & grue vpon an hye. And he buylt in Juda, castels & stronge cityes, & he had greute substaunce in the cityes of Juda, but the men of armes and strongest souldyers were in Jerusalem.

D And these are the offyces of the in the houses of they fathers, the captayns ouer thousandes in Juda. Adna the captayne, and wpth hym of fyghtyng men. iii. C. M. And nexte to his hãde was Jehohanan a captayne, & wpth hym. ii. C. & lxxx. M. And next hym was Amazia þ son of zichri, which of his owne good wpll offred hym selfe vnto the Lord & wpth hym. ii. C. M. myghthe men of warre. And of the chyldren of Ben-Jamin, Eliada a man of myght, and had wpth hym armed men wpth bowe & shylde. ii. C. M. And nexte hym was Jeholabad, & wpth him an C. lxxx. M. þ were prepared for the war. These wayted on the kyng, besydes those whiche the kyng put in þ strong cityes thowout al Juda

C The. xviii. Chapter.

After Ahab had asked counsaile of the four hundred prophetes, he put Michæa in pylon. He dyeth wpth the host of an arrowe.

A And Jeholaphat had aboundaunce of ryches and honoure, & ioynded afynpte with Ahab. And after certayne yeres he wēt downe to Ahab to Samaria. And Ahab slue many shepe & oxen for him, and for the people þ he had wpth hym, and entreated him to go vp w him vn to Ramoth in Gilead. And Ahab kyng of Israel sayd to Jeholaphat kyng of Juda: wylt þ go with me to Ramoth in Gilead? And he answered hym: I wyl be as þ and my people shal be as thyne, and we wyl go with the to the warre.

B And Jeholaphat sayde vnto the kyng of Israel: aske counsell I pray the at the word of the Lorde thys same daye. Therfore the kyng of Israel gathered together of prophetes. iii. C. men, & sayd vnto them, Shall we go to Ramoth in Gilead to fyght, or shulde I cease? And they sayd: go vp, & God shall deliuer it into the kynges hande. But Jeholaphat sayde, is there yet here neuer a prophete more of þ Lordes that we myghte aske of hym? And the kyng of Israel sayd vnto Jeholaphat: there is yet one man, by whom we maye aske the Lord. But I hate him for he neuer prophesyeth me good, but alwaye euell, & the same is Michæa the sonne of Jimla, and Jeholaphat sayde: let not the kyng scape so.

And the kyng of Israel called one of his chyberlayns, & sayde fetch he better quickly Michæa the sonne of Jimla. And the kyng of Israel, & Jeholaphat kyng of Juda sate epyther of them on his seate in theyr apparell, in a thersyng floore besyde the gate of Samaria, and all the prophetes propheted before them. And one zedekia the sonne of Chanana had made hym honyes of yron, and sayde: thus sayth the Lorde, these shalt thou ouerthrowe Syria, vntyl they be brought to nought. And all þ prophetes propheted euen so, sayenge: Go vp to Ramoth in Gilead, and it shall prosper wpth the: for the Lord shall deliuer it into þ hande of the kyng.

And þ messenger þ went to cal Michæa spake to hym, sayenge: beholde, the wordes of the prophetes speake good to þ kyng wpth one assent let thy wordes therfore be lyke one of theys, þ thou speake that whiche is pleasaunt. And Michæa sayde: as truly as þ Lord lyueth, eue what my God saith þ wyl I speake. And whē he was come to the kyng, the kyng sayde vnto hym: Michæa, shall we goo to Ramoth in Gilead to fyght, or leaue of? And he sayde: go vp, & al shal be well: and they shal be deliuered into your hande. And the kyng sayde to hym: So and so many tymes do I charge þ, that þ say nothyng but the truth to me: in the name of the Lorde.

Then he sayde: I dyd se all them of Israel scatered in þ mountayns, as shepe þ haue no shepherde. And the Lord sayd: these haue no master let them retorne euery mā therfore to his house in peace. And the kyng of Israel sayde to Jeholaphat: dyd I not tell the, þ he wold not prophete good vnto me: but euell? But he sayd agayn therfore heare ye þ worde of the Lorde. * I saw the Lorde syt vpon his seate, & al the company of heauen stode on his ryght hande & on his left. And the Lorde sayde. who shall deceaue Ahab kyng of Israel: þ he maye go vp & be ouerthrowen at Ramoth in Gilead? And he said: one sayeth thys, another þ. And there came out a sprete & stode before þ Lord, & sayd: I wil deceiue him. And þ Lord sayde vnto hym: Wherein? And he sayde: I wyl go out, and be a lyeng sprete in the mouth of all his prophetes. And the Lord sayde thou shalt deceaue hym: & shalt preuaile go out and do euen so. And now therfore beholde, * the Lorde hath put a lyenge sprete in þ mouthes of all these thy prophetes, & the Lorde hath spoken euell agaynst the. And zedekia the sone of Chanana went to, & smote Michæa vpo the cheke: & sayd, by what way went þ sprete of þ Lord fro me, to speake w the? And Michæa said þ shalt se the daye when þ shalt go in from chãbe to chãbe, for to hyde thy selfe. And the kyng of Israel sayd: take ye Michæa, & byng hym to Ammon the gouernour of þ cite & to Joas þ kynges sone and ye shal save, thus sayth the kyng. put this felowe in the prison house, & fede hym w breade of aspyctton & water of trouble vntyl I come & gayne in peace. And Michæa sayd: yf þ come & gayne

iii. re. xxii. a

gayne in peace, then hath not the Lorde spoken to me. And he sayd herke to ye people every one of you. And so the kynge of Israel and Jehosaphat the kynge of Juda went up to Ramoth in Gilead. And the kynge of Israel sayde vnto Jehosaphat: I must change me, when I go to the batayle: but se that thou haue thynne owne apparell vpon the. And the kynge of Israel chaunged hym selfe, and they came to batayl. But the king of Siria had comaunded the captaynes of the charretts to be with him, sayinge: se ye fyght not agaynst small or great, saue agaynst the kynge of Israel onely. And when the captaynes of the charrettes sawe Jehosaphat, they sayde: it is the kynge of Israel, & therfore they compassed about hym to fyght. But Jehosaphat cryed out, & the Lorde helped him, & God chased them away fro hym. For it came to passe when the captaynes of the charrets perceyued that it was not the kynge of Israel, they turned backe agayne from hym. And a certayne man drew a bowe with al his myght, & smote the kynge of Israel betwene the ioyntes of his habergin. And he sayd to his charretman, turne thynne hande, that thou mayst carrye me out of this hoste, for I am wounded. And the batayle ceased that daye. Howebeit the kynge of Israel caused his charrette to stande still agaynst the Sirians vntyll euen. And about the tyme of the sunne goyng downe, he dyed.

The. xix. Chapter.

After Jehosaphat was rebuked by the prophet Jehu, he called agayn the people to the honouringe of the Lorde.

And Jehosaphat the king of Juda came home agayne in peace to Jerusalem. And Jehu the son of Hanani the sear went out to mete him, & sayd to king Jehosaphat: Woldest thou helpe the vngodly, & loue them that hate the Lorde: therfore is wrath come vpon thee from before the Lorde. Neuer theles, there are some good actes found in thee, in that thou hast hewen downe thy groves out of the lande and hast prepared thine heart to seke god. And so Jehosaphat dwelt at Jerusalem: and turned and went out to the people from Beerseba to mount Ephraim, and brought them agayn vnto the Lorde God of their fathers. And he set Judges in the land thorowout al the strong cities of Juda, citie by citie: & sayde to the Judges: take hede what ye do, for ye execute not the iudgements of man, but of God, whiche is with you in the iudgement. Wherefore now, let the feare of the Lorde be vpon you and take hede, and be doyng (the thing that pleaseth hym) for there is no vnrightheousnesse with the Lorde our God: that he should haue any respecte of persones, or take rewardes.

Moreover in Jerusalem dyd Jehosaphat set of the Levites, & of the prestes & of the auncient fathers ouer Israel, in the iudgement & cause of the Lorde. And they returned agayne to Jerusalem. And he charged them sayeng: Thus shall ye do in the feare of the Lorde, with the truth and a pure herte: What cause so euer come to you of your brethren that dwell in the cities, betwene blood & blood, betwene lawe & comaundment, betwene statutes & ordinaunces, ye shall warn them that they trespasse not agaynst the Lorde, & so wrath come vpon you & on your brethren. Thus do & ye shall not offende. And behold, Amarias the prest is amonge you in al matters of the Lorde. & Zebadiah the son of Simael, a ruler of the house of Juda, he is ouer such busynesses as concerne the kynge: there be offycers of the Levites also before you. Take courage to you therfore, & be doyng manfully: & the Lorde shall be with you such as he good.

The. xx. Chapter.

The maruelous victory that the Lorde gaue Jehosaphat kynge of Juda agaynst the Moabites, and the chyldren of Ammon, and them of Seir.

After this also, it fortuned that the chyldren of Moab & the chyldren of Ammon and with them other of the Ammonites came agaynst Jehosaphat to battayle. And there came some that tolde Jehosaphat sayng: there cometh a great multitude agaynst thee from the other syde of the sea, & out of Siria. And behold they be in Hasalon Tamar, which is Engadi. And Jehosaphat feared: and set hym selfe to seke the Lorde and proclaymed fastynge thorowout all Juda. And they that were in Juda, gathered themselves together to aske counsel of the Lorde. And they came out of al the cities of Juda to make intercession to the Lorde. And Jehosaphat stode betwene the congregacion of Juda and Jerusalem in the house of the Lorde before the new court. & sayd. O Lorde God of our fathers, art not thou God in heaue, & raygneest not thou on al the kyngdomes of the heathen? And in thynne hande is power & myghte, & there is no man that is able to withstande thee. Art not thou our God, which dydest cast out the inhabitants of this lande before thy people Israel, & gauest it to the sede of Abraham thy louer for euer? And they dwelt therein, & haue buylt thee a temple therein for thy name, sayenge. * Yet euell come vpon vs, as the swerde of iudgement, pestilence, or hunger, the which we stand before this house in thy presence, for thy name is in this house, & cry vnto the in our tribulacyon, heare thou and helpe.

And now beholde, the chyldren of Ammon & Moab, & mount Seir, by whom thou woldest not let them of Israel go, when they came out of the lande of Egypt: but they departed from them, & destroyed them not. Se, how they rewarde vs, to come for to cast vs out of thy possessiō, which thou hast geuen vs to enheret. O our God wilt thou not iudge them? for we haue no myghte agaynst this great company that cometh agaynst vs. Neither wote we what to do: but our eyes be vnto thee. And al Juda stode before the Lorde with theyr yonge ones, theyr wyues, & theyr chyldren and there was Jehasiel the sone of Zacharia the sonne of Banaia the sonne of Jehiel the sonne of Athania, a Leuite of the sones of Asaph, and vpon hym came the sprete of the Lorde, euen in the myds of the congregacion. And he sayd herken al Juda, & ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, and thou kynge Jehosaphat: Thus sayeth the Lorde vnto you: be not afrayde, nor faynte herted by reason of this great multitude: for the battaile is not yours, but Goddes. Tomorrow go ye downe agaynst them for they come vp at ziz & ye shall ye shall fynde them at the ende of þe broke before the wylbernesse of Jernel. Ye shall not nede to fyght in thys battayle: but step forth and stand and beholde the helpe of the Lord which is with you: feare not, nor let your hertes fayle you, O ye of Juda and of Jerusalem. To morowe go out agaynst them, for þe Lord wilbe wyth you. And Jeholaphat bowed his face to the earth & al Juda and the enhabiteres of Jerusalem fel before the Lord, worshyping the Lord. And the Levites of the chyldren of the Tabathites & of the chyldren of the Cozathytes stode up, to prayse the Lord God of Israel: wyth a loude voyce on hye. And when they arose early in the mornynge, they gat them out vnto the wylbernesse of Chekoa. And as they went oute, Jeholaphat stode & sayd: heare me, O Juda, & eenhabyters of Jerusalem. Put your trust in þe Lord your God, that ye maye be founde sayth full. Geue credence to hys prophetes, and so shall ye prospere. And he gaue the people coucel, and set some to synge vnto the Lord, & to prayse hym in the bewtye of holynes, and to go out before þe armie, as they went, and to saye, prayse þe Lord for hys mercye lasteth euer. And what tyme as they began to laude and prayse, then the Lord stered vp certayne of the chyldren of Ammon & Moab, whych layde wayte for them that were of mount Seir: which were come agaynst Juda. And they were ouerthrowen wyth strokes among them selues. For the chyldren of Ammon and Moab rose agaynst the inhabiteres of mount Seir. And they slewe and destroyed them: And when they had made an ende of the enhabiteres of Seir, euerye one helped to destroye an other amonge them selues.

¶ And when Juda came to the edge of the wylbernesse, they looked vnto the multitude. And behold, they were dead carcases fallen to þe earth, and none escaped, and whē Jeholaphat and his people came to take awaye the spoyle of them: they found amonge them aboundaunce of goodes, rayment & pleasaunt Jewels, whych they toke for themselves, more then they coude cary awaye: so that they were thre dapes in gatheringe of the spoyle, it was so moche. And the fourth daye they assembled in the valley of blessinge, for there they blessed the Lord. And therfore they called the name of the same place, the valley of blessinge vnto thys daye. And so all the men of Juda and Jerusalem returned with Jeholaphat theyr heed, for to go agayne to Jerusalem with gladnesse, for the lord had made them to reioyce ouer theyr enemyes. And they came to Jerusalem with psalteries, and harpes and shawmes, euen vnto the house of the Lord. And the feare of God fel in the kyngdoms of al landes, when they hadde hearde that the Lord fought agaynst the enemyes of Israel. And so the realme of Jeholaphat was in tranquillitye: and hys God gaue hym rest on euery syde.

¶ And Jeholaphat raygned vpon Juda, and was, xxxv. yere olde when he began to raygne and raygned, xxv. yere in Jerusalem, and hys mothers name was Alsaba the daughter of Sil

hi. And he walked in the wayes of Asa hys father, & bowed not ther from, doyng that whych was ryght in the syght of the Lord. Howbeit the hylaulters were not taken awaye, for þe people had not yet prepared theyr hertes vnto the God of theyr fathers. The rest of þe actes of Jeholaphat fyrst & last beholde they are wyrtt amonge the sayenges of Jehu þe sonne of Hanani which noted the in þe booke of þe kynges of Israel.

After thys dyd Jeholaphat kyng of Juda ioyne hym selfe with Ahaziah kyng of Israel whose mynde was to do wyckedly. He coupled hym selfe wyth hym, to make shypes to go to Charlis. And they made the shypes in Ezion Gaber. And Elisee the sonne of Eodanah of Maresa propheryed agaynst Jeholaphat, sayenge: because thou haste ioynd thy selfe wyth Ahaziah, the Lord hath broken thy workes. And the shypes were broken, that they were not able to go to Charlis.

¶ The. xxi. Chapter.

Jeholaphat dyeth, and Jehoram succedeth hym, whych kyllerh hys brethern, and is oppressed of the Iehudites, and dyeth of the flyce.

¶ Jeholaphat also slepte wth hys fathers and was buryed wth hys fathers in þe cite of Dauid, and Jehoram hys sonne raygned in his steade, & he had brethern whiche were þe sonnes of Jeholaphat, Azaria, Jehiel, zacharia, Asaria, Michael, & Sephatiah. All these were the sonnes of Jeholaphat kyng of Juda. And theyr father gaue them many great gyftes of gold & syluer & other specyal substans wth stronge cityes in Juda: but the kyngdom gaue he to Jehoram, for he was the eldest. And Jehoram rose vp agaynst the kyngdome of hys father, and preuayled, and slue all his brethern wyth the swearde, & dyuerse of the Lordes of Israel. * Jehoram was, xxii. yere olde when he began to raygne, & he raygned, viii. yere in Jerusalem. And he walked in the wayes of þe kynges of Israel, lyke as dyd the house of Ahab, for he had þe doughter of Ahab to wyfe, & he wrought euell in the eyes of the Lord. Howbeit, þe Lord wolde not destroye the house of Dauid, because of the couenaunte that he had made wyth Dauid, as he promysed to geue a lyght to hym, and to hys sonnes for euer. In his dayes þe Edomites rebelled whē they were vnder þe dominion of Juda, & made them selues a kyng. And Jehoram went forth wth his Lordes, & all his charets were wyth hym: & he rose vp by night, & smote þe Edomites, whych compassed him in, & the captayns of the charets. But Edom rebelled styll, so þe they wolde not be vnder þe bande of Juda vnto thys daye. That same tyme also dyd Libna departe fro beyng vnder hys bande because Jehoram had forsaken þe Lord God of his fathers. Moreover he made hylaulters in þe cityes of Juda, & caused þe inhabyters of Jerusalem to comyt fornicatis, & prouoked Juda to Idolatry. And there came a wyrtynge to hym from Elia þe prophete sayeng Thus saith þe Lord god of Dauid thy father because þe hast not walked in þe wayis of Jeholaphat thy father, & in þe wayis of Asa kyng of Juda, but walkedst in þe wayis of þe kynges of Israel, & hast made made Iuda and the dwellers of Ierusalem to go a whoring, lyke to the whoredome of the house of Ahab, and hast slayne thy brethren, even thy fathers house, whiche were better then thou: behold, with a great plague wyl the Lorde smyte thy folke, thy chyldre, thy wyues, & thy goodes. And thou shalt suffre great payne: ene a disease of thy bowels vntyl thy guttes fall out by reason of thy synnes, daye by daye.

And so the Lorde stered vpagaynst Jehozā the spryte of the Philistines, and the Arabians & were besyde the blacke mores. And they came vnto Iuda, and wasted it, and carped awaye all the substance that was founde in þ kynges house, and his sonnes, & his wyues: so that there was neuer a sonne lefte hym saue Jehobabaz, whiche was þ yongest amonge his sonnes. And after all these thynges, the Lorde smote hym in his bowels with an vncurable disease. And it came to passe, that in processe of tyme, ene after the ende of two yeres, his guttes fell out in his synnes: & so he dyed of verypyll diseases. And they made no burnyng for him lyke þ burnyng of his fathers. When he beganne to raygne, he was xlii. yere olde, and raygned in Ierusalem viii. yere, and lyued wretchedly, howbeit, they buried hym in þ ctye of Dauid, but not amonge the sepulchres of the kynges.

The xlii. Chapter.

Abaziah raygneth in the roume of Jehozam. Jehu kyng of Israel kyled Abaziah. Athalia putteth to death all the kynges synners: only Joas escapeth.

And the inhabyters of Ierusalem made Abaziah his yongest son king in his stede. For the men of warre that came wth the host of the Arabians, had slaine al his eldest sonnes. And so Abaziah the sonne of Jehozā kyng of Iuda was made kyng. Two and fourty yere olde was he when he beganne to raygne, and he raygned one yere in Ierusalem. His mothers name was Athaliah þ daughter of Amri. And he walked also in þ wayes of þ house of Ahab, for his mother (by her counsel) entyled hym to do wickedly. Wherefore he dyd þ whiche was euill in the syght of the Lorde, as dyd they that were of þ house of Ahab: for they were his counsellors after the death of his father, to his destruction.

And he walked after theyr counsell, and went with Jehozā the sonne of Ahab kyng of Israel to fight agaynst Hazabel kyng of Siria at Ramoth in Gilead: and the Sirians smote Joaz. And he returned to be healed in Jezrael, of the woundes which were gyuen him at Rama, when he fought wth Hazabel kyng of Siria. And Abaziah the sonne of Jehozam kyng of Iuda wente downe to se Jehozam the sonne of Ahab at Jezrael, because he was diseased. And it cam of God, that Abaziah shuld be despyled for his conuynge to Jehozam: for when he was come, he went out wth Jehozam agaynst Jehu the sonne of Nimshi, whome the Lorde had anoynted to destroye the house of Ahab.

And so it came to passe that when Jehu was executyng iustice vpon the house of Ahab & had founde the lordes of Iuda and the sonnes of the brethren of Abaziah & wayted on Abaziah, he slue them. * And he sought Abaziah, & they caught hym where he was hyd in Samaria, & brought hym to Jehu. And whē they had slayne him, they buried hym: because (sayde they) he is the son of Jehosaphat, whiche sought the Lorde wth all his herte. And the house of Abaziah had no power to kepe styll the kyngdome.

But when Athaliah the mother of Abaziah sawe that her sonne was dead, she arose & destroyed all the kynges seed in the kindred of the house of Iuda. And Jehosabeth the daughter of the kyng toke Joas the sonne of Abaziah, and scale him from amonge the kynges sonnes that were slayne, and put him and his nurse in a pryuy chambze. And so Jehosabeth the daughter of king Jehozam the wyfe of Jehoiada the preeft and the syster of Abaziah hyd him from Athaliah that he was not slayne. And so he was wth them hydde in the house of God syxe yere. And Athaliah raygned ouer the lande.

The xliii. Chapter.

Joas the sonne of Abaziah is made kyng. Athaliah is put to death.

And in the seventh yere, Jehoiada A bringe bolde, toke the captaynes of hundredes, Abaziah the sonne of Jehozam, and Ismael the sonne of Jehobanan, Azariah the sonne of Obed, Maasiah the sonne of Adasiah, & Elisaphat the sonne of Zichri, and made a bonde wth them. And they went about in Iuda, and gathered the Leuites out of al the ctyes of Iuda, and the auncient fathers of Israel: and they came to Ierusalem. And all the congregacion made a bonde wth the kyng in the house of God. And he sayde vnto them: beholde, the kynges sonne muste raygne * as the Lorde hath sayde of the chyldren of Dauid.

This is it therfore that ye shal do. The thirde parte of you shal (on the Sabboth) come to the preeftes, Leuites, and keepers of þ porches. And an other thyrd parte shalbe in þ kynges house, and an other thyrd parte shalbe at the gate of the foundation, and all the people shal be in the courtes of the house of the Lorde. But there shal none come into þ house of the Lorde, saue the preeftes, and they that mynistre vnto the Leuites. They shal go in, for they are holy: but all the people shal kepe the watch of the Lorde. And the Leuites shal compasse the kyng rounde about, and euerye man shal haue his weapon in his hande, and what other man so euer doeth come into þ house of the Lorde, he shalbe slayne, and let them be wth the kyng, when he cometh in, and when he goeth out.

And the Leuites and al Iuda dyd accordyng to al thynges that Jehoiada the preeft had commaunded, and toke euery man his men that came on the Sabboth, wth them that went oute on the Sabboth daye, neyther dydde Jehoiada the preeft let the companyes departe. And Jehoiada the preeft deliuered to the captaynes of hundredes, speares, shylde, and bucklers that had pertayned to kyng Dauid, & were in the house of God. And he set all the people every man having his weapon in his hande, fro y^e right syde of the temple, to the left syde of the temple alonge by the alter & the temple rounde about the kynge. And they brought out the kynges son, and put upon hym the crowne, and * the testimonie, (and they gave hym in hys hande, the lawe that was to be kepte) and made hym kynge. And Jehoiada & his sonnes anoynted hym, & sayd: God save the kynge.

When Athaliahu hearde the noyse of y^e people runnyng and prayyng the kynge, she came to the people into the house of the Lorde. And she looked, and beheld, the kyng stode in his place at the entryng in, and the lordes and the troppettes were by the kynge, & all the people of the lande reioyced, blowyng with troppettes, & dyd playe with instrumetes of musyke, & taught to synge and prayse. But Athaliahu rente her clothes, & sayd: treason, treason. And Jehoiada the p^rest went out to the captaynes of hundredes that were gouerners of the host, & sayd vnto them: haue her out withoute the doore of the temple: and whoso foloweth her, let hym be slayne with the swerde. For the p^rest sayd that they shulde not slaye her in the house of the Lorde. And they layed handes on her, til she was come to the entryng of the horsagate, besyde the kynges house, and there they slue her.

nu. xxviii. a.

* And Jehoiada made a bonde betwene him and all the people, and y^e kynge, that they shulde be the Lordes people. And all the people went to the house of Baal, and destroyed it, & brake hys alters and hys ymages, and slue Mathan the p^rest of Baal, befoze the alters. And Jehoiada put the offices for the house of the Lorde, vnder the handes of the p^restres and Leuites, * as Dauid had distributed them in y^e house of the Lord, to offere burnt offerynges vnto the Lorde, * as it is wyrtten in the lawe of Moyses, wyth reioysyng and synnyng, as it was ordeyned by Dauid. And he set potters by the gates of the house of the Lorde, that none which was vncleane in any thyng, shulde entre in.

And he toke the captaynes of hundredes, and all the nobles, and the gouernours of the people & all the folke of the lande, and caused the kynge to come downe out of the house of the Lord, and they came thow the hye gate into the kynges house, & set the kynge vpon the seate of y^e kyngdome. And all the people of the lande reioyced, & the cyte was in tranquillite, after that they had slayne Athaliahu with the swerde.

The. xlii. Chapter.

Joas during the lyfe of Jehoiada kepeth the lawe, but after his death he regardeth it not. He killeth zachariah the prophet. Joas is kyled of his owne seruantes: after hym raygneth Amaziah.

iii. cc. xi. d.

Joas was seven yere olde when he began to raygne, * & he raygned fourty yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was ziba of Beer Seba. And Joas did that which was right in the syght of the Lord, all the dayes of Jehoiada the p^rest. And Jehoiada toke hym two wyues, and he begat sonnes and daughters.

And it chaunced after thys, that Joas was mynded to renue the house of the Lorde, and he gathered togyther the p^restres and the Leuites and sayd to them: go out vnto the cyties of Juda, and gather of al Israel money to repaire the house of your God, from yere to yere, & let ye haste the thyng: howbeit the Leuites were slacke. And the kynge called Jehoiada, y^e was the chiefe, and sayde vnto hym: Why requyrest thou not of the Leuites to byng in out of Juda & Jerusalem, * the collection of money, accordyng to the comaundement of Moyses the seruant of the Lorde: and the congregacion of Israel shulde offere it for the tabernacle of wyrtnesse. For wyked Athaliahu and her chyldren brake vp the house of God, and all the thynges that were dedicate for the house of the Lorde, dydde they bestowe for Bealim.

And at the kynges commaundement * they made a chest, & set it withoute at the gate of the house of y^e Lord: & made proclamacion thow Juda and Jerusalem, to byng into the Lorde, * the taracion of money, that Moyses y^e seruant of God set vpon Israel in the wyldernesse. And the lordes and all y^e people reioyced, & brought in, & cast into the chest, vntill it was full. And it fortuned, y^e at the same tyme they brought in y^e chest (vnto them which were in the kynges bysynes) by the hāde of the Leuites. And whē they sawe that there was moche money, the kynges scrbye (& one appoynted by the hye p^rest) came and emptyed the chest, and toke it, and caried it to his place agayne: thus they dyd day by day, and gathered moche moneye.

And the kynge and Jehoiada gaue it to such as dyd the labour and worke in the house of the Lorde, and hyed masons and carpenters to repaire the house of the Lorde, and so dyd the artificers in yron and bras, to amende the house of the Lorde. And so the workemen wrought, and the worke amended thow they handes: and they made the house of God as it ought to be, and strenghted it. And when they had finished it, they brought the rest of y^e moneye befoze the kynge and Jehoiada, and there wyth were made vesselles for the house of the Lorde: euen vesselles to mynister withall, & to serue for burnt offerynges, chargers & spones, vesselles of golde, and syluer. And they offered burnt offerynges in the house of the Lorde continually all the dayes of Jehoiada: But Jehoiada waxed olde, & dyd full of dayes. For an hundred and thyttye yere olde was he whē he dyed. And they buried hym in the cytie of Dauid amonge the kynges, because he dealt well with Israel, and wyth God and with his house. And after y^e death of Jehoiada, came the lordes of Juda, and made obeysaunce to the kynge. And the kynge hearkened vnto them. And so they left the house of y^e Lord God of they fathers, and serued groues and ydolles. And then came the wrath of God vpon Juda and Jerusalem, for this they trespassed lake. And he sent prophetes to them, to byng them agayne vnto the Lord. And they testified vnto them: But they wolde not heare.

And the spyrite of God came vpon zachariah ria the sonne of Jehoiada the prest, which stode by the people, and sayd vnto them. Thus sayth God: why transgresse ye the commaundementes of the Lorde, that ye cannot prospere? For because ye haue forsake the Lorde, he also hath forsaken you. * And they conspyred agaynst him and stoned him with stones at the commaundement of the kyng: euen in the court of the house of the Lorde. And so Joas the kyng remembred not the kyndnesse whiche Jehoiada hys father had done to hym; but slue hys sonne.

6 And when he dyed, he sayde: the Lorde loke vpon it, and requyre it. And when the yere was out, it fortuned that the hoost of Siria came vp agaynst him, and they came agaynst Juda and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the lordes of the people from amonge the people, and sent all the spoyle of them vnto the kyng of Damasco, for the Sirians came with a smal company of men, and the Lorde deliuered a very great hoost into thyr hande, because they had forsaken the Lorde God of thyr fathers. And mozeouer, they serued Joas accordyng to hys dedes.

And when they were departed fro hym, they left hym in greate diseases, and * his owne seruantes conspyred agaynst hym for the bloode of the chyliden of Jehoiada the prest, & slue hym on his bed, & he dyed, and they buried him in the cytie of Dauid: but not in the sepulchres of the kynges. And these are they that conspyred agaynst him: zebad the sonne of Simeathan Ammonite and Jehoiabad the sonne of Simri, a Moabite, and his sonnes. And the summe of the tare that was rayled in his tyme, and the repayyng of the house of God: beholde, they are wyrtten in the booke of the boke of the kynges. And Amaziah hys sonne raygned in his stede.

The xxv. Chapter.

Amaziah ouercometh the Edomites. And Joas kyng of Israel ouercometh Amaziah.

3 Amaziah was xxv. yere olde, when he began to raygne, and he raygned xxix. yere in Jerusalem. His motheres name was Jehoadab of Jerusalem. And he dyed of which is right in the syght of the Lorde, but not with a partyt bert. And as sone as he was latted in the kyngdome, he slue his seruantes, that had kylled the kyng his father. But he slue not thyr chyliden because it is wyrtten thus in the lawe and booke of Moses, where the Lorde comaunded, sayinge: * the fathers shall not dye for the chyliden, neyther shall the chyliden dye for the fathers, but every man shall dye for hys owne synne.

4 And Amaziah gathered Juda togyther, and made them captaynes ouer thousandes, & ouer hundredes, accordyng to the houses of thyr fathers, thowout all Juda and Ben Jamin. And he nombred them from twenty yere olde & aboue, and founde amonge them, thre hundred thousand chosen men, able to go to battayle, and that coulde handle speare and shylde. He byred also an hundred thousande syghtyng stronge men out of Israel, for an hundred talentes of syluer. And there came a man of God to hym, and sayd: O kyng let not the armye of Israel come with the: for the Lorde is not w Israel, neyther with all the house of Ephraim. But if thou wyldest be saythlesse, come on, & take the battayle in hande, and God shall make the fall before the enemye. For God hath power to helpe, and to cast downe. And Amaziah sayde to the man of God: what shall we do then for the hundred talentes whych I haue gyuen for the hoost of Israel. The man of God answered: the Lorde is able to gyue the moche moze then they be.

And Amaziah leuered them to the army that was come to hym out of Ephraim, to go home agayne. Wherefore they were cecedyng wroth with Juda, and returned home in greate angre. And Amaziah toke bert, & carped out his people, and went to the salt valley, and smote of the chyliden of Siria: ten thousande. And other ten thousand dyd the chyliden of Juda take alyue, and carped them vnto the toppe of a rocke, and cast them downe from the top of the rocke, that they all to burst: but the souldyers of the armye whych Amaziah sent awaye, that they shoulde not go with his people to battayle, fel vpon the cyties of Juda from Samaria vnto Bethhoron and smot. iii. of them: and toke moch spoyle.

And it chaunced, after that Amaziah was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, he brought the goddesses of the chyliden of Siria, and set them vnto be his goddesses, & bowed him selfe before them: and burned incense vnto them.

Wherefore the Lorde was wroth with Amaziah, and sent vnto hym a prophete, whych sayde vnto him: why hast thou sought the goddesses of the people, whych were not able to deliuer thyr owne people out of thyr hande? And it chaunced that as the prophete talked with hym, the kyng sayde vnto hym: haue men made the of the kynges counsaile: cease, why wilt thou be beaten? And the prophete ceased, and sayde: I am sure the God is mynded to destroy the, because thou hast done this, and agreest not vnto my counsaile.

* Then Amaziah kyng of Juda toke aduysle, and sent to Joas the sonne of Jehoaham the sonne of Jehu kyng of Israel, and sayde: come that we maye se cyther other. And Joas kyng of Israel sent to Amaziah kyng of Juda, sayinge: a thyfste that is in Liban sent to a Cedar tree of Liban, sayinge: * gyue thy doughter to my sonne to wyfe. And there came a wilde beaste of Liban, and trode downe the thyfste.

Thou sayest that thou hast beaten the Edomites, and thynne bert maketh the proude to glorify thy selfe. Now therfore hyde at home: why dost thou prouoke vnto euyl, that thou mayst perishe, both thou and Juda wyth the.

But Amaziah wolde not hearken to hym: for it came of God, euen to deliuer them into the hande of thyr enemyes, because they sought counsaile at the goddesses of Edom. And so Joas the kyng of Israel came vp: and they sawe cyther other, both he and Amaziah kyng of Juda at Bethlames, whiche is in Juda. And Juda was put to the worse before Israel, & they led euery man to his tent. And Joas the kyng of Israel toke Amaziabū kyng of Juda & son of Joabab the son of Joabab of Bethlames: & brought hym to Jerusalem, and tare the wall of Jerusalem (from the gate of Ephraim vnto the gate & was ouer against it) foure hundred cubites. And he toke awaye also al the golde and syluer, and all the iewelless that were founde in the house of God with Obed Edom, and the treasures of & kynges house, and the ponge wardes, and returned to Samaria. And Amaziabū the sonne of Joas kyng of Juda lyued after & death of Joas sonne of Jehoahab kyng of Israel syxtene yere. The rest of the actes of Amaziabū fyrste & last, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the kynges of Juda & Israel? And after the tyme that Amaziabū dyd tourne awaye from the Lorde, *they conspyred treason agaynst hym in Jerusalem: and whē he was fled to Lachis, they sent to Lachis after hym, and slue hym there: and brought hym vp wyth horses, and buried hym wyth hys fathers in the cytie of Juda.

The. xvi. Chapter

After the death of Amaziabū raygneth Uziabū (otherwyse called Uzia) whiche is streyken wyth the lepe, & Jotham raygneth in his roume

iii. reg. xv. a

When al & people of Juda toke Uzia which was & syxtene yere olde, and made hym kyng in & roume of his father Amaziabū. And he buylt Geth, & broughte it agayne to Juda after that the kyng was layd to slepe wyth his fathers. Syxtene yere olde was Uzia, when he began to raygne, and he raygned. lii. yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Jecholiah of Jerusalem. And he dyd & whiche was ryght in the syghte of the Lorde, accordynge to all, as dyd his father Amaziabū. And it came to passe that he sought God *in the dayes of zachariabū (which maynteyned the feare of God) & as longe as he sought & Lorde: God made hym to prosper.

iii. re. xii. b

And he went to battayle agaynst & Philistynes and brake downe the wall of Geth, and the wall of Jabne, and the wall of Asdod and built cyties aboute Asdod, and amonge the Philistynes. And God holpe hym agaynst the Philistynes, and agaynst the Arabians & dwelt in Gurbal and Hammebunim. And the Ammonytes gaue tribute to Uzia, & hys name spred abrode, euen to the entrynge in of Egypte, for he played the mā excedyngly. Moreover, Uzia buylt towres in Jerusalem by the coiner gate, and by the valley gate, and at the turnyng of the wall: and made them stronge. And he buylt towres in the wyldernesse, and dygged many welles. For he had moch cattel in the valleys & playnes, plowmen, and vynepressers in the mountaynes, and in Charnel: for he loued husbandrye.

And Uzia had an host of fyghting men that went out to warre in the armye, accordynge to the nombze of theyr office vnder the hāde of Jziel the scribe, and Maaziabū the ruler, and vnder the hande of Hananiabū, which was one of the kynges lordes. And the whole nombze of the auncient fathers, and of the mā of myght, were two. M. and syxe hundred: and vnder the hande of them was the army of the men of warre, enuoyed that made warre w the power of an army, helpynge the kyng agaynst the enemyes. And Uzia prouyded them thowout all the hoste, sheldes, speares, helmettes, habergyns, bowes and syngeles for to cast stones. And he made subtyll engyns in Jerusalem, whych he inuented & layed on the towres & corners, to shote arrowes and great stones wythall. And hys name spred farre abrode, bycause he was helped so excellentlye, so that he became very myghty.

But in his strenght his herte arose to hys destruction. For he trasgressed agaynst the Lorde his God, and went into the temple of the Lorde to burne incense vpon the altare of incense. And Azariabū the preeist went in after hym, & wyth him foure score preeistes of the Lorde, that were valiaunt men. And they stode by Uzia the kyng and sayde vnto hym: * it pertayneth not to the Uzia to burne incense vnto the Lorde, but to the preeistes the chyldre of Aaron, that are consecrated for to offre incense: Come therfore out of the Sanctuary for thou hast trespassed, and it is no worship to the before the Lorde God.

And Uzia was wroth, and had incense in his hande to burne it: and so whyle he had indignacion agaynst the preeistes, & the leprose sprang in his forehead before the preeistes in the house of the Lorde, euen besyde the incense altare. And Azariabū the chefe preeist, wyth all the other preeistes looked vpon hym, and beholde, he was become a lepre in hys forehead, and they veyed him thence. And he was sayne to go out, bycause the Lorde had smytten hym. And Uzia & kyng continued a lepre vnto & daye of his death, and dwelt seuerall, in an house beinge a lepre, & put out of the house of the Lorde. And Jotham hys son had the gouernance of & kynges house, and iudged the people of the lande. The rest of the actes of Uzia fyrst and last, dyd Ilay the prophet the son of Amos wyrite. And so Uzia slept with his fathers, & they buried hym with his fathers, in the felde of & burial which was besyde the sepulchres of & kynges. For they sayd: he is a lepre. And Jothā hys son raygned in his stede.

The. xvi. Chapter.

Jotham raygneth, and ouercommeth the Ammonites. Ahas hys sonne raygneth in his stede.

Jotham was fyue and twentye yere olde, when he * began to raygne, and raygned syxtene yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name was also Jerolme the daughter of zadoc. And he dyd & whiche was ryght in the syght of the Lorde in all poyntes as dyd his father Uzia, saue & he came not into the temple of & Lorde, and the people dyd yet wychehlye. He buylt the hye gate of the temple of the Lorde, and on the wal (where the house of ordynance was) he buylt moche. Moreover, he built cyties in the mountaynes of Juda, and in the wood countreys he buylt castels and towres.

He fought with the kyng of the chyldren of Ammon, and preuayled agaynst them. And the chyldren of Ammon gaue hym the same yere an hundred hundred talentes of syluer: and ten thousande quarters of wheate, and ten thousande of barley. So moche dyd the chyldren of Ammon gyue hym the second yere and the thyrde also. So Jotham became myghtye, bycause he directed hys waye before the Lorde hys God.

The rest of the actes of Jotham, and all hys warres and his conuersacion, lo, they are wyrtten in the booke of the kynges of Israel, and Iuda. He was. xxv. yere olde when he beganne to raygne, and raygned syrtene yere in Jerusalem. And Jotham slepte with hys fathers: and they buried him in the cytie of Dauid. And Ahaz his sonne raygned in his stede.

The. xxviii. Chapter.

The tychednesse of Ahaz kyng of Iuda. After hym raygneth Hezekia.

Ahaz was. xx. yere olde when he began to raygne, and raygned syrtene yere in Jerusalem: and he dyd not þe whiche is ryghte in the syghte of the Lorde, as dyd his father Dauid. For he walked in the wayes of the kynges of Israel, and made molten ymages for Baalim. He offered incense in the valley of the sonnes of Hinnō, and burnt hys chyldren in fyre, after the abhominacions of the heythē, whom the Lord cast out before the chyldren of Israel. He offered also and burnt incense in hylaulters, and on mountaynes, and vnder every grene tree.

* Wherefore the Lorde his God deliuered hym into the hande of the kyng of þe Syriens: which bet hym, and carped awaye a greate multitude of hys captiue, and brought them to Damasco. And he was deliuered into the hand of þe kyng of Israel, which smote hym with a greate slaughter. For Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu, slue in Iuda an hundred and twenty thousande in one daye, which were al fyghtyng men, and that by cause they had forsaken the Lord God of theyr fathers. And Zichri a myghty man of Ephraim slue Maasiahu the kynges sonne: And Elcana þe gouernoure of the house, and Elcana that was nexte to the kyng. And the chyldren of Israel toke prisoners of theyr brethren, two hundred thousande women, sonnes and daughters, and carped awaye moche spoule of them, & brought the spoule to Samaria.

But there was a prophete of the Lordes, (whose name was Obed) and he went oute before the host that came to Samaria, and sayde vnto them: Beholde, bycause the Lorde God of your fathers is wroth wyth Iuda, he hath deliuered them into your hande. And ye haue flaue them wyth cruellesse, that reacheth vp to heauen. And now ye purpose to kepe vnder the chyldren of Iuda and Jerusalem, and to make them bondmen and bondwomen. And do ye not lade your selues with synne in the syght of the Lorde your God? Now heare me therfore, and deliuer the captiues agayne, whiche ye haue taken of your brethren, for els shall the greate wroth of God be vpon you.

Wherefore certayne of the heedes of the chyldren of Ephraim, as Azaria the sonne of Jehohanan, Berechiah the sonne of Mesillemoth, and Jeheziah the sonne of Shallum, and Amasa the sonne of Hadlay, stode vpon agaynst them that came from the warre, and sayd vnto them: byng not in the captiues hyther. For where as we haue offended towarde God alreadye, ye entende to adde moze to our synnes & trespasses. For our trespass is greate alreadye, and there is a feare wroth agaynst Israel. And vpon that, the men of armes left the captiues & the spoule, before the lordes and all the congregacion.

And the men that were nowe rehearsed by C name, rose vp and toke the prisoners, and wyth the spoule clothed all that were naked amonge them, and arayed them, and shoed them, & gaue them to eate and drynke, and annoynted them, and carped all that were feble of them vpon asses, and brought them to Jericho (the cytie of Paulmetrees) to theyr brethren: and then they returned to Samaria agayne.

* At that same tyme dyd kyng Ahaz sende vnto the kynges of Assur, to haue helpe of them. And the Edomites cam agayne, & slue the sonnes of Iuda, and carped awaye captiues. And the Philistines inuaded the cyties in the lowe countrey, and toward the South of Iuda, and toke Bethsames and Alalon. And Sederoth & Schocho, wyth the townes longyng therto, & Chimna, with the townes of the same: Simso, and þe townes therof, and dwelt there. For the Lorde brought Iuda lowe, bycause of Ahaz kyng of Iuda, whiche made Iuda naked, & transgressed soze agaynst the Lord. And Tiglath Pilneser kyng of the Assirians came vpo hym and troubled hym rather then strenghted him: For Ahaz toke awaye a porcion out of the house of þe Lorde and out of the kynges house, and out of the lordes houses, and gaue vnto the kyng of the Assirians, and yet it helped hym not. And in the very tyme of hys tribulation dyd kyng Ahaz trespass yet moze agaynst the Lorde.

For he offered vnto the goddes of them of Damasco, whiche bette hym, and he sayd: bycause the goddes of the kynges of Syria helpe them, therfore wyl I offre to them, that they may helpe me also. But they were hys destruction, and þe destruction of all Israel. And Ahaz gathered togyther the vesselles of the house of God, & brake them, and * shutte vp the doores of the house of the Lorde, and made hym * alters in euery corner of Jerusalem. And in all the cyties of Iuda, he made hylaulters, to burne incense vnto other goddes, and angered the Lorde God of hys fathers: The rest of hys actes, and hys workes fyrste and last: beholde, they are wyrtten in the booke of the kynges of Iuda, and Israel. And Ahaz slepte wyth hys fathers, and they buried hym in the cytie of Jerusalem: but brought him not vnto the sepulchres of the kynges of Israel. And Hezekia his sonne raygned in hys stede.

iii. Regum
xviii. a

Hezechia began to raigne, when he was fyue and twentye yere olde, and raygned nyne and twentye yere in Ierusalem. And his mothers name was Abia the doughter of zachariahu. And he did that whiche was ryght in the syght of the Lorde, in al poyntes as dyd Dauid his father, *he opened the doores of the house of the Lorde (in the fyrste yere and fyrste moneth of his raygne,) and repayred them. And he brought in the preestes & the Levites, and gathered them togyther into the east strete, and sayde vnto them: Heare me ye Leuytes, and now be sanctified and halowe the house of the Lorde God of youre fathers, byngne fylthynesse oute of the holpe place. For our fathers haue trespassed, and done euill in the eyes of the Lorde our God, and haue forsaken hym, and turned away theyr faces from the habitation of the Lorde, and turned theyr backs on it. And besyde that, they haue shut vp the doores of the porche, and quenched the lampes, and haue neither burnt incense, nor offered burnt offerings in the holy place vnto the God of Israel.

Wherefore the wrath of the Lorde fell on Iuda and Ierusalem: and he hath brought them to trouble, to be wondred on, and to be hyllid at, euen as we se with our eyes. For lo, oure fathers were ouerthrowen wyth the swearde, and oure sonnes, our doughters and our wyues were carried away captiue for the same cause. And now it is in mine hert, to make a couenaunt with the Lorde God of Israel: that he may turne away his heuy indignacion from vs. Nowe therfore my sonnes, be not negligent: for the Lorde hath chosen you to stande before hym, and for to mynistre and serue hym, and to burne incense.

Then the Leuytes arose: Mahath the sonne of Amasai, and Joel the sonne of Asariahu of the chyldre of the Cabathites. And of the sonnes of Merari, Kis the sonne of Addi, and Asariahu the sonne of Jehalelel. And of the sonnes of the Ger sonites, Johab the sonne of Simma, & Eden the sonne of Joab. And of the sonnes of Elizaphan, Simri, and Jehiel. And of the sonnes of Asaph, zechariahu, and Mataniahu. And of the sonnes of Heman, Jehiel, and Semei. And of the sonnes of Jeduthun, Semaia and Azriel. And they gathered theyr brethren, and purfied them selues and came accordynge to the comaundemente of the kyng, and the wordes of the Lorde for to clesse the house of the Lorde. And the preestes went into the inner partes of the house of the Lorde, to clesse it, & brought oute all the vncleynesse that they founde in the temple of the Lorde, into the courte of the house of the Lorde.

And the Levites toke it, to cary it out into the broke Cedron. They beganne the fyrst daye of the fyrst moneth to purify, and the eyght daye of the moneth came they to the portch of the Lorde: and poured the house of the Lorde in eyght dayes and in the xijte daye of the fyrste moneth they made an ende. And they went in to Hezekia the kyng, and sayd: we haue clesed al the house of the Lorde, the aulter of burnt offering, wyth all his vesselles, and the shewbread table, wyth al his apparell: and all the vesselles whiche he kyng Abaz dyd cast asyde wherin he raygned, & transgressed, them we haue prepared and sanctified: and beholde, they are before the alter of the Lorde. And Hezekia the kyng rose early, and gathered the lordes of the cytie, and went vp to the house of the Lorde. And they broughte seven oxen, seven rammes, seven shepe, and seven begootes, to be a synoffryng for the kyngdome, for the sanctuarie, and for Iuda. And he commaunded the preestes the sonnes of Aaron, to offre them on the aultare of the Lorde.

And they slue the oxen, and the preestes receyued the blood, & sprynkled it vpon the aultare: lyke wyse, when they had slayne the rammes they sprynkled the blood vpon the aultare: they slue also the shepe, and they sprynkled the blood vpon the aultare. And then they brought forth the begootes for the synoffryng before the kyng & the congregacyon, and put theyr handes vpon them. And the preestes slue them, and wth the blood of them they clesed the aultare to make satisfaction for al Israel, for the kyng commaunded that the burnt offering and the synneoffryng shulde be made for al Israel.

And let the Levites in the house of the Lorde with cymbales, psalteries, and harpes, & accordynge to the comaundement of Dauid, & Gad the kynges sear, and Nathan the prophete. For so was the comaundemente of the Lorde, thowgh the hande of his prophetes. And the Levites stode haupng the instrumentes of Dauid, & the preestes helde the trompettes. And Hezekia commaunded to offre the burnt offering vpon the aultare. And when the burnt offering began, the songe of the Lorde beganne also, and the trompettes, wyth the instrumentes that were ordeined by the hande of Dauid kyng of Israel. And all the congregacion worshipped, syngynge a songe & blowynge with the trompets, & al this continued, vntyll the burnt offering was synfied.

And when they had made an ende of offering the kyng and all that were presente wyth hym bowed them selues, and worshipped. And Hezekia the kyng and the lordes spake to the Levites to prayse the Lorde wyth the wordes of Dauid, and of Asaph the sear. And the Levites sang prayles wyth gladnes, & the other bowed them selues, and worshipped.

And Hezekia answered, and sayde: now ye haue consecrate your handes to the Lorde: go to therfore, and byngne in the sacrifices & thank offrynges into the house of the Lorde. And the congregacion brought in the sacrificyes, and thank offrynges and burnt offrynges, as many as were of free lyberty hert. And the nombze of the burnt offrynges which the congregacion brought was. lxx. oxen, an hundred rammes, & two hundred shepe: which were all for the burnt offering of the Lorde. And there were dedicated syre hundred oxen, and thre thousande shepe. And the preestes were so fewe to slaye all the burnt offrynges: but theyr brethren the Levites dyd helpe them, tyll they had ended the worke: and vntill the preestes were sanctified. For the Levites were purer ted to be sanctified, then the preeſtes. And ther-to the burnt offrynges were many, with the fat of the peace offrynges and the dymke offrynges that belonge to the burnt offryng. And ſo the ſeruyce pertaynyng to the houſe of the Lorde, was ſynſhed. And hezekia reioyced and al the people, that God had made the folke ſo ready: & that the thyng was ſo ſone done.

The xxx. Chapter.

Hezekia remeth the feaſt of paſſeouer.

And hezekia ſent to all Iſrael, and Juda, and wrote letters to Ephraim and Manaffe, that they ſhoulde come to the houſe of the Lorde at Jeruſalem, and offre Paſſeouer vnto the Lorde God of Iſrael. And the kynge helde a counſell with his lordes and all the congregacion of Ieruſalem: to kepe the feaſt of Paſſeouer in the ſeconde moneth. For they coulde not kepe it at that tyme: by reaſon the preeſtes were not ſan-ctified ſufficiently, neyther was the people gathered together to Ieruſalem. And the thyng pleaſed the kynge, and all the congregacyon.

And they decreed that it ſhoulde be proclaymed thorowout all Iſrael from Berſabee to Dan, & they ſhoulde come, and holde the feaſt of Paſſe-ouer vnto the Lorde God of Iſrael, at Ieruſalem: for they had not done it of a greate ſeaſon, as they ſhulde haue done by the lawe.

So the poſtes went wpyth letters of þe hãde of the kynge, and of his lordes thorowoute all Iſ-rael and Juda: and at the cõmaundement of the kynge they ſayd: Ye chyldren of Iſrael, turne a-gayne vnto the Lorde God of Abraham, Iſahac, and Iſrael, and let euery one retorne to the remnaunte that are eſcaped you out of the han-des of the kynges of Aſſur. And be not ye lyke your fathers, and your brethzen, which treſpaſſed agaynſte the Lorde God of theyr fathers:
whyche gaue them vp to be deſtroyed as ye ſe.

And now be not ye ſtyfnecked lyke as were your fathers: but yelde your ſelues vnto þe Lorde and entre into his holy place, which he hath ſan-ctified for euery: and ſerue the Lorde your God, and the ſcarcenelle of þys wyath ſhall turne awaye from you. For yf ye turne agayne vnto þe Lorde, then ſhall your brethzen and your chyldren ſynde compaſſyon in the preſence of them that toke them captiue, and they ſhall come agayne vnto this lande. For the Lorde your God is gracyous and mercyfull, and wyll not turne awaye þys face from you, yf ye conuerſe vnto hym.

And ſo the poſtes went from cytie to cytie in the lande of Ephraim and Manaffe, euen vnto Zabulon. But they laughed them to ſcorne, and mocked them. Neuertheleſſe, yet dyuers of Aſ-ſer, Manaffe, and of Zabulon ſubmitted them ſelues, and came to Ieruſalem. And the hande of God was in Juda, ſo that he gaue the one herte to do the cõmaundement of the kynge & of the rulers, accordyng to the worde of the Lorde.
And there aſſembled to Ieruſalem moche people and there was preſent a myghty great congregacyon: to holde the feaſt of ſweate breed in the ſeconde moneth. And they aroſe, & remoued the *aultares that were in Ieruſalem. And all the veſſels of inſence dyd they awaye, and caſt them into the broke Cedron. And they ſlue Paſſeouer the fourtenth daye of þe ſeconde moneth. And the preeſtes and Leuytes whiche were aſhamed, ſan-ctified them ſelues, and brought in the burnt of-ferynges into the houſe of the Lorde. And they ſtoode in theyr office after the manner, and accordyng to the lawe of Moſes the man of God.

And the Preeſtes ſprynkled the bloode, whiche they receyued by the handes of the Leuytes. For there were manye in þe congregation þe were not ſanctified: and the Leuytes dyd ſlue Paſſeouer for al that were not cleane, and that myght not execute the holy worke of the Lorde. For many of the people, and very many oute of Ephraim, Manaffe, Aſſer and Zabulon were not clenſed and yet dyd eate Paſſeouer againſt the law appointed. Wherefore hezekia prayed for them, & ſayde: the good Lorde be mercyfull vnto them:
For he ſet his hole herte to ſeke the Lorde God, eue the God of his fathers: but all the other dyd not ſo, accordyng to vnfayned holynelle. And the Lorde herde hezekia, and healed the people.
And the chyldren of Iſrael that were preſent at Ieruſalem, helde the feaſt of ſweate breed ſeven dayes with greate gladneſſe, and the Leuytes, & the preeſtes prayſed, and magnified the power of the Lorde daye by daye, vpon instrumentes.

And hezekia ſpake hertely vnto all the Leuytes that had vnderſtandynge, and were of a good mynde toward the Lorde. And they dyd eate thorowout that feaſt ſeven dayes longe, & offred peace offrynges, and thanked the Lorde God of theyr fathers. And þe hole aſſemble toke counſayle: to doo ſo other ſeven dayes, and they helde thoſe ſeven dayes with gladneſſe. For hezekia kynge of Juda toke out (from amonge þys cattell) for the congregacion, a thouſande ponge oren, and ſeven thouſande ſhepe. And the lordes gaue out to the congregacion a thouſand ponge oren, and ten thouſande ſhepe. And a great nombre of the preeſtes were ſanctified.

And all the congregacion of Juda, with the preeſtes and Leuytes, and all the congregacion that came out of Iſrael, and the ſtraungers that came out of the lande of Iſrael, and that dwelte in Juda reioyced: and there was great gladneſſe in Ieruſalem. For ſyns the tyme of Salomon the ſonne of Dauid kynge of Iſrael, there was no ſuche ioy in Ieruſalem. And the preeſtes and the Leuytes aroſe, and bleſſed the people, & their voyce was herde of the Lorde, and theyr prayer came vp vnto heauen, his holy dwelling place.

The xxxi. Chapter.

After that hezekia had called agayne the people vnto
the waye of the Lorde, he ordeyned the preeſtes, vnto whome he commaunded to gyue tythes.

And when al theſe thynges were finiſhed, al they of Iſrael that were preſent in the cyties of Juda, went out and brake the ymages, & cut downe the ydoles groues, and al to brake the hye places, and alſe thorowout all Juda and Beniamin, in Ephraim alſo & Manaſſe, vntyl they had deſtroyed them al. And all the childre of Israel returned every man to his possessions, and to theyr owne cities. And Hezekia appoynted sondry companyes of p̄ p̄restes and Leuites after the diuersitie of theyr mynistracions, every man accordyng to hys offyce, both p̄restes and Leuites, for the burnt offeryng and peace offerynges, to mynistrer, & to gyue thakkes, and prayse in p̄ gates of the host of p̄ Lorde. And the kynges porcion of hys substance that he gaue, were dayly burnt offerynges in the mornynge and euenyng, and burnt offerynges for the Sabbath dayes, newe moones, and solempne feastes, accordyng as it is wrytten in the lawe of the Lorde. And he had the people that dwelte in Jerusalem gyue the parte to the p̄restes, and Leuites, that they myght substancially applye them selues to the lawe of the Lorde.

an. xxviii. b.

B And as soone as the kynges commaundement came abrode, the chyldren of Israel brought a-bundance of fyrst frutes, of corne, wyne, oyle, honye, and al maner of frutes of the felde, & the tythes of all maner of thynges, brought they in plentifully. And the chyldren of Israel & Juda p̄ dwelt in the cities of Juda, they also brought in the tythes of oxen and shepe, & other holpe tythes which were consecrate vnto p̄ Lorde theyr God: they dyd offre, & brought them all by heapes. In the thyrde moneth they beganne to laye the heapes (in maner of a foundacion) and fynished them in the seuenth moneth. And whē Hezekia and the lordes came, and sawe the heapes they blessed the Lorde & hys people Israel. And Hezekia questioned with the p̄restes and the Leuites, concernyng the heapes. And Azaria the chiefe p̄rest of the house of Zadok answered him and sayd: syns the people beganne to bypnyng the beue offerynges vnto the house of the Lorde: we also haue had ynough to eat, there remayned so moche: for the Lorde hath blessed his people and this heape is left. And Hezekia had prepare the chambres in the house of p̄ Lorde. And they dyd prepare them, and caryed in the fyrst frutes, the tythes, and the dedicate thynges saythfully.

C Over whiche Conaiabu the Leuite had the rule, and Semei his brother nexte to hym. And Jehiel, Asariabu, Natbath, Asael, Jerimoth, Iolabad, Eliel, Jesmachiahu, Mahath, & Banaiabu were ouerscars ordeyned by Bonaniahu, & Semei his brother was an officer of Hezekia the kyng, and Azaria was the ruler of the house of God, (vnto whome all these thynges belonged.) And Choze the sone of Jimna the Leuite & porter of the east doze: had the ouersyght of p̄ thynges that were offred of a fre wyl vnto God) and were gyuen in maner severally vnto the Lorde) and ouer the thynges most holy. And vnder his hāde were Eden, Maniamin, Jesua, Semetiahu, Amariabu, and Sechaniahu, in the cyties of the p̄restes apoynted of their fidelitie to gyue to theyr brethren theyr porcions: as well to p̄ small as to the great. Except that to the males p̄ were rekened from thre yere and aboue (among all p̄ went into the house of the Lorde) they shoulde gyue daye by daye, for mynistracion, and for theyr gyuyng attendaunce, and for theyr dynerse waytynges by course. And to the p̄restes & Leuites thowout the housholde of theyr fathers from t wentye yere and aboue, to wayte when courses came.

And to the families of all theyr babes, wyues, sonnes and donghters thowowe all the congregacion. For vpon the fydellitie of them were the holy thynges bestowed. And to the chyldren of Aaron, the p̄restes which were in the felde and suburbs of theyr cyties, cytie by cytie, the men (whose names were expressed afore) shoulde gyue porcions, euen to al the males amonge p̄ p̄restes, and to all the Leuites, accordyng to theyr nombze. And of thys maner dyd Hezekia thowout al Juda, & wrought it that is good, and ryght and true, before the Lorde hys God. And in all the workes that he beganne for the seruice of the house of God, for the lawe and for the commaundementes, he sought hys God and that dyd he with all his herte, and prospered.

C The xxii. Chapter.

Sennacherib (or Sanherib) besieginge Jerusalem (is strephen of the angell. Hezekia dyeth, after whom succeedeth Manasse.

After that these dedes were saythfully done: * Sennacherib kyng of Assur came and entred into Juda, and compassed the stronge cyties, and thought to wynn them for hym selfe. And so when Hezekia sawe that Sennacherib was come, and that he was purposed to fyght agaynst Jerusalem, he toke counsaile with his lordes and mē of myght, to stoppe the water of the fountaynes without the cytie: and they dyd helpe hym. For there gathered many of the people together, and stoppe all the welles, and he broke that ran thowowe the myddes of the lande sayinge: why shall the kynges of Assur come, & fynde moche water? And Hezekia wente to lustely, and buylt vp all p̄ wall where it was broken, and made ordinaunce vpon the towres and to the other wall wythout, and repayred the walls in the cytie of Dauid, and made manye darters & sheldes. And he set captaynes of warre ouer the people, and gathered them together to him in p̄ large strete of the gate of the citie, and spake gently to them, sayinge: Plucke vp your hertes, & be stronge. Be not afrayed nor discouraged, for the kyng of Assur, & for all the multitude that he hath with hym: * For there be mo with vs then with hym. With hym is an arme of flesh. But with vs is the Lord our God, for to helpe vs, & to fyght our battayles. And the people took courage thowow p̄ wordes of Hezekia kyng of Juda.

After

* After this dyd Sennacherib king of Assur sende of his seruantes to Jerusalem (but he him self remayned besyde Lachis: haupnge all hys power with him) vnto Hezekia king of Iuda & vnto all Iuda that were at Jerusalem, sayinge: Thus sayeth Sennacherib the kyng of Assur: wherein do ye truste, O ye that dwell in Ierusalem which is besiged: Woth not Hezekia entyce you to gyue ouer your selues vnto death, hūgre and thyrst, sayeng: the Lorde our God shall ryd vs out of the hande of the kyng of Assur: hath not the same Hezekia put downe his hye places and hys alters, and commaunded Iuda & Ierusalem, saying: Ye shall worshyp before one aulter and burne incense vpon the same.

Knowe ye not what I and my fathers haue done vnto the people of all landes? Were the gods of þe people of other landes able or mighty to saue theyr landes out of my hande? whych of al the goddes of those nations (that my fathers destroyed) coude deliuer his people out of myne hande? And what your God be able to deliuer you out of myne hande? Wherefore now, let not Hezekia deceyue you, nor perswade you of thys falschyp, nor yet beleue hym.

¶ For as no god amonge all nacyns & kyngdomes was able to rid his people out of my hand and out of the hande of my father. Howe moch lesse shal your goddes be able to kepe you out of my hande? And yet mo thynge dyd his seruantes speake agaynst the Lorde God, and agaynst his seruante Hezekia. And (Sennacherib) also wrote a lettre, to rayle on the Lorde God of Israel & spake agaynst him, saying: as the gods of the nations of other landes haue not ben able to deliuer their people out of my hand. Eue so shal not the god of Hezekia deliuer his people out of myne hande. And they cryed w a loude voyce in the Jewes speache vnto the people of Ierusalem that were on the wal to feare them and to make them faynt herted, and that they myght so take the citie. And they spake agaynst the God of Ierusalem as agaynst þe goddes of the nations of the earth, which were þe workes of þe handes of men.

¶ But Hezekia the kyng, and the prophet Isai the son of Amoz prayed agaynst þe blasphemie and cryed vp to heauen. And the Lorde sente an aungel which destroyed all the men of war, and the lordes and captaynes of þe hoost of the kyng of Assur, that he turned his face agayn w shame towarde hys owne lande. * And when he was come into the house of his God, they that came of his owne body slue hym ther with the sword. And so the Lorde saued Hezekia and the inhabitants of Jerusalem out of the hand of Sennacherib kyng of Assur, and from the hande of al other, and mayntayned them on euery syde. And many brought offrynges vnto the Lorde to Jerusalem, and presentes to Hezekia kyng of Iuda, so that he was magnified in the syght of all nacyns from thence forth.

* In those dayes Hezekia was spcke vnto the death, and prayed vnto the Lorde, which answered him: and he wed him a wondrous myracle. But Hezekia dyd not agayne vnto God according to it þe had shewed him for his bert arde and there came wrath vpon hym, and vpon Iuda and Jerusalem. Notwithstandyng Hezekia submytted hym selfe (after that his bert was risen vp) he, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem: and the wrath of the Lorde came n. vpon them in the dayes of Hezekia.

And Hezekia had excedyng moch ryches and honour. And he gat hym treasure of siluer, and golde, precious stones and spyrres, hyldes, and of all maner of pleasaunt iewels: and made store houses for þe frutes of corne, for wyne and oyle: and stalles for all maner of beastes, and foldes for shepe. And he made hym cityes, & had of shep and oxen great aboundaunce. For God had gyuen hym substance excedyng moch. This same Hezekia stopped the vpper water sprynges of Gihon, and brought the downe to the west side of the citie of Dauid. And Hezekia prospered in al his workes. And when the prynces of Babylon sent vnto hym embassadours, to enquire of the wondre that chaunced in the land, God left hym to trye hym, and that all that was in hys herte myght be knowne.

The rest of the dedes of Hezekia, and his goodnes, beholde, they are wyrtten in the vspyon of Isai the prophet the sonne of Amoz in the booke of the kinges of Iuda and Israel. And Hezekia slepte with his fathers, and they buried hym in the moost worthy place of the sepulchres of the sonnes of Dauid: and al Iuda & the inhabitants of Jerusalem dyd hym worshyppe at his death. And manasses hys sonne raygned in hys stede.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

Manasse is taken prisoner, and after that he cometh out, he destroyeth the ydols. He dyeth: and after hym succeedeth Amos, which is kylled of hys owne people, & Josias hys sonne raygned in hys stede.

Manasse was xii. yere olde * when he beganne to raygne, and he raygned fyue and fyftye yere in Jerusalem: but dyd euil in the syght of þe Lorde lyke vnto the abhominacions of the hepythen, whome the Lorde caste out before the chyldren of Israel. For he went to, and buylte the hilaulter * which Hezekia his father had broke downe. And he reared vp alters for Baal, and made groues, and worshipped al the hoste of heauen, and serued them.

And he buylt alters in the house of þe Lorde where as the Lorde yet had sayd: * in Jerusalem shall my name be for ever. And he buylded alters for all the hoost of heauen in the two courttes of the house of the Lorde. And he burnt hys chyldren in fyre in the valley of þe sonnes of Hinnon. He was a soycer: he regarded the cryng of byrdes, vled inchauntements, and mayntayned workers with spyrtes, & sears of fortunes: and wrought moche euill in the syght of þe Lorde to angre hym wythall.

And he put the kered ymage and ydol which he had made in þe house of God. Of which house God had sayde to Dauid and to Salomon hys sonne: in this house and in Jerusalem, whych I haue chosen afore all the trybes of Israel, *wyl I put my name for euer, and wyl no more bring the seate of Israel from the lande which I haue ordeined for your fathers. Vt so be that they wil be diligent, and do all that I haue commaunded them in al the lawe and statutes, and ordinaunces by the bande of Moyses. And so Manasse made Iuda and the inhabitants of Ierusalem to erre, and to do worse then the heythen whome the Lord destroyed before the children of Israel. And the Lord spake to Manasse and to his people, but they wolde not regarde.

E Wherefore, the Lord brought vpon them the captaynes of the host of the kynge of the Assyrians, which toke Manasse in holde, and bound hym with chaynes, and carped hym to Babylō. And when he was in tribulacyon, he besought the Lord his God, and humbled hym selfe exceedingly before the God of his fathers, and made intercession to hym: and God was entreated of hym, and herde his prayer, and brought hym agayne to Ierusalem into his kyngdome. And the Manasse knewe that the Lord was God.

After this he buylt a wall without the citie of Dauid, on the west side of Syon, in the valey as they come to the fith gate, and round about Ophel, & brought it vp of a very great heygth, and put captaynes of warre in all the strong cyties of Iuda. And he toke awaye straunge goddes and ymages out of the house of God, and *all the alters that he had buylt in the mount of the house of God, & Ierusalem, and cast them out of the citie. And he prepared the alter of the Lord, and sacrificed thereon peaceoffrynges, & thankeoffrynges, and charged Iuda to serue the Lord God of Israel. Neuerthelesse, the people dyd offre still in the hylalters, howbeit, vnto the Lord they God onely.

D The rest of the actes of Manasse & his prayer vnto his God, and the wordes of the sears, and of them that spake to him in the name of the Lord God of Israel, beholde, they are wyrtten in the sayinges of the kynges of Israel. And his prayer and how that he was herde, and all his synnes, and his trespasses, and the places where he made hylalters, and set vp groues and ymages (before he was meakened) beholde, they are wyrtten amonge the sayinges of the sears. And Manasse slepte wyth his fathers, and they buried hym in his owne house: And Amon his son raygned in his roume. Amon was two and twentye yere olde when he began to raygne, and raygned two yere in Ierusalem. But he dyd euyl in the syght of the Lord, lyke as dyd Manasse his father, for Amon sacrificed to al the kered ymages, whiche Manasse his father had made and serued them, and submytted not hym selfe before the Lord: as Manasse his father hadde meakened hym selfe. But Amon trespassed greatly. And his owne seruauntes conspyred agaynst hym, and slewe hym in his owne house. But the people of the lande slue all them that had conspyred agaynst kyng Amon. And the same people of the land made Josia his son king in his roume.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

Josia destroyed the ydolles, and restored the temple in which is founde the booke of the lawe. He sendeth to Sulda the prophetesse for counsaile.

Josia was eyght yere olde when he began to raygne, *and he raygned in Ierusalem. xxi. yere. And he was whiche was ryght in the syght of the Lord, and walked in the wayes of Dauid his father, and bowed neyther to the ryght hande nor the lefte. In the eyght yere of his raygne (when he was yet a chyld) he began to seke after the God of Dauid his father. And in the twelue yere he began to pouрге Iuda, and Ierusalem from hylalters, groues, kered ymages, and ymages of metall: and they brake downe the alters of Baalim, euen in his presence: and other ymages, that were in greater honour then they, he caused to be destroyed. And the groues, kered ymages, and ymages of metall, he brake and made duste of them, and strowed it vpon the graues of them that had offered vnto them. And he burnt the bones of the preastes vpon the alters of them, and cleansed Iuda and Ierusalem. And euen so dyd he in the cyties of Manasse, Ephraim, Symeon, vnto Rephthali. And in the wyldernes of them, rounde aboute, he plucked a sondre the alters and the groues, and did brake them and stampe them to pouldre, and beate downe all the ymages thorowoute all the lande of Israel: and he turned to Ierusalem agayne.

In the xviii. yere of his raygne when he had pourged the lande and the temple, *he sent Shaphan the sonne of Amasiah, and Maasiah the gouernour of the cytye, and Joah the sonne of Joahaz the recorder, to repaie the house of the Lord his God. And when they came to Helkiah the hie preist, they deliuered them the moneye that was broughte into the house of God, whiche the Leuytes that kepte the enterres, had gathered of the bande of Manasse, & Ephraim, and of al that yet remayned in Israel, and of Iuda and Ben Jamin, and of the inhabitants of Ierusalem. And they put it in the handes of the workemen that had the ouersyght of the house of the Lord: and they gaue it to the labourers that wrought in the house of the Lord: to repaie and amende the house. Euen to masons & carpenters gaue they it, to get stone and timbre for couples and for beames of the houses, which the kynges of Iuda had destroyed: And they made the worke saythfully.

And the ouersers of them to courage them forwarde, were Iabath & Obadiahu Leuytes, of the children of Merari: and Secharia, & Mesullam, of the chyldren of the Cabathytes, and other of the Leuytes: whiche all coule skyll of instrumentes of musyke. And ouer the beaers of burthens, and ouer al that wrought, in whatsoeuer workmanishipp it were, were these scribes, officers, and porters of the Leuytes.

And when they brought out the moneye that was brought in to the house of the Lord, Helkiah the preist *founde the booke of the lawe of the Lord gyuen by Moyses. And Helkiah answered red & sayd to Saphan the scribe: I haue found the booke of the lawe in the house of the Lorde, and helkia gaue the booke to Saphā. And Saphan caried the booke to the kyng, and brought the kyng worde agayne, sayeng: all that was committed to thy seruantes, that do they. And they haue gathered togyther the moneys y^e was founde in the house of the Lorde, and haue deliuered it into y^e handes of y^e ouerseers of the worke and to the handes of the workemen. And then Saphan the scribe shewed the kyng, sayeng: helkia the preaste hath giuen me a booke, and Saphan red in it before the kyng.

And it fortuned, that when the kyng had herd the wordes of the lawe, he tare his clothes and the kyng comaunded helkia and Ahikam the sonne of Saphan, and Abidon the sonne of Micah, and Saphan the scribe, and Asaia a seruant of the kinges, sayenge: go and enquire of the Lorde for me, and for them that are left in Israel and Iuda, concernyng the wordes of the booke that is founde. For great is the wrath of the Lord that is fallen vpon vs, bycause our fathers haue not kepte the worde of the Lorde, to do after all that is wyrtten in thys booke.

And helkia and they that the kyng had appoynted, went to Hulda a prophete the wyfe of Shallum, the sonne of Tokhath, the sonne of Hasra keeper of the wardrope (for she dwelte in Jerusalem within the seconde wall) and so they communed with her. She answered them: thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: tel ye the man that sent you to me. Euen thus sayth the Lorde beholde, I wil byng euil vpon this place, and vpon the inhabitants therof (euen all the curses, that are wyrtte in the booke which they haue red before the kyng of Iuda) bycause they haue forsaken me, and offered vnto other goddes, to an gere me with all maner workes of theyr handes therfore is my wrath set on fyre agaynst this place: and shall not be quenched. And as for the kyng of Iuda whych sent you to enquire of the Lorde, so shall ye saye vnto hym: thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel, concernyng the wordes which thou hast herde.

Bycause thyne hert dyd melt, and thou didest meke thy self before God whē thou herdest hys wordes against this place and against the inhabitants therof: and humbledst thy self before me and tarest thy clothes, and weptest before me that haue I herde also sayth the Lorde. Behold I wyl take the to thy fathers, and thou shalt be put in thy graue in peace, and thyne eyes shall not se all the myschefe that I wyl byng vpon this place, and vpon the inhabitants of the same. And they brought y^e king word agayne. * Cha the kyng sent and gathered togyther all the elders of Iuda & Jerusalem. And the kyng went vnto the house of the Lorde, and all the men of Iuda, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the prestes and Leuites and all the people great and smal, and the king dyd reade in theyr eares all the wordes of the booke of the couenaunt that was founde in the house of the Lorde. And the kyng stode at his standyng, and made a coue uaunt before the Lord, to folowe the Lord, and to kepe his commaundementes, hys wyrtnes, and his statutes, with all his herte, and with all his soule, and to fulfyll the wordes of y^e appoyntement wyrtten in the same booke.

And he set in theyr roume all them that were founde in Jerusalem, and Ben Jamin, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem dyd accordyng to the couenaunt of the Lorde God of theyr fathers. And Josia put away al maner of abhominacions out of all landes that pertayned to the chyldren of Israel, & brought in al that were found in Israel to worship and to serue y^e Lorde theyr God. And they turned not asyde from after the Lord God of theyr fathers as long as he lyued.

The xxxv Chapter.

Josia holdeth passeouer. He fyghteth agaynst the kyng of Egypt, and dyeth. The people bewaile hym.

And Josia heide the * feast of passeouer vnto the Lorde in Jerusalem, & they shue passeouer in the xiiii. daye of the fyfthe moneth. And he set the prestes in theyr offces, and ayded them in the seruice of the house of the lord. And he sayd vnto the Leuites (that taught al Israel and were sanctified vnto the Lord) put the holy arke in the house whych Salomon the sonne of Dauid kyng of Israel dyd buylde, there shall no other burthen be layed vpon your shulders: But nowe serue the Lorde your God and his people Israel. And prepare your selues by your auncient householdes and companyes, accordyng to the wyrtynge of Dauid kyng of Israel, and the wyrtynge of Salomon his sonne, and stande in the holy place accordyng to the deuision of the auncient householdes of your brethren the chyldren of the people, and after the deuision of the auncient householdes of the Leuites, kyll passeouer, and sanctify & prepare your brethren that they may do accordyng to the word of the Lord by the hande of Moyses.

And Josia gaue to the people flockes of shepe and kyddes, all for passeouer, and for all y^e were present thyrty thousand by tale, & thre thousand oxen, & these were euen of the kynges substance. And his lordes gaue wyllynge both vnto the people and to the prestes, and vnto the Leuites helkia also, zatharia and Jehiel, rulers of the house of God, gaue vnto y^e prestes for passeouer offrynges, two thousand & fyre hundred shepe, and thre hundred oxen: Conania and Semeiahu and Methanel his brethren, and Hasabiahu and Jaiel, and Josobad, rulers of the Leuites gaue vnto the Leuites passeouer offrynges, euē fyue thousand shepe, and fyue hundred oxen.

And so the scrupce was prepared, & the prestes stode in theyr places, & the Leuites in theyr distinct companys at the kynges comaundment. And they shue passeouer, and the prestes sprynkled the blood with theyr hande, & the Leuites pulled of the skynnes of the beastes. And they fet away the burnt offrynges to gyue them vnto the people that were denyed by aunciente houses, and that they shuld offre vnto the Lord lyke as it is wyrtte in the booke of Moyses. And so dyd so dyd they with the oren also. And they dressed the Pascheouer with fyre, as the maner was. And the other dedycate beastes sod they in potes, cauldernes, and pannes, and deuyded them amonge all the people. And afterwarde they made redy for them selues and for the preastes, for the chyldren of Aaron were busyed in offering of burnt offeringes, & the fat vntyl nyght, therfore the Levites prepared for them selues, & for the preastes the sonnes of Aaron.

i. para. xxi. & xxi. b.

And the syngers the chyldren of Asaph stode in theyr standyng accorpyng to the comaundement of Dauid, and Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun the kynges sear: and p porters wayted at euery gate, and might not depart from theyr seruyce: for they brethren the levites prepared for them. And so all the seruyce of the Lord was prepared the same daye, to offre Pascheouer, and to offre burnt offeringes vpon the aultare of the Lorde, accorpyng to the comaundemente of kynge Josia.

And so the chyldren of Israel that were present offred Pascheouer the same tyme and kepte the feaste of swete bread seuen dayes, and there was no Pascheouer lyke to that kepte in Israel, from the dayes of Samuel the prophet: neither dyd al the kynges of Israel holde suche a Pascheouer feaste as dyd Josia & the preastes & Levites and all Juda, & Israel that were presente, & the inhabitants of Jerusalem. This Pascheouer was holden in the. xviij. yere of the raygne of Josia.

ii. re. xxi. f.

* After this, when Josia had prepared the temple, Necho kyng of Egypt came vp to fight agaynst Carcamis besyde Euphrates, and Josia went out agaynst hym: which sent messengers to hym, and sayd: what haue I to do with the thou kynge of Juda? Be not thou agaynst thy selfe this day: for my warre is agaynst another house, and God bad me make haste. Leaueth therfore and medle not with God whyche is with me, lest he destroye the. Neuerthelesse, Josia woulde not turne his face from hym, but rather toke aduysle to fyght with hym, & hearkened not vnto the wordes of Necho out of the mouth of God, and came to fyght in the valley of Maggedo, and the shoters shot darteres at kynge Josia. And the kynge sayd to his seruauntes: carrie me away, for I am sore wounded. His seruauntes therfore had hym out of that charet, and put hym (as a kynge) in another charet that they had.

zach. xii. a.

And whē they had brought hym to Jerusalem he dyed, and was buryed in the sepulchre of his fathers. * And all Juda and Jerusalem mourned for Josia. And Jeremia lamented Josia, and all syngynge men and syngynge women mourned for Josia in theyr lamentaciōs to this daye and made the same lamentaciōs and ordinaunce in Israel, and beholde, they be wyrtten in the lamentacyōs. The rest of the actes of Josia and his goodnes which he dyd in folowynge the wyrtynge of the lawe of the Lorde, and his saynges fyrste and last: behold, they are wyrtten in the booke of the kynges of Israel and Juda.

The. xxxvi. Chapter.

After Josia raygneth Jehoahaz, after Jehoahaz Jehoahaz after Jehoahaz Jehoahaz, after Jehoahaz, Jehoahaz. In whole tyme all the people were carped away to Babylon and were brought agayne the seuentye yere after by king Cyrus, otherwyle called Cores.

And the people of the land toke Jehoahaz the sonne of Josia, & made hym kynge in his fathers stede in Jerusalem. And Jehoahaz was. xxiij. yere olde when he began to raygne, and he raygned thre monethes in Jerusalem.

And the kynge of Egypt put hym downe at Jerusalem, & merced the lande in an hundred talles of syluer, and a talent of gold. And the kynge of Egypt made Eliakim his brother kynge vpon Juda and Jerusalem, and turned his name vnto Jehoaki: and Necho toke Jehoahaz his brother, and carped hym to Egypt. Jehoakim was. xxiij. yere olde when he began to raygne, and he raygned. xi. yere in Jerusalem: and dyd euyl in the syght of the Lorde his God.

Agaynst hym then came vp Nabuchodonozor kynge of Babylon, and bounde hym with two chaynes to carpe hym to Babylon. The kynge * Nabuchodonozor also caried of the vessels of the house of the Lord to Babylon and put them in his temple at Babylon. The rest of the actes of Jehoakim, and his abhominacions which he dyd, and carued ymages that were layed to his charge, behold, they are wyrtten in the boke of the kynges of Israel & Juda. And Jehoakim his sonne raygned in his stede. Jehoakim was. xxiij. yere old when he began to raygne, & he raygned thre monethes and ten dayes in Jerusalem: and dyd euyl in the syght of the Lord. And when the yere was out, kynge Nabuchodonozor sent, and fet hym to Babylon wpyth the goodly vessels of the house of the Lord, & made zedekia (his fathers brother) kynge ouer Juda and Jerusalem.

* zedekia was. xxi. yere olde, when he began to raygne, and raygned. xi. yere in Jerusalem. And he dyd euyl in the syghte of the Lorde his God, and humbled not hym self befoze Jeremia the prophet at the mouth of the Lorde. And he rebelled agaynst Nabuchodonozor, which had receyued an othe of hym by God. But he was styfnecked, and to hard herted to turne vnto the Lorde God of Israel. Whereouer, all the rulers the preastes and the people trespassed moze, synnyng after all maner of abhominacyōs of the hyethen, & polluted the house of the lord which he had halowed in Jerusalem.

* And the Lorde God of theyr fathers sent to them, by his messengers, rylsynge vp by tymes and sayng, for he had compassion on his people, and on his dwellyng place. But they mocked the messengers of God, & despyled his wordes, and mylused his pyphetes, vntyl the wrath of the Lorde arose agaynst his people, and thyl there was no remedy. And so he brought vpon them the kynge of the Caldees, whiche slue theyr yong men with the swerde in theyr holy temple and spared neyther younge man, mayden, olde man, nor hym that stouped for age. He gaue them all into his hande.

And al the vessels of the house of God (bothe great great and small) and the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the kynge, and of his lordes: all these caried he to Babilon. And they burnt the house of God, and brake downe the wall of Jerusalem, and burnt all the places thereof with fyre, and destroyed all the goodly ieruelles therof. And the rest that had escaped þe swerde caried he to Babilon, where they were bounde to hym and his chyldren, vntyll þe tyme that Persia had the Empire. To fulfill þe word of the Lorde* by þe mouth of Jeremia, vntill the land had her pleasure of her Sabbathes: for as longe as she laye desolate, she kepte Sabbath, vntill seuentye yeres were fulfilled.

D * And the fyrst yere of Cyrus kyng of Persia (when the woorde of the Lorde* spoken by the mouth of Jeremia was fynished) the Lord stre red vp the spryit of Cyrus kyng of Persia, that he made a proclamacion thowout all his kyn gdom, and that by wyrtynge, sayeng: Thus say eth Cyrus kyng of Persia: all the kyngdomes of the earth hath the Lord God of heauen gyue me, and hath charged me to buyld him an house in Jerusalem that is in Iuda. Wherefore who so euer is amonge you of all his people, the Lorde his God be with him, and let hym go vp.

The fyrste Chapter.

C Cyrus sendeth agayne the people that was in captiuitie, and restoreth them theyr holy vessels. And commaundeth them to buyld agayne the temple.

In the first yere of* Cyrus king of Persia (that the woorde of the Lorde spoken* by the mouth of Jeremy myght be fulfilled) the Lorde styred vp the spryite of Cyrus kyng of Persia, that he caused to be proclaymed thowout all his empyre, and to be wyrtten, sayenge: Thus sayeth Cyrus the kyng of Persia: The Lorde God of heauen hath gyuen me all the kyngdomes of the earth,* and hath comaunded me to buyld hym an house at Jerusalem, whych is in Iuda. Whosoener nowe among you is of hys people the Lorde his God be with him, and let him go vp to Jerusalem in Iuda, and buyld þe house of the Lorde God of Israel. he is the God that is at Jerusalem. And whosoener remaineth yet in any maner of place (where he is a straunger) let the men of þe place helpe hym with siluer and golde, with good and cattel, besyde that whych they wyllingly offre, for the house of God that is at Jerusalem.

Then gat vp the principall fathers of Iuda C and Ben Jamin, and the prestes and Leuites, & all they whose spryit God had rayled to go vp, & to buyld the house of þe Lorde which is at Jerusalem. And all they that were about the streng- thed theyr hande, with vessels of syluer & golde with good & cattel, and iewels: in so moche that euery one thewed hym selfe lyberall. And kyng Cyrus brought forth the vessels of the house of the Lorde* which Nabuchodonozor had taken out of Jerusalem & had put in þe house of his God Those did Cyrus þe kyng of Persia byng forth by the hande of Mithridates the treasurer, and nobred them vnto Selsbazer the prince of Iuda

The prestes of the chyldren of Jedata of the house of Iesua, nyne hundred and thre and senetye: the chyldren of Immer, a thousande, & two and fyfetye: the chyldren of Phathur, a thousande two hundred and seven and fourty: the chyldren of Iarim, a thousande and seuentene.

The Levites: The chyldren of Iesua, & Cadmuel of the chyldren of Hodavia, foure & seuentye. The syngers, the chyldren of Alaph, an hundred and eght and twentye. The chyldren of p doze keper. The chyldren of Salu: the chyldren of Ater, the chyldren of Calmon, the chyldren of Akub, the chyldren of Harita, the chyldre of Sobai: all togyther an hundred and xxxix.

The Rechinims, the chyldren of ziba, the chyldren of Alupha, the chyldren of Tabaoth, the chyldren of Ceros, the chyldre of Sichu, the chyldren of Dadon, the chyldren of Lebanaa, the chyldren of Hagaba, the chyldren of Akub, the chyldren of Hagab, the chyldren of Samlat, the chyldren of Hanaan, the chyldren of Gyddel, the chyldren of Gabar, the chyldren of Reaia, the chyldren of Razin, the chyldren of Recoda, p chyldre of Galam, the chyldren of Ala, the chyldren of Passaah, the chyldren of Bassai, the chyldren of Asua, the chyldren of Echunim, the chyldren of Rephasim, the chyldren of Bacbuc, the chyldren of Hacuba, the chyldre of Arhur, the chyldren of Bazuth, the chyldren of Hebira, the chyldre of Harla, the chyldren of Barcom, the chyldren of Sylara: the chyldre of Chamah, the chyldren of Reziab, the chyldren of Hatipha.

The chyldren of Salomons seruautes: the chyldren of Sotai, the chyldren of Sophereth, the chyldren of Beruda, the chyldren of Jaala, the chyldren of Darcon, the chyldren of Giddel, the chyldren of Sephatiah: the chyldren of Hattil, the chyldren of Bochereth, Hozbaim, the chyldren of Ami. All the Rechinims, and the chyldren of Salomons seruautes were all togyther thre hundred nyntye and two.

And these went vp from Thelmeiah, & from Thelharla, Cherub, Addon, and Immer. But they coude not discerne theyr fathers house and theyr seed: whether they wer of Israel. The chyldren of Delaiah, the Chyldren of Tobia: The chyldren of Recoda, fyve hundred and thre and fyfetye. And of the chyldren of the prestes: the chyldren of Hebata: the chyldren of Haco, the chyldren of Berzelai: which toke on of p dozers of * Berzelai the Giliadpse to wyfe: and was called after theyr name: these soughte theyr euydence amonge them that had the regyde of byrth, and were not found therein, therfore were they put from the presthode. And Haturatha sayd vnto them, that they shulde not eate of the moost holy, tyl there rose vp a * prest to weare Urim and Thumim.

The whole congregacion together was, xlii. thousande, thre hundred and thre score: besyde theyr seruautes and maydens: of whome there were seven thousande, thre hundred and seven & thryfetye. And there were among them two hundred syngynge men and women. Theyr doles were seven hundred, and fyve and thryfetye. Their mules, two hundred and fyve and fourtye: and theyr camels, foure hundred and fyve & thryfetye. Theyr asses, sixe thousande, seven hundred and twenty. And certayn of the chiefe fathers: when they came bycause of the house of the Lorde, at Jerusalem, they offered them selues wyllyng for the house of God, to set in his place: & gaue gold after theyr habilitie, vnto the treasure of p wothe. xli. thousande perez, and fyve thousand pounde of syluer: and an hundred prestes garments. So the prestes & the Levites, and a certayne of the people, and the syngers, and the peters, and the Rechinims dwelt in theyr cyties, and all Israel in theyr cyties.

The .iii. Chapter.

After the foundacyon of the temple ones reued, they sacrifice vnto the Lorde.

And when * p seuenth moneth came, and the chyldre of Israel were now in their citie: the people came togyther (even as one man) vnto Jerusalem. And there stode vp Iesua p sonne of Josedec: and his brethren the prestes, and zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and his brethren, and buylded the auttare of the God of Israel, to offre burnt offrynges thereon, as it is wyrtten in the lawe of Moyses the man of God, and the auttare set they vpon his sockettes (for there was a fearfulnesse among them, bycause of the nations & landes) therfore they offered burnt offrynges thereon vnto the Lorde * in p morning and at euen. And they held the feast of tabernacles as it is wyrtten: and offered burnt sacrifices dayly, accorpyng to the nombze and custom daye by daye. Afterwarde they offered dayly burnt offrynges also, and in the newe monethes and in al the feast dayes that wer cōsecrate vnto the Lorde, & for all them which dyd (of theyr owne free wyll) offre vnto the Lorde.

From the fyfthe daye of the seuenth moneth began they to offre burnt sacrifices vnto the Lorde: euen when the foundacyon of the temple of the Lorde was not yet layed. They gaue money also vnto the masons, & carpenters, & meat and drynke: and oyle vnto them of zidon and of Tyre, to buyng the Cedze tymbze from Libanus, was by set vnto Joppa, accordyng to the graue

that they had of Cyrus the kyng of Persia.

In the second yere of theyr comyng vnto the place of the house of God at Jerusalem in the second moneth began zorobabel the sonne of Sa-labiel, and Iesua the sonne of Iosedec, and the remnant of theyr brethren the prestes and Le-uites, & all they that were come out of the captiuities vnto Jerusalem, & appoynted the leuites fromt went yere olde and aboue, to se that the worke of the house of the Lorde went forwarde.
And Iesua stode with his sonnes and brethren:
and Cadmiel with his sonnes, and the chyldren of Juda, to further the workmen of the house of God, euen the chyldren of Henadab, with theyr chyldren, and theyr brethren the Leuites.

And when the buylders layed the foundaciō of the temple of the Lorde, the prestes stode in theyr aray with trumpets. And the Leuites the chyldren of Asaph with cymbales: to prayse the Lorde: after the maner of Dauid kyng of Israel. And they sange togyther when they gaue praise & thanks vnto the Lorde, bycause he is gracious, & bycause his mercye endureth for euer vnto Israel. And all the people shouted loude, in prayse of the Lorde, bycause the foundacion of the house of the Lorde was layed. Many also of the prestes & Leuites and auncient fathers whiche had sene the fyrst house (when the foundaciō of this house was layd before their eyes) wept with a loude voyce. And many shouted with ioye: so that the noyse gaue a great sounde: in so moche that y people coulde not discerne y ioyful sounde & gladnes, from the noyse of the weping among the people: for the people shouted with a loude crye: and the noyse was herde farre of.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The buyldyng of the temple is hyndred and let.

But the aduersaries of Juda and Ben-Jamin hearde, that the chyldren of the captiuitie buylded the temple vnto y Lorde God of Israel. And they cam to zorobabel, & to the principall fathers, and sayd vnto them: We will buylde wyth you: for we like the Lorde your God lyke as ye do. And we haue done sacrifice vnto hym syns the tyme of Asoz hadō the kyng of Assur: which brought vs by bytther. And zorobabel, and Iesua, and the other auncient fathers of Israel, sayde vnto them: it can not be, that you and we togyther, shoulde buylde the house vnto our God, for we our selues wyl buylde alone vnto the Lorde our God of Israel: as Cyrus the kyng of Persia hath commaunded vs.

And it came to passe, that the folke of the land hyndred the people of Juda, and troubled them as they were buyldyng, and byred counsailers agaynst them, to hyndre theyr denyce, as longe as Cyrus the kyng of Persia lyued, vntyll the raygne of Darius kyng of Persia. And in the raygne of Ahasuerus (euen in the begynning of his raygne) wrote they vnto hym a complaynte agaynst the inhabitants of Juda and Jerusalem.

And in the dayes of Artaxerxes, wrote Mi-chidab Tabeel, & the other of his counsell vnto

Artaxerxes the kyng of Persia with saye wordes.
And the scripture of the letter was wyrtten in the Syriās speche, and interpreted in the language of the Syrians. Rehum the recorder and Samsai the scribe wrote a letter from Jerusalem to Artaxerxes the kyng: as it foloweth.

Then Rehum the recorder, and Samsai the scribe, and other of theyr compaigne of Dina, of Arphasath, of Charpia, of Persia, of Arach, of Babylon, of Susan, of Deba, of Elan, & other of the people: whom the great and noble Achapar brought ouer: and set in the cytyes of Samaria, and other, that are nowe on this side the water. This is the coppe of the letter that they sent vnto kyng Artaxerxes.

The seruantes and the men that are now on this syde the water. Be it knowen vnto y kyng that the Jewes which came by from the to vs, are come vnto Jerusalem (a cytie sedicious and frowarde) and buylte the same, and set by the walles therof, and laye the foundacions. Be it knownen now also vnto the kyng, that yf this ci-tie be builded, and the walles therof made by a gayne, then shall not they gyue tolle, trybute, & custome, and the kynges proppete shall incurre dāmage. And nowe in the meane seasō we haue destroyed the temple, and wolde no longer se y kynges dishonoure. Therfore sent we oute also and certified the kyng: that it maye be sought in the booke of the Chronycles of thy progeny-tours, and so shalt thou fynde in the boke of the Chronicles, and perceyue that this cytie is sedityous and noysome vnto kynges & landes, and that they cause other also among them to rebell of olde, and for the same cause was this cytie destroyed. Therfore do we certifye the kyng that yf this cytie be buylded agayne, and the walles therof made by: thou shalt hereafter haue no porcyon on this syde the water.

Then sent y kyng an answer vnto Rehum the recorder, & Samsai y scribe, & to the other of their copanions that dwelt in Samaria, & vnto the other that wer beyond y water, in Selan & Chebeth. The letter which ye sent vnto vs hath ben openly red before me, & I haue comaunded to make searche: & it is founde: y this cytie of olde, hath made insurrection agaynst kynges, & that rebellion & sedition hath bene comitted therein.
There haue ben myghty kynges also at Jerusalem, whych haue raygned ouer all countreyes beyonde the water: and tolle, tribute, & custome was gyuen vnto them: Syne ye nowe therfore comaundement, that the same men be forbyddē and that the cytie be not buylded agayne, tyll I haue gyuen an other comaundment. Take hede now that ye be not negligēt to do this: for why shoulde the kyng haue harme therethorowe?

Nowe when the coppe of kyng Artaxerxes lette was red before Rehum and Samsai the scribe, and theyr compaignons, they went by in all the haste to Jerusalem, vnto the Jewes and forbadde them with violence and power. Then ceased the worke of the house of god at Jerusalem: and continued so vnto the seconde yere of Darius kyng of Persia.

By the exhortation of Aggeus and zacharye is the temple buylded agayne.

Agge. i. b.

The prophetes Aggeus and zacharye the sonne of Iddo prophesied vnto the Jewes that were in Iuda, and Jerusalem: in the name of the god of Israel.

* Then gat vp zorobabel the sonne of Sala thiel, and Iesua the sonne of Ioseder, and began to buylde the house of God at Jerusalem: and with the were the prophetes of God, which hel- ped them. At the same tyme came to them Cath- nai, whiche was captayne on this syde the wa- ter, and Starbazani, & theyr companyons, and sayd thus vnto them: Who hath commaunded you to buylde this house, and to make vp these walles? Then tolde we them the names of the men that made this buyldynge. But the eye of theyr God was vpon the elders of the Jewes, that they coulde not cause them to ceasse, tyl the matter was brought to Darius, and then they answered by letters there vnto 25 This is the copy of the lettre, that Cathnai (whiche was captayne on this syde the water) and Starbazani, & the counsailers of Aphar- sah (which were on this syde the water) sent vn- to kyng Darius. And the matter that they sent vnto hym, was wyrtten thus within the lettre: Vnto Darius the kyng, al peace. Be it knowne vnto the kyng, that we went in to the lande of Jewrye, to the house of the great God, which is builded with mighty great stones, and beames are layed in the walles, and the worke goth fast forth, & prospereth in theyr handes. Then axed we the elders, & sayd vnto them as it foloweth: Who commaunded you to buylde this house: and to make vp the walles therof? We asked theyr names also, that we myght certify the, & wyte the names of the men that were theyr rulers.

But they answered vs with these wordes, & sayd: We are the seruautes of hym that is God of heauen & earth, and buyld the house that was buylded many yeres ago, * which a great king of Israel buylded, & set vp. But after our fa- thers had prouoked the God of heuē vnto wrath * he gaue them ouer into the hand of Nabucho- donozor the king of Babilon, & of the Chaldees whiche brake downe this house, and caried the people awaye captiue vnto Babilon.

* But in the fyrst yere of Cyrus the kyng of Babilon, the same kyng Cyrus gaue commaundement concernynge this house of God, that it shuld be buylded agayne. And he vassels of golde and syluer of the house of God, which Nabucho- donozor toke out of the temple that was at Je- rusalem, & brought them into the temple at Ba- bilon, those dyd Cyrus the kyng take out of the temple at Babilon, * and they were deliuered vnto one Shafbazar by name, whome he made captayne, & sayd vnto hym. Take these vessels and go thy way, and let them in the temple that is at Jerusalem, and let the house of God be buylded in his place. Then came the same Shafbazar and layed the foundation of the house of God, whiche is at Jerusalem. Thus that tyme all vntyl now hath it be in buyldynge, and yet is not finished. If it please the kyng now, let there be serche made in the kinges trea- sury whiche is there at Babilon, whether there be any kynges commaundement, that the temple of God at Jerusalem shuld be buylded, and let hym sende vs the kynges mynde concernynge the same matter.

The. vi. Chapter.

At the commaundement of Darius kyng of Persia, wher the temple was buylded and dedicate, the chyldren of Israel kept the feast of vnleuened bread.

Then commaunded kyng Darius, and they made searche in the librarie, euen in the place where they layed vp the treasure at Babilon. * And there was founde in a coffre (in the place that is in the land of the medes) a volume, and therein was it thus wyrtten, & suche a memoriall: In the fyrst yere of kyng Cyrus, gaue the same kyng Cyrus commaundemente concernynge the house of God at Jerusalem, that the same house shuld be buylded in the place where they offere the sacrifices, and to ioyne the walles togyther of thre score cuby- tes heigth, and thre score cubytes bredth. The rowes of rough stones, & one rowe of tynnyng, and the expences shall be gyuen of the kynges house. And let the gold and syluer be sell of the house of God, (whiche Nabuchodonozor toke out of the temple at Jerusalem and brought vnto Babilon) be restozed, and brought agayne vnto the temple at Jerusalem to theyr place in the house of God.

Get you far from them therfore, thou Cathnai captayne beyonde the water, and Starbazani, and your counsailers and Aphar Sahiel, which are beyonde the water, get ye away from them. Let the worke of the house of this God alone, that the captayne of the Jewes and their elders maye buylde the house of God in his place. I haue comaunded what shall be done to the elders of Iuda for the buyldynge of the house of God, that there shall be diligent hede taken of the kynges goodes, euen of the rentes beyonde the water, and gyue vnto the men, that they be not hyndred. And if they haue neede of calues, rammes, & lambes for the burnt offryng of the God of heauen, wheate, salte, wyne, and oyle, after the custome of the prestes at Jerusalem, let the same be gyuen them dayly without any delay: that they maye offere swete sanours vnto the God of heauen, and pray for the kynges life and for his chyldren. And suche a commaunde- ment haue I gyuen: that what man soeuer he be, that altereth this worde, there shall a beame be taken from his house, and set vp, and he shal be hanged thereon, and his house shal be made a donge hyll, for the same thyng.

And the God that set his name there, destroy al kynges and people that put to theyr hand to altere, & to brake downe the house of God whiche is at Jerusalem. I Darius haue commaunded, that this be done wyth speede.

Then Cathnai the captayne of the country beyonde the water, and Starbazani with their counsailers counsaillers (to whome kynge Darius had sent to do theyr diligence. And the elders of the Jewes builded, and they prospered thow the prophete of Aggeus the prophete, and zachary the sonne of Iddo: and they builded and layed up the foundacyon, accordyng to the commaundement of the God of Israel, and after the commaundement of Cyrus and Darius, and Artaxerxes kinges of Persia. And the house was finished the thyrde day of the moneth Adar, even in the fyrte pere of the raygne of kynge Darius.

¶ And the chyldren of Israel, the preeftes, the Leuites, & the other chyldren of captiuitie held the dedication of this house of God wyth ioye, and offered at the dedication of this house of God an hundred oxen, two hundred rāmes: foure hundred gootes, & for the reconcylyng of all Israel twelue hegootes: accordyng to the nombre of the tribes of Israel, and set the preeftes in theyr sondry courses: and the Leuites in theyr dyuers offyses to mynistre vnto God at Jerusalem: as it is wyrtten in the booke of Moyses.

¶ And the chyldren of the captiuitie helde passeouer vpon the fourtenth daye of the fyrst moneth, for the preeftes and Leuites were purgged, so that they were all cleane togyther, and kyllled passeouer for all the chyldren of the captiuitie, & for their brethren the preeftes, & for the selues. And the chyldren of Israel whych were come agayne out of captiuitie, and all such as had separated them selues vnto them, fro the splithynesse of the hepten of the land: to seke the Lord God of Israel, dyd eate, and helde the feast of vnleuened bread seuen dayes with ioye: for the Lord had made them glad, & turned the hert of the king of Assur vnto them, to strengthen their handes in the worke of the house of God, eue the God of Israel.

By the commaundement of Artaxerxes, Esdras taketh his companions the chyldren of Israel, and returneth to Jerusalem.

¶ After these actes, there was in the raygne of Artaxerxes kynge of Persia, one Esdras the sone of Sariah the sonne of Asaria, the son of Helkiah, the sonne of Sallum, the sone of Iadoc, the sonne of Abitob, the sonne of Amariah, the sonne of Asaria, the sonne of Meraioth, the sonne of zerata, the sonne of Ussi, the sone of Bucki, the sone of Abisua, the sonne of Phinehes, the sonne of Eleasar, the sonne of Aarō the chefe preeft. This Esdras also went vp fro Babylon, & was a perfect scribe in the lawe of Moyses, whych the Lord God of Israel dyd gyue. And the kynge gaue hym all that he requyred because the hande of the Lord his God was vpon hym. And there wente vp certayne of the chyldren of Israel: of the preeftes, Leuites, synners, porters, & of the Methinims vnto Jerusalem, in the seuenthy pere of kynge Artaxerxes. And he came to Jerusalem in the fyfth moneth, even in the seuenthy pere of the kynge. For vpon the fyrste daye of the fyrste moneth, began he to go vp fro Babylon, & on the fyrst day of the fyfth moneth came he to Jerusalem, because the good hāde of God was vpon hym. For Esdras prepared hym bert to seke the lawe of the Lord, & to do it, and to teache the precept and iudgement in Israel.

¶ And this is the coppe of the letter that kynge Artaxerxes gaue vnto Esdras the preeft and scribe, whych was a wyrtter of the wordes and commaundementes of the Lord, & of his statutes ouer Israel. Artaxerxes a kynge of kynges. Vnto Esdras the preeft & scribe of the lawe of the God of heauen, peace & salutation. I haue commaunded, that all they of the people of Israel, & of the preeftes & Leuites in my realme (whych are mynded of their owne good will to go vp to Jerusalem) go wyth the: and therefore art thou sent of the kynge & of his seuen counsaillers, to vnto Juda & Jerusalem, accordyng to the lawe of the God, whych is in thy hande. And that thou shouldest take with the syluer & golde, whych I haue & his counsaillers offere of theyr owne good will vnto the God of Israel (whose habitation is at Jerusalem) & all the syluer & golde thou canst fynde in all the countrey of Babylon, wyth it that the people offere of theyr owne good will, and the preeftes gyue for the house of the God whych is at Jerusalem.

Take thou the same, & be diligent wyth the same money, oren, rāmes, and lābes, with theyr meate offrynges and drynke offrynges: and thou shalt offere them vpon the auter of the house of your God, whych is at Jerusalem. And loke what it lyketh the & thy brethren to do with the remnant of the money, that do after the will of your God. And the vessels that are gyuen the for the ministracion in the house of thy God, those deliuer thou before God at Jerusalem.

¶ And whatsoeuer thyng moze shalbe nedefull for the house of thy God, whych is necessary for to spende, thou shalt receyue the charges out of the kynges treasure house. I kyng Artaxerxes haue comaunded al the treasurers beyonde the water, that loke whatsoeuer Esdras the preeft and scribe, in the lawe of the God of heauen, requyeth of you that ye fulfill the same speedely, vntyll an hundred talentes of syluer, vntyll an hundred quarters of wheate, and tyll an hundred battes of wyne, and tyll an hundred battes of oyle, and salte wythoute measure. Whatsoeuer also belongeth to the lawe of the God of heauen, let the same be done without any delay for the house of the God of heauen, & he be not wroth agaynst the realme, & agaynst the kynge, & his chyldren.

¶ And we certifie you: that ye haue no authority to requyre taxynge and custome, & yearly rentes vpon anye of the preeftes, Leuites, synners, porters, Methinims, and ministers in the house of your God. And thou Esdras (after the wysedome of thy God, that is in thy hande) iudges and arbiters by myn authority, to iudge all the people that is beyonde the water, such as knowe the lawe of thy God, and them that knowe it not: those that teache. And whosoever shal not fulfill the lawe of thy God, and the kynges lawe, lette hym haue hym iudgement without delaye, whether it be vnto deatch, or to be rooted out, or to be condemned in goodes, or to be put in prysyn.

* Blessed be the Lorde God of our fathers, which so hath inspyred the kyngeſ here, to gather the house of the Lorde that is at Ierusalem, and hath enclined his mercy vnto me, in the presence of the kynge & his counsaylers: and before all the kyngeſ hys estates. And I was comforted (euen as the hande of the Lorde my God was vpon me) and so gathered I the heedes of Israel togyther, that they myght go vp wyth me.

The. viii. Chapter

The nombre of them that returned to Ierusalem with Eſdras.

iii. c. viii. c.

Theſe are the pyncipall fathers of them, & this is theyr register that went vp wyth me from Babilon, what tyme as kynge Artaxerxes ragned. Of the chyldren of Phinehes, Gersom: of the chyldren of Ithamar, Daniel: of the chyldren of Dauid, Hatus: of the chyldren of zacharia: among the chyldren of Pharos, zachary: and wth hym were nombred an hundred and fyfthe men. Of the chyldren of the captayne of Moab, Elionai, the sonne of zerabia, and with hym two hundred men. Of the chyldren of zacharia the sonne of Iabael, & with hym thre hundred men. Of the chyldren of Adin, Abed the sonne of Jonathan, & with hym fyfthe men. Of the chyldren of Elam, Isai the sonne of Athalia, and wyth hym ſeuentye men. Of the chyldren of Saphatia, zebadia the sonne of Michael, and with hym foure ſcore men.

Of the chyldren of Joab, Obadia the sonne of Jehiel, and with hym two hundred and eyghtene men. Of the chyldren of Selomith the ſone of Iosephia, and with hym an hundred and thre ſcore men.

Of the chyldren of Gehai, zachary the sonne of Gehai, and with him eyght and twenty men. Of the chyldren of Algab, Iohanan the sonne of Hakatan, and with hym an hundred and ten men. Of the chyldren of Adoniam, that were the last, whose names are theſe: Eliphelet, Jehiel & Samaiab, and with them thre ſcore men. Of the chyldren of Biguai, Athai, & zabud, and with them ſeuentye men. And I gathered them togyther by the water that runneth toward Ahava, and there abode we thre dayes. And I looked amonge the people & the preeſtes, and found there none of the chyldren of Leui. Then ſent I to Eliezer, to Aziel, Semeia, Elnathan, Jarib, Elnathan, nathan, zacharye, and to Melullam the rulers, and to Joiarib and Elnathan, which were men of vnderſtandynge, and to thoſe gaue I commaundemente: vnto Iddo the cheſt at Caſaphia, that they ſhulde fetch vs myniſters for the house of our God, and I tolde them what they ſhulde ſaye vnto Iddo and to his brethren the Netthinims at Caſaphia.

And (thorowe the good hande of oure God vpon vs) they brought vs a wyſe man from amonge the chyldren of Moholi the ſone of Leui, the ſonne of Israel: And Sarabia with his ſon and his brethren, euen eyghtene. And Halabia, and with hym Isai of the chyldren of Merari, with his brethren, and theyr ſonnes twentye.

And of the Netthinims, whome Dauid and the princes gaue to myniſter vnto the Leuites, to hundred and twentye of Netthinims, which all were named by name.

And euen there at the water, beſyde Ahava, I proclaymed a faſt, that we myght humble our ſelues before our God, and ſeke of hym a ryght waye for vs, and for our chyldren, and for al our ſubſtance. For I was aſhamed to requyre of the kynge, ſouldiours and horſemen, to helpe vs agaynſt the enemy in the waye: but we ſayd vnto the kynge: The hande of our God is vpon all them that ſeke hym in goodnes, & his violence and wrath is agaynſt al them that forſake hym. So we faſted, and beſought oure God for this: and he herde vs.

And I toke out twelue of the cheſe preeſtes: Sarabia, and Halabia, and ten of their brethren with them, & wayed them the ſyluer & golde, and veſſels that were appoynted for the house of our God, which the kynge and his counſailers, and his lordes, & all Israel that were there at hande had gyuen togyther. And I wayed vnto theyr hand ſyre hundred and fyfthe talentes of ſyluer, and in ſyluer veſſel an hundred talentes, and in golde, an hundred talentes: twentye baſens of golde, of a thouſande peces, and two coſtly ornamentes of good braſſe, as cleare as golde: and I ſayd vnto them: ye are conſecrate vnto the Lord, lyke as the veſſels are holy alſo, and the golde & ſyluer are gyuen of a good wyll vnto the Lorde God of your fathers. Watche ye, and kepe it: for ye ſhall waye it downe before the cheſe preeſtes and Leuites, & auncient fathers of Israel at Ierusalem in the treaſuries of the house of the Lord. Then toke the preeſtes and Leuites the wayed ſyluer and golde, and veſſell to byynge it to Ierusalem, vnto the house of oure God. And we brake vp from the water of Ahava on the tweluth daye of the fyrſt moneth, to go vnto Ierusalem: and the hande of our God was vpon vs, and deliuered vs from the hande of the enemies and of ſuche as layed waye for vs by the waye. And we came to Ierusalem, and a bode there thre dayes. But on the fourth daye was the ſyluer & golde and veſſell wayed in the house of our God by the hand of Meremoth the ſonne of Uzia the preeſt, & with him was Eleazar the ſonne of Phinehes, & with them was Joſabad the ſon of Iehoa & Roadia the ſonne of Benoi the Leuites. Accordynge to the nombre & weyght of euery one, was the weyght all wyrtten vp at the ſame tyme.

And the chyldren of the captiuitie, which were come out of priſon, offered burnt offrynges vnto the God of Israel, twelue bulloches, for all Israel, ſyre and nyntey rammes, ſeuene and ſeuentye lambes, & twelue begootes for a ſynoffryng, all to the burnt offryng of the Lorde. And they deliuered the kyngeſ comiſſion vnto the kinges officers, and to the captaynes that were on this ſyde the water. And they promoted the people, and the house of God.

The. ix. Chapter.

Eſdras complayneth on the people that had turned them ſelues from God, and married wyth the Gentyles.

When these thynges were done, the rulers came to me, & sayd: The people of Israel, & the prestes and Leuites are not separated from the people of the landes (as touchynge theyr abhominacions,) namelye, of the Cananites, Hethtites, Pherehtites, Jebusites Ammonites, Moabites, Egyphtes, and Amozites. * For they haue taken the daughters of the same to them selues, & to theyr sonnes, and the holy seede is myxed with the nacpions in the lande, and the bande of the princes and rulers hath ben principal in the trespassse.

* And when I hearde this saying, I rent my clothes and my garment, and pluckt of the heere of my heed, and of my heerde, & sat mournynge. And there resorted vnto me all suche as feared the wordes of the Lord God of Israel, bycause of the trasgression of the people of y captiuitie. And I sat mournynge vntill the euenynge sacrifice. And aboute the euenynge sacrifice, I arose vp from my benynges, and ret my clothes and my rayment and fel vpon my knees, and spredde out my handes vnto the Lorde my God, and sayde:

My God, I am ashamed, and dare not lyfte my myne eyes vnto my God: for oure wyckednesses are growen ouer our heed, & our trespassse is wared greate vnto the heauen. Spyns y tyme of our fathers, haue we bene in greate trespassse vnto this day. * and bycause of our wyckednesses haue we and our kynges bene deliuered into the bande of the kynges of the nacpions, into the swerde, into captiuitie, into shame, and into confusion of face: as it is to se this daye.

* And now is there a lytle and sodayne gracefulness come from the Lorde oure God, in causing some of vs to escape, and that he may gyue vs a nable in his holy place, and that oure God may lyght oure eyes, and gyue vs a lytle lyfe to take breath in our bondage. For we are bondemen, & our God hath not forsaken vs in our bondage, and hath enclyned mercye vnto vs in the syght of the kynges of Persia, to gyue vs lyfe, to let vp the house of oure God, and to redresse the desolation thereof, and to gyue vs a wall in Juda and Ierusalem.

And now oure God, what shall we saye after this? For we haue forsaken thy commaundementes whych thou hast commaunded by thy seruantes the prophetes, saying: The lande vnto which ye go to possesse, it is an vncleane lade bycause of the fylthynesse of the people of y landes, whiche with theyr abhominacions haue made it ful of vncleanness on euery syde. * Therefore shal ye not gyue your daughters vnto their sonnes, & theyr daughters shal ye not take vnto your sonnes, nor seke the y peace and wealth for ever, that ye maye be stronge and enioye the good in the lande, and that ye and your chyldren maye haue the inheritaunce of it for evermore.

* And after that all these thynges are come vp on vs (bycause of our euyl dedes, and great trespassses) thou oure God hast thrust down our wickednesses, and hast gyuen vs a deliuerance, as it is to come to passe this daye.)

And yf we turne backe agayne to let go thy commaundementes, and make contract wpth the people of these abhominacions, wylte thou not then be wroth at vs (and not without cause) tyl we be utterly consumed, so y nothyng remayne, and tyl there be no deliuerance? O Lord God of Israel, thou arte ryghteous, for we remayne yet escaped, as it is to se this day. Beholde also, in thy presence are we in our trespassses, and bycause of it maye we not stande before the.

The x. Chapter.

The people repent and turne, and put awaye theyr straunge wyues.

And when * Esdras prayed after this maner, & knowledged, wepte, & lay before the house of God, there resorted vnto hym oure of Israel a very greate congregacion of men & women & chyldren: and the people wepte very sore. And Serchania y sonne of Jehiel one of the chyldren of Elam, answered: and sayd vnto Esdras: We haue trespassed against our God, and haue taken straunge wyues of the people of the lande. Nowe there is hope yet in Israel concerning this thyng: For now we wyl make a couenaunte wth our God, and put awaye all the wyues (such as are borne of them) accordynge to the counsaile of the Lorde: & we wyl be in the feare of the commaundementes of our God, that we may do accordynge to y law. Set the vp: for this matter belongeth vnto the: we also wyl be wth the: be of good comforte therfore, and do it.

* Then arose Esdras: & toke an oth of y prestes & Leuites, & of al Israel, that they shuld do accordynge to this worde: and they sware. And Esdras stode vp frō before y house of God & went into the chābr of Iohanan the sonne of Eliashib. And when he came thither, he dyd eate no bread, nor dronke water, for he mourned, bycause of the transgression of the people that had ben in captiuitie. And they caused a proclamation to go thorowout Juda and Ierusalem, vnto all the chyldren whiche had bene in captiuitie, that they shuld gather them selues together vnto Ierusalem. And that whosoever cam not with in thre dayes accordynge to the deuyle of the rulers and elders, al his substance shulde be forfayt, and he shulde be put forth from the congregacion of the captyuitie.

Then all the men of Juda and Ben Iamin gathered them selues together vnto Ierusalem within thre dayes, euen the twentye daye of the nynt moneth, and al the people sat in the strete before the house of God, and trembled bycause of this matter, and for the rayne. And Esdras the preste stode vp, and sayde vnto them: * Ye haue transgressed, and haue taken straunge wyues, to make trespassse of Israel yet more: felle nowe therfore vnto the Lorde God of your fathers: & do his pleasure, & separate your selues frō the people of y lade, & frō the strange wyues. And al the congregacion answered, and sayd with a loude voyce: it shal be so: & we wyl do as y haue sayde. But the people are many, & it is a raynye whether, and the people are to faynte to tarpe without in the strete, neither is this a worke of

Nehemia butteler to kynge Artaxerxes prayeth to God for the people.

The wordes of Nehemia the son of Hachalia. It fortuned in the moneth Chislen, in the twenty peare, that I was in the castell at Susan: and Hanani, one of my brethren came to certayne men of Juda, and I asked the how the Jewes dyd that were delyuered and escaped from the captiuitie, and how it went at Jerusalem. And they sayd vnto me: The remnaunt of the captiuitie are there in the land in great misfortune and rebuke. * The wall of Jerusalem also is broken downe: and the gates therof are brent with fyre.

It fortuned, that when I herde these wordes I fate me downe and wepte, and mourned cer-tayne dayes, and fasted and prayed before the God of heauen, and sayd: O Lord God of heauen, thou greete and terribile God, * thou that kepest couenauent and mercy for them that loue the, and obserue thy commaundementes: let thyne eares hearken, I beseeche the, and let thyne eares be open, that thou mapest heare the prayer of thy seruauntes, which I praye now before the daye seruaunte Moyses. I beseech the, call to remembraunce the worde that thou commaundeddest thy seruaunt Moyses, and saydest: Ye wyl transgresse, and I * wyl scatreye you abrode amonge straunge wyues in our cyties, come at þe tyme ap-poynted, and let the elders of euery cytie & their iudges be wth them, til they haue turned þe wrath of our God away fro vs concerning this matter.

Then were appoynted Jonathan the sonne of Alabel, & Jahalia the son of Thekua ouer this matter: And Hsullā & Sabarhai the Leuites helped them. And þe chyldren of the captiuitie dyd euen so. And Esdras the prest, & the auncient beedes thow þe house of they fathers all men of great fame, separated them selues, & sat them downe in the fyrste daye of the tenth moneth, to examine the matter. And vntyl the fyrst daye of the fyrst moneth they were finishing þe busynes with all þe men that had taken straunge wyues.

And amonge the chyldren of the prestes there were men founde that had taken straunge wyues, namely amonge the chyldren of Iesua, the sone of Josedec and of his brethren, Maliah, & Elezer, Jarib & Gedalia, & they gaue they handes therupon, that they wolde put away they wy-ues, & for they trespasses to geue a rāme for they trespass. And amonge the chyldren in Emmer, Honan, and Sabadia. Amonge the chyldren of Hartm, Saasia, Elia, Semeiah, Jehiel and Alia. Amonge the chyldren of Basur. Elioenai, Maasia, Imael, Bethanel, Josabad and Elasa. Amonge the Leuites, Josabad, Sime-et, Kelaia, (whiche same is Kalithab) Bathabiah, Juda & Elezer. Amonge the syngers also Elia-lib. And amonge the porters, Sellū, and Teliand Uri. And of Israel. Amonge the children of Pharhos, Remaia, Jesiah, Malchia, Miamin Eleazar, Malchia & Baania. Amonge the chyldren of Elam, Mathania, zachary, Jehiel, Abdi, Jerimoth and Elia. Amonge the chyldren of zabhu, Eltoenai, Elialib, Mathani, Jerimoth, zabad, and Azza. Amonge the chyldren of Be-ba, Jehohanan, Anania, zabai, and Athaliai.
Amonge the chyldren of Beni, Mesulam, Ma-luc, Adabab, Israh, Saal & Jerimoth. Amonge the children of the captayne Moab, Adna, Cholal, Benaia, Malia, Mathania, Bezelel, Benui and Manasse. Amonge the chyldren of Ba-rim: Eliezer, Iesā, Malchia, Semeia & Simeon, Ben Jamin, Malluch & Samaria. Amonge the children of Halum, Mathanai, Mathathab zabad, Eliphelet, Jeremy, Manasse, & Semei.
Amonge the children of Bani: Madai, Amram, Huel, Banen, Belubti, Badaiab, Maniah, Maremoth & Elialib, Mathania, Mathanai, Jae-li, Bani, Beni, & Semeiah, Selemia, Nathan, Adaia, Machnabbai, Safai, and Sarai, Ala-rel, Selemiab, & Samaria, Shallum, Ama-ria, and Joseph. Amonge the chyldren of Rebo, Jehiel, Mathathab, zabad, zabina, Jodai, Joel and Banaia. All these had taken straunge wy-ues. And amonge the same, there were some that had chyldren by the wyues.

The ende of the fyrst boke of Esdras.

of thy seruast, and to the prayer of thy seruast, whose desyre is to feare thy name, & let thy seruant prosper thy daye, and graunte hym mercye in the syght of thy man, for I was the kynge's buteler.

The. ii. Chapter.

After Nehemia had obteyned letters of Artaxerxes, he came to Ierusalem, and buylded the walles.

Fortuned, that in the moneth * Nisan in the twentieth yere of kyng Artaxerxes, the wyne stode before him, & I toke vp the wine, and gaue it vnto the kyng. And I was heuy in his presence. And the kyng sayd vnto me: why lokest thou so sadly, why art not spker? it is not thyng els, but that thou arte heuy herted. And I was soze afrayed, and sayd vnto the kyng, God saue the kynges lyfe for ever. Howe shulde I not loke sadly, why the ctye and place of my fathers buryal lyeth wast and the gates therof are consumed wth fyre. And the kyng sayde vnto me: what is then thy requeste? I made my prayer also to the God of heauen, & sayde vnto the kyng: yf it please the kyng: and yf thy seruant haue founde fauoure in thy syght, sende me into Iuda vnto the ctye of my fathers buryall, that I maye buylde it.

And the kyng sayd vnto me (the quene hys wyfe spyng by hym) how longe shal thy iourney continue, and when wylt thou come agayne? And it pleased the kyng to sende me, & I let him a tyme, and sayd vnto the kyng: yf it please the kyng, let hym gyue me letters to the captaynes which are beyonde the water, that they may conuay me ouer, tyll I come into Iuda: and letters vnto Asaph the lord of the kynges wood, that he maye gyue me tymber to make beames for the gates of the palace (which is harde by the house) and for the walles of the ctye, and for the house that I shall entre into. And the kyng gaue me accordyng to the hande of my God, which was good vpon me. And when I came to the captaynes beyonde the water, I gaue them the kynges letters. And the kyng sent captaynes and horsemen wth me.

Sanabalat also the Hozonpte, and Tobia a seruante (the Ammonite) hearde it, and it grieved them soze, that there was come a man which sought the wealth of the children of Israel. And I came to Ierusalem, and was there thre dayes & I gat me vp in the night season, and a few men wth me, neyther tolde I anye man, what God had gyue me in my hert to do at Ierusalem, and there was not one beast with me, save it that I rode vpon. And I departed in the nyght by the valley porte, before the draggon wel, and to the donge porte, and consyded the walles of Ierusalem howe they were broken downe, and the postes therof consumed wth the fyre. And I went ouer vnto the well porte, and to the kynges conduyte, and there was no roume for the beast that was vnder me to passe. Then wente I on in the night by the broke syde, and consyded the wall, and turned backe, and came home agayne by the vallepe porte.

And the rulers knewe not whyther I wente or what I dyd, neyther dyd I as yet tell it vnto the Jewes, to the preestes, to the noble men to the rulers, & to the other that laboured in the worke. Then sayd I vnto them: ye se the myserye that we are in, how Ierusalem lyeth waste, & how the gates therof are bzent with fyre: come therfore that we maye buylde vp the wall of Ierusalem, & that we be nomore a rebuke. And I told them of the hande of my God, (that it was gracious ouer me) & the kynges wordes that he had spoken vnto me. And they sayde: let vs get vp, and buylde: & they strenghted theyr hande to good.

But when Sanabalat the Hozonite, & Tobia the seruast (an Ammonite), and Gesein the Arabian herde it, they laughed vs to scorne and mocked vs, and sayd: what is this that ye do? Wyl ye fall awaye from the kyng? Then answered I them, and sayd: the God of heauen, he it is that hath graunted vs prosperite: and we be hys seruantes. Let vs get vp and buylde. As for you, ye haue no porcion nor ryght, nor remembraunce in Ierusalem.

The. iii. Chapter.

The nombre of them that buylded the walles.

And Eliasib the hie preest gat hym vnto me with his brethren the preestes, & they buylded the shepegate. They repayred it, and set vp the dozes of it: & vnto the towre Mea repayred they it, & vnto the towre of Hananeel. Next vnto him also buylded the men of Jericho. And besyde hym Sachur the sonne of Amri. But the fyfthe porte dyd the children of Sanna buylde, which also layed the beames therof, & set on the dozes lockes, and barres of it. And nexte vnto him buylded Herimoth, the son of Uzia, the son of Hakoz: and next vnto them buylded Mesulā the sonne of Barachia the sonne of Meselabeel: and next vnto him buylded Zador the son of Baana. And nexte vnto him buylded they of Thekoa. But the greates men were amonge them, put not their neckes to the worke of their Lord.

The olde gate buylded Jehoiada the sonne of Paseah, & Mesulā the sonne of Mesodia, they layed the beames therof, & set on the dozes lockes & barres of it. Next vnto the buylded Melattah of Sibeon & Jadon of Merano, men of Sibeon, & of Mispa, where he that was captain on this syde the water had a mansion. Nexte vnto hym buylded Asiel the sonne of Harabiah the gold smyth. Next vnto hym also buylded Harnania the sonne of Harakim, & they repayred Ierusalem vnto the bzode well. Nexte vnto them buylded Rappaiā the son of Hur, the ruler of the halfe parte of Ierusalem. Next vnto hym buylded Jedaiā the sonne of Harumaph ouer agaynst hys house: & next vnto hym buylded Hatus the sonne of Hasabnia. But Melchiah the sonne of Hartim & Hasub the son of the captayne of Moab buylded the other pece, and the towre besyde the fornaces. Next vnto hym buylded Shallum a synners sonne, the ruler of the halfe parte of Ierusalem, he and his dougheters.

The valley gate buylded Hanani, & the ctye of Zanoa. They buylded it, & set on the dozes lockes.

The lxxi. Chapter

The buildinge of Ierusalem is hyndred and ten, but the Jewes buylde it, beinge readye harted, let theyr enemyes shulde invade them.

lockes & barres therof, and a wall cubytes on the wal, vnto the donge porte. But the donge porte buylded Melchiah the sone of Rechab, the ruler of the fourth part of Bethcharem: he repayred it, and set on the dozes, lockes & barres thereof. But the well gate repayred Shallu the sonne of Cholhosab the ruler of the fourth parte of Byspa. He buylded it, and layed the beames, and set on the dozes, lockes and barres thereof, and the wal vnto the poole of Siloah by the kinges garde, and vnto the steppes that go downe fro the cytie of Dauid. After him buylded Nehemiah the sonne of Asbok: the ruler of the halfe parte of Bethzur, vntyl the other syde ourt agaynst the sepulchres of Dauid, and to the poole that was repayred, and vnto the house of the myghtye.

After hym buylded the Leuytes, Rehum the sonne of Bani, and next vnto hym buylded Hasabiah the ruler of the halfe part of Keliab in hys quarter. After hym buylded their brethren: Bannai the sonne of Henadad the ruler of the halfe parte of Keliab: and after him buylded Ezer the sonne of Jesua the ruler of Byspa the other pece harde ouer agaynst the goinge vp to the house of the ordinaunce that was in the corner. Agayne, after him brake forth Baruch the son of Zachai of indignacyon, & repayred the other pece fro the turnynge corner, vnto the dooze of the house of Eliasib the hye preest. And after him also buylded Merimoth the sonne of Uria the son of Hacos, the other pece fro the doze of the house of Eliasib, even as longe as the house of Eliasib extended. After hym buylded the preestes, the men of the playne. After hym buylded Ben Jamin and Hasub ouer agaynst theyr house, and after him wrought Asaria the sonne of Maasia, the sonne of Anania, next vnto his house. After hym also buylded Benui the sonne of Hanadad the other pece, from the house of Azaria vnto the turning of the wall, and vnto the corner.

After hym buylded Pala the sonne of Asai, ouer agaynst the corner & the hygh towre which lyeth out ouer from the kynes house, that was helyde the courte of the prilon. After hym Bhe-dada the sone of Bbarhos (as for the Bethinims they dwelt in the stronge holde vnto the water-gate, towarde the east, & to the towre that lyeth out.) After him buylded they of Chekua the other pece ouer agaynst the great towre, that lyeth outwarde, vnto the wall of the stronge holde.

But from aboue the horse gate forth buylded the preestes, euery one ouer agaynst his house. And after them buylded Zadok the sonne of Immer ouer agaynst his house. After hym buylded also Semeia the sone of Serbania the keeper of the east gate. After hym buylded Hanania the son of Selemia, & Hanun the sonne of Zalab the other pece. And after hym buylded Meshullai the son of Berachia ouer agaynst his storehouse. After hym buylded Malachia the goldsmithes sonne, vntyl the house of the Bethinims, and of the marchauntes ouer agaynst the gate Mephkad, & to the parlour in the corner. And betwene the parlour of the corner vnto the shepegate buylded the goldsmithes and the marchauntes.

But when Sanabalat hearde that we builded the wal, he was wroth in hym selfe, & toke great indignacion, & mocked the Jewes, & sayde before his brethren and the souldyours of Samaria: What do these impotent Jewes? Wyl the heathen suffer them? Shall they offer? Shall they perfourme it in one daye? Shall they make stones whole againe that are brought to dust & brēt? And Tobiah the Ammonite was helyde him, and sayd: Though they buylde, yet yf a foxe go vp, he shall breake downe theyr stony wall. Heare (O our God) for we are despised: turne their shame vnto theyr owne heed, and gyue them ouer into despayring in the lande of theyr captiuitie. Couer not theyr wyckednesse, and let not theyr syn be put out in thy presence: for they haue prouoked the buylders. And so buylded we the wal, & it was joined hole togyther, vnto the halfe heygth thereof. And the people were mynded to labour.

And it fortuned, that when Sanabalat, and Tobiah, & the Arabians, Ammonites, & Asodites hearde that the walles of Ierusalem were made vp, & that the gappes began to be stopped they were very wroth, & conspyred altogether to come & fight agaynst Ierusalem, & to make the people an hyndzaunce therein. Reuerthelesse we made our prayer vnto our God, & set watchmen by them, which buylded day and nyght ouer agaynst them. And Juda sayd: the strength of the bearers is to feble: and there is yet moche more moztter, & we are not able to buylde on the wall. And our aduersaries sayd: they shall not knowe neyther se, tyll we come in the myddes amonge them & slay them, and hynde the worke. But it fortuned that when the Jewes (which dwelt helyde them) came, they told vs as good as ten tymes: that in al places where ye go vnto, they are appoynted to fall vpon vs. Therefore let the people after their kynredes with their swordes, speares and bowes beneth in the lowe places be hynde the wall, and I looked, and gat me vp: and said vnto the chiefe men, to the rulers, and to the other people, be not ye afayed of them: * But thynke rather vpon the great Lord, which ought to be feared, and fygth for your brethren, your sonnes, your daughters, your wyues, and your houses. Reuertheles, it chaunced that whē our enemyes herde that we had gotten worde of it, God brought theyr counsell to nought: and we turned all agayne to the wal: euery one vnto hys labour. And fro that time forth it came to passe that the halfe parte of the yonge men dyd the labour, and the other halfe parte of them held the speares, shylde, bowes, & best plates: and the rulers stode behynde al the house of Juda, which buylded on the wal, & bare burthens from those that laded them. With one hande dyd euery one worke: and with the other helde hys weapon. And euery one that buylded, had hys swerde gyde by hys thyghe, and so buylded they. And the trumpet blew helyde me.

And

And I sayd vnto the principal me, to the rulers, and to the other people: the worke is great and large, and we are separated vpon the wall, one farre fro an other. Loke in what place therfore ye heare the noyse of the trompet, resorte ye thither vnto vs, *and our God shall fyght for vs: and we wyll be labourynge in the worke. And the halfe part of them helde the speares fro the moornyng sparynge: til the starres came forth. And at the same time sayd I vnto the people: euery one abyde wyth hys seruaunt at Jerusalem, that in the night season we may watch, and labour on the day tyme. As for me & my brethren, my seruautes and the men of the watch (which were behynde me) we put neuer of oure clothes, nomoze then the other dyd they: harnesse, saue onely bycause of the water.

The v. Chapter.

The people are vexed wyth hunger. He requyret not the liuyng of a captayne.

And there arose a greates complaynt of the people, and of they: wyues agaynst they: brethren the Jues. For there were some that sayde: our sonnes and daughters and we are to manye therfore wyll we take cozne for them, that we maye eate and lyue. Some also there were that sayd: let vs let our landes: vyneyardes & houses to pledge & take vp cozne in the dearth. But some there were & said: let vs bozo we money for the kynges tribute: and that vpon our landes and vyneyardes. Beholde, our bodyes as the bodyes of our brethren, & our chyldren as they: chyldren: els shuld we subdue our sonnes and daughters vnto bondage, and some of our daughters are subdued vnto bondage already and no strength is there in our handes, and other men haue our landes and vyneyardes.

And when I harde they: complaynte & suche wordes, it displeased me sore, and I aduised so in my mynde, that I rebuked the counsellers, and rulers, & sayd vnto them. Euery one of you is to chargeable vnto his brother. And I brought a great congregation agaynst them, and sayde vnto them: we (after oure abilitie) haue bought our brethren the Jewes, which were solde vnto the heathen. And wyll you sel your brethren agayne vnto the heathen, after that they haue ben solde vnto vs? Then helde they they: peace, and coude fynde nothyng to answer.

And Nehemia sayde: It is not good that ye do. Dought ye not to walke in the feare of God, bycause of the rebuke of the heathen that are our enemies? I and my brethren, and my seruautes do lend them money and cozne: but as for vsurp let vs leaue it. Therfore, this same day I praye you se that ye restore them they: landes agayne they: vyneyardes, oyle gardens, and their houses, and remyt the hundred parte of the mony of the cozne, wyne and oyle that ye haue donne of them. Then sayde they: we wyl restore them agayne, and wyll requyre nothyng of them: and wyl do as thou hast spoken. And I called & presides, & toke an oth of them, that they shuld do so. And I shooke my lappe, & sayde. God make out every man after the same maner from hys house & labour that mayntayneth not this worde: enē thus be he shakē out, & voyde. And al the cōgregation sayd: Amen, & prayled the Lord: And the people dyd so. And from the tyme forth that (the kyng) commytted vnto me to be a captayne of them that were in the land of Iuda enē fro p. xx. yere vnto the. xxii. yere of kyng Arthuricles, (that is. xii. yere) I with my brethren liued not of such substance as was giuen to a captayne. For the olde captaynes & were before me, had bene chargeable vnto the people, & had taken of them breed and wyne, & xl. species of syluer: pea, & they: seruautes had oppressed & people. But so dyd not I, & that bycause of the feare of God. But I laboured also in the worke vpo the wal, & bought no lande. And all my seruautes came thither togither vnto & worke. Moreover ther were at my table an. C. and. l. of the Jewes & rulers, which came vnto me fro among the heathen that are about vs. And there was prepared for me dayly an oxe, & fyre chosen shepe, & byrdes, & euer ones in. x. dayes a great summe of wyne. Yet requyred not I the liuyng of a captayn, for the bondage was greuous vnto the people.

*Thynke vpon me my God vnto the best, according to all that I haue done for this people.

The vi. Chapter.

The buyldyng is yet agayne hundred and let.

And when Sanabalat, Tobiah, and Gesem the Arabian, & the other of oure enemies herde that I had buylded the wall, and & there wer no mo gappes therein (howbeit, at the same tyme had I not bagged the dozes vpo the gates) Sanabalat & Gesem sent vnto me, saying: come that we may mete and take counsel togither in the vylages & are in the playne of the cytie Dno.ouerthele, they thought to do me euill. And I sent messengers vnto the, saying: I haue a greates busynesse to do, & I can not come downe. The worke shuld stand styll, yf I were negligent, & came down to you. Howbeit, they sent vnto me as good as foure tymes after & same maner. And I gaue the the same answer. Then sēt Sanabalat his seruait agayne vnto me the fyfth tyme, wā an open letter in hys hāde wherein was writen: it is tolde the heathen & Gesem hath sayd it, that & and & Jues thynke to rebel, for the which cause & buyldest the wall that & mayst be they: kyng in these matters, & hast ordeyned the prophetes to preache of the at Jerusalem, and to saye: he is kyng of Iuda.

And now shal this come to the kynges eares, & come now therfore, & let vs take our counsell togither. And I sent vnto him, saying: there is no such thyng done as thou sayest: for thou saynest them out of thyne owne hert. For they were all mynded to make vs afrayed, saying: they shal withdrowe they: handes fro the worke, that it shal not be finished. Howbeit, I strenghted my hande the more. And I came to the house of Semeta the sonne of Dalaiā the sonne of Mehetabeel, & he had shūt hym selfe wpythin, & sayde: let vs come togither into & house of God, enē vnto & myddes of & temple, & shūt & dozes of & temple, for they wyl come to slay & prea, enē in & nyght wyl

ii. Ecloras.

they come to put the to death. And I sayd: Shuld any such man as I speke? Who is that, being as I am, that wyl go into the temple, to saue hys lyfe? I wyl not go in.

C And I perceyued, that God had not sent hym. Yet spake he prophecy vpon me, neuerthelesse, Tobiah and Sanabalat had byred hym for money. Therefore toke he the moneye, that throughe feare I shulde so do, and spynne: that they myght haue an euill repozte of me, to blasphemme me. My God thynke thou vpon Tobiah & Sanabalat accordynge vnto these theyr woordes, and of the prophet Hoadia, & of the other prophetes that wolde haue put me in feare.

D And the wall was fynnyshed on the fyue and twenty day of the moneth Elul, in two & fiftye dayes. And when all our enemyes herde therof, alþ heathen that were about vs, were afrayed, and their courage fayled them. And they perceyued, that this worke came of our God. And at y same tyme were there many of the chiefe of Iuda whose letters went vnto Tobiah & agayne from Tobiah vnto them (for there were many in Iuda, that were sworne vnto hym, for he was the sonne in lawe of Sechania, the sonne of Arah, and his sonne Jehonathan had the doughter of Mesullam, the sonne of Barachia, & they spake good of him befoze me: & tolde him my woordes) and Tobiah sent letters to put me in feare.

The vii. Chapter.

After the wall ones buylded, is the watche appoynted. They that returned from the captiuitie are nombred.

A And when the wall was buylded: I hanged on the doores also, and the porters, syngers & Leuites were appoynted. And I commaunded my brother Hanani and Hanania the ruler of the castell at Ierusalem: for he was a faythful man, and feared God more then dyd many other. And I sayd vnto them: let not the gates of Ierusalem be opened, vntyl the sunne be whote. And whyle they wer standyng in the watch, they shut the doores, and barred them. And we appoynted certayne cytizing of Ierusalem, to be watchmen, euery one to kepe his watche, and euerye one to be ouer agaynst his house. As for the cytie, it was large of roume and greate: but the people were fewe therein, and the houses were not buylded.

B And my God gaue me in my hert, that I gathered togyther the principal men, & the officers and the people, to nombze them: and I founde a register of the nombze of them * which came vnto befoze out of the captiuitie: and founde wyrtten therein: these are the sonnes of flande that went vnto the captiuitie of y carping away (whom Nabuchodonosor the kynge of Babylon had brought away) and came agayne to Ierusalem & Iuda: euerye one vnto his cytie. The chyldzen of Ziba, the chyldzen of Hasupha: the chyldzen of Tebabo, the chyldzen of Ceros: the chyldzen of Sia, the chyldzen of Phadon: the chyldzen of Lebanah: the chyldzen of Hagaba, the chyldzen of Salmai, the chyldzen of Hanan: the chyldzen of Gidel: the chyldzen of Gaber: the chyldzen of Meaia, the chyldzen of Rezin: the chyldzen of Recoda: the chyldzen of Galam: the chyldzen of Ula: the chyldzen of Phasah, the chyldzen of Belai, the chyldzen of Benim, the chyldzen of Rephaim, the chyldzen of Bacbuc, the chyldzen of Bachupha, the chyldzen of Harbur, the chyldzen of Bazlith, the chyldzen of Mehida, the chyldzen of Arsa, the chyldzen of Baros.

of Barcos, the chyldren of Siffera: the chyldren of Chamah, the chyldren of Neztiah, the chyldren of Hatipha.

The chyldren of Salomons seruauntes, the chyldren of Sotai: the chyldren of Sophereth, the chyldren of Pherida, the chyldren of Jaala, the chyldren of Darcon, the chyldren of Giddel, the chyldren of Saphatiah, the chyldren of Hattyl, the chyldren of Dochereth of zabaini, & chyldren of Amon. All these Nethenims, and & chyldren of Salomons seruauntes, were thre hundred, nyntye and two.

And these wet by also of Thel, Mela, Thel Haria, Cherub, Adon, & Immer: but they could not thewe they fathers house, nor they sede, & that they were of Israel. The chyldren of Dalaiah: the chyldren of Thooia, and the chyldren of Rechoda, syre hundred and two and fourtye.

And of the prestes the chyldren of Babilai: the chyldren of Hacos, & chyldren of Bersilai: which toke one of the daughters of Bersilai the Giliadite to wyfe, and was named after their name. These sought they wrytynge in the regester of their generaciō, but they were not founde, therefore they were put from the presthode. And Hathirsata sayd vnto them: that they shoulde not eate of the most holy, tyll there came by a prest whiche shoulde were Azim and Thumim.

And so the hole congregatyon togyther was two and fourtye thousande, thre hundred & thre scoze, besydes they seruauntes and maydens, of whom there were. vii. thousand, thre hundred and. xxxvii. And they had two hundred & .xlvi. synngynge men and women. They horses, seuen hundred and syre and thrytze, and they mules two hundred and syue and fourtye. The camels foure hundred and syue and thrytze: syre thousande, seuen hundred and twentye asses.

And certayne of the auncyent fathers gaue vnto the worke. Hathirsatha gaue to the treasure a thousande peces of golde, fyfthe bases, syue hundred and thrytze prestes garmentes. And some of the chiefe fathers gaue vnto & treasure of & worke, twenty thousand peces of gold and two thousand and two hundred ponde of syluer. And the other people gaue twenty thousande peces of golde, and two thousand ponde of syluer, and thre scoze and seuen prestes garmentes. And the prestes and Leuites, the porters and the singers and the other of the people and the Nethenims & all Israel, dwelt in theyr ctytes. And the seventh moneth came, and the chyldren of Israel were in theyr ctytes.

The. viii. Chapter.

Esdras gathereth togyther the people, & readeth to them the law, They kepe the feast of tabernacles of bothes.

And Al* the people gathered the selues togyther: as one man, in the strete that was befoze the watergate, and they sayde vnto Esdras the scribe, that he shuld fetch the boke of the lawe of Moyses, whych & Lozde commaunded to Israel. And Esdras the preste brought the lawe befoze the congregacion both of men and women: and all that coude under-stande dyd harken vnto it, vpon the fyrst day of the seventh moneth, and he redde therein, in the strete that was befoze the watergate (from the moynynge vntyll the noone daye) befoze men & women that dyd harken to it: and the eares of all the people were inclyned vnto the booke of the lawe. And Esdras the scribe stode vpon an hye pulpyt of wood whych they had made for & preachynge, and besyde hym stode Mathathia, Sema, Anania, Uriah, Hekia, and Maaseia on his ryght hande, and on his lefte hande stode Bedaia, Misael, Malchia, Hasum, Halebada-na, zachari, and Melulam.

And Esdras opened the boke befoze all & people, for he stode aboue all the people: And when he opened it, all the people stoode vp. And Esdras prayled the Lozde the great God. And all the people answered: Amen, Amen, with theyr handes vp, and bowed them selues, and worshipped the Lozde fallynge downe vpon theyr faces to the grounde. And Iesua, Baam, Serauah, Jamin, Acub, Sebatthai, Hadata, Maasia, Celita, Azaria, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaia: & the Leuytes caused the people to gyue hede vnto the lawe, and the people stode in theyr place. And they red in the boke of the lawe of God by synctlye and playnely, so that men understode the thing that was red. And Rechemiah (whiche is Hathirsata) and Esdras the prest and scribe and the Leuytes that caused the people to take hede, sayde vnto all the people: this daye is holy vnto the Lozde your God: be not you sorow, and wepe not. For al the people wepte, when they hearde the wordes of the lawe.

And he sayde vnto them: *go your way and eate of the fat, and drynke the wyte, and sende part vnto them also that haue not prepared the selues: for this daye is holy vnto our Lozde, be not ye sorow therfore: for the loye of the Lozde is your strength. And the Leuites stilled al the people, and sayde: holde your peace, for the daye is holy, were not ye your selues. And al the people went theyr waye to eate and drynke, and to sende parte vnto other, & to make great myrthe becaule they had understande the wordes that were declared vnto them.

And on the nexte daye were gathered togyther the chiefe fathers amonge all the people and the prestes and Leuytes, vnto Esdras & scribe that they myghte understande the wordes of the lawe. And they founde wrytten in the lawe, * (whiche the Lozde had commaunded by Moyses) that the chyldren of Israel shoulde dwell in bothes in the feast of the seventh moneth, and & they shoulde cause it to be declared and proclaymed in all theyr ctytes and chorowout Ierusalem, saying: go forth vnto the mount, and fetch the olyuebraunches, pinebraunches, myrbraunches, Balmebraunches, and braunches of thyrke tre: to make bothes, as it is wrytten.

And so the people went forth, and fet them & made them bothes, euerye one vpon the rofe of his house, and in theyr courtes, and in the courtes of the house of God, and in the strete by the watergate, and in the strete by porte Ephraim.

And al the congregaciō of them that were come agayne out of captiuitie made bothes, and late vnder the bothes: for sing the tyme of Iosua the sonne of Nun vnto thys dape, had not the chyl dze of Israel done so, and there was very great gladnesse. And euery dape from the fyrst day vnto the last, red Eldras in the boke of the law of God. And seuen dayes helde they the feast, & on the eyghte dape they gathered together, accordynge vnto the maner.

The ix Chapter.

The people repent, and forsake theyr straunge wyues. Eldras receyvyth the benedictiōes of God, and the synnes of the people.

In the .xliii. day of this moneth came þ chyl dzen of Israel together agayn with *fasting sakclothes, and earth vpon the and they that were of the seide of Israel were se perated, from all the straunge chyl dzen, & stode and knowledged theyr synnes and the wycked- nesses of theyr fathers, and stode vp in the place and red in the boke of the lawe of the Lorde their God foure tymes on the day, and they knowle- ged and worshypped the Lorde theyr God four- tymes on the day. And the Leuites stode on hye namely Iesua, Bani, Cadmiel Sabanias, Bu ni, Sarebiah, Bani and Canani, & cryed loude vnto the Lorde theyr God. And the Leuytes, Iesua and Cadmiel, Bani, and Hasabnias, Se- rebias and Hodia, Sebanias & Bathabias sayde: stande vp, and prayse the Lorde poure God for euer: and let thankes be geuen vnto the name of thy glozy, whiche excelleth all thankesgyuyng and prayse Thou arte Lorde alone. Thou hast made heauen, and the heauen of all heauens, wyth all theyr hooste, the earthe: and all thyng- ges that are therein, the see and all that is ther- in, and thou preseruest them all, and the hooste of heuen worshyppeth the.

Exod. iii. d.

Thou arte the Lorde God, that hast chosen Abza, and broughtest him out of *Chal- dea and calleddest hym Abraham, and foun- dest his bert saythfull befoze the * and madest a couenauent with hym, to geue vnto hys seide the lande of the Cananites, Hethites, Amozytes, Pheresites, Jebulites and Gerlites, and haste made good thy woordes: for thou arte ryghty- ous. * and haste consydered the misery of our fa- thers in Egypt, and hearde theyr complaynt by the red see, and shewed tokens and wōders vpo Pharaο, and on al his seruantes, and on al the people of hys lande: for thou knewest that they were p̄sumptuous and cruel agaynst them, and so madest thou the a name, as it is thys dape. And the red see dyddest thou deuyde in sondze be- foze them, so that they went thorowe the myd- des of the sea drye shodde: and their persecuters threwest thou in to the depe (as a stone) in the myghtye waters: and leddest them on the dape tyme wyth a cloudye pyller, and on the nyghte season in a pyller of fyze to shewe them lyght in the waye that they wente.

Thou camest downe also vpon mount Si- nai, and spakest vnto them from heauē, and ga- uest them right iudgementes, true lawes, good counsaundementes and statutes, and declared dest vnto them thy holy Sabbath, & commaun- dedst them p̄ceptes, ordinaunces, and lawes, by the hande of Moyses thy seruante: and ga- uest them breade from heauen, when they were hungry, and broughtest forth water for them oute of the rocke, when they were thyrstye: and promysedst them that they shulde go in, & take possesiōn of the lande: ouer which thou haddest lyfte vpon thyne hande for to geue them.

But they and our fathers were proude and hardened: so that they folowed not thy commaun- dementes: and wolde not obeye, neyther were myndefulle of the wonders that thou dydest for them: but became obstynate & heady, in somech that they toured backe to theyre bondage for theyr disobedience. And thou my God forga- uest, and wast gracypus, merciful, payent and of greate goodnesse, and forsokest not them.

* And though they made a molten calfe (as sayd) This is thy gods that brought the oute of the lande of Egypt) and dyd greate blasphemys, yet forsokest thou them not in the wilderness, accordynge to thy great mercy. * And the cloudye pyller departed not from them on the dape tyme to leade them the waye, neyther the pyller of fyze in the nyghte season, to shewe them the lyght in the waye that they went.

And thou gaueste them the good spyrite to enfourme them, * & withheldest not thy wōda from theyr mouth, & and gauest the water whē they were thyrstye. Fourtye peres longe madest thou prouisiō for them in the wyldernes, so þ they lacked nothyng * theyr clothes waxed not olde, and theyr fete swelled not. And thou ga- uest them kyngdomes and nacypns, and parted- dest them accordynge to theyr porcyōns: so that they possessed * the lande of Sehon kyng of he- sebon: and the lande of Og the kyng of Basan. And theyr chyl dzen multiplieddest thou as the starres of heauen, and broughtest them into the lande: where of thou haddest spoken vnto theyr fathers, that they shulde go into it, and haue it in possesiōn.

And the chyl dzen went in, and possessed the lande, * and thou subduedst befoze them the in- habytters of the lande, euen the Cananites: and gauest them into theyr handes, with theyr kyn- ges and the people of the lande, that they might do with them what they wolde. And they wan- theyr stronge cityes and a fat lande, & toke pos- sesiōn of houses, that were full of all maner of goodes: welles dygged out, vyneyardes, oyle- gardens, and many fruteful trees, and they dyd eate, and were fylled: and became fat, and lyued in welth thorow thy great goodnes. Neuer the- lesse they were disobeyent, & rebelled agaynst the, and cast thy lawe behinde their backes and * slue thy prophetes (which exhorted them ear- nestly, that they myght bryng them agayn vnto the) and dyd greate blasphemys. Therefore thou gaueste them ouer into the hande of theyr enemyes that vexed them.

And in the tyme of theyr trouble when they cryed vnto the: thou herdest them from heauen: and thorow thy great mercy thou gauest them sayours sanpours whych helped them out of the hand of theyr enemies. But whē they came to rest they turned backe agayne, to do euell before the: therfore lestest thou them in the hande of theyr enemies, so that they had the dominion ouer them. And when they conuerted and cryed vnto the: thou herdest them from heauen, & many tymes hast thou deliuered the accordyng to thy great mercy, and testifyedst vnto the that thou myght test bynge them agayne vnto thy lawe.

¶ Notwithstandyng, they were proude, and hekened not vnto thy commaundementes, but synned in thy lawes* (whych ysaia do he thal spue in them) and turned the shuldre away, and were spfneked, and wolde not heare. And many pētes dydest thou forbeare them, and testifyedst vnto them thozow thy spyrite, euen by þ hande of the prophetes: and yet wolde they not heare. Therefore gauest thou them into þ hande of the nations in the landes. And for thy greates mercyes sake, thou haste not vterly consumed them neither forsaken them: for thou art a gracious and mercifull God.

¶ Nowe therfore our God, thou great God, myghtye and terrible, thou þ kepest couenaunt & mercye, regarde not a lytle all the trauayle that hath happened vnto vs, and our kynges, our princes, our prestes, our prophetes and our fathers, and all thy people syns the tyme of the kynge of Assur vnto this day. And truly thou art iust, in all that thou hast brought vpon vs: for þ hast done ryghte. As for vs, we haue bene vngodly, and our kinges and our princes, our prestes and our fathers haue not done after thy law, nor regarded thy commaundementes and thy earnest exhortacions wherwith thou haste exhorted them, and they haue not serued the in theyr kyngdome, and in thy great goodes that thou gauest them, and in the large and plētous lande which thou gauest before them, and haue not conuerted from theyr wycked workes. Beholde, we are in bondage this daye: and lois þ lande that thou gauest vnto our fathers, to enioye the frutes and goodes therof, behold, there are we bondmen. And great is the encrease of it vnto the kynge whome thou hast set ouer vs, because of our synnes: and they haue dominion ouer oure bodies and cattell (euen as they will them selues) and we are in greates trouble. And in al this make we a sure couenaunt, & wyte it, and our princes, Leuites & prestes seale vnto it.

The .x. Chapter.

The names of them that sealed the couenaunt betwene God and the people.

¶ The sealers were Nehemiah (that is) Hathiratha: the sonne of Hathalia, and zedekia, Saraisa, Asariah & Jere my, Phasur, Amaria, Malchia, Hatus, Sebaniab, Malluch, Harim, Merimoth, and Obadia, Daniel, Jenthon, & Baruch, Mesulam, Abia, and Miamin, Maasia, Belgai & Semeia: these were prestes. The Leuites were Jesua the sonne of Azania, Benui, amonge the chyldren of Henedab and Cadmiel. And theyr brethren Serchania, Hodia, Telita, Delaia: Hanan, Micha, Rebob, and Isabiah, Sachur, Serchia, Sabania, Hodia, Bani and Beninu.

The heades of the people were, Phares, the captayne of Moab, Gam, Zathu, & Bani Boni Algad, Serbat, Adonia, Begoai, Adin, Ater, Hezekia, Asur Hodia, Hasum, Belai, Martu, Anathoth, and Nebai, Magphias, Mesulam Isir, Meselabel, Zador, Jaddua, Phalatta, Hanā Anania, Hosea, Hāania, Hasub, Halobes, Phalea, Sobek, Rehum, Halebna, Maasia, Abia, Anan and Anan, Malluch, Harim, & Baana.

And the other people, the prestes, Leuites, porters, syngers, Bethinims, and all they that had separated them selues from the people in þ landes vnto the lawe of God, with theyr wyues, theyr sonnes and theyr daughters, and as many as could vnderstande, and theyr lordes þ had rule of them, receyued it for theyr brethren.

* And they came to sweare and to bynde the selues wā an oth to walke in Gods lawe, whych was geuen by Moses the seruaunt of God: and that they wolde obserue and do accordyng vnto all the commaundementes iudgements and statutes of the Lorde oure God: * and that we wolde not geue oure daughters vnto the people in the lande, neither to take theyr daughters for our sonnes. * And if the people of þ land brought ware on the Sabbath and al maner of vittailles to sell, that we wolde not take it of them on the Sabbath and on the holy dayes: * and that we wolde let the seuenth yere be free, concernyng all maner of charge.

And we decreed a statute vpon our selues to geue perelye the thyrde parte of a shele to the ministracion in the house of our God, to the shewbread, to the dayly meat offeringe, to the dayly burnt offeringe of the Sabbathes, of the new moones and feast dayes and to the thynges that were sanctified, and to the offeringes of attouement, to reconcytle Israel withall, and to all the busynesse in the house of our God.

And we cast the lotte amonge the prestes, Leuites and the people, for offeringe of the wood to be brought vnto the house of oure God frā yere to yere: after the houses of oure fathers: that it myght be bynte at tymes appoynted, vpon the altier of the Lorde God, as it is wyrtten in the lawe: and to byng the fyrstfruytes of our lande and the fyrstfruytes of oure frutes of all trees: yere by yere vnto the house of the Lorde: and the fyrstfruytes of our sonnes, and of our cattell, as it is wyrtten in the lawe, and the fyrstfruytes of our oxe and of our shepe, which we shuld byng to the house of our God, vnto the prestes that minister in the house of oure God: and that we shulde byng the fyrstfruytes of our dough and our beue offeringe, and the frutes of all maner of trees, of wyne also and of oyle, vnto the prestes, to the chestes of the house of our God. And the tythes of our lande vnto the Leuites, that þ Leuites myght haue the tythes in all the cityes of our ministracion. And the Preste the sone of Aaron shall with the Leuites, haue also of the tythes of the Leuites, so that the Leuites shall byng vnto the tythes of theyr tythes vnto the house

The xi. Chapter.

Who dwelled in Jerusalem after it was buyden, and who in the cities of Juda.

And the rulers of the people dwelt at Jerusalem. The other people also cast lottes, & among ten, one parte shoulde go to Jerusalem into the holy citie to dwel, and nyne partes to be in the Cities: and the people thanked all the men that were wyllynge to dwel at Jerusalem.

These are the heades of the lande that dwelt in Jerusalem and in the Cities of Juda, euerye one in his possession, and in theyr cities: they of Israel, the prestes, Leuites, Bethinims, and the children of Salomons seruantes. And at Jerusalem dwelt certayne of the children of Juda and Ben Jamin.

Of the children of Juda: Athaiab the sonne of Asa, the sonne of zachari, the sonne of Amaria, the sonne of Saphatia, the sonne of Mahaleel: the children of Phares. And Maasia the sonne of Parach, the sonne of Chal Hosi, & sonne of Hasata, the sonne of Adai, the sonne of Joarib, the sonne of zachary, the sonne of Siloni. All these were the children of Phares that dwelt at Jerusalem, euen foure hundred threescore and eyght valeaunt men.

These are the children of Ben Jamin, Salu the sonne of Mesullam, the sonne of Joed, & son of Bedaia, the sonne of Calatia, the sonne of Masia, the sonne of Jthiel, the sonne of Isai. And after hym Gabai, Selai nine hundred and xxviii. And Joel the sonne of Zichri had the ouersyght of them: and Juda the son of Senna was next ouer the citie.

Of the prestes: Jedaiab the sonne of Joarib, Jachin, Saraiab the sonne of Helkia: & son of Mesullam, the sonne of zadoc, the son of Meraiorh, the sonne of Abitob, was wynter in the house of God: and his brethren that perfourmed the worke in the temple. viii. hundred and xxii. And Adai the sonne of Jerobam, the sonne of Palatiel, the sonne of Anzi, the son of zachari, the sonne of Phasur, the sonne of Malchia: and his brethren these among the fathers, two hundred and two and fourty. And Masia the son of Azrael, the sonne of Abalai, the sonne of Moslemoth, the sonne of Immer: and his brethren were valeaunt men: an hundred and cxxv. And theyr ouerscar was zaddiela son of one of the great men.

Of the Leuites, Semela the sonne of Hasub, the sonne of Aserikam, the sonne of Hasabia the sonne of Bunni, and Sabathai, and Josabab of the chefe of the Leuites, had the ouersyght of the outwarde busynesse of the house of God. And Mathaniab the sonne of Micha, the sonne of zaddi, the sonne of Asaph, was the principall to begynne the thanke saying and prayer. And Bakbukia the seconde amonge his brethren, & Abda, the sonne of Sammua, the sonne of Malai, the sonne of Jeduthan. All the Leuites in the holy citie were two hundred foure score and foure. And the porters Acub and Tahm, and theyr brethren that kepte the portes, were an hundred and two and seuentye. As for the residue of Israell, the prestes and Leuites, they were in all the cities of Juda, euerye one in his inheritaunce.

And the Bethinims dwelt in Ophel: and Ba and Gilpa was set ouer the Bethinims. The ouerscar of the Leuites at Jerusalem was Asa, the sonne of Baani, the sonne of Asabi, & sonne of Mathania, the sonne of Micha.

Of the children of Asaph there were singers aboute the busynesse in the house of God, for it was the kynges commaundement concerning them: that the syngers shoulde deale faythfully euerye daye as was accordynge.

And Bathaia the sonne of Mesababel of the children of zerah the sonne of Juda next shynge in all matters concerning the people: and theyr villages and landes. And some of the children of Juda that were without the townes of the lande dwelt at Kariat Arbe, and in the villages therof: at Didon, and in the villages therof: and at Jisabel, and in the villages therof at Jisua, Moladah, Bethphalet in the towne of Sual, Beerseba, and in theyr villages: at Bethlag & Mochohah, and theyr villages: and at Enremon, zarah, Jerimoth, zonoa, Odollam, and in theyr villages: at Lachis and in the felde therof: at Aska, and in the villages therof: and they dwelt fro Bersabe vnto the vale of him.

The children also of Ben Jamin, of Geba, dwelt at Machmas, Aia, Bethel, and in theyr villages. And at Anathoth, Rob, Ananiah, Hazor, Ramah, Gethaim, Hadid, zeboim, Babilath, Lod and Ono, the carpenters valleie. And the Leuites had possession bothe in Juda and in Ben Jamin.

The xii. Chapter.

The prestes and Leuites whiche came with zorobabel vnto Jerusalem are numbred, and the wall is dedicated.

These are the prestes and Leuites that went vp with zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and with Jisua, Sararia, Jeremy and Elosas, Amaria, Maluch, Hatus, Sechania, Rehum, Merimoth, Iddo, Genthoi, Abia, Mathan, Maaria, Belgai, Semela, Joarib, Joiada, Salu, Amodei, Helkia and Jabeia: These were the heades among the prestes: and theyr brethren in the daye of Jisua. The Leuites were these, Jisua, Ben-nui, Cadmiel, Sarabia, Juda, and Mathania, which was ouer the office of thankesgeyng he and his brethren, Bakbukia: and Hinni, and theyr brethren, were about them in the watches.

Jisua begat Joakim: Joakim also begat Eliab: and Eliab begat Joiada: Joiada begat Jonathan: and Jonathan begat Jada. In the the dayes of Iohakim were these þese fathers amonge the prestes: vnder Sararia, Mararia, vnder Jeremij, hanania, vnder Esdras, Mesulai, vnder Amaria, Jehoana: vnder Milico, Jonathan: vnder Sebania, Joseph: vnder Harim: vnder Maraioth, Helkia: vnder Iddo: zachari: vnder Senthon, Mesullam: vnder Abia, zichi: vnder Miniamin, and Moadia, Bilgai: vnder Belga, Samua: vnder Semeia, Jejonathai: vnder Joiarib, Nathanai: vnder Jadaia, Uli: vnder Selai, Relai: vnder Amok, Eber: vnder helchia, hasabia: vnder Jadaia, Rathanai. And in þe tyme of Eliaib, Joiada, Jothan and Jada were the chefe fathers amonge the leuites and the prestes, wyrtten vnder the raigne of Darus the Persian. The chyldren of Levi, the principal fathers were wyrtten in the Chronicles vnto the tyme of Jonathan the son of Eliaib. And these were the chefe among the Leuytes: hasabia, Serebia, and Jesua the son of Cadmiel, and they þe brethren in theyr presce to geue praye and thanks, accorpyng as Dauid the man of God had ordeyned it, one watch ouer agaynst another, Nathanai, Balbukia, Moadia, Mesullam, Calmon and Ahub were porters in the watche at the thresholdes of the gates. These were in the dayes of Iohakim the sonne of Jesua, the sonne of Joseder, and in the dayes of Rehemia the captayne, and of þe prest Esdras the scribe.

And in the dedication of the wall at Jerusalem: they sought the Leuites out of all theyr places; that they myght be brought to Jerusalem to kepe the dedicatyon & gladnesse, with thankesgyuynge and synng with cymbales, psalteryes and harpes. And the chyldren of þe synngers gathered them selues together from euery syde out of the playne countrey about Jerusalem, and from the byllages of Betophathi, fro the house of Gilgal, and out of the countreies of Seba, and Asmuerth, for the synngers had buylde theym byllages rounde about Jerusalem. And þe prestes and Leuites were purifyed, and censed the people: and the gates, and the wall.

And I brought the princes of Iuda vp vpon the wall, and appoynted two grete queres of men to geue thanks, whych went on the ryght hande of the wall towarde the donge gate, and after them went holata, and halfe of the princes of Iuda, and Asaria, Esdras: and Mesullai Iuda, Beniamin, Semeia & Jeremij: & certayn of the prestes chyldren wyth trumpets, namely zachary the sonne of Jonathan, the sonne of Semeia, the son of Nathanai, the son of Michai the sonne of zacur, the son of Asaph and his brethren, Semeia, Asrael, Malalai, Silalai, Nathanael, and Iuda & hanani, wyth musical instrumentes of Dauid the man of God.

And Esdras þe scribe went befoze them and bysde the welgate, they went vp ouer agaynst them vpon the steppes of the cite of Dauid, at the goynge vp of the wall beyonde the house of Dauid, vnto the water gate Eastwarde.

The other quere of them that gaue thanks went ouer agaynst them, and I after them, & the halfe parte of the people vpon the wal, beyonde the forname gate vnto the brode wall, & beyonde the porte of Ephraim, and beyonde the olde gate beyonde the synnegate, and the tower of Hananiel, and the tower of Pera, vnto the shepgate. And they stode stil in the pylson gate, & so stode the two queres (of them that gaue thanks) in the house of god: and I, and the haile of the rulers with me, and the prestes, namely Eliakim Masia, Miniamin, Michai, Eliaenai, zachary, and hanania: wyth trumpettes, and Masia, Semeiah, Eleasar. Uli, Jehobanan, Melchiah, Elam, and Ser. And the synngers sang loude, haupng Iestabiah for theyr ouerscar.

And the same daye they offred grete sacryfices and reioyced: for God hadde gyuen them great gladnesse, so that both the wyues & chyldren were ioyfull: and the myrth of Jerusalem was hearde farre of.

At the same tyme were there men appoynted ouer the treasure houses (wherin were the heueoffrynges, the synnges, and the tythes) that they shulde gather them out of the felde about the cite, to destribute them vnto the prestes and Leuytes, accorpyng to the lawe: for Iuda was glad of the prestes and Leuytes, that they stode and wayted vpon the offyce of theyr god which is a pure offyce. And the synngers and porters stode after the commaundement of Dauid and of Salomon his sonne, * for in the tyme of Dauid and Asaph, were the chefe synngers founded, and the songes of praye & thankesgyuynge vnto God. In the tyme of Jobabel, and Rehemiah dyd all they of Israel, gyue porcyons vnto the synngers and porters, euerye daye bys porcyon, and they gaue tythes vnto the Leuytes, and the Leuytes gaue tythes agayne vnto the chyldren of Aaron.

The. xlii. Chapter.

The lawe is red, and when they haue herde it they separe from them all straungers.

And that daye dyd they reade in the booke of Moyses, and the people harkened therto, and there was founde wyrtte * þe Ammonites, & Moabites shulde neuer come into þe congregacyon of God, because they met not þe chyldren of Israel with breade & water: * but byed Balaam agaynst them, that he shulde curse the and our God turned the curse into a blessinge. Now when they heard þe lawe, it fortuned, that they separeted from Israel euerye one that had myrte hym selfe therein. And befoze this had the prest Eliaib the ouersight of the treasure of the house of oure God, and he was kyesman to Tobia: and had made hym a great chambze & there had they afoze tyme layde the offerynges frankensce, vesselle, and the tythes of cozne, wyne and oyle (accorpyng to the commaundementes gyuen to the Leuites, synngers and porters) and the heueoffrynges of the prestes.

But in all this tyme was not I at Jerusalem: for in the. xxii. yere of Artaxerxes king of Babilon, came I vnto the kyng, and after certayne dayes obtayned I licence of the kyng to come to Jerusalem. And I gat knowledge that Eliasib dyd vnto Tobia, in that he had made hym a chambre in the court of the house of God, and it grieved me sore, & I cast forth all the vessels of house of Tobia out of the chambre, and commanded them to cleanse the chambers. And thither brought I agayne the vessels of house of god with the meat offeryng and the incence.

And I perceyued that the porcyons of the le-uites were not geue them, & that every one fled to his lande, euen the Leuites and syngers that executed the worke. The rejoyced I the rulers and sayde: whye is the house of God forsaken?
And I gathered them together, and set them in theyr place. Then brought all Iuda the tythes of corne and wyne, and oyle, vnto the treasure.
And I made treasurers ouer the treasure, euen Solemiad the prest, and zador the scribe, and of the Leuites, Phadaia, and vnder theyr hande was Hanan the sone of zacur the sonne of Ma-thania, for they were counted faythfull, & theyr offyce was to distrybute the porcyons vnto theyr brethren. * Thynke vpon me, O my God herein & wyte not out my mercye that I haue shewed on the house of my God, and on the offyces therof

At the same tyme saw I some treddyng wyne presses on the Sabbath, & byngyng in sheues, and asses laden with wine, grapes, pygges and byngyng all maner of burthens vnto Jerusalem vpon the Sabbath day. And I rebuked the earnestly the same daye that they solde the vyttapes. There dwelte men of Tyre also therein which brought fyre and all maner of ware, and solde on the Sabbath vnto the chyldren of Juda in Jerusalem. Then rejoyced I the rulers in Iuda, and sayd vnto them: what euell chynge is this that ye do, and breake the Sabbath daye?
Wyd not your fathers euen thus, and oure God brought all this plage vpon vs, and vpon this citty: And ye make the wrath more yet vpon Israel, in that ye breake the Sabbath.

And it fortuneth that when the portes of Jerusalem began to be darke in penyng before the Sabbath, I commaunded to shut the gates and charged, that they shuld not be opened til after the Sabbath: & some of my seruantes let I at the gates, & there shuld no burthe be brought in on the Sabbath daye. Then remained the chapmen and marchauntes ones or twyse ouer nyght wi-out Jerusalem with all maner of wares. Then rejoyced I them sore, & sayde vnto the: why tary ye all nyght about the wall? If ye do it ones agayne, I wil laye handes vpon you. For that tyme forth came they nomore on the Sabbath.
And I sayd vnto the Leuites & they shuld close the selues, & that they shulde come and kepe the gates, to halowe the Sabbath daye. Thynke vpon me (O my God) concernyng this also, & spare me accordyng to thy great mercye.

And at the same tyme saw I Jewes that maried wyues of Amod, of Ammon, and of Moab, and theyr chyldren spake halfe in the speache of Amod, and coulde not speake in the Jewes language, but by the tonge myght a man perceyue euery people. The I rejoyced them, and cursed them, and smote certayne men of them, & made them bare, and toke an oth of them by God: they shall not geue your daughters vnto theyr son-nes, neyther shal ye take theyr daughters vnto your sonnes, or for your selues. Wyd not mon the kynge of Israel synne for suche, and yet amonge many beythen was there no kynge lyke hym, whiche was dere vnto hym God, and God made hym kynge ouer Israel: and yet neuer the lesse, outlandyshe women caused hym to synne.

Shall we then obeie vnto you, to do all this greate euyl, and to transgresse agaynst our god and many straunge wyues?

And one of the chyldren of Jeholada the son of Eliaf the hye preste had made a contract with Sanabalat the horonite: but I chased hym frome: (O my God) thynke thou vpon them & defyle the presthode & the couenaut of the prest-hode & of the Leuites. Thus clenfed I them at suche as were outlandyshe, and appoynted the courses of the prestes and Leuites euery one in hyr offyce, and to offer the wood at tymes ap-poynted, and the fyrt frutes: Thynke thou vpon me (O my God) for the best. Amen.

The fyrst Chapter.

King Ahasuerus maketh a royall feast, wherunto
Mardi is not come, for whych cause he is dyspleased.

Fortuned, in the dayes of Ahasue-rus, which raygned from India vnto Ethiopia (ouer an hundred and seuen and twenty landes) euen in those dayes when the kynge Ahasuerus sat on his seate royall, whych he was in Susa the chefe cite, in the thyrde yere of his raygne, he made a feast vnto all his prynces and seruantes. And the myghty men of Persia and Media, the captaines also and rulers of his cities were before hym, and he shewed the glory of his kingdome, & the glayous shew of his greatnes many dayes longe: and an hundred and lxxx. dayes.

And when these dayes were expyed, the king made a feast to all the people that were in Susa the chefe cite, bothe vnto grete and small seven dayes longe in the court of the garden by
the

the kynges palace: where there hanged wyghte grene and yelow clotheſes, faſtened with cordes of fyne ſylke, and purple in ſiluer cynges, vpon pylers of marble ſtone.

The benches alſo were of golde and ſyluer made vpon a pauement of grene, wyghte, yelow and blacke marble. And they dranke in veſſels of golde. And chaunged veſſel after veſſel. And the kynges wyne was muche accordyng to the power of the kyng. And the drynke was ſo appoynted, that none ſhulde compel any man, for to the kyng had comaunded by the offycers of hys houſe, that every one ſhulde do, as it lyked hym. And the quene Aſtchi made a feaſte alſo for the women in the palace of Ahaſuerus. And on the ſeuenth daye when the kyng was mery: after the wyne, he comaunded Ahehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Rigtha, Abagthan, zethar, and Charchas, the ſeuene chamberlaynes (that dyd ſeruyce in the preſence of kyng Ahaſuerus) to fetch the Quene Aſtchi with the crowne regall into the kynges preſence, that he myghte ſhewe the people and princes her fayrenes, for ſhe was beautiful. But the quene Aſtchi wolde not come at the kynges worde, by hys chamberlaynes. Then was the kyng very wroth, and his indignacyon kyndled in hym.

And the kyng ſpake to the wyſe men, that had vnderſtandynge in the ordynances of the lande, for the kynges matters muſt be handled before all ſuche as haue knoweledge of the lawe and iudgemente: and the ^(cheſe and) nexte vnto hym were Carſena, Sethar, Admata, Charliſ Hares, Marcena and Hamucan ſeuene princes of Perſia and Media, which ſawe the kynges face, and ſat aboue in the kyngdome. What lawe (ſayth the kyng) ſhulde be executed vpon the Quene Aſtchi, bycauſe ſhe dyd not accordyng to the woorde of the kyng Ahaſuerus, whiche he commaunded by hys chamberlaynes. And Hamucan answered before the kyng and the princes: the Quene Aſtchi hath not onely done tynell agaynſt the kyng but alſo agaynſt all the princes, and agaynſt all the people that are in all ſlandes of kyng Ahaſuerus: for this dede of the quene ſhal come abrode vnto all women, ſo ſthey ſhall deſpyſe theyr huſbandes, be ſore theyr eyes, and ſhal ſaye: the kyng Ahaſuerus comaunded Aſtchi the quene to be brought in before hym, but ſhe wolde not come. And ſo ſhall the princeſſes in Perſia and Media, ſaye lyke wyſe vnto all ſkynges & princes whē they here of this dede of the Quene: thus ſhall there ariſe to moche deſpytefulneſſe and wrath. If it pleaſe the kyng therfore: let there goo a com mandement from hym, and let it be wyrtten accordyng to the lawes of the Perſians, and Medians (and not to be tranſgreſſed) that Aſtchi come nomore before kyng Ahaſuerus: and let the kyng geue her kyngdome vnto another that is better then ſhe.

And when this com mandement of the kyng (which ſhal be made) is publiſhed thowout all his empyre (which is great) al women ſhall holde their huſbandes in honour both among great & ſmal. This pleaſed the kyng and the princes, and the kyng dyd accordyng to ſ word of Hamucan. For he ſent letters forth into all the kinges landes into every land accordyng to ſ wyrtynge therof, and to every people after the language, that every man ſhoulde be lord in hys owne houſe. And this cauſed he to be ſpoken after the language of his people.

The ii. Chapter.

After the quene is put away, certayn goodly yonge damſels are ſearched out. Aſtchi, otherwyſe called Eſther, pleaſeth the kyng, & is made quene. Har docheus openeth vnto the kyng thoſe that wolde betraye hym.

After theſe actes, when the dyſpleaſure of kyng Ahaſuerus was now layd, he thought vpon Aſtchi, and what ſhe had done, and what was concluded agaynſt her. Then ſayd ſkynges ſeruauntes that myn yſtred vnto hym: Let there be ſayre yonge virgins ſought for the kyng, and the kyng appoynted certayne men in all the landes of hys empyre, whome he charged that they ſhulde bynge togyther al ſayre yonge virgins vnto Suſan the head cite, to ſ womenſ buydyng, vnder the hande of Haggei the kynges chambrelayn, ſ kept the women, to geue them theyr apparell (and other thynges needful ſayre to be had.) And that the damſel which pleaſed the kyng ſhoulde be quene in Aſtchis ſtede. And this pleaſed the kyng: and he dyd ſo.

In the cite of Suſan, there was a Jewe, whole name was Har docheus the ſon of Jair, the ſonne of Semei, the ſon of Eliſa a man of Jemini, which was caried away from Jeruſalem * when Jekonia the kyng of Iuda was led awaye, (whome Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon carped thence) & he noyſhed Aſtchi, that is Eſther, his vnckles daughter: for ſhe had neyther father nor mother, and ſhe was a ſayre and beautifull damſell: whome Har docheus (when her father and mother was dead) receyued for his owne daughter.

So it fortuneth, that when the kynges com mandement and compyſſion was publiſhed, and many damſels were brought togyther in the cite of Suſan, vnder the hande of Haggei: Eſther was brought alſo vnto ſkynges houſe vnder the hand of Haggei the keeper of ſ women and the damſell pleaſed hym, and ſhe founde fauour in his ſyght. And he cauſed ozna mentes to be geuen her, and ſuche thynges as belonged to her, and appoynted her ſeuene comely damſelles out of the kynges houſe, and fauoured both her and her gentyl women ſingularlye in the houſe of the women. But Eſther ſhewed not her people & her kindred: For Har docheus had charged her, that ſhe ſhulde not tel it. And Har docheus walked every daye before the courte of the womenſ houſe, that he myght knowe how Eſther dyd, and what ſhulde become of her.

And when the appointed tyme of every damſel came, that ſhe ſhulde go into the kyng Ahaſuerus, after that ſhe had bene twelve monethes in the deckyng of the women (for theyr deckyng muſt haue ſo muche tyme, namelye, ſyre monethes with balme and myrr, and ſyre monethes with good spices: so were the women beautified then went there one damessell vnto þe kyng and what soeuer she required (so that it were comlie) that must be geuen her, to go with her out of the womens buylding vnto the kynges palace. In the euenynge she wente, and on the morowe agayne into the seconde house of the women abyding vnder the hande of Saalgas the kynges chamberlayne, which kept the concubines: and she came into þe kynges nomore, except it pleased þe kyng to haue her, and þe he called her by name.

C Now when the tyme came of Esther þe daughter of Abiam the vncle of Mardocheus (whych hadde receaued her as hys owne daughter) that she shoulde come into the kynges, she despyed no thyng, but what Hagei the kynges chambrelayne the keeper of the women sayde.

And Esther founde fauoure in the syght of all them that looked vpon her. And Esther was take vnto king Ahasuerus into his house royal in the tenth moneth, whych is the moneth * Tebeth, in the seuenth yere of hys raygne.

December.

And the kyng loued Esther aboue all þe women, and she founde grace & fauour in his sight before all the vyrgins: so that he set the crowne of the kyngdome vpon her heade, and made her Quene in stede of Vasthi. And the kyng made a great feast vnto all his princes & seruantes (whych the feast was bycause of Esther) & caused the landes to be in quyetnesse, and gaue gyftes, as became the royaltie of a kyng.

D And when the vyrgins were gathered together the seconde tyme, Mardocheus sate in the kynges gate. And as yet had not Esther shewed her kyndred and people, accordynge as Mardocheus had bydden her: for Esther dyd after the worde of Mardocheus, lyke as she had bene yet vnder his gouernaunce. At þe same tyme whyle Mardocheus sat in the kynges gate, two of the kynges chambrelaynes, Bigthan and Teres, which kept the doore were wroth, and sought to lay their handes on þe kyng Ahasuerus: wherof also Mardocheus gat knowledge: and tolde it vnto Quene Esther, and Esther certified the kyng thereof in Mardocheus name. And when inquisicion was made, it was founde so. And they were both hanged on a tree: and it was writ ten in the chronycles before the kyng.

Esther. vi. a

C The. iiii. Chapter.

C Heman the Macedonian, after he was exalted, obtayned of the kyng, þe all the Jewes shoulde be put to death, bycause Agardochus had not done him wylshipp as other had.

A After these Actes dyd kyng Ahasuerus promote Haman the sone of Amadatha the Agagite, and sette hym on hye, and set his seate aboue all þe princes that he had with him.

And all the kynges seruantes that were in the kynges gate, bowed theyr knees, and worshipped Haman: for the kyng had so comaunded concerning hym. But Mardocheus bowed not the knee, and worshipped hym not. Then the kynges seruantes whych were in the kynges gate sayde vnto Mardocheus: whye transgressesst þe the kynges commaundement? And when they spake this daylye vnto hym, he folowed them not, and they tolde Haman: that they myghte howe Mardocheus matters wolde endure. so he had tolde them, þe he was a Jewe. And when Haman sawe that Mardocheus bowed not the knee vnto hym, nor worshipped hym, he was full of indygnacion, and thought it to lytel to lay handes onely on Mardocheus: for they had shewed hym the nacpon of Mardocheus, wherfore he soughte to destroye all the Jewes, that were thowout the hole empyre of Ahasuerus and that were of the nacpon of Mardocheus.

In the first moneth (þe is the moneth Nisan) in þe twelue yere of king Ahasuerus: they cast þur (that is a lot) before Haman from day to daye, and from moneth to moneth, to the twelue moneth, that is the moneth Adar: and Haman sayd vnto kyng Ahasuerus: There is here a people scatterd abroad, & dispersed among all people in all the landes of thyne empyre, & they haue theyr lawes contrary from all people, and do not after the kynges lawes, neyther is it the kynges ppyte to suffre them after this maner. If it please the kyng, let it be wyrtten that they maye be destroyed, and so wyl I wey doone. I thoulde talentes of syluer by the bandes of þe workemen, to be brought into the kynges treasury. And the kyng toke hys rynge fro his hand and gaue it vnto Haman the sone of Amadatha the Agagite the Jewes enemye. And the kyng sayd vnto Haman: Let the syluer be thyn, and do wyth that people as it pleaseth the.

Then were the kynges scribes called on the thirtieth daye of the first moneth: and there was wyrtten (accordynge as Haman comaunded) vnto all the kynges officers, and to the captaynes that were in all the landes, and to the rulers of euery people in the countreys on euery syde, accordynge to the wyrtynge of euery nacpon, and after theyr language: in the name of kyng Ahasuerus was it wyrtten, and sealed wyth the kynges rynge. And the wyrtynge were sent by postes into all the kynges landes, to roote oute, to kyll and to destroye all Jewes, bothe yonge and olde, chyliden and women, in one daye (namely, vpon the thirtieth daye of the twelue moneth, which is the moneth * Adar) and to spoyle theyr goodes.

This was the sume of þe wyrtynge that they shoulde be a comaundement geuen in all landes, & published vnto all people, that they shoulde be ready agaynst the same day: and þe postes went in all the haste, accordynge to the kynges comaundement. And in Susan þe cheste cite was the comaundement deuysed. And the kyng & Haman sat and dranke, when in þe meane tyme the cite of Susan was disquyeted.

C The. iiii. Chapter.

C Mardocheus giveth the queene knowledge of the decree of the kyng agaynst the Jewes.

When Mardocheus perceyued all that was done, he rente hys clothes, and putte on sackcloth, wyth ashes, and wente oute in to the myddes of the cite, and cryed lowde, and lamentablye, and came before the kynges gate, but he myght myghte not entre wythin the kynges gate, by-cause he had ſackcloth on. And in al landes, countries and places, as farre as the kynges worde and commaundement extended, there was greate lamentacyon amonge the Jewes, fasting, weppng and mournyng, and many laye in ſackclo-thes and in aſhes. So Eſthers damels and her chambrelaynes came and tolde it her. Then waſte the Quene excedyngly aſtonnyed. And the ſentrayment, that Harbocheus wolde put on,

and laye the ſackcloth from hym: But Harbo-cheus wolde not take them. Then called Eſther Hathath one of the kynges chambrelaines (which ſode befoze her) and gaue hym a commaunde-ment vnto Harbocheus, that he myght knowe what it were, wherfoze he dyd ſo. So Hathath went forth to Harbocheus vnto the ſtreets of the cite, whych was befoze the kynges gate.

And Harbocheus tolde hym of all that had happened vnto hym, and of the ſomme of ſpuler that Haman had promyſed to wepe downe into the kynges treaſure by cauſe of the Jewes, yf he wolde deſtroy them (and he gaue hym the copy of the kynges commaundement that was de-uyſed at Suſan, to deſtroy them, that he might ſhewe it vnto Eſther) and ſo ſpake to her, and charged her, that ſhe ſhoulde go into the kyng, and make her prayer and ſupplicatiō vnto him foz her people.

And when Hathath came in, he tolde Eſther the wordes of Harbocheus. And agayne, Eſ-ther ſpake vnto Hathath, and commaunded hym, to ſaye vnto Harbocheus: all the kynges ſeruautes and the people in the landes of the kyng knowe that whosocuer cometh wythin the court vnto the kyng, whether it be man or woman, whych is not called, the commaundement is, that the ſame ſhall dye: except the kyng holde out the golden ſceptre vnto hym, (in token of gratiousneſſe) foz then he ſhall lyue. As foz me, I haue not bene called to come now vnto the kyng thys thyrtye dayes.

And they certifyed Harbocheus of Eſthers wordes: and Harbocheus had ſaye agayne vnto Eſther: thynke not to ſaue thyne owne lyfe, whyle thou arte in the kynges houſe, befoze all Jewes: foz yf thou holdeſte thy peace at thys tyme, then ſhall the Jewes haue helpe and deli-uerance oute of an other place, and thou and thy fathers houſe ſhall be deſtroyed. And who knoweth whether thou art come to the kyngdome, foz this cauſe ſake? Eſther had the gyfte Har-bocheus this anſwere: Go thou thy waye, and gather al the Jewes togyther y are found at Su-ſan, and faſt ye foz me, that ye eat not & drynke in theſe dayes, neyther day nor nyght. I and my damels wyll faſt lykewyle, and ſo wyll I goo vnto the kyng, whiche thynge is yet contrarye to the commaundement: and yf I perſe, I pe-reſſe. So Harbocheus went his waye, and dyd all that Eſther had commaunded hym.

The v. Chapter.

Eſther entred into the kyng, and byddeth hym and Haman to a feſt. Haman prepareth a galous to Harbocheus.

And on the thyrtye day it fortuneth that Eſther put on her roial apparell, & ſtode in the court of the kynges palace wythin, ouer agaynſt the kynges houſe. And the kyng ſat vpon his roial ſeate in the kynges palace ouer agaynſt the gate of the houſe. And when the kyng ſawe Eſther the quene ſtanding in the court, ſhe ſolde grace in hys ſyght. And the kyng holde out the golden ſceptre that was in hys hande: to warde Eſther. So Eſther ſtept forth, and quched the top of the ſceptre. Then ſayd the kyng vnto her What wyleſt thou Quene Eſther? and what requyreſt thou? Alke euen the halfe of the empyre, ſe ſhal be gyuen the. And Eſther answered yf it pleaſe the kyng, let the kyng and Haman come thys day vnto the banquet, that I haue prepared foz hym. And the kyng ſayde: cauſe Haman to make baſte that he maye do as Eſther hath ſayd.

So the kyng and Haman came to the banquet that Eſther had prepared, and the kyng ſayde vnto Eſther at the banquet of wyne: what is thy petition, that it maye be gyuen the? And what requeſt thou? It ſhal be euen the halfe of the empyre ſhal be done.

Then answered Eſther, and ſayde: my petition and deſyre is, yf I haue founde grace in the ſyght of the kyng, and yf it pleaſe the kyng to gyue me my petition, and fulfyl my requeſt, tha-let the kyng and Haman come to the banquet y I ſhall prepare foz them, and ſo wyll I do tomorowe, as the kyng hath ſayde.

Then went Haman forth the ſame daye to a full and mery in his mynde. And when the ſame Haman ſawe Harbocheus in the kynges gate y he ſtode not vp and kneeled befoze hym, he was full of indignacion at Harbocheus. Neuer theleſſe, Haman refrayned hym ſelfe: and when he came home he ſent, & called foz his frendes, and zares his wyfe, and Haman tolde them of the glory of hys rycheſſe, and the multitude of his chyldren, and all togyther howe the kyng had promoted him ſo greatly, & how that he had ſet him aboue the princes and ſeruautes of the kyng: y Haman ſayd mozeouer: Yea, & Eſther the quene dyd let noman come in wyth the kyng to the ba-ket that ſhe had prepared, except me. And tomorowe am I bydden vnto her alſo wyth the kyng.
But in all thys am I not ſatysfied, as longe as I ſe Harbocheus the Jewe ſyttng at the kynges gate. Then ſayd zares his wyfe and al hys frendes vnto hym: Let them make a galous of ſyfte cubytes hye, and tomozowe ſpake thou vnto the kyng, that Harbocheus maye be hanged thereon: and go thou in merely wyth the kyng vnto the banquet. And Haman was well cōtē-wythall, and cauſed the galous to be made.

The vi. Chapter.

The kyng ſuethen ouer the Chourles, and ſuethen the fidelite of Harbocheus, & then to the conſult of Haman, commaundeth Harbocheus to be hanged in honours.

He ſame nyght coulde not the kyng ſleepe and he commaunded to hys chourles to be ſet before the kyng, theſe were they red befoze the kyng, theſe happened on the place, where it was wyrtten howe Harbo-cheus

cheus * had tolde, that Bigthana, and Therex the kynges two chambrelaynes (whiche kepte the thresholdes) sought to laye handes on kyng Ahasuerus. And the kyng sayd: what worshyp and good haue we done to Mardocheus therefoze? Then sayd the kynges seruauntes that ministred vnto hym: There is nothyng at al done for hym. And the kyng sayd: Who is in y^e court? (for Haman was gone into the court without, before the kynges house) that he myght speake vnto the kyng to hang Mardocheus on the tree that he had prepared for hym.) And the kynges seruauntes sayd vnto hym: beholde, Haman standeth without in the courte. And the kyng sayd: let hym come in. And when Haman came in, the kyng sayde vnto hym: what shalbe done vnto the man whom the kyng wolde sayne byyng vnto worshyp? Haman thought in his hert: whom despyeth the kyng to byyng vnto worshyppe, more then me? And Haman answered the kyng: Let the man whom the kyng pleaseth to bring vnto worshyp, be brought hyther: that he may be arayed with the royall garmentes, whiche the kyng vseth to weare: and the horse that the kyng rydeth vpon, and that the crowne royall may be set vpon his heed. And let this rayment and horse be deliuered vnder the hande of one of the kynges princes, that they may aray the man withall (whom the kyng is disposed to byyng to honour) and cary him vpon the horse thorow the strete of the cite, and proclayme before him: thus shall it be done vnto the man, whome the kyng pleaseth to byyng to honour.

And the kyng sayd: make haste, and take as thou hast sayde: the rayment and the horse: and do enen so vnto Mardocheus the Jew, that sitteth before the kynges gate, & let nothyng fayle of all that thou hast spoken. Then toke Haman the rayment and the horse, and arayed Mardocheus, and brought hym on horsebacke thorow the strete of the cite, & proclaymed before hym: Euen this shal it be done to the man whome the kyng is disposed to honour. And Mardocheus came agayn to the kynges gate: but Haman gat hym home in al the haste mournyng bareheaded and tolde zares his wyfe & all his frendes euery thyng that had happened hym. Then sayd hys wyse men, and zares his wyfe vnto hym: Vt it be Mardocheus of the seed of the Jewes, before whom thou hast begon to fal, thou shalt not preuaile agaynst hym, but shalt surely fall before hym. And whyle they were yet talkyng wyth hym, came the kynges chambrelaynes, and caused Haman to make haste, to come vnto the banquet that Esther had prepared.

Then sayd hys wyse men, and zares his wyfe vnto hym: Vt it be Mardocheus of the seed of the Jewes, before whom thou hast begon to fal, thou shalt not preuaile agaynst hym, but shalt surely fall before hym. And whyle they were yet talkyng wyth hym, came the kynges chambrelaynes, and caused Haman to make haste, to come vnto the banquet that Esther had prepared.

The. vii. Chapter.

The quene byddeth the kyng and Haman agayne and prayeth for her selfe & her people. She accuseth Haman, and he is hanged on the gallows, whiche he had prepared for Mardocheus.

And the kyng and Haman came into the banquet that Quene Esther had prepared and the kyng sayde vnto Esther on the seconde daye at the banquet of wyne. What is thy petition, (Quene Esther) that it maye be gynneth? And what requyrest thou? Pasa, aske euen halfe of the empyre, and it shall be done. And Esther the Quene answered, and sayd: Vt I haue founde grace in thy syghte (O kyng) and yf it please the kyng, then graunte me my lyfe at my desyre, and my people for my petitions sake: for we are solde, I and my people, to be destroyed, to be slayne, and to perishe. And wolde God that we were solde to be bondemen, and bondwomen, then wold I holde my tounge: for the enemy pondreth not the kinges harme. The kyng Ahasuerus answered, and sayde vnto Quene Esther: Who is he, and where is he that dare presume in his mynde to do after that manner? And Esther sayd: the enemy and aduersary is this wycked Haman.

Haman was exceedingly afrayed before the kyng & the Quene. And the kyng arose fro the banquet and from the wyne in his displeasure: & went in to the palais garden. And Haman stode vp, and besought Quene Esther for his life: for he sawe that there was a myschefe prepared for hym of the kyng already. And when the kyng came agayn out of the palais garden, into the place where they dranke wyne, Haman had layed him vpon the bed that Esther sat vpon. Then sayd the kyng: wyl be force y^e quene also before me in the house? As soone as the worde went out of the kynges mouth, they couered Hamans face: and Harbona one of y^e chamberlaynes that stode before y^e kyng sayd: behold, there standeth a galous in Hamans house i. cubites hye, which he had made for Mardocheus, that spake good for y^e kyng. The kyng sayd: hang him thereon. So they hanged Haman on the galous, that he had made for Mardocheus. Then was the kynges wrath pacified.

The. viii. Chapter.

After the death of Haman was Mardocheus exalted, and then are there comfortable letters sent vnto the Jewes.

The same day dyd kyng Ahasuerus gyue y^e the house of Haman the Jewes enemy vnto quene Esther. And Mardocheus came before the kyng: for Esther tolde howe y^e he beloged vnto her. And the kyng put of his synger a rpyng which he had taken fro Haman, & gaue it vnto Mardocheus. And Esther set Mardocheus ouer the house of Haman. And Esther spake yet more before the kyng: and fell downe at his feet wepyng, and besought hym that he wolde put a way the wickednesse of Haman the Agagite, & his deuyse that he had imagined agaynst the Jewes. And the kyng (as was dynged to the manner) helde oute the golden sceptre towarde Esther, & (wherby was declared a token of grace & outnesse.) Then arose Esther, and stode before the kyng, and sayde: Vt it please the kyng, and yf I haue founde grace in his syght: and yf it be acceptable before the kyng, then let it be wrytten that the letters of the deuyse of Haman the son of Amadatha the Agagite may be called again whiche letters he wrote to destroye the Jewes, whiche are in all the kynges landes. For howe can I suffre and se the euill, that shall happen vnto my people? Or howe can I loke vpon the destruction of my kynrede?

And the kyng Ahasuerus sayd vnto quene Esther:

Esther and to Wardocheus the Jewe: Behold, I have gyuen Esther the house of Haman, who they haue hanged vpon a tree, because he layed hand vpon the Jewes. Write ye also for the Jewes, as it lyeth you in the kynges name, and seale it with the kynges rynge, (for the wyrtyn- ges that were wrytten in the kynges name, and sealed with the kynges rynge, durst nomā disa- null.) Then were the kynges scribes called at þe same tyme, even in the thyrtyd moneth, that is the moneth * Siuan, on the .xxiii. dape.

And it was wrytten (accozdyng to all as Wardocheus comaunded) vnto the Jewes and to the princes, to the deputies and captaynes in the lades which are from India vnto Ethiopia namely an hundred and seuen and twentye lan- des, vnto euery one accozdyng to the wyrtynge therof, and to euery people after theyr speache, and the Jewes accozdyng to theyr wyrtynge and language.

And he wrote in the kyng Ahasuerus name and sealed it with the kynges rynge. And by po- stes that rode vpon horses, and swyfte younge mules sent he the wyrtynge wherein the kyng graunted the Jewes (in what cyties soeuer they were) to gather them selues togyther, & to stand for theyr lyfe, and for to roote oute, to slaye and to destroye al the power of the people and lande that wold trouble them with chyldren and wo- men, and to spoyle theyr good vpon one dape in all the landes of kyng Ahasuerus, namely, vpo the thyrtyenth dape of the twelueh moneth, whych is the moneth * Adar.

The summe of the wyrtynge was, how there shulde be a comaundement gyuen in all landes, and publyshed amonge all people, and that the Jewes shulde be readye agaynst that dape, and to auenge them selues on theyr enemyes. And so the postes that rode vpo the swyft horses and mules made haste with all speede, to execute the kynges worde: and the comaundement was de- uysed in Susan the chefe cytie.

And Wardocheus went oute from the palace, & from the kyng in royall apparel of yelowre and whyte, and with a great crowne of golde, being araped with a garment of sylke and purple, and the cytie of Susan reioysed and was glad, and vnto the Jewes there was come (a newe) lyght and gladnesse, lope and worshyp. In all landes and cyties, into what place soeuer the kynges worde and comaundement reached, there was lope and myrth, prosperitie and good dayes a- monge the Jewes: in somoche that many of the people of the lande became of the Jewes belefe, and the feare of the Jewes came vpon them.

The .ix. Chapter.

At the comaundement of the kyng, the Jewes put theyr aduersaries to death. The sonnes of Haman are hanged. The Jewes kepe a feast dape in remem- brance of theyr deliuerance.

In the twelueh moneth, that is þe mo- neth Adar, vpon the thyrtyenth dape of the same, when the kynges worde and comaundement shulde be done, even vpon the same dape that the enemyes shuld haue destroyed the Jewes, to haue oppressed them, it turned contrary wyse, even that the Jewes shuld subdue theyr enemyes. For they gathered the Jewes togyther in theyr cyties wrythin all the landes of kyng Ahasuerus, to lay hand on suche as wold do them euill, and no man coulde with stande them: for the feare of them was come o- uer all people. And all the rulers in the landes, and princes and deputies & officers of the kyng, promoted the Jewes, for the feare of Wardo- cheus came vpon them. For Wardocheus was great in the kynges house, and the report of him was noysed in all landes, how he encreased and grewe.

Thus the Jewes smote all theyr enemyes with a soze slaughter, and slue and destroyed and dyd after theyr wyll vnto suche as were theyr aduer- saries. And at Susan the chefe cytie slue the Je- wes, and destroyed fyue hundred men, and slue Pharlandatha, Dalpho, Asphatha, Pharattha Adalia, Aridatha, Pharmastha, Arisai, Aridai and Maizatha the ten sonnes of Haman, the sou- nes of Hamadata the enemye of the Jewes: but on his goodes they layed no handes. At þe same tyme was the kyng certified of the nombre of those that were slayne in þe cytie of Susan. And the kyng sayd vnto quene Esther. The Jewes haue slayne and destroyed fyue hundred men in the citie of Susan, and the ten sonnes of Haman, what haue they done (thynkest thou) in other landes of the kyng? And what is thy petycon, that it maye be gyuen the? What requyreste thou moze to be done? Esther answered: If it please the kyng, let hym suffice the Jewes tomo- rowe also to do accozdyng vnto this dayes com- maundement, that they maye hange Hamans ten sonnes vpon tree. And the kyng charged to do so, and the comaundement was deuysed at Susan, and they hanged Hamans ten sonnes. For the Jewes that were in Susan gathered them selues togyther, vpon the fourtenth dape of the moneth Adar, and slue thre hundred men at Susan, but on theyr goodes they layed no handes. As for the other Jewes that were in the kynges lades, they came togyther, and stode for theyr lyues, that they myght haue rest fro theyr enemyes: and slue of theyr enemyes fyue & seuen tye thousande: howbeit, they layed no pades on theyr goodes. This they dyd on the thyrtyenth dape of the moneth Adar, and on the fourtenth dape of the same moneth rested they: which dape they helde with feastyng and gladnesse. But the Jewes that were at Susan came togyther, both on the thyrtyenth dape, and on the fourtenth and on the fyftenth dape of the same they rested, and held that dape with feastyng and gladnesse. And therfore the Jewes that dwelt in the vyla- ges and vnwalled towne, helde the fourtenth dape of the moneth Adar, wth gladnesse and feastyng, and kepte holy dape, and euery one sent gyftes vnto an other.

And Wardocheus wrote these actes, & sente the wyrtynge vnto al the Jewes that were in all the landes of kyng Ahasuerus, both nye and far, that they shulde make a lawe amonge them selues, and holde the fourtenth, and fyftenth dape of

daye of the moneth Adar, as the dayes wherein the Jewes came to rest from theyr enemies, and as a moneth wherein theyr payne was turned to ioye, and theyr sorowe into an holpe daye, and that in those dayes they shoulde make feastes, and gladnesse, and one to sende gyftes vnto an other, and to distribute vnto the poore.

E And the Jewes were content with it that they had begonne to do, and that Mardocheus wrote vnto them: how that Haman the sone of Hamadatha all the Jewes enemy, had deuyled agaynst the Jewes, how he myght destroy the, and caused to cast Pur (that is a lot) for to put them in feare, & to byngne them to nought, and how Esther went and spake to the kynge, that thowse letters his wycked deuyse (whiche he ymagined agaynst the Jewes) might be turned vpon his owne heed, and how he and his sonnes were hanged on tree. For the whiche cause they called thys daye Purim, bycause of the name of the lot, and bycause of all the wordes of thys wyrtynge: and what they them selues had sene, and what had happened vnto them.

I And the Jewes sette it vp, and toke it vpon them and theyr seede, and vpon all suche as toyned them selues vnto them, that they wolde not misse, but obserue those two dayes yerely, accordyng as they were wyrtten and appoynted: how that these dayes are not to be forgottē, but to be kept of chylders chyldren amonge al kynredes in all landes and cytyes. They are the dayes of Purim, which are not to be ouerspyt amonge the Jewes, and the memorie of them ought not to perishe from theyr seede.

And Quene Esther the daughter of Abihail and Mardocheus the Jewe wrote with all auctoritie (to confyrme the seconde wyrtynge of Purim) and sent the letters vnto al the Jewes in the hundred and seuen and twenty landes of the empyre of Abasuerus, with frendly & faythful wordes, to confyrme these dayes of Purim in theyr tyme appoynted, accordyng as Mardocheus the Jewe and Esther the Quene hadde appoynted them. And they bounde theyr soule and theyr seede to fastynge and prayer. And Esther stablyshed the wordes of these lottes, as it is wyrtten in the booke.

E And the kynge Abasuerus layed tribute vpon the lande, and vpon the ples of the see. And all that he dyd by his power and auctoritie, and the great worthynesse of Mardocheus, whiche the kynge gaue hym, be they not wyrtten in the Chronicles of the kynges of Media and Persia: For Mardocheus the Jewe was the seconde next vnto kynge Abasuerus, & great amonge the Jewes, and accepted amonge the multitude of his brethren, as one that seeked the welch of his people, and spaketh the best for all his seede.

The ende of the booke of Esther.

The booke of Job.

The fyrst Chapter.

Job is plagued of God by the losse of his goodes and chyldren.

In the lande of * Thus there was a man whose name was Job: and the same was a perfect iuste man, suche one as feared God, and eschewed euill. And he hadde seuen sonnes, and three daughters. * His substance also was seuen thousand oxen, and thre thousand camels, thousand yoke of oxen, and thousand asses, and a verie great household, so that he was one of the moost principall men amonge all men of the East countre. And his sonnes went and made bankettes: one daye in one house, an other daye in an other, and sent for theyr thre sisters to eate and drynke with them. And it fortuned, that when they had passed ouer the tyme of theyr bankettyng rounde about, Job sent for them, and sanctified them, and gat vpe early, & offered for euery one a burnt-offering: For Job sayde: lest peradventure my sonnes haue done some offence: and haue ben vnthankfull to God in theyr hertes.

Thus dyd Job euery daye. And vpon a daye * when the chyldren of God came and stode before the Lorde, it fortuned that Satan came al so amonge them. And the Lorde sayd vnto Satan: From whence comest thou? Satan answered the Lorde and sayd: * I haue gone about the lande, and walked thowse it.

And the Lorde sayd vnto Satan: Hast thou not conspyded my seruaunt Job, how that there is none lyke hym in the lande: a perfect and a iuste man: suche a one as feareth God, and escheweth euill. Satan answered, & sayd vnto the Lorde: Doth Job feare God for nought? hast thou not preferred hym & his house, & all that he hath on euery syde? Thou hast blessed the workes of his handes, & his possession is encreased in the land. But laye thynne hande now vpon hym, & touche al that he hath, & he shall curse theto thy face. And the Lorde sayd vnto Satan: lo, al that he hath, be in thy power: onely vpon hym selfe, se that thou lay not thy hand. And Satan went forth from the presence of the Lorde.

And vpon a certayne daye, it fortuned that his sonnes and daughters were eating & drynkyng wyne in theyr eldest brothers house, and there there came a messenger vnto Job, & sayd: whyle the oxen were a plowng, and the asses goinge in the pasture besyde them, the Sabees came violently, & toke them away: yea they haue slayne thy seruantes with the edge of the swerde: and I onely ranne my waye to tell the.

Whyle he was yet speakynge, there came another, and sayd: The fyre of God is fallen from heauen, and hath bzent vp all thy shepe and seruantes, and consumed them: and I onely ran awaye, to tell the. And whyle he was yet speakinge, there came another, and sayd: The Caldees made thre armyes, and fell in vpon the camels, and haue carped them away: yea & slayne thy seruantes with the swerde: and I only am gotten away to tel the. And whyle he was yet speakinge, there came another, and sayde: Thy sonnes and thy daughters were eatynge and dnyngyne wyne in theyr eldest brothers house, & beholde, there came a myghty great wynde out of the south, & smote the four corners of the house which fell vpon thy children, and they are deed: and I am gotten awaye alone to tell the.

Then Job stode vp, and rent his clothes, and shaued his heed, fell downe vpon the grounde, worshyped, and sayde: * Naked came I out of my mothers wombe, and naked shall I tourne thither agayne. The Lorde gaue, and the Lorde hath taken awaye, (euen as it hath pleased the Lorde, for it cometh to passe) blessed be the name of the Lorde. * In all these thynges dyd Job not offende, nor murmured foolishly agaynst God.

The. ii. Chapter.

Job is plagued with sore byles, and afterwarde is mocked of his wyfe. His frendes visyte hym, and haue compassion on hym.

And the chyldren of God came and stode before the Lorde, and Satan came also amonge them, and stode before the Lorde. And the Lorde sayd vnto Satan: From whence comest thou? Satan answered the Lorde, and sayd: I haue gone about the lande, and walked thorow it.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Satan: hast thou not conspyed my seruant Job? for there is none lyke hym in the lande. For he is a perfecte & iust man: suche a one as feareth God, and escheweth euill, and cōtymeth styll in his godlynesse. And thou mouedst me agaynst him, that I shuld pynne hym for nought. And Satan answered the Lorde, and sayd: Skynne for skynne: yea a man will geue all that euer he hath for his lyfe. But laye thyne hande nowe vpon hym, and touche ones his bone and flesch, and he shall curse the to thy face. And the Lorde sayde vnto Satan: lo, there hast thou him in thy power, but spare his lyfe.

So went Satan forth from the presence of the Lorde, and smote Job with maruailous sore byles, from the sole of his fote vnto his crowne: so he laye vpon the grounde, in the ashes: and scraped the fylde of his sores with a potsharde.

Then sayd his wyfe vnto hym: * Woeist thou still? yet in thy perfectnesse? curse God & dye. But Job sayd vnto her: thou speakest lyke a foolish woman. Shall we receiue prosperitie at the hande of God, and not receiue aduersitie? * In all these thynges dyd not Job syn w his synnes.

Nowe when Jobs frendes hearde of all the trouble that happened vnto him, there cam thre of them, euery one from his owne place, namely Eliphaz the Themanite, Bildad the Shubite, and Zophar the Naamathite.

And they were agreed together to come to see we theyr compassion vpon hym, and to comfort him. So when they lyft vp theyr eyes a farre off, they knewe hym not.

Then they cryed and wept, and euery one of them rent his clothes, and spynkled dust vpon theyr heedes in the ayre. They sat them downe by hym also vpon the grounde seuen dayes, and seuen nyghtes. Neyther was there any of them that spake one worde vnto hym: for they sawe, that his payne was very great.

The. iii. Chapter.

The wordes of Job, wherein he declareth that this present lyfe is myserable, and that the death of the righteous is ioyous and fortunable.

After this opened Job his mouth, and cursed his daye. And Job answered, and sayd: lost be that daye, wherein I was bozne: and y nyght in the whych it was sayd: there is a man chyld conceived. The same daye be tournd to darknesse, and not regarded of God from aboue: neither let him shyne vpon it with light, but let it be stayned with darknesse, and the shadowe of death. Let the dymme cloude fall vpon it, and let it be lapped in with sorrow on the daye tyme. Let the darke storme ouercome that night, and let it not be ioynd vnto the dayes of y pere, nor counted in the monethes.

Desolate be that nyght, and withoute gladnesse, let them that curse the day, and that be re-dyde to rayle vp mournynge, geue it also theyr curse. Let the starres of that nyght be dymme, thorow the darknesse of it. Let it loke for lyches, but let it se none: neyther the rysynge vp of the sayre moynynge, because it hath not vp y wombe that bare me. For then shulde the sorrowes haue bene byd from myne eyes.

Alas * why dyed I not in the byrth? why dyd I not I crye as soone as I came out of my mothers wombe? Why let they me vpo theyr knees? why gaue they me souke wth theyr breastes? Then shuld I now haue lye styll, I shuld haue slept, and ben at rest, lyke as the kynge and lordes of the earth, whych haue buyded the selues special places: Or as pprinces y haue had great substance of gold & their houses ful of siluer. Or why was I not byd, as a thyng borne oute of tyme, epyther as yonge chyldren, whych neuer sawe y lyches? There must the wicked cease from theyr tyranny, and there suche as be overlaboured be at rest: there are those let out free, whych haue bene in ppyson, so that they heare nomore the voyce of the oppressour. There are smal and great: and the seruant is free from his master.

Wherfore is the lyches geuen to him that is in misery, and lyfe vnto them y haue ben byrthed? which longe for death, and though it com not, wolde dyg it out of his places, which also wolde be readyng glad and ioyful, yf they coude fynde they graue any where. That shoulde be ioye to that man whose ioye is bydde, and God kepeth it backe from hym. For my syghes come before I eate, and my roynages fal out lyke the water. For the thyng that I feared is come vpon me: and the thyng that I was afraied of is happened vnto me: was I not happye? Had I not quyetnesse? Was I not in rest? And nowe commeth such myserie vpon me.

The.iii. Chapter.

Job is reprehended of impacience and vniuersity, and of the presumption of his owne ryghtousnesse.

And Eliphaz the Themanite answered, and sayde: Vt we begyn to commune with the, wilt thou be discontent? But who can withholde him selfe from speaking? Beholde thou hast ben a chasterer of many, and hast comforted the werpe handes.

Thy wordes haue set vp those that were fallen, thou hast refreshed the weake knees. But nowe that the plague is come vpon the, thou arte greened: now that it hath touched thy selfe, thou arte faynte herted. * Is not this thy feare, thy steadfastnesse, thy pacience, and the perfectnesse of thy wayes? Consydre (I praye the) who euer perished being an innocent? Or when were the godly destroyed? For (as I haue proued by experience:) they that plowe iniquitie, and so we wretchednesse, reape the same. With the blaste of God they perishe, and with the breath of his nostrylles are they consumed awaye. The roynage of the lyon, and the voyce of the lyon, and the teeth of the lyons whelpes are pulled out. The lyon perissheth for lacke of praye, and the lyons whelpes are scattered abroad.

And to me came the worde secretly, and myne care hath receyued a lytle therof. In the thoughtes and visions in the night (when slepe cometh on men) feare came vpon me, and drede whyche made all my bones to shake. The wynde passed by, before my presence, and made the heeres of my flesh to stande vp. He stode there, & I knewe not his face: an ymage there was before myne eyes, and in the stillnesse herde I a voyce. * What man be moze iust then God? Or shall a man be purer then his maker? Beholde, he founde no trueth in his seruantes, and * in his angyelles there was folye: how moche moze in them that dwell in houses of claye, and whose foundacyon is but dust, whiche shalbe consumed as it were with a mothe. They shalbe besmytten from the moynynge vnto the euening: yea, they shal perishe for euer, when no man thynketh theron. Is not theyr roialtie gone awaye with them: they shal be truly: and not in wylidome.

The.v. Chapter.

The ende of a fable. The ryghtousnesse of God. The Lorde chasteneth his, and deliuereth them agayne.

Aye (I praye the) vthappely there be any that wil answer the, & loke thou vpon any of the holy men. As for the folysh man, displeasure kyleth hym, & angre sleeth & ignorancie. * I haue sene my selfe, when the folysh was depe rooted, and sodaynly I cursed his habitacyon. His chyldren were without prosperitie, and they were slayne in the gate, and there was no man to deliuer them. * His haruest was eaten vp of the hungrye, and the weaponed man spoyled it, and the thyfste dranke vp theyr labour. It is not the earth that byngeth forth iniquitie: neither commeth sorowe oute of the grounde, but man is bozne vnto labour, lyke as the sparkes flye vp out of the hote coles.

But I wyll aske counsaile at the Lorde, and I wyll talke with God: which doth thynges that are vnsearchable, and maruels without nombre. * He gyueth rayne vpon the earth, and poureth water vpon the stretes, to let by them that be of lowe degree, and that those whiche are in bynesse may come to prosperitie. He destroyeth the deuyles of the subtile, so that theyr handes are not able to perfourme any steadfast thyng. * He compasseth the wyse in theyr owne craftynesse, and ouertroweth the counsaile of the wycked. In somoche, that they run vnto darkness: by fayre daye, * and grope aboute them at the noone daye, lyke as in the nyght.

He shall deliuer the poore from the swerde, & frō the threatnynges of the vngodly, & from the violence of the mighty. He is the hope of the poore: and the mouth of the wycked shal be stopped.

Beholde, * happye is the man whome God punissheth: therfore refuse not thou the chastening of the almyghty. For: though he make a wounde, he gyueth a playster: though he smyte, his hande maketh hole agayne.

He shall deliuer the in synne troubles, and in the seuenth there shal no euill come to the. In hungrye he shal saue the from death: and when it is warre, from the power of the swerde.

Thou shalt be kept from the euill tonge, and by what trouble cometh, thou shalt not nede to feare. In destruction & deth thou shalt be mercy, and * shalt not be afraide of beastes of the earth. For the stones of the land shalbe confederate with the, and the beastes of the felde shal gyue the peace.

And thou shalt knowe, that thy dwelling place shalbe in rest, and thou shalt go & beholde thy habitacyon, and shalt not synne. Thou shalt see also, that thy seed shal increase, and that thy posteritie shal be as the grasse vpon the earth. Thou shalt com also to thy graue in a fayre age like as whē they rake vp a cozne sheffe in due season. Lo, this we our selues haue proued by experience, and even thus it is. Herken thou to it, so, that thou mayest take hede to thy selfe.

The.vi. Chapter.

Job answereth, that his payne is more greuous then his fault, yet notwithstanding he deliuereth them.

Iob answered also, and sayde: What is the displeasure which I haue desired were truly weped, and my punishment layde in the balauces together: for nowe is it heavier then the sande of the see. And this is the cause that my wordes are so sorowfull. For the arrowes of the almyghty are rodd about me, whose indignacion hath drōnke vp my spere, and the terrible feares of God are set agaynst me.

swape withall, are now in my meate for very so-rowe. O that I myght haue my desire, and that God wolde graunt me the thyng that I longe for. O that God wolde begynne and smyte me: that he wolde let his hand go, and take me cleue awaye. Then shulde I haue some comfort: yea, I wolde desyre hym in my payne, that he shulde not spare, for I wyl not be agaynst the wordes of the holie one.

For what power haue I to endure? And what is myne ende, that my soule myght be pa-cyent? Is my strength the strength of stones?
Or is my flesh made of brasse? Is it not so, that there is in me no helpe: and that my substance is taken from me? He that is in tribulation ought to be comforted of his neyghbour: but the feare of the Lorde is cleane awaye. Myne owne brethren passe ouer by me as the water brooke, and as the ryuer of the water, do hastily go awaye.
But they that feare the hore frost, & snowe shall fall vpon them.

When they tyme cometh, they shall be destroyed and perishe: whē they be set on fyre they shal be remoued out of their place for the pathes that they go in, are croked, they hast after vaine thynges, and shall perishe. They turne them to the pathes of Cheman, and to the wayes of Saba, wherein they haue put theyr trust. Confounded are they that put any confidence in them.
For when they come to obtayne the thynges they loke for, they are brought to confusyon.

Euen so are ye also come vnto me: but now that ye scy my myserye, ye are afrayed. Wyl desyre you to bypunge vnto me, or to gyue me any of your substance? To deliuer me from the enemyes hande, or to saue me from the hande of tyrantes? Teach me, and I wil holde my tong: and when I do erre, shewe me wherein. Howe stedfast are the wordes of truthe? And whych of you can rebuke and reprove them? Do ye take deliberacion to ckeche mens sayynges, and iudge a pooze worde spoken in vayne: Ye fall vpon the fatherlesse, and go aboute to ouerthrowe youre owne frende. And therfore be contente, and loke nowe vpon me, and I wyl not lye before youre face. Turne (I praye you) be indifferent iudges toure agayne, and ye shall se my vnglytynesse whether there be anye vnryghteousnesse in my tong, or vayne wordes in my mouth.

The. vii. Chapter.

Job setteth that this lyfe is but a battaile, or warfare.

Man any certayne tyme vpo erth?
* Are not his dayes also lyke the days of an hyred seruaunt? For lyke as a bondeseruaunt desyret the shadowe, and as an hyreling wolde sayne haue an ende of his worke. Euen so haue I laboured hole mone-thes longe: (but in vayne) and manye a carefull nyght haue I tolde * when I laye me downe to sleep I saye: O when shall I arse? Agayne, I longed sore for the nyght.

And in the meane tyme am I full of sorowes vntill the twylyght. My flesh is clothed with wormes and dust of the earth: my skynne is wythered, and become horrible, * my dayes passe ouer moze spedely then a weuer can weue out his web, and are gone or I am aware. O remembre that my lyfe is but a wynde, and that myne eye shal nomore se pleasures therof: yea, and none other mens eye shal se me any moze. For if thou fasten thyne eye vpo me, I com to nought. The cloude is consumed and vanyshed awaye, euen so he that goeth downe to the graue shall come nomore vp, nor tourne agayne vnto his house:
neither shall his face knowe hym any moze.

Therfore I wyl not spare my mouthe, but wyl speake in the trouble of my spirite, & muse in the bytternesse of my mynde. Am I a see or a whalefyshe, that thou kepest me so in prison?
When I saye: my bed shall comforte me, I shall haue some refreshynge by talkynge to my selfe vpon my couche. * Thā troublest thou me with dreames, and makest me so afrayed thow vpon strongs, that my soule wyl the rather to perishe and dye, then my bones to remayne.

I can se no remedye, I shall lye nomore, O spare me thā, for my dayes are but vayne: what is man, & thou hast him in suche reputation, and settest so moch by him? Thou visitest him early and euery daye: todaynly doest thou * trye hym.

Why goest thou not fro me, nor lettest me alone, so longe tyll I maye swallowe downe my spete? I haue offended, and what shal I do vnto the, O thou preseruer of men? Why hast thou made me to stande in the waye, and am so beuie a burthen vnto my selfe? Why doest thou not forgyue me my sinne? Wherefore takest thou not awaye my wyckednesse? Beholde, now must I sleep in the dust, and yf thou sekest me tomoze in the moynyng, I shal be gone.

The. viii. Chapter.

Job is reprehended, and noted to haue defered his payne. A description of hypocryte.

Then answered Bildad the Shubite and sayde: howe longe wylt thou take of suche thynges? howe long shall thy mouthe speake so proude wordes? Doeth God peruerthe the thyng that is lawfull? Or doth the almyghty destroy the thyng, that is ryght? For seing that thy sonnes synned agaynst hym, wyl not be punyshed them for theyr wyckednesse? Yf thou wol-dest now resorte vnto God by tymes, and make thyne humble prayer to the almyghty, yf thou woldest lye a pure and a godly lyfe, shulde he not awake by vnto the immediatly, and gyue the the beautye of ryghteousnesse agayne? In so moche, that wherein soeuer thou haddest lyttle afoze, thou shouldest now haue greate aboun-dauce.

Enquyre (I praye the) of them that haue bene before the, * and searche diligently among theyr fathers. For we are but of yester daye, and consydre not, that * oure dayes vpon earth are shewyd.

but

but a very shadowe. Shall not they shewe the
and tell the: pea, and gladly confesse the same?

May a rushe be grene withoute mofstnesse?
Or may the grasse growe withoute water: No, but (or euer it be shot forth, and or it be gather-red) it wythereth befoze any other herbe. Euen so goeth it wyth all them that forget God, and euen thus also shall the hypocrites hope come to nought, his confydence shall be destroyed, and his trust shalbe a spiders webbe. He shall leane vpon his house, but it shall not stande: he shall holde hym fast by it, yet shall it not endure. It is euen as a grene tree befoze the Sunne, and sho-teth forth the bzaunches in his garden. It taketh many rootes by a wel syde, in so moche that it is lyke an house of stones. But if it be taken oute of his place, euerpe man denyeth it, sayinge: I knowe the not. Lo, thus is it with hym, that re-ioysseth in his owne doinges: and as for other, they growe out of the earth.

Beholde, God wyll not cast awaye a vertuous man, neyther wyll he helpe the vngodlye.
Thy mouth shall be fylled with laughynge, and thy lippes with gladnesse. They also that hate the, shalbe confounded, and the dwelling of the vngodly shall come to nought.

The ix. Chapter.

God declareth the benefytes of God, and that mans ryghtousnesse is nothyng.

psa. ciii. a.
roma. iii. c.

In answered, and sayde: I knowe it is so of a truthe. For how maye a man (comparyd vnto God) * be iustified?
If he wyll argue wyth hym, there is not ony amonge a thousande that can answer hym. Concernynge suche as be wyse of herte, or myghtye in strength, who euer prospered, that toke parte agaynst hym? He translateth the mountaynes or euer they be aware. It is he that ouerthroweth them in his wrath. He remoueth the earth out of her place, that the pillars therof shake withall. He commaundeth the sunne, and it riseth not: he closeth vp the starres, as it were vnder a sygnet. He hym selfe alone spreadeth out the heauens, and goeth vpon the waters in the see. He maketh the waues of heauen the Orion, * the seven starres, and the secreete places of the south. He doth great thynges, such as are vnsarcheable: pea, and wonders wout nōbre.

eccl. viii. a.
i. iere. x. a.

Lo, when he goeth ouer by me, I shall not se hym. And when he departeth by me, I shall not loke vpon hym, I shall not perceyue hym. If he be hasty to take any thyng awaye, who wyll make hym restore it agayne? Or who wyll saye vnto him: * what dost thou? He is God, whose wrath no man maye withstande, but the proudest of all must stoupe vnder hym. Howe shulde
I then answer hym? Or what wordes shulde I fynde out agaynst hym? Pea, though I were ryghtous, yet might I not gyue him one worde agayne, but mekely submyt my selfe to hym as my iudge. If I had called vpon hym, and he had answered me: yet wolde I not beleue, that he herde my voyce: he troubleth me so with the tēpest, and woundeth me out of measure without a cause. He wyll not lette my spyte be in rest, but fylleth me with bytternesse.

If men wyll speake of strengthe, lo, he is stronger: If men wyll speake of ryghteousnesse, who dare be my recorde? If I wyll iustifye my selfe, myne owne mouth shall condemne me: if I wyll put forth my selfe for a perfecte man, he shall reprove me a wycked doer. For though I be an innocent, and my conscience cleare: yet am I werye of my lyfe.

One thyng it is, and therfore I sayde: he destroyeth both the ryghteous and vngodlye.
And though he slay sodeynly with the scourge, yet wyll he laugh at the punishment of the innocent. As for the world, it is gyuen ouer into the hande of the wycked, and he shall couer the faces of the iudges therof. Is it not so? where is there any, but he is suche one.

* My dayes are more swyfte then a runner:
they are gone, and haue senee no good thyng.
They are passed awaye as the shypes that be good vnder sayle, and as the Egge that flyeth to the praye. When I am purposed to forget my complaynyng, to leaue of fro my wrath, and to comforte my selfe, then I am afrayed of all my sorowes: for I knowe that thou wilt not iudge me innocent. If I be then a wycked doer, why laboure I in vayne? If I washe my selfe with snowe water, and make my handes neuer so cleane as the wel, yet shalt thou dyppe me in the myre, and myne owne clothes shall defyle me.
For he that I must gyue answer vnto, and to whom I go to lawe, is not a man as I am. Neither is there any daynman to laye his hande be-twene vs: Let hym take his rodde awaye fro me: pea, lette hym make me no more afrayed of hym, and then shall I answer hym without any feare: for as longe as it is thus, I can make no answer.

The x. Chapter.

God is werye of his lyfe, and setteth out his fragi-litye before God. He despyeth the tyme to repent.
A description of death.

I greue my soule to lyue: I wyll make my complaynt, and wyll speake out of the very heynesse of my soule.
I wyll saye vnto God: Do not condemne me, but heare me the cause wherefore thou contendest so with me. Thinkest thou it well done to oppresse me, to caste me of, (being the workes of thy handes) and to mayn-tayne the counsaile of the vngodly? Hast thou killed thy eyes: or dost thou loke as a man lo-keth? Or are thy dayes as the dayes of man, and thy yeares as mannes yeares? That thou makest suche inquisicion for my wyckednesse, and searchest out my synne? Where as (not with-standyng) thou knowest that I am no wycked person, and that * there is no man able to deli-uer me out of thy hande.

* Thyne handes hath made me, and fastened me all togyther rounde aboute, wylte thou then destroye me sodeynly? O remembre (I be-seche the:) howe that thou madeste me of the moulde of the earth, and shalt thou brynge me in to dust agayne.

hast thou not turned me, as it were my lye, and turned me to cruds like chese? Thou hast covered me with skynne & flesh, & ioynded me together with bones & sinowes. Thou hast graunted me lyfe, and done me good: and the dyspget hebe that I tokest vpon me, hath preserved my sprete.

Thou hast byd these thynges in thyne hert. I am sure that thou remembrest this thyng. If I dyd synne, thou haddest an eye vnto me, and walt not declare me innocēt because of mine offence. If I haue done wyckedly, wo is me therfore. If I haue done ryghteously, yet darre I not lyfte vp my heade so full am I of confusson and se myne owne myserye.

Thou hunttest me out (beynge in heynnesse) as it were a lyon, and troublest me oute of measure. Thou byngest frethe wytnesse agaynst me, and thy wrath increaseth thou vpon me, where many are the plages that I am in. * Wherefore haste thou broughte me out of my mothers wombe? O that I had perished, and that no eye had sene me. If they had carped me to my graue as soone as I was borne, then shuld I be nowe as though I had neuer bene. Are not my dayes fewe? Let hym then leaue of fro me and let me alone, that I may ease my selfe a litle afoze I go thyther, from whence I shall not turne agayne euen to the lande of darkenesse and shadowe of death: yea, into the darke cloudy lande and dead ly shadowe, where as is no order, but terrible feare as in the darkenesse.

¶ The. xi. Chapter.

Job is humbly reprehended of Sopha. God is incomprehensible. He is mercifull to the repentant.

Then answered Sopha the Naamathyte, and sayd: Shulde not he that maketh many wordes, be aunswere? Shulde he that vableth muche be commended therein? Shulde men geue eare vnto the onely? Thou wylt laugh o the men to scozne, and shall no body mocke the agayne? Wylt thou say vnto God. The thyng that I take in hande is perfitte, and I am cleane in thy syght? O that God wolde speake & open his lippes agaynst the, that he myght shewe (oute of his secreete wysdome) why he rewarde the double as he was appoynted to do: the shuldest thou knowe, that God hath forgotten the, because of thy synne.

Are thou able to fynde oute the secretes of God? Or wylt thou attayne to the parfyttes of the almyghty? He is hyer then heuen, what art thou able to do? Deper then the hell, howe wylt thou then knowe hym? His length exceedeth the length of the earthe, and his bredth the bredth of the sea. Though he turne all thynges vp syde downe, close the in gather them together, who wyl turne hym from his purpose? * (O) who may say vnto hym, why dost thou so.

* For it is he that knoweth the vanite of me he seeth they wyckednesse also, shoulde he not then consyder it? A vayne body exalteth hym selfe, and a mā newe borne is lyke a wyld ass colte. If thou haddest nowe a ryght herte, & lyf- test by thyne handes toward him: if thou wol-dest put away the wyckednesse whych thou hast in hande, so that no vngodlynesse dwelle in thy house, then myghtest thou lyft vp thy face with out shame, and then shouldest thou be sure, and haue no nede to feare.

Then shuldest thou forget thy mysery, and thynke nomoze vpon it, then vpon the waters that runne by. Then shoulde the respyde of thy lyfe be as cleare as the noone daye, and sprynge forth as the moynynge. Then myghtest thou haue coforte, in the hope that thou hast: & slepe quyetly, when thou art buryed. Then shouldest thou take thy rest, and noman make the afraid yea, many one shoulde set muche by the. As for the eyes of the vngodly: they shalbe consumed, and not escape: they hope shalbe myserye and sorowe of mynde.

¶ The. xii. Chapter.

Job shewynge his patience; declareth the myghte and power of God.

Job answered, and sayd: Then (no doubt) ye are the men alone, and wysdome shall perperthe wyth you. But I haue vnderstanding as well as ye, and ain no lesse then ye. Yea, who knoweth not these thynges? Thus he that calleth vpon God, and whome God heareth, is mocked of his neyghboure: the godly and innocent mā is laughed to scozne. Godlynes is a lyght dyspyled in the hartes of the ryche, and is set for them to stumble vpon. The houses of robbers are in welth & prosperitie: & they that maliciously medle agaynst God, dwell without care in those thynges that God hath gyuen ryche ly wyth his hande.

As for thy cattel, and they shall enfourme the the foules of the ayre, & they shal tel the. Or the increas of the earth, and it shall shewe the. Or the fshes of the sea, and they shal certyfy the. * What is he but he knoweth that the hande of the Lorde made all these? In whose hande is y soule of euery kynge thyng, and the breath of the fleshe of all men.

* Haue not the eares pleasure in hearynge, & the mouth in tastynge the thyng that it eateth? Amonge olde personnes there is wysdome, and in age is vnderstandynge. Yea, wyth God is wysdome and strength, it is he that hath counsell and foze knowledge. Beholde, yf he breake downe a thyng, who can set it vp agayne, yf he shut a thyng, who wyl open it? Beholde, yf he withholde the waters, they drye vp. yf he let them go, they destrope the earthe. With hym is strength and wysdome: he knoweth both the de cept, and hym that is decepted.

He carperth awaye the wylde men, as it were a spoyle, and byngeth the Judges out of they wyttes. He taketh awaye the subiectyon of the people fro they kynges: and gyrdeth they loynes with a bande. He leade the greates men into captiuitie, and turneth the myghty vp syde downe. * He taketh the veritie from out of the mouth, and disapoynteth the aged of they reason. He poureth the confusson vpon prynces and comforyeth them that haue bene oppressed.

* Loke what lyeth byd in darkenesse, he decla-
